Interns, practicum students: opening available in North Amherst Shelter Home for work with court-involved teenage boys. Recreation, counseling, general supervision, crafts and tutoring. Pete Christopher, 549-6699. Soon!

Qual. tutor for Math 120 needed. 64631. $.

Houseboy needed. For info call 545-0939.

Counsellor for a Cong. Church youth group. Sundays. Call 584-9392, am.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

RIDE WANTED

Needs a ride to Boston So. Shore area Fridays after 2:00. Please call Peg, 549-6806, will share expenses.

I am looking for a ride to Quebec City for the Winter Carnival. Will share $ and driving. Call David 253-2954.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Contact lens wearers: save on brand name hard and soft lens supplies. Send for free illustrated catalog. Contact Lens Sup-plies, Box 7453, Phoenix, Arizona 85011.

Overweight? Try the one that works! Famous US Women's ski team diet. Lose weight fast or money back. Order today! Send $3: Fem-Art, Box 3351, Logan, Utah 84321.

TRAVEL

Puerto Rico Paradise Gambling, Beaches, Bars, Shopping, Sunshine (forget Florida). 8 days & 7 nights. From $279 to $360. 3 packages available. Call Reade 546-5000 or 5-3500.

WANTED

Used Box spring and mattress for dbl. bed wanted. Call 549-6916.

Wanted: a single or double bed—mattress and box spring or just mattress. Price negotiable. 253-2107.

If your selling a used couch call Pat at 256-8047.

WANTED TO RENT

Roommate wanted. Female non-smoker. 2 bdrm apt. $115/mo includes utils. 256-6388.

1 roommate wanted to share 4 bed apt. Male non-smoker pref. $90 per mo., util. incl. Next to campus. Ask for Mark, 549-4470.

Roommate wanted to share two bedroom apt. in Riverglade. Call Andy at 545-2306 or Julie or Skip at 253-3541 $75 per mo. & util.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

Upcoming events at the Fine Arts Center

The Canadian Opera Company will present The Barber of Seville at the Fine Arts Center on February 16, 1978.

Marcel Marceau, the world's greatest mime

MARCEL MARCEAU, called the world's greatest pantomimist, the wordless wonder, the genius of gesture, will return to the Fine Arts Center on Friday and Saturday, February 24, 25 at 8 p.m.

Marceau is the holder of the all time attendance record at the Fine Arts Center. The internationally acclaimed mime performed to three sell out shows during the first season of the Fine Arts Center in 1975.

Marceau has thrilled audiences throughout the world with his interpretations of the comic and tragic aspects of daily existance. Marceau has done who no one before had ever attempted, a one-man show reviving the most ancient art, the Art of Pantomime. With a few gestures he creates the joy of our childhood, the misfortunes and agonies of our lives. He portrays birth and death with a single movement of his body, fights the howling wind, tames lions, walks a tightrope, gets lost in the subway, climbs an interminable staircase — all without the benefit of props, scenery or makeup — other than his white face.

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday evening performances will be on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office and all Ticketron locations on Feb. 10th. Ticket prices are: general public, $7, 6, 5. UMass students and senior citizens are $6, 5, 4. The Fine Arts Center box office is open Monday through Friday. For more information, call 545-2511.

Marcel Marceau, the worlds greatest mime will return to the Fine Arts Center on February 24 and 25, 1978.

Barber of Seville at Fine Arts

Probably the best loved Italian comic opera, Rossini's The Barber of Seville is "opera Buffa" at its best, turning easily from sentimentality to laughter, from drama to burlesque. The sardonic mockery, sophistication, gallantry, and intrigue of Beaumarchais' play, upon which the opera is based, find their happy equivalent in Rossini's brilliant score with its wonderful mercurial rhythms and melodies.

The Canadian Opera Company, Lofti Mansouri, general director, will present the Barber of Seville in English at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, Thursday, February 16 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office, open Monday through Friday nine to four. Ticket prices are: general public, $7, 6, 5. UMass students, $3.50, 3, 2.50, Senior Citizens, and other students, $6 5, 4.

Entertainment

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

HEY, LOOK! IT'S SHIRLEY MACLAINE!
SHIRLEY MACLAINE? I DON'T BELIEVE IT! WHAT'S SHE DOING HERE?
The Shah is a Joker
ER A AH
HEY, SHIRL! WHAT GIVES? DON'T YOU KNOW WHAT HAPPENS TO POLITICAL DISSIDENTS IN IRAN?
FOR YOUR INFORMATION, FELLAH, IRANIAN DISSIDENTS ARE SENT TO THE SHAH'S PRISONS, WHERE THEY ARE INTERROGATED, BRUTALIZED, AND RARELY HEARD FROM AGAIN!
OH. YOU HEARD, THEN.
THAT'S RIGHT. SO YOU CAN STOP ACTING SO DAMN SUPERIOR!
NYPD
2-9
G.B. Trudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

OKAY, TROOPS... MORE ABOUT SURVIVAL IN THE WILDERNESS...
IF I WERE LOST IN THE WOODS, YOU KNOW WHAT I WOULD DO? I'D OPEN THIS CAN OF TENNIS BALLS
YOU KNOW WHY I'D OPEN THIS CAN OF TENNIS BALLS?
BECAUSE, WHEN I WAS PACKING MY GEAR, I THOUGHT IT WAS A TALL CAN OF SOUP!
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
2-9
SCHULZ

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

OKAY, GERALD! YOU HAVE TEN SECONDS TO IDENTIFY THAT POT FOR THE BIG PRIZE MONEY FFFFFT!
BLEH! IT'S LOUSY GREEN BIMBO WEED!
YOU ARE CORRECT!
NOW IT'S YOUR TURN, SATIVA! YOU HAVE TEN SECONDS!
PHHHF!
IT'S... UH... HAWAIIAN RAINBOW!
WRONG!
GIVE HER THE BONG!
BOOM
LAFLER
2/9

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I HEAR YOU ONCE PLAYED PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY FOR THE VANCOUVER VAMPIRES.
THAT'S RIGHT!
WHAT POSITION?
I WAS THE GHOULIE.
FIELD ENTERPRISES INC. 1978
2-9

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9

Born today, you are tactful, sympathetic, and very proud. You are at times so concerned with family honor and personal standing that you fail to exercise those characteristics which humanize your nature – generosity, understanding, and appreciation of others' efforts on your behalf. You are self-confidant and determined, but sometimes others see this as arrogance and stubbornness. Obviously, you will have to be very careful in making impressions, for you could easily make the wrong one.

You enjoy indulging your love of luxury, though you may feel guilty about it. You like fine clothes, good food and drink, and take special interest in those who can introduce you to people of influence. You would love the limelight, though it is doubtful that you will ever reach it. You would also take great joy from being the "power behind the throne," and you may well be just that.

You love easily, but not always wisely. You may give your heart many times before finally doing so permanently. You will demand a great deal from whomever you become involved with; you will expect support in all things, whether or not it goes against ethics. In the end, you will learn to live and let live, and unrequited love will be a thing of the past.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) – Artistic talent may be able to extricate you from problems threatening your immediate future.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) – Beware of deception. You could easily be taken in by appearances. Look further for the truth.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) – A small purchase makes another happier than you thought possible. Keep helping another to optimism.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) – Your fame may not be as great as you hoped. Work on with a will if not a heart.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) – Humanitarian pursuits are best today. Friends show they expect help climbing to the top.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) – Today is not good for negotiating important contracts. Rest on career laurels.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) – Approach another's difficulties philosophically. Into each life some rain must fall.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) – Inspiration and effort give best results. Don't trust another's memory: rely on your own!

LIBRA Sept.23-Oct.22) – Your practical mind makes up for much. Allow plenty of time to work out problems at home.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) – Don't expend energy in too many directions. Save some for evening surprises and a guest.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) – Be careful of your presentation in an interview. Depend on charm only during the morning.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) – Signing a legal document may leave you weary. Rest for energies to be restored by evening.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Notices

ALTERNATIVE HIGH SCHOOL

The Alternative Learning Program on campus at UMass is looking for volunteers to teach classes for the spring semester. Volunteers can earn credit for teaching in the program, and are needed in all subject areas. For more information call 545-2584.

BOLTWOOD BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

Those who wish to volunteer this semester must come to program selection night, which is tonight at 7:30 p.m. 8th floor Campus Center.

COMMITTEE FOR LIBERATION OF SOUTHERN AFRICA

Meeting tonight 7 p.m., New Africa House Rm. 114. All welcome.

COMPANION PROGRAM

Companion volunteers needed for Amherst children. Volunteers spend 2-3 hours a week with children. Males especially in demand. For more information call Amherst community Resource center. 253-2591.

COSMIC WIMPOUT TOURNAMENT

Cosmic wimpout players — Dust off your tesseracts. The third annual cosmic wimpout tournament will be held in April.

FILM: Battleship Potemkin

Eisenstein's classic movie of the 1905 Russian Revolution. Introduced by Wayne Standley, Shop Steward at Northampton State Hospital. UMass C.C. 172. 7:30 tonight, Thursday, Feb. 9. All welcomed.

THE NEED FOR PEOPLE TO HELP PEOPLE IN NEED

Are you interested in volunteer work? Many social service agencies in the area need your help. The volunteer program located in the basement of the Jones Library will place you in an area of your choice (youth, elderly, mentally retarded, etc.) Please feel free to call us at 253-2591 or drop in anytime during the day.

OFFICE OF INTERNSHIPS

We are looking for students interested in organizing Fall '78 internships, lab experiences or volunteer experience. Counselors are available to discuss credit arrangements and provide support for prospective interns. Located at 409 Goodell, call 545-0727 for an appointment.

SAILING CLUB

There will be a general meeting of the Sailing Club, Thursday, February 9 at 8 p.m. in C.C. 917. Plans for the semester will be discussed and slides of the trip to Florida will be shown. For any questions call Tim at 546-9074.

SKI PATROL

There is a meeting tonight and every Thursday night at 8 p.m. on the 9th floor C.C.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meeting tonight, 8 p.m., C.C. 905-909. We are going to elect officers, discuss movie plans and explain general club policy. All 5-college students welcome.

ATTENTION UMSFCU MEMBERS

Members interested in applying for B.O.D. or Credit Committee positions. See either Denise Colls or Peter Bloom before the deadline Friday, February 17th at the Credit Union.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

There will be a meeting of the publicity committee at 6 p.m. in 415A Student Union. New members are welcome.

ZIONIST SYMPOSIUM

"Israel in Transition: From Labor to Likud — the Changing Ambience" with Prof. B. Avishai and Rael Jean Isaac. Thursday, February 9 at 8 p.m. C.C. 165-169.

HEARTS & FLOWERS

Send Your Valentine
The FTD LoveBundle® Bouquet.

A spray of sparkling hearts in a colorful bouquet. Your FTD Florist can send one almost anywhere by wire, the FTD way. Order early. (Most FTD Florists accept major credit cards.)

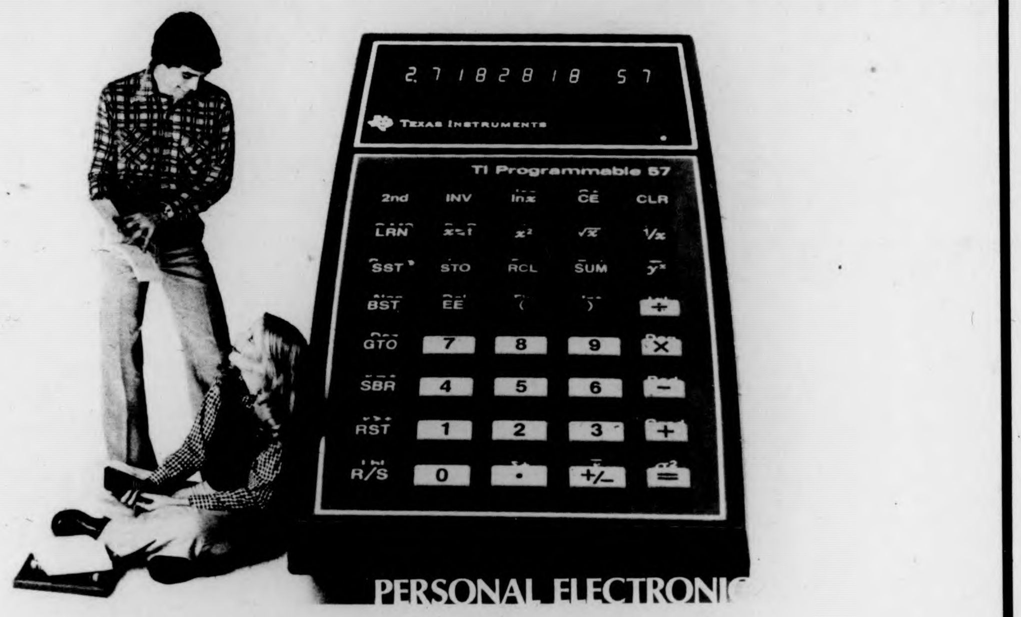
Usually available for less than $15.00*

FLORISTS' TRANSWORLD DELIVERY FTD SELECTED MEMBER ®

Those FTD Florists Really Get Around.

*As an independent businessman, each FTD Member Florist sets his own prices.

©1978 Florists' Transworld Delivery



The TI-57. The super slide-rule that'll get you into programming... fast and easy.

Even if you've never programmed before.

For the student who requires slide-rule functions, the TI-57 delivers an exceptional combination of advanced mathematical and statistical capabilities. From functions such as trig, logs, powers, roots and reciprocals...to mean, variance, standard deviation and much more.

And as long as you're in the market for a super slide-rule calculator, why not buy one that can also put the power, speed and convenience of programming at your disposal?

Programming a calculator simply means giving it a logical set of instructions for accomplishing what you want it to do. Programming enables you to solve lengthy and repetitive problems quickly by substituting new variables into the set of instructions which you have already entered into the machine.

The end result is more efficient use of your time in problem-solving.

All this and more is explained in our unique, illustrated, easy-to-follow guidebook, "Making Tracks Into Programming." This 200-page book comes with the TI-57. It contains simple, step-by-step instructions and examples to help you quickly learn to use programming functions to make your problem-solving faster, more accurate and fun.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
...INNOVATORS IN PERSONAL ELECTRONICS

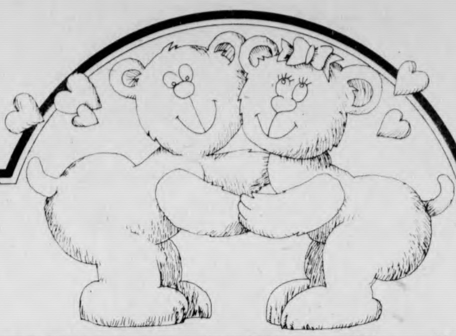
TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
INCORPORATED

© 1978 Texas Instruments Incorporated



Valentine's Day Cards

American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.

the University Store
MURRAY D. LINCOLN CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01003

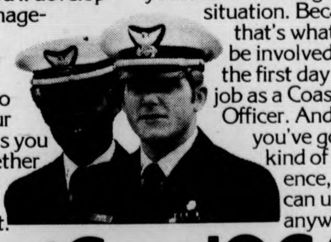
Send Our FTD
LoveBundle®
Bouquet

Fresh, romantic flowers arranged with a spray of sparkling hearts. We can send it almost anywhere by wire, the FTD way. But hurry...Valentine's Day is Tuesday, February 14!

FTD ®

We really get around...for you!

BUTLER & ULLMAN FLOWERS
HADLEY, MASS.
584-0220



When you take away the uniform and the lifestyle what have you got?

The Job.

The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.

The Pay & Benefits.

As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.

The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.

As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.

Our Representative will be here
2/14/78

Coast Guard O.C.S.
Visit your college placement office, or call 800-424-8883 toll free, for more information.

Costs to raise six percent

WASHINGTON [AP] — Prices are likely to increase between 6 to 7 per cent a year for the next several years unless the government acts to restrain them, the head of the Carter administration's anti-inflation agency said yesterday.

"The current outlook for inflation is extremely dismal," Barry P. Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, told the House Budget Committee.

He said the risk that inflation could get even worse is greater than the possibility it could improve especially if there is another economic shock, such as an increase in oil prices.

"Once we came to accept 6 per cent as normal, the same pressures that drove the rate of inflation from zero to 6 would inevitably drive it from 6 up to 10 or even 12 per cent," Bosworth said.

He added that if inflation should return to double-digit levels — above 10 per cent — an "outraged citizenry" probably would demand wage and price controls that business, labor and government now fear.

Before the committee, Bosworth defended the administration's new voluntary anti-inflation program, which is designed to trim one-half of one percentage point from inflation each year. It has been widely criticized as relying too much on voluntary efforts.

Committee endorses welfare plan

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter's plan to overhaul the nation's welfare system passed its first major legislative test yesterday, winning a 23-6 endorsement from a special House welfare reform subcommittee.

The bill still must work its way through a legislative maze that has stifled previous attempts at making basic changes in welfare.

Before approving Carter's plan, the subcommittee rejected 16-13 a less costly alternative offered by chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ullman said he would "very strongly pursue" his bill in the full committee, one of three in the House that must pass judgment on the subcommittee bill.

The subcommittee agreed for one thing to establish a work requirement for many welfare recipients and to guarantee in cash a minimum income of $4,200 a year for a family of four.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano praised the subcommittee action, saying it was "the first major step in Congress toward giving the American people a welfare system that is pro-family, pro-work and anti-fraud and anti-abuse."

During hearings, the administration acknowledged its earlier cost estimates might have been too low.

Instead of an increase of $2.8 billion in welfare spending during the first year of Carter's Better Jobs and Income Program, welfare reform might cost $20 billion more than present welfare programs, an administration estimate said.

During more than two months of bill-drafting sessions, the subcommittee made changes in detail but did not alter the concept of Carter's plan to provide jobs and supplemental income for poor persons.

It approved, for instance, a Carter request to provide service jobs for welfare recipients, but removed a provision that would have set pay for those jobs at the minimum wage.

Under the revision, the jobs could pay up to $10,500 a year for supervisory workers.

Several subcommittee members who voted for the bill said they did not support certain provisions.

DC Menu

TODAY

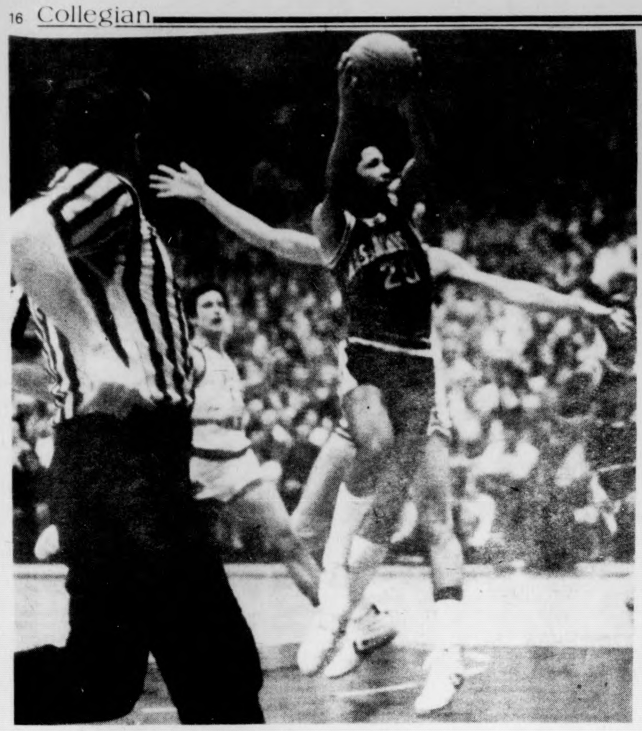
Lunch — Deli Ham on Water Roll, Broccoli and Cauliflower Casserole. Basics: Lentil Patties, Broccoli and Cauliflower Casserole.

Dinner — Roast Turkey — Gravy, Dressing, Cranberry Sauce, Knockwurst-Sauerkraut. Basics: Roast Turkey-Gravy, Dressing, Cranberry Sauce, Herbed Soybean Casserole.

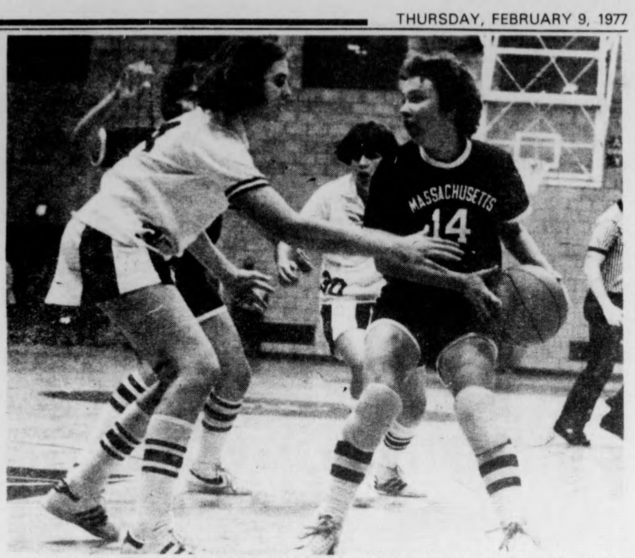
TOMORROW

Lunch — Duchess Beef Pie, Grilled Cheese Sandwich. Basics: Vegetable Shepards Pie, Grilled Cheese Sandwich.

Dinner — Fried Cod-Tarter Sauce, Manicotti-Tomato Meat Sauce. Fried Cod-Tarter Sauce, Manicotti-Tomato Sauce.



Derick Claiborne glides to the hoop for a smooth two points. Claiborne is half of the Minutemen backcourt which will provide an advantage tonight. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)



DON'T WANTA SHAKE YOUR HAND! Mary Haleran protects the ball against Providence. The freshman guard has surprised many with her tight "D" and blinding speed. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

Part Time
Counselor Position Available PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE
Applications available at the People's Gay Alliance
SU 413B
545-0154

Come learn Pottery from us.
Pottery is just one of the many workshops offered this Spring through the Credit-Free Workshop Program of the Division of Continuing Education.
For registration information and a catalog, please call us at (413) 545-3653, write, or stop by Room 113 Hasbrouck Building, UMass/Amherst.
Remember, we accept American Express, VISA, and Mastercharge.
DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS/AMHERST

UMass' ONLY Co-Ed Fraternity
SIGMA ALPHA MU
invites all university men & women to an INFORMAL RUSH
Tonight, 8 p.m. and on
FREE BEER, WINE, SODA, and MUNCHIES
For rides and info., call:
545-0845
SIGMA ALPHA MU,
395 No. Pleasant Street

SMILE ...IT'S A WINTER SALE!
ADDITIONAL 10% OFF EVERYTHING (INCLUDING SALE ITEMS)
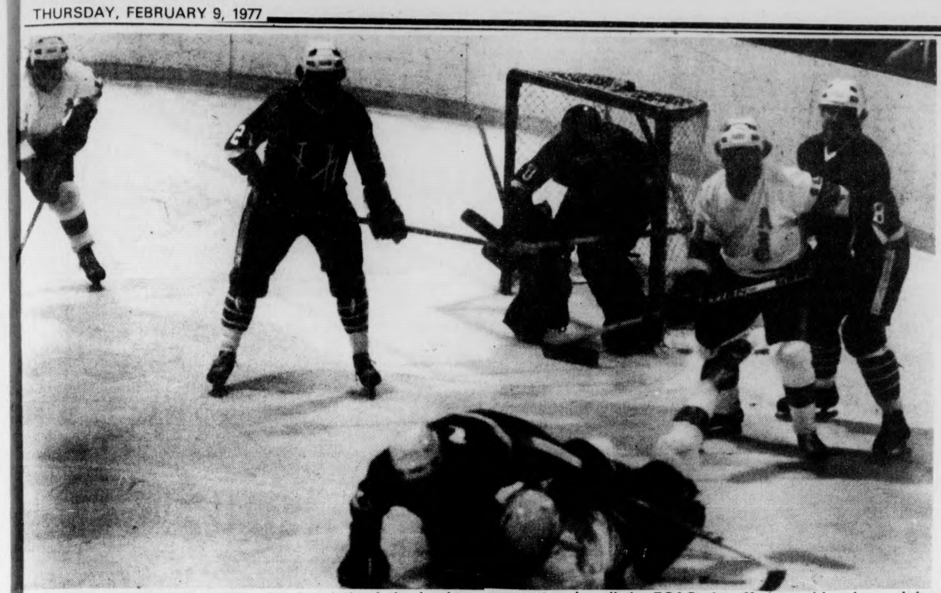
WITH THIS AD
BUS STOP
197 N. Pleasant St./Amherst/Mass./256-0140



Bone-crunching defense like this has helped the hockey team to a 7-6-1 record, after being 3-6 a month ago. The road may not end until the ECAC playoffs later this winter. John Riley has been a standout in goal.

★ Fenton inks Browns pact

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

said. "I guess Mac' put in a good word for me."

Fenton reportedly was ready to sign a similar contract with the Patriots.

"The contract would have been about the same," said Fenton, "but the Pats didn't offer a bonus."

Fenton is perhaps better known in UMass athletic circles for his wrestling accomplishments. As a member of the UMass wrestling team, Fenton won an amazing four consecutive New England wrestling championships; equaling a feat matched only by Scott Pucino of the University of Rhode Island.

As a freshman back in the coaching days of the later Homer Barr, Fenton won the New England heavyweight wrestling championship in 1974. He successfully defended his crown in 1975, 1976, and 1977.

Fenton was named assistant coach of the UMass wrestling team last fall.

"He's been doing a great job," said head wrestling coach Dave Amato yesterday. "I wish him all the luck in the world."

Fenton's current weight is 240 pounds. His playing weight for football is about 255 pounds.

Send Our FTD
LoveBundle® Bouquet
Fresh, romantic flowers arranged with a spray of sparkling hearts. We can send it almost anywhere by wire, the FTD way. But hurry...Valentine's Day is Tuesday, February 14!
We really get around...for you!
KNOWLES FLOWER SHOP
172 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-3805

THE RESTAURANT just good food
Featuring: homemade soups, salads, & sandwiches
daily specials
bagels & pastries
OPEN 9:30-6:00
MON.-SAT.
256-8955
AT FACES OF EARTH

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
A VODKA & GIN QUARTS SPECIAL
ICE COLD KEG BEER $21.00 And Up
Pedro Domecy Sherry NOW $2.99 Cream, Medium and Dry
In-door Savings too good to be advertised. Come see for yourself!
– UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
– NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
– AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS
In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

RUTGERS THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY
THE GRADUATE SCHOOL
New Brunswick
Advanced degrees are available in 63 graduate programs in New Brunswick, New Jersey.
Assistantships, fellowships, and scholarships providing tuition and/or stipend are available on a competitive basis.
Special renewable fellowships of $5,000 plus tuition are available to Ph.D. applicants in the following fields:
Chemistry
Computer Science English History Mathematics Microbiology
Physics
Political Science Psychology
Statistics
For further information complete and send the attached coupon to:
Graduate Admissions Office
Rutgers—The State University of New Jersey
542 George Street, New Brunswick, N.J. 08903
Please send me information about THE GRADUATE SCHOOL (New Brunswick). I am interested in the field of ____________
Name ____________
Address ____________
City ________ State ________ ZIP ________ H

scer STUDENT CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH
Campus Center Box 18 University of Massachusetts, Amherst 01003 (413) 545-2892
New Course Offering:
ACADEMIC COLLECTIVE BARGAINING:
WHERE STUDENTS FIT
Readings and discussions will explore the history and structure of faculty unionism (in general and at UMass) as well as the impact of faculty unions on student's lives and education. Guest discussion leaders will include representatives of the MSP (faculty union), UMass administration and student government. Student work will focus on the issues of the faculty-administration bargaining contract as they affect students such as contract hours, tuition, evaluation process, academic calendar, etc. Class members will have the opportunity to help draft the "student platform" that will be presented by student representatives to the current bargaining talks. The course is open to both graduates and undergraduates for 3 credits. Permission of instructors required. For Pre-registration and further information, contact Larry Magid or Virginia Logan at SCER, 406 Student Union. Class meets on Tuesday and Thursday 2-3:15. First meeting is Tuesday, February 14th.

A flu-ridden Brad Johnson won't make tonight's trip to Piscataway, New Jersey to face Rutgers, but was an integral part of the Minutemen's UConn Classic win. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Sports Notices

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL — Women's Intercollegiate Fastpitch Softball practice is now being held at NOPE, Monday-Friday, 6:30-8:00 p.m. If you have any questions contact Coach Diane Thompson at 220 Boyden, 5-2845.

WOMEN'S LACROSSE — Due to the snow, the Women's Lacrosse meeting scheduled for yesterday has been rescheduled for Thursday, 4:00 p.m., NOPE room 153.

JV BASEBALL — All candidates interested in JV Baseball should attend the meeting in Boyden Room 249, Tuesday, February 14 at 4:00 p.m.

Women's Basketball against Bridgewater scheduled for Feb. 7 has been postponed until Feb. 22 at Curry Hicks. JV at 2 p.m., varsity at 4 p.m.

INTRAMURAL NOTICES — There will be a Recreation Supervisors' Meeting Friday, Feb. 10, 4:30 p.m., room 215.

Racquetball schedules are ready — pick up IM office.

Be sure to pick up your VOLLEYBALL forfeit fees.

Co-Rec Bowling entries due: Feb. 15. Remember, there is a $6 fee to enter.

Following facilities will be CLOSED: Boyden Pool — Feb. 18; NOPE Pool — Feb. 11 & 25; Hicks Building — Feb. 9, 10, 11, 14, 18, 21, 23, 27; NOPE gym — Feb. 25.

RACQUETS CLUB — meeting tonight for all interested grad, undergrad and staff squash and racquetball players — Campus Center 804, 7 p.m.

Maura Supinski (31), muscles a bound away from a pack of Springfield defenders in a recent game in the Cage. Supinski, joined by Kathy Harrington (looking on) gives the Minutewomen a powerful one — two scoring-rebounding punch up front. (Staff photo by Patrick Dobbs)

WE'RE THE FRIENDLIEST
OPEN TILL 11:00 P.M.
DAILY
Assorted Champagnes for your sweetheart on that ♥ Special Day!! ♥
Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384 256-8433

DANSKIN®
Tights and Leotards
FACES
10-6 Mon.-Sat.
Next to Amherst Post Office

---

Trackmen nip Green; relays lead big win

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

HANOVER, N.H. — In a dramatic finish, the UMass men's track team overtook Dartmouth in the last two events of the day and walked away from the Big Green's cage with a 72-63 win yesterday.

With only the mile and two mile relays left on the card, Dartmouth led, 63-62, and needed to win only one of the two final events to clinch the victory.

"We had to win the mile relay or we were finished," said Mike Quinn. "Actually, we had to win both of them or we were all done."

For the last two years, the Dartmouth indoor dual meet had come down to the last two events, with the Minutemen on the short end of the score both years. The year before, the team had lost by a scant two points.

Again, they needed to win both to cop the meet.

"Which we did," said Quinn matter of factly.

John Richards, who is returning from an injury, and freshman Dan Kelly led off the mile relay, and quickly built up a "30 yard deficit" according to teammate Lou Panaccione. Kelly handed the baton to Mark Healy, who "ran crazy", according to Quinn.

Healy made up all but 10 yards of the gap before handling off to Joe Martens, who nipped Dartmouth's Rob "Torch" Coburn by .10 of a second.

UMass now led, 67-63, but still had to win the 4 x 800 meter relay. The Minutemen quartet proceeded to run away with the event, in a reverse of last year's finale which saw the UMass anchor runner beaten at the tape.

Mickey Baugh, Francis O'Keefe, Steve MacDougall and Stet Arnold carried the stick for UMass.

Also notching firsts for UMass were Mike Quinn, who overcame knee problems to win the 3,000 meters; Rick Cady in the 55 meter dash; MacDougall in the 1,000; Healy in the 600; and Brady Mayer in the triple jump. Freshman Kevin Molteni ran his way to second in the 1,500, Bruce Parsons took second in the long and triple jumps, and O'Keefe garnered a second in the 800 meters.

"Amherst Ski Days"
all day for $6⁰⁰
Proof of residence required
Sat. & Sun., February 11 & 12
Residents of Amherst may ski all day, all lifts at the discount price!
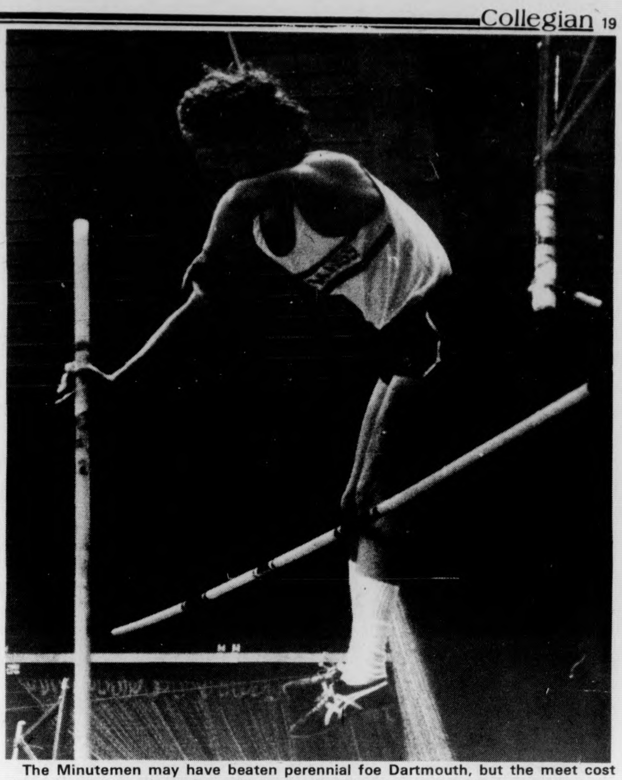
Mt. Ascutney Ski Area
Rt. 44, Brownsville, Vt · 6 mi. off I-91, Exit 8 · 484-7711

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall
MILLER BEER 5.89 case 12 oz. N.R. bottles
GOLD SEAL CATAWBA red and white wine $2.99 magnum
POPOV VODKA 9.29 ½ gallon
BARDOLINO GUERRIERI-RUGGARDI WINE 1.99 fifth
Tuesday, Feb. 7 to Saturday, Feb. 11
We Reserve The Right To Limit Quantities



The Minutemen may have beaten perennial foe Dartmouth, but the meet cost them the services of standout pole vaulter Ted Power, who injured his shoulder.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY
Men's Swimming — 64 Amherst — 49
Wrestling vs New Hampshire — postponed to Feb. 27
Men's Track — 72 Dartmouth — 63

TODAY
Men's Basketball at Rutgers, 8 p.m.
Women's Swimming at Boston College Cancelled

TOMORROW
Women's JV Basketball vs Smith, 7 p.m.
Hockey vs Bowdoin, Orr Rink, 8 p.m.

Steve buckley

Stockies sprout new talents

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Another morning on campus....

The UMass sports fan sits through a rather boring class in Thompson 102, or perhaps is within the safe confines of the Hatch; but wherever the UMass sports fan is, he is taking care of the first order of businss for the day: The Collegian sports page. Priorities y'know.

Now, let's see. When does the basketball team play next? That's right, today. Rutgers. Gee, I hope that Mike Pyatt and Derick Claiborne are in form. And for heaven's sake, pray that Len Kohlhaas and Mark Haymore don't foul out!

Yes, the UMass sports fan is kept quite busy these mornings keeping an eye on his basketball team. With all of this worrying and second-guessing going on, he can thank his lucky stars that there are not two teams to tend to.

But there are, crocodile breath... Introducing the Stockbridge basketball team, the other kids on the block.

Stockbridge? Basketball? I mean, don't they grow trees and stuff?

I was a bit unnerved when I heard the news too, folks; but seriously, the Stockbridge School of Agriculture does have a basketball team. The names on the schedule aren't nearly as glamorous as their UMass counterparts. No PC. No Holy Cross. Not even Northeastern.

The Stockbridge basketball schedule consists mainly of local small colleges, academies, city recreational teams, and even a few high schools.

There is no conference and I don't suggest that you hold your breath waiting for Stockbridge to get any post-season tournament bids.

Recruiting? No, but there were tryouts before the first tap-off. Between 20 and 25 individuals tried out for the Stockbridge hoop team, a total of twelve players making the final roster.

One might ask whether or not any of these players would be good enough to play for Jack Leaman's Minutemen, and although the answer is probably that none of them could, it is interesting to note that Stockbridge students are ineligible for participation in UMass athletics.

There are 550 students in the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, and regardless of how many budding Susan Cantwells or Mike Pyatts there are in this honorable institution of forestry and turf-management majors, not one of them may don a Minuteman uniform in any sport.

"I'd like to try out for the football team," says Gary Wrubleski, a member of the Stockbridge hoop team. "I don't see why we can't. I mean, after all, there are a lot of UMass students in our Stockbridge classes."

"We live in UMass dorms, have UMass dining common mealbooks, and we pay campus center fees," says another player.

Danny Provost, still another player on the team, was a college wrestler in high school.

"Sure, I'd like to be on the UMass wrestling team," said provost. "I wrestled in the 128 pound class in high school and I'd like to give it a try here."

Kevin McShane, who plays for center for the Stockbridge five, makes a good point.

"Maybe we could help the UMass sports program," says he.

Thus, the Stockbridge basketball team is the answer to the problem. Stockbridge also fields a soccer team, and a hockey club is now being formed.

The coach, Tony Williams, is a math teacher in the Northampton public school system. He was once coach of the UMass freshman hoop team, before that program was phased out.

So fear not. Don't worry about the Minutemen losing to Rutgers or not getting on NCAA playoff berth.

We can always fall back on Stockbridge basketball.....

Deficit warns of athletic $ cuts

By MICHAEL SMOLENS
Collegian Staff

The UMass Athletic department's estimated budget deficit is larger than expected and, by nearly depleting the department's reserve fund, may necessitate an across-the-board cut for all UMass intercollegiate teams if no new funding sources are found.

The athletic department decided last spring to take advantage of its $48,000 reserve fund — built up over the years from surpluses in student athletic fees — to buy new equipment and to complete long overdue projects. To fund such ventures, the department planned a $41,000 deficit in the 1977-78 sports budget of $596,200, which would leave $7,000 in the reserve fund.

However, several unforseen expenses — particularly post-season travel — have enlarged the deficit to an estimated $45,000, leaving $3,000 in the reserve fund to cover anymore unexpected costs in the remaining semester.

Last year about $10,000 more than expected was collected in student fees and placed in the reserve fund. Most of the money resulted from unused work-study funds.

"This year's is the worst budget situation in my ten years here," said Al Rufe, financial manager of the athletic department. "We didn't want to deplete the reserve completely. I hope we don't."

According to Athletic Director Frank McInerney "there's been no surprises" in this year's budget. He added that the budget was planned this way.

Having sizeable reserves, the athletic department undertook several expensive projects, the most costly being purchases of new gymnastics equipment ($10,000), two new vans ($14,000), and running water out to the track area ($3,000). In the budget breakdown these expenses come under the heading of capital outlay, which was budgeted for $37,000 — up from $7,000 last year.

Rufe said the $37,000 for capital outlays has already been committed and that the athletic department would "probably spend more" in this area. Any additional expenses would be funded by the estimated $3,000 remaining in the reserve fund.

Ironically, the greatest budgetary headache for the athletic department crops up when UMass teams do well and have to travel to post-season competition.

"We're delighted they're going," said UMass Athletic Director Frank McInerney. "But it brings up budget problems."

"There's no way of budgeting for that (post-season travel)," he explained. "They're expected costs, but they're not budgetable."

Last fall the women's field hockey team went to Denver, Col. and the men's cross country team went to Spokane, Wash., both for national post-season competition. The combined travel costs for the two teams came to $10,000 — $4,000 more than the athletic department budgeted for such events. And it seems likely that more UMass athletes will be invited to similar post-season competition this spring.

"We've already spent $10,000 in two sports, and we're not even two-thirds of the way through the year," Rufe said. "The better the teams do, the more money it costs."

Next year the NCAA will fund post-season travel expenses for all male teams in the association by using football television money. This reprieve does not apply to women's sports, so the athletic department will continue to pay post-season travel for the Minutewomen.

Similarly, the athletic department must absorb the cost of expensive mishaps, as it did when a snow storm last month stranded the men's basketball team in New York City for three days.

Rufe said that the reserve fund will be "fairly well wiped out" by June 30 mainly becuase of the trips and other "unexpected expenses."

The grim financial situation means that next year's athletic budget will be a conservative one.

"Next year will have to have a balanced budget," Rufe said. "There's no way to get around that."

Rufe added he will try to get more financial support from the university to avoid painful cut-backs. Rufe said he hopes the university will foot the bill for field markings, materials for the stadium, and other maintenance items, "things we pay for now."

If no new revenue sources are found, McInernay said he may have to "prune everyone's budget."

Of the 29 intercollegiate teams that received athletic department funds this year, eight were alotted smaller budgets than the previous year, 15 received larger budgets, and six remained the same.

The sole source of the sports budget — scholarships excluded — is the $30 athletic fee (15 per semester) paid by all UMass students each year. This fee has not been increased since 1961 and is not affected by the financial situation of the athletic department. The State of Massachusetts does not contributed to UMass intercollegiate sports. The state pays for the salaries of coaches and administrators, and the "general overhead" from athletic facilities according to Rufe.

The reserve fund is built up from the years when the athletic department collects more in student fees than it spends. Because the budget is planned before enrollment, excess in student fee funds usually happens in years when the size of the freshman class is underestimated.

"It's not like state money, where you have to give back what you don't spend," Rufe said. "But we felt that we spent the money on worthwhile things that were needed — not just one-shot trips."

ON THE BEAM — is this UMass gymnast in recent action at Curry Hicks Cage. The team's next meet will be in Philadelphia Saturday, against Temple. (Staff photo by Mike DiMuro)

X-Umie Fenton in NFL

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Former UMass football star Dennis Fenton has been signed to a three year contract with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

Fenton, one of the top defensive ends in the Yankee Conference during his collegiate career, graduated from UMass last year.

He was invited to the training camp of the New England Patriots last summer, but was cut from the squad. He then journeyed to the Canadian Football League and played last season for the Toronto Arrognauts.

Terms of the contract are not clear, but it is known that Fenton was given a bonus to sign with the Browns.

"I had been talking with the Patriots recently," said Fenton in an interview yesterday. "I was going to sign with them, but then Dick MacPherson called me and told me to sit tight for a couple of days."

At that time, MacPherson was still the head coach of the UMass football team and was well-aware of Fenton's football ability.

"He didn't tell me what was going on," said Fenton. "He just said that he might be going to the pros and to keep an eye on the newspapers."

"A few days after he signed as an assistant coach with Cleveland, I got a call from them, and they said they were interested in me," he

TURN TO PAGE 17

Ticket refund

PLAYOFF TICKETS — Due to a telephone failure, there was a short period of time when student tickets were not available (at the Stadium ticket booth) for the UMass-Lehigh NCAA playoff football game November 26. If you paid $4 for a ticket during this time, you are entitled to a $2 refund. You may pick up your refund at the Boyden Building Ticket Office during normal business hours upon presentation of your ID and ($4) ticket stub.

Northeastern tilt moved

Those of you who were planning on watching the UMass basketball team face Northeastern University at the Cage tonight might consider changing your itinerary.

Otherwise you might find yourself sitting in Curry Hicks gymnasium by yourself.

The reason? Although the official schedule states that UMass should be facing the Huskies tonight, this week's blizzard forced officials to tamper with the schedule, therefore UMass will be playing Rutgers University at Rutgers tonight.

The Minutemen were scheduled to play Rutgers Tuesday night, however, the team was unable to make traveling connections due to the storm.

UMass athletic officials were able to make arrangements with both Rutgers and Northeastern. Huskie officials agreed to reschedule tonights intended game and the game has been changed to next Thursday, Feb. 16.

Meanwhile the Minutemen were hoping to leave campus this morning for tonights game at Rutgers.

The flu bug which has been sowing its seeds of misery around campus has also hit the Minutemen. Brad Johnson has already missed two games, although he did practice yesterday. Mike Pyatt, however, paid a visit to the infirmary and also did not practice yesterday. Both will miss the trip. The Minutemen's starting backcourt of Derick Claiborne and Alex Eldridge are also showing signs of coming down with the disease, as is center Mark Haymore.

Rich Eckel

Williams: one week later

Said one UMass basketball season ticket holder Saturday night at the UMass-West Virginia basketball game: "If the kid never makes another shot in his life it won't make a difference."

Another fan, a woman, entered the top level of Curry Hicks Cage, and as she walked toward her seat, she looked down at the floor, then tugged on her small son's arm. "Look" she said, "there's number 33. There's the boy who beat Holy Cross!"

One week ago tonight Eric Williams inducted himself into the annals of UMass basketball immortality by hitting a miraculous, last second buzzer beating shot to defeat Holy Cross 77-76.

It was a shot that stunned the more than 4,000 fans at the Hart Center. It was a shot seen by millions of New Englanders who watched the eleven o'clock news. It was a shot that many more people across the country learned about as they read about the shot in their morning newspapers.

Suddenly Eric Williams had emerged from the bench of obscurity and literally had vaulted himself into the public's eye. He was a celebrity.

Williams' picture was seen in papers across New England; his name appeared in the largest selling daily newspaper in the country — the N.Y. Daily News — and he was the subject of a column written by Globe sports writer, Leigh Montville, in Sunday's Globe.

One week later, Williams' euphoria over the shot has subsided somewhat, although the effects of the shot continue to follow him like an odor that just won't disappear.

What effect has the game winning shot had on the personable junior from South Orange, N.J.?

"The whole thing has been a real trip," Williams said yesterday before practice. "It's had a big effect on me. I had been struggling before the Holy Cross game. It's amazing how one shot can change your standing. You know?"

"Walking around campus this past week has been funny," he said. "People have been walking by saying, 'Williams from 30 feet'!"

"Just today, Billy (Morrison) and I were walking towards the book store and this guy walked by and said, 'goddam Holy Cross. I hate them. Thanks a lot for beating them'."

"Then this girl over in business administration asked, Are you Eric Williams? I guess you're the hero now, hugh?"

Star of the day, who will it be?

But it's one week later now and Williams has emerged from cloud nine. Reality has set in and his mind is now on trying to keep his starting position.

"It was great while it happened but we play Rutgers tomorrow and that's my main concern," Williams said.

However, when Williams enters the gym tonight at Rutgers, undoubtedly the fans are going to point his way in admiration of a local boy who made good. The shot, it seems, may never escape Eric Williams. The shot, like a tattoo, may be a trademark that he'll wear for life.

Though Williams is realistically trying to put the game winning shot on the back burner of his mind, even he lapses into moments when the thought re-emerges.

Has he tried to re-enact the shot on the court yet?

"Yesterday (Tuesday) I was by myself because no one could make it to practice and I imagined for the first time that I was doing it again," he said.

"Like I say it's been a trip," Williams said. "It feels good. You know? I can hand in my uniform tomorrow and be happy because I know I've accomplished something."

---

Below The Salt

VOL. VI SSUE 14 FEBRUARY 9, 1978

Cuban literature- creating a tradition

Page 6

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst. Editors | Bob ArmstrongMary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Listings Editor | Debbie Wallace |
| Poetry Editor | Lisa Wait |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |

Below The Salt takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requiree that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topics of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submissions can be made at the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center; 545-3500.

Biko tribute

S.African pianist plays

South African pianist Dollar Brand, as pictured on the cover photo of his album Good News From Africa.

Dollar Brand, a commanding South African pianist, will be appearing at Amherst College this weekend.

Born in Cape Town, South Africa in 1934, Brand started piano lessons at the age of seven, maturing as a musician during the nineteen-fifties, while working with a number of African bands who played both traditional African music and arrangements by American big-band leaders. He left his homeland in 1962, and since then he has been traveling almost continuously performing frequently in Europe and America, at various times as a soloist, leader of a trio or big band. He has recorded several albums for various labels.

Brand is far more than another piano player with good chops. He brings to his playing a certain rhythmic command and melodic sense that is uniquely African. There is a decidedly percussive approach to Brand's music; he explores musical territory unknown to all but a few pianists, employing African folk melodies and chants with Afro-American musical elements in such a way that he does far more than bridge the gap between the two forms; he points to the purely African elements in what we have come to call jazz, he demonstrates how our Afro-American music built on these forms, but most of all he plays music of a power, sweep and scope that transcends stylistic barriers.

The South African pianist appeared in a free concert given at the Student Union Ballroom two years ago. Although few people attended, Brand received roaring ovations from those who did witness his awesome display of talent, as he pounded out multi-layered musical statements of raging beauty. He ought not to be missed this time.

Dollar Brand will be appearing in a tribute to black South African activist Steve Biko, who was killed last year in a South African jail under still-undisclosed circumstances. It appears that the apartheid regime in South Africa is guilty of criminal negligence, at the very least, in regards to his death.

The performance will take place at Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $1 and will go on sale at 7:30 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the Afro-American society and Cultural Center Program.

Campus concert forecast

By ALEX STEIN

"This semester," says a spokesperson for the Union Program Council, "will be our best semester yet in terms of concerts. We're making an effort to compete against major concert promoters, instead of just booking acts that are always available to the college circuit."

The first concert is an evening with Randy Newman, whose current hit is the controversial "Short People". He will be appearing at the Fine Arts Center concert hall Feb. 12. The Nitty Gritty Dirt band, scheduled as the opening act, has cancelled.

On March 1st New Wave superstar Elvis Costello will appear at the Student Union Ballroom with Willie Alexander and the Boom Boom Band. Other planned concerts include a Women's Week Concert on March 5th, at the Fine Arts Center. Although it is not certain,it is expected that one of the performers will be Holly Near. On April 1st there will be a Black Musicians Conference at the Student Union Ballroom featuring Dexter Gordon. Since this concert has been free in the past, the UPC would like for it to be free again this year. On April 9th at the Fine Arts Center, the David Bromberg Band will appear in concert with Maria Muldaur.

Randy Newman

One of last year's highlights for many people was the Spring Concert, which featured artists such as the Pousette Dart Band, Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes and Procol Harum. This year there is no planned Spring Concert as such. Instead, on May 6th there will be the Black American Musical Festival Among the acts the BAMF is trying to get are Stevie Wonder and George Benson.

Inside today's Salt

about the cover:

Sandro Martini better be an alright guy 'cause that's his art on our cover!

art

Stacy Belkind interviews Sandro Martini and explores his visiting world of art. Page 6.

No Kerouac, Levitan does the Karma Slum. Page 3.

music

Pucks thud and the Doonesbury lunch pales. Page 4.

books

Classless Cuban culture chronicled. Page 6.

Skip Tenczar demystifies abstraction in film. Page 11.

film

Hallaren catches the "Fever." Page 11.

University

sweep, and scope

EXOTIC FISH & PET WORLD

one of the Hadley Village Barn Shops

586-3362

Valentine Sale

Thur., Feb. 9 to Sun., Feb. 19

A Sweetheart of a Sale.

♡ NEW Power 150 Dynaflow Filter Reg. 16.59 NOW $10.95

♡ 7/8 oz. Tetramin Fish Food 99¢

♡ 10 Gal. Metaframe Aquarium Ensemble Reg. 28.39 NOW $21.95

♡ 20% Off any 20 Gal. Metaframe Aquarium Setup

♡ Green Parkakeets Reg. 11.95 NOW $7.95

49 Russell St. (Rte. 9), Hadley

10-6 Sat. & Sun. 10-9 Daily

FOR BOOZE & BEER WE'RE NEAR & HERE

Right in the heart of Amherst!

Save your time, tires, and gas.

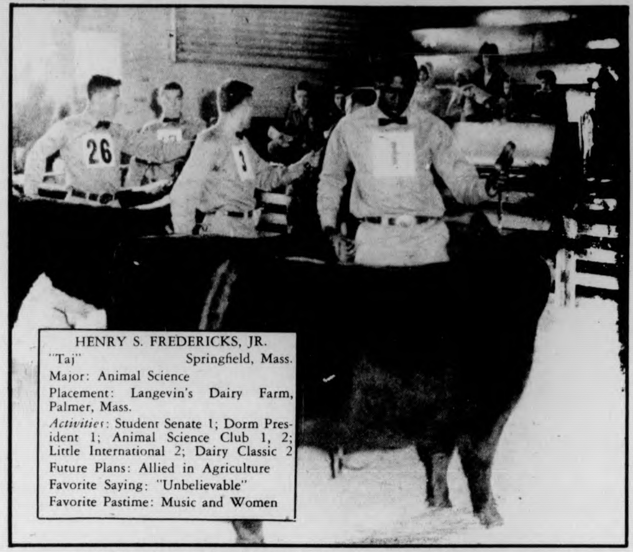
C&C LIQUORS

BEHIND THE POLICE STATION

FREE ON CAMPUS DELIVERY

253-3091



HENRY S. FREDERICKS, JR.
"Taj" Springfield, Mass.
Major: Animal Science
Placement: Langevin's Dairy Farm, Palmer, Mass.
Activities: Student Senate 1; Dorm President 1; Animal Science Club 1, 2; Little International 2; Dairy Classic 2
Future Plans: Allied in Agriculture
Favorite Saying: "Unbelievable"
Favorite Pastime: Music and Women

Taj Mahal hasn't always been composing and performing music - when he was a Stockbridge student he went to class like anyone else.

Mahal's magic-UMass roots

Taj Mahal
Evolution (The Most Recent)
Warner Bros.
Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

music

A 1963 Stockbridge graduate of our own UMass community, Taj Mahal, has released a new album titled Evolution (The Most Recent). Taj Mahal began his professional musical career in 1965 with a California based band called the Rising Suns, which also featured guitarist Ry Cooder. He then went on to record albums bearing his own name. In this early period of Taj's musical evolution, he was dedicated to documenting and furthering the progression of blues in this country. Appearing in such places as the old Filmore East, his popularity gradually grew. In the past few years, Taj Mahal has begun to introduce different styles of music into his recordings, which brings us to his twelfth and most diversely influenced album Evolution

Evolution is a conscious synthesis of much of our world's music. Taj Mahal has chosen to unify music of the Black experience from throughout the world to create a sound that is both pleasurable and educational. As one listens to the album, one can hear blues, reggae, calypso, disco, and Philadelphia sound music. In the song "Southbound With The Hammer Down," a rhythm and blues number with a reggae chorus, he tells us to "Stand up straight and tall and point your mind where it's warmest." The album's instrumental, "The Most Recent (Evolution) of the Muthafusticus Modernusticus," is a song of primarily West African influence which features a moving rhythm paced by congas, steel drums, and floating saxophone. And as expeccted there's a blues number called the "Big Blues" in which Taj uses his most coarse and gritty vocal accompanied by a forceful harmonica, brass section, and steel drums. The remaining five songs on the disc also reflect Taj Mahal's interest in his musical heritage and are beautifully performed by his band.

Taj Mahal shows us through his music that he understands his cultural roots and heritage. Let's hope that the UMass community can discover its own cultural roots by giving this alumnus' album a listen, and maybe inviting him to come here and play for us soon.

Sources of creation

By MARK HARRIS LEVITAN

(Author's note: Not everyone is a poet. Not all poets write poetry. Not all poetry is written. Now for the news. As a rule, the author does not consider himself a poet, although he claims to have written poems. He also claims to have written the following article one night when he realized it was the fifth anniversary of his First Poem. It's about time, poetry and life. What else is there?)

FIVE YEARS, meditated upon, is an infinitely short time.

FIVE YEARS AGO was called 1973. I was a second-semester freshboy at a large state university that was wallowing in the ashes of a student uprising that was relatively feeble, but for a few that made the anger work in the quest for coed showers. The use of drugs was a pre-requisite for admission, and I had a large deficiency in the area so I embarked on a crash course in Quaaludes, LSD, mescaline and 57 varieties of weed. Opened my mind to its inner strengths, and out rushed the weaknesses. I was at once prolific and lazy. Prolific poems that still don't make sense, but revealed a great knowledge of who I didn't want to be. All that energy spent on not being like so and so or such and such! I dropped out of school, got a job as a camp counselor (Nature Boy, of course) and then took the advice of Denny Smith to move to Albuquerque and "get out there." I had to make my break I guess. The details of that voyage and its still-random effects are available in print elsewhere, but the journey was on.

I am talking, no writing, about the past five years of my life. Why? Because it's an oft-discussed subject, what with five-year plans, five-year light bulbs and the like. Also it struck me that my first poem ever, written on New Year's Day 1973, had occured five years ago. I lift my champagne glass in a fitting toast with the gathered chairs in the room here.

It has been an incredible five years, to think of it. Not only have I grown a beard, but my record collection has grown from 30 to 350.

Albuquerque held me at bay for twelve days before I landed a well-deserved job as ground waterer and paint applier for nouveau apartment complex in the plush North East corner of the city. My generous $1.65 an hour (the owner was also prez of a bank) afforded me the luxury of fine foam rubber slab mattress ($7) plunked in a spacious living room, big enough to hold three of said mattresses in the student slum district near the state U. A hundred-thirty a month for a one bedroom job with an ample supply of a particularly hardy breed of cockroach. Split, of course, with an aspiring tree-surgeon who reeked of Dutch Elm Disease (I lost the flip for the B.R.).

Being a gregarious and basically moral Easterner and I made of couple of friends that I still care to think about. For instance, Bob was a guy, can't remember what he did, but he was a guy, alright. Met him at the bus stop, oh yeah he worked at Walgreen's. Got me a fine set of knives that I still use. On Christmas eve he bought me a book by Ayn Rand. We rapped about wordly shit, for sure, but mostly we listened to this really beat up tape I had of Buffalo Springfield and talked of the good old days. I never mentioned that I was aware of the name Buffalo Springfield in 1967 only because I was a 13 year-old that got thrills from watching a big Buffalo Springfield steamroller crush my friend's roller skates into the pavement. Good knives, Bob.

Then there was Dale, Manny and Ted—the strangest and friendliest lot. Dale was a light-haired mixed-blood Puerto Rican from Illinois. Manny was a man-about-town Chicano from L.A. and Ted was a pugilistic pubster from the Mother country. Ted's best friend in Albuquerque town was a rare breed alcoholic ham who saw double duty as the weekend weatherman and "Dialing for Dollars" host on channel five. Quite a drinker as I recall.

The mentioned Dale, Manny and Ted lived in the apartment sprawl where I worked. I got to know them in much the same way as I met anyone there. For a month I was on the unending mission of painting 178 front doors bright orange. Naturally I knocked on doors before I started. Had a lot of hot afternoon Coors that way, not to mention the lovely housewives. Like Angie, a beautiful ex-model, country of origin Trinidad or something exotic. All I remember is her beautiful smile and the fact that she offered me three beers and two joints while I took three hours to paint her goddamn door. Angie was operating for Ma Bell, and had weird days off. She was married, says she, but I didn't meet Glenn for three weeks. Meanwhile ole Angie and I were sharing music, poetry, touches and laughter (not to mention the phone credit card code). I was a nineteen year old virgin from a somewhat warped (albeit self-administered) background, and mere fear kept me out of her kept me out of her panties. Good thinking on my part. Glenn is a six and a half foot blond fucking Swedish lumberjack from Minnesota and could have bent me into any shape possible. If I might have a choice, Glenn, could you bend me over so I can suck myself off?

Angie liked me too much to let me be scared away, and by the time I had moved into the complex (let's not get into that story and that motherfucking Phil bastard who got me fired) her marriage was on the

TURN TO PAGE 8

FOR SALE

for the first time ever

THE POCKET SANDWICH AT THE HATCH VEGETARIAN CORNER

Open daily from 10:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Across from the Hatch Bar downstairs.

Student Union Bldg.

Charlie's

HAPPY HOUR 4-7

35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢

TUESDAY & THURSDAY

UMASS NIGHT

10% OFF

All Food & Drink W./ID

1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst. Editors | Bob ArmstrongMary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Listings Editor | Debbie Wallace |
| Poetry Editor | Lisa Wait |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |

Below The Salt takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requiree that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topics of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submissions can be made at the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center; 545-3500.

Biko tribute

S. African pianist plays

South African pianist Dollar Brand, as pictured on the cover photo of his album Good News From Africa.

Dollar Brand, a commanding South African pianist, will be appearing at Amherst College this weekend.

Born in Cape Town, South Africa in 1934, Brand started piano lessons at the age of seven, maturing as a musician during the nineteen-fifties, while working with a number of African bands who played both traditional African music and arrangements by American big-band leaders. He left his homeland in 1962, and since then he has been traveling almost continuously performing frequently in Europe and America, at various times as a soloist, leader of a trio or big band. He has recorded several albums for various labels.

Brand is far more than another piano player with good chops. He brings to his playing a certain rhythmic command and melodic sense that is uniquely African. There is a decidedly percussive approach to Brand's music; he explores musical territory unknown to all but a few pianists, employing African folk melodies and chants with Afro-American musical elements in such a way that he does far more than bridge the gap between the two forms; he points to the purely African elements in what we have come to call jazz, he demonstrates how our Afro-American music built on these forms, but most of all he plays music of a power, sweep and scope that transcends stylistic barriers.

The South African pianist appeared in a free concert given at the Student Union Ballroom two years ago. Although few people attended, Brand received roaring ovations from those who did witness his awesome display of talent, as he pounded out multi-layered musical statements of raging beauty. He ought not to be missed this time.

Dollar Brand will be appearing in a tribute to black South African activist Steve Biko, who was killed last year in a South African jail under still-undisclosed circumstances. It appears that the apartheid regime in South Africa is guilty of criminal negligence, at the very least, in regards to his death.

The performance will take place at Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $1 and will go on sale at 7:30 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the Afro-American society and Cultural Center Program.

Inside today's Salt

Below The Salt

Cuban literature-creating a tradition

Page 6

about the cover:

Sandro Martini better be an alright guy 'cause that's his art on our cover!

art

Stacy Belkind interviews Sandro Martini and explores his visiting world of art. Page 6.

No Kerouac, Levitan does the Karma Slum. Page 3.

music

Pucks thud and the Doonesbury lunch pales. Page 4.

books

Classless Cuban culture chronicled. Page 6.

Skip Tenczar demystifies abstraction in film. Page 11.

film

Hallaren catches the "Fever." Page 11.

University

sweep, and scope

Campus concert forecast

By ALEX STEIN

"This semester," says a spokesperson for the Union Program Council, "will be our best semester yet in terms of concerts. We're making an effort to compete against major concert promoters, instead of just booking acts that are always available to the college circuit."

The first concert is an evening with Randy Newman, whose current hit is the controversial "Short People". He will be appearing at the Fine Arts Center concert hall Feb. 12. The Nitty Gritty Dirt band, scheduled as the opening act, has cancelled.

On March 1st New Wave superstar Elvis Costello will appear at the Student Union Ballroom with Willie Alexander and the Boom Boom Band. Other planned concerts include a Women's Week Concert on March 5th, at the Fine Arts Center. Although it is not certain, it is expected that one of the performers will be Holly Near. On April 1st there will be a Black Musicians Conference at the Student Union Ballroom featuring Dexter Gordon. Since this concert has been free in the past, the UPC would like for it to be free again this year. On April 9th at the Fine Arts Center, the David Bromberg Band will appear in concert with Maria Muldaur.

Randy Newman

One of last year's highlights for many people was the Spring Concert, which featured artists such as the Pousette Dart Band, Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes and Procol Harum. This year there is no planned Spring Concert as such. Instead, on May 6th there will be the Black American Musical Festival Among the acts the BAMF is trying to get are Stevie Wonder and George Benson.

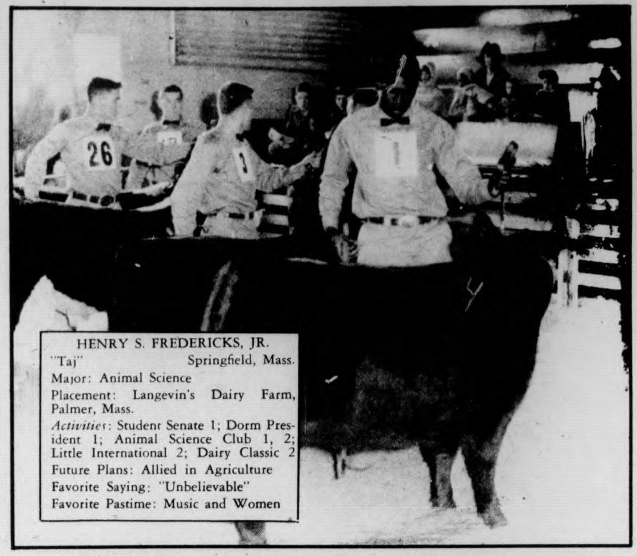
EXOTIC FISH & PET WORLD
one of the Hadley Village Barn Shops
586-3362

Valentine Sale
Thur., Feb. 9 to Sun., Feb. 19
A Sweetheart of a Sale.

NEW Power 150 Dynaflow Filter Reg. 16.59 NOW $10.95
7/8 oz. Tetramin Fish Food 99¢
10 Gal. Metaframe Aquarium Ensemble Reg. 28.39 NOW $21.95
20% Off any 20 Gal. Metaframe Aquarium Setup
Green Parkakeets Reg. 11.95 NOW $7.95

49 Russell St. (Rte. 9), Hadley
10-6 Sat. & Sun. 10-9 Daily

FOR BOOZE & BEER
WE'RE NEAR & HERE
Right in the heart of Amherst!
Save your time, tires, and gas.
C&C LIQUORS
BEHIND THE POLICE STATION
FREE ON CAMPUS DELIVERY
253-3091



HENRY S. FREDERICKS, JR.
"Taj" Springfield, Mass.
Major: Animal Science
Placement: Langevin's Dairy Farm, Palmer, Mass.
Activities: Student Senate 1; Dorm President 1; Animal Science Club 1, 2; Little International 2; Dairy Classic 2
Future Plans: Allied in Agriculture
Favorite Saying: "Unbelievable"
Favorite Pastime: Music and Women

Taj Mahal hasn't always been composing and performing music - when he was a Stockbridge student he went to class like anyone else.

Mahal's magic- UMass roots

Taj Mahal
Evolution (The Most Recent)
Warner Bros.
Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

music

A 1963 Stockbridge graduate of our own UMass community, Taj Mahal, has released a new album titled Evolution (The Most Recent). Taj Mahal began his professional musical career in 1965 with a California based band called the Rising Suns, which also featured guitarist Ry Cooder. He then went on to record albums bearing his own name. In this early period of Taj's musical evolution, he was dedicated to documenting and furthering the progression of blues in this country. Appearing in such places as the old Filmore East, his popularity gradually grew. In the past few years, Taj Mahal has begun to introduce different styles of music into his recordings, which brings us to his twelfth and most diversely influenced album Evolution

Evolution is a conscious synthesis of much of our world's music. Taj Mahal has chosen to unify music of the Black experience from throughout the world to create a sound that is both pleasurable and educational. As one listens to the album, one can hear blues, reggae, calypso, disco, and Philadelphia sound music. In the song "Southbound With The Hammer Down," a rhythm and blues number with a reggae chorus, he tells us to "Stand up straight and tall and point your mind where it's warmest." The album's instrumental, "The Most Recent (Evolution) of the Muthafusticus Modernusticus," is a song of primarily West African influence which features a moving rhythm paced by congas, steel drums, and floating saxophone. And as expeccted there's a blues number called the "Big Blues" in which Taj uses his most coarse and gritty vocal accompanied by a forceful harmonica, brass section, and steel drums. The remaining five songs on the disc also reflect Taj Mahal's interest in his musical heritage and are beautifully performed by his band.

Taj Mahal shows us through his music that he understands his cultural roots and heritage. Let's hope that the UMass community can discover its own cultural roots by giving this alumnus' album a listen, and maybe inviting him to come here and play for us soon.

Sources of creation

By MARK HARRIS LEVITAN

(Author's note: Not everyone is a poet. Not all poets write poetry. Not all poetry is written. Now for the news. As a rule, the author does not consider himself a poet, although he claims to have written poems. He also claims to have written the following article one night when he realized it was the fifth anniversary of his First Poem. It's about time, poetry and life. What else is there?)

FIVE YEARS, meditated upon, is an infinitely short time.

FIVE YEARS AGO was called 1973. I was a second-semester freshboy at a large state university that was wallowing in the ashes of a student uprising that was relatively feeble, but for a few that made the anger work in the quest for coed showers. The use of drugs was a pre-requisite for admission, and I had a large deficiency in the area so I embarked on a crash course in Quaaludes, LSD, mescaline and 57 varieties of weed. Opened my mind to its inner strengths, and out rushed the weaknesses. I was at once prolific and lazy. Prolific poems that still don't make sense, but revealed a great knowledge of who I didn't want to be. All that energy spent on not being like so and so or such and such! I dropped out of school, got a job as a camp counselor (Nature Boy, of course) and then took the advice of Denny Smith to move to Albuquerque and "get out there." I had to make my break I guess. The details of that voyage and its still-random effects are available in print elsewhere, but the journey was on.

I am talking, no writing, about the past five years of my life. Why? Because it's an oft-discussed subject, what with five-year plans, five-year light bulbs and the like. Also it struck me that my first poem ever, written on New Year's Day 1973, had occured five years ago. I lift my champagne glass in a fitting toast with the gathered chairs in the room here.

It has been an incredible five years, to think of it. Not only have I grown a beard, but my record collection has grown from 30 to 350.

Albuquerque held me at bay for twelve days before I landed a well-deserved job as ground waterer and paint applier for nouveau apartment complex in the plush North East corner of the city. My generous $1.65 an hour (the owner was also prez of a bank) afforded me the luxury of fine foam rubber slab mattress ($7) plunked in a spacious living room, big enough to hold three of said mattresses in the student slum district near the state U. A hundred-thirty a month for a one bedroom job with an ample supply of a particularly hardy breed of cockroach. Split, of course, with an aspiring tree-surgeon who reeked of Dutch Elm Disease (I lost the flip for the B.R.).

Being a gregarious and basically moral Easterner and I made of couple of friends that I still care to think about. For instance, Bob was a guy, can't remember what he did, but he was a guy, alright. Met him at the bus stop, oh yeah he worked at Walgreen's. Got me a fine set of knives that I still use. On Christmas eve he bought me a book by Ayn Rand. We rapped about wordly shit, for sure, but mostly we listened to this really beat up tape I had of Buffalo Springfield and talked of the good old days. I never mentioned that I was aware of the name Buffalo Springfield in 1967 only because I was a 13 year-old that got thrills from watching a big Buffalo Springfield steamroller crush my friend's roller skates into the pavement. Good knives, Bob.

Then there was Dale, Manny and Ted—the strangest and friendliest lot. Dale was a light-haired mixed-blood Puerto Rican from Illinois. Manny was a man-about-town Chicano from L.A. and Ted was a pugilistic pubster from the Mother country. Ted's best friend in Albuquerque town was a rare breed alcoholic ham who saw double duty as the weekend weatherman and "Dialing for Dollars" host on channel five. Quite a drinker as I recall.

The mentioned Dale, Manny and Ted lived in the apartment sprawl where I worked. I got to know them in much the same way as I met anyone there. For a month I was on the unending mission of painting 178 front doors bright orange. Naturally I knocked on doors before I started. Had a lot of hot afternoon Coors that way, not to mention the lovely housewives. Like Angie, a beautiful ex-model, country of origin Trinidad or something exotic. All I remember is her beautiful smile and the fact that she offered me three beers and two joints while I took three hours to paint her goddamn door. Angie was operating for Ma Bell, and had weird days off. She was married, says she, but I didn't meet Glenn for three weeks. Meanwhile ole Angie and I were sharing music, poetry, touches and laughter (not to mention the phone credit card code). I was a nineteen year old virgin from a somewhat warped (albeit self-administered) background, and mere fear kept me out of her kept me out of her panties. Good thinking on my part. Glenn is a six and a half foot blond fucking Swedish lumberjack from Minnesota and could have bent me into any shape possible. If I might have a choice, Glenn, could you bend me over so I can suck myself off?

Angie liked me too much to let me be scared away, and by the time I had moved into the complex (let's not get into that story and that motherfucking Phil bastard who got me fired) her marriage was on the

TURN TO PAGE 8

FOR SALE
for the first time ever
THE POCKET SANDWICH
AT THE HATCH
VEGETARIAN CORNER
Open daily from 10:30 a.m.-2 p.m.
Across from the Hatch Bar downstairs.
Student Union Bldg.

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢
TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

Thudpucker: hoax or fraud?

Jimmy Thudpucker's first album contains some well-written lyrics, allegedly composed by Garry Trudeau, but it does have a major fault - the record is a gigantic in-joke.

Jimmy Tnuapucker and
The Walden West Rhythm Section
Jimmy Thudpucker's Greatest Hits
Windsong Records (RCA)

Reviewed by ALEX STEIN

When Garry Trudeau first began drawing Doonesbury, in the early 70's, he swore that he would not "sell out" and go commercial as Charles Schulz did with Peanuts. Last fall,. NBC-TV aired a Doonesbury Special which featured, among other things, characters from the Walden Commune lamenting about the loss of 60's activism.

One of the more impressive parts of the special was the singer Jimmy Thudpucker, a character introduced in the strip a couple of years ago. The closing credits said that the music was performed by "Jimmy Thudpucker."

Now the whole album is available — an additional eight songs — and it chronicals the musical history of this superstar from 1968 to the present. Thudpucker, in case you didn't know, was raised in Glendale, California, where he was discovered by producer Phil Spector. He now lives in Malibu's Topanga Canyon with his wife Jennifer and their son Feedback. The family is currently on an extended vacation in the Bahamas with Jimmy's ex-girlfriend Carly Simon and her husband James Taylor.

There is one very big drawback that prevents this from being a great album: There is no Jimmy Thudpucker. Someone at RCA Records is trying to pull the wool over the eyes of the public. This record is a gigantic in-joke.

That fact is what makes the album a pleasant surprise. Most joke records are raunchy, but this one is an honest attempt at music, and, at the same time, succeeds in parodying the entire music industry: The success of the album is due largely to David Foster (of Dark Horse Records), who provided keyboards, synthesizers, and vocals as well as producing the album, writing music for it, and arranging and conducting the strings. Other musicians include Donald Dunn on bass, Steve Cropper on guitars and various fictional characters and local musicians.

The songs are rather well written (Trudeau himself allegedly wrote all of the lyrics), ranging from the Dylanesque protest song "I Do Believe" to the "current runaway hit 'Can't Fight It.' " Many of the songs are about the Vietnam War (a favorite Doonesbury theme). "I Do Believe," a simple plea for peace, patterned after John Lennon's "Give Peace A Chance," states:

I do believe, yes I do believe
A day will come
When all mankind will take the time
To understand—
And I do believe, yes I do believe
The peace we'll find
Will multiply itself in us
Until the end of time.

The whole show is stolen by backround singer Renee Armand, to whom Thudpucker made "a spontaneous decision to turn over the remainder of the session." With a little gentle prodding she agrees to sing a composition of hers, "Indian Brown." This beautifully melodic song deals with the frustrations of a woman hitching into the city:

If you won't sleep with me tonight
Then I'll just sleep alone
'Cause I been sleeping half my life
All alone up on that hill
And I sleep alright.

Knowing that this is all a big job takes a lot away from the album. All of the music was written and recorded in 1977, making it obvious that the material does not cover the period that it is supposed to.

Still, there are many solid potential hit-singles in this collection. Climax, a band who made a similar sounding album about four years ago, had two hit singles, including "Precious and Few". The material is here, it's solid, and should be given a chance. (Are Doonesbury lunchpails the next big thing?)

whole wheat
PIZZA FACTORY
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
5-2 a.m.
Corner of Main & Triangle St.
9 Minute Pick-Up Service

Come Party With Us!
OPEN HOUSE
Fri., Feb. 10th "8-1"
PHI-MU-DELTA
FRAT./SOR. PARK
Beers—3/$1.00
Music By: D.J./STEVE O'Connor

MONDAYS
COOL
RUM SWIZZLES
.75
9-1

TUESDAYS
Two for One
Drinks & Beer
9-1

WEDNESDAYS
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers
9-1

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978

THURSDAYS
Two for One
(DRINKS & BEER)
8:30 till 11

FRIDAYS
HAPPY HOUR
3-7
25¢ PUB MUGS
Anniversary Specials
8-1

SATURDAYS
Anniversary Specials
9-1

Sunday & Monday — Juke Box Disco
Tuesdays — Dave Powell
Wednesdays — Jim Plunkett
Thursdays — Two Way Street
Friday & Saturday — Disco with Tom Gavin

SUNDAYS
EXCALIBURG Special
Buy 1 Get 1 Free
12 - 9
GOODTIME HOUR 4 - 8
Qt. Pitcher Beer
1.25

FRYE SALE
OVER 20 STYLES
OF BOOTS ON SALE
20-50% OFF
limited sizes
FRYE Apres Ski Boots
reg. $29.99 $12.00
FRYE Jeans
reg. $28.00 $14.00
FRYE Vests
reg. $22.00 $11.00
SHEEPSKIN COATS
reg. $275 now $199
also a large selection of Rockport Casuals
Timberland Boots
& Clogs
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135

albums

Steeleye Span
Storm Force Ten
Chrysalis

Reviewed by BRETT MILANO

When we last left Steeleye Span, they were pulling a classic survival trick by adding two highly respected traditional musicians (Martin Carthy and John Kirkpatrick) to the band as replacements for the two longtime band members (Peter Knight and Bob Johnson) who left to go solo. They spent most of last summer touring England with the new lineup, playing a set comprised almost entirely of as-then unrecorded songs. Storm Force Ten, the album which contains those songs, has just been released and it may well be the best of Steeleye's 10 albums. All of the mythic beauty and impeccable performances which we've come to expect from Steeleye Span are here in full force, but it's especially evident here that their music continues to grow with each new album.

The album opens on a gentle note with "Awake, Awake", a pastoral ballad for the dawning of the day. One notices immediately how well the new members fit in—Kirkpatrick's accordian adds a touch of brightness to the instrumental sound, and Carthy's vocals enrich the choruses. The rhythm secion is in full strength, keeping the band's rock influence intact. And of course there is Maddy Prior, her voice as lovely and siren-like as ever, taking the lead.

The next few songs give an indication of Steeleye's new direction, mostly reflected in the songs' subject matter. Added to the medieval imagery on these songs is a strong element of social concern. Thus "Awake" is followed by a chimney-sweep's lament, sympathetically sung in five-part harmony. Following this is "The Wife of the Soldier", a contemporary song which expresses more than a mild anger at military injustice. This theme continues with "The Victory", the first side's major piece, which begins with a simple folk melody and builds to an awesome chorus.

Side two opens with "The Black Freighter", an excerpt from Brecht's Threepenny Opera. The lyrics on this are basically a dramatic monologue, forcefully delivered by Maddy Prior while the instrumental arrangement conveys the alternate anger and romanticism of the lyrics (concerning a serving-girl who dreams of being rescued by a pirate ship). Maddy also shines on "Some Rival", a tearful ballad of lost love. With its acoustic arrangement, this song wouldn't seem out of place on Below The Salt, an earlier Steeleye album which has given its name to at least one well-known publication.

The social theme of the album continues with "Treadmill Song", a piece about imprisonment which is set to a beautifully dramatic melody. Carthy sings the melody line while Tim Hart adds some high falsetto harmony, and the effect is memorable. Contrasting nicely with the more dramatic songs is the album's closing number, "Seventeen Come Sunday", which is one of those joyous folkdance tunes that no Steeleye album would be complete without. It begins with some more fine vocals (Maddy again), before the band tears into an exuberant jig.

As a whole, Storm Force Ten comes as close as any recent album has to defining my taste in music. It has all of the rustic gentleness of British folk and the dramatic grandeur of the best progressive rock. Steeleye Span continues to keep the folk tradition alive by using their inventive musicianship to heighten the inherent beauty of the traditional songs that they play, and their creation is inspiring.

Electric Light Orchestra
Out Of The Blue
Jet-United Artists

Reviewed by ROSS NERENBERG

I truly have mixed feelings about this one. ELO's eight album is aesthetically adequate, but artistically sterile. The seven-man group has labored long and hard to achieve success, and now that they've reached their goal, it appears that there's been a marked drop-off in artistic creativity. As ELO's leader, Jeff Lynne shouldn't content himself with merely churning out this toe-tapping pop. Perhaps he should allow another member of the septette the opportunity of writing something, for, as frequently happens when one person totally dominates a group's writing, much of the material here sounds like an obvious rehash of old ELO stuff. The 17 tunes presented on this two record set are enjoyable enough on the sufrace, but they're too shallow. There's no new ground broken, no new approaches, no risks taken.

On the other hand, I don't mean to imply that Out Of The Blue is a total waste. With spacey special effects incorporating everything from computerized keyboards to fire extinguishers, the LP's production is technically impeccable, for which Lynne does merit a tip of the cap. And a few cuts do stand out worthy of special mention. These include "Turn To Stone" (the disc's first single), "Across The Border" (nice Latin-style horns), "Jungle" (perfectly primitive percussion), "Summer and Lightning" (from side three's "Concerto For A Rainy Day" suite) and "Birmingham Blues."

All in all, Out Of The Blue is a pleasing, if not overly thrilling, effort. ELO can do better, and I should hope that next time they will. As for now, give 'em a "they're capable of so much more" B-.

jazz Sale
$3.99 Series 698 Code P Albums
$4.99 Series 798 Code R Albums
ALL OTHER REGULAR PRICED JAZZ LPs
10% OFF.
Many Jazz Albums from $1.99 up.
Platterpus Records
COMPLETE SELECTION OF: ROCK-JAZZ-CLASSICAL-FOLK-IMPORTS-NEW WAVE-PROGRESSIVE-SOUND TRACKS SPRINGFIELD CIVIC CENTER TICKET OUTLET
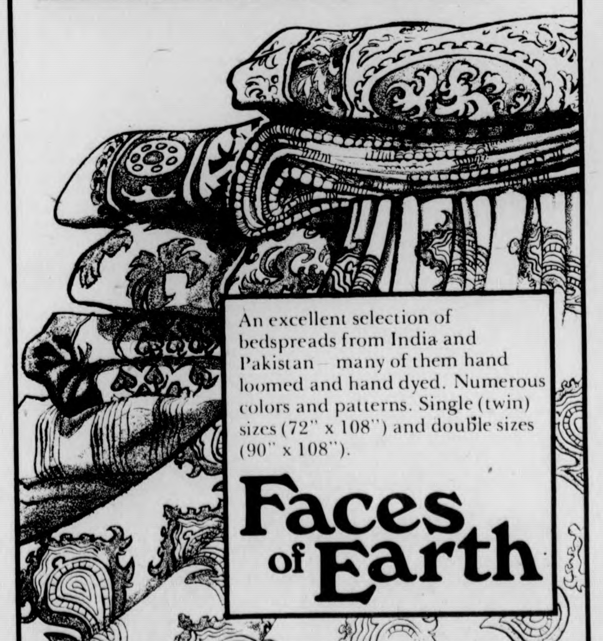
HAMP PLAZA
No. King St., Rt. 5
Northampton 586-5882
STORE HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 10-9
SALE ENDS SAT. FEB. 4

Bedspreads



An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan – many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office, 9:30—6:00 Monday thru Saturday.

MEN'S WEAR, WOMEN'S WEAR
EVERYTHING. IF WE SELL IT ALL,
WE STILL WON'T MAKE A NICKEL ON THIS SALE!
(this month, we don't want to make money)

We just want to clear out our stores to make way for new Spring Fashions.
So we've priced every garment at rock bottom, to make sure it won't be there next month

Our stores are crammed with a great selection of current styles from famous makers.

This sale ends when we run out of stock,
Which could be soon at these prices.
So if you need anything for your wardrobe, hurry in. You won't see a sale like this one again. At least not until next February at the Wearhouse.

HERE'S A SAMPLE OF OUR HUNDREDS OF BARGAINS:

All our Men's Levi's Cords 11.99
All our Men's Levi's Jeans 14.95 except pre-washed
All our Men's Sweaters Save 33%
All our Women's Sweaters Save 33-75%
Men's Shirts ... values to $16 Save 33-75%
All Women's Dresses values to $40 9.99

WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

'Camping-in' the gallery

By STACY BELKIND

A very special event is currently taking place on the UMass campus. Through February 19, the University Gallery is honoring Tuscan artist Sandro Martini with his first American showing.

Martini has filled the gallery with colored canvases, ribbons, soft materials, looms and sticks which merge into one continuous work in spite of the walls, ceiling and floor. These materials have evolved into a highly unique and beautiful installation which has managed to calm the disturbing and dissonant space of the University Gallery. Even more than that, the artist has created a unified space through this work, transforming the gallery into an environment that may be appreciated visually from any point of view.

For Martini, "The very fact of invading the environment with these colored materials, I think, wants to provoke communication betwen me and others, ... but instead of invading the environment I prefer to say that my action is a camping-in."

It took four days to complete the installation of the work. It was of primary concern to the artist that students assist in the installation, however intersession prevented more than a few students from participating. Perhaps Martini's assistants shared my sense of mystery as to how the work was to evolve. On the floor were dozens of poster tubes, canvases that had yet to be stretched and an impressively long rectangular box. The box contained beautifully colored folded materials and lengthy colored strings.

I see Martini's approach to the installation as an updated version of the artist-apprentice relationship especially regarding shared responsibility and communication between individuals. The artist no longer dictates what he sees fit for the apprentice to do, but rather, there is a strong interest in getting the individual to learn from the materials themselves. Martini is stressing the importance of time involved in completing the work from the first moment of its inception to the returning of the soft materials back into the box.

The following passages have been extracted from an interview with Martini. This could not have been possible without the important assistance from Lorenzo Pezzatini, and artist who shares many of the artistic concerns of Martini. Pezzatini translated as the interview proceeded. The patience and great interest in learning that both men possess deserves acknowledgement.

I asked Martini to comment on how his artistic education and cultural background have influenced his work. "The education I like to talk about and remember the most is not the academic, usual background that I have had in school, but the one that has an artisan quality, a craftsmanship we learn in Italy. I don't believe that any kind of artistic education is formative for an artist. I would like to recognize myself as a painter because coming from Tuscany there is an overwhelming tradition there. There is a distinct background, once you come from there it is very hard to get out of it. Actually, I really enjoy seeing myself as a painter. I like at the same time to see myself as part of the tradition of artisan and craftsman which is very much embodied in Tuscan culture, and in general any Italian culture.

I like to see myself under the anthropological profile in the sense that I like to see myself attached, plugged into this Tuscan background. Not in the historical sense, because our master painters lived there, it's more complex than that. It implies the craftsman, the artisan, the simple man, the human element, so more anthropological, so more rooted. I like to immerse myself in that.

Artist Sandro Martini

'I would like to see the viewer not stand in one place more than another, so that the whole environment is much more powerful. I am specifically working in a way that you can be completely enveloped by the whole environment sothat the mental image that you retain will not be one of painting for one thing but for the environment.'

When I left Tuscany at sixteen, I was welding sculpture in iron and concrete. There was obviously a kind of break, a cut with the Tuscan tradition. In the years passing I went to Milan. Little by little the artisan-craftsman tradition, a certain way of touching the materials came back in another way. I think the Tuscan needs that break at some point. If you have the courage to do that you see all the things that belong to the Tuscan tradition in another light- it comes back in a mental way."

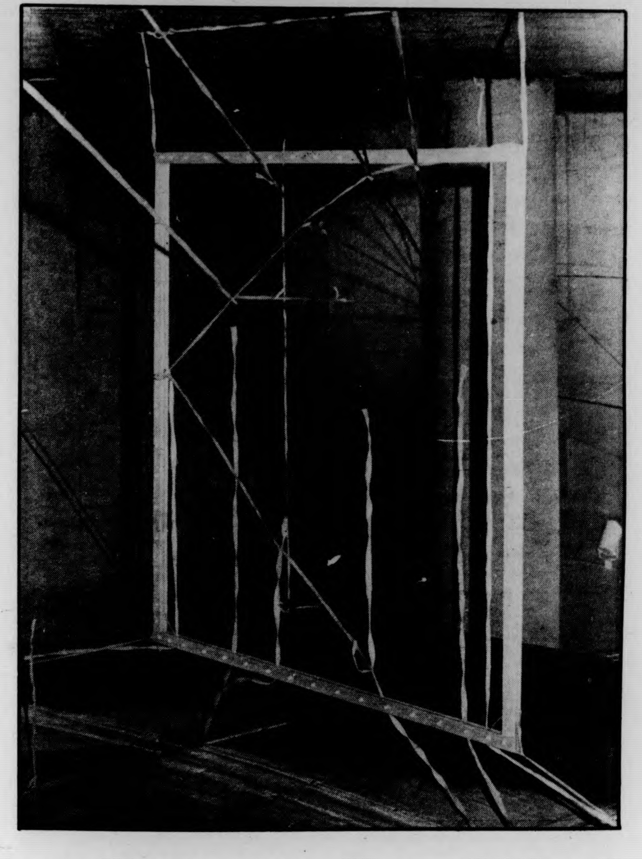
Martini commented further on his role as a painter in light of its changing role. "In this historical moment of contemporary art, there is a lot of discussion about this theme and it seems that the person who recognizes himself/herself as a painter is often times seen as anti-progressive. In the late 1950's, there were alot of artists who were willing to use new materials from plastic to steel. In fact, that did not supply a new way of seeing art, it was just a change in the exterior, in the formal qualities. I like to see myself as a painter in the mental activity of a painter, but I am pretty much against painting in the traditional way with brush marks. I am very interested in the materials of painting; the canvas, the stretcher, the nails. These materials imply a return to the artisan quality of making paintings.

Italian writer Daniela Palazzoli, provides insight into the artists work stating that," For Sandro Martini, painting, what remains after stripping it of its mundane malformations, is the ritual of the fabrication of painting. No longer pushed by external mechanisms, the artist concentrated on the process that leads to the birth of the work. Above all the choice of ingredients."

Martini took the time to describe the long process through which his work comes to life. " The process is very complex but to go through it is one of the best ways to read my work. All the materials are carefully chosen from the thread to the paper I use for the watercolors for which I plan my work."( These watercolors along with the slides documenting the installation can be viewed in the downstairs part of the gallery.) "The canvas has its own weave and personality is expressly commissioned from an artisan. I make my own colors using a mixture of vinegar and baking soda, an old technique that has been rediscovered.

"Before dying the canvas, I build lines on it by tracing two diagonals and the median. I choose one point outside of it, one point chosen by chance without any planning at all and from there I start. It's like starting on a trip, a voyage. It starts from there and takes over automatically. This voyage happens the same way for the colors. I always start with the yellows and go through the oranges and reds until I get the reds that I want. The same with the blues until I reach purple All the moments of the operations have the same quality. I don't distinguish the choosing of the threads for the canvas from the dying of the canvas or the making of the lines. There are some actions that look a little more mental than others but that is not true at all- for me, they all have the same quality. As a final operation I apply to the border of the canvas a paper gummed tape."

"I do not paint one canvas at a time but rather a large quantity, generally 50. It will take three or four months to do it. This is important because in this way there is no attention for one single frame, one single picture as in traditional painting, but there are many of them coming out in a very natural process. I am not concerned about getting from one painting, specific conclusions which is happening in painting. In traditional painting, the artist uses certain things; composition, color, texture, iconography.



Martini would like to see the viewer not just looking at the canvas, but to be a participant, to be involved with the environment. "I would like to see the viewer not stand in one place more than another, so that the whole environment is much more powerful. I am specifically working in a way that you can be completely enveloped by the whole environment so that the mental image that you retain will not be one of painting for one thing but for the environment."

Martini concluded the interview with the following image."The real opening of the show was when the first material came off the box, the big box that I sent from Italy and it wll be closed again in a month when all the material is returned to the box . I like to see that image. What we see here will be modified by myself in a few days so that what we see here is just a cut in a small photogram of a film without time."

---

Creating Cuba's classless culture

"Writing in Cuba Since the Revolution"
Edited and Introduced
by Andrew Salkey

Reviewed by ZOE BEST

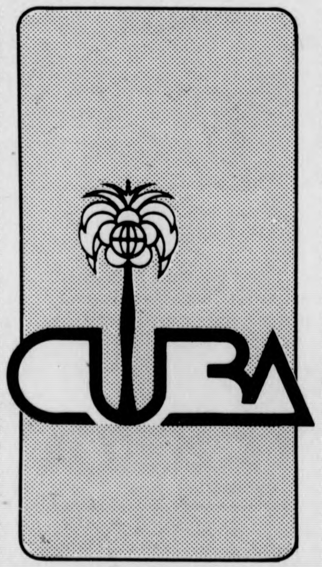
The contemporary arts of Cuba do not express the divine, super-something or surreal encounters out in space or out of one's mind. In short, the romantic or decadent is archaic. Rather the arts make the seemingly impossible, as far as attainments in contemporary society go, more than just a vision. Artists dig out of the history of the common people sources for strength, pride and the will to move onward into the "unknown" — that is, toward a humane, equitable and developed society. As Ernesto "Che" Guevara stated, "What we must create is the person of the twenty-first century....Our task is to prevent the present generation, torn asunder by its conflicts, from becoming perverted and from perverting new generations."

Jamaican poet, Andrew Salkey, who currently teaches creative writing at Hampshire College has edited and introduced a book of poetry, essays and short stories — "Wiring in Cuba Since the Revolution." He met many of the authors presented in this volume during his visit to Cuba in 1968. He was invited to attend the first Cultural Congress of Havana. Salkey's "Havana Journal" records his impressions of the country at that time and of the radically important events that occurred during that memorable congress.

The Cultural Congress was convened three months after "Che" Guevara's assassination by counterinsurgency forces in Bolivia, so naturally the congress reflected his influence on the revolution and on culture. I would suggest to someone not familiar with Cuban cultural expression, or the development of the arts in Cuba and its premises, that they first read Guevara's essay, "The Cultural Vanguard," included in this collection. Guevara stressed the importance of culture in creating the twenty-first century person and society, and in doing so rejects simplicities such as "socialist realism". He dissects its history, its class origins and its philosophical tenets: "But the realistic art of the nineteenth century is also a class art, more purely capitalistic perhaps than the decadent art of the twentieth century which reveals the anguish of aliented (people). In the field of culture, capitalism has given all that it had to give, and nothing of it remains but the offensive stench of a decaying corpse, today's decadence in art."

This statement is profoundly provocative if we look at the popular art of today — in this country, in Europe, in China, in Korea (DPRK), in the Soviet Union, from various regions of Africa and Latin America, the brief public art of the Popular Unity period in Chile, so-called "primitive" art, "abstract" art, and the current genre of visual and literary art offered by this country's women's movement, etc.

In the early 60's Ghana Kwame Nkrumah's leadership and Algeria hosted cultural-political conferences. "Che" Guevara and Frantz Fanon met at this time in Africa and Guevara personally saw to it that Fanon's writings reached Cuba to be translated for the first time from the French. Fanon, born in Martinique, participant in the Algerian War for Independence, psychiatrist, intellectual and playwright saw culture as an integral component to the development of society. From "The Wretched of the Earth" in the essay, "On National Culture," Fanon lays out stages of revolutionary cultural development for a people winning over oppression: "...the progress of national consciousness among the people modifies and gives precision to the literary utterances of the native intellectual. The continued cohesion of the people constitutes for the intellectual an invitation to go further than a cry of protest. The lament first makes the indictment; and then it makes an appeal. In the period that follows, the words of command are heard. The crystallization of the national consciousness will both disrupt literary styles and themes, and also create a completely new public. While at the beginning the native intellectual used to produce work to be read exclusively by the oppressor, whether with the intention of charming him or of denouncing him through ethnic or subjectivist means, now the native writer progressively takes on the habit of addressing one's own people." He continues, "....It is a literature of combat, because it molds the national consciousness, giving it form and contours and flinging open before it new and boundless horizons; it is a literature of combat because it assumes responsibility, and because it is the will to liberty expressed in terms of time and space." In another essay, "The Role of the Intellectual in Independent Africa" ("The Africa Reader: Independent Africa, Cartney and Kilson, Eds.), Fanon writes of the artists linking history and people to their work, but most importantly he speaks of acts: "Our legitimacy resides in our wholehearted participation in our people's struggle for freedom....in the end, there is one equestion which no person of culture can avoid, whatever one's country or race. That question is: 'What sort of world are you building for us?' "



The contribution, in "Writing in Cuba Since the Revolution", relate to Guevara's and Fanon's concepts for the twenty-first century, and for now, in making a revolution. That is, they function. From the biographical notes provided by Salkey, we learn that the authors are revolutionaries, activists, cultural workers, instructors and artists.

Various poems, like much of the revolutionary literature from Latin America. are dedicated to individuals. Individuals are commemorated as symbols of the sacrifices and strengths needed to make a revolution. So, the heroic from Vietnam, Angola, Chile, Harlem, or Guatemala may be cited. Throughout Cuba, most schools are named after the heroic from around the world. In "I Haven't Forgotten You," Belkis Cuza Male speaks to Luis Augusto Turcios Lima. He had been trained in U.S. counterinsurgency only to return to Guatemala to become a guerillero. He was assassinated in the late 60's. Her memorial to him is "But I refuse you, as a visitor. I refuse to set up a cross, in your name, and keep watch over it, and allow the news agencies to forget about you."

There is a preponderance of "we's" as opposed to the first person among these selections. Fayad Jamis writes "For this liberty, so like an open sunflower, at dawn, for the light in our schools and factories, for the startling earth and for our alert children, we must give everything."

We can laugh with the satire and ponder the reference from "The Militant Angel" by Orlando Aloma, "...He was, what you might call, a pre-pubescent angel, with not even peach fuzz in the two or three required places."

There is Domingo Alfonso's "People Like Me," that states the truth of the matter as to who really takes things in hand during a revolution — "People like me, with a nose, with eyes, with marital troubles, who take buses, one day, quite suddenly, slip underground, unnoticed."

Cuba's beloved poet, Nicolas Guillen, who wrote of the revolution before 1959, who was Black before Black Power and who is both tender and decidedly proletarian — militantly so — has the honored first few pages. Corresponding to one of the first acts of the Cuban Revolution, the Agrarian Reform Law of 1959, he writes, "I'm coming to crack your fangs, to take back what's mine,..." From "Che Commandante" we get a sense of the tremors that Che Guevara put in motion and also of the motive for his murder, "...they couldn't love you." Guillen unfurls Che's image, "...secure in weaponry and the word, churning the wind and prising the slow-opening rose."

The bourgeois "twentieth century godess" is dealt with by Luis Suardiaz who comments in his poem, "Witness For The Prosecution," "I believe she left about 1961," and in another stanza, "She was a symbol of a straightforward, mechanical way of life, a certain social type, who consumed an expensive snack at about a quarter to three every afternoon."

The short stories smoulder with life cycle themes. In "The Seed" the reader follows the course of human lives as they intertwine with the planting of a peach seed in a Saigon prison cell before liberation. In "The Philanthropist" the writer sketches another sort of imprisonment involving Eduardo who seeks from Coco one million and Coco who wishes to earn hatred from those he helps. Coco has made money the factor that most influences his life's course. The story's main motif is indicated by this statement from Coco: "A man who has one hundred million can afford to forget the Bible. I wish to do unto others what I do not wish for myself. I wish, for example, to have you spend many years copying a stupid phrase." The story, "Soldier Eloy" delivers a stern ironic lesson by way of the life cycle of a recruit into Batista's army. Eloy experiences remorse until he quickly reaches the point of heeding only his uniform and pay cheque. Remanence of human feeling makes him a target for those who have successfully expunged everything but loyalty to the uniform and cheque from their minds and sentiments. Other stories are vivid examples of how class perspective dictates outlook. In Victor Agostini's "Pepe," a t.v.-watching couple (only the bourgeoisie owned t.v.'s in 1959), passively observes the transformation of Cuba in its first days, how "bearded men" turned things upside down.

The works are alive. They avoid succumbing to the fate that is inevitable for much of what is available to us, with what is being sold in bookstores, "to be submitted, as Marx would say, to the devastating criticisms of moths and mice...." (From Fidel Castro's "Intellectual Property," the last essay in this book.)

Every piece is direct, is committed, and, has purpose. Short of a visit to Cuba, if one is apt not only to have to deal with the new year but also with a new day, "Writing in Cuba Since the Revolution" can provide such a briefing.

Andrew Salkey, who has written five novels, seven children's novels, a volume of short stories, two travel journals, film and radio scripts, poetry and edited eight anthologies, has a fine eye and a keen ear for literature. We can appreciate his efforts in compiling this representative anthology. For anyone curious about or dedicated to twenty-first century literature, that person can send for the catalog listing other titles published by Bogle-L'Ouverture Publications Limited.

★ Sources

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

rocks and was still hoping the rocks would be mine. But that mother-fucking Phil bastard got me fired and I left town the day after Christmas quicker than you can say "luminaria."

Hey now don't say I didn't give you more than you bargained for by spilling Albuquerque turkey all over this piece ostensibly about poetry and five-year plan Tupperware parties, especially since I will spare you the gory details of the Albuquerque high school dance band scene circa 1973. Hey, don't thank me, thank yourself. You're with it so far.

Albuquerque spawned some good lines. "Working Man," "Angie," and a wonderful ditty I called "Whoajack Rhyme": (excerpted)

"I hate to put my brush in the paint
thinner
I hate to put my brush in the paint
thinner
I hate to put my brush in the paint thinner
But I do it anyway

I'd hate to be a steer if you were the skinner
You'd cut me right up and have me for your dinner
I'd hate to be a steer if you were the skinner
But you'd cut me up anyway

©1973 M.H.L.

That, of course, is a singalong.

Anyone reading this far is a masochist or a literary genius. I gave up two columns ago.

In a multi-phased year away from the university, Albuquerque was phase one. Phase two saw my return to the greater Boston area. What can I say? After a 60-hour ride on a Greyhound living largely on dope brownies and the mutual wit of my buddy Zake (thanks for the ride, buddy) I was thrust into an ageing and restless Northeast U.S. of A. in the throes of Winter and an oil embargo. I knew that there would be only one way to beat that line at the filling station. I took a job as a delivery driver out of Boston. Had a company credit card, and the company's regular station down the block always had gas for commercial accounts. My Econoline and I drove the limit. What the hell, I knew my way around all over Eastern Mass. and the boys in the warehouse cautioned me against returning too soon. After all, we were having a recession, and there weren't many deliveries to be made; if I came in too soon I'd have to work in the warehouse. It was a dusty fucking warehouse and given the fact that I'm allergic to those pesky little grains getting glued to my nose hairs, I decided I was long overdue for a massive three month crash program on the history and development of urban, suburban and countryside Massachusetts, east of Marlboro. That truck and I went the limit alright. Many days I would run a free taxi from Salem State College to Boston and points between. Spring storms found me by the rocks in Gloucester or Nahant writing profusely of the depths of whatever can possibly have depth—the sea, the earth, my mind, that beautiful young woman...

"The rain was hard and cold on my body and the wind swept right through me
But the fishermen know that the fish are bitin'
I wanna take that feeling home with me
I wanna take that feeling home

©1974 M.H.L.

I guess it was a deep dark depressed existence then; certainly creative for a directionless "poet" with nothing to lose.

Then at one point I did come close to losing it—my marbles, that is. But that is a secret story, of course, that deals with dreams and Dylan and funerals and ghastly bloody highway accidents; fortunately the last dream did not come true. It was the only one that didn't...

Phase three landed me in Cleveland, Ohio. It was crafty old Dennis at his tricks again. "Hey kid come out here, got some good reefer." It was a gig working for the election of the not exactly hip or funky spaceman John Glenn. I will spare the details of that dirty campaign, but I did smoke some great reefer. This seemingly was Cleveland's Great Redeeming Aspect. Now a city with only one G.R.A. is suspect, and Cleveland was guilty. Had there been a war on, the atmosphere would have been brighter. The expanses of wasted structures and painfaced peons was overwhelming. I remember killing time at 3 am with affable Bob Renaud (God bless his sanity) and having the time of our lives laughing in the face of that hellhole of a city. The Flat Iron Restaurant—all the corned beef and cabbage you could eat for $1.50. Deal. Much flatulence ensues.

We lived in plush hotels and had $50 dinners at least three times a week at some heavy-duty eateries. Credit cards and phone calls, too. That's where campaign contributions go. Although I was an office boy and chauffeur (my favorite job), I was proud to be counted amongst the "handful of imported campaigners from Massachusetts that proved instrumental in keying Glenn's victory."

Roadside depression in Massachusetts was creative fuel. Political oppression in Cleveland for one month set me back light years. Not a line worth the valet receipt it was printed on (valet receipts did come in handy when we ran out of papers).

Here's a fresh one:

"Pondering this pandering
I wonder from where comes the gall
That I began to write at alll"

The more I get into it the more it becomes clear that this is not about poetry or writing as much as it might possibly perhaps deal with survival but in that case one must be prepared to fulfill these particular prerequisites: 1) have no goals, no dreams, no loves, no desire. One will do it, thanks.

By the end of a campaign victory vacation in the Springtime Rockies, I was in my head back at the great state U. DON'T WORRY!!! There is nothing that would bore me more than to recapture those thrilling days of deception and trickery that enabled me to slip through the institution relatively unharmed. But in the pinch, when finals arrived during my first term back, and I found myself conveniently flat on my back at the Infirmary with a "spasm" (back, not brain), I wrote two partner-pieces that still rank with my favorites—cold, distant, the haunting hollowness of halfawake mornings on the Great Midway of campus. Those empty stares and running scareds. Shit I was still scared despite my rugged boot camp training in Albuquerque and Cleveland.

"Walking
All alone faces look like stone and me
I'm deep into my silence feel my face reflecting pain my head-empty
what has happened to the sun
I better change
I better look ahead
instead I run"

©1974 M.H.L.

It is New Year's Day 1975. I awaken at the scene of one motherfucker of a party that could boast of smashed walls, ripped-out bathroom tiles and completely bazooey antics by throngs of wild-eyed degenerates. All in a three bedroom Cape. But I'm not here to defend the practices of my fellow body-abusers. I'm not into bragging about more wasted-than-thou conditions either. I'm on a more serious subject here, namely the art of summoning creative juices to be

TURN TO PAGE 11

"The Place that made Amherst Famous"
OLE
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
SANDWICHES & SNACKS
"THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN"
85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548

Hatch Bar
Student Union Building
The Great Pretenders
Thurs., Feb. 9
$1.50 cover
Roomful of Blues
(one night only)
Sat., Feb. 11
$2 cover

---

Multi-media "Excursions" into dance

Excursions: A Dance Concert in Two Acts by Andrea Watkins

viewed by REBECCA ADAMS

*tist: One who professes and practices an
' in which conception and execution are verned by imagination and taste.*

Merriam-Webster didn't know Andrea atkins when they wrote this definition, t it fits her to a 'T'. She proved herself a ily adept artist this past weekend with her cursions: A Dance Concert in Two Acts.
aged at Bowker Auditorium on February 3,4 Excursions was a delight to the nses.

Based on Andrea's own experiments into e use of different media, the works very ten combined spoken voice, song or etry with dance. We had a chance to ew Shakespeare's Juliet, Emilia and Lady ne in a different light as they were made come alive with movement. Juliet was o springy for a star-crossed lover and dy Anne was too jumpy for a body ught with sorrow at her father's funeral.

"Waltzes," with music by Johannes ahms, was delightful as we shared a oonlit summer night with two young vers and their friends. Andrea was loreable as the "sweet young thing" try-g to decide if "he loves me or he loves me ot," while her beau tries vainly to speed her decision.

Spoken voice and dance, with a heaping spoonful of fun, were the ingredients for "Mountains and Molehills." Andrea's performers showed a great versatility throughout the show, but Michelle Taylor deserves some extra credit for this piece. She is very comfortable on stage both as a dancer and actress and her bright personality added even more dimensions to the mountains Andrea had built.

"Paying My Dues to All Those Shows That Paid All Those Bills" (whew!) was a debt repaid, as the title suggests, that was to bring us back to the days when Andrea was working her way through graduate school. Set in a Paris cafe, Andrea was hysterical as a misplaced, disillusioned young girl in a faraway city. The effect of seeing Andrea dancing with an iron and harassing the other customers was a riotous treat.

"Poppy petals fall softly and quietly when they're ready." These delicate words were the lead-in for "Haiku" dance set to poetry. Anthony Crescione improvised the Japanese music as the dancers produced a lovely study in sustained and romantic movement.

Andrea never ceased to amaze, and in her next piece, "White Stone," she shared with us a friend's personal search for the right path in life. While Andrea sang, Peggy Atkinson danced amid an abstract sculpture which was to suggest the intense for self. It was a moving piece, very imaginative and well-danced by Peggy.

"Skimming" with music by Antonio Vivaldi, was another fun piece, in four parts. The third part (my favorite), "For All Of Us With Sweepers" swept us right off our feet with its crazy antics. Believe it or not, one dancer flitted around littering the stage while the others devised a way to clean it up. It was a futile effort, though, as the trash kept piling up and finally they gave up! Has Andrea ever thought of doing tragicomedy?

As sole choreographer of the whole work, Andrea showed an amazing flexibility and diversity of talent and displayed her gifts as dramatic actress, singer, comedienne, and of course as danseuse. Excursions was a personal evening, touching many emotions, and this writer would like to thank Andrea for sharing it with us.

NOW—AREA PREMIERE AT TWO LOCAL THEATRES!
An all too human comedy.
Pardon Mon Affaire
PG
AMHERST Cinema
Eves—7:00 & 9:00
Sat/Sun Mat. 5:00
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton
eves—7:00 and 9:00
ends tues—both theatres

Get it on your chest.
Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call
FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060
(413) 584-2124
Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3439

THE TOWERING INFERNO
C.C.A.
6:30 SAT.
9:00 11:30

Evolution.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
THURS., FEB. 9
LUNA
also
BAILEY BROS.
FRI. and SAT., FEB. 10 and 11
CLEAN LIVING
also TEX LaMOUNTAN
and
PAT DeCOU
EVERY SUNDAY
GEORGE T. GREGORY
EVERY MONDAY
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
DIAL 'M' FOR MURDER
PLUS BUGS BUNNY CARTOONS
SAT., FEB. 11, 1978
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
6:30, 9:00 & 11:30 p.m.

CONTEMPORARY DANCE SYSTEM
"top-notch modern dancers The company has rich potential" —DANCE Magazine
"CDS has brilliantly succeeded in mounting works from the modern repertoire" —THE NEW YORK TIMES
KIRBY THEATER
Amherst College
February 10, 11, 12 8 P.M.
Reservations 542-2277 10 AM -5 PM
Admission $2.50 or Amherst College I.D.
FIRST PERFORMANCE IN AMHERST OF ANNA SOKOLOW'S MASTERPIECE, DREAMS

Hatch Bar
Student Union Building
Friday, Feb. 10
8-10
2 for 1 Buds
2 for 1 Powerhouse appearing
ROAD APPLES
$2 cover

MUSIC/Genius, junk, and just-so punk

Eddie And The Hot Rods
Life On The Line
Island
The Damned
Music For Pleasure
Stiff (import)
The Jam
This Is The Modern World
Polydor

Reviewed by PHILIP MILSTEIN

Each of the above bands were among the first of the British new wavers to place an album in the record-buying market. Now they are also among the first with follow-up LPs. And the verdict is: one win, one loss, and one tie.

First, the win. There must be something behind the fact that both of Eddie And The Hot Rods' first two album covers display a young man in the midst of a suicide attempt. There must be something behind it; just what, I don't know. I do know that I seemed to be alone among those voicing their opinions to have actually liked The Rods' debut album, Teenage Depression. A good dance record at best, they said. A good dance record as well as a good listening record, I said.

I don't see how anyone who is really listening could deny that Life On The Line is a great listening record, however. Opening with a short church organ thing, which leaps into the perhaps naive but nevertheless masterful angst anthem Do Anything You Wanna Do, Life On The Line never lets up. Propelled by Steve Nicol's machine-gun drumming and Graeme Douglas' electro-shock guitar leads it runs breathlessly from song to song, songs about leaving town and then coming back again, songs about the crossroads one's life reaches at around age 20, high school behind them, a hazy future ahead. No longer a teen, but still an adolescent. This is an album for a long-neglected generation, and I'm glad this is the album we can call our own.

The loss. The Damned's first record, Damned Damned Damned, was coincidentally one more album that I was the only one to like. Once more, however, I don't think I will be alone in my opinion of Music For Pleasure, their second. It stinks. Their are two good tracks—the first two on each side—but they are available on a single. Each of the remaining "tunes" (I use the term liberally) sits in one's mind like dining commons' shrimp sits in one's stomach. The production, by the horribly miscast Nick Mason, drummer for Pink Floyd, is twice as muddy as on Damned Damned Damned, the playing is totally yecch, the vocals totally blah. Worst of all, you can hardly dance to it. Apart from those two songs, the only other good thing I can squeeze out of Music For Pleasure is that it's loud. And that's not enough.

The tie. The Jam scored big both critically and (in the UK)commercially with In The City, replete with its Who-like power chords, captivating hooks and mature outlook. With This Is The Modern World the same formula is used (despite some regression, lyrically speaking) but there are enough subtle embellishments to keep it far from being a rehash of their debut. This is a band that is going places, a group with enough talent and originality to still be kicking around and coming up with quality material a dozen years from now. Just like you-know-Who.

The Jam are one of the few bands in that nebulous genre most call "British new wave" that I feel rate that prediction. Further thoughts on the development of the vanguard and the masses of the "B.n.w." must await further developments (i.e. "What's up with the Pistols?"). I hope for the best, but am pessimistic about it.

White's elegance delights

Barry White
Springfield Civic Center Concert

Reviewed by RANDY GLENN

Last Thursday night, February 2, in the Springfield Civic Center, a near capacity crowd enjoyed a musically intimate evening with Maestro Barry White, Love Unlimited and the Love Unlimited Orchestra.

The concert was presented in three parts with the Love Unlimited Orchestra, under the skilful direction of Mr. Marvin Roberts, as the opening act. Mr. Roberts' adept conducting, as well as his rhythmic "body language", evoked oo-oo's and ah's from the audience. The orchestra performed such hits as Rhapsody in White, Barry's Theme, and Summer Suite. They served merely as the warm-up for Love Unlimited.

Diane Taylor, Glodean White (wife of Barry), and Linda James form the vivacious triad of sensuous sirens known as Love Unlimited. They opened their set with We've Finally Made It from the In Heat LP. However, it was their gold record, Walking in the Rain With the One I Love, that got the reaction from the audience, especially when Barry White began to answer them on that particular cut. This set the stage for the Maestro.

Barry White, after his introduction by DJ Sam-T (WTCC), was received by a standing ovation. He returned the compliment by dedicating his first song, Can't Get Enough of Your Love, as he did most of his selections, to the audience. The Maestro went right to work as he sung about three more songs before heading to his piano. He then played his first big hit, I'm Gonna Love You a Little More. The Maestro, as he is known, only conducted the Love Unlimited Orchestra once, but he couldn't have picked a better time nor a more appropriate song, his biggest hit, Love's Theme. At one point he spoke quite intimately with the audience as he spoke of his beliefs, he said, and I agree, "We have tried every way possible of attaining peace. We've tried war, economic manipulation...but we haven't tried Love. And that's what Barry White's all about, LOVE!"

I left with a deeper understanding and appreciation for his music, but of more significance, I could understand and respect him as an individual and an artist.

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30
MATINEES EVERYDAY
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
PG STAR WARS
THE GAUNTLET R
The Goodbye Girl PG
IT'S THE WORLD'S GREATEST GAME (AND IT SURE AIN'T FOOTBALL.)
"SEMI-TOUGH" R
United Artists
The GENE WILDER is WORLD'S GREATEST LOVER PG
A TRUE LOVE STORY
THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN PART 2 PG
The Turning Point
A story of envy, hatred, friendship, triumph, and love.
PG
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

The Mercantile in the Carriage Shops
Amherst
ROOM DECOR
Tremendous selection of Posters
Valentine Gifts

Program Council Films
presents
To Kill A Mockingbird 7 &
To Sir With Love 9:15
Fri., Feb. 10 $1.00
CCA

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film
HARLOW-HAYWORTH
PLATINUM BLONDE
and
IT'S TECHNICOLORFUL!
Cover Girl
A MERRY, MAD, MAGICAL MUSICAL!
starring RITA HAYWORTH GENE KELLY
Blonde 9:05 Cover 7 p.m.
27 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-0935

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
① GEORGE BURNS · JOHN DENVER
Is it Funny! "Oh, God!"
ENDS TUES.
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30
② CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:00
③ CLINT EASTWOOD THE GAUNTLET
FINAL WEEK
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:15
④ "SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Program Council Films
presents
King of Hearts
starring: Alan Bates
Thurs., Feb. 9 — 7, 8:45 & 10 — $1.00
C.C.A.

MONTY PYTHON AND THE HOLY GRAIL
Movie will be held SUB
PG
FROM CINEMA 5
TIMES: 6:30, 8:15, 10, 11:45

Ponderingthe future of abstract film

Abstract Film and Beyond
Malcolm LeGrice
M.I.T. Press $12.50

Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

When I finally decided to sit down and share some thoughts about Malcolm LeGrice's new book and contemporary American abstract film in general, I wanted to create an atmosphere suitable for the task. So here I sit wearing a pair of my oldest, patched Levis and colorfully embroidered, western, denim shirt, laboring as my room slowly fills with jasmine insence while Hendrix's "Purple Haze" blares from my stereo's speakers.

Abstract cinema has never really been a popular art form, but it certainly has always had a following primarily composed of filmakers and others interested in the art. Recently, the number of people actively concerned with this sector of cinema has fallen considerably. In America, the abstract movement of the past ten years has been led primarily by filmakers working on the west coast, most notably in San Francisco. This became a reality with the publishing of books such as Gene Youngblood's Expanded Cinema and of course it's hand-in-hand expression of the inward contemplating, Eastern philosophy-influenced, psychedelic, acid culture which flourished there. Nowadays, this state of mind and lifestyle has reached a dead-end, only burnt remnants remain. I will now gladly shout, "Abstract Cinema dedicated to only so-called Cosmic Consciousness is finally dead!" American abstract film, as with other arts, has now reached a major transitional stage, filmakers wonder about where to turn. LeGrice's book, Abstract Film and Beyond, should give the wonderers some hope and direction which was always there in front of them anyway.

Abstract Film and Beyond is a historical analysis of abstract cinema from its beginning. The book starts with an explanation of impressionist and cubist painting and the way they revolutionized the perception of the world. It's explained how the early DaDa-ists and futurists used this tradition in the cinema. Incorporating movement, cinematography was seen as a logical extension of older art forms such as painting and photography.

Thus begins LeGrice's march through time as he traces the development of abstract film. He examines the work of 20's filmakers Richter, Ruttmann and Man Ray amongst others. He pays particular attention to Leger and a "new realism," whose Ballet Mechanique (1924) and its people machinery relationships paved the way for Chaplin's tramp stuck in the gears scene in Modern Times some ten years later. And, of course, there's a chapter entitled Filmdrama is the Opiate of the Masses dedicated to one of film history's most slighted abstract filmakers Dziga Vertov. LeGrice tells of this Soviet who worked at the same time as Eisenstein using similar editing techniques, but with a venomous contempt for the filmdrama. Vertov was one of the first to realize one of the major traditions of abstract cinema, that is, that there is a relationship between the film's form and the audience's thought patterns and reactions.

This following of development continues to the present, thus creating an insightful historical picture. The west coast expanded cinema freaks clearly are just a tiny portion of the historical development with their mind probing cinema, and LeGrice questions their success (so do I). In the end, the book shows us that innovation in film form has no boundaries, dialectically growing forever. (This is exemplified by the recent projection as event movement, in which both projection and the audience viewing of the movie are considered to be part of the film.) But also, LeGrice tells filmakers that even abstract film is a realist art form dedicated to extending perception and creating new thought through innovations in film form.

Abstract Film and Beyond is an insightful book and should shake some of those lost, wandering, west coast mystics back to reality. Let's face it, they have all the images of the natural world and more to work with. So, I guess that I will take off these clothes and save them for Halloween 1993. Maybe I'll put on my new cords and hand-knitted sweater while I listen to some Bob Marley or Elvis (Costello). Then maybe I can think about where we go from here.

★ Sources

CONT. FROM PAGE 8

electrically amplified by nerve messages onto a page in a manner loosely resembling an art form that is called poetry. An artform matched in difficulty-of-execution only by an attempt to define it.

So it is New Year's Day 1975, so what? I'll tell you what. That's just three years ago. Now, I can see recapitulating tales of five years ago as ancient history worth reliving. And I can appreciate the recounting of exploits four years old, to a lesser extent. But three years, three years is like yesterday; almost too fresh in memory to be distorted in the proper manner by lapses of recall and forgotten occurrences. So the jig ends here, kids. The poems still ooze out, seeking daylight and truth, but they have yet to curdle under the tests of time.

"BLUES"

II
"Driving down the highway
the road just slippin' by Driving' down the highway
the road just slippin' by Time don't got no meanin' and neither do I."

©1974 M.H.L

A writer is his own worst critic, and although that may lead to creative revisionism, it also necessarily incurs self-doubt. Now who needs that? I write about my problems, my women, my victories and defeats and there's enough self-doubt within the body of the work to fill a silo. So what have I—doubts about writing, doubts about doubts! My problems with sex are like my problems with writing: I'm afraid I will run out of descriptive phrases and connecting passages.

My point here centers around stimulus change. Oh, you didn't see it that way? That's why I'm telling you. Okay? Check.

Stimulus change. I move around. Write best when I'm down in a place I don't know much about. But only once—I can't go back to Cleveland and capture the thing I only had one chance to get. Thank God. Obviously a writer thrives on changing input and stimuli. Show me a writer that can sit in a white room for his whole life and still have something poignant to say, and I'll find a way to plug his brain into a TV screen. You got to change, meet people, crazies like yourself, and mostly those not like yourself. But don't try to live everyone's life. Just report the facts as you see them. If you see puffy green clouds and amoeba-shaped wolves waiting for table service at a cafeteria, by all means let someone know!

When he isn't coaxing cosmic messages from the apples at the People's Market, Mark Levitan sits on a local mountain and counts rods and fathoms.

Film flu 'fever' rages

Saturday Night Fever: Produced by Robert Stigwood
Directed by John Badham
Starring John Travolta
and Karen Lynn Gorney

Reviewed by GERARD HALLAREN JR.

This was not a film that I wanted to see, but somehow I was forced to go. Fortunately, to my satisfaction, and pleasure, the film was tremendous. I left the theater thinking that John Travolta is a brilliant young actor and that Hollywood can still make movies in the old style.

The film centers around John Travolta and his attainment of adulthood. He plays a 19 year old hardware clerk who can dance. He is supported by three friends, an assortment of disco ladies and his Italian-Catholic family. Opposite Mr. Travolta is Karen Lynn Gorney of daytime television fame. Her role in the film is to help Mr. Travolta along the way while she tries to advance socially and culturally to the level of the sophistacates who work at the advertising agency where she is also employed. She and Travolta come together after he drops his dance partner for the big contest.

It must be understood that the film operates on the understanding that characters believe that the discotheque is the nearest thing on earth to utopia. 2001, the club where much of the action takes place, is housed in a dirty white concrete block building. Inside, however, it is another story. 2001 is all glamor and tinsel right down to the bottom-lit dance floor where Mr. Travolta weaves his magic. Outside the club is another world. This world is a startling and forceful maze of action. Ms. Gorney aptly states: "don't say it, do it." It is in this, the real world, that John Travolta must face his role in society and emerge as a full person.

In many respects the film works much like an old Bogart film with the Disco as the backdrop instead of a war or crime story. Photography and camera work are smooth and of a higher quality than expected in a film of this nature. The all-disco soundtrack is currently #1 on the charts and is one of the best parts of the film. Being an avowed disco hater, I found the music to be dynamic, very listenable and of course, danceable. The movie on the whole was excellent and well worth seeing.

IBM NEEDS OUTSTANDING PEOPLE

And we can offer outstanding career opportunities to those majoring in Marketing, Engineering, Computer Science or Physics. We will be interviewing at

The University of Massachusetts
on February 13, 1978

To find out about IBM and let us find out about you, sign up for an interview at the Placement Office or write to: W.A. Dickert, Corporate College Relations Manager,
IBM Corporation,
99 Church Street
White Plains, NY 10601.

IBM
An Equal Opportunity Employer

Calendar

music

February 10

Senior recital with Catherine Remus on piano, at Sage Hall, Smith, 8 p.m.

February 11

Jean-Pierre Rampal on flute and Robert Veyran-LaCroix on keyboard at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. 8 p.m. Tickets available at box office 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Smith College Glee Club and the Lehigh University Glee Club, conducted by Marguerite Brooks at the John M. Greene Hall, Smith at 3 p.m.

A Gospel Concert featuring the Ebenezer Mass Choic of Fitchburg, the Lawrence Bagwell Choir and the Glory Road Gospel Choir of Springfield, the Carney Special of New Haven, and Voices of the New Africa House of Amherst. Amherst Regional Junior High School at 7 p.m.

February 12

Bach Cantata performed by a and chorus under the direction of James Armstrong. Abbey Chapel, Mount Holyoke at 11 a.m.

Randy Newman at the Fine Arts Center 8 p.m. Tickets on sale at Fine Arts Center Box Office and Ticketron outlets.

A program of Chamber Music by members of the Smith College Department of Music in Sage Hall, Smith at 8 p.m.

February 13

UMass Music Department faculty recital with Jacinthe Couture on piano in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.

February 15

University Music Department "Group for New Music" concert at Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.

February 16

The Barber of Seville, presented by the Canadian Opera Company in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Box office open Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

March 1

Elvis Costello; Willie Alexander Band in the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m.

February 19

Elvin Bishop, Livingston Taylor at the Amherst College Cage.

February 25

Art Garfunkel in Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College at 8 p.m. All tickets purchased for the December 2 concert will be honored for the Feb. 25 appearance.

art

February 10

Last day of "Art Dreco". Student Union Gallery Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Closed Thursday p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Open Tuesday and Thursday 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Opening of Richard Yard's watercolors Smith College Museum of Art. Tuesday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Closed Mondays.

February 13 through 17

Opening of Contemporary French Photography in the large gallery. Photographs by Leigh Svenson in the small gallery, at the Hampshire Library Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"Images from the Industrial Scrapyard" Brendan Stecchini. Herter Art Gallery, Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

February 19

Opening of Guy Ducornet and Rikki's Drawing and Painting Exhibit at Herter Gallery from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Show will run to March 4.

Through February 19

The works of Italian painter Sandro Martini and Greek-American photographer Philip Tsiaras. University Gallery.

Through February 24

"Works of Five Painters" to be shown at the Main Street Center Gallery at 150 Main Street in Northampton. Show features paintings, drawings and sculptures by Charles J. Miller, Shelly Shicoff, Gregory Stone, David Struthers and Richard Yarde. Monday through Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Thursdays until 9 p.m.

February 13 through 24

Exhibition of works by fictional artists Ray Rodrique and Fredrico Fungalini, also Martial Westburg. Student Union Gallery.

Artbus

Bus leaves Campus Center Circle on February 18 at 7 a.m. Bus leaves New York from in front of the Whitney Museum at 6 p.m. Information call 545-0976.

Jean-Pierre Rampal and Robert Veyran-LaCroix will perform at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall February 11. Tickets available at the box office.

theater

February 8 through 11

"New Plays Festival". City Studio Theatre, Northampton. Box office at 584-9334.

February 9, 10, 11

"Viola! Rape in Technicolor", Smith College, Hallie Flanagan Studion 8 p.m., 584-2700 ext. 840 noon to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

One Act plays at the City Studio Theatre, 49 Pearl St., Northampton. "Memories Resolution" by Jim Metzler, directed by Jeffery Deutsch. "Voice Over" by John Staltenberg, directed by Lisa Callaway. "Love Song" by Bob Lehan, directed by Margaret Van Sant. 8 p.m. 584-9334.

"The Flies" by Jean Paul Sartre, at the Performing Arts Center at Hampshire College. Culmination of a 10-day workshop. Conceived and directed as an ensemble, environmental theater project by Clark Brown of Hampshire College. Tickets $2 and $1.50, students. Reservations at 549-4600 ext. 351.

films

February 9

"Battleship Potemkin". Soviet filmmaker Sergei Eisenstein's classic movie of the 1905 Russian Revolution. 7:30 p.m. Room 172 Campus Center.

"King of Hearts". 7, 8:45, 10 p.m. Campus Center Auditorium.

"Singing in the Rain" 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Wright Hall, Smith.

February 10

"Monty Python and the Holy Grail". 6:30, 8:15, 10, and 11:45 p.m. Student Union Ballroom.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" at 7 p.m. and "To Sir With Love" at 9:15 p.m., double feature, Campus Center Auditorium.

"Ninotchka". 7:30 p.m. Mount Holyoke, Gamble Auditorium.

"Small Change". 8 and 10 p.m. Merrill 1, Amherst College.

February 11

"The Towering Inferno" 6:30, 9 and 11:30 p.m. Campus Center Auditorium.

"Dial M for Murder" 6:30, 9 and 11:30 p.m. Student Union Ballroom.

"From Russia With Love" 6:30, 9 and 11:30 p.m. Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke.

"The Trouble With Angels", directed by Ida Lupino, starring Haley Mills. Admission 75 cents. Wright Hall, Smith.

February 11, 12

"Small Change" at 8 and 10 p.m. in Merrill 1, Amherst.

February 13

"Reefer Madness" and the Three Stooges in "Violent is the Word for Curley" in the Campus Center Auditorium at 6:30, 8:15, 9:50 and 11:30 p.m.

February 14

"The Celluloid Closet: Vito Russo" lecture and film clips of the history of the image of the homosexual in cinema. Admission $1 in the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire at 7:30 p.m.

"The Clock" at Gamble Auditorium in Mount Holyoke 9 p.m.

"Walking Tall" 7, 9:15 and 11:30 p.m. in Campus Center Auditorium.

February 15

"Camelot" 7, 10 p.m. Campus Center Auditorium.

"Modern Times", a free movie, starring Charlie Chaplin, in the Forbes Library, Northampton. 7 p.m.

February 16

"The Point" at 7, 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

This week

"Close Encounters of the Third Kind", "The Gauntlet", "Oh God", and "Semi-Tough" Mountain Farms Four Theatres.

Woody Allen Triple Feature—"Sleeper", "Love and Death", and "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex", 6:30, Calvin Theater, Northampton.

"Pardon Mon Affaire". Academy of Music at 7 and 9 p.m.

dance

February 9

Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre. Concert Hall Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m. Also, a Feb. 9 matinee. Box office hours Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ailey tickets

Tickets for the storm-cancelled performance of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater on February 7 may be refunded or exchanged at the Fine Arts Center box office.

Tickets may be exchanged for a matinee or evening performance today, or for the Canadian Opera Company's "Barber of Seville" at the FAC on February 16, or the Merce Cunningham Dance Company's performance March 8.

Refunds can be made at the box office until February 22. The box office is open weekdays 9 A.M. to 4 P.M. at 545-2511.

February 10, 11, 12

Contemporary Dance Systems Annual Repertory Performances in Kirby Memorial Theater, Amherst College. Performance of Anna Sokolow's "Dreams", along with several other pieces. Box office hours from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. or phone 542-2277.

February 13, 14, 15

Bill Evans Dance Company of Seattle, Washington in Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke in Chapin Auditorium at Mount Holyoke College. Tickets $4 general admission and $2.50 students. Box office is 538-2178.

February 15

Israeli Dancing for beginners at 7:30 p.m. and for advanced at 8:30 p.m. Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union.

Ah Yes...
As a young man of vision, my occulatory faculty was never impaired, unless by a nip of grain... medicinal of course! I owe it all to my Optician.

Amherst Optical Shoppe
195 N. PLEASANT ST./256-6403
A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
FASHIONABLE EYEWEAR
CONTACT LENSES/SUPPLIES
HEARING AID CONSULTANTS

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 81 FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

UMass, HEW in accord

By E. PATRICK MCQUAID
Collegian Staff

Major reforms within the University's affirmative action policies are the result of a series of letters sent to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery over the past eight months from the department of Health Education and Welfare according to a source within the administrative upper echelon.

The reforms have been outlined in an 18-page "agreement" between HEW Civil Rights officials in Boston and chief administrators at this campus signed on Jan. 14.

University spokesman Daniel M. Melley confirmed the report that HEW had reprimanded the University but added that the document signed by Bromery and John G. Bynoe, director of the Office for Civil Rights, HEW Region I had "cleared it all up."

The document cited numerous "problem areas" which the Amherst campus must address or risk "irreparable injury."

Chief among these are: recruitment, hiring, training, promotion, and tenure of minority employees and the establishing of a data maintenance and analysis system to internally audit, monitor, and assess the effectiveness of University affirmative action policies.

Affirmative action guidelines are drafted by the federal government in order to provide equal employment opportunity for all, including women and minority groups.

The source said that letters beginning in early June, 1977 cited three areas that the University must either address or jeopardize some $12 million in annual federal research grants.

These areas, according to the source, were the University's failure to adequately monitor the Amherst campus, to assign an individual responsible for overseeing the implementation of federal guidelines, and several complaints from women and Asian faculty concerning salary structure.

The document states "Where corrective action is required, the University must (1) specify the particular actions to be completed including policy modifications required and (2) submit a request for the approval of time frames for completion of corrective action."

It also states that the University has established a select committee to determine whether there has been a sex bias in the University salary structure. The University will also conduct an extensive probe to determine if similar inequities exist between Asian faculty and non-minority faculty.

Should the analysis indicate a salary bias the University will make wage adjustments for the academic year 1977-78 and secure back ages for academic year 1976-77.

The agreement stipulates that the University must conclude its statistical analysis within 60 days, bringing the deadline to March 15.

An organization of female clerical workers at UMass decided Wednesday to charge the University with sex discrimination in hiring practices, however. The 12 to 1 Group said it will present evidence to federal authorities that the University had failed to take "effective measures" to assist qualified female employees for "upward mobility."

The 12 to 1 Group polled 250 female classified employees and found that over 90 per cent desired better jobs but that more than 85 per cent of them had not been given the assistance outlined in the University's 1974 affirmative action guidelines.

Ski conditions throughout New England are reported as excellent. Cross-country skiers will find an abundance of snow and track in the local area. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Boston recovering from snow storm

BOSTON [AP] — The state of emergency in eastern Massachusetts, with the exception of areas on Cape Cod and some other pockets, will remain in effect until 12:01 a.m. tomorrow, Gov. Michael Dukakis announced yesterday.

This means highway driving is banned except for emergency vehicles and that Logan International Airport, New England's largest, will be closed until the ban is lifted.

The governor said stores will be allowed to open on Sunday. However, Dukakis said banks could open today if employees were able to reach work without driving their cars.

The governor lifted the driving and business ban for Worcester, Framingham and several other central Massachusetts communities.

Dukakis said communities wanting to exempt themselves from the ban on driving can call the governor's office and their situation would be handled on an individual basis.

"Of course there will be exceptions," Dukakis said of areas that believe they are in control of their storm recovery.

Dukakis made his announcement at a press conference yesterday afternoon. Earlier in the day, officials of a number of communities announced they were going to defy the ban and ignore Dukakis' declaration of emergency.

"It's totally ridiculous, silly and absurd," said Gardner Mayor Gerald St. Hilaire before the governor's announcement.

"They — the Dukakis administration — don't know that we have cleared our roads, some right down to the bare surface."

It was unclear after the governor's announcement if Gardner remained subject to the emergency declaration.

Boston police threatened unauthorized motorists in the region's largest city with $500 fines if they were caught driving on snow-choked streets.

But in Boston and other communities, thousands in gay skiing outfits frolicked under brilliant sunshine in snowbanked streets clear of vehicular traffic. Cross-country skiers glided down the main street of Concord, not far from historic Old North Bridge, scene of one of the first battles of the American Revolution.

The scene contrasted starkly with the twisted ruins of homes smashed during the heavy storm that struck Monday and continued through Tuesday, driving 10,000 persons into shelters in north and south shore towns surrounding Boston.

Nearly two-thirds of the town of Hull, opposite Boston across Massachusetts Bay, was without power for the fourth day and

TURN TO PAGE 8

Flu sweeps campus; many residents stricken

By BARBARA METZLER
Collegian Staff

One-fourth to one-third of the dormitory residents here at UMass have apparently been stricken with some form of the flu that is sweeping through the campus, according to a Collegian survey. The Collegian contacted heads of residence, dormitory residents, and five-college officials in a random telephone survey yesterday.

In spite of the large number of probable victims, Barry Averill, executive director of University Health Services does not expect the school will close due to illnesses.

"UMass has never closed before," said Averill, "and we've had worse epidemics. This is a milder form that is sweeping through quickly."

Averill said the type of flu cannot be determined until samples sent to the virology lab in Boston are examined. The health service has determined that it is a flu-like virus that generally lasts from 24 to 48 hours. There is no cure, but the University Health Service can offer symptomatic relief, Averill said.

"Most people can handle this themselves," said Averill. "As long as there aren't any complications, they can treat themselves."

Averill suggests that sufferers of this virus, which is characterized by headache, chills, fever, cough, lack of appetite and muscle ache, go to bed for 24 hours. Plenty of rest, fluids, and aspirin are recommended for relief of symptoms.

A heavy, persistent cough with chest pain, puss in the eyes, recurring vomiting or diarrhea, pain in the ears, or a sore throat and fever together may be signs of a more serious problem, said Averill. Health Services recommends people with these symptoms see a doctor. Those with milder symptoms can use the cold self-care center in the infirmary for help.

The virus has apparently hit James House in Southwest harder than any other dormitories, where Head of Residence Kevin Fandel estimates the majority of residents have been sick.

"I'm a victim myself," said Fandel. "I'd say easily two-thirds of the house have been

TURN TO PAGE 8

Inside

Feminist speaker Andrea Dworkin charges she has been intimidated by the UMass Distinguished Visitors Program, which cancelled her speech. See page 3.

Acting Provost Jeremiah Allen outlines his goals to the Faculty Senate, which adopts an ethics code. See page 6.

Former chancellor of UMass-Boston, Carlo L. Golino, says the campus has to change its programs to survive. See page 2.

Weather

Clear, cold, consistent.

Add-drop period extended one day until February 14.

Former Boston chancellor reflects

Golino forecasts 'rough seas'

By E. PATRICK McQUAID
Collegian Staff

"There is no question that the identity problem for this campus has been a very difficult one."

— Carlo L. Golino
retired UMass Boston chancellor

A legislative subcommittee is continuing to investigate the shady circumstances under which the University's Boston campus was born. But while maturing over the past four and a half years a tempest has been brewing between faculty and administrators within the massive brick fortress at Columbia Point.

Carlo L. Golino, 64, spent his final day at the helm Jan. 31 and he forecasts rough seas ahead for both the University and public higher education in this state.

"I have come to a feeling of great peace at this point," he said, reflecting on the turmoil that prompted his decision to resign last November. "There has been a difference of opinion develop between the direction the University is taking, the direction that higher education is going, and my own sense of what I ought to be doing. It's become somewhat strenuous."

Dr. Golino came to the University in 1973 from the University of California at Riverside where he was senior Vice Chancellor. He became the third chancellor for the Boston campus but was the first to officiate at the Harbor site. Almost immediately Golino ran head-on with his faculty and then University President Robert C. Wood concerning the academic "directions" that the campus should be taking.

Golino has been a headstrong advocate of developing a formal graduate studies program at the Boston campus, strengthening the liberal arts within the undergraduate program, and insisting on faculty conducting academic research.

"I came here, I was 60 years old, with a whole career behind me," he said. "They knew what I represented. To put it very bluntly, why the hell did they ask me to come? Why, if I wasn't supposed to do the things that I wanted to do?

"If I had been told in 1973," he continued, " 'we don't want to develop a graduate program, we are not interested in developing a university campus,' well, I would have said 'Thank you very much, but I am not interested in coming here!' "

Wedged in between a number of private and state schools, Golino says that UMass Boston should "provide an education for people who do not have the financial means to go to private schools within the city. "But," he points out, "there has to be a difference in what UMass-Boston does and what Boston State does. We don't want to compete, we don't want to be repetitive either."

Golino recalls a time when "good grades" at a state college in any state insured entry into graduate school with financial aid. But he says today it is difficult for the "solid B-plus" student to make these advances.

"Where do you go," he queries, "into debt? You have to give up the idea of graduate school unless there is an institution, true to its commitment to give a first-class education at the undergraduate level that also gives them the opportunity of upward mobility all-the-way. What I'm saying is that we need graduate work on this campus if we are to survive as a university campus."

He says that he would not propose graduate work in fields that are already "overloaded" but rather in disciplines particular to Boston. He suggested a program focusing on aging: "Not just gerentology but aging in relation to city life. It's quite different in the context of the city as compared to the rural. If you die on a farm in Iowa, I think it's quite different than dying in a tenement house in Boston. It's an area which I am sure needs to be developed."

Golino said he was in favor of a program employing faculty researchers and graduate students to do ecological, archeological, and botanical work on the Boston Harbor islands.

"There are areas today in which knowledge is being uncovered, in relation particularly to an urban institution that needs to be explored."

An education, says Golino, is an education regardless of where the student obtains his degree. "The difference is the manner in which you present the education. The people who come to partake of an urban education have different backgrounds but the education obtained when these kids get out of this campus should compare to that of any other institution."

"Liberal arts!" he said throwing up his hands. "Liberal arts, liberal arts! My feeling is that we ought to insist on it. I guess this is where I run a-foul of a lot of other people."

Upgrading undergraduate teaching is a prime responsibility of the faculty and administration at UMass-Boston, says Golino. He said that in the past students had been "seduced" into believing the University would provide them with a job after graduation.

Golino says that there has to be a major commitment on the part of the legislature, the central administration (the University President's Office) and the faculty in particular to improve public higher education.

"It can't go on the way it is," he said. "It's wasteful and it's unproductive." He says he does not sense any such commitment coming out of the governor's office.

"I think the Governor has a very, to put it charitably, indifferent attitude toward public higher education. I am disappointed he feels that way."

He cited Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' hostile attitude toward the construction of the Kennedy Library at the UMass-Boston campus and his interference with the building of a gymnasium there as evidence.

"The opportunity for UMass-Boston to secure these things has been so very real," he said, "so vivid that I would have expected him to support them and I was greatly disappointed."

Former UMass Boston Chancellor Carlo L. Golino (Photo by Debbie Schafer)

In all his years of teaching, says Golino, "the only few good ideas I've ever had in my field I've had in the classroom while talking with my students."

He attributes this to two things: — first a commitment on his part to know his area and to communicate with his students rather than lecture at them — and second his commitment to update his knowledge by reading current academic journals, and by conducting what he calls "scholarship."

"Today scholarship is not very popular, I'm sorry to say. If scientists did not do scholarship and research we would not have many of the things we have today such as advances in asthma and diabetes. And it's the same in literature, economics, or politics. It stimulates new ideas."

The faculty at UMass-Boston are divided on the idea of investing their time and energy into research and maintaining their teaching responsibilities without pay adjustments.

"The faculty today are divided on many issues," responds Golino. "The old idea of scholarship in the past has been abused and there has been some very strong backlash to it. I think they were perfectly justified but on the other hand we can't go too far in that direction. We have to bring it back to a perspective where scholarship is not measured by the pound but by what you have said in your paper no matter its length."

He said many of his faculty did not see the "rewards of scholarship and teaching forth-

TURN TO PAGE 13

. . . newslines . . .

Former Provost Puryear carefully decides plans

Former Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Paul L. Puryear yesterday said he believes he was fired suddenly in an attempt to get him to hastily decide his plans for this semester.

Puryear said he has decided to carefully choose among his options while he remains here this semester as a professor in the W.E.B. Dubois Afro-American department.

He also said he and his lawyer have been discussing possible legal action in his dismissal. He was fired by Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery early last month after a dispute with nine of the academic deans.

— JOE QUINLAN

Bromery seeks help to form provost search

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery yesterday sent a letter to various campus governance groups to ask their help in forming a 12-member search committee to choose a new provost for UMass.

Bromery, who plans to appoint five of the members, wants the Faculty Senate to appoint five members, and the Student Government Association and the Graduate Student Senate to each appoint one member.

Jeremiah M. Allen has been acting provost since Bromery fired Paul L. Puryear last month after a dispute between Puryear and nine of the academic deans.

— LEO PELOQUIN

Flu postpones meeting; bus funding is subject

The flu sweeping across the UMass campus has delayed until next week the meeting between student government leaders and University officials about the funding of the UMass bus system.

The meeting was scheduled for Tuesday, but postponed when school was shut down due to the snow storm. The flu has struck some of the student government officials, causing the second postponement.

Student leaders want the student government share of the bus funding to be 70 per cent of the university allocation because they contend students also contribute to the parking office funds, which are used for the faculty and administration share of the funding.

University leaders first proposed a 85-15 ratio for funding, but are now leaning toward placing a fee on the students' semester bill.

— JOE QUINLAN

Students favor rhetoric offered in Southwest

Southwest students enrolled in the rhetoric courses of the residential college there consider rhetoric their favorite course while students taking other rhetoric courses do not, according to a recently completed survey.

TURN TO PAGE 9

Today's Staff

Issue Editor J.R.

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Helen Berg |
| News Desk | Joe Quinlan |
| Copy Editors | Laura Kenney, Rita Zeidner |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dave Rodgers |
| Sports Desk | Walt Cherniak, Ellen Davis, Mike Smolens |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Ad Layout | Liz Lebow |
| Motivation | Sandra K. Warbleton |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Feminist feels intimidated by DVP

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

Feminist Lecturer Andrea Dworkin yesterday charged she was intimidated by the Student Activities Office and the Distinguished Visitors Program who cancelled her scheduled appearance on campus yesterday.

Dworkin said program co-Chairperson Mary Jude Dean misrepresented herself while trying to obtain information about the lecturer and that the Student Activities Office intruded and threatened her rights.

"It's an incredible outrage to find out that people are chasing around after you when you don't know why or what they want," she said. "It's both an intrusion and a threat, and I think it's meant as a threat. The Student Activities Office has no right whatsoever to any information about my activities or income, and no one has a right to pose and lie to get information on me," Dworkin said.

Catherine A. MacKinnon, a Yale University women's studies and political science professor, said yesterday she received a "questionable inquiry" about Dworkin from Dean. MacKinnon said Dean misrepresented herself as someone from a group that "was considering inviting Dworkin to speak." The program voted earlier to secure Dworkin for $1000.

Dworkin said DVP should not be trying to obtain information about her activities from sources other than her representative, John Stoltenberg.

Stoltenberg said, "clearly a DVP co-chairperson, in collusion with the Student Activities staff, has attempted by stealth to scare up some more so-called new evidence against Dworkin — as if she were on trial."

Dean confirmed calling MacKinnon and that such a conversation is "pretty much routine." She added, "It depends on what information we already have about the speaker. I felt that not all of the information previously given to me about Dworkin was in factual form; that some of it was slanted."

> 'Clearly, a DVP co-chairperson, in collusion with the Student Activities staff, has attempted by stealth to scare up,... new evidence against Dworkin... —John Stoltenberg

MacKinnon said she suggested to Dean that she pick up a copy of Our Blood, a text of Dworkin's speeches. Dean said she had not read any on Dworkin's work.

The conflict arose when Sarah Williamson, of the Student Activities Office, informed Dean that Dworkin had been secured for $250 during last spring's International Women's Week activities at UMass.

Dworkin said she routinely asks $1000 for a major lecture and $3100 for a workshop. "My appearance last spring was a workshop. I lowered my fee to $250 as a favor to friends who were organizing the conference," she said.

When Dean called MacKinnon requesting information about honorarian and format of Dworkin's lectures, MacKinnon responded that she would have to talk to Dworkin's representative. She said she refused to give information because "it seemed suspicious to me that people at UMass were asking me information they should have been getting from Dworkin herself."

Dean said, "It has been almost impossible for us to contact Dworkin personally. We've been dealing with her through an intermediary," she said.

Stoltenberg said he believes the program's and Student Activities Office's justifications of its actions do "not hold any water". He said, "The question as to whether their opposition to the Dworkin lecture is based on ignorance, incompetence, or malice, seems to be resolving itself in favor of malice."

In November, Everywomen's Center, Commuter Collective, Lesbian Union, People's Gay Alliance, and the Women's Studies Program agreed to co-sponsor a proposal for a DVP-sponsored Dworkin appearance. The proposal was presented by Suzi Milstein, program committee member, at the group's Nov. 14 meeting.

Stoltenberg attended the meeting and said a written statement on the conditions under which Dworkin would appear had been handed to Milstein before the meeting.

The memo, Stoltenberg said, clearly stated Dworkin's fee. Milstein said details of the program such as format are discussed before the vote to contract. She said, however, she can't recall being handed a written statement.

Milstein told Stoltenberg this week that the program had been cancelled because Williamson and she had "bad feelings" about it.

Williamson said her unwillingness to issue the contract stem from "new information" received about the speaker. She would not elaborate.

Supporters of Dworkin plan to distribute information sheets about the cancellation to students on campus. A proposal to reschedule the Dworkin program will be discussed at Monday's DVP meeting, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Area spokesmen favor aid proposal

By BRYANT M. JORDAN
Collegian Staff

Associate Director of Financial Aid Gerald F. Scanlon said yesterday that President Carter's $1.2 billion aid proposal for students of middle income families would be giving relief where it is needed most.

"It has a lot of merit," he said. "Of course, it's pure speculation now. He's shooting for fiscal year '79 and it (the proposal) still has to go to the House, where it will get kicked around and changed.

"Then it will go to the senate and it will be the same thing," he said.

The proposal, which would make $250 grants available to at least two million students from families with gross incomes between $16,000 and $25,000, was announced Wednesday at the White House.

The program would also provide subsidized loans to students with family incomes as high as $45,000 before taxes and extend federally subsidized work-study programs.

Those spokesmen for the Five College community who could be reached yesterday had these comments on President Carter's proposal:

A spokesman for Smith College said Carter's proposal is the "logical extension of the present (aid) program" taking into consideration the growth of inflation in the last five years.

At Hampshire College, spokesman Peter Cluckler said he has not studied the proposal in depth.

However, he pointed out that Hampshire College President Adele Smith Simmons recently said she would favor an aid proposal in the form of more Basic Educational Opportunity Grants or Supplementary Educational Opportunity Grants.

The piles of snow around campus and the low winter sun combine to change the blase into the interesting. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Simmons optimistic on future of Hampshire

[UPI] — Hampshire College President Adele Smith Simmons says educators returning to more traditional programs must take care not to take a step backward.

Hampshire is one of the few remaining experimental colleges. It was founded in the late sixties by some area educators, including UMass Interim President Franklin K. Patterson, who served as founding president there.

Simmons, in her first year as head of Hampshire, says financial concerns are understandably paramount today. But she worries colleges will begin to fashion themselves in strict skills-training holds. "People are withdrawing, and there's a tendency to think all innovation is not of high quality, that it's sloppy. That's not true," said Simmons, 36, formerly dean of student affairs at Princeton University.

"I'm concerned that educators are getting too sidetracked by finances. You have to find time to worry about substance," she continued.

She doesn't think the closure last month of Franconia College, also spawned during the tumultuous '60's, is the death knell for experimental schools, despite a decrease in applications and increased tuition at Hampshire.

Franconia in New Hampshire's remote northern mountain area shut down last month after 15 years. Officials blamed high costs and a shift in college students' interests to job-training courses.

"Franconia College was very small and very isolated. We're larger and we have a highly selected faculty and educational program," Simmons said.

Hampshire, a warm nest of modern buildings in a rural setting, offers financial aid to at least 12 per cent of its students to encourage economic diversity but still is largely dependent on tuition income.

The school accepted one out of every 13 students that applied last fall.

One out of every two applicants was accepted into the 1225 student body. Tuition and room and board fees in 1970 were $3800. This year, it's up to $6350 and the fall class will pay $6800.

Unlike Franconia, Hampshire is part of a five-college system of Amherst, Smith and Mount Holyoke colleges and UMass, all located in the same area.

Simmons, a graduate of Radcliffe College and Oxford University, said sharing resources among colleges is a practical solution as schools try to meet increasing demands for more money.

She's enthusiastic about what Hampshire College has to offer. The freedom students have in shaping their own programs teaches them to be self-reliant and to find solutions to problems, Simmons said. There are no grades at Hampshire and few required courses.

Students educated in the traditional mode where little intellectual initiative is required won't be prepared to tackle the complexities of the late 20th century society, she said.

"They won't be as able to take responsibility for themselves. They're more passive, less innovative. They'll want people to do things for them."

Suspect's claim doubted

LOS ANGELES [AP] — A day after arresting a part-time actor in the Hillside Strangler case, police said yesterday they had nothing firm tying Ned Terrence York to any of the 12 stranglings.

York, 32, is a bit player in several television series and a self-professed born-again Christian. He was booked for investigation of murder after telephoning police and claiming responsibility for the killings of 12 young women since September, police Cmdr. William Booth said at a press briefing.

But a search of his house Wednesday night turned up no evidence from any stranglings, police said.

"He was arrested solely on the basis of statements he made implicating him in these murders," Booth said. "He has not disclosed anything to corroborate those statements."

"We really don't lend much credence to what he's saying," said police Lt. Dan Cooke, without revealing what York said.

There was no clear indication what prompted York to suddenly call police and tell them he was the strangler.

Investigators delayed any release from custody at least until today.

York has appeared in the television series "Starsky and Hutch," "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," "Hallmark Hall of Fame," "Bonanza" and "Charlie's Angels," and in several films.

Black Affairs

Black History Month planned by Boston groups

The Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON — Black History Month is being observed during February in the United States.

In Greater Boston, historical organizations, colleges, community groups, and churches are planning programs throughout the month.

Black History Month is a national observation originated in the 1930s by the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. It was then Negro History Week, centered around the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln (Feb. 12) and Frederick Douglass (Feb. 14), but now has been expanded to include all of February.

Activities began Wednesday (Feb. 1) with an address by historian John Henrik Clark of Hunter College at the African-American Institute of Northeastern University and the opening of a series of exhibits and dramatic presentations at the art gallery of the Elma Lewis School of Fine Arts.

Programs scheduled range from celebrations to exhibitions.

The Black History Month Committee of Greater Boston will present Dr. Asa Davis, professor of history and black studies at Amherst College, at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 12, in the Rabb Lecture Hall of the main Boston Public Library. Other programs will be held at the main and branch libraries during the month.

A kickoff program will be held at the Prince Hall Masonic Temple in Grove Hall Sunday afternoon, Feb. 12, coordinated by the Urban League Guild and the Business and Professional Women's Club. This festival will include talks, exhibits, and refreshments, sponsored by the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts.

The Museum of Afro-American History will sponsor playwright Ed Bullins Feb. 9, in a reading at 1 p.m. in the Fenton Building of Suffolk University, and at 8:30 p.m. through the premiere of two one-act plays at the studio theater of Northeastern University.

Churches sponsor events

In cooperation with the Maryland Club the museum will sponsor the Frederick Douglass Tea at 3 p.m. Feb. 26 at the Columbus Avenue AME Zion Church.

Judge Margaret Burnham will address a black history breakfast sponsored by the Journeyetts at 8:15 a.m. Feb. 12 at the Cambridge Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Twelfth Baptist Church will hold a series of weekend activities beginning Feb. 4 and ending Feb. 26.

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will sponsor a discussion of the film, "Black History Lost, Stolen or Strayed," at 7 p.m. Feb. 19 at the Quincy Center United Methodist Church in Quincy.

The Merchants Association of Prudential Center is presenting a display on black history Feb. 12-19.

A Valentine's eve dream

By TERRELL EVANS
Black Affairs Staff

I lay in my bed, starring at the colored walls and the uncracked white ceiling. It was nothing special, a typical UMass bed, in a typical UMass room. Yet I felt funny, as if in my sleep, I would dream the dream of dreams. And so it was.

The Dream:

Leftfield

—Native American teenagers that have been bound to reservations ceased to be alcoholics and suicidal because the non-natives granted them the privilege to exist with the honor that was once unsurpassed by any in the world.

—Native American adults, were proud once more because they had been given the land that was once promised to them in previously broken treaties.

—Non-native American blacks were content, they could finally have a leader that was not the target of an assassin's gun.

—They were allowed to exist in this country under the same principles that governed other non-native Americans.

—Non-native American society finally admitted that it was to blame for the poverty, hunger and miseducation that exist in this country and perhaps throughout the world.

—Non-native America's poor, came not with outstretched hands saying "give me". But with outstretched minds and bodies, saying, "Give me a book, I want to learn. Give me a job, I want to work."

—Non-native American society responded by giving out books and creating conditions conducive to learning and giving out jobs that didn't belittle the humans who had to take them.

—Non-native American society admitted to having acted sickly and crazily in the past, but the future shall hold care and reason for all.

—Non-native Americans became native Americans at last.

The dream ended. I woke up the next morning, not really feeling excited about what I had dreamed. Why? I knew what I had to do. I did my 30 pushups and 40 situps to help my mind and my body.

Caucus report

By RENEE MOBLEY
Black Affairs Staff

In the first Student Senate meeting of the semester, held Wednesday, Feb. 8, the Third World Caucus appointed two senators to fill its allotted fifteen seats. Ellen Smith of McNamara dormitory was welcomed back into the caucus after a semester long leave. Loida John of South Hadley was appointed as a new member to the caucus.

Presently, there are still four openings for seats on the Third World caucus. All qualified students are urged to apply.

Applicants must be Third World students who are able to attend caucus and student senate meetings on Wednesday nights. They must also be able to contribute to the activities that the caucus will be involved in throughout the semester. Applicants who are accepted before February 13, can receive three independent study credits.

Interested persons should apply in the Office of Third World Affairs, 308 S.U.B.

At the end of the caucus meeting Chairperson Julie Hall asked that all Third World senators be present for a caucus meeting on Sunday Feb. 12 at 3 p.m. in New Afrika House.

Alvin Ailey in review

A scene from The Alvin Alley Dance Theatre performance of "Night Creature."

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

Yesterday brought the close of a two day performance presented by The Alvin Ailey Dance Theater at the Fine Arts Center. Not to be victimized by this past Monday's snow storm, that forced the cancellation of classes, the closing of banks, supermarkets, businesses, and this university, opening night originally rescheduled for this past Tuesday, was moved to Wednesday. While yesterday featured a special matinee performance as well as an evening performance.

Opening night began with "Night Creatures." A beautiful dance that paid tribute to the creatures of the night in all of us. In the words of the late great Duke Ellington, "Night creatures unlike stars, do not come out at night — they come on, each thinking that before the night is out he or she will be the star." Ellington's musical piece, Night Creatures was featured with the dance routine, choreographed by Ailey.

All the ingredients of life found in the making of the Black woman, was served to the audience in "Cry." Donna Woods in solo presented the strength, sassiness, sensitivity, hurt, pain, laughter, and cries from countless centuries of injustices done to Black woman everywhere, and as noted on the program handout, 'especially our mothers.' Throughout her performance Woods walked, then ran, fell, then crawled, and in a show of undeniability rose once again to a pair of proud feet, and an even prouder body stance.

The dance scene of "Revelations" was the grand finale of opening night. Bringing the aspirations, dreams, and emotions of Blacks to life via song and dance. Transported to a water's edge by performers shaking long blue pieces of cloth to create the illusion of water, the audience steadfastly watched the dancers 'wade in the water.'

It was during "Revelations" that I first realized a disappointment. The majority of the performance had been devoted to the female dancers. Whether intentionally intended or not, I do not know. Yet I wish that the presentation that night had included more of the talented abilities of the Alvin Ailey male dancers, especially a solo performance by anyone of the dancers.

Besides this personal disappointment, the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater was brought here to dance, and dance they did.

Around the world in news

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa [UPI] — A South Africa judge Thursday sentenced the banned wife of a jailed black leader to a suspended prison sentence because she allowed friends to visit her house.

Bloemfontein magistrate C. P. Steytler found Mrs. Winnie Mandela, husband of jailed nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, guilty of violating her banning order by receiving visitors and attending a social gathering.

Mrs. Mandela, who lives in Brandfort with her 16-year-old daughter Zinzi, was sentenced to six months in prison, suspended for four years, on each of the two charges.

Steytler acquitted her of five other charges, two of them involving her daughter.

DETROIT [AP] — An aging Cherokee Indian, voiceless because of throat cancer, is asking President Carter to change his mind and accept a handmade feathered headdress like the one he has given to every elected president since Woodrow Wilson.

Chief Redbird, 78, and convalescing in a Detroit area nursing home after surgery last year to remove a malignant larynx, said he sent a headdress to the White House shortly after Carter was elected.

But because of Carter's policy of accepting no gifts from the public, the headdress, made with turkey feathers, was returned.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LILY, I'M SURPRISED YOU AND YOUR FAMILY STILL LIVE HERE!
I THOUGHT YOU WOULD HAVE MOVED LONG AGO!
OREO! YOU THOUGHT WE WOULD JOIN THE WHITE FLIGHT?!
WE'RE ON STANDBY!

Thoughts

The Mind.
A force
that can unite
the insides
when the outsides are different.

---

Black Affairs

The third right

By BILL HASSON
Black Affairs Staff

Here we go again! This time it's boxing. It appears that the made-for-Television movies are getting worse than ever. It is what you, who watched the NBC Saturday Night at the Movies "Ring of Passion" starring Bernie Casey can attest to. It was supposed to be a drama about Joe Lewis' two historic heavy weight fights with Germany's Max Schmeling. What it ended up being for me at least, was the same old Black-White stereotypes that pop up in every movie that comes on the screen.

Exhibit 1: The Black women. First, Joe Louis' mother was presented as a person who always retreated from her family responsibilities when Joe needed her the most. She just couldn't stand to listen to those awful fights. It would appear to me that when a woman who had birthed and raised a child she wouldn't abandon him at the height of his career.

One of the real drags about the picture was how Joe Louis became the person who was so induced with hate for Max Schmeling whose country (Germany), clearly exhibited how they felt about Black people during the Olympics, and most assuredly the world, when it came to the question of who the master race was. We know that Joe's problems did not stem from his golf game but from the IRS and all the benefit fights that he did for the military and never got a dime for it.

The wife was also portrayed as a person who simply could not handle the responsibility of the champion. There was also a large portion of the film that was dedicated to the Jewish theme, the problems that Max Schmeling's manager had because he was Jewish. The problem of Jews in Germany without an equal treatment being given to Joe Louis' manager or trainer who was Black.

Seminar on South Africa

Columbus Free Press/cpf

The Five College Committee for the Liberation of South Africa is sponsoring an evening seminar called "Southern Africa in Revolt," on Monday, February 13. The seminar will be held in room 101 of the Campus Center-UMass at 7:00.

Michael Egan, author of several articles on South Africa will speak on "Permanent Revolution in Southern Africa." He is also a member of the International Socialist Organization.

There will be a slide show on "Soweto and the Uprising of 1976." A film "Phela Ndaba - End of the Dialogue" will also be shown.

The film documents the systematic oppression of the Africans under Aparthied. It was made by underground members of the Pan African Congress. The other sponsors of the seminar are: The International Socialist Organization and the International Students Association.

Veteran enrollment declining

By W.J. WHEELER
Black Affairs Staff

The Veterans Assistance & Counseling Services at the University of Massachusetts could lose its funding if it does not increase its enrollment of eligible veterans.

The Office of Veterans Affairs feels the need to change their name. Veterans who come into the office assume that the office of Veterans Affairs is responsible for discrepancies in veterans' payments; this is not true. The Office of Veteran Affairs is a counseling and assistance service, which works in conjunction with the VA in processing paper work, but the office responsible for any discrepancies made by the VA is the VA office in Boston. The new name is the Veterans Counseling & Assistance Services.

Art Hilson, the Director of Veterans Affairs at UMass has instituted a massive outreach program to reach those vets who are unaware of the services that the office provides to veterans both on and off campus.

The Outreach program consists of Outreach counselors visiting community colleges in the Massachusetts Bay State area and setting up information booths. The information booths are designed to answer all questions about the veterans programs at UMass and provide additional data or services.

As a result of existing regulations Northeastern University lost its funding for fiscal year 1977 thru 1978. This was the result of a drop in the veteran enrollment at that school.

Funding for the VCIP programs (veterans-cost-of-instruction-program) comes through the office of HEW. The program is required to provide Outreach, counseling, recruitment and remedial services for veteran students. Method A for eligibility states: Initial applicants must derive a figure of 110 per cent population for funding allotment. A renewal applicant must evidence at least 100 per cent population per allotment to be eligible. Complete Method A first! If the necessary percentages are not evidenced, proceed to Method B. Method B states: The 10 per cent method is basic for the institution claiming eligibility by enrolling 10 per cent of its total enrollment as veterans. This can be used by either initial or renewal applicants. Eligibility will be established if the population is determined to be 10 per cent or more, and is equal to or exceeds the percentage.

Method C states: The base year method is restricted to renewal applicants, and primarily those institutions who have lost, or would lose, their eligibility due to a drop in veteran enrollment since first establishing eligibility.

The Veterans Assistance & Counseling Services (VACS) falls within the category of method C. They have not shown a steady increase and in fact, have lost approximately $2,000 for the second four months of fiscal year 1978. The office received $51,000 for fiscal year July 1977 thru June 1978. An additional loss of funds can be expected in April 1978. The funds are broken down into thirds with authority to expend the allocated portion.

Loss of monies means reduction or loss of certain services to vets Boston State College lost its program for veterans last week. There is a very strong possibility that existing services at UMass will be lost also. Outreach is something that EVERY vet on campus can become involved in by simply sharing with other veterans off campus or at community colleges the news about the VACS office and what is available to them through the VACS office.

The Office of Veterans Affairs has recently changed its name. The office is now Veterans Assistance & Counseling Services.

The old office has been identified in the past by students as a part of the Veterans Administration. This is not true. The office is not connected in any way to the Veterans Administration. As mentioned earlier in this article, the office is funded by the Department of Health, Education & Welfare (HEW) for the sole purpose of assisting veterans in the areas of recruitment, outreach, counseling and remedial services.

In addition, the office runs a job bank, emergency short term loan fund, tutorial assistance program and counseling for both veterans and their families.

Announcements

Course Offerings

SW 190E: Sec. 1. Racism in The Judicial System, Mon. 7-9 p.m. Kennedy Lower: Klekotka

Sec. 2. Dynamics of White Racism Wed. 7-9 p.m. Washington Lower, Washburn.

Sec. 3. Dynamics of White Racism Mon. 7-9 p.m. J.Q.A. Lower; Young.

SW 1900: Economics of Race, Tues.-Thurs. 9:30-10:45 Coolidge Lower, Cole.

SW 291C: Perspectives on Institutional Racism Tues. 7-9 p.m. Melville, K. All, B. Langa. IND. STUDY: Topics include Racism in South Africa, participants will be required to form a syllabus and a colloquium on South Africa for the following semester.

Registration: Tuesday Jan. 31st.-Tuesday Feb. 14th, at John Adams Lobby. Questions? Call C.R.S. or S.W. Academic Affairs Office.

CCEBS

All CCEBS students interested in Summer employment should see Brain Maher in Room 209 of the New Africa House immediately. Opportunities exist for summer jobs in the Federal government. There are also opportunities for summer internships in other companies and organizations. Application deadlines for these jobs are approaching fast. Other information of interest to CCEBS students is posted on the bulletin boards outside Room 209 of the New Africa House. Students are urged to check out these bulletin boards periodically.

Film Series

The Malcolm X Center is announcing a spring semester film series entitled The Malcolm X Film Series. This week's film is "Birth of A Nation" which will be followed by an episode of the "Li'l Rascals." Movies will be shown each Wednesday night beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Malcolm X Center, which is located in the Berkshire Dining Commons of Southwest Residential College. The staff of the Center welcomes everyone to view the films. Interested students can also earn credits (Afro-Am 396 Independent Study), by viewing a certain portion of the films and writing a semester paper.

For a list of the films, contact Carl McCargo (MWF — 5-0588 or TTH — 5-2819).

Jobs

The Malcolm X Center in Southwest has slots open for staff positions. Those who are interested may pick up an application at the Center after 12:00 p.m. For more information, call Consuelo Williams at 6-9905, or Greg Maynard at 6-9731.

Asian American Disco

Did you know that Tuesday was Chinese New Year, the Year of the Horse? In celebration of the event, the Asian American Students Association is holding a New Year's disco, today, February 10 at 10:00 p.m. in the Campus Center on the 10th floor. All are invited to help bring in the New Year. There will be a dollar cover charge but don't let that stop you 'cause it's going for a good cause. You know that this is the baddest disco this side of Boston. So come on down!

Meeting

The Third World Caucus of the Student Senate will have a caucus meeting on Sunday, February 12th at 3:00 p.m. in the New Africa House. Attendance is mandatory for all Third World senators!

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

MY FAMILY WAS GOING TO MOVE, OREO!
WHAT HAPPENED, LILY?
WE FOUND OUT...
...I'D BE BUSED BACK HERE TO SCHOOL!

COLLEGIAN PHOTO MEETING
FOR ALL STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
AND INTERESTED STUDENTS
NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED
FEBUARY 15, 1978 7:30
AT THE COLLEGIAN PHOTO DESK

Come learn Calligraphy from us.

Calligraphy is just one of the many workshops offered this Spring through the Credit-Free Workshop Program of the Division of Continuing Education.

For registration information and a catalog, please call us at (413) 545-3653, write, or stop by Room 113 Hasbrouck Building, UMass/Amherst.

Remember, we accept American Express, VISA, and Mastercharge.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS/AMHERST

Arts and sciences first priority for Provost Allen

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

Acting Provost Jeremiah Allen declared the needs of the College of Arts and Sciences to be his first priority yesterday when he addressed the Faculty Senate at its first meeting of the semester.

Allen, the former dean of the arts and sciences, is hurting badly for staff, resources and facilities and he plans to conduct a thorough budget analysis dating back to 1975 because "some areas are not getting their fair share".

Another reason for the analysis is that one of the deans recently noted the 1976 budget expenditures were less than the budget itself, leaving open the possibility of a shift of funds.

Allen said he intends to make the faculty senate and its committees more effective as a governing body and to meet frequently with student leaders and department heads in order to restore some degree of academic sensibility.

Echoing the sentiment of most of the faculty, Student Government Association co-President Jon Hite congratulated Allen on his new role and proceeded to ask the senate to excuse unwell students from class because he said three to eight per cent of the student body are ill with a flu-virus.

The senate passed a motion which establishes a Provost's Advisory Board, comprised of three or more faculty members. The new board, a supplemental working committee and not part of the faculty senate, will be purely advisory giving the provost final veto power.

The senate also enacted a professional faculty ethics code despite snide remarks that the code read exactly like the Boy Scout oath.

Senator Anwar Sayed said, "The code is a modest commitment to honesty, self-discipline and respect for students and all those in unequal or inferior relationships to ourselves."

Copies of the new ethics code will be distributed among all members of the faculty.

Oil leaking from tanker

BOSTON [AP] — An estimated 15,000 gallons of heavy oil leaked from the grounded Greek tanker Global Hope into the ocean less than one mile from Marblehead, the Coast Guard said Thursday.

The ship was not in immediate danger of breaking up, the Coast Guard said.

The tanker, carrying 160,000 gallons of heavy oil in leftover cargo and for its own power, leaked the fuel through a crack in its stern. It took on water, apparently through the same crack.

Coast Guard spokesman John Bablitch said a commercial firm hired by the ship's owners placed booms in the ocean Wednesday to prevent the oil from spreading.

"The booms are between the ship and the land to protect the shoreline area," Bablitch said. "It seems to be contained. We'll be working to protect that area."

The amount of oil leaked into the ocean classifies it as a medium oil spill, Bablitch said, and the incident was declared a federal response, meaning, "The Coast Guard will be taking over the whole operation."

As crews worked on the tanker, a Coast Guard helicopter searched for the Salem pilot boat Can Co — which disappeared Tuesday trying to aid the tanker — and the one possible survivor of the five man crew.

The bodies of the captain and three of the crew were found.

The Coast Guard on Wednesday safely removed 28 of the 32 men, who had been aboard the Global Hope when it went aground in Salem Sound Monday night in the storm.

The captain and three crew members remained with the tanker to assist with repairs.

Three members of the Atlantic Strike Team, the Coast Guard's experts on oil spills and containment from Elizabeth City, N.C., found "slight or minimal damage to the hull" of the tanker Wednesday.

The damage was where the rudder post entered the hull at the stern. Sea water entering the tanker rose as high as 13 feet in its engine room, but the height appeared to fluctuate with tides, Bablitch said.

The Strike Team brought a high-powered pump that could be used to remove the remaining oil from the tanker, and special "open seas containment barriers" were sent by cutter from Woods Hole.

BOSTON (UPI) — The Commonwealth Ave. trolley tracks were turned into a cross-country ski track, as these young men shed their shirts and took advantage of the warm sun while the area continued efforts to recover from the worst blizzard of the century.

Marathon movies for 600

DEDHAM [AP] — A night at the movies turned into a weary saga of boredom for hundreds of people who sought shelter from the New England blizzard in a suburban movie theater, then spent almost three days there.

"We had people walking in here who were literally blue," said Charles McGowan, a Dedham selectmen who mingled with the bleary-eyed crowds who had abandoned their cars on nearby Route 128 and pushed through the storm toward the theater's lights.

"I was scared, I'll tell you," said Frank Scarpetti of Lynn, one of the 600 refugees who Thursday were finally able to leave the Dedham Showcase Cinema.

"The next time I see a single snowflake, I'm not moving," he said.

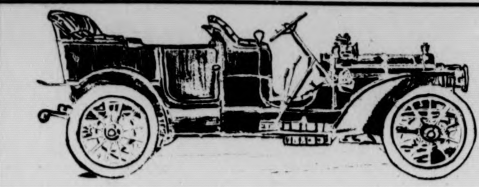
The films "Julia" and "Gauntlet" were repeatedly screened for the trapped crowd. "I was disappointed in both of them," commented a nurse from Quincy.

"I suppose if you're going to be stranded, it might as well be in a movie theater," said Mrs. Wilson Young of Melrose, whose toy poodle wandered in the theater lobby behind her.

Said one tired-looking man: "Get away from me. I just want to go home."

The Red Cross provided food and cots, as well as games and playing cards. A hearty few hiked to a nearby package store and bought beer, which was kept cool in the ice cream counter.

Candy and popcorn was untouched. There were no children at the theater, and the Red Cross said one man had to be taken by ambulance to a Boston hospital after suffering a ulcer problem.



14 Masonic St.
Northampton

PICASSO, PABLO

PRINT SALE!
3 Days Only
February 13, 14 and 15

Fantastic Reproductions in Full Color, Poster-Size

$2.75 each
OR
2 for $5.00

WYETH, ANDREW

All your favorite artists including:

• Van Gogh • Renoir • Monet • Cezanne • Dali • Chagall • Klee • Miro • Picasso • Etc.

Over 400 different titles! Duplicates of good numbers...BUT, we'll sell out fast, so come early and get the prints you want.

JARVIS HEIGHTS APARTMENTS

The verdict is... come see our spacious two bedroom garden apartments and JUDGE for yourself

Rentals at $255-month
Wall to wall carpeting
NO security deposit
Utilities paid (no heating bills, no electric bills)
30 days lease
Multiple occupancy allowed
Students welcome

Conveniently located on Jarvis Avenue, Holyoke one mile west of Exit 16 West off I-91. Only 20 minutes from Amherst.

MARKEN PROPERTIES

667 Main St.
Holyoke

539-9500
532-9428

GRE

For the February 25th exam, a class will begin meeting this week, with sessions on Tuesdays and Saturdays. For information call Test Prep Services of Amherst at 256-6462.

TEST PREP

RECORDING CONTRACT

Los Angeles Production Company seeking new recording artists will hold auditions in Boston March 6-7.

PHONE 213-454-9813
For Information

SALISBURY, MASS. [UPI]* — Youngsters romp in front of the demolished remains of the Five O'Clock lounge, parts of which were washed out to sea during Tuesday's northeaster.

Boston regains rail service

SOUTH ACTON [AP] — It was the first train through to Boston's western suburbs in three days, bringing home stranded commuters and offering at no extra charge the best scenic tour in the state.

The huge Boston & Maine diesel plowed through what snow remained on the tracks, heading out to Weston, Lincoln, Concord and South Acton.

With service still sporadic, it also picked up en route any passenger waiting to get into Boston.

At Concord station outbound neighbor greeted inbound neighbor.

"You made it," yelled one man as he recognized a familiar face in the crowd.

"I spent two nights at the Union Club and one at the Parker House," replied the somewhat rumpled executive. "This place never looked better."

Men with pipes and attache cases boarded the train hoping to get eventually to their downtown offices. Students with backpacks and a nurse also made the trip.

And what a trip it was.

The same snow that had devastated coastal areas looked bright and tranquil 25 miles west of Boston. Snow covered forests, red barns and white church steeples were all part of the passing scene.

And Walden Pond, made famous by Henry David Thoreau, looked like a large white field criss-crossed by ski tracks.

As the Storm Special made its way from country to suburb, from suburb to city, less and less seemed to be moving outside the train windows.

The parking lot at Concord station was crammed with Jeeps and skimobiles and cars and people hurrying off to local markets. The lot in Waltham was crammed with snow and a few cars that looked like they would not make it out for a long time.

In Belmont Center nothing moved. Then Somerville and Cambridge and a few people shoveling out cars in front of three-deckers.

SORORITY RUSH
SPRING SEMESTER '78
Orientation — Monday, Feb. 13th
7 p.m.
1st floor C.C.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA (545-2152)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 7-8:30 |
| Feb. 15 | 5-6:30 |
| Feb. 16 | 7-8:30 |
| Feb. 21 | 7-8:30 |
| Feb. 22 | 7:30-8:30 |

CHI OMEGA (545-2092)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 7:30-8:30 |
| Feb. 15 | 5-6:30 |
| Feb. 16 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 21 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 22 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 23 | 6:45-7:45 |

IOTA GAMMA UPSILON (545-1542)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 15 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 16 | 6:30-7:30 |
| Feb. 21 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 23 | 8-9 |
| Feb. 26 | 5-6:30 |

KAPPA ALPHA THETA (545-2735)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 7:30-8:30 |
| Feb. 16 | 7:30-8:30 |
| Feb. 21 | 8-9 |
| Feb. 22 | 6:30-7:30 |
| Feb. 23 | 7:30-9 |
| Feb. 25 | 11:30 a.m. |
| Feb. 26 | 7:30-9 |

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA (545-0320)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 5-6:30 |
| Feb. 16 | 8:30-? |
| Feb. 20 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 22 | 8-9 |
| Feb. 25 | 11-12 a.m. |

LAMBDA DELTA PHI (545-0939)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 7-? |
| Feb. 16 | 7-10 |
| Feb. 18 | 1-3 |
| Feb. 22 | 7-9 |
| Feb. 24 | 5:30-7 |
| Feb. 26 | 7-9 |

SIGMA DELTA TAU (545-0527)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 14 | 6-7 |
| Feb. 15 | 8-9 |
| Feb. 16 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 20 | 7:30-8:30 |
| Feb. 21 | 8-? |
| Feb. 22 | 5:30-7 |
| Feb. 23 | 7-? |
| Feb. 24 | 3:30-6:30 |
| Feb. 26 | 11-12 a.m. |

SIGMA KAPPA (545-2297)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 15 | 7:30-9:30 |
| Feb. 16 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 22 | 7-8:30 |
| Feb. 24 | 7-8 |
| Feb. 26 | 10-11 a.m. |

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA (545-0046)

| | |
|---|---|
| Feb. 15 | 6-? |
| Feb. 16 | 8-9 |
| Feb. 17 | 3-6 |
| Feb. 19 | 1:30-3 |
| Feb. 20 | 8-9:30 |
| Feb. 21 | 6-7:30 |
| Feb. 22 | 8:30-9:30 |
| Feb. 23 | 6-? |

* All university women are welcome at these parties. Just call the houses to let them know that you are planning to attend, and for rides and more information. Parties are p.m. unless indicated otherwise.

South shore a disaster area

SCITUATE (UPI) — These sea-ravaged cottages are along a section of Peggoty Beach, which was one of the hardest hit areas during Tuesday's pounding northeaster. Ten houses along the beach were destroyed by high winds and rough seas. Some sections of the beachfront residential property were buried under more than six feet of rock and sand washed up from the sea.

Valentine's Day Cards
Heart-to-heart expressions for those you love and care for.
American Greetings
Creative excellence is an American tradition.
the University Store
MURRAY D. LINCOLN CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01003

★ Boston fights off storm

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

many of the streets still were flooded, reported Selectman Dave Berman. The town of 11,500 appealed for pumps to clear basements and streets so power could be returned without the danger of short circuits and fires.

With much of its beachfront area smashed and flooded and with 1,500 refugees in its high school, Revere faced additional danger from gasoline vapors.

Firefighters and the state National Guard pumped one million gallons of gasoline from a ruptured storage tank near Suffolk Downs race track and spread foam over a 10,000-foot area where pools of gasoline eight inches deep collected.

A Greek tanker, the Global Hope, spilled about 15,000 gallons of oil from its cargo of 160,000 gallons off Marblehead. Booms were erected around the vessel, grounded since Monday, to prevent the spillage from spreading.

Mayor Kevin White of Boston urged neighbors to organize to dig out their own streets and clear snow from fire hydrants.

He also asked residents to bring their extra food staples to neighborhood "little city halls" for those in need.

Most supermarkets in southeastern Massachusetts, closed by snow since Tuesday, were expected to be reopened by today, with supplies available for a week.

Paul Cifrino, executive director of the Massachusetts Food Store Association, asked store manager to give their customers credit when they buy food.

"If a store manager is acquainted with a customer, it would be proper for him to accept IOU's," said Cifrino.

Many workers were without paychecks because of the closing of businesses. Most banks were closed, although authorities said some branches would try to open today.

An airborne combat engineering battalion started work at dawn yesterday with heavy snow-clearing equipment on an eight-mile stretch of Massachusetts Route 128 west of Braintree. Nearly 3,000 snow-blanketed cars and trucks abandoned Monday and Tuesday were jamming efforts to clear the major highway.

"It would take us three months if we tried to remove all the cars from the roads," said Commissioner John Carroll of the state Department of Public Works. "If we're lucky, we might have two-thirds of the cars freed by Friday."

About 600 federal troops went to work in Connecticut and 300 in Rhode Island to help clear the snow and open major arteries.

The Small Business Administration regional office started a survey of damage throughout New England, anticipating a disaster declaration for the area, John McNally, chief advocate of the office said.

The declaration would be necessary before homeowners and others who lost property would be eligible for low-interest loans to help rebuild, he said.

The storm could cost the state several million dollars in lost tax revenues. Dukakis says he doesn't have a storm damage assessment. But he said damage could be in the "tens of millions."

The outlay loss is one thing; the intake is another. What will disruptions from the storm do to state revenue estimates?

Specific information was not available yesterday, but a top aide to Administration Secretary John R. Buckley said, "This can be a problem."

The most obvious loss will result from the ban on the use of private passenger cars which, although since lifted in most parts of the state, continues to affect much of the state's population.

The state gas tax yields about $400,000 per day. It is believed the governor's state of emergency edict will save many thousands of gallons of gasoline. It will also reduce state revenues.

The near-collapse of the public transportation system not only cost lost revenues in the fare boxes but, because many expenditures are fixed costs, likely will add to the subsidy taxpayers will underwrite at the end of the year.

Personal income tax revenues may be reduced if salaries are not paid to the hundreds of thousands of persons in private employment who could not get to work. Most public employes are assured of their regular pay, even if they did not get to their offices, and emergency personnel will receive substantial overtime pay — factors which could offset some of the potential losses.

The meals tax could be down as well, as many restaurants were closed during the storm and others limited service.

Many hotels were busy, but this need not affect state revenues. In some instances, storm patrons merely replaced others who had to cancel out because of the adverse weather.

★ Campus flu

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

walking around the corridor in bathrobes all day, just taking it easy."

"Everyone had it, or has it, or is getting it," said Barbara Smith, the head of residence for Thatcher dorm in Northeast. "My second floor is completely gone."

Van Meter North also has a high rate of illness, where estimates of the number of sick residents have ranged from 50 to 85 percent.

Nevertheless, worse flu epidemics have occurred. According to Averill, 200 students were put in beds in the Student Union Ballroom during an epidemic in 1957-58. In 1968-69, 90 students were in infirmary beds with a more severe form of flu.

The Five-College community has not been immune to the virus, but apparently the other colleges have not been hit as hard. A spokesman for Hampshire College said there is no problem there yet.

Doug Wilson, a spokesman for Amherst College, said 150 cases of flu have been reported there and college administrators expect considerably more. Smith and Mount Holyoke Colleges could not be reached.

The most effective way to get over this flu, according to Averill, is to treat the symptoms and rest, thereby giving the body a chance to resist the virus. Antibiotics are useless because this is not a bacterial infection.

"It's a mild flu," said freshman Gerry Caruso, a resident of Gorman, "but it knocks you down and grinds at you for a couple of days."

"People should take care of themselves," said David Riave, Field Head of residence. "If they're just going to run around and wait it out they'll stay sick."

STUDENTS introducing
SUBWAY
Famous Foot-Long Sandwiches menu
ALL SANDWICHES SERVED HOT OR COLD
ALASKAN KING CRAB
ITALIAN EXPRESS (Sausage & Meatballs)
METRO (Pepperoni & Genoa)
ROAST BEEF
PASTRAMI
TURKEY
HAM
SAUSAGE
B.M.T. (Ham-Pepperoni-Genoa-Bologna)
SUBWAY SPECIAL (Ham-Genoa-Bologna)
MEATBALL
PEPPERONI
TUNA
GENOA
BOLOGNA
CHEESE
TRIMLINE (Salad on a roll)
Served with your choice of • American Cheese • Onions • Lettuce • Dill Pickles • Tomatoes
Green Peppers • Black Olives • Salt • Pepper and Oil
SUNDAYS...BUY 3, GET 1 FREE!
33 E. PLEASANT ST. 549-5160
OPEN LATE 7 DAYS A WEEK

---

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Kent Whalon — Licensed Optician
We also carry fashion styles by Diane Von Furstenberg & Oscar De La Renta Geoffrey Beene Optyl
We are Specialists in:
Fashion Eyewear
Contact Lenses
Emergency Replacements
Free Adjustments Anytime
We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Russian flu hits nation

ATLANTA [UPI] — Outbreaks of Russian flu were reported yesterday at military bases and academies and in other areas of the nation, signaling a possible second epidemic wave of influenza in the United States this winter.

The national Center for Disease Control issued a report of confirmed A-USSR flu outbreaks, listing nine separate localities scattered across the country where the Russian influenza strain has surfaced.

The presence of the Russian flu virus makes it the third strain of A-type influenza circulating concurrently in the American population, a medical oddity not previously recorded.

Don Berreth, CDC public information director, said apart from the nine localities where Russian flu has been confirmed, "additional outbreaks are under investigation."

Russian flu epidemics were confirmed at the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, N.Y., and the Air Force Academy in Colorado. A flu-like illness with clinical symptoms resembling those of the A-USSR virus also hit the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. Specimens of the virus were sent to state laboratories for identification.

The first documented cases of Russian influenza occurred among high school students at Cheyenne, Wyo. during the week of January 15. Since then, outbreaks have been detected in the Southwest, North Central and Eastern Seaboard areas of the country.

The increasing number of Russian flu cases coincides with epidemics caused by the A-Texas and A-Victoria influenza viruses in at least 37 states. The latter two strains, with most of the illness being caused by the A-Texas variety. have accounted for an estimated 1,100 lives since the epidemic started early in January.

No protective vaccine is available for either the Russian or the A-Texas flu strains. But government health officials have recommended that a vaccine be ready to combat both strains next fall when a second wave of the A-USSR virus may occur.

In its assault on the nation's military academies, the Russian flu virus has shown an attack rate ability ranging from 50 to more than 60 percent. At West Point, the CDC said the illness occurred in about 2,400 of the 4,400 cadets. The Air Force Academy reported a 60.5 percent attack rate among its 4,200 cadets. The flu-like illness at Annapolis hit 3,000 of 4,300 midshipmen, most of whom were treated in the last week.

Illness caused by the Russian flu virus was described as mild, marked by the usual flu symptoms of chills, muscle aches, headache and cough lasting up to three days. The virus, as had been expected, has attacked young people under age 23-25 almost exclusively.

★ Newslines

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

The survey, conducted by the Southwest Academic Affairs Office, shows that 60 out of 177 freshmen taking rhetoric in Southwest Residential College consider the class to be their favorite course. Only nine freshmen out of 160 students in the University-wide rhetoric courses said rhetoric is their favorite class.

The Southwest Residential College has been working in conjunction with the University Rhetoric Department to offer special sections of rhetoric designed "to introduce students to the enterprise of critical thought."

The residential college staff intends to conduct more detailed studies in the future to discover why their rhetoric courses were so strongly favored.

— GAYLE YOUNG

'Complex make-up' delays Index 'til March

Members of the class of 1977 may be wondering when they will receive their copies of the Index. A "complex make-up" of the UMass yearbook has caused a delay in the distribution, until sometime next month.

Thousands of copies needed to supply graduated seniors and the present undergraduate student body have been sent to Topeka, Kansas printers. Upon completion of the printing students will receive those copies left after senior mailings.

A former Index staff member called the layout of the 1977 edition "well planned-out." He added that because of the innovative techniques used in assembling the pages of the Index, he would not be surprised if it was an "award-winner."

— NIKKI ARONSON

Collegian Blood Drive needs contributors Wed.

Only 18 students have signed up to donate blood in the Collegian Blood Drive this Wednesday.

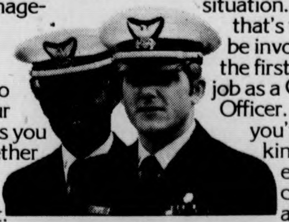
Donation hours are from 2:00 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. in the Public Health Center Room N-344. Donors can sign up for an appointment at the information desk on the Campus Center Concourse.

Puffer allegedly readies to buy Brittany Manor

Stephen Puffer, Jr., associated with owner of Puffer Construction Corp. and Puffton Village, is reportedly preparing to purchase a portion of Brittany Manor apartments. The complex is due to be auctioned off March 6 at 1 p.m.

The current owner of the complex is Brittany-Manor Trust. The property has had a number of owners within the past nine years, always with out-of-town or out-of-state ownership involved.

BILL'S SHOE REPAIR
Located in the Center of Amherst
We repair clogs, Frye boots, hiking boots, leather jackets, purses, and carry-alls.



When you take away the uniform and the lifestyle what have you got?
The Job.
The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.
As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.
The Pay & Benefits.
As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.
There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.
The Opportunities.
The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.
And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.
The Future.
As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.
Our Representative will be here
2/14/78
Coast Guard O.C.S.
Visit your college placement office, or call 800-424-8883 toll free, for more information.

Letters

Peaceful transition is unsuccessful

To the Editor:

In response to Yitzhak Santis' column of February 6 1978, I would like to ask him to comment on the case of Chile. In his article he appears to favor "a revolution with little or no violence that...creates a socialist state where...truely democratic process functions."

In Chile, Allende maintained democratic processes. He was properly elected, and elections continued to be held. Congress and political parties operated without restraint. Opposition newspapers flourished. Allende was attempting to create peacefully a socialistic state. Everyone knows what happened. It did not work. Many factors, particularly the Chilean upper classes and the United States' policies, prevented such a peaceful transition. What is Mr. Santis' suggestion for the next case? Merely to again follow Allende's path despite its failure, to give up seeking social change, or to use more revolutionary measures?

Don Ross

'Art Dreco' ignored by columnist

To the Editor:

I am amazed to find that a Collegian columnist has refused to review an exhibition entitled "Art Dreco," which is currently being shown at the Student Union Art Gallery. The reason for not reporting the show is simple. The exhibit is offensive; it contains a few pieces which are stereotypically sexist and racist. Did this columnist bother to view these pieces in their historical context? Did s-he view the works in question in relation to their surrounding objects? Was the columnist at all interested in understanding the concept of the show? Is it up to a journalist to decide what is fit for the public to view? I thought it was the reporter's duty to communicate to the public and to relate the truth. I believe it would have been far better for the columnist to have reviewed the show, whether good or bad, than to have simply ignored it. The public has the right to decide for itself and shouldn't be sheltered by the press.

Doron Haendel
Gallery Co-Coordinator

Canal Treaties should be ratified

To the Editor:

The Panama Canal Treaties will be considered in the Senate in the near future. I feel that ratification of the Treaties is important as it will settle an international issue in a peaceful manner for the justice of all concerned. There are two points that I'd like to expand upon.

First, how would we in Massachusetts feel if the Connecticut River Zone, a five-mile strip of land on either side of the Connecticut River, was occupied and controlled by foreigners? We would be obliged to pass through foreign immigration and customs each time we crossed the river; we would not be allowed to live within the Zone, and if we worked in the area, we would receive salaries less than the aliens. We would be regarded as inferior human beings. I most certainly would feel the injustice of this sort of situation.

The second point deals with the fear that ratification of the Treaties means the U.S. is giving up sovereign rights, territory and privileges guaranteed by the 1903 Treaty. According to an official pronouncement of the State Department, however, the 1903 Treaty never did give the U.S. these rights — only the right to maintain open passage through the Canal. The present Neutrality Treaty accommodates this fear of insecurity — Panama renounces the right of any foreign military presence anywhere on its territory, and, should there be any danger to free passage through the Canal from another country, the U.S. retains the right to intervene.

Though Senator Kenney has expressed approval of the Treaties, Senator Edward Brooke has not. I urge citizens to write Senator Brooks [Senate Office Building, Washington, DC 20510] asking him to support the ratification of the Panama Canal Treaties.

Beverly K. Duncan
Staff Assistant

LettersPolicy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.
ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors.
BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Left, right or breaking through the middle

charles bagli

This is a column I hoped I would never have to write. I have often represented my views and the views of the Revolutionary Student Brigade, however, a lot of water has passed under the bridge since last November, and the Brigade's National Convention. I'll explain that.

Going to school, just living, we are confronted with a number of problems. You look around at many of the neighborhoods we come from and they are becoming run down. Everybody knows someone that has been laid off after 22 years on the job. Why did that happen? Who's to blame? Black people, God, the landlords? Why did UMass raise tuition, cut courses and almost wipe out the Nursing program? A natural calamity? budget problems? Then there are the crooked politicians, Kent State, etc. What can be done about these things?

The Revolutionary Student Brigade, I think, was an organization that tried to deal with these problems: who's to blame, why, and what do we do about it, as well as raising fundamental questions about the source from which the problems arise — capitalism — and what has to be done about it.

Yet the R.S.B. isn't the only communist or revolutionary group out there. Sometimes it seems there are more political organizations then there are problems in the world. On top of this, they appear to be fairly similar. So why all of the groups?

The differences are based on attempts to deal with the problems and create a movement that will end the system of oppression and exploitation. Some swing to the "ultra-left," blowing up toilets and shouting imcomprehensible slogans. Others tail far behind the people, wishing the problems would just disappear in the future, always afraid to do anything or even talk about capitalism.

The R.S.B. tried to break through the middle by attempting to understand the actual conditions in the U.S. and to change them based on that understanding. That is, "win as much as can be won in the particular struggle; raise consciousness; and win new people to revolution and communism."

However, to get to the point, since the Brigade's convention last November it has come to a crossroad. It has had to decide whether to go right, "left" or continue on correctly. The Revolutionary Communist Party has split, principally over the question of China, and whether it is a socialist country or the "Gang of Four" should be supported, and secondarily over questions in the U.S.

The R.C.P. attacks China and supports the "Gang of Four", a group thrown out of leadership in China over one and a half year ago.

Well that's all fine, you might say, but what difference does that make for the Brigade? China is thousands of miles away. We have our own problems.

Check out the "Gang of Four". They were in charge of culture, education, etc. in China and instead of following the policy of "let a hundred flowers bloom, let a hundred schools of thought contend", they instituted a dictatorship of their ideas. Many artists were confined or not permitted to exhibit their works if they disagreed with them. Only eight operas were produced in eight years, and opera in China is like rock music in this country.

Their policies of branding a reactionary anyone who did not agree with them 100 per cent, proclaiming that they were the only true revolutionaries, had affects in other areas: inspiring factional fighting, attacking all intellectuals, technicians and veteran Party members, as well as constantly disrupting production for sectarian reasons. The "Gang" earned the tremendous hatred of the people of China. For China to continue down the road of socialism, the Gang had to go.

Whether or not to support the Gang of Four is not just an abstract question, though it has effects in this country. Witness what has happened. The National Office of the Brigade was attacked, as well as two thirds of the elected National Political Committee of the Brigade, and more than two thirds of the entire Brigade for not toeing the line 100 per cent. In N.Y.C., at a meeting of eighty people, five people supporting the R.C.P. came in and while refusing to debate the issue, declared the meeting illegal. A section of the R.C.P., going against its democratic methods in the past, has prevented discussion. They've also ripped off one-third of the Brigade and set up a separate National Office.

But the left sectarianism did not stop there. There has been a "re-summation" of the "Wall Street-Jobs for Youth Campaign" (where 300 Black, Spanish speaking and white youth marched on Wall Street and closed down the N.Y. Stock Exchange demanding Jobs for Youth) and Kent State.

Basically the "new position" is this: yes these things were pretty good, but not communist enough. For instance, the Brigade should have opposed William Kunstler for speaking at a Kent State rally because we disagreed with him, or that minimum wage should not have been discussed during the "Jobs for Youth Campaign."

The logic in this seems to say that too many people got involved in Kent State (or other struggles) and not enough communists or communism, came out of it. That's wrong. At Kent State it was a question of uniting with everyone opposed to the gym and the burying of the spirit of Kent and Jackson State; raising consciousness in the course of the struggle; and trying to win the students to the need for revolution and socialism.

The sectarian demands for ideological purity are reminiscent of the Gang of 4 (unite no one, oppose everyone) and this (among others) is China's relavance to us in the U.S. To follow these positions to their logical conclusions would turn the Brigade into an organization that simply runs around on the sidelines of a struggle shouting "more communism, more communism".

I'm not going down that road. I will not split from the Brigade or the principles that have guided it through Kent State, Bakke, cutbacks and China. A section of the RCP has tried to rip off a section of the Brigade for its own narrow purposes. I oppose that and stand with the two-thirds of the Revolutionary Student Brigade that met in Chicago last weekend. We will persevere:

> "To link oneself with the masses, one must act in accordance with the needs of the masses. All work done for the masses must start from their needs and not from the desire of any individual, however well-intentioned. It often happens that objectively the masses need a certain change, but subjectively they are not yet conscious of the need, not yet willing or determined to make the change. In such cases we should wait patiently. We should not make the change until, throughout work, most of the masses have become conscious of the need and are willing to carry it out. Otherwise we shall isolate ourselves from the masses."
>
> Mao Tsetung

The RSB tried to break through the middle by understanding the actual conditions in the U.S. and to change them based on that understanding. That is "win as much as can be won in the particular struggle;...

from our perspective

Bus assessment inequitable

The funding of the Student Senate Transit service is in transit: to the students, of course. If the administration gets its way, soon we will be paying more than our share for the buses.

At the present buses are paid for as follows: The Pioneer Valley Transit Authority (P.V.T.A.) pays 50 per cent of the operating costs; the State pays 15 per cent; the students, faculty and staff pay the remaining 35 per cent. The students are assessed for 85 per cent of that 35 per cent, based on the ridership figures.

The administration proposal to change the way the faculty is assessed for their ridership would result in the students paying 92.5 per cent of the 35 per cent, instead of 85 per cent. This sleight of hand would be accomplished by making the source of faculty payment parking fines. The catch is that students pay half those fines.

It is not unusual for Whitmore Hall to try to make the students bear the brunt of the financial difficulties they encounter, and it is even less unusual that they would do so in an underhanded way. Unfortunately, the Student Senate has very little power to oppose them on many similar issues. Fortunately, though, the senate has some leverage.

The day to day operations of the bus system are controlled by the Senate. Considering that many faculty members park in the peripheral parking lots and then take the bus, a small change in operations could effectively remind many faculty members of who pays for the buses. Also considering that Continuing Education students are users of buses, and that Chancellor Bromery has touted Continuing Education as "the trend of the future," it would not be hard for the senate to show a lack of enthusiasm for this trend by cutting night service to a slight degree.

It is too bad that students have to deal with the administration in such ways, but if the administration displays its usual lack of concern for student interests something more forceful than Senate speeches is needed.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Bookworming: the basic bluff

By ANITA E. FLAX

Andrea's Cocktail Lounge. You're out with an unfamiliar crowd and you've covered the weather, the slow service, complimented Molly on her dress, and given a capsule summary of life at the steno office. An uncomfortable silence hovers over the group. The gentleman on your left swirls his swizzle stick and turns to you. "Didja ever read 'The Naked and The Dead' "? Panic. You've never read the novel. Decision. Why not bluff? "Oh yeah, that Mailer, he sure was ahead of himself." A safe statement; it could apply to almost any author. As a matter of fact, a few quick concise sentences can sum up practically and work of literature for the bluffer to employ as conversational ammunition. The trick is simple enough: Remain vague. Hazy sketches and nebulous insight will be the most successful battle tactics in maintaining your front, and will lead the listeners to believe that you've got a plentiful stockade of powerful weapons stashed away in the crevices of your brain.

On Twain: "What scope!" Your favorite is "Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc," because nobody has read it. When questioned on the plot, laugh and say "Why, it's self-explanatory, don't you think?" On T.S. Eliot: Talk about the week you spent reading "The Waste Land." The heat was broken, you had a cold, and that crazy Creski was threatening to sue if the rent wasn't paid by the 15th. Make the story miserable enough to put everyone to sleep and undoubtedly the subject will be dropped.

On Plato, Aristotle, and Homer: Deny their relevance to today's world. You prefer more "with it" authors. Invent some names like Curtis Swanson and Eloise Helbig and stare in astonishment that no one has ever heard of them. If your shot is called by a fellow bluffer with the question "Which of Helbig's books did you enjoy most?" say you enjoyed her latest and create the title. Assure your friend that it is not yet in the bookstores, but your brother-in-law is an accountant for a publishing firm and he presented you with an advance copy. Comment on the use of the type style as an illustration of its symbolism.

"A Portrait of The Artist as a Young Man" is your favorite Joyce piece. The key word here is "metaphor." Elaborate on his use of the metaphor in developing the character of the hero. Sigh deeply, shake your head in sadness, and lament that you can't even begin to discuss Joyce for any length of time under five hours. Others will agree and marvel at your profound awareness.

On "The Good Earth": Immediately switch to the fact that "Good Earth heroine" is always showing up as a crossword puzzle clue. If pressured, drop a line about "love of the soil."

Shakespeare: Admit that you have never read any, but place the blame on the non-traditional focus of today's public schools.

Call John Steinbeck THEE American writer. You love everything he's done. Make some comments on how you found it impossible to put down "The Grapes of Wrath." A good stunner here is "Remember Casey, the old preacher? He truly represented the death of the American Dream." Everyone else will pick up on this and you can excuse yourself to make a telephone call.

On books that have been made into movies. If you have only seen the film "Jaws", say that the book could never capture the vitality and sense of power in the story that filmmakers were able to express. If you have only read the book, state that the written word left more open to the imagination. If you have not had any contact with either, dismiss the entire subject as "Media Hype". These techniques can be employed with "The Godfather", "The Exorcist", and any other popular paper-to-screen venture.

William Carlos Williams. Proclaim him the greatest proletarian writer of the 20th century. "Realistic view of urban life" is the only clause you will need, and from here on in you can sway the conversation into a discussion of the torments of city life.

Whenever in extreme doubt, there are two weapons that never fail. "It had to do with the author's inner psychological feelings" is one, and "it all had to do with his relationship to society" is the other. No one will dare disagree. After mastering these bluffing techniques you will possess the ability to fool friends, neighbors, inferiors, superiors, nuclear scientists, traveling salesmen, bellhops, politicians, Wall Street executives, the Man from Glad, interior decorators, professors, detectives, dancing bears, law enforcement agents, and even, yes, yourself. Did you ever read "The Naked and The Dead?"

Winter and strike causes coal crisis

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The coal strike and the vicious winter of '78 are slowly strangling many power companies in America's industrial heartland.

A survey yesterday showed stockpiles of coal, so reassuring when the United Mine Workers walked out Oct. 7, are dwindling to crisis size in Ohio, parts of Pennsylvania, Tennessee, West Virginia and Maryland. Many utilities are either cutting power output or buying electricity — when they can find it — at soaring rates.

Energy Department officials in Washington said the longest U.S. coal strike on record has cut mine production to less than half of what it was a year ago and 32 per cent of the output recorded just before the United Mine Workers struck.

In Washington, a final document of the tentative agreement between the United Mine Workers Union and soft coal industry was being drafted yesterday, while some district presidents around the country said they would refuse to endorse it. The contract then must be ratified by the miners.

Officials estimated it would take at least 10 days to ratify the contract and about 15 days to get normal shipments of coal.

That may be cutting it very close. Heavily industrialized Ohio, blasted by massive storms and subzero weather, has already cut back its power consumption and faces increasing shortages.

Stores in the state have dimmed display lighting. Many business hallways have been darkened, and the Ohio Department of Transportation has turned out state highway lights in 39 counties.

Ohio Edison, which serves 700,000 customers including 1,000 industries and 72,000 businesses, has a 36-day supply of coal remaining. Officials said when the supply reaches 30 days it will curtail electric power by 50 per cent.

Gov. James Rhodes said the curtailments could mean unemployment of up to 700,000 and Sen. John Glenn said Ohio faces "blackouts and a crisis of unspeakable proportions. The clock is running down on Ohio."

In Pennsylvania, the Duquesne Light Co. said Thursday it was asking Gov. Milton Shapp to declare a state of emergency for the Pittsburgh area beginning Tuesday when its coal supply reaches the 25-day level.

If the governor agrees, the utility said it would put its Emergency Energy Conservation Plan into effect, forcing all commercial and industrial customers to make major cutbacks in power use.

The request would effect all night time sports, entertainment and recreational activities. Working hours would be reduced to either a six-hour shift or a four-day week.

In New York, officials at the Edison Electric Institute, a power utilities trade association, said that in Southwestern Pennsylvania, northern and eastern West Virginia and Western Maryland also face heavy power cutbacks even if the miners ratify their contract as quickly as possible.

"Industrial closings seem to be virtual certain, combined with restrictions on retail stores, night sports and advertising lighting," a spokesman said.

The Tennessee Valley Authority reported Wednesday it may have to cut power to industries by 30 per cent by the end of February.

TVA officials said they would institute rotating blackouts only as a "last resort".

West Virginia had less than a 30-day supply of coal, and the Public Service Commission asked electric utilities to adopt an emergency plan of voluntary cutbacks.

The power companies were still appealing to Gov. Jay Rockefeller to impose mandatory cutbacks by closing business firms, entertainment and sports activities at night.

In Western Maryland, Potomac Edison Co., with 180,000 customers, had about a 30-day supply of coal, and was buying power "at exorbitant prices" from other utilities — and passing the cost to customers, a spokesman said.

"We're caught between a rock and a hard place," he added.

Two of Virginia's three largest utilities face critical shortages of coal to fuel their generators and will have to buy power — at as much as four times cost — from other sources.

In Kentucky, where non-union coal is still being mined, three major utilities said their stockpiles now range between 45 and 50 days. They have asked for 10 per cent voluntary conservation measures, and said if the strike continued, they would increase that to 25 per cent.

In Illinois, the Division of Energy said the state is getting supplies of coal from western states, and most utilities had a 40 to 80-day supply.

New York officials reported that utilities had an average 45-day supply of coal and were not contemplating any power cuts

New Jersey's Energy Commissioner Joel R. Jacobson said Thursday the state has stockpiled enough coal to last for 70-75 days.

In Missouri, one power company was down to a 34-day supply, but reported it was still receiving coal.

Senate leaders debate Panama Canal Treaty

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Democratic Leader Robert Byrd told the Senate yesterday it was not elected to blindly follow public opinion and should ratify the unpopular Panama Canal treaties "in the best interests of the United States."

But Republican Leader Howard Baker, who supports the pacts with some reservations, said he sympathizes with senators asked to defy constituents in an election year.

"This issue is a killer, politically," Baker said as the ratification debate moved into its second day. "It can devour you or kill you. You can't profit by it."

Byrd, however, made plain he is weary of those who declare their hands are tied by anti-treaty public pressures. He said he supports the pacts on their merits, even though many of his West Virginia constituents do not.

"I owe them not only my attention," he said, departing from his prepared text to deliver an impassioned, adlibbed lecture. "I owe them my judgment. That's why they sent me here.

"If I am to reach a judgment based only on the number of names on a petition or on the weight of the mail, what we need is a computer and a set of scales to represent the people of West Virginia in the United States Senate."

Their comments focused attention on a background issue that could doom the canal treaties — the fact that American public opinion, as measured by polls and constituent mail, is running heavily against the pacts despite President Carter's efforts to turn the tide.

As Senate debate proceeded, the problem was illustrated at the White House by Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., visiting at Carter's request to discuss the canal issue.

Zorinsky said he personally favors ratification but will vote against it if a solid majority of his constituents remains opposed.

"Given the opportunity," he said, "the public of this country knows more about the needs of this country than do the self-proclaimed Washington experts."

In his prepared speech, Byrd also said the treaties will cost the taxpayer some money — despite Carter's assurances they will not — but urged the Senate to ratify them "in the best interests of the United States — militarily, economically and politically."

He said anticipated canal tolls will cover most, but not all, of the transportation expenses.

"Appropriations will.... be necessary to implement certain aspects of the new relationship if the treaties are ratified," he said. "This would include such matters as early retirement programs for canal employees and the cost to the Department of Defense for relocating certain military facilities and absorbing functions transferred from the canal enterprise."

It is estimated the military shifts could cost about $43 million and the retirement arrangements up to $8.5 million. Treaty opponents claim other items could drive taxpayer expenses up to $1 billion.

The treaties would dissolve the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone and turn the waterway over to Panama at the end of 1999.

The Senate also plans to amend them to spell out the U.S. right to defend the canal and to move its warships to the head of the line in time of crisis.

No ratification vote is expected before late March.

Baker said neither side yet has the voting strength it needs — 67 to ratify, 34 to block ratification.

WOLFIES PIZZA
Offering the finest selection of:
Pizza, Subs, and Sandwiches
Come in and see us.
Try the food, sit by a warm fire
or play our pinball machines.
We are open 7 days a week
12:00—?
Deliveries Made
Located Next to Southwest!
173 Sunset Ave. Call 549-5592 or 549-5593

Hurry! Valentine's Day is Tuesday, February 14!
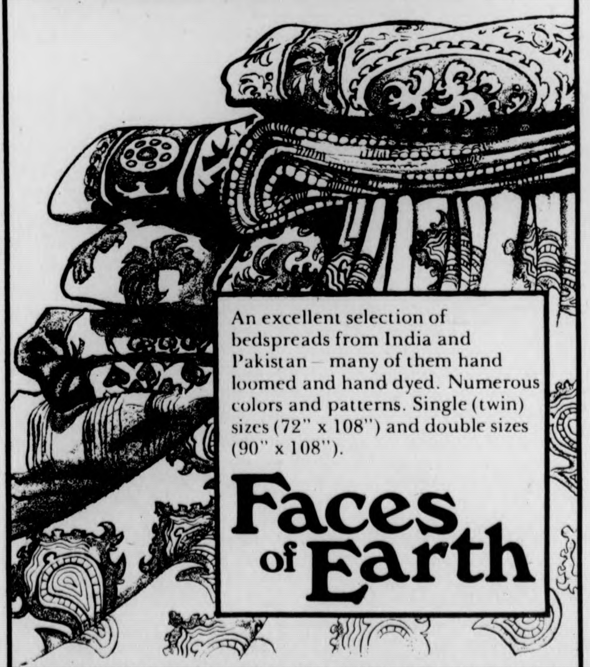
Send Our FTD
LoveBundle® Bouquet
Fresh, romantic flowers arranged with a spray of sparkling hearts. We can send it almost anywhere by wire, the FTD way. But hurry... Valentine's Day is almost here. Call or visit us today.
$12.50
We really get around...for you!
Montgomery's Florist
Open Sunday
Feb. 12, 10-4 p.m.
Mon.-Fri. 8:30-5:30
Sat. 8:30-5:00
584-4273
350 Russell St. (Rt. 9)
Hadley (across from Mt. Farms Mall)



Bedspreads
An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan – many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office. 9:30 – 6:00 Monday thru Saturday.

Biorhythms
What will this semester bring? Send for your unique 4 month Physical, Emotional, and Intellectual Biorhythm Chart.
Your birth date is: Mth.____ Day____Yr.______
Enclose $3.00 plus self-addressed stamped envelope.
Mail to: Biorhythms, P.O. Box 51, Dalton, Mass.

FIVE COLLEGE SUMMER FLIGHT
Boston-London round trip only $328. June 12-August 15, Pan American 707. ABC charter (Five Coll., Inc. as agent for Regal Assoc., charterer); non-Five College persons are eligible. Early sign-up urged. Contact: International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore, tel. 545-2710, for application.

Collegian
OPEN HOUSE
RECRUITMENT MEETING
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1978
The Collegian office will be open to the inquisitive public next Tuesday from noon until 5:00. Refreshments will be served. The Collegian is located in room 113 of the Campus Center.
Tuesday evening at 7:00 the Collegian will hold a recruitment meeting in room 174-176 of the Campus Center. Anyone interested in almost any aspect of newspaper writing, production, or business should attend and sign up.

★ Golino reflects on school

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

coming" and that they opted to unionize as a result.

"I wish somebody would do a study on the universities that do not have unions," he said, "because you would find that the strongest, most self-assured faculties do not have unions. In other words that need has not been felt."

He said that a university faculty member "is supposed to be dealing with the highest level of his discipline" and if he does not keep abreast of current advances made in his particular field "he becomes a turnip."

"The faculty," he said, "feels as all faculties do, that they should be making some of the decisions but all the documents say that all decisions are finally the responsibility of the chancellor." Golino said that the faculty was "advisory" to him but "until the trustees change the rules" that's the way it should be.

"I was given to understand that the position of chancellor was a line position, that I had the responsibility of running the campus, and that I would be free to do as I thought within the policies given to us by the Board of Trustees."

"Policies" are a problem for the University of Massachusetts says Golino because the University is run "ad hoc."

"There is no administrative policy manual in existence," he explained. "When you want to make up a new rule the president sends out a memo and that's the law until the next memo says differently."

This is the major flaw, according to Golino, in the day-to-day procedures of UMass as a bureaucracy. "I don't think the University of Massachusetts," he noted, "is a system to borrow from an old Italian dramatist who wrote 'Six Characters in Search of an Author,' we, the University, are three campuses in search of a system. I've been here four and a half years," he continued, "and my professional involvement with the other two campuses has been practically nil.

"The University as a system in which each of the segments is deeply involved with the other is not in existence. There's a lot to be done there."

But it has not all been "up hill" as Golino looks back on his contributions to the Boston campus and the University as a whole.

He said he is especially satisfied with a program he helped launch called "Another Course to College." Working with the Boston School System Golino and several faculty members recruited high school students who had the potential but had abandoned the idea of attending college.

"We started with a hundred and graduated the first class last June," said Golino. "I went to the graduation and I'm not ashamed to say I had tears in my eyes. It's been the greatest experience I've ever had."

Dr. Golino says he does not anticipate any "re-entry" problems after stepping down from his post, and that he's looking forward to a "very, very full life."

"I imagine I will miss some of the aspects of administrative life," he mused. "I will miss some of the challenges, some of the interchanges but I will keep busy. I have my writing; I have to finish a lot of things I've started. I love gardening, music, I like to work with my hands. I have a number of outside interests and I still have my teaching."

Dr. Golino is scheduled to return to the University as a professor of Italian in July but it is still undecided whether he will be teaching at the Boston or Amherst campus.

The Golinos currently are residing in Cohasset. They have nine children and "several" grandchildren.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
FRI. & SAT.,
CLEAN LIVING
ALSO TEX LAMOUNTAN
AND PAT DE COU
EVERY SUNDAY
George T. Gregory
EVERY MONDAY
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
TUES. and WED.
FEB. 14 and 15
Kilroy
and
Hot Calypso Key
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/Tel. 665-4937

Owen Corning Fiber Glas Technical Center will be recruiting on Campus
Wednesday, Feb. 22
Interested Disciplines Include: P.H.D., M.S., B.S. in Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, Mechanical Engineering.
RECRUITERS: S. BEUMEL and T. CARLSON
For further information contact the Placement Office.

Come to the "CLASS HAPPY HOUR" at the Top of the Campus
Every Friday
65¢ "Mich" Bottles
Tired of draft beer, plastic cups and getting your feet stepped on?
Come and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere at the Class Happy Hour every Friday 3:30-6:30 with 65¢ bottled Michelos and Bar Drinks 99¢ plus free Munchies.

Notices

ASIAN-AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Come help celebrate the Year of the Horse at a New Year's Disco sponsored by the AASA tonight at 9 p.m. 10th floor Campus Center. Admission is $1.00.

BETA CHI

Beta Chi is a social group exclusively for veterans. Our Spring Smoker is Monday, Feb. 13, Campus Center Room 1001 at 8 p.m. All vets welcome. Free refreshments.

HILLEL BRUNCH

There will be a brunch Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge. Guest speaker is Richard Siegel, author of the Jewish catalog on "Toward the Vision of the Jewish Arts". Fee for food only.

DIVINE LIGHT CLUB

Guru Maharaj Ji's world: Sunday Feb. 12, 1-9 p.m. continuous: videos, films, live, music, discourses, Campus Center Auditorium. Everyone invited; free admission.

FILM

"Monty Python and the Holy Grail". Student Union Ballroom tonight at 6:30, 8:15, 10 and 11:45 p.m.

LEISURE STUDIES AND RESOURCES PROGRAM

Applications are now being accepted from students who wish to be considered for acceptance into the Leisure Studies and Resources Program. An informational meeting has been scheduled which is open to all students who may be considering LSR as a major. Since a selective admissions process is used, and enrollment is limited, understanding the application procedure is particularly important. The meeting will take place in Campus Center Room 164, Monday, Feb. 13 at 7 p.m.

LINCOLN SUBJECT OF SPEECH

UMass History Professor Stephen B. Oates will be a guest on Christopher Closeup Interviews on Lincoln's Birthday, Sunday, Feb. 12. The program will be aired locally on Channel 40, Springfield, at 9 a.m., but will be syndicated nationally to as many as 150 stations. Professor Oates is the author of With Malice Toward None: The Life of Abraham Lincoln as well as books on John Brown, Nat Turner, and many other subjects.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Applications are available until Feb. 24 in the Whitmore Admissions Office for undergraduates interested in going on exchange for the fall or for the year in 1978-1979. Spring exchanges are not feasible. There are 35 participating institutions.

The student applying for an exchange should be a sophomore; the exchange would be in his junior year. Students must have at least a 2.5 cumulative average. Final selections, including a list of alternates, are expected to be completed by the end of April.

DC Menu

TODAY

Lunch: Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Duchess Meat Pie. Basics: Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Vegetable Shepherd's Pie. Dinner: Manicotti-Tomato Meat Sauce, Fried Cod-Tartar Sauce. Basics: Manicotti-Tomato Sauce, Fried Cod-Tartar Sauce.

TOMORROW

Brunch: Scrambled Eggs, Bacon Slices, Corned Beef on Rye, Tuna Noodle Casserole. Dinner: Roast Beef-Gravy, Eggplant Parmigina.

SUNDAY

Brunch: Omelet, Sausage Links, Fishburger on Roll-Tartar Sauce, Chicken-Mushroom Scallop. Dinner: Baked Chicken-Dressing, Gravy, Ham Steak-Glazed Pineapple Slice.

WMUA
News & Sports
MEETING:
Mon., Feb. 13
Campus Center 911, 7:00
NEW MEMBERS WELCOMED

PROGRAM COUNCIL FILMS PRESENTS
To Kill A Mockingbird
To Sir With Love
7 & 9:15
Fri: Feb. 10
$1.00
CCA

Canadian Opera Company
in
"The Barber of Seville"
ROSSINI'S COMIC OPERA
IN ENGLISH
WITH ORCHESTRA

Thursday, February 16
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
Tickets on sale February 2. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students — $4, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

MONTY PYTHON AND THE HOLY GRAIL
Movie will be held FRIDAY NIGHT SUB
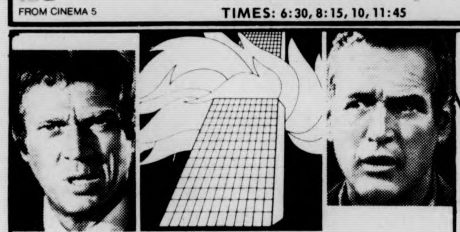
PG
FROM CINEMA 5
TIMES: 6:30, 8:15, 10, 11:45



20th CENTURY-FOX and WARNER BROS. present
STEVE McQUEEN
PAUL NEWMAN
WILLIAM HOLDEN
FAYE DUNAWAY
IRWIN ALLEN'S production of
THE TOWERING INFERNO
Co-Starring
FRED ASTAIRE SUSAN BLAKELY RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN
JENNIFER JONES O.J. SIMPSON ROBERT VAUGHN ROBERT WAGNER
CCA
SAT.
6:30
9:00
11:30

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
Dial 'M' For Murder
plus Bugs Bunny Cartoons
Sat., Feb. 11, 1978
STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
6:30, 9:00 & 11:30 p.m.

Bluewall Bar
Friday Happy Hour
2 for 1 POWERHOUSES
3-6

ENTERTAINMENT

Come Party With Us!
OPEN HOUSE
Fri., Feb. 10th "8-1"
PHI-MU-DELTA
FRAT./SOR. PARK
Beers—3/$1⁰⁰
Music By: D.J./STEVE O'Connor

ZAX DISCO
is alive
(No Cover Fri. & Sat.)
King St. at Hill & Dale Mall
NORTHAMPTON

UPC Productions Presents
Randy Newman
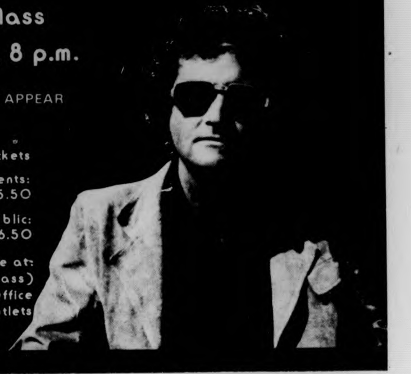
Fine Arts Center
Concert Hall, UMass
Sunday, Feb. 12, 8 p.m.
THE DIRT BAND WILL NOT APPEAR
Tickets
UMass students:
$4.50, $5.00, $5.50
Public:
$5.50, $6.00, $6.50
Available at:
Tix (UMass)
Fine Arts Center Box Office
All Ticketron Outlets



NOW—AREA PREMIERE AT TWO LOCAL THEATRES!
An all too human comedy.

Pardon Mon Affaire
PG
AMHERST Cinema
Eves—7:00 & 9:00
Sat/Sun Mat. 5:00
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton
eves—7:00 and 9:00
ends tues—both theatres

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30
MATINEES EVERYDAY
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
PG STAR WARS
THE GAUNTLET R
the goodbye girl PG
IT'S THE WORLD'S GREATEST GAME (AND IT SURE AIN'T FOOTBALL.)
"SEMI-TOUGH" R
United Artists
The WORLD'S GREATEST LOVER PG
GENE WILDER is A TRUE LOVE STORY
"THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN" PART 2
PG
The Turning Point
A story of envy, hatred, friendship, triumph, and love.
PG
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
GEORGE BURNS · JOHN DENVER
Is it Funny!
"Oh, God!"
ENDS TUES.
PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
① Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
② Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:00

CLINT EASTWOOD
THE GAUNTLET
FINAL WEEK
R
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:30-9:55
③ Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:15

"SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
R
SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
④ Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Happy Hour
10¢ Miller Drafts
at
Pi Lambda Phi
This Afternoon 3-9
14 Elm St. off Sunset Ave. near Southwest
Call 256-6837
or 5-3539
for rides & info

Hatch Bar
Student Union Building
Friday, Feb. 10
8-10 2 for 1 Buds
2 for 1 Powerhouse appearing
ROAD APPLES
CANCELLED appearing instead
ROOMFUL OF BLUES
$2 cover

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES Daily 45c per line
5 consec. pub. days 40c per line per day:
30 consec. pub. days 35c per line per day

Computation:
#lines:____ X rate:____ = ______
X #days:____ = ______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#:__________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUDIO

TEAC 250 cassette deck. All new rubber parts. Asking $160. Call Tom, 549-0909.

AUTO FOR SALE

VW camper bus 68 poptop, AM FM stereo, fully equipped, exc. cond. $1295, 665-3412.

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

1970 Toyota II Corona. Exc. running condition, body work needed. Call Jane from 3-4, 253-9733, after 6 at 283-3784.

1966 Volvo 1800S Sport Coupe. 546-9679.

72 VW Super Beetle in excellent condition. Call 256-8890, even. Negotiable.

68 Ford Custom 4000 R hdtop. PS, PB, AT, new snows, good cond. $400. 665-3271, nights.

LOST

To whomever "borrowed" my hat in the Hatch Saturday night: please return it. I can't replace it and I'm really upset. You can leave it in the UMass Craft Shop, no questions asked. I have a lot of friends looking for it.

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

BUS DRIVER TRAINING

Applications for the spring SSTS bus driver training program will be given to the first 100 qualified people on Feb. 9 in Campus Center Room 904 at 7 p.m. Qualifications: you must be over 18, have held a car license for at least 1 year & be a UMass degree student with at least 3 semesters remaining. Bring proof of class year & license. Plan to obtain Class Two learner's permit on your own. The SSTS is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.

CARS-SNOWMOBILES-PARTS

Looking to buy or sell a vehicle? Check the Mass Wheeler Dealer where seeing is believing. Ask for it at the UM bookstore.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators—low prices—1 yr. over the counter warranty on TI & Commodore—TI59 $220, TI58 $93, TI57 $60, TI55 $53, TI40 $22—COMM4190 $40, COMM4148 $25, all HP's & Sharps available. College Calculators is now four yrs old! Before you buy anywhere else call Bob or Chris 549-1316 (even) or 1-739-9626 (Springfield—daytime).

FOR RENT

Tired of the dorms? Don't want the hassle of an apartment? Get the best of both in a warm homey atmosphere. We're away from the hub-bub of the University but right on UMass bus routes. Call Barbara at 545-0162. You'll be glad you did.

1 or 2 roomates wanted to share 2 bedroom apt. in Riverglade. Rent $225. & utilities. Call 253-9814.

Female roommate wanted to share two bedroom apt. in Rolling Green. Call Beth, Brenda or Lorraine at 253-7690.

One bedrm in beautiful country farm house, available Feb. 1, 1978. Call 659-3542.

Roommate wanted. Get 1st mo. rent free. Male non-smoker, on bus route in Sund. $75/mo. Call Paul, 665-3855.

FOR SALE

Lange Pro Ski boots, size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn on two occasions. $25 will buy you these boots. If interested, call 253-5873.

Organ and amplifier available for quick sale. $300 or best offer. Call nights 549, 4834.

Double bed, $20. Call 467-9801.

Stereo system BIC960 turntable. RTRExp 8 speakers. LA750 amp exc condition $300. Moving many other items. 253-5359.

CCM skates, size 10 549-3607, eves. $30.

FM radio that fits into any eight track. Only $15. Call Ron, 549-1425.

5 cubic ft. refrig., largest legal dorm size. $75, will deliver. Glenn, 549-1221.

New 8-track tape deck. $35. 665-3412.

Phillips GA427 turntable, $50, exc., 66856.

Rampal concert Feb. 10. Five excellent tickets for sale. Call 625-2779.

Woman's down head ski parker size 9/10. Exc. condition. Must sell Call 549-5951.

Zoo Mass shirts 3.75 sz's S, M, L, colors black, brown, green, blue, orange, red. Send $ and address to Box 436 Sunderland MA.

Rossignol skis 170's. Used once. B.O. Call Lynn 549-6555. Excellent condition.

PERSONALS

To the girl who mistakenly took my mittens at the post office Monday 7: please leave them at the lost and found desk in the CC for me. Thanks.

To the women of 10 Towne—through thick and thin vet's go through it together. All my love. J.S.

SONIX is Sound Services Any sound job is neither too big nor too small. All-Altec PA. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix P.O. Box 781 or call 584-4076.

INSTRUCTION

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

HELP WANTED

Get paid for reading, watching TV, or studying! Night staff people needed for North Amherst Shelter Home. Work study only. Pete Christopher, 549-6699.

Can't afford to pay for undesireable Dining Commons food? Work as a houseperson and get good home-cooked meals. Meal tickets are refundable. Call Barbara at 545-0162.

Non-work study positions open in Collegian Graphics Department. Minimum 15 hrs./wk., two semester commitment. Jobs are open in this field, and experience here will help. No experience necessary. Applications are available in Campus Center 113 until Feb. 8.

My Honda 350 needs engine removed, new kickstarter shaft. Work spare hours on campus. I supply parts. 253-7374.

Maple house, a psychiatric halfway house is offering full-time and part-time internships starting at $40 per week. No live-in positions. Supervision provided. Credit available through students' academic institutions. Send resume to 450 Maple St., Holyoke, Mass.

Work study students—guidebook of Appropriate Technology seeking: photojournalist, researcher and graphics artist. For info call Energy Office, 545-0962.

Work studies wanted. Flexible hours. Call Alexis at 545-0003.

Part-time houseboy wanted. Good food in exchange for light kitchen duties. Call Kathy S. between 6-8 pm, 545-2735.

Interns, practicum students: opening available in North Amherst Shelter Home for work with court-involved teenage boys. Recreation, counseling, general supervision, crafts and tutoring. Pete Christopher, 549-6699. Soon!

Qual. tutor for Math 120 needed. 64631. $.

Houseboy needed. For info call 545-0939.

Counsellor for a Cong. Church youth group. Sundays. Call 584-9392, am.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

RIDE WANTED

Needs a ride to Boston So. Shore area Fridays after 2:00. Please call Peg, 549-6806, will share expenses.

I am looking for a ride to Quebec City for the Winter Carnival. Will share $ and driving. Call David 253-2954.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Contact lens wearers: save on brand name hard and soft lens supplies. Send for free illustrated catalog. Contact Lens Sup-plies, Box 7453, Phoenix, Arizona 85011.

Overweight? Try the one that works! Famous US Women's ski team diet. Lose weight fast or money back. Order today! Send $3: Fem-Art, Box 3351, Logan, Utah 84321.

TRAVEL

Puerto Rico Paradise Gambling, Beaches, Bars, Shopping, Sunshine (forget Florida). 8 days & 7 nights. From $279 to $360. 3 packages available. Call Reade 546-5000 or 5-3500.

WANTED

Used Box spring and mattress for dbl. bed wanted. Call 549-6916.

Wanted: a single or double bed—mattress and box spring or just mattress. Price negotiable. 253-2107.

If your selling a used couch call Pat at 256-8047.

WANTED TO RENT

Roommate wanted. Female non-smoker. 2 bdrm apt. $115/mo includes utils. 256-6388.

1 roommate wanted to share 4 bed apt. Male non-smoker pref. $90 per mo., util. incl. Next to campus. Ask for Mark, 549-4470

Roommate wanted to share two bedroom apt. in Riverglade. Call Andy at 545-2306 or Julie or Skip at 253-3§41 $75 per mo. & util.

ENTERTAINMENT

Monitor Music partiers know we're the best—for any party. Get us at 546-4732.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

FEBRUARY
9-10-11 THUR. FRI. SAT.
FEATURING
"THE Jamaicaway"
9PM-1AM
AT DAVID'S
THE AREA'S NEWEST "Club"
FREE!
1-DRAFT BEER WITH COLLEGE ID.
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
TEL. 586-1878
have a NIGHT of FUN the best in DINING & DANCING
JOIN US FOR A "FANTASTIC" EVENING!

Middies face gym-men

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

The United States Naval Academy rows into Amherst tomorrow to take on the UMass men's gymnastic team at Boyden Auxiliary Gym. The meet starts at 1 p.m. and should be one of the most spine tingling events that the UMass squad has faced this semester.

The Midshipmen and the Minutemen are evenly matched, said Coach Dick Swetman, with only a few points separating the two teams. But it won't be only gymnastics that the two teams will be battling against, for both teams have many gymnasts with the flu, which will only enhance the closeness of the meet.

Swetman plans to go with the strongest lineup possible, due to the circumstances. Once again, senior John Forshay will be leading the gymmen with freshman Dave Bugler on the floor. Pommel horse will feature co-captain Dave Kulakoff and all arounder Bob Donahue out in front for the Minutemen.

The still rings event will be basically the same with freshman Dave Fellemen holding down the last spot in the lineup. Parallel bars has freshman John Nelson and senior Kulakoff as specialists. The horizontal bar will again have Tommy Thompson holding down the last chance for a UMass romp.

The only questionable competitors for tomorrow's encounter are co-captain Steve Nunno and freshman all-arounders Bob Lamb and Paul O'Niel.

Skiers at Pleasant Mt

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's and women's ski teams will hit the slopes at Pleasant Mt., Bridgeton, Maine this weekend for a slalom race on tomorrow and a giant slalom on Sunday, according to coach Bill MacConnell. With the National Weather Service predicting a sunny weekend and ski reports boasting near perfect ski conditions, this weekend's meets should prove very enjoyable for both skiers and spectators.

Because of the extreme cold last Saturday, the men's team was unable to complete the second run of the slalom race, according to MacConnell. The race was interrupted when radios broke down, with Plymouth State leading UMass by only 1.14 seconds. The race will be finished at 9:00 tomorrow morning. MacConnell said his team has a good chance at winning the slalom, despite the absence of two skiers — Scott Prindle and Harold Smart, who won't be competing because they did not finish the first run last week. MacConnell says the men should also do very well in the regularly scheduled races this weekend.

The Minutewomen will begin at 10:00 a.m. tomorrow with a slalom, and will finish up with a giant slalom Sunday. If their clean sweep of wins so far is any indication, MacConnell is confident that the women skiers will again be successful.

Comics

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

WITH THE SERVING OF A PÂTÉ DE FOIE GRAS AND A LIGHT CHABLIS, THE FRIENDS OF EXXON SOCIETY DINNER HONORING THE SHAHBANOU FARRAH IS FINALLY UNDERWAY, HARRY..
DESPITE THE UGLY PROTESTS OUTSIDE, SOME OF OUR BRIGHTEST STARS HAVE TURNED OUT, RANGING FROM VACATIONING NEWSMAN WALTER CRONKITE TO TONIGHT'S BIGGEST SURPRISE, ACTIVIST SHIRLEY MacLAINE!
THE SHAH IS A MURDERER! THE SHAH IS A MURDERER!!
THE SHAH IS.. AWK!
WELL, THE SPEECHES HAVE ALREADY BEGUN HERE AT THE HILTON BALLROOM, HARRY..
2-10
GBTrudeau
© 1978 G. B. Trudeau
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

THE WILDERNESS IS INHABITED BY MANY CREATURES
SOME ARE FRIENDLY... SOME ARE DANGEROUS...
WHAT IS THE BEST WAY TO PROTECT OURSELVES FROM SNAKES?
2-10
SCHULZ
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

OUR CHAMPION, GERALD, WILL NOW TRY FOR BIG PRIZES IN OUR BONG UNTIL GONE ROUND!
IN THIS ROUND, JUST KEEP BONGING! THE LONGER YOU STAY ON YOUR FEET, THE MORE PRIZES YOU WIN!
MEANWHILE, GERALD'S FATHER WATCHES TV ON HIS LUNCH BREAK...
OH MY GOD! THAT'S GERALD!
I'LL TEACH THAT KID TO USE DRUGS ON TV!!
LAFLER
2/10

B.C. by Johnny Hart

CONGRATULATIONS, I JUST HEARD YOU WERE VOTED GRAND SACHEM OF THE BENEVOLENT ORDER OF TURTLES.
THANKS
SORRY I'M ONLY A YEAR LATE.
THAT'S OK, NEWS TRAVELS FAST NOWADAYS.
FIELD ENTERPRISES INC 1978
2.10
hart

Your Birthday

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10

Born today, you are capable of compassion and sympathy, but disinclined to exercise them if any to whom you might extend them can progress without them. Your view that sympathy and a generous spirit are helpful only to those on their way to failure keeps you from extending moral or material support when it could work wonders. Even the success-oriented need to feel that others support them, wish them well, and sympathize with their problems.

You are likely to be disappointed in affairs of the heart. While you are young you may give your heart away readily, heedless of whether your feelings are reciprocated. Later you will have learned to gauge better responses to your overtures and you will be able better to avoid disabpointment. It is your love for children that will never disappoint you, for with them you are completely yourself -- supportive, generous, sympathetic, compassionate, tactful.

You may undergo periods of hardship, financial and emotional, through trust misplaced. You do not "read" other people well, and may confide in those who will not keep a confidence. This may cause damage to your reputation, but you will recover both your spirits and your good name.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) -- You may receive recognition today for artistic talent. Keep your views private for the moment.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) – Dealings with the elderly, if wearing, may be profitable. You would be wise to pursue them.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) – Treachery won't get by you today. You will know who and what are standing in your way.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) – Your adaptability to unexpected change enables you to wrest success from failure today.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) -- Recognition of another's success can make you both happy. Wait your turn to receive benefits.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) -- Your capabilities must be recognized befor they can be rewarded. Try to impress higher-ups.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) '-- Resourcefulness is essential to take advantage of an opportunity for gain. Friends find you fit at evening.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- Don't spend energy on too many things at once. Be content to succeed in a single endeavor.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Precautions should be doubled if you intend to begin something new late in the day.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) -- There is the possibility of loss this morning, gain this evening. Friends rescue you later today.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) -- Don't advise friends who want only approval. You can lose a good relationship if you are too solicitous.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Don't let others take suggestions for change as fault-finding. Career is important at evening.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Snowbound Huskies in Cage game—maybe

By JIM GOMES
Collegian Staff

One question looms great in the mind of Coach Mary Ann Ozdarski. Will the Northeastern women's basketball team be able to make it to Amherst to take on the Minutewomen in a 3 p.m. game Saturday afternoon?

Can Boston DPW employees and federal troops clear the snow-choked streets of Boston (where it is a $500 fine if you are caught driving) so the Northeastern team can at least start their journey to Amherst? Governor Michael Dukakis' driving ban is still in effect in eastern Massachusetts.

At Thursday's practice session, Coach Ozdarski was still unsure whether Northeastern could make it to Amherst. "I don't know if we'll have a game," she said.

The women's team has had a week and a half layoff since losing to Providence 56-55 in overtime at Alumni Hall on the Providence College campus. The Minutewomen were supposed to duel with the Bears of Bridgewater State on Feb. 7 at the Cage, but the storm postponed that contest which has been rescheduled to Feb. 22.

Northeastern finished the 1977 basketball season with an 8-7 record having competed in the Mass. Division I championships and the Eastern Championships.

"I don't know what to expect from Northeastern," Ozdarski said. "All I know is that we have to play the way we played against Springfield."

High percentage shooting forward Cheryl Carey sprained an ankle in Thursday's practice session, but Carey should be recovered by game time Saturday. Carey cited the need of the team to play 40 minutes of intense basketball.

Sue Peters, leading scorer of the Minutewomen averaging over 20 points a game said, "We have to play smart basketball." With the loss of Sue Henry and the pre-season injury and rehabilitation of Lu Fletcher, we have had to make adjustments. The players are still getting used to the combinations of the floor."

Forward Maura Supinski agreed with Peters. "If we can continue to put two good halves of basketball together, we'll be tough.

Sue Walas' JV basketball team — winless in two outings takes on the junior varsity Huskies in the preliminary game at 1 p.m.

Hoopmen travel to Maine for Saturday 'encounter'

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

It's a good thing (Jack) Leaman's team won't get to read this game preview before tomorrow night's tap off in the den of the Black Bears.

That way, they might be psyched to play.

You see, UMass—UMaine matchups have not exactly been "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," but more like "Not close encounters of any kind".

Through the years, UMaine teams have been putty in the hands of Leaman coached teams. Since Jack's initial season as coach in the 1967-68 season, the series stands at 20 wins, 1 loss (Maine won the season finale of '71-'72).

In the Cage, where UMass has beaten the Bears the last II times, the margin of victory for the Minutemen has been 28 pts a game; including a historic 108-38 "contest" back in the '73-'74 season.

The Bears will be in this game; at least when compared to the Cage scores. The point-spread in their home UMass losses (4 straight and 9 of 10) averaged only 11 pts a game.

So since this game is at UMaine, the final score will be close.

However, the outcome should be the same— a UMass victory.

UMaine is just not that good a team. That's all there is to it. They happened to be in the Yankee Conference while UMass was in it, which meant at least two yearly meetings. meant at least two yearly meetings.

I suppose UMaine students, whose team is currently 13-6, look to this game as 'a biggie' — the Minutemen rom Amherst, up here in the wilds of Maine.

UMaine's big man is Rufus Harris, a foreward who averages 22 points a game. In back of him is Roger Lapham who averages 16 points a contest.

But it can be assumed that the Minutemen, who lost last night to Rutgers, will look at it as a weekend split.

Let's not count out the possibility of a UMaine victory. I mean, UMass can lose to a team they have no right to (Example: see microfilm entitled "UConn minus Joe Whelton at Hartford Civic Center). But don't count on it. They should be hungry after the loss to the Scarlet Knights.

GOALTENDING:.....Let's face it; UMaine is no powerhouse team. Personally, I'm glad the game is away, so UMies won't feel obligated to attend. I wonder why we still play them!! True, the Minutemen minus a (Mike) Pyatt can't destroy a team like Rutgers, but against Maine, UMass can still play games and win. Look at it this way; Maine lost to Northeastern by 11 pts.

★ Cagers trounced

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

"We were more aggressive in the second half," said Leaman. We shut down the "ABC" combination for a time but they were more experienced and again we missed our opportunities."

This game marked the first long playing stretch of freshman Jay Stewart, as with Pyatt and Johnson's absence and the foul trouble of Haymore, the 6-8 freshman played 13 minutes but scored no points.

"It wasn't as much the play of the Rutgers forwards as it was our inability to put in the key basket at the right time," said Stewart.

UMass: Williams 5-2-12, Haymore 8-0-16, Kohlhaas 1-1-3, Claiborne 6-1-13, Eldridge 8-2-18, Steveskey 0-0-0, Morrison 0-0-0, Stewart 0-0-0. Totals 28-6-62.

Rutgers: Copeland 11-0-22, Anderson 5-3-13, Bailey 11-0-22, Hefele 0-0-0, Brown 5-0-10, Duncan 2-0-4, Troy 0-3-3. Totals 34-6-74.

Sports Notices

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL — Women's Intercollegiate Fastpitch Softball practice is now being held at NOPE, Monday-Friday, 6:30-8:00 p.m. If you have any questions contact Coach Dianne Thompson at 220 Boyden, 5-2845.

JV BASEBALL — All candidates interested in JV Baseball should attend the meeting in Boyden Room 249, Thursday, Feb. 14 at 4:00 p.m.

LEISURE STUDIES AND RESOURCES MEETING — An informational meeting will be held on Monday, Feb 13 for all students interested in becoming Leisure Studies and Resources majors. The meeting will be in Campus Center room 164 at 7:00 p.m.

INTRAMURAL NOTICES — There will be a Recreation Supervisors' Meeting today at 4:30 p.m. in Boyden rm. 215.

Racquetball schedules are ready — pick up at IM Office.

Be sure to pick up your VOLLEYBALL forfeit fees.

Co-Rec Bowling entries due: Feb. 15. The fee is $6.

Following facilities will be CLOSED: Boyden pool — Feb. 18; NOPE Pool — Feb. 11 and 25; HICKS Building — Feb. 9, 10, 11, 14, 18, 21, 23, 27; NOPE Gym — Feb. 25.

Correction

Yesterday's story on the UMass sports budget reported that last year the athletic department received $10,000 more than expected in student fees. It should have read that there was a surplus in last year's budget of $10,000, mainly comprised of student fees and unused work-study funds.

Orchard Hill Area Government announces
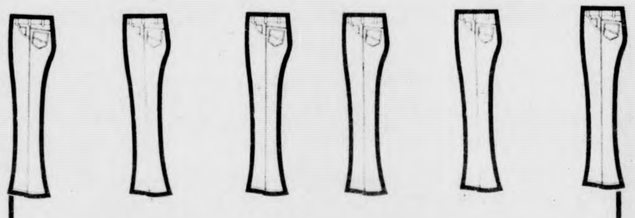
V.P. and Secretary's Position Available.
Open to Hill Residents only.
Elections on Feb. 12 9 p.m. Dickinson Main Lounge O.H. Contact Mark Hergen Rother for job discriptions: 309 Grayson 5-6930.

"The Bell of Amherst"
BELL'S PIZZA
65 University Drive

BELL'S
BELL'S
BELL'S
253-9051 549-1311



Men's Pant Sale
Selected pants from
Lee & Mann & Golden Vee
$4.99 while they last jeans • leisure slacks • cords in the clothing shop
at the University Store

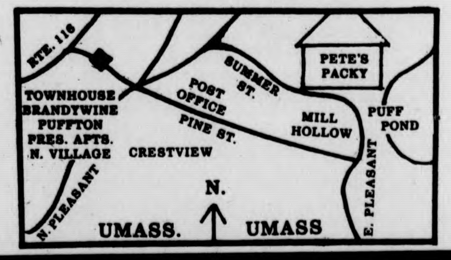
HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT
家 酒 園 南 湖
Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine
+ Open 7 days a week +
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON 1.25 & up
Dinner $3.75
Main course: choice of Szechuen Spiced Chicken or Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib eggroll, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour soup.
Mon.-Wed. 5:00-8:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Call: 256-6828 for FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)
NIGHTLY 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. 6:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.



Special of-the-Week! Falstaff $5.25
12 oz. cans

Swimmers dunk Amherst

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

Only once previously in the history of their cross town rivalry had the UMass swim team beaten the Lord Jeffs of Amherst College. Following Wednesday night's meet at Boyden Pool the record now stands changed, as the Minutemen thoroughly outclassed their old nemesis, 64-49.

Showing their supremacy from the opening gun UMass captured the first event, the 400 yard medley relay, and never looked back. Amherst made a brief threat for the lead but was quickly thwarted as UMass' Russ Yarworth pulled to an easy victory in the 200 yard individual medley.

Yarworth later added to his long list of accomplishments by winning the 200 yard butterfly in a school record time of 2:00:1. This broke his own mark which he had just established a week ago in their meet against Tufts.

Since devoting his talents to the butterfly stroke Yarworth has shattered the time held by the previous record holder by eight seconds. Records are hardly strangers to Yarworth, he has practically made a habit of them with six individual school marks to his credit.

While UMass was claiming victory in 9 of the 13 separate events a few performers were especially important to the Minuteman cause. The continued diving excellence of both Jim Antonino and Dan Conley earned them first and second in both the required diving and the optional diving events. UMass' Tyler also pulled off a double victory winning decisively the 200 and 500 freestyle categories.

With their team record currently 5-1 and with three victories in a row it is becoming obvious that rigorous practicing and devotion is paying off. Coach Bei Melamed payed tribute to all the members of his team stating, "Nobody works or trains harder than these boys. They get up to swim by 7:00 a.m., go off to classes and then are back at the pool every afternoon."

Coach Melamed did not want to commit himself but did express his optimism about this weekends' next meet in Vermont," the team is swimming well and we should be able to beat them but swimming can sometimes be unpredictable."

By Monday we will know the outcome.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Men's basketball Rutgers 74 UMass 62
Women's swimming at Boston College cancelled
TODAY
Hockey vs Bowdoin, Orr Rink, 8 p.m.
Women's JV basketball vs Smith home 7 p.m.

Providing Rhode Island is able to dig itself out of the recent snowstorm, the UMass women's swim team will host URI in a 1:00 meet at NOPE Saturday. Shown here is freshman butterflier Kim Murphy performing at the team's last meet against Springfield College. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Gymwomen visit Temple

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

In recent years Temple University hasn't been a very threatening opponent for the UMass gymwomen. This year, however, is a different story as the team has been significantly weakened by injuries and illness. When the Minutewomen travel to Philadelphia on Saturday they will be without the services of three of the four all-around performers.

Senior Stephanie Jones, the top performer for UMass this season has been given a week off to recuperate from a hip injury. She will miss the Temple meet and will also sit out next week's meet against Southern Connecticut.

Captain Karen Hemberger is out with the flu and will not make the trip. Coleen Thorton, the teams third all-around performer is a questionable competitor due to a muscle pull suffered during practice on Wednesday.

So who will be competing for UMass? Senior Susan Cantwell will anchor the all-round position in a return to her home town. Cheryl Morrier, coming off a bout with the flu will also compete as an all-around performer as will freshwoman Debbie Smith. The fourth all-around position is still undecided at this writing. Coach Virginia Evans is hoping Thorton will be ready to compete but if not the slot will be filled by one of the specializing gymnasts.

"I imagine it will be a very close meet because of the change in line up, where we would normally walk away with the meet," said Evans.

Temple is a young team; three of four all-around performers are freshwomen. Roxanne Pierce, a former Olympic gymnast competes for Temple but is scheduled only to see action on the balance beam due to a neck injury suffered last season. Late in January Temple was ranked 12th in the East behind second place UMass.

The gymwomen, now 2-1 are entering the roughest section of their regular season with five meets in the next two weeks. Coming off a tough loss to Michigan State and faced with a multitude of injuries, the depth of the team will really be tested. "The team has a good attitude going into the meet", said Coach Evans. "They know the team is not going with its most experienced lineup but I know we can still come through with a strong performance," added Evans.

Also competing for the gymwomen will be Kim Whitelaw in vaulting, Debbie Law in vaulting and the uneven parallel bars, Jean Anderson on bars, Laurie Knapp on the balance beam and Julie Myers on the floor and beam. UMass will probably only have four women competing on the floor as regular floor performers are either out of the line up or filling in for the missing all-around competitors.

FLIPPING FORWARD: The double dual meet against Southern Conn. in the Cage has been rescheduled to Wednesday February 15 at 7:30 p.m. to accommodate the rescheduling of several UMass basketball games.

Scarlet Knights trounce Cagers

Intimidation was the name of the game for Rutgers last night as they soundly defeated UMass. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

PISCATAWAY, N.J. — For Rutgers last night, it was as easy as "ABC" — Anderson, Bailey, and Copeland that is, as the Scarlet Knights withstood a UMass comeback for a 74-62 victory over the Minutemen before 4,890 fans.

It was all the power of the Rutgers frontcourt of Abdel Anderson (13), James Bailey (22), and Hollis Copeland (22) that powered the Knights to a 44-31 halftime lead and only let the "outmanned" Minutemen to within eight in the second half.

UMass forwards Mike Pyatt and Brad Johnson did not even make the trip to Rutgers and are doubtful for UMass's encounter with Maine tomorrow night. Both are suffering from the flu.

Pyatt's absence was a severe blow to the UMass offense as his shooting (15.9) per game was sorely missed. The UMass backcourt of Alex Eldridge (18) and Derick Claiborne (13) took the burden of the offense, while Mark Haymore added 16.

In Pyatt's absence, the UMass frontcourt only managed 31 points (out of 62 points) while Rutgers netted 57 of its 74 from the "ABC" combination.

"Sure, we missed Mike. He can kill Rutgers singlehandedly, as he did last year. But we blew this game ourselves," said UMass coach Jack Leaman.

With Rutgers leading 64-54, the Minutemen had a tremendous chance to trail by eight but blew a 4-1 fastbreak.

Rutgers rebounded, set up Bailey for a jump shot that connected, and UMass trailed by 12 with 4:19 left in the game.

To UMass's credit they came back to within eight as Eric Williams hit a jumper and Haymore drove to the basket for two, but then Rutgers, behind the dribbling of guards Rodney Duncan and Tom Brown, controlled the clock.

For two straight minutes, the Knights passed the ball around and finally set up Copeland inside for a driving layup, giving Rutgers the commanding lead 70-62 with 1'11 left in the game.

Williams again hit a jumper with '59 left, but Copeland came back with two immense stuff shots to kill any UMass hopes.

In retrospect, the game was lost in the first half, and most certainly in the first ten minutes of play. UMass did not rebound the ball until the 11:30 mark, while Rutgers jumped off to a 20-12 mark behind Bailey (8), Anderson and Copeland (6 apiece).

In fact the ABC unit was to have a combination of 35 of the Knights 44 halftime total while controlling the rebounding edge 17-9.

The Minutemen were fortunate to only be trailing by 13 at the half as Eldridge, who shot 8-8 for the entire game, was hot with ten halftime points. Claiborne (9) and Haymore (8) were the only other offensive threats.

Trailing by 15 with 17:35 to go in the game, UMass, behind Eldridge, Claiborne, Haymore, Williams, and Kohlhaas, started its comeback. Within a span of 7:15, Eldridge (4), Claiborne (4), and Williams (4) outscored Rutgers 15-10 to only trail by eight.

However, Copeland and Duncan hit outside jump shots and UMass was behind by ten again with 7:48 left.

"We were lackadaiscal when we most needed it," said Williams, who scored 12 for the game. "You can't play this team without fire."

"We did as well as we could without Pyatt," said team captain Claiborne. "We blew our chances again in the second half but we fought hard."

TURN TO PAGE 18

Red-hot icemen hosting tough Bowdoin tonight

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

As the saying goes, 'when you're hot, you're hot' and right now, it just is not possible to be any hotter than the UMass hockey team.

The Minutemen, 1-5 on December 5 are currently 7-6-1. They have won four games in a row, and are undefeated in their last five contests.

In the last week, the Minutemen have risen from 12 to a very respectable 7th place in the Western Division of ECAC Division II.

The UMies are 4-0-1 in 1978, with their latest triumphs coming last weekend at Orr Rink when they hauled out the heavy artillery and scored 15 goals in two nights.

On Friday night, the Minutemen pulled off what might go down as the biggest upset of the year in ECAC Div. II when they stunned Merrimack, the defending division champ, 7-6 in overtime.

On Saturday night the Minutemen came back and simply demolished the Chargers of New Haven, as they scored a season high six goals in the second period and ran away with an easy 8-3 win.

If the UMies hope to continue their winning ways, they will have to play giant-killers again this weekend as they entertain the current leaders of the Eastern Division, Bowdoin tonight, and the always tough White Mules from Colby College tomorrow night, in 8:00 games at Orr Rink.

Bowdoin, coached by Sidney Watson, is currently 11-0, the only undefeated team in ECAC Div. II. The Polar Bears are 13-2 overall, with their only losses coming at the hands of Div. I powers UNH and Northeastern.

The Polar Bears, who were 16-7 a year ago, are led offensively by forwards Dave Boucher and Bob Devaney, each with 25 points, and Paul Sylvester, with 22.

In goal for the Polar Bears will be junior Bob Menzies. Menzies has done virtually all of the netminding for Bowdoin and boasts a 3.41 goals-against average.

Colby is currently 6-8-1, coming off successive losses to Middlebury and Bowdoin. The White Mules are a very scrappy hockey team however, that is not easily beaten, as evidenced by their performance Wednesday night when they battled the Polar Bears to a standoff for three periods, only to lose 4-3 in overtime.

The White Mules, coached by Mickie Goulet, have 19 returning lettermen, paced by scoring leaders Dale Hewitt with 19 points and Tom Scannell with 17 points. Sophomore Joe Faulstich will be handling the goaltending for Colby.

For UMass, their recent winning streak has been the product of balanced hockey, a team effort all the way, as evidenced by the fact that five Minutemen scored goals against Merrimack and six tallied against New Haven.

The keys to victory have been a fired-up offense that has tallied over 35 shots on net in each of the last three games, a solid forechecking effort, a stubborn defensive effort by the entire team and the courageous goaltending of John Riley.

The UMies are doing important things right that they were not doing in December. They are taking advantage when they have the power play, killing penalties effectively, beating their opponents into the corners, and passing and setting up well.

For the Minutemen, who are now in contention for a playoff berth, the plan has been to concentrate on each game as it comes, and take them one at a time. Thus far, the plan is working pretty well.

Ticket Refund

PLAYOFF TICKETS — Due to a telephone failure, there was a short period of time when student tickets were not available (at the Stadium ticket booth) for the UMass-Lehigh NCAA playoff football game November 26. If you paid $4 for a ticket during this time, you are entitled to a $2 refund. You may pick up your refund at the Boyden Building Ticket Office during normal business hours upon presentation of your ID and ($4) ticket stub.

Bill Edelstein

A game at the Cage

In many respects sport has been compared to the military battle. Comedian George Carlin has likened football, and its preoccupation with capturing opponent's territory, to armed conflict. Though the Celtics' primary concern is basketball, Johnny Most has countless times intoned that "World War III is going on out there!"

Unquestionably, sports do, at times, tend to become rather heated — but who would ever have thought that right here at an institute of comparatively higher education, fans too, would be forced into the affray at the recent West Virginia game...

Dear Mary,

If this letter ever reaches you, it may be the last time you hear from me.

The remains of the battle go on around me.

When we first engaged the enemy we were over four thousand strong. Now only a handful of us stand, huddled against the biting cold, outside the two access doors of the well-fortified Cage. Our objective; to redeem a small portion of our collective athletic fees, is all but forgotten.

As the battle began, things looked good for us. We stormed both doors with ease, wielding razer-sharp I.D.'s. It had all the makings of a rout.

The enemy couldn't have picked a more crucial moment to use chemical warfare. Sabotaging our ranks with Curry Hicks hot dogs, our odious adversaries then ordered an usher camoflouged as a package of Rolaids to the rear of our forces, whereupon he menacingly screamed at us, "How do you spell relief?"

It didn't take long for us to descend upon the miserable beggar and trample him, but by the time we realized he was not medicinal, the access doors had been bolted shut, leaving almost a hundred of us cut off from the main force.

Regrouping, we rushed the side door repeatedly, until we saw that the unfortunate people who led one assault rarely participated in the next. The time had come to formulate a new plan of attack.

We decided to ait for our forces on the inside to overwhelm the guards and reopen the doors. Ten minutes passed before we began to hear the screams. A few of us dared to put our ears to the door.

It sounded like Dunkirk. God only knows what they could be doing to the poor shmucks. Boiling oil, Chinese water torture, Gong Show reruns — all these were postulated, but I could tell immediately that these theories were founded in purest optimism. The inscrutable enemy must be showing closed circuit, slow-motion, instant replays of the last 39 seconds of the Providence game.

Rescue would not be easy. After minutes of agonizing plotting, we opted to use the media to our advantage. Half our remaining forces deployed themselves at the front access door while the rest stayed at the side gate. Carefully situating the loudest in each group at the head of the pack, we began gesticulating wildly and hollering, "press, press, press!"

Although this ploy failed miserably, at least we were reassured that our troops inside the Cage were still alive, because we heard them take up our chant.

We all regrouped at the front access door which afforded us a view of a guard. The need for a direct challenge was apparent so we issued one, attracking the guard's attention by directing gestures of questionable taste towards his person. The enemy, much to our chagrin, was predictably a coward and chose to ignore us instead of opening the door and engaging all of us in combat like a man.

Only sweet reason would win this man over to our cause, so it was determined to invite him outside and offer to use his blood to satiate our thirst for sport.

When this too met with a negative response, we were stumped.

I fear our upcoming attack may be suicidal; requiring both a climb to the roof to bore a hole and a jump down to the court. If our plan fails, I may never see you again, Mary, but if it works, I'll meet you at the Wall in an hour.

Love,
John

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 82 MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Demers answers student charges

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Student Activities Coordinator Armand H. "Bud" Demers responded in a weekend Collegian interview to accusations which criticized his performance as coordinator and also explained his statement made on Jan. 12 that he is "responsible to the University and not the student senate."

Demers made this statement in a Jan. 12 coordinating committee meeting. Last weekend, Demers said he was responsible to the University because he reports to Vice Chancelor Robert L. Woodbury. Demers said that although he is responsible to the University, he is "responsive to students." Demers is paid by student activities fees.

In last Wednesday's student senate meeting, a motion was tabled which called for Demers to be transferred to another position. No action will be taken until student leaders meet with Demers and Woodbury early this week.

Demers was chosen as coordinator last summer by a search committee after having served as acting coordinator for about one year. The job of Activities Coordinator is to maintain the Recognized Student Orgnaization (RSO) office and to oversee all student activities ranging from movies to the auto pool.

In the Jan. 12 Coordinating Committee meeting Demers was requested $13,000 for the activities office. During the summer student budgets had been cut by 6 per cent. Demers assumed his office was exempted.

According to Demers, he was told at the meeting that if he could not appropriately manage the monies that he should not approach the senate for the monies. Demers felt this was an "affront to my integrity." Bud Demers walked out of the meeting. "Hell" he said, "I don't have to take that kind of shit."

Demers said the statement about managing the monies was made "in a very, very cold and insulting manner. I felt the stability of the meeting had broken down; I did not want to be there any longer."

Some student government officials felt that Demers left because he felt he did not have to answer to students' questions.

A major factor into the coordinator's performance has been his health. Demers injured his back a few years ago while working at the RSO office. Student Government Association Co-president Jon A. Hite said, "We've all got to recognize that Bud has been under a tremendous amount of physical pain. It hurts his professional life, it hurts his personal life." Demers has not been in the office more than one week out of the last five.

Senate Speaker Pat Whelan said "Demers takes criticism very personally. He is a very sensitive individual." Whelan added, "morale in the office is low ... " Whalen also feels that Demers "fears that people with innovation and drive threaten his position."

Demers agreed that office morale is low. He said this was due to a lack of personnel and "my inability to be there as often as I would like to be." He strongly denied Whelan's accusation about innovators. "If people feel I fear innovators, they don't know me."

Whelan said administration officials "would not fire him. They would transfer him. Some people in the administration feel the same as I do but will not publicly admit it." Whelan was referring to his feeling that Demers should be replaced.

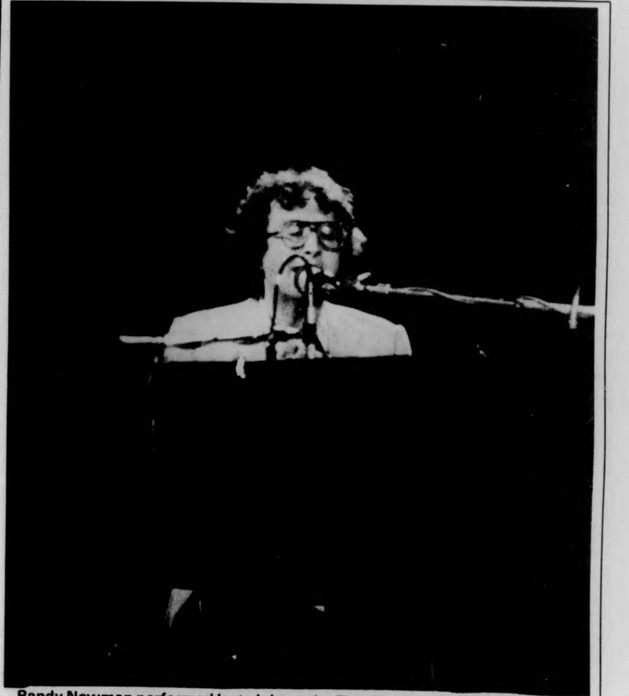
"We ought to give him more than six months," said Hite. "If his health improves he will be greater than our expectations." Hite suggested a "Memo of Understanding" which would outline what Demers is to do and what the students are to do. "He was injured at work, we are obliged to protect him," said Hite.

Both Treasurer Priscilla West and former Senate Speaker Brian DeLima want Demers to be removed from his position.

Demers said, "This breach in relations is very unhealthy." He feels the "lack of a definition of parameters is where some of the difficulty comes from." He added that his friction with student leaders is "not a problem unique to me alone." He said staffs in agencies like LSO have also had conflicts with students.

Demers, a UMass graduate, has worked at the University for the last ten years. From 1967 until 1976, Demers served as business manager for the RSO office. Student Government Association Co-president Jon A. Hite said, "When Bud was a business manager working with RSO groups in the red, his job was to help bail them out. I would have to see that kind of dedication terminated."

Brian DeLima, who supports the move to oust Demers, acknowledges his past service to students. "It's unfortunate he has already alienated student leaders. He has done a lot for students in the past, particularly as business manager."



Randy Newman performed last night at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall to an enthusiastic crowd. This was another of many concerts put on by the Union Program Council. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Storm may help Dukakis

By SEAN HORGAN
Collegian Staff

Last week's savage snow storm which left eastern Massachusetts frozen in a state of suspended animation may prove to be a political cloud with a silver lining for Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

Michael S. Dukakis

UMass faculty polled last night agreed the governor boosted his image with the Massachusetts voters in this election year with his personalized handling of the clean-up operations following the blizzard.

Using all forms of the media, Dukakis last week repeatedly stepped before the Massachusetts public in what many political observers marked as his most visual display of leadership since his election three years ago.

The governor's performance under the state of emergency seemed to thaw his public image of being a competent but cold administrator.

"There is no doubt he came out of the storm very well," said Ralph W. Whitehead, Jr. of the Journalistic Studies Department.

"The polls had shown people thought him competent, but chilly," Whitehead said, "The storm allowed him to demonstrate that competence, but it also gave him an aura of humanness.

Whitehead said he thought the governor's performance through last week could have some effect later in this election year. He pointed to the fact that many of the areas hardest hit by the storm are traditional Dukakis weak spots, in essence the older industrial cities of the Commonwealth. Last week's strong effort by Dukakis in these cities could mean an increase in his share of the blue-collar vote.

"He accepted a lot of responsibility for the

TURN TO PAGE 5

No plan yet to close North Pleasant Street

By BERNARD T. DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

Neither University nor Amherst officials have any immediate plans to reduce the hazardous crossing conditions on North Pleasant Street, where a UMass sophomore was fatally struck by a van nine days ago.

After eight years of trying to either close off the portion of North Pleasant Street that runs through the University or reroute traffic away from it, the town and the University have been talking very little, if at all, about any road changes.

"For eight years we tried to close that street," said H. Jack Littlefield, UMass planning director. Littlefield said last week there are not any major road changes planned "at the moment," and that he has not talked to town officials about any since Scott C. Burgess was killed while trying to cross the road Feb. 4.

Town Planner James Cope said the town is waiting for the University to present its most recent traffic counts conducted by Curran Associates Inc. of Northampton before planning any changes on the town-owned road. Over the summer, the town resurfaced the road and improved bus pulloffs.

Littlefield said it is up to the town the road less hazardous to pedestrians. "We certainly couldn't go into financing someone else's property with state funds," he said.

But with the town meeting last spring, negotiations over what to do with the road have fallen off. There is presently no committee dealing with rerouting traffic from North Pleasant Street or any similar traffic planning, according to Merle L. Howes, head of the last committee to deal with the traffic problem — the Northwest Road Committee.

According to Howes, the town is resistant to any kind of road building, as is the state Department of Public Works, which sunk $364,000 into designing alternate routes to North Pleasant Street, only to have the town reject the road construction plans.

The University first approached the town in 1968 with a plan to close the half-mile street of North Pleasant Street between the Newman Center and Governor's Drive. The state assigned its Department of Public Works to design alternate routes between North Amherst and the center of town in 1969, and for the next six years the University, town and DPW argued over projects dubbed the "Jughandle," "Northeast Bypass," and most recently, the "Northwest Road."

All three alternate routes were voted down by town residents, some of whom said the routes would cause more safety problems than they would solve, and some who said the routes would not attract enough traffic away from the center of town and North Pleasant Street to justify construction.

The Northeast Bypass had passed a 1973 town meeting, 199 to eight. Parents of Marks Meadow elementary school children objected to the safety hazard they thought the bypass would cause at its intersection with North Pleasant Street, and brought the issue before town meeting again in 1976, when town meeting members reversed their approval.

Last spring, town meeting eliminated proposals to extend Commonwealth Avenue to North Village Apts. and to build a road from this extension to North Pleasant Street. These proposals were designed to alleviate traffic to North Pleasant Street, without closing it.

The recent death of Burgess may prompt the University and town to again discuss the problem North Pleasant Street poses to University students who cross the road daily, said the chairperson of the Amherst Board of Selectmen, Diana H. Romer.

But little has been done since last spring. Romer said there are "problems in coordinating work that would have to be done" on the road. She added that "as far as I know, there is no indication that anybody will close the road. That's not an option at this point."

Littlefield said that is the problem: "How you avoid an accident of that type (referring to the fatal accident of Feb. 4) without closing the road." He said that many of the conventional solutions to traffic hazards will not work on North Pleasant Street.

Concert Review

Rampal thrills FAC audience

By E. PATRICK McQUAID
Below the Salt staff writer

The golden flute of Jean-Pierre Rampal came alive Saturday night to delight a full house at the University Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Accompanied by Robert Veyron-Lacroix at the piano the duo played selections from Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Donizetti, and Prokofieff, returning to the stage three times at the demand of the audience for encores.

Unquestionably Rampal is the most widely-known flutist alive. Few musicians play their instrument with the skill and imagination that Rampal breathes into every note. It is an honor for the Fine Arts Center to have had such a distinguished artisan perform under its roof.

The first selection was Bach's Sonata in B minor; a somewhat unusual piece to open with for throughout the first mood, Adante, the mathematical structure of the music, with intrical contrapuntal sequences pitted piano against flute. The harmonies were somewhat piercing in tone but the two musicians worked together and tossed them off with apparently little effort.

The result was not so much an exercise in the mechanics of this difficult piece but a brilliantly sharp rendition of Bach's music. It was played with precision and sensitivity.

Mozart's Sonatas in B flat major, K. 15, and in C major, K. 14 seemed to gallop at the whim of the musicians. Both pieces were light and airy with a sprite country tempo to them; perfect examples of the rich nature of the flute and keyboard.

Beethoven's Duo Serenade in D major, Opus 41 concluded the first half of the program bouncing among several moods and tempos and offering the duo a showpiece for their rare talents.

The final two program notes were Donizetti's Sonata in C major, a breezy, old-world folk piece, and Prokofieff's dynamic piece, and Prokofieff's dynamic Sonata in D major, Opus 94, a tremendous finale and display of the duo's technical talents and ability to perform together with clockwork precision.

Not to be underscored are the temperament and tastes of pianist Robert Veyron-Lacroix. Early in his career he chose the harpsichord as his first love and became proficient in many other instruments. He brought his fresh, clear technique to the Concert Hall stage and with Rampal there happened a magical performance Saturday night.

Beta Phi member killed in Vt.

WHITINGHAM, Vt. — A member of a UMass fraternity was killed and two others injured when the vehicle he was driving exploded after striking a snow bank off Rte. 100 here Saturday night.

Two others were also killed on the same road Saturday in an unrelated accident in Newport, Vt.

Vermont state police said Bradford H. Tucker, 21, of Beta Kappa Phi, was fatally burned when the Ford Bronco he was driving struck a snow bank, overturned and burst into flames. The accident occurred at 8:25 p.m., police said.

Police said Tucker was stuck behind the steering wheel and was unable to escape.

The two passengers, Ross Reiley, of Brittany Manor Apartments, and Brian Dow, of Belmont, were released from Franklin County Public Hospital after being treated for minor bumps and burns.

Twenty-two-year-old Eldon Blay, of Newport, and 24-year-old Milton Longley, of Orleans, were killed Saturday when the cars they were driving collided in a head-on crash in Newport. A third person was injured.

State police investigating the Tucker accident said it is against departmental policy for the investigator to disclose the cause of an accident to the press.

Funeral services for Tucker, an undeclared major in the class of 1980, are tomorrow morning at 11 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Ayer. There are no calling hours.

Tucker leaves his parents, Norman I. and Lucille, of Benjamin Road in Shirley, and four brothers and one sister; Kit, David, Gregory and Douglas, and Elizabeth.

In lieu of flowers, Tucker's parents have requested that donations in his name be sent to the American Red Cross for the victims of last week's storm which battered the eastern coastline of New England last week.

The controversy is over, but the beauty lives on. Quinnapiac adds character to the otherwise boring Southwest Towers. (Staff photo by Christopher Schmitt)

Agency plans discussed by Student Senate Comm.

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Over intersession, the Student Senate Coordinating Committee which served as the student government's central body discussed the possibility of combining Legal Services, the Student Organizing Project and the Student Center for Educational Research into one agency.

Members of the committee felt that these agencies, which are called "Advocacy Services," could do their jobs better if they were grouped into one organization. The proposal was only discussed and no concrete plans were drawn up.

The Coordinating Committee is made up of a Student Government Association Co-president, the speaker, treasurer and committee chairpersons of the Senate.

The Coordinating Committee also asked the SOP Board to ask for the resignation of their consultant Doug Phelps. Some members of the Committee felt that the tasks being done by Phelps could be done better by someone else. Phelps, who set up the advocacy agencies three years ago, now resides in Cambridge. Senate Speaker Pat Whelan said there was a desire to get a consultant for SOP who is closer to the campus. The speaker said Phelps "didn't know the situation on campus."

The Committee also discussed the publishing of the newly-combined Course and Teacher Evaluation (CATE) and Course Description Guide.

...newslines...

UMass bus funding topic of discussion

Funding of the UMass bus system will be the topic of discussion in a meeting between student government leaders and University officials Tuesday at 3:30, in Campus Center 911-915.

Previously scheduled for earlier last week, the meeting has been cancelled twice: once due to snow problems and the resulting shutdown of school, and once due to an epidemic of flu on campus.

Student leaders hope to convince University officials that the student government share of bus funding should be 70 per cent, rather than the proposed 85 per cent.

Eager drivers reports denied by local police

Northampton State Police last night disclaimed local radio reports that over the weekend they have been flooded by phone calls from people wanting to head east.

With over 12,000 UMass undergraduate students from homes east of Worcester, concern ran high concerning driving bans placed on several eastern communities, including Boston.

However, police denied any excess of phone calls concerning the bans, saying there were only a couple of calls which came in.

----Pamela Lindmark

Officials unavailable for comment on hiring rule

University officials were unavailable for comment over the weekend concerning major reforms within the University's affirmative action policies.

The reforms have been outlined in an 18-page document between the department of Health Education and Welfare in Boston and chief administrators at this campus, and are a result of a series of HEW letters sent to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery over past months.

Chancellor Bromery, Interim President Franklin K. Patterson, and HEW director of the Office for Civil Rights John G. Bynoe were all unavailable for comment.

Placement Office sponsors job program

Graduate business students who have extended their education to help get the best job possible in their field may find the break they've been waiting for Wednesday, Feb. 15, in Campus Center rooms 1001-1002 at 8 p.m. when the University Placement Office sponsors the spring session of their Job Skills Bank Program.

Some seven to ten alumni will be on hand to discuss job hunting tips, career information, and resume analysis. Ken Somers, graduate intern in the Office of Student Affairs, explained today that "every effort has been made to get representatives from all disciplines within the business school so that there'll be something for everybody."

All NBA-MSBA candidates are welcome to attend the event. A wine, cheese and beer party will follow the panel discussion that begins the program. All refreshments are free.

----Nikki Aronson

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Judy Van Handle

| | |
|---|---|
| Ad Layout | Gary Marchese |
| News Desk | Laura Kenney |
| Copy Desk | Ernie DiGregorio |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Geoff Kohler |
| Sports Layout | Russ Smith |
| With thanks to | The Coffee Shop Runners |
| Cheer Up Dept. | Rollin' on |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Feminist author may speak here

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: Due to errors in editing, the article entitled "Feminist Feels intimidated by DVP" [Collegian; 2-10] contained a number of misattributions and distortions. The following story contains corrections on that article and additional information about the Dworkin issue.

Possible rescheduling of the cancelled lecture by radical feminist author Andrea Dworkin will be discussed at tonight's Distinguished Visitors Program meeting.

Dworkin was originally scheduled to speak Feb. 9. The program was cancelled due to conflict between Dworkin and the Student Activities office.

Much of the conflict has centered around the amount of Dworkin's honorarium and the conditions under which she agreed to appear.

Dworkin claims that two months after the Nov. 14 DVP meeting at which committee members unanimously approved her program and agreed to pay her $1000, she received a call from Sarah Williamson, Student Activities program advisor.

Williamson reportedly asked her why she was charging the organization $1000 when she spoke at UMass for $250 during International Women's Week last spring.

"I explained to her that I routinely ask $1000 for a major lecture and $300 for a workshop," said Dworkin. "My appearance last spring was a workshop. I lowered my fee to $250 as a favor to friends who were organizing the conference."

Later on the day of that phone call John Stoltenberg, Dworkin's representative, arrived at Student Activities to deliver some biographical information on Dworkin that had been requested. He was told the program had been cancelled because Williamson and DVP committee member Suzi Milstein had "bad feelings about it."

Stoltenberg said he then spoke with Bill Hasson, Student Activities program coordinator, who said he wouldn't issue Dworkin's contract although she had been writing her speech for three weeks on the basis of a verbal agreement. Hasson said he wanted the Dworkin program reconsidered by the DVP committee.

Both Williamson and Hasson have justified the cancellation by citing "new information" about Dworkin, but have refused to reveal the contents of that information.

It now appears that DVP has been trying to obtain information about Dworkin's fees and activities from sources other than her representative. Stoltenberg said in the course of his negotiations with DVP, he mentioned that Dworkin was scheduled to speak at Yale University in the future.

Catharine A. MacKinnon, a lecturer in political science and women's studies at Yale, said she was party to a phone call on Feb. 3 during which DVP co-chairperson Mary Jude Dean misrepresented herself as someone from a group that was "considering inviting Dworkin to speak."

MacKinnon said, "Dean asked me for information concerning the date, format and amount of honorarium for Dworkin's appearance at Yale. She said DVP was calling several schools for this information. I suggested that Dworkin was the appropriate source for this information. Dean then said, 'it has been almost impossible for us to contact Dworkin personally. We've been dealing with her through an intermediary.' "

Dworkin claims she told DVP all they had to do to contact her directly was to leave a message with Stoltenberg and she would get back to them immediately.

MacKinnon said she refused to give Dean information concerning Dworkin's appearance at Yale because "it seemed suspicious to me that people at UMass were asking me for information they should have been getting from Dworkin herself."

Upon learning of the phone call, Dworkin said, "It's an incredible outrage to find out that people are chasing around after you when you don't know why or what they want. It's both an intrusion and a threat, and I think it's meant as a threat. The Student Activities office has no right whatsoever to any information about my activities or income, and no one has a right to pose and lie to get information on me."

Jude confirms that such a conversation took place. She added that such phone calls are "pretty much routine. It depends on what information we already have about the speaker. I felt that not all of the information previously given me about Dworkin was in factual form; that some of it was slanted. I was trying to get as much information as I could about what Dworkin does; what her lecture formats have been and what they will be in the future."

Stoltenberg responded, "Clearly a DVP co-chairperson, in collusion with the Student Activities staff, has attempted by stealth to scare up some more so-called "new information" against Dworkin — as if she were on trial — and because, I believe, none of Williamson's or Hasson's justifications for their actions hold any water. The question as to whether their opposition to the Dworkin lecture is based on ignorance, incompetence or malice seems to be resolving itself in favor of malice."

Supporters of Dworkin have been distributing information on campus and collecting signatures on petitions asking that Dworkin be allowed to appear as planned. They plan to attend the DVP meeting tonight at 6:30 in Campus Center 171 to push for reschedulement of the lecture.

Strategic Games Club members Peter Aronson and Edward Sienicki engage in an exciting game of Dungeons and Dragons. (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler)

Flu victims taper off

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

The UMass infirmary was "fairly quiet" over the weekend with relatively few serious flu fictims seeking medical attention, according to Dr. James R. Ralph, assistant medical director of University Health Services.

More people than usual bought aspirin and cough decongestants and visited the Cold Self-Care Center, but few flu victims were admitted to the infirmary, according to Ralph.

"There's no doubt many people have the flu but a great many know what to do about it. Surprisingly, most people must be eating rather well. And they realize they will be felling crummy for a day or two," said Ralph.

Last Tues., Wed. and Thurs. many people with high fevers caused by the flu visited the infirmary and there was a "heavy amount" of overnight patients admitted, but there has been a significant drop since then, according to Ralph.

He said there were only 13 inpatients this morning as compared to 30 last Wednesday.

"No one really knows what kind of virus it is," said Ralph. "It could have tapered off or it could be waiting for a new wave. It's hard to tell what's to come."

He said a large number of the general public appear to have it also.

Last night an Orchard Hill Area Government meeting was cancelled because of the flu outbreak, according to OHAG President Mark Hergenrother. As of last night, 10 to 12 of the 25-member council had the flu.

The virus is characterized by chills, headache, fever, cough, lack of appetite and muscle ache and requires plenty of rest, fluids and aspirin for relief of these symptoms.

Stores at UMass and surrounding areas reported unusually large amounts of orange juice, soup, Kleenex, and cold medicines sold over the weekend.

Franklin Munchys sold eight cases of orange juice (16 quarts per case) Thursday and an additional 60 quarts Friday, according to Manager Carla Bordeaux.

"Usually we sell about two cases a day," Bordeaux said. "Although we tried we couldn't get any more in for Saturday and Sunday so we sold a lot of Hi-C and apple and grapefruit juice. But most of the students wanted orange juice."

Hampden Munchys sold nine cases of orange juice between Wednesday night and Friday morning and 35 cases of Tropicana by Saturday.

Any type of juice is good for treating the flu, according to Dr. Ralph, as long as the patient isn't nauseous. "Even water is excellent," he said.

"We are totally out of cough medicine and had to get a rush order on aspirin," according to the night supervisor.

An employee of the Jane Alden Dairy Store in Amherst said, "We've sold unbelieveable amounts of orange juice, Kleenex, cough drops, and aspirin. They've been going like crazy."

Trustee calls investigation 'political garbage'

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

The proposals of three state representatives to include UMass-Amherst in an overall investigation of the Bureau of Building and Construction has been called "headlining" by a UMass trustee.

"Pure political garbage on their parts as far as I'm concerned," said UMass trustee Robert J. Spiller, chairman of the Trustee Buildings and Grounds Committee. Spiller said an investigation of UMass-Amherst buildings "would do no good whatsoever. It would just be a waste of time; they'll write a report and it will be ignored."

Reps. Andrew Card, R-Holbrook, Phillip Johnston D-Marshfield, and James G. Collins, D-Amherst have over the past week, pointed out several defective buildings built by the bureau for UMass-Amherst.

The reps have proposed that these buildings be investigated by a legislative committee they are trying to establish to conduct an overall investigation of the Bureau of Building Construction.

The representatives' proposals were also objected to by Amherst State Senator John Olver who feels that an investigation would be potentially harmful to the Amherst campus.

Two of the representatives, Card and Johnston, have introduced legislation which would create a blue ribbon committee with subpoena power to conduct a thorough investigation of the Bureau of Buildings and Grounds (BBC).

The call for an overall investigation of the BBC began after two state senators were convicted of extorting money from a New York engineering firm which was contracted to oversee the construction of the UMass-Boston Harbor Campus.

Card and Johnston brought to the public's attention defective buildings built by the BBC for UMass-Amherst during an interview last Sunday on a Boston radio station. They also expressed their hope that these buildings would be included in the BBC investigation.

Trustee Spiller also said that the board of trustees had been working with the BBC to correct any problems at UMass-Amherst and that the representatives' call for an investigation is a "johnny-come-lately notion."

The building which has been in the center of this controversy is the oil-fired heating plant at Tillson farm. Designed to heat the Amherst campus, the $10 million plant worked only eight months before it broke down in 1974. Since then the original coal heating plant, which was built in the late 1800's, has been in use.

The Tillson plant, built by the BBC, was not accepted by the University. It is now up to the BBC to determine who was responsible for the plant's breakdown and to make corrections. Spiller said that even though the talks between the board and the BBC have been going on for three years a solution is slowly being worked out.

"One never knows," he said.

Spiller said that "it's even conceivable that the fault does not lie with the BBC at all."

Vice-chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee John Olver, D-Amherst, has also voiced his opposition to the inclusion of the Amherst campus in an overall investigation of the BBC. Olver said that it would not be good for the image of the Amherst campus to be drawn into an investigation which is surrounded by a "circus mentality."

"I would not like to see the Amherst campus drawn into the same case with the UMass-Boston campus," said Olver last Wednesday. "There have been many other investigations but none of them has had the severe publicity that the UMass-Boston one has. I don't see what good it would do to the image of Amherst to have it dealt with in the same investigation."

Olver said that "all the bad actors would be found in a single investigations; there is no need to look into every one of them."

Olver said he does not know if there was a scandal involved in construction of UMass-Amherst buildings as there was in Boston.

Representative Collins said last Monday that he would like to see an investigation include Amherst buildings. Collins is a strong advocate of the legislation that would create an investigation committee.

However in a telephone interview Friday, Collins stressed that the investigation of the BBC should be statewide and not focused on Amherst. "We have to be sure that the UMass-Boston fallout doesn't hurt Amherst. I'm going to make sure that Amherst is not singled out, but that we adopt a statewide approach."

Collins said that he was concerned about the recent attention directed at the Amherst campus, attention he partially helped create with his remarks last Monday.

"I think that (the recent attention) is why we should head the investigation statewide now," said Collins." "Although Amherst is the flagship of state buildings."

Collins said the investigation would look into BBC construction practices and he does not expect to find further corruption. "But because we might find something we don't like doesn't mean we don't look," said Collins.

Trustee Spiller said last night that the legislators involved in an investigation is "Pure nonsense, they're just headlining."

Commuters expected to jam public transport

[AP] — Eastern Massachusetts goes back to work today for the first time in a week — its transportation system still staggering after the worst blizzard of the century — and bracing for monumental traffic jams.

At least 250,000 commuters to Boston will tax public transportation in rush hours that may last up to a total of eight hours coming and going — as long as the working day itself — according to the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

About 150,000 commuters ordinarily use buses, trains and subways into Boston, according to an MBTA spokesman.

But the authority expects at least 60 percent more riders on equipment operating up to 80 percent of normal use since the record 27-inch blizzard which smothered the area a week ago. Use of private cars still was banned in Boston and surrounding communities, adding mass transit riders who usually drive into the city.

About 100,000 automobiles carry workers each ordinary day into Boston, according to MBTA spokesman Rod Ferris who said, "You know what kind of horror show it will be."

Transportation and state officials have appealed to businesses to permit workers to arrive and depart at staggered times, in effect, extending the rush-hour times from their usual two to four hours coming and going.

Some surrounding communities also banning private vehicles have arranged for bus shuttles to carry workers to transportation lins into Boston. The town of Stoughton expected up to 3,000 instead of the usual 500 rail commuters in Boston.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service warned that most of Massachusetts could receive more snow from a southwestern storm system expected to reach the Berkshires by late Monday night and move across the state.

"It would be just a guess to estimate accumulation at this point," said forecaster Gary Schmeling at Boston. "It depends on two variables — the course of the storm and when it will change from snow to rain."

Whatever snow does fall will probably be heavier in inland areas than along the coast, he said.

The Red Cross started phasing out its emergency shelters, replacing them with financial assistance centers in flood-damaged coastal communities where caseworkers distributed coupons redeemable for food, clothing and other essentials.

Six shelters remained in operation, housing about 400 persons. An additional 2,700 persons were in private homes but were depending on the Red Cross for food.

Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill 3rd said federal disaster relief offices were expected to start operations by Tuesday throughout eastern and southern Massachusetts. The offices will process applications mainly for low-interest loans.

O'Neill said state officials were trying to persuade federal authorities to expand the state's official disaster zone to include parts of Worcester and Middlesex counties so those areas also could qualify for the special assistance.

SCITUATE — Residents of this coastal town look up at homes that were tossed about by last week's storm. (UPI)

The irony of the storm leaves lobsters ashore

BOSTON [AP] — It was nature's way of being ironic. The same Northeast snowstorm that toppled homes, tore through boardwalks and smashed seawalls left the Massachusetts coastline littered with thousands of lobsters.

While many other residents of the coastal town of Marshfield, about 40 miles south of Boston, slept in shelters because their homes had been flooded or leveled by the storm, Bartlett Webber, his wife, Kathy, and their neighbors had feasted on lobster Wednesday.

They had not lights or electricity because the town, now declared a disaster area, had lost its power. But they lit candles, poured glasses of wine and cooked pot after pot of lobsters on their gas stove.

Bartlett Webber, a teacher, had been lucky enough to discover the expensive shellfish before they froze. Dead lobsters, even when cooked, can be fatal if consumed, and state officials later warned coastal residents not to collect the shellfish unless they were certain they were alive.

Webber had carried a couple of buckets to his neighborhood beach hoping to find some sea clams after the storm. His jaw dropped in amazement when he turned the corner and discovered thousands of lobsters washed up on the shore.

"There were 50 to 75 people all over the beach, filling their jackets, pails, everything they could think of with lobsters," he said.

Webber and a neighbor filled their buckets with the lobsters, none of which weighed more than two pounds. Later they returned to scoop more lobsters from Rexhame Beach, collecting a total of almost a hundred.

"It was astounding, but somewhat tragic," said Webber, who said he fished for lobsters when he was a boy.

"Just the idea of all sizes of them laying helplessly along the beach. I didn't feel as if I should really take advantage of it, but they would have died anyway. It looked like most of them weren't even alive and those that were alive were in a state of shock."

A couple of miles away in Hull, Paul J. Reale, who was out for a walk on the each, spotted about ten people huddled around a fire cooking lobsters tossed ashore by the surf. Someone used a hockey stick to stir the boiling water in the kettle, while a woman cradled a wounded seagull in her lap.

Reale was invited to join the strangers, and learned that one of them, James Corcoran, a house painter, would be dining on lobster only a few yards from the rubble of his home and business, ravaged by the storm.

Lobstermen and state officials are uncertain what impact the loss will have on the supply and price of lobsters, which now sell for four to five dollars a pound. The meat retails for about $15 to $16 a pound.

One lobsterman said he doubted the loss would raise prices in the future, "because they (the lobsters) multiply pretty fast."

But Robert Barlow, executive director of the Massachusetts Lobstermen's Association, was less optimistic.

"This is obviously going to affect the industry for several years. I don't know how serious it may be, but it may just affect those local areas because lobsters don't move very much."

Barlow said he believed the full effect would not be felt for several years, when the lobsters that were washed ashore would have been harvested.

Former Harvard president dies after lengthy illness

HANOVER, N.H. [UPI] — James Bryant Conant, former president of Harvard University and a world-renowned chemist, died Saturday night in a nursing home after a lengthy illness. He was 84.

Conant, a modern-day Renaissance man, was Harvard's president from 1933 to 1953. He also founded the Nieman Fellowship Awards for journalism, helped develop the atomic bomb, was the country's first ambassador to West Germany and published several books on education.

Born in Boston's Dorchester section, Conant received his education at Roxbury Latin High.

After receiving his doctorate in chemistry from Harvard in 1916, he joined the faculty at the Ivy League school. He received international acclaim as an organic chemist for his extensive research there on the structure and characteristics on chlorophyll and the nature of hemoglobin.

In 1940, he became a member of the National Defense Research Committee and was responsible for much of the research done on nuclear fission. Conant also served as an adviser to Gen. Leslie R. Groves, commander of the Manhattan District Atomic Project.

In his quest for higher education, Conant helped create the National Science Foundation and began the annual Harvard National Scholarships. He parlayed a bequest to promote better journalism into the Nieman Fellowships, which enabled newspaper reporters to pursue advanced studies at Harvard.

After retiring from Harvard in 1953, Conant served as U.S. High Commissioner for Germany until 1955, when he became the first U.S. ambassador to West Germany.

Upon returning home in 1957, Conant concentrated his efforts on the quality of American education on the high school and secondary levels. His studies led to the revamping of some curricula, particularly in mathematics and the sciences.

Conant received the Medal of Merit from President Harry S. Truman in 1948.

He served as a member of the Geneal Advisory Committee to the Atomic Energy Commission and was invited to the White House in 1959 to receive the Atomic-Pioneer Award for his distinguished work.

Lowell man found knifed

LOWELL [AP] — A Lowell man was charged with murder yesterday after another man was found stabbed to death in his apartment, police said.

Detectives said Jorge Correa, 29, would be arraigned Monday on charges of murder and assault with a dangerous weapon. He was held at the city jail without bail.

The victim, a man about the same age as Correa, was not immediately identified.

Investigators said the stabbing occurred early yesterday after a fight broke out at Correa's Lincoln Street apartment.

Three perish in Vt. blaze

LUDLOW, Vt. [AP] — Three children from Connecticut perished yesterday in a fire that destroyed an 11-room lakefront cottage while their parents were away, police said.

The victims were identified as Jamie Cannon, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cannon of Canton; Kris Ann Lombardi, 12, or Guilford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Lombardi; and Sean Prescott, 10, son of Neal Prescott of Manchester. Police said four other children, whose names were not available, escaped and were treated at a hospital in Springfield. The extent of their injuries was unknown.

Janet Williams, police dispatcher, said the parents were away from the cottage, the "White Birch," owned by Kenneth Archibald of Ludlow when the fire broke out.

She said it was not known immediately how many and whose parents had been staying at the Lake Rescue cottage with the children.

The cause of the fire was under investigation.

The Brotherhood of PI KAPPA ALPHA
wishes to congratulate its new Brothers:

Peter Just
Louis Capponi
Shaun Kimball
Philip Lukoff
Jim Rand
Stuart Tobin

Mark Messier
Ken Kravitz
Rob Seltzer
Steve Sands
Mark Chaplin
Mike Poole
Brad Golden

Good luck in all future endeavors!

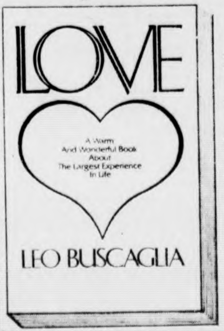
All you need is love.



LEO BUSCAGLIA

A Warm And Wonderful Book About The Largest Experience In Life

Now in paperback. $1.95

FAWCETT CREST

Search halted in L.A. flood

LOS ANGELES [UPI] — A new rain and snow storm moved into the devastated hills and mountains north of Los Angeles yesterday, forcing a halt to the search for a dozen persons still missing in a resort area following Friday's deluge.

The rain also pelted other areas of Southern California bringing fears of a new onslaught of rock and mud-slides.

The known death toll stood at 11, plus those missing in the Hidden Springs area and at least three others unaccounted for in other sections.

The Los Angeles County Flood Control District estimated Sunday it had spent $5 to $7 million since Thursday night solely in clearing debris and repairing dams.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley declared a state of emergency in the Sunland and Tujunga areas where 120 homes had been damaged and five destroyed. He estimated property damage at $22.6 million and predicted it would rise.

The declaration made it possible for private property owners and the city to apply for appropriate federal and state assistance, he said.

Heavy snow began falling in the Angeles National Forest in early afternoon.

Search parties, using horseback riders, helicopters and four-wheel drive vehicles in the mud-filled ravines had been withdrawn earlier in the day when the weather bureau warned that two more inches of rain with thunderstorms were moving in from the ocean.

Another body had been found beneath the mud before The search was halted.

"Those mountains are saturated now," a sheriff's department spokesman said. "The danger of slides is greater. Some of the boulders are just hanging there waiting to fall."

LA CRESENTA, Calif. — A man stands in disbelief as he views a tangle of cars and household goods in the backyard of a home hard hit by the Southern California rainstorms. (UPI) storm, and that makes an impression," Whitehead said.

★ Dukakis

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Harvey L. Friedman of the Political Science Department termed Dukakis' performance last week "extremely satisfying."

"He took total control," Friedman said, "He ran the whole show in a way that showed everyone he was the boss. I admired the way he acted."

Both Whitehead and Friedman agreed that even without last week's strong display of leadership during the state of emergency, Dukakis should have no trouble taking the Democratic nomination and gaining re-election in November.

"I can't see anyone else on the horizon, either Republican or Democrat, whose views are more reflective of the voters in this state," Friedman said.

Dukakis faces opposition among his own party from Edward J. King, the former director of MassPort, who last year announced his intentions for the nomination. So far, three Republicans have announced their candidacy. They are Rep. Francis W. Hatch of Beverly, John J. Buckley, sheriff of Middlesex County and Edward F. King of the Citizens for Limited Taxation.

Barge freed; Ohio River clear

WARSAW, Ky. [UPI] — More than two weeks of frustration and fear have ended for Army Corps of Engineers personnel and private towboat operators, as critical commercial barge traffic is moving again on the Ohio River past the Markland Dam.

"Snakebitten — that dam's snakebitten," was an observation repeated often by workers on river vessels and at the Markland Locks to describe the series of problems which have plagued the dam since Jan. 27.

But there were many expressions of joy and relief late Saturday when the first barges began moving through the locks, carrying critical supplies of fuel oil, coal, rock salt and other commodities for cities upriver. The Markland Dam is located 40 miles downriver from Cincinnati.

The dam's locks had been blocked for six days by a huge fuel barge which became wedged in ice along the upper approach to the main lock chamber. Steady subfreezing weather last week repeatedly thwarted attempts to move the barge.

But corps engineers said warmer temperatures, strong ice-dissolving chemicals and the greater buoyancy of the unloaded fuel barge finally did the trick, when five hours of gentle nudging by towboats succeeded in freeing the craft Saturday afternoon.

"We even had men chipping away at the ice with axes," said Martin Pedigo, a corps spokesperson.

The motor vessels used special "soft lines", with a spring-like effect to push and pull gently at the barge. Once the craft had been moved about 25 feet from where it originally was stuck, corps personnel were able to close the upper lock gate and lower the lock pool.

There were 29 towboats hauling barges waiting to move upstream and 19 waiting to travel downstream when the locks reopened Saturday night, Pedigo said. "We will be locking those going upriver first, and that probably will take the first day or two. After that, we'll alternate locking between up and downriver traffic."

When barges began moving through the Markland facility late Saturday, it was the first time, other than a few hours last Monday, that the troubled dam had been open since Jan. 27. On that day, a mammoth ice gorge several miles away broke up and floated downstream, blocking the face of the structure.

The tons of ice moved downriver and sent nearly 100 barges out of control. Some barges were ripped from their moorings on the river bank, while others were torn away from their towboats.

Despite frantic efforts to corral the runaway barges, at least 17 were caught on the face of the dam.

Patient dies before court decides her fate

EDISON, N.J. [AP] — A 70-year-old comatose woman whose fate was to be decided under the state's "right-to-die" procedures, died at a hospital early yesterday despite life-sustaining equipment.

Helen Dembowski died at 5 a.m. EST, less than a day after a John F. Kennedy Medical Center ethics committee met to decide whether her respirator should be removed as requested by her daughter.

Hospital spokesman Robert Loder said the official cause of death had not been listed, but he said he understood the woman died from a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Loder said he wasn't sure it the ethics committee decision would be presented tomorrow as scheduled, to Superior Court Judge David D. Furman in Middlesex County.

"The lawyers are going to meet tomorrow with the judge to discuss the whole thing," Loder said yesterday.

Mrs. Dembrowski's fate was being decided under guidelines established after the 1976 New Jersey Supreme Court ruling that the parents of comatose Karen Ann Quinlan had a right to order doctors to turn off her respirator so she could "die with dignity."

Mrs. Dembrowski was admitted to the hospital on Jan. 31 after complaining of dizziness and vomiting. Two days later she lapsed into a coma caused by massive brain damage, doctors said. She had been kept alive since with the aid of a respirator.

Her daughter, Mrs. Lois Price of Edison, had asked that her mother be removed from the respirator "so she could die a natural death." After being appointed Mrs. Dembrowski's legal guardian, she told a judge last Friday that her mother had requested that no extraordinary means be used to keep her alive.

Mrs. Dembowski's doctor, Eugene L. Childers, had said the patient's brain showed no signs of life, and without the respirator, she would live about 30 minutes.

In the celebrated Quinlan case, doctors said the 23-year-old woman would die without a respirator. But Miss Quinlan remained alive at Morris View Nursing Home in Morris Plains after her respirator was turned off.

Tutor with N.E.S.
Northern Educational Services

You'll HELP kids who want it while YOU get EXPERIENCE.

available credit
Stop by Rm. 403 SUB (5-0910) or call Lisa at 549-1668 or Michelle at 5-2092.
free transport

Organ. Meeting Feb. 13th, 7:00 p.m., 3rd Fl. Lounge Hills So.

ALL UMASS MEN WELCOME
OPEN RUSH
AT BETA KAPPA PHI
ON
MON., FEB. 13 8:00 p.m.
TUES., FEB. 14 8:00 p.m.
THURS., FEB. 16 8:00 p.m.
and
SUN., FEB. 19 6:30 p.m.
REFRESHMENTS
388 NO. PLEASANT ST.
(Big white brick house one block from campus)
CALL 5-0210 FOR INFO.

Rhode Island improving but emergency still on

PROVIDENCE [AP] — Civilian traffic began moving on Rhode Island highways and Green State Airport opened to commercial flights yesterday for the first time since the devastating blizzard hit a week ago.

In snowed-locked Providence, dozens of streets were still unplowed and some food and fuel shortages were reported, but the rest of the state was back to near normal.

"I think for the state things are looking excellent," Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy said. "The entire state highway system will be open for necessary traffic by tomorrow."

"I say necessary traffic because we don't want a lot of joy-riders around the state just because the highways are open," Garrahy said.

Providence continued to look like a war torn-state, with khaki-colored Army trucks roaring along city streets and helicopters chopping overhead. Uniformed soldiers outnumbered civilian pedestrians in the downtown area most of the day.

Traffic bans remained in effect in Providence and in scattered outlying communities. Woonsocket, one of the towns hardest hit by the storm, was scheduled to lift its traffic ban at midnight Sunday.

The state organized emergency pick-up points for heating oil in Providence and several other communities.

Families were allowed to take up to 40 gallons of oil in their own containers. According to Santo Amato, a state director of Civil Preparedness, about 2,000 persons took advantage of the offer.

"Sometimes the whole family would come. They'd pick up ten gallons at a time, in two gallon anti-freeze cans, in plastic tubs or in five-gallon jerry cans. They'd carry it away on sleds, wagons, anything they could get."

Fresh milk and bread were in short supply in some stores, and scattered instances of price gouging were reported. Amato said he received reports of milk being sold for $1 a half gallon and bread being sold for $1 a loaf.

According to the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, 59 army troops from Massachusetts joined the 483 troops already on duty to help with snow removal efforts.

"The federal effort to help Rhode Island dig out of its snow emergency is making excellent progress," said Joseph D. Winkle, federal coordinating officer. "The federal force is swelling daily."

Garrahy said the state of emergency would probably continue for a few days more.

SCITUATE — Workers this weekend begin clearing out debris in this South Shore community which was battered by last week's hurricane-force winds of the Atlantic Ocean. (UPI)

EXPONENTIAL, MY DEAR WATSON

ACADEMIC YEAR²

If you have at least two years of graduate or undergraduate education ahead, and you keep getting clues that your money is running short, then a two-year Air Force ROTC scholarship may be the solution.

Currently we're seeking young men and women who would like to serve their nation as Air Force Officers. Consequently, if you're majoring in a selected, technical/non-technical, scientific, nursing, or pre-medical field, or can qualify for pilot, navigator, or missile training, then you may be eligible for a two-year Air Force ROTC scholarship. The scholarship pays your tuition, lab fees, (plus incidental fees), books, and $100 per month tax free. And even if you don't qualify for the two-year scholarship, you still receive the $100 a month while enrolled in the Air Force ROTC two-year program.

What do we ask in return? That you serve America at least four years as an Air Force officer. Your Air Force ROTC counselor has the details and qualification requirements. Check it out. It might even make your education finances seem elementary.

CALL 5-2437

AIR FORCE ROTC

Gateway to a great way of life.

Say something loving on February 14.

Valentine's Day Cards

American Greetings

Creative excellence is an American tradition.

the University Store

MURRAY D. LINCOLN CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01003

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

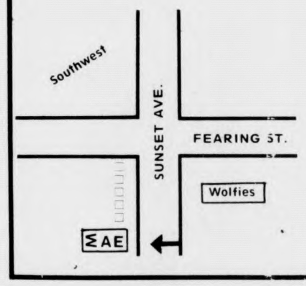
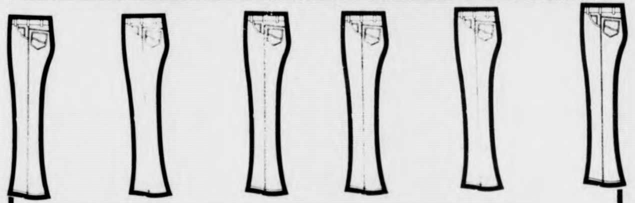
Find out what fraternity life is like — all university men are welcome to attend.



WHEN: Mon., Feb. 13
Tues., Feb. 14
Wed., Feb. 15
WHERE: 118 Sunset Ave.
TIME: 7:30-9:30

For Info. & Rides
Call 545-2151



Men's Pant Sale

Selected pants from
Lee & Mann & Golden Vee

$4.99 while they last jeans • leisure slacks • cords

in the clothing shop

at the University Store

Somalia readies for war

Somalian says Vance copping out

MOGADISHU, Somalia [UPI] — President Siad Barre told a rally of 100,000 Somalis yesterday that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance had dashed all his hopes for Western help in the war against Soviet-backed Ethiopia.

The crowd, chanting "down with Russia, down with Cuba," rallied in support of the government's decision to openly send regular Somali troops into the Ogaden desert war and declare a nationwide military mobilization.

Some observers saw the announcement Saturday night as a de facto declaration of war on Addis Ababa. Paradoxically, others saw it as the opening of a gambit that may lead to peace.

Barre said Vance's statement Saturday urging Somali forces to withdraw from the Ogaden ended his hopes for Western military aid to battle Ethiopia, backed by an estimated 3,000 Cuban and Soviet troops and $1 billion in Soviet arms.

But Barre, a Marxist who broke with Moscow only last year over its support for Addis Ababa, vowed Somalia will continue fighting with whatever resources it can muster.

In an interview published yesterday by the West German magazine Der Spiegel, Barre said he was discouraged by the lack of U.S. support and added: "President Carter had promised he would come to the aid of Somalia. We don't know what prompted him to change.

"The West has sort of international responsibility to strive for peace worldwide to a great extent. But it appears as though the West permits the Soviets to do whatever they want. This is unjust."

Despite the dramatic nature of Saturday's announcement, there were no signs of unusual troop movements in Mogadishu Sunday and cafes were filled with men of military age calmly reading newspapers.

Only a few soldiers attended the rally in central Mogadishu, where the crowd chanted, "Down with Russia, down with Cuba, down with Castro," and raised clenched fists in militant cheers.

Western diplomats saw the rally and Saturday's announcements as a bid for popular support at a time the Somalis are reported retreating in the face of a two-pronged Ethiopian attack spearheaded by Soviet and Cuban troops.

The announcements were regarded as an open declaration of war on Ethiopia because Mogadishu has steadfastly denied its troops are involved in the Ogaden, although reporters have seen them there.

But some observers said that by admitting its troops are in the Ogaden, Mogadishu will be able to seek direct peace talks with Addis Ababa and perhaps offer to withdraw its troops in exchange for a cease-fire.

Somalia has rejected repeated Addis Ababa's calls for negotiations, claiming the war is between Ethiopia and ethnic Somali guerrillas born in the Ogaden.

European financiers talk about falling franc

PARIS [UPI] — Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and finance ministers from four key Western nations met in secret near Paris yesterday to decide how to avert a feared drop in the value of the dollar and French franc, diplomatic sources said.

Blumenthal and his counterparts from France, Britain, West Germany and Japan were conferring in the heavily guarded La Lanterne lodge on snow-covered grounds of the historic palace of Versailles, the sources said.

Only official cars were being allowed near the lodge, where the finance ministers of the so-called Group of Five have already met twice in the past year.

Fears of a renewed decline in the dollar — which has been sinking slowly for weeks — were sparked by the decision of oil-rich Bahrain, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates to stop using the dollar as a reference peg for their oil prices.

The French franc has lost a whopping 4 per cent of its value in three weeks in response to uncertainly over a possible Communist-Socialist victory in the March 12-19 national elections.

With the leftists accusing the government of allowing the franc to drop by mismanaging the economy, latest public opinion polls have indicated they stand a good chance of winning the March 12-19 elections.

The diplomatic sources said the conference also would deal with the United States' persistent determination to prompt West Germany and Japan to boost their economic growth.

Washington asserts that a rapid expansion of economic activity in the two "locomotives" of the Western economic world would pull along weaker members such as Italy, Britain and France.

Blumenthal flew into Paris Saturday night and is scheduled to fly Monday morning to Bonn for talks with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, apparently to urge him to stimulate his country's economic growth.

Bonn so far has rejected all U.S. pressures for such moves, chiefly on the ground that they would increase Germany's inflation rate.

Explosion kills two men

SYDNEY, Australia [AP] — Two Sydney sanitation men were killed — one of them "blown to bits" — when a bomb exploded early today outside a hotel where 12 Asian and Pacific government chiefs were gathered for a regional Commonwealth conference, witnesses said.

Police reported six other persons injured in the blast, heard four miles from the luxury hotel. A police spokesman said none of the conference delegates was injured.

Police Superintendent Reginald Douglass said the bomb was planted in a trash can outside the main entrance of the Hilton Hotel on George St., a main Sydney thoroughfare.

The explosion came after the sanitation men emptied the bin into a refuse truck and the bomb was compacted along with the garbage, Douglass said.

He said the injured included four police-officers on security duty outside the hotel, the driver of a taxi and his woman passenger.

A government officials standing in the lobby of the 43-story hotel when the bomb went off described the scene as "horrific ... a bloody awful mess."

"One man appeared to have been blown to bits, another, a police officer, was spread-eagled near the escalators ... His uniform was in shreds.

"There was debris from the garbage truck scattered on each side of the hotel entrance for about 100 yards, he said, adding, "large chips of concrete from the front of the hotel were scattered around like confetti."

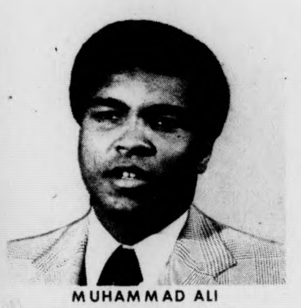
The prime ministers of Australia, India, Sri Lanka, Malaysia, Singapore, New Zealand, Fiji, Papua New Guinea, Western Somoa, Bangladesh, Tonga and the president of Nauru, were scheduled to open their conference today.

Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, who was in the hotel when the blast went off, issued a statement saying the meeting, Australia's largest international convention, would go on as planned.

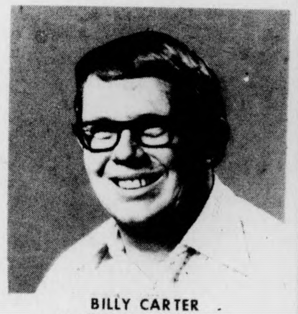
Police said the first warning of the bomb came in an anonymous phone call to police headquarters about three minutes before the explosion at 43 minutes after midnight. A police spokesman said the caller was a male with a foreign accent. Authorities would not speculate on who was responsible for the bombing.

These people never had the opportunity to work for the Collegian . . .

BELLA ABZUG
U.S. congresswoman
AP News Library 9-15-75



MUHAMMAD ALI
Heavyweight boxing champion
AP News Library 9 – 76



BILLY CARTER
Brother of President Carter
AP News Library 4 – 77

. . . but you can!

Come to the Collegian open-house tomorrow and find out what we do with our time. Then come to the recruitment meeting tomorrow night and find out what you can do on the Collegian with your time. There are opportunities to work in the following areas, and more:

news and editorial writing photography graphics advertising women's and black affairs fine arts reviewing layout

The Collegian is located in room 113, downstairs in the Campus Center.

Bottle bill bugs Down East folk

RUMFORD, Maine [AP] — Mainers, thirsty for beer, used to dash through the White Mountains on Sundays to Robert Sheppard's convenience store in Conway Center, N.H.

Now, though Maine's blue law is long gone, they come everyday — for soda pop as well as beer.

The Temperance Movement hasn't overtaken Maine. It's just that some Maine residents will do almost anything to get around the new bottle law, which took effect Jan. 1.

Sheppard says regular customers drive 50 miles, from as far away as Gray and Westbrook, to avoid paying a five-cent deposit on beer and soft drink cans. They get around Maine's 5 per cent sales tax, too.

Mainers still load up on beer, but Sheppard has noticed a particular increase in the number who pile case after case of soda into their cars.

But not everyone can cross the border to avoid paying $2.50 extra for a case of 24 beer bottles. Basic beer prices have shot up with the new law.

In Rumford, a paper mill town about 35 miles of winding road from the closest New Hampshire town, tavern owners are switching from bottles to draught, but the beer drinkers aren't complaining.

Markets are phasing out cans and some sizes of bottles, and rearranging their work hours to adjust to the new law.

At Dorion's Market, on the corner at Waldo Street, stacked crates of bottles and a carton stuffed with cardboard are wedged between shelves of laundry detergent and cereal on the slanting wood floor out back.

Shirley Mayo used to go home at 2 p.m. Now she stays until 6 p.m. to help her husband Alyre stack crates and segregate bottles and cans according to distributor and color of glass.

The Mayos will probably notice problems with the law most this summer when the craving for cold beer is at its peak, they said one day last week when the river town of 9,000 was still digging out from a 19-inch snowfall.

They worry that cockroaches will climb into dirty containers stored in people's homes and get a free ride to the Mayos' market when the bottles and cans are returned.

They are even having problems now with people bringing back unclean containers.

"Some of them are full of beer. They stink. They're filthy," said Marie Desroche, a clerk at the market.

She tells customers to rinse containers or at least put the caps on before bringing them in.

Ray Bedard, of the Rumford Bottle Depot, says he hasn't had any trouble with dirty containers except for the garbage man who rummages through people's trash and sometimes turns in bottles and cans dripping with spaghetti sauce.

Bedard just opened the Depot, and he's prepared for the onslaught of bottles and cans. Like almost everyone else in town, Bedard says he voted against the bottle bill, but he depends on the new law to bring him business.

Unlike many grocery stores, Bedard's Depot will accept any returnable container, even if it's not bought there. Distributors pay him one cent handling fee for each container plus the five-cent deposit.

The only returnable containers Bedard turns down are cans which won't stand up or chipped refillable bottles, and that's because distributors won't take them back.

Legally, all retailers have to take back any bottle or can that is empty, unbroken and reasonably clean.

Bedard has a large side room solely for returnable containers.

In the main room, Bedard sells drinks, potato chips, candy and cigarettes. Pinball machines in the corner lure kids who pick up bottles off the street and want to get rid of their nickel fast.

Skiers defy road ban

CONCORD, N.H. [UPI] — Neither snowy roads nor threat of arrest could deter some diehard Massachusetts skiers from heading north this weekend to take part in the best skiing in New Hampshire in years. Some did it illegally.

As the Bay State recovered from last week's devastating storm, skiers flocked to the slopes in record numbers. Conspicuous among them were many Massachusetts residents, some who defied a ban on travel and found the slopes equally as challenging as convincing authorities to let them travel.

One man in his mid-60s came to a New Hampshire ski area from a Boston suburb and quaffed beers in the lounge. He did not ski, but he had friends and relatives in his car who did. The car was stocked with ski paraphenalia, with skis and poles on a topside rack when it was stopped by a civil defense worker.

"Do you know the roads are restricted to emergency vehicles only," the man says he was told by the official. "This is an emergency vehicle," he said.

When asked to present the necessary papers, a ski pass was flashed in the face of the civil defense worker. "He just laughed and said go ahead," the man said.

Another equally enterprising case is that of a woman from Revere, Mass., one of the hardest hit areas.

Paper corp. defeated in land case

DARIEN, Conn. [UPI] — The paper company with the most to lose in the recently proposed settlement of the Indian land claims case is mulling its response.

"I don't know what we will do," said Robert Hellendar, President of the Great Northern Paper Co., the largest landowner in Maine, "We will have to discuss it thoroughly with our lawyers and others in our company."

But Hellendar, in a telephone interview yesterday from his Connecticut home, said he was surprised and upset at the presidential task force's proposal which, he said, would settle the case at "the expense of private landowners".

The Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes claim rights to 2.5 million acres, about two-thirds of the state's land area. Hellender said the task force's proposed settlement is a departure from the recommendation of President Carter's personal representative in the case.

Former Georgia Supreme Court Justice William Gunter last summer recommended the state and federal governments pay the tribes $25 million and 100,000 acres of land to settle the case. Both the tribes and the state rejected the proposal.

"I see this latest recommendation as a major departure from the recommendations of that distinguished justice," Hellender said. "This proposal puts the largest share of costs on the landowners, not the two governments."

The task force proposal would extinguish the tribes' claims against small landowners and municipal governments in exchange for $25 million federal payments.

Under the proposal, owners of more than 50,000 acres would have to sell the tribes a total of 300,000 acres below market prices and long term options for another 200,000 acres.

The state would be required to surrender 300,000 acres of land or pay the tribes $1.7 million a year for the next 15 years. The state's third option would be to challenge the settlement in court.

"President Carter has characterized the Gunter proposal as fair and equitable," Hellendar said. "This proposal would require that the paper companies convey to the tribes land worth nearly as much as the whole Gunter proposal, I have to wonder how the president characterizes this proposal."

He said the task force recommendations would require Great Northern to convey 99,800 acres to the tribes, nearly one-third of all the land they demand from the large private landowners.

"Again, we will have to look carefully at what we finally do," he said. "But if you're asking my personal opinion what we will do, if we're faced with conveying '9,000 acres or litigating, I would say we have to litigate."

Coming of age in Tequila means learning two very important things...
how to hold up your jeans with a Cuervo belt buckle...
and how to mix your Margarita by the Cuervo pitcherful.

Since you're already into the taste of Cuervo Gold, you'll like getting into these Cuervo artifacts:

The Jose Cuervo Belt Buckle in pewter tone metal. One size fits any belt; $2.50.

The Jose Cuervo Margarita Pitcher. A roomy pottery pitcher (guaranteed lead free) that holds manly-size portions; $4.99.

To have either, fill out the coupon below and send it off to our American hacienda.

MAIL TO: Cuervo Buckle/Pitcher Offer
P.O. Box 11152
Newington, Conn. 06111

| Please send me the following: | Quantity | Amount |
|---|---|---|
| Jose Cuervo Belt Buckle @ $2.50 each | ______ | ______ |
| Jose Cuervo Margarita Pitcher @ $4.99 each | ______ | ______ |
| | Total $ | ______ |

Name____________________
Address__________________
City________State________Zip______

Offer good in the Continental United States, except States where prohibited or licensed. Allow 6 weeks for delivery. Supply limited; offer expires April 30, 1978. Connecticut residents add 7% sales tax.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1978 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Cuervo Especial
JOSE CUERVO

Mideast diplomacy continues

Sadat talks with French leader

PARIS [UPI] — President Anwar Sadat yesterday emerged "highly satisfied" from nearly two hours of talks with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing yesterday and French sources said Paris was ready to sell Egypt advanced fighter bombers.

Walking out of the brightly lighted Elysee Palace after discussions with Giscard, Sadat told reporters, "It was natural that after my trip, I would meet my great friend President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to give him a complete report on the situation since our last meeting.

"We had a detailed talk, and I am highly satisfied," the Egyptian leader said.

Sadat and Giscard later continued their review of the Middle East situation at a private dinner at the Marigny Palace, the government guest house outside the Elysee Presidential Palace.

French government sources said Paris was prepared to sell Cairo Mirage F-1 fighters if the United States maintaned its veto against the delivery of sophisticated American warplanes.

The sources asserted that Washington was only willing to sell Egypt Northrop F-5E jetfighters, delivered largely to developing nations, but was not ready to sell Sadat its more advanced fighter planes, the F-15s and F-16s.

Israel has already bought about 25 F-15s and is shopping for more as well as for the cheaper F-16s.

Sadat arrived in snowcovered Paris as relations between Israel and the United States took a turn for the worse, with the Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin rejecting Washington's criticism of Jewish settlements in Arab lands.

ANWAR SADAT

Israel says US 'taking sides'

JERUSALEM [UP] — Israel declared yesterday that the United States was "taking sides" in Mideast peace negotiations when Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance last week condemned Israeli settlements in occupied Arab lands.

The accusation, contained in an Israeli cabinet resolution, was the sharpest one made so far against Washington by Prime Minister Menachem Begin's eight-month-old conservative government.

The resolution, adopted unanimously at the regular weekly cabinet meeting, was read afterward by Begin to reporters.

His government declared its "regret and protest" over Vance's remarks at a news conference Friday. Vance said Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territories "should not exist" and he supported a Palestinian homeland on land now controlled by Israel.

Vance's comments came less than a week after Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held talks at Camp David, Md., with President Carter to request increased American pressure on Israel for flexibility on the settlements and Palestinian questions.

Egyptian-Israeli bilateral talks appear stalemated over those issues. Sadat, continuing his international tour seeking support for Egypt's positions, called yesterday in a joint communique with Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu for resumption of multilateral Mideast talks to prepare for a reconvened Geneva Peace conference.

The Israeli statement said the Jewish state "stands by its view that the settlement program is in full harmony with international law and that it had always been legal, legitimate and essential." The U.S. government has said repeatedly that the settlements are illegal and an obstacle to peace.

The cabinet statement also implied the Carter administration had backed down from what Israel called its "moral support" of Israel's peace plan offering self-rule to the 1.1 million Palestinians on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

It reiterated Israeli opposition to a Palestinian state linked to Jordan, saying such an entity eventually would be "ruled by the terrorist organizations as the front-line spearhead of a potential military alignment of Jordan, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Iraq."

Begin said Vance's comments were "in complete contradiction" to the stand taken by President Carter in December, when Begin brought the proposal to Washington.

Brushing aside U.S. complaints that he had not been forthright over the settlement issue, Begin said the plan Carter saw "included a specific reference to the continuous existence of the settlements within a U.N. zone" and protected by Israeli troops.

Jobs plan benefits NE

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Northeast and Midwest members of Congress complained yesterday that too small a share of the 1.4 million jobs President Carter plans to create for people on welfare in 1981 would go to those parts of the country.

The Northeast-Midwest Economic Advancement Coalition, made up of members of the House from 16 states, said a version of Carter's welfare proposal approved last week by a special House subcommittee would be fairer to their regions.

The Northeast-Midwest Institute, a research group operated by the coalition, released a report saying the Northeast and Midwest as a whole would gain from Carter's proposal.

It said states in the coalition now receive $3.3 million to finance 281,707 jobs under the existing public service job program. It said under Carter's welfare job plan, which would replace the present program, the region would replace the present program, the region would get $3.8 million for 535,600 lower-paying jobs.

However, the report said, the share of jobs going to coalition states would drop from 48.5 per cent under the present program to 44 per cent under Carter's plan. It said the share of jobs for other states would rise from 51.8 to 55.4.

The report said the coalition's share of the money would drop from 52.4 per cent under the present program to 44.5 per cent under Carter's, while that for other states would rise from 47.6 to 55.5 per cent.

Most individual states in the Northeast and Midwest would get an absolute increase in money under Carter's program, the report said, but a few would suffer an absolute loss.

Woman killed in Georgia

COLUMBUS, Ga. [UPI] — A woman was found dead yesterday in her Columbus home in the same area where the so-called "stocking strangler" has killed five elderly women in recent months, Columbus police confirmed.

The slaying came just one day after Ruth Schwob, a 74-year-old socially prominent widow who also lived in the strangler's target neighborhood, fought off an attacker who reportedly tried to strangle her in her bed. Mrs. Schwod was not seriously hurt.

Police Director Bob Godwin refused to say whether the woman discovered Sunday was believed to be the strangler's sixth victim. Police would not immediately release her name.

An elderly Amherst woman finds the ice a little easier to break these days as temperatures soften the area's ice and snow. (Staff photo by Megan O'Reilly)

MON. & TUES. SPECIAL —
Buy a Large Pizza &
Get A Pitcher of Beer for ½ Price

a varied luncheon menu with daily specials served in a congenial atmosphere

salads — homemade soups deli sandwiches
subs — pizzas
all served with your favorite beer or cocktail

Hungry-U

55 University Drive
Amherst 549-5713
Sun — 12-1 a.m., Mon- Thurs 11-1,
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.

RECORDING CONTRACT

Los Angeles Production Company seeking new recording artists
will hold auditions in Boston March 6-7.

PHONE 213-454-9813
For Information

from our perspective

New director?

Armand H. Demers, better known as Bud Demers, director of the Recognized Student Organizations office, holds a position which demands that he mediate between the students and the administration. The problem which has become increasingly apparent is that he seems to have forgotten his main responsibility is to the students. Another problem is his health. He has been out of work with a back problem so much that his ability to be an effective administrator has to be questioned.

At a meeting of the coordinating committee of the student senate held on January 12, Demers stated that he is "responsible to the University and not to the student senate." Taking into account the ambiguity in his poorly constructed job description, it remains that he is paid out of SATF funds, not by the University. When one is paid by students, it would seem logical that one's major responsibility would be to those students. Moreover, the fact that Demers is the director of RSO would make it seem doubly incongruent that he would feel more responsibility towards the University than the Student Senate.

Virtually all of the money that the SGA controls goes through RSO. They have the control of all accounts within organizations, along with the control of the student payroll. They have the power to hold up money alloted by the Student Senate, which they have done in the past. They also have the ability to work in an efficient way, which would be hard to prove judging by the performance of the recent past.

Recent discussion among some members of the student senate on the possibility of replacing Demers seems to be appropriate considering these problems. Along with this needed change, the Senate should recognize that the current problem is partly their fault on two counts: 1) they chose Demers as head of RSO with full knowledge of his likely absenteeism due to health problems and should avoid making such mistakes in the future, 2) the job description for the Director of Rso is too flexible and should be made more explicit so that any future director will know, before he accepts the job, that his allegiance is with those that pay him.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Board of Editors of the Collegian.

Letters

Racism was not the issue

To the Editor:

The resignation of Paul Puryear has been the topic of much discussion lately. Unfortunately, the most important issues behind his dismissal and the events that led up to it have been buried under less relevant discussions and accusations. There is no doubt that Provost Puryear was subject to blatant racist attacks from faculty members, an action we deplore. It would be wrong to insist that racism alone was the cause of his forced resignation. It was not the self interests of a few faculty members that stood to lose by his policies but all of us concerned with high quality public education.

Puryear was actually following the dictates of the president and the board of trustees who, armed with population figures and "troubled economy" rhetoric, have embarked on a plan that seriously threatens public higher education. As Puryear admitted, he was "only the messenger". However, the message he was bringing was and is not valid and should be challenged.

What is the message? As Puryear himself put it, "I had to meet the challenge caused by the changing fiscal base of the university." The fiscal crisis really means that public higher education [PHE] will suffer at the expense of private education. This is what the new "vocationalization" emphasis is all about. While public universities are being asked to reorganize, to cut back, private universities are receiving millions of dollars in federal and state aid. Public universities serve the working class and middle class, which means the large majority of Black and Latin college students. The private schools serve only those who can afford much higher tuition, so it is the students of public universities who are being asked to be more "realistic" about their career aspirations. Students of Harvard, Smith, MIT, etc. continue to pursue their intellectual and career goals.

There is nothing "unrealistic" about quality public education which trains engineers, teachers or hotel managers to think critically. There is nothing elitist about demanding the best for public universities. In fact, it is the "vocationalist" emphasis which is elitist because it asks the students of public universities to settle for second best. The private universities, which receive government aid, are not being forced to come back.

The trustees' Long Range Plan can only mean the destruction of quality P.H.E. S.U.P.E. is organizing students against budget cuts, and all threats to P.H.E. In any struggle against budget cuts, issues of race must be handled openly and honestly. We felt that the firing of Puryear had created an atmosphere on campus which made it even more difficult for black and white students to work together. Ironically, budget cuts are a crucial issue for all students. We cannot allow race to be used as a divisive factor. If you are interested in joining S.U.P.E. and-or discussing these ideas, please contact us — Box 464 in RSO office.

Rona Weiss
Eda diBiccari
Students United for Public Education

Article called "misleading"

To the Editor:

Your issue of Friday, February 10, 1978 contained a most misleading article and headline concerning the remarks of Acting Provost Jeremiah Allen to the Faculty Senate.

Acting Provost Allen did not say, as reported, that "the needs of the College of Arts and Sciences" would be his first priority. Permit me to quote his precise words as taped for the Senate Office records: "I do know this from my own experience..... the regular academic units, departments in Arts and Sciences and the Professional Schools, are hurting badly... for staff, ....for equipment and.... facilities. And I believe that, from the point of view of resource distribution, is probably going to be my first priority, to ease that hurt."

Apart from considerations of simple fairness to Dr. Allen, given continued faculty concern over budget allocations, it is important that his intentions be reported clearly.

Terence Burke
Secretary
Faculty Senate

Barrel barrier mystery resolved

To the Editor:

Regarding Mr. John Jones letter which appears in the February 3 edition of the Collegian, entitled: Barrel Barriers Block Bus Stop, the letter contradicts the theory that written prose has at least one advantage over the spoken word, in that the former requires delay and thought.... enabling the writer to avoid the pitfall of absurdity. Unfortunately, Mr. Jones' letter did not permit him this advantage.

The Physical Plant Department pleads "Guilty" to positioning the barrels which vex Mr. Jones. Had he researched the problem.... looked beneath the surface, he would have discovered that the barrels were placed for very good reasons, none of which were to make Mr. Jones' life any more difficult than it is. Simple research would have uncovered answers to questions he could understand and appreciate.

If Mr. Jones' pique is unrelenting, he is invited to visit Physical Plant and learn why the barrels are where they are.... thereby gaining faith in the judgement of others and perhaps losing some of his arrogance in the process.

Leo Liberman
Physical Plant Department

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Letters Policy

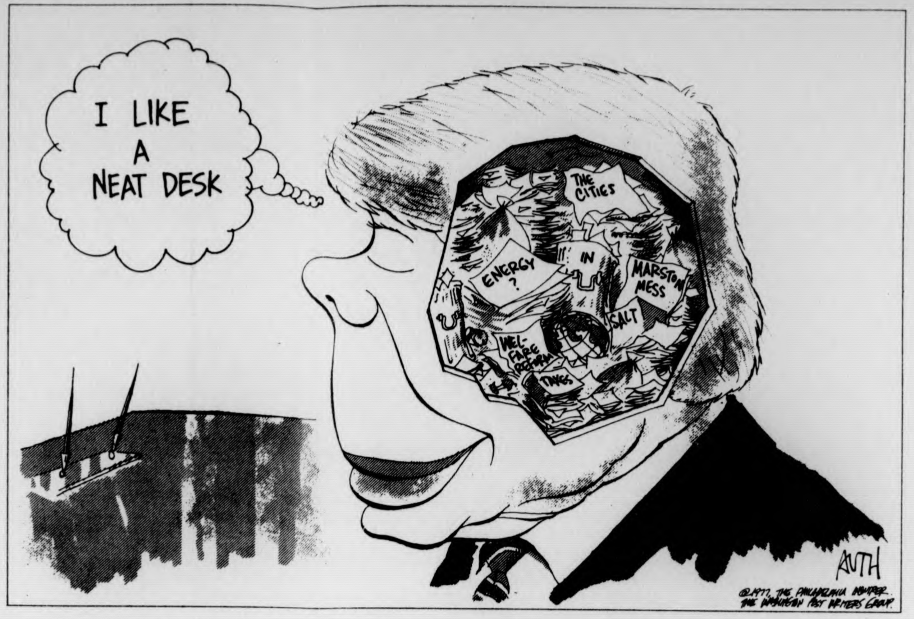
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



I LIKE A NEAT DESK
THE CITIES ENERGY ?
IN MARSTON MESS
SALT
WEL-FARE REFORM TAXES
AUTH
©1977, The Philadelphia Inquirer The Washington Post Writers Group

A 'circus' at the Cage

By ELLEN PLAUSKY

A lot of competition goes on before a UMass basketball game. Arriving with three friends at about a quarter of seven, we were promptly disbanded in the mob scene that ensued outside of Curry Hicks Cage. Hundreds of UMass basketball fans merged into one force, intent on getting through the doors without getting crushed first. With arms literally pinned against their sides, there were a lot of future stand-up comics in the crowd (they had to stand up — anything else was impossible).

Levity abounded with such comments as; "My arm's about three people back." "You know, if one of us fainted, no one would notice," and an almost stifled "I can't breathe!" After hearing a "Help, help, the crowd's moving and I'm not," I turned my head to see one of my friends removing her feet from the shoelaces of a guy standing near her. A quick glance inside the Cage revealed packed bleachers and bewildered students. As one student so aptly stated "And this is only a home game; what'll it be like if we ever make the NIT?"

Then I thought about priorities. Why is it that so many students will risk life and limb to see a basketball game? I've never seen a classroom so packed. I've seen lecture halls with twenty people in them. I've been in classes with an average attendance of five students. I've been in classes where students said that the reason they didn't attend was that they could sleep more comfortably at home.

Only once was I in a class that was so crowded that students were content to sit on the radiator when all the seats were taken. The reason, I guess, was the teacher. He was interesting and funny. And not many teachers can claim that they have students fighting to get into their class. I guess that since most of us were brought up with television, we seek entertainment in all aspects of our lives.

Or maybe it is that we assume most of our teachers don't care about the courses they teach. And, if they don't care, why should we? It's only fair. If our teachers were made to sit through the excitement of a UMass basketball game, or that class, maybe they'd learn something. Students will fight for entertainment; but our courses can't be three ring circuses. Or can they? It's got possibilities.......

Ellen Plausky is a Collegian Commentator.

An alternative to the PLO

By YITZHAK SANTIS

For years now we have heard that the PLO is the voice of the Palestinian Arabs, that they are their sole-representatives. Article 3 of the Palestinian National Covenant affirms that "the Palestinian Arab People possess the legal right to its homeland...." and they will.... "exercise self-determination solely according to their own will and choice." That sounds very democratic, but will the PLO actually allow the Palestinians self-determination?

Self-determination is more than just a nation-state. It means that the citizens of a given nation-state must have the right to determine for themselves the system of government they want, the ideology they want and the leader they want. What the PLO proposes is a PLO state run by PLO totalitarianism maintained by terror and harsh laws, as is the case now.

All one has to do is look at the PLO's past record and one can see how 'democratic' it really is. The PLO maintains its constituency through threats of violence to any person who comes out either pro-Israeli or pro-Sadat. For example: Abu Saleh, a member of Al Fatah, said in October 1977 that, "any Palestinian that effaces the role of the PLO (at Geneva) will be considered a traitor." Also, since the Sadat visit to Jerusalem, Israel's capitol, two West Bank Arabs that were known to have supported the Sadat trip have been found murdered.

The PLO claims to be the sole-representative of the Palestinian Arabs. However, proof that all Palestinian Arabs do not want the PLO as their sole-representative is seen in the delegation of 100 Gaza Strip residents that met with President Sadat a few days after his visit to Israel. Although exactly what transpired is not known, it was, however, generally made clear that this delegation consisted of 'moderate' Palestinian Arabs who rejected the PLO as their one and only voice.

The question to ask now is, how democratic can sole-representation be? The Jewish people, for example, although unified by a common heritage, culture and religion, doesn't claim to have any one representative, voice or leader. Anyone or any group that claimed such a role would be ignored and probably laughed at. Menachem Begin, for instance, is the Prime Minister of Israel. Although he was democratically elected and represents the People of Israel by law, he does not, however, represent the views of all Jews everywhere, including Israel. There are many Jews that disagree with him and his government openly and loudly, and there are those who are as equally open and loud who are his staunchest supporters. In Israel there are over 25 different political parties ranging from the Black Panthers, a communist party that has many Palestinian Arab members, to Betar, the reactionary right wing. There are many other parties in between, mostly centered around the leftest Labor Zionist Party. All of these parties are represented in he Israeli Parliament, the Knesset. This is democratic process and proper self-determination at work.

Now in order for self-determination for the Palestinian Arabs to be true and correct, they must be allowed to hold a truly democratic plebiscite in order to: 1) determine for themselves just who will represent them and 2) to decide just what their exact demands and needs are. This plebiscite must be held without the guns of the PLO being pointed at their heads.

A Palestinian Arab state on the West Bank and Gaza is not out of the question. What is difficult to grasp is a Palestinian Arab state run by the PLO. A PLO state would be a mortal threat to Israeli security and is therefore unacceptable. A Palestinian Arab state, run by a government elected by a fair plebiscite to allow the maximum in self-determination, is not only possible but very tolerable.

Therefore, it is necessary for the PLO to step aside and allow the Palestinian Arab people to decide for themselves who will be representing them, thereby clearing paths for true self-determination. But this can only happen if the PLO's 'credibility' is shot down. That is the responsibility of the world.

Yitzhak Santis is a Collegian Commentator.

Flu flap

bob melia

The recent flu epidemic vividly (and for many, painfully) highlights some of the more glaring inadequacies in our living environment. Crowded schools are always vulnerable to a contagious illness like the Russian flu. But the severity of the current epidemic must be attributed more to Whitmore than to the Kremlin.

The chances of contacting the flu vary inversely with the quality of one's living conditions, and those of us who are currently miserable ought to reflect on several interesting administration policies.

First is centralized dining halls. Any Butterfield resident will agree that having a dormitory dining room makes for more pleasant and nutritious meals. But to feed us more cheaply, or in administration jargon, to rationalize food processing, preparation and serving), dining halls are centralized, rather than, as they are in many schools, located in dormitories.

Besides saving money this rationalization increases the chances of improper nutrition, thereby lessening resistance to viruses; it crowds us together, thus providing an ideal place to spread germs, and forces those of us already ill to brave rain, snow, ice and cold if we want to eat. Administrators must think we are mailmen. Having to leave the dorm to eat is hardly conducive to a quick recovery and is especially irritating to students living in the Sylvan and Orchard Hill areas.

A second area of concern are the dorms themselves. Southwest is one of the most densely populated areas in the world. When my mother saw my Sylvan room she remarked, "this is a double room?" And all dorms have shared bathrooms and lounges. When one or two people get sick the entire dorm can soon become infected.

In the face of these facts, the administration has thus far refused to be party to a lease which would legally require them to fix promptly room heating ducts, leaky roofs, walls and windows, and in general fulfill its responsibilities to maintain a clean, healthy, safe living environment. If you are one of the unlucky tenants who have waited weeks or semesters (or are still waiting) for something to be fixed, the value of a lease is self-evident to you.

The administration has historically justified its inaction by claiming (in slightly, but only slightly, more subtle terms) that students are little more than animals and would soon destroy any improvements made. Instances of such behavior are known to us all. But they are not the rule. Further, if you force people to live like animals they will act like animals.

How any moderately intelligent administrator can disregard our environment and then expect us to respect it is beyond me, but apparently the administration finds it more convenient to be a slumlord than a landlord. Worse, we can't even leave our ghetto (unless we are seniors) without permission, just as tenth century Hungarian peasants had to beg permission from their lords. Such permission is hard to get because when we leave we take our money with us. Such greed has more than once resulted in overpacked dorms.

> The chances of contacting the flu vary...inversely with the quality of one's living conditions, and those of us who are currently miserable ought to reflect on several interesting administration policies.

If we run a thought experiment and picture UMass as a huge assembly-line, designed to churn our diplomas as cheaply as possible, the resulting relationship between administration and students is similar to that between Frank Perdue and chickens. Just as chickens are packed together to make a profit we are jammed together to pay off the debt on the dorms. And like Perdue's chickens, we are fed a cheap, tasteless pap. The assembly-line controls us, just as it controls the chickens.

The policies reviewed here are merely a fraction of the examples which could be cited to illustrate how student needs are constantly sacrificed to alien imperatives. These particular ones were chosen because, while we often dislike administration policies, we usually remain on the sidelines because we think they won't hurt us too badly or we think that we can't do anything about them.

The fact that some administration policies unintentionally but directly make us miserable highlights the fact that the disparity of power between students and the administration is nothing to sneeze about. And thinking that we are unable to oppose such policies is of course a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist.

©1978, The Philadelphia Inquirer The Washington Post Writers Group
AUTH
PEACE
Israeli Construction Co.

'This looks like a dandy spot for a settlement!'

People In The News

Making an imprint

PHILADELPHIA [UPI] — Former President Gerald R. Ford will strike the first medal of a historic series during special minting ceremonies on Feb. 24.

The Franklin Mint Monday said the former president will activate a coining press at the mint's facility near Media, Pa., to produce a medal depicting the inauguration of George Washington.

The company and Ford have been cooperating on a program called the "Medallic History of the American Presidency."

Ford has selected what he feels are the 100 most important events that have shaped the American presidency. He will also edit supplementary literature to accompany each medal and plans to hold a press conference after the minting ceremonies.

Bella runs again

NEW YORK [UPI] — Bella Abzug and her Republican opponent S. William Green, yesterday began the final stretch of their hotly contested race for the Congressional seat vacated by Mayor Edward Koch.

The former congresswoman and Green square off tomorrow in a special election for the 18th Congressional District seat in Manhattan's wealthy "Silk Stocking District."

The race is as an attempted political comeback for the flamboyant Mrs. Abzug, who gave up her seat in the House two years ago to make an unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate. Last year she ran for mayor and lost again.

Although the 57-year-old Mrs. Abzug is the favorite in the heavily Democratic district, the race has been a heated one, with Green mounting a well-financed media campaign.

Mrs. Abzug, who was affirmed the Democratic candidate at the end of a court fight with former City Councilman Carter Burden, is relying heavily on endorsements from Mayor Koch, Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Green, 48, who is supported by New York Republican Senator Jacob Javits and other top GOP politicos, has called Mrs. Abzug "abrasive and ineffective."

La Pasionaria well

MADRID [UPI] — The 82-year-old president of the Spanish Communist Party, Dolores Ibarruri, better known as "La Pasionaria," improved yesterday following emergency surgery, her doctors said. Doctors said La Pasionaria (the passionate one) got up and ate breakfast.

On Saturday, an infection was found in Mrs. Ibarruri's pacemaker. Doctors operated to remove it and implanted a new one in her chest.

A hospital communique said "Dolores Ibarruri continues to come along favorable, her vital functions are constant and she got up from bed and began oral feeding."

La Pasionaria sought exile in Moscow at the end of the 1936-1939 Spanish Civil War. She returned to Spain last year and was a successful Communist candidate for the post-Franco parliament.

Oriental queen

SAN FRANCISCO [UPI] — Stephanie Ann Lee, 21, was chosen "Miss Chinatown USA" in a traditional Chinese New Year beauty pageant Saturday night.

The 5-foot-4 Miss Lee, a student at San Francisco City College, has black hair, brown eyes, weighs 112 pounds and measures 34-24-34.

Her immediate duties include presiding over the continuing celebrations of the Chinese Year of the Horse, which began Feb. 7.

Miss Lee's court consisted of Sally Chan, 20, Miss Chinatown San Francisco; Donna Kay Leung, 23, Hackensack, N.J., first princess and Miss Chinese Chamber of Commerce; Mary Cho, 19, San Francisco, second princess; Loretta May Chang, 21, San Francisco, third princess; Lai Lee, 19, Detroit, fourth princess, and Helen Yee, 26, Phoenix, Arix., Miss Talent.

Affluent double income families are important spending group

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Affluent households with both a working, career-trained husband and wife constitute an important new spending group, Business Week magazine said Sunday.

"The rise of the double-income family is the most significant change to hit consumer marketing in a decade," it quoted a Los Angeles department store executive as saying.

In 1976, 63 per cent of the 9.6 million U.S. families with incomes of more than $25,000 had a working husband and wife, compared with 42 per cent of those households in 1967, Business Week reported in its Feb. 20 issue.

The magazine stressed "marketers need new strategies because the affluent, dual-income family does not merely spend more money. It spends money differently, and lives differently."

For example, a family that has a wife with a $15,000 salary and a husband earning $20,000, usually employs more household help than do families whose $35,000 income comes from a single breadwinner, it said.

The dual-income family also entertains at home less, searches for time-saving products and may remain childless.

The family with two incomes also changes marketers' concepts of a husband making decisions on major purchases, it said.

"Women who feel they are bringing in a significant portion of the family income will make the decision to buy a new kitchen floor, for example, on their own, without their husbands along," it quoted one marketing research executive as saying.

The magazine said some economists think couples may have even less spending power in the next decade due to inflation and taxation.

"Certainly, the steep increases in Social Security payments scheduled annually through 1990 will fall particularly hard on families that must pay them twice," it said. "And President Carter's proposed tax package failed to include an expected break hoped for by dual-income families: a 10 per cent deduction of the first $16,000 earner's income to help defray job-related costs ... "

Since many working wives have entered the labor force relatively recently, some observers "feel many families are using the second income as a sponge to soak up the rising cost of living," it said — and using a second income this way "both fuels and masks inflation."

Garbage causes wildlife deaths

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Endangered brown pelicans have died agonizing deaths with their feet and heads tangled in plastic six-pack binders and porcupines starve with their heads trapped in empty tin cans, a wildlife group said Sunday.

The Defenders of Wildlife said a number of the 70 billion throwaways produced each year not only are a major cause of litter but also "maim and destroy all types of wildlife from Canada geese to trout and porcupines."

"Large areas of inland marsh, among the most productive of wildlife habitats, have been and are still being smothered by reeking mountains of trash," said the group's Tom Garrett.

Garrett is supporting bills now pending in Congress that would require a minimum 5-cent deposit on all beer and soft drink containers. Other environmentl groups last month mailed thousands of empty no-deposit bottles and cans to President Carter, urging him to support the legislation.

The Defenders of Wildlife said birds are curious about six-pack binders and often nibble or dive at them. Michigan biologists reported a Canada goose with a six-pack plastic ring loosely fitted over his neck was abandoned by his mate and family which found "the trash decoration bizarre."

Young fish such as trout, which "strike" their food, sometime miss the pull-tab rings and wind up with aluminum girdles that slowly cut their bodies in half. Sports fishermen have reported finding the tabs in the stomachs of bigger fish such as salmon.

Birds also use the pull tabs for nesting material which later can harm their young.

IBM NEEDS OUTSTANDING PEOPLE

And we can offer outstanding career opportunities to those majoring in Marketing, Engineering, Computer Science or Physics.
We will be interviewing at

The University of Massachusetts
on February 13, 1978

To find out about IBM and let us find out about you, sign up for an interview at the Placement Office or write to: W.A. Dickert, Corporate College Relations Manager,
IBM Corporation,
99 Church Street
White Plains, NY 10601.

IBM®
An Equal Opportunity Employer

Baptists count blessings after weathering blizzard

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — A spirit of renewal pervaded the first Baptist Church in America yesterday. There was much to be grateful for after the Great Blizzard of 1978. "We thank you O Lord for being with us on all the storms of life and most especially for being with us in these moments," preached the Rev. Richard Bausman.

Thirty people managed to trudge through snow and ice for the services. Their warmth filled Rhode Island's oldest church whose capacity is 1,200.

Edia Stanford, who arrived 1 ½ hours early for the 11 a.m. service, said she felt compelled to pray.

"We could have been dead today — found in one of those stranded cars. You know what grateful to be alive is," she said one week after moving to Providence from Norfolk, Va.

"If you never prayed, you prayed. If you never cried, you cried. If you never swore, you learned. If you never drank, you learned to do that too," she said.

Bausman compared three feet of snow that left thousands stranded with 40 days and 40 nights of rain that Noah survived. He reminded worshipers of the rainbow — "the covenant of hope" — which appeared after the rain.

"That rainbow is really shining beautifully today," he said as sunlight streamed through the windows and glistened in the crystal chandelier.

Phyllis Ryley, 62, visiting Providence from Northwest Liverpool, England, said she wanted to pray for soldiers sent in from Georgia and Louisiana to help dig out Rhode Island.

"I felt ashamed when they said lots of churches were going to close," she said.

Bausman quoted from Clarke Wells, a Unitarian minister whose writings were published by the Pure Environment Press in Weymouth, Mass.

"What we need is about three more feet of snow. Being snowbound once in a while is of immense benefit to the human spirit.

"It binds us again ... calling us to re-engage the fundamentals and understand how wonderful are: roofs, walls warm inside, houses, families, parcheesi, children, time for thought, recalling friends, naming them.

"Yes, we could use more snow."

Bausman said coping was in the spirit of Roger Williams. He founded the First Baptist Church after breaking away from the Plymouth settlement in Massachusetts to found Rhode Island, a colony with complete religious freedom.

"Roger Williams must have had to deal with all kinds of crises and catastrophes with perseverance and tenacity," he said.

Thomas Mulligan, 57, said tenacity in prayer was the order of the day.

"If we don't pray, the snow won't go away."

VAIL, Colorado: Vice President Mondale rides the chairlift up Vail Mountain. Secret Service agent is at right.

When you take away the uniform and the lifestyle what have you got?

The Job.
The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.

The Pay & Benefits.
As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.
The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.
As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.

Our Representative will be here
2/14/78

Coast Guard O.C.S.
Visit your college placement office, or call 800-424-8883
toll free, for more information.

Win valentines with earthworms

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Valentine's Day is traditionally a nutritional disaster.

While the holiday may still be of some help in keeping romance alive, it spawns the sort of junk food — heart-shaped jujubes and the like — that leads to an early grave.

Compare the typical tooth-rotting, calorie-laden Valentine treat with the nourishing fare associated with such celebrations as Thanksgiving turkey, Christmas Yorkshire pudding, Easter glazed ham and New Year's hog jowls and blackeyed peas.

That surely will convince you that what Valentine's Day needs are some new types of goodies that will set lovers atingle with vitamins as well as sentiment.

Fortunately in that regard this year's Valentine's Day falls within the time frame of the third annual nationwide earthworm in its natural state obviously is not as adorable as, say, an Easter bunny. Uncooked, even the cutest worm obtainable is unlikely to make a loved one's heart go pitty-pat.

However, worm aficionados insist these creatures are positively loaded with nutriments and, when properly prepared, quite delectable.

The trick is to hit upon the right kind of recipe for a Valentine remembrance. Following is an example of the wrong kind.

Worm Pemmican:

Split 10 or 12 worms depending on size longitudinally, removing any fat or gristle, and hang in sunny place to dry. Morning sun is preferable. Take dried worms and pound into a powder, then heat previously removed fat. Mix powder and hot fat. Elderberries may still be added for flavor, if desired. When mixture cools, cut into cakes. Serve at room temperature.

Worm pemmican keeps almost indefinitely without spoiling or turning purple. It takes up very little room in a lunch pail, picnic hamper, purse, glove compartment, knapsack, book satchel, briefcase, moneybelt, catcher's mitt or whatever. A small saddlebag of worm pemmican will keep a polo player alive for days. Two polo players can live on it if they don't have big appetites.

A dish like the above surely will get you nowhere with the object of your affections. But if imbued with a poetic quality, Valentine worm recipes could overcome any latent cultural prejudices against the main ingredient.

Last year, for instance, the winning recipe was called Quiche Lorraine avec Ver de terre. Under that Frenchified name, the average American would never know he or she was eating worms.

All you have to do to enter the contest is mail a postcard containing your recipe to the North American Bait Farms in Ontario, Calif.

With luck, you could win someone's heart without ruining his or her health — plus a free honeymoon trip to Disneyland.

Notices

SHABBAT SERVICES

Friday night services will be held at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 165.

UNITARIANS PLAN SOUTH AFRICAN PROGRAMS

The Unitarian Society of Amherst will present two programs dealing with apartheid in South Africa and the role of American corporations there. The first program, on Feb. 21 at 11 a.m., will feature the showing of the film "Last Grave at Dimbaza", a documentary about racial segregation and oppression, filmed secretly inside South Africa. On Feb. 26, also at 11 a.m., Sipho Buthelezi, exiled leader of the outlawed Black Peoples' Convention, will speak. Buthelezi was an associate of Stephen Biko.

Everyone is welcome to these Sunday programs at the Unitarian Meetinghouse on 121 North Pleasant Street in Amherst.

LOST AND FOUND

Blue down jacket lost. Not sure of brand name. Please call back, 545-3500 or 549-4834. Thanx.

WMUA MEETING

News and Sports meeting Mon., Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. Old and new members welcome. Campus Center 911.

NES

Tutor with NES. You'll help these kids and get experience. Stop by room 403 SUB, or call Lisa, 549-1668, or Michelle, 5-0162 about today's meeting. There will be a meeting tonight.

SIGN COMPANY 3

Sign Company 3 has been rescheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 14 at the SUB 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Admission is free.

VETERANS

Beta Chi is a social group exclusively for veterans. Get-acquainted Smoker is tonight at 8 p.m. in Campus Center 1001. All vets welcome. Free refreshments.

FOOD SCIENCE & NUTRITION MAJORS

The FS&N Club meeting scheduled for Feb. 7 has been rescheduled for tonight at 7 p.m. in 227 Chenowith. We'll still have free pizza and beer so be sure to join us.

WALLET LOST

Wallet lost-keep the money. Please return Wallet to 109 Leach or call 546-4958. There will be a reward.

BELOW THE SALT

Organizational meeting for those interested in focusing on dance rescheduled for tonight at 7 p.m. Those that can't make it call Sharon True, 256-8083 or leave message in the dance envelope in the Collegian office.

RESOURCES JUDAICA

All welcome to attend this semester's first general meeting, tonight at 8 p.m. in Campus Center 163. Bring friends.

LESBIAN UNION

The Lesbian Union's first general meeting of the semester will be held at 4 p.m. today in Campus Center 805. All women are welcome to come share ideas and energy.

WSYL-FM

Listen to "An Extremely Funny Show" tonight from 7-10 p.m. Call 5-0191.

SOUTHERN AFRICA IN REVOLT

A new movie, "End of the Dialogue," plus a slide show of the Soweto Uprising and a talk by white South African exile Mike Egan will be held tonight at 7 in Campus Center 101.

ISRAEL — A RACIST STATE?

Egyptian political activist Ahmed Shawki and anti-zionist Jew Michael Egan, give the socialist view on Israel Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Campus Center 904.

RA POSITION

Grayson House, Orchard Hill. Applications for RA position due today at noon. Interviews will be Feb. 12 and Feb. 15. Equal opportunity employer.

FSEA MEMBERS

Mandatory meeting tonight at 6 in Campus Center 901. All members must attend.

WELCOME FOREIGN STUDENTS

The UMass Baha'i club is sponsoring a reception for foreign students and all other members of the UMA. Music, dancing and refreshments. Please come to Farley Lodge on Wed., Feb. 15 at 8 p.m.

SORORITY RUSH ORIENTATION

All University women are welcome to attend tonight's rush orientation at 7 on the first floor of the Campus Center.

STAMP CLUB

Former United States ambassador William Brewer will present the program at the Amherst Stamp Club meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at Farley Lodge. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

STUDY SKILLS WORKSHOP

There will be two workshops on discovering and utilizing personal resources to improve study habits, organizing time and taking exams tomorrow and Thursday, Feb. 16, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in 318 Bershire House. All students are welcome. Questions? call 545-0333.

AASA

Meeting tonight in Campus Center 809 at 8. Also, those interested in the Asian-American Review come at 7 p.m.

OUTING CLUB

First official meeting tonight at 7 in Campus Center 917. Skiing, wax demo and slides. Come all.

CRAFT SHOP

Central area residents — the Greenough Craft Shop will be open tomorrow. Hours will be Tues.-Fri. 5:30 - 9:30 p.m. and Sat. 1 - 5 p.m.

LEARN KARATE

Co-ed classes, Sunday 7:15 p.m. 19th floor of George Washington Tower in Southwest. $30 for the semester, also private lessons. Call 6-1020 for information.

AMATEUR RADIO

First meeting of UMARA tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in E-Lab 109.

BIO-CHEM DEPARTMENT

Dr. C. Fred Fox of the Molecular Biology Institute of UCLA will speak today on the "Identification of the receptor for epiderman growth factor and its fat during down-regulation," at 4 p.m. in room 203, Grad. Research Tower A. Coffee will be served at 3:45 p.m.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES Daily 45c per line:
5 consec. pub. days.40c per line per day:
30 consec. pub. days.35c per line per day

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _______
X #days:_____ = _______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________ (if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

72 VW Super Beetle in excellent condition. Call 256-8890, even. Negotiable.

68 Ford Custom 4000 R hdtop. PS, PB, AT, new snows, good cond. $400. 665-3271, nights.

Volvo 1971 4 speed, exc. cond. throughout, radials. $1295 or BO. 665-3412.

67 Chevy Impala auto. p.s. New engine, factory air, $400, eves. 253-7160.

76 Rabbit, AM/FM, leatherette, radials, $3050. Call 665-3832.

1969 Ford wagon, 390, runs but needs work. Call Dave, 546-8618, after five. $1200, nego.

LOST

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

Reward for lost men's glasses, silver rim in hard black case. Call Bob, 253-5717.

CARS-SNOWMOBILES-PARTS

Looking to buy or sell a vehicle? Check the Mass Wheeler Dealer where seeing is believing. Ask for it at the UM bookstore.

FOR RENT

One bedrm in beautiful country farm house, available Feb. 1, 1978 Call 659-3542.

Roommate wanted. Get 1st mo. rent free. Male non-smoker, on bus route in Sund. $75/mo. Call Paul, 665-3855.

FOR SALE

Lange Pro Ski boots, size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn on two occasions. $25 will buy you these boots. If interested, call 253-5873.

Organ and amplifier available for quick sale. $300 or best offer. Call nights 549, 4834.

FM radio that fits into any eight track. Only $15. Call Ron, 549-1425.

5 cubic ft. refrig., largest legal dorm size. $75, will deliver. Glenn, 549-1221.

Phillips GA427 turntable, $50, exc., 66856.

Once in a blue moon. 5 Market St., N'hampton used furn.—antiques, red tag sale, now-18.

Rossignol ROC 550's 195's with look nevbndgs, excel. cond. Only $85, 256-0291.

PERSONALS

To the girl who mistakenly took my mittens at the post office Monday 7: please leave them at the lost and found desk in the CC for me. Thanks.

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

HELP WANTED

Flute teacher needed—beginner. 665-3659.

Maple house, a psychiatric halfway house is offering full-time and part-time internships starting at $40 per week. No live-in positions. Supervision provided. Credit available through students' academic institutions. Send resume to 450 Maple St., Holyoke, Mass.

Counsellor for a Cong. Church youth group. Sundays. Call 584-9392, am.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

Need help with Stat.? Psych 145 tutor. Call John, 253-3971.

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Five College typing service—professional, fast service. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

TRAVEL

Puerto Rico Paradise Gambling, Beaches, Bars, Shopping, Sunshine (forget Florida). 8 days & 7 nights. From $279 to $360. 3 packages available. Call Reade 546-5000 or 5-3500.

WANTED

Women's ice skates, good condition. 549-5433.

WANTED TO RENT

Roomate wanted to share two bedroom apt. in Riverglade. Call Andy at 545-2306 or Julie or Skip at 253-3641. $75 per. mo. & util.

ENTERTAINMENT

Monitor Music partiers know we're the best—for any party. Get us at 546-4732.

AUDIO

Garrard 40B w/wood base and new AT11 cart., $30, 549-4470. Must sell soon.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY

---

ENTERTAINMENT

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
"Oh, God!"
GEORGE BURNS
JOHN DENVER
PG
Eves.: 7:00 & 9:00
Sat. & Sun. Mat.: 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

WMUA
News & Sports
MEETING:
Mon., Feb. 13
Campus Center 911, 7:00
NEW MEMBERS WELCOMED

FREE FOOD!!!
10-12 HRS. WEEK
We'll get you off
the meal plan
For Details
call 549-4836

Spring Break
in
Daytona Beach
$175.00 complete
For Info Call 549-0714
Ask for Mark or Joe
$50 deposit by 2-15

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

AMHERST Cinema
253-5426
Pardon Mon Affaire
"MADCAP."
—John Simon, New York Magazine
"Simply Lovely ...an all too human comedy."
JUDITH CRIST-SATURDAY REVIEW
PG
PARDON MON AFFAIRE: 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

Canadian Opera Company
in
"The Barber of Seville"
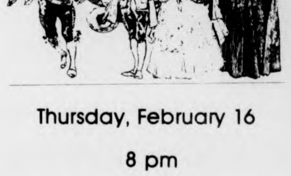
ROSSINI'S COMIC OPERA
IN ENGLISH
WITH ORCHESTRA



Thursday, February 16
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
Tickets on sale February 2. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students — $4, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Mon., Feb. 13
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
Tues. and Wed.
Feb. 14 and 15
Kilroy
and
Hot Calypso Key
Thurs., Feb. 16
FAT
Fri. and Sat.
Feb. 17 and 18
JAMES COTTON
and
James Montgomery
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

CLIP & SAVE
We look forward to seeing you!
SIGMA
DELTA SORORITY
TAU
(409 N. PLEASANT ST.)
JOIN US AT THE FOLLOWING PARTIES:

Tues. Feb. 14 6:00-7:00 — WINE & CHEESE PARTY
Wed. Feb. 15 8:00-9:00 — FASHION SHOW SPONSORED By The Weathervane
Thurs. Feb. 16 7:00-8:00 — DREAM DATE CONTEST
Mon. Feb. 20 7:30-8:00 — HAIR CUTTING DEMONSTRATION Sponsored by Chopping Block
Wed. Feb. 22 8:00-? — PARTY WITH PI KAPPA ALPHA FRATERNITY
Thurs. Feb. 23 5:30-7:00 — SPAGHETTI DINNER
Fri. Feb. 24 3:30-6:30 — HAPPY HOUR
Sunday Feb. 26 11:00-NOON — BRUNCH

For Rides and Info Call: 545-0527

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

① GEORGE BURNS · JOHN DENVER
Is it Funny! "Oh, God!" ENDS TUES.
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30

② CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:00

③ CLINT EASTWOOD THE GAUNTLET
FINAL WEEK
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:15

④ "SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Stop & Shop Coupon J18
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Half Gallon Carton 100% Pure–All Natural From concentrate Orange Juice 79¢
259
Good Mon., Feb. 13–Sat., Feb. 18 Limit one ctn. per customer Dairy

Stop & Shop Coupon J17
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Waldorf Bathroom Tissue
4 Pack of 500 sheet 1 ply rolls
59¢
258
Good Mon., Feb. 13–Sat., Feb. 18 Limit one pkg. per customer
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J16
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Personal Size Ivory Soap
4 Pack of 3½ oz. bars
29¢
257
Good Mon., Feb. 13–Sat., Feb. 18 Limit one pkg. per customer
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon J15
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Prince Thin Spaghetti, Medium Shells or Ziti with lines
16 ounce pkg.
19¢
256
Good Mon., Feb. 13–Sat., Feb. 18 Limit one pkg. per customer
Grocery

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop SUPERMARKETS
Get your Stop & Shopsworth
Rain Checks will be issued to cover any delivery delays by our suppliers due to the storm.

Bring your Valentine a gift of beautiful flowers from Stop & Shop.
Gardenia Plant $5.99 ea. 6 inch pot
African Violets 4" pot $2.49
Potted Azalea 4½" pot $1.99
Mum Plant 5 inch pot Assorted Colors $3.49 ea. Fresh, healthy plants
Cupid Planter $7.99 6 inch pot–3 varieties per pot
Fresh Cut Miniature Carnations bunch $2.99 seafood We've got all kinds of fish. Everything from fillets to shellfish.

Fresh Fillets of Haddock $1.89 lb
Dressed Smelts 1 lb. pkg. Frozen 89¢
Squid 3 lb. box Calamari Frozen $1.89
Whiting 3 lb. box Dressed Frozen $1.39
Fresh Flounder Fillets $2.99 lb
Peeled & Deveined Shrimp $4.79 Stop & Shop–Medium Size–Frozen 20 oz. pkg.
Cooked Fish Cakes Taste O Sea 1 lb. pkg. 79¢
Fish & Chips 2 lb. pkg. Stop & Shop frozen $1.89 corner deli All your favorite meats and cheeses . . . sliced fresh to order. Available in stores featuring a service deli

Beef Franks Morrison & Schiff Cello Casing $1.29 lb
Nepco Cold Cuts per lb. $1.29 Olive, P&P, Mock Chicken, Luncheon, Bavarian Bolo. or Bav. Liverwurst
Imported Glazed Ham Stop & Shop half lb. $1.79
Turkey Breast Stop & Shop Oven Roasted half lb. $1.79
Stop & Shop Cole Slaw per lb. 55¢
Stop & Shop Shrimp Salad half lb. $1.29
Rice Pudding Stop & Shop Greek Style per lb. 59¢
Potato Salad Regular or Oil & Vinegar per lb. 49¢

self service deli favorite brands
Stop & Shop Beef or Mild Franks 1 lb. pkg. 99¢
Cold Cuts Stop & Shop–Sliced Bologna, P&P or Spiced Luncheon Loaf 1 lb. pkg. $1.09
Beef Franks First Prize 1 lb. pkg. $1.19
Hebrew National Bologna or Salami 12 oz. roll $1.39
Armour Hot Dogs Regular or Beef 1 lb. pkg. 99¢
Sauerkraut Stop & Shop 2 lb. pkg. 39¢

Stop & Shop "Great Beef" USDA Choice
Beef Bottom Round Roast $1.29 lb
Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF USDA CHOICE
Our "Great Beef" is USDA choice beef, naturally aged for extra tenderness and flavor in our meat plant and fresh cut in our stores.
Beef Eye Round Roast $1.89 lb.
Beef Rump Roast Bottom Round $1.59 lb.
Beef Bottom Round Steak or Center Cut Roast $1.79 lb.
Boneless Blade Steak Beef Chuck USDA Choice $1.79 lb.

Assorted Pork Chops ⅓ Center, ⅓ Blade & ⅓ Sirloin Chops $1.29 lb Center Cut Pork Chops Thin cut $1.79 lb. $1.69 lb.
Countrystyle Pork Ribs Oven barbecue! $1.29 lb.
Sirloin Pork Cutlets Absolutely delicious. $1.89 lb.
Fresh Pork Shoulder Picnic 6-7 lbs. 79¢ lb.
Fresh Pork Butts Roast long and slow. 99¢ lb.
Fresh Pigs Feet Serve with Stop & Shop sauerkraut 39¢ lb.
First Prize Sausage Meat Fresh 1 lb. roll $1.19 lb.
PERDUE Fresh Roasting Chicken 5-6 lbs. 79¢ lb
Smoked Colonial Master Pork Shoulder 5-6 lbs. Picnic water added 99¢ lb Italian Pork Sausage Family Pack $1.29 lb.

"First of the season"
We want to be your Food Stamp Store
Fresh California Asparagus 99¢ lb.
Colossal California Navel Oranges 48 size 6 for 99¢
White Seedless Grapes Imported 99¢ lb.
Florida 5 lb. bag Oranges 99¢
Imported Nectarines 69¢ lb.
California Carrots 3 1 lb. pkgs $1

Come get your Stop & Shopsworth ... we put the accent on worth.
Welchade Drinks 46 oz. can 49¢ Grape, Grape Punch or Red Grape–Vitamin C Enriched
Pancake Syrup Happy Jack 36 oz. btl. $1.19
Raisin Bran Cereal Skinners 15 oz. pkg. 69¢
Welch's Grape Jelly or Jam 20 ounce jar 59¢
Peanut Butter Stop & Shop–Creamy Style–5 lb. jar $2.99
Cherries Maraschino Orchard Queen 10 oz. jar 55¢
Corn Muffin Mix Jiffy 6 8½ oz. pkgs. $1
Bisquick 40 oz. pkg. 99¢
Gortons Minced Clams 6½ oz. can 79¢
Spaghetti O's Franco American in Tomato and Cheese Sauce 4 14¾ oz. cans $1
Dinty Moore Beef Stew 24 oz. can 89¢
Corned Beef Hash Prudence 15 oz. can 69¢
Pea Soup Habitant Yellow or Green Pea 3 14¾ oz. cans $1
Jiffy Muffin Mixes 4 7 oz. pkgs. $1 Honey Date, Blueberry Like, Bran–Date or Apple Cinn.
Doxsee Clam Chowder 15 oz. can 69¢ New England or Manhattan Style
Bumble Bee Tuna Solid Pack White Meat 7 oz. can in oil 89¢
Tartar Sauce Hellmann's 6 oz. jar 45¢
Handi Wrap 200 ft. Roll pkg. 79¢
Prince Dinners 4 pkgs. $1 Shells & Cheddar 7¼ oz., Twists & Cheddar 6¼ oz., or Macaroni Salad Mix 7 oz. pkg.
Muellers Egg Noodles 12 oz. pkg. 49¢ Fine, Medium or Wide
Flavored Rice Bake It Easy 59¢ Beef, Chicken or Oriental–6 oz. pkg.
Stop & Shop Salad Oil 24 ounce bottle 79¢
Seven Seas Salad Dressing 2 8 oz. btls. 99¢ Viva Italian or Family Style French
Kosher Dill Spears Vlasic 24 oz. jar 69¢ or Polish Dill Spears
Pie Filling Comstock–Cherry 21 ounce can 99¢
Glad Garbage Bags 15 ct. pkg. 99¢
Fabric Softener Sta-Puf 64 oz. btl. $1.59
Arm & Hammer Laundry Detergent 70 oz. pkg. 99¢

dairy Be sure to shop our sparkling country dairy for your favorites . . .
Combination Pack 2 lb. cup Dragone Whole Milk All Natural Ricotta Cheese $2.09 FREE! All Natural Whole Milk Mozzarella Cheese 8 ounce pkg.
Kraft American Cheese $1.19 Deluxe Slices—White or Yellow—12 oz. pkg.
Swiss Cheese Slices Sun Glory 16 oz. pkg. $1.99
Mrs. Filberts Margarine 59¢ Golden Quarters–1 pound pkg.–qtr. pound sticks
Crescent Rolls Stop & Shop 8 oz. pkg. 39¢
Sealtest Cottage Cheese 69¢ Small or Large Curd–16 ounce cup Cream Cheese Philadelphia 79¢ Kraft Whipped Plain or Onion – 8 oz. cont.

frozen foods It's worth your while to stock up on our specials!
Orange Juice Stop & Shop Stock up! 3 6 oz. cans $1
Ice Cream Stop & Shop Half Gallon Tub $1.49 100% Natural Assorted Flavors
Hawaiian Punch Red 3 6 oz. cans $1
Corn on the Cob Green Giant Nibblers 6 count pkg. 69¢
Seabrook Vegetables International 79¢ Roman, Sicilian, Far East, Parisian or Tahitian–18 oz. bag
Strawberries Stop & Shop 16 oz. can 59¢
John's Pizza Cheese or Cheese and Sausage 14 oz. pkg. 89¢
Ravioli Round Cheese Stop & Shop "New Item" 12 ct. 13 oz. pkg. 99¢
Cheese Lasagne Stop & Shop 32 oz. pkg. $1.79
Banquet Dinners 2 11 oz. pkgs. $1 Chicken, Turkey, Veal Parmegian, Meat Loaf or Salisbury Steak
Shrimp Dinner Taste O Sea 7 oz. pkg. 89¢
Scallop Dinner Taste O'Sea 8 oz. pkg. $1.09
Fried Clams Taste O Sea 7 oz. pkg. $1.09
Ore Ida Crispers 10 ounce pkg. 39¢
Rice Frys American Regular or Puffs 3 10 oz. pkgs. $1
Stuffed Scrod Gortons Baked 9½ oz. pkg. $1.29
Scallops Mrs. Pauls Light Batter Dip 7 ounce pkg. $1.29
Shrimp 1 lb. bag Carnation–All Purpose Peeled & Deveined $2.49

bakery Stop & Shop baked goods are worth bringing home . . . they're luscious.
Cherry Pie Stop & Shop 22 ounce pkg. 99¢
Big Daisy Sliced White Bread 3 20 oz. loaves 89¢
Daisy Donuts Stop & Shop Assorted or Cinn. 11½ oz. pkg. of 12 55¢
English Muffins Stop & Shop Reg. or Split 3 12 oz. pkgs. of 6 $1
Coffee Cake Stop & Shop Walnut 20 oz. pkg. 89¢
Chiffon Cake Orange Stop & Shop 16 oz. pkg. 99¢

health & beauty aids Come get your Stop & Shopsworth.
Aim Toothpaste 8.2 ounce tube 99¢
Nyquil Cold Medication 6 ounce btl. $1.29

our kitchen fresh, quality foods.
Multi Pack Pizza 3–5 oz. pizzas $1.09
Double Cheese Pizza 18 oz. size $1.39
Fresh Meat Pies Chicken or Beef 10 oz. size 79¢
Potato Salad Regular or Oil & Vinegar 1 lb. pkg. 49¢

Effective Feb. 13—Feb. 18
FREE! One Roll of KODAK FILM
One roll of Kodacolor film, size 110 or 126, 12 exposure with every roll of color print film brought in for processing.

Prices effective Mon., Feb. 13 - Sat., Feb. 18. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. ©Copyright 1978 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

KNOCK! KNOCK!
HEY, DIDN'T YOU HEAR ME? GO AWAY, DAMMIT, OR I'LL OPEN FIRE!
UNCLE DUKE! DON'T SHOOT! IT'S ME, ZONKER!
ZONKER! WHAT THE HELL ARE YOU DOING HERE?
I'M ON MID-TERM BREAK, UNCLE DUKE! DON'T YOU REMEMBER? YOU ASKED ME OUT HERE TO GO SKI-ING!
OH..OH.. RIGHT! OF COURSE, I DID! COME RIGHT ON IN, BOY!
AUNT SANDY'S AWAY, I SEE..
YEAH, SORRY ABOUT ALL THIS. MY PEACOCK'S BEEN SICK.
Duke
2-13
GBTrudeau
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE © 1978 G. B. Trudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

WHERE'S MY CALENDAR? I CAN'T FIND MY CALENDAR...
IT'S OVER THERE ON THAT LITTLE TABLE
GOOD! I LIKE TO CHECK OUT THE WEEK
I LIKE TO KNOW IF THERE'S ANYTHING I HAVE TO DREAD
SCHULZ
2-13
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

B.C. by Johnny Hart

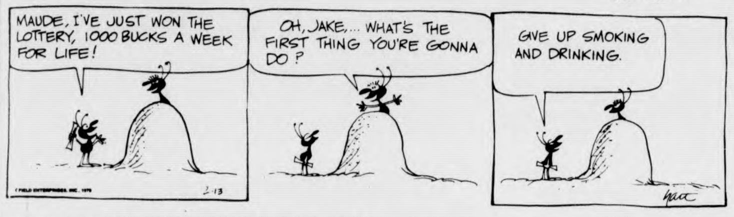
B.C.

by johnny hart



MAUDE, I'VE JUST WON THE LOTTERY, 1000 BUCKS A WEEK FOR LIFE!
OH, JAKE,... WHAT'S THE FIRST THING YOU'RE GONNA DO?
GIVE UP SMOKING AND DRINKING.
© FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC., 1978
2-13
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD IS BREAKING ALL "BONG TILL GONE" RECORDS! NO AMOUNT OF POT CAN KNOCK HIM OUT!
GERALD'S FATHER SPEEDS TOWARDS THE STUDIO...
FORGE
THAT KID WILL REGRET DOPING UP ON TV!
STUDIO
2/13 LAFLER
GERALD, AS OUR "BONG SHOW" CHAMPION, I AWARD YOU THIS NEW PORTABLE FACE!
FAZZ!
SQUINK!
FACE

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

INSTANT RECAP: DENNIS NOLIN, AN ARCHEOLOGIST, FOUND A PORTAL BUILT BY AN ANCIENT CIVILIZATION. IT CAN SEND HIM ANYWHERE ALONG THE REACHES OF TIME AND SPACE.
THE PORTAL PROVIDED HIM WITH A HEADBAND, WHICH IS A UNIVERSAL TRANSLATOR.
HE FOUND HIMSELF ON A WORLD OF MACHINES; THE BUILDERS HAVING DIED LONG AGO. HE WAS TREATED ROYALLY, HAVING EVERY DEVICE AT HIS COMMAND.
BUT AFTER A FEW WEEKS, HE FELT THE NEED TO RETURN TO EARTH.
HE TRIED TO LEAVE, BUT WAS FORBIDDEN BY KRAYNUM, THE CONTROLLING COMPUTER.
YOU MAY DO WHAT YOU WANT, AS LONG AS YOU DO NOT ATTEMPT TO LEAVE!
THIS WAS BECAUSE, AS A FAIL-SAFE MECHANISM, THE MACHINES CAN FUNCTION ONLY IF A LIVING HUMANOID LIFE-FORM IS ON THE PLANET.
ONE LOYAL MACHINE GAVE HIM A MEANS OF ESCAPING: A FIGHTING SUIT. CONTAINING A VARIETY OF WEAPONS, AND A TALKING COMPUTER, THE SUIT WOULD ENABLE HIM TO GET PAST THE ROBOTS GUARDING THE PORTAL.
UNKNOWN TO HIM, ACTIVATING THE SUIT SET OFF A PLANETARY ALARM SYSTEM!!
AS A RESULT, HE HAS MORE THAN JUST A FEW GUARD-ROBS TO FIGHT; HE HAS TO RECKON WITH A MECHANIZED ARMY!
WHEN WE LAST SAW DENNIS, HE HAD BEEN GRABBED BY METAL TENTACLES, WHICH WERE CRUSHING THE FORCE-FIELD WHICH SURROUNDS THE FIGHTING SUIT!
ROLLINS 2-13

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Wally had gone home for intersession.
What do you mean, you had to move back to the dorm? I thought you had a campus housing exemption.
Well, Ma, they revoked it.
How can they do that to my baby? On what grounds?
Emotional immaturity, they said.
Oh, Wally! I'm so ashamed.
I'm sorry, Ma. It's not my fault, really.
Go to your room, young man! No supper for you.
Yes, Ma.
Ranney 2/13

BACK AGAIN by K

COME AND GET IT!
2/13
DEDICATED TO PROMISING ENGINEERS
CUT ME A BIG SLICE!
CAN I HAVE A 'SHROOM?
I WANT LOTS OF CHEESE!
THAT WAS GOOD!
SURE WAS!

Your Birthday

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13 — Born today, you have been gifted with mental and physical prowess. Whatever you attempt you should be moderately successful at; while you may never know supreme achievement, you will never know total failure. You have a sympathetic and generous nature, quick to praise and slow to blame.

You are too quiet and reserved at times, especially when your views concerning something new are solicited. You are not quick to jump on anybody's bandwagon. You may be inclined toward involvement in a new enterprise, but you will wait to see what the chances of success are before you commit yourself. Thus you often forego what could have been real success.

You need harmonious surroundings to accomplish your best work. You have difficulty when there are people around you attempting to argue against you. When you learn to keep your wits about you regardless of distractions, your work will prove good and steady and profitable.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) – It is the self-centered Aquarius who runs into obstacles he cannot handle today. Take your time.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) – A lot of charm and a little diplomacy should see you through the day to a real success.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) – Your ability as a conversationalist stands you in good stead. Friends and enemies need your skills.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) – Excellence of character shines through the most difficult moments today. Awards come at evening.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) – A moment of envy early in the day may lose you a special kind of benefit later on. Think!

CANCER(June 21-July 22) – Don't study the coming situation too much to act in time to make solutions stick.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) – Independence is essential to make the gains your talent suggests possible at this time.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) – You may find it difficult to see another's viewpoint, but it is essential to respect his right to it.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) – Allow children the latitude they need for proper physical or mental development. Be direct in your assertions.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) – Order is necessary to the day's success. Chaos destroys your ability to cope.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) – Analyze positions at work before you seek one that is not already yours. Be careful.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) -- Commercial training may keep you from making serious mistakes today. Don't exaggerate possibilities.

Copyright, 1978 United Feature Syndicate

Local Television

5:00 2 24 57 MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD
8 19 40 MY THREE SONS "Two Weeks To Go"
11 22 30 EMERGENCY ONE
18 CELEBRITY BOWLING
27 LONE RANGER "Ex Marshall"
38 NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
56 FLINTSTONES
5:30 2 SESAME STREET
3 MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
8 19 THE ODD COUPLE
18 CHRIST THE LIVING WORD
24 57 THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
27 THE FBI "Dark Journey"
38 THE GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
40 NEWSBEAT NEWS
56 GILLIGAN'S ISLAND
6:00 [illegible] NEWS
[illegible] CONCENTRATION
[illegible] STAR TREK "Space Seed"
18 BOZO
[illegible] TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — CHILD DEVELOPMENT
[illegible] STAR TREK
[illegible] HOGAN'S HEROES
40 BONANZA "The Pursued" Part I.
[illegible] BRADY BUNCH
[illegible] ZOOM
6:30 [illegible] THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
[illegible] NEWS
[illegible] JOKER'S WILD
[illegible] LASSIE
[illegible] TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — EARTH SEA & SKY
[illegible] TARZAN "Four O'Clock Army" Part I.
[illegible] ADAM—12
[illegible] PARTRIDGE FAMILY
[illegible] OVER EASY
6:55 [illegible] NEWSBEAT NEWS
7:00 [illegible] ZOOM
[illegible] NEWS
[illegible] CONCENTRATION
[illegible] BOWLING FOR DOLLARS
11 THE ODD COUPLE "That Was No Lady"
18 FESTIVAL OF FAITH
[illegible] 40 THE CROSS—WITS
[illegible] OVER EASY
38 THE ODD COUPLE
56 MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
[illegible] AS MAN BEHAVES
7:30 [illegible] THE ORIGINALS: WOMEN IN ART
[illegible] THE DAILY NUMBERS
[illegible] THE PRICE IS RIGHT
[illegible] THE NEWLYWED GAME
[illegible] ACTION NEWS
[illegible] MATCH GAME
[illegible] CANDID CAMERA
[illegible] THE MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
[illegible] ABBOTT AND COSTELLO
30 THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
38 THE JOKER'S WILD
40 TATTLETALES
7:31 [illegible] THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
8:00 [illegible] GREAT PERFORMANCES
[illegible] GOOD TIMES
[illegible] THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN
[illegible] NHL HOCKEY
BOB HOPE COMEDY SPECIAL FROM PALM SPRINGS
11 LET'S MAKE A DEAL
[illegible] 40 TEXACO PRESENTS THE
[illegible] LOOKIN' BETTER "Savage Nomads/Ebony Horsemen"
27 MOVIE "How Sweet It Is"
56 MOVIE "Buono Sera, Mrs. Campbell" Gina Lollobrigida, Shelley Winters
[illegible] CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
8:30 3 BABY I'M BACK
11 DINAH!
24 57 TURNABOUT "The New Reformation"
9:00 2 GREAT PERFORMANCES DANCE IN AMERICA "Merce Cunningham"
3 M*A*S*H
8 19 40 HONEYMOONER'S VALENTINE SPECIAL
18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES "King" Part II.
24 57 HARD TIMES
9:30 3 ONE DAY AT A TIME
27 THE CATHOLIC CONNECTION
10:00 [illegible] NEWS
[illegible] LOU GRANT
[illegible] LOVE BOAT VALENTINE SPECIAL
[illegible] THE ORIGINALS: WOMEN IN ART
10:30 [illegible] MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
[illegible] TO TELL THE TRUTH
[illegible] ANYONE FOR TENNYSON
[illegible] INSIDE WORCESTER
[illegible] LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
11:00 [illegible] DICK CAVETT SHOW
[illegible] 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
[illegible] NEW JERSEY NETS BASKETBALL
11 THE ODD COUPLE "Felix Directs"
18 LIVING FAITH
[illegible] MOVIE "The Wild Bunch"
[illegible] ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS "Incident In A Small Jail"
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
40 THE HOLLYWOOD CONNECTION
11:30 [illegible] CBS LATE MOVIE "The Legend Of Valentino"
[illegible] 40 POLICE STORY
11 THE HONEYMOONERS "Mind Your Own Business"
22 30 [illegible] THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
[illegible] CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
38 IRONSIDE "Girl In The Night"
56 THE NIGHT GALLERY
12:00 11 TWILIGHT ZONE "The Long Morrow"
12:30 11 FILM FESTIVAL "Out Of The Fog" John Garfield, Ida Lupino, Eddie Albert
1:00 22 30 [illegible] TOMORROW
1:15 [illegible] JOE FRANKLIN SHOW
1:30 [illegible] 40 NEWS WEATHER
2:00 [illegible] 22 40 NEWS, WEATHER
2:30 11 BIOGRAPHY "Nikita Khrushchev"

Gymmen sunk

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team continued its losing streak Saturday by dropping a close, but disappointing meet to the U.S. Naval Academy. Although Coach Swetman was pleased with many individual routines, the flu stricken UMass squad couldn't handle the midshipmen surge on the three remaining events of the competition.

After the floor exercise, the Midshipmen jumped out to a mere .60 lead, keeping the competition in a see-saw battle for supremacy. Senior John Forshay won the event, but once again missing his press to hold him in reaching distance of the last Navy competitor.

The pommel horse was a powerful event for the Minutemen, for they took the lead away from the Midshipmen and placed a small .65 lead in their favor. Co-captain Dave Kulakoff continued to display his superiority on the horse with a very commanding 9.35. The closest competitor was Navy's Mike Davis, with an 8.65 had really no hope in catching the defending Eastern League Champion.

The still rings event ultimately lead to the Naval victory with a three point spread after the event. UMass continues to show its weakness in this event, posting only a 3.75 in the total score. The only hope for the UMass squad on this event has been freshman Dave Fellemen, who won the event with a very impressive 8.65.

Long horse vaulting showed the strongest surge of power by the Minutemen. The deficit lost by the gym squad on the still rings event was almost recaptured, missing by only .10. John Forshay won the event with a 8.95, showing only a little difficulty on his landing.

Parallel bars, another weakness in the UMass performance, sealed the fate of the meet with the victory in the hands of the Naval Academy. The only solid performance came from Senior Dave Kulakoff who placed second in the event with an 8.05, only lacking difficulty on his dismount.

★Hockey

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

double roughing penalties while Menzies was sent away for a five minute major.

When the smoke finally cleared, there were six skaters left on the ice, and it was during this three on three stretch, that the Minutemen made two careless mistakes that cost them the game.

At 16:52, Bob Devaney broke in on the UMass goal, circled the net, and threw the puck out front, where Gerard Ciacia, who was left alone, picked it up and fired home a wrist shot from 15 ft. out.

The Minutemen got that one back a minute later, when Joe Milan rifled in a rebound off Ron Valicenti's stick, making it 5-3, but fell behind by three again when Paul Devin slid a low wrist past a screened Riley at 18:30.

The 'never say die' Minutemen came back once again in the third period and drew to within two at 7:02, when Joe Milan, who figured in all four UMass goals lifted a wrist shot into the left corner to make it 6-4.

The Polar Bears showed why they are still undefeated in Div. II as they came right back and put the game out reach when Paul Devin beat Riley with a hard wrist shot that found the top right corner at 7:57.

Sports Notices

REFUNDS — Students who paid $4 to see the UMass-Lehigh football game November 26 are entitled to a $2 refund at the Boyden Ticket Office during normal business hours upon presentation of UMass I.D. and $4 ticket stub.

JV BASEBALL — All candidates interested in JV baseball should attend the meeting in Boyden, rm. 249 Tuesday, Feb. 14 at 4 p.m.

CROSS COUNTRY SKIING — The Intramural Dept. is sponsoring a cross country ski race on Thursday, Feb. 16. The race is open to all students faculty and staff.

SCUBA CLASSES — There are still openings in scuba classes on Monday and Tuesday nights at 7 p.m. in the Curry Hicks pool.

Women runners edge Vermont...

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

BURLINGTON, Vt. — A flu-depleted UMass women's track team got determined performances from several women who were running their second or third race of the day, and held onto a one point lead to defeat the University of Vermont and Albany State, 50-49-8 yesterday.

The Minutewomen got big points from Anna Mathieu and Diana Sealey in the high jump, Barb Callanan and Monica Scott in the two mile, and won the mile relay, the day's final event, to eke out the victory.

"I was real proud of the team," said coach Charlotte Lettis. "They don't usually have to double or triple up."

With only the high jump, two mile and relay left. UMass held a scant 36-35 lead, and stood to lose first and second in both events, and the meet with the, as the relay would be anticlimatic.

At that point, Sealey, who had earlier won the 400 meters (60.0 secs.), volunteered to high jump, and Callanan and Scott jumped into the mile.

"That was a gutsy performance by Barb and Moni," said Lettis. "They had both been sick, and Barb was coming off an intersession injury. Besides, they had both already run the mile."

The whole state of events had come about when "about half" of the team came down with the Russian Flu going around campus. UMass went to the meet with a team of 20.

Mathieu and Sealey both cleared 4'10" in the high jump for second and third, respectively, behind UVM's outstanding Janet Terp, who jumped 5'5 and 3/ 4".

After finishing second in the mile (5:27), Callanan came back to finish third in the deuce in 11:52. Scott was fourth in both races (5:44, 11:59).

The veteran relay quartet of Carolyn Shea, Bonnie Bukowski, Sealey and Cindi Martin had run in a combined total of 10 events, including the fine indoor relay time of 4:08.7, good for first and the meet win.

The last minute heroics did little to overshadow the outstanding effort put in by senior Nancy Cominoli. Cominoli, the most versatile athlete on the team last year, (along with Sealey and Martin), won both the 50 meter dash (6.7) and the 50 meter high hurdles (7.6).

In other individual events, Martin was second in both the 400 (60.5) and the 800 (2:29). Bukowski was third in the 800, with freshman Eileen Everett fourth. Linda Welzel took third in the mile. Linda Stillman was fourth in the dash, then came back to grab third in the long jump at 15'6", in her first jumping of the year. Julie Horgan was fourth in the long jump. Shea and Karen Sweeney took fourths in the 400 and shot put, respectively.

"I was pleased with the early season times," said Lettis. "I think it shows what we would have done if we had our whole team. Still, it shows how much work we have to do. UVM looked sharper, but we had the depth, as always."

...while men trip UMaine

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

ORONO, Me. — The UMass indoor track team came on like gangbusters after being shut out in the first three events to register a tight but impressive victory over UMaine Saturday at Orono, 72-63.

At the outset of the contest the Minutemen fell 26 points behind as they surrendered every possible point in the 35 lb. weight throw, shot put and pole vault to the Black Bears.

Veteran John Slepetz produced a domino effect for the Minutemen as his winning long jump effort at 21'8" became the source of 11 UMass victories in the remaining 13 events.

Brady Mayer added the second victory to the Minutemen card with a 45' 2" leap in the triple jump.

Don Dowden concluded the UMass afternoon dominance in the jumping events with a winning clearance in the high jump at 6'4". Teammate Mark Thompson was second at 6'2".

The first meet record was established by freshman Rich Cady in the 60 yard dash with his time of 6.4 seconds. All in all, six meet records were broken in the contest, five by the Minutemen.

Joe Martens won the 440 yard dash in 49.4, erasing the previous meet standard as well as the fieldhouse record.

Veteran performer Mark Healy came back strong from a short leave of absence as the fifth meet record fell with his triumph in the 880 at 1:55.9.

Freshman Bob Hunt collected five needed points for first place in the 1000 with a time of 2:17.2.

Steve MacDougall glided to victory in the mile (4:17.7) and Mike Morris triumphed in the two mile. Morris edged out teammate Kevin Molteni with his clocking of 9:12.8.

The final two relays of the day's competition provided UMass with the points that decided victory. Entering the tail end of the agenda, Maine was riding a slim one point lead, 63-62.

The Minutemen nipped the Black Bears in the first encounter by one half second with a mile relay time of 3:20.4. In the do or die conclusion of the meet, the UMass 4-880 squad assured the victory with a four second winning margin over the Black Bears with a time of 7:58.3.

Sports Calendar

WEEKEND RESULTS

Hockey UM 4 Colby 3
UM 4 Bowdoin 7
Men's Track 72 UMaine 63
Women's Track 50 Vermont 49
Men's basketball 74 UMaine 76
Women's gymnastics team 132.75 Temple 129.29
Men's gymnastics team 180.70 Navy 185.40
Men's swimming 61 Vermont 52

PRINT SALE!
3 Days Only
February 13, 14 and 15

PICASSO, PABLO

Fantastic Reproductions
in Full Color, Poster-Size

$2.75 each
OR
2 for $5.00

WYETH, ANDREW

All your favorite artists including:
• Van Gogh • Renoir • Monet • Cezanne • Dali
• Chagall • Klee • Miro • Picasso • Etc.

Over 400 different titles! Duplicates of good numbers...BUT, we'll sell out fast, so come early and get the prints you want.

Gymwomen tumble past Temple

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

Sometimes adding a victory to the win column isn't the only victory in an athletic competition. Besides defeating Temple 132.75 to 129.25 over the weekend, the UMass women's gymnastics team recovered a lot of its spirit and momentum.

"I was really pleased with the spirit, enthusiasm and support the team showed against Temple," said Coach Virginia Evans. "It was a complete turn around from Michigan State and I was really proud to see the team come through without the help of some of our regular competitors," Evans said.

The meet began on a positive note with the Minutewomen sweeping the first three places in vaulting. Sue Cantwell took first place in the vault with "her best vault so far this season" according to Coach Evans. Cheryl Morrier was second with an 8.5 and Debbie Law was third with an 8.45. Evans was pleased with Morrier's vault considering she hasn't competed in two weeks because of the flu.

Sue Cantwell came through on the bars and again took first place with a 9.1 score. Temple's Beth Johnson was second with 8.85 and Jean Anderson was third with an 8.4 score. Karen Clemente worked on the bars for the first time since last December and although her score was not high, Evans was pleased with her progress.

Evidence of the flu was most noticed on the balance beam where both teams had problems. UMass won the event, 31.40 to 30.85 but Temple's Lisa Matteo took first place. Kim Whitelaw, competing on the beam for the first time for the Minutewomen finished second with an 8.10. "We still need to beef her routine up, but Kim did a nice routine for us". Laurie Knapp was third with an 8.05.

Cantwell also won the floor exercise with an 8.9 score followed by two Temple gymnasts, Beth Enderson and Beth Johnson. Karen Clemente, Debbie Smith and Cheryl Morrier were the other floor competitors for UMass. Clemente performed well considering she still is hampered by ankle injuries and hasn't worked on the floor in four weeks. Smith also received praise from Coach Evans for continuing to improve her routine.

Cantwell also won the all round competition with a total of 34.65 for four events. "She could have had a really good score if she had stayed on the beam," said Evans. Beth Johnson of Temple was second with 32.65 followed by teammate Lisa Matteo with a 32.50. Cheryl Morrier finished the day with a 31.70 which isn't bad considering she's been weakened by the flu. Freshmen Clemente and Smith completed in all four events for the first time against Temple. Clemente totaled 31.55 which indicates the potential she has when she is fully recovered from her ankle injuries. Smith totaled 28.95.

The flu seems to be hitting all areas as Temple seemed as weakened by the flu as were the UMass gymwomen. "The flu sort of equalized the performances of the meet and the meet turned out to be closer than under normal circumstances," said Evans.

The flu bug also is playing havoc with the line ups. The gymwomen will meet Southern Conn. on Wednesday in the Cage in a dual competition. "At this point the line up will be whoever doesn't have the flu," said Evans.

Matmen host Blue Devils

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The news out of Boyden is not good. The UMass wrestling team will be without the services of grapplers Larry Otsuka and Tony Perry as the Minutemen entertain Central Connecticut tonight (Boyden Auxiliary Gym, 7:00). This will be the team's first action in over a week, as the recent snowstorm caused the cancellation of meets with New Hampshire, West Point, and Wilkes.

Sophomore Dave Daly will begin the action and wrestle at 118 pounds. Coach Dave Amato had explored the possibility of using Daly at 126 pounds because Of Perry's illness, but decided to have Dana Rasmussen wrestle in Perry's spot. Raz usually wrestles at 118 pounds.

Otsuka's absence leaves a big hole in the UMass lineup. Ken Dixon wrestling at 134 pounds, will replace Otsuka's.

As usual, Charley Rigoglioso will compete at 142 pounds. In the 150 pound class, Amato has inserted freshman Mike Carroll to compete. Amato's regular 158 pound grapper, Monty Payette, is also out of the lineup. Thus, Amato will do exactly what he has done several other times this season and put co-captain Timmy Fallon, the team's 150 pound grapper, in the heavier weight class.

The remainder of the UMass lineup will be the usual four freshman who have been competing for much of the season: Fred Rheault at 167 pounds, Bob Radiwitz at 177 pounds, Bob Clark at 190 pounds, and John Allen in the unlimited division.

Wrestling Notes

The Minutemen hold down a higher New England ranking than Central Connecticut. These rankings are based on the assumption that the UMies are at full strength, though..... Commenting on his team, coach Amato is expecting his heavier wrestlers to come through. "Perry and Otsuka are out of the lineup, and Carroll and Fallon are wrestling up. The heavier wrestlers will have to try extra hard," said the coach... The New England championships are less than one month away (March 2, 3, and 4) and Amato is now thinking in that direction, looking at all remaining meets as tuneups. In all probability, Amato will send eight freshman to the New Englands, with co-captains Fallon and Otsuka the only upperclassmen competing.... The postponed UNH meet will be made up February 27 at Boyden, and the West Point meet has been rescheduled tentatively for this Wednesday at 4:00 at the military academy... Incidentally, the recent signing of former UMass football star Dennis Fenton to the Cleveland Browns has an ironic twist to it. MIlt Morin was a star footballer for the Minutemen (nee Redmen) in the early sixties and also won a heavyweight crown in the New Englands as a member of the wrestling team. Morin went on to an exciting ten season career as a tight end for those same Cleveland Browns. If history repeats itself, as it has a habit of doing at times, then Fenton, who was also a heavyweight New England wrestling champ, has something to look forward to.

A short-handed UMass wrestling team will face Central Connecticut tonight at 7 p.m. in the Boyden Auxiliary Gym. The Minuteman wrestling team, which has relied heavily on freshmen this season, have three matches left after tonight before the New England's early next month. (Staff photo by Dave Daley)

COLLEGIAN PHOTO MEETING

FOR ALL STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
AND INTERESTED STUDENTS
NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED

FEBUARY 15, 1978 7:30
AT THE COLLEGIAN PHOTO DESK

PROGRAM COUNCIL FILM SERIES
SPRING SEMESTER 1978

Thurs. Feb. 9:
KING OF HEARTS, CCA 7, 8:45, 10 — $1.00

Fri. Feb. 10:
TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD, CCA 7 — $1.00
TO SIR WITH LOVE, 9:15

Fri. Feb. 24:
SILVER STREAK, CCA 7, 11:30 — $1.00
NORTH BY NORTHWEST, 9

Thurs. March 9:
THREE WOMEN, CCA 7, 9:15, 11:30 — $1.00

Sun. March 12:
NASTY HABITS, CCA 7, 11:00 — $1.00
STATE OF THE UNION, 8:45

Wed. March 29:
SLAPSHOT SUB, 7, 9:15, 11:30 — $1.00

Sun. Apr. 2:
YOU ONLY LIVE TWICE, CCA 7 — $1.00
ON HER MAJESTY'S SECRET SERVICE, 9:15

Thurs. Apr. 13:
HARLAN COUNTY USA, CCA 7, 8:45, 10:30 — $1.00

Sat. Apr. 29:
SHORTS & CARTOONS, CCA 12, 4, 8 — FREE

Thurs. May 11:
RETURN OF THE DRAGON, CCA 7, 11:00 — $1.00
GOODBYE BRUCE LEE, 8:45

Fri. May 12:
BAD NEWS BEARS, CCA 7, 10:30 — $1.00
BUGSY MALONE, 8:45

The World of Sports

PC tips NC

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — Bill Eason's short-jumper from the baseline with 20 seconds to play gave Providence College a 61-59 upset victory over sixth-ranked North Carolina yesterday.

Trailing 59-55 with 3:00 to play and two of its starters out of the game with five fouls, Providence broke the famed North Carolina four-corner offense on a three-point play by reserve guard David Frye. With 2:19 to go, the Friars tied the score on a free-throw by substitute center Rich Hunger.

North Carolina then ran the clock down until Providence gained possession on a missed foul shot. With 20 seconds remaining, Eason tossed in the winning bucket.

After Providence led early, North Carolina took an eight point lead, 29-21, with 3:45 to go in the first half. But the Friars came back and tied it up 31-31 at the intermission.

North Carolina, now 20-5 on the season, led much of the second half until Providence, 18-4, rallied in the closing minutes.

Eason was high-man for the Friars with 16 points followed by Bob Misevicius with 15 and Bruce Campbell with 12 points.

Phil Ford had 18 and Mike O'Koren added 17 for the Tar Heels.

Walk-on wins

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. [UPI] — Heinz Gunthardt wasn't even supposed to be in the $75,000 Springfield International Tennis Classic, but yesterday he won it with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 triumph over top-seeded Harold Solomon.

The 4,800 Springfield Civic Center fans cheered on the 19-year-old from Switzerland, who was a qualifying loser a week ago and made the tournament as first alternate in place of a late scratch.

Sunday's triumph completed the perfect tourney for Gunthardt, who had never won a professional event and had never beaten Solomon of Pompano Beach, Fla.

The youngster beat veteran Eric Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., seventh-seeded Brian Teacher of San Diego, fourth-seeded Jan Kodes and South African Byron Bertram to make it to the final.

Gundhardt opened the match by breaking Solomon's service in the first game. The Swiss teenager broke the 25-year-old favorite again in the final game of the set.

In the second set, Solomon used his back-court game to climb back into the match. Gundhardt led 2-1 before Solomon won five of the next six games to take the set.

Solomon broke his opponent again and took a 2-0 lead in the final set before Gundhardt won the next six games in the match. Solomon withstood two match points in the final game before Gundhardt ended it with a winning serve.

The victory was worth $15,000 to Gundhardt while Solomon took home $7,500.

Habs, 5-3

NEW YORK [UPI] — Guy LaFleur, Rejean Houle and Steve Shutt scored within a span of 3:01 in the second period last night, enabling the Montreal Canadiens to beat the New York Rangers 5-3 and equal the National Hockey League's record of 23 consecutive games without a loss.

NY tops Nets

PISCATAWAY, N.J. [UPI] — John Williamson scored 43 points, including a jump shot as the buzzer went off, to give the New Jersey Nets a come-from-behind 112-110 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Sunday.

Pucksters nip Colby, split weekend games

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

Center Don Murphy tipped in a Ron Valicenti slapshot from the right point at 3:02 of the overtime period Saturday night to give the UMass hockey team a 4-3 victory over Colby College and a very important split of the weekend action at Orr Rink.

On Friday night, the Minutemen saw their five game unbeaten streak come to an end when they ran into a determined Bowdoin six that scored five goals in a wild second period and then hung on for a 7-4 win.

As a result of the weekend split, the Minutemen now stand at 8-7-1, and are in the thick of the fight for a playoff spot with four games remaining.

The Colby game was one the Minutemen appeared to have won late in the third period, but they almost threw it away with loose, sloppy defense.

Both teams, especially Colby, started off slowly in the first period. It took the Mules over nine minutes to get a shot on net, and they ended up with only six for the period.

The Minutemen jumped out to an early lead at just 1:13 when Joe Milan, who tallied twice against Bowdoin, connected on a low wrist shot from 15 feet out. Nick Carny and Brian Kitteridge got the assists.

That was all the scoring there was to be until the Mules got the equalizer at 6:32 of the third period. In between the goals, the play was dominated entirely by the Minutemen, both offensively and defensively.

The Minutemen pulled out the big guns on offense and put 32 shots on net in the first two periods but were denied by sophomore goaltender Joe Faulstich who turned in a heroic performance in the Colby net.

On defense, the UMies turned in their best penalty killing performance of the season. During one stretch in the second period, they were either one or two men short for almost six straight minutes, during which they allowed only three shots on net.

The game finally opened up a bit in the third period, when the Mules came to life, and showed the caliber of hockey they are capable of playing.

The Mules tied it up at 6:32, when Pat Murphy capitalized on loose play in front of the net and slipped a low wrist shot along the ice past Riley.

The Minutemen got the lead back again five minutes later, when the hard working penalty-killing unit took advantage of shoddy play in the Colby end and picked up a short-handed tally when John Peters backhanded a loose puck into the top right corner.

The UMies went up by two when Peters got his second goal of the night at 13:46 when he wacked a rebound off the stick of Joe Milan just inside the left post.

The Minutemen saw that lead disintigrate, as sloppy defensive play in front of the net resulted in game-tying goals for Colby.

Bob Norton made it 3-2 when he knocked in a loose puck at 14:46. Pat Murphy sent the game into overtime when he took a pass from Ed Curran at the blueline, eluded defenseman Valicenti, and slipped the puck past an out-of-position Riley, thus setting up Murphy's heroics in sudden death.

The Bowdoin contest on Friday night was a wide-open, tightly officiated, penalty filled affair that in the end was lost through some very sloppy defense in the second and third periods that led to what coach Jack Canniff called "Cheap goals".

The Polar Bears broke on top of 1:23 of the opening period when Roger Elliot took a centering pass from Mike Newfal and fired a high wrist shot past Riley.

The Minutemen came back in the hard aggressive style that has become their trademark, and tied the game at 12:34 on a backhander by Nick Carney that beat Bowdoin netminder Bob Menzies to the stick side.

UMass grabbed the lead when hard-working freshman Mark Ferragamo whistled a low 40 ft. wrist shot past Menzies at 16:37.

The first period was a fine period of hockey for both teams, but it was the second stanza that will be remembered for a while. There were six goals scored, five by Bowdoin; there were 12 penalties called and there was a brawl of sorts that broke out late in the period that sent seven players to the penalty box.

Ron Valizenti sticks it to his Colby counterpart in UMass' 4-3 overtime victory Saturday at Orr Rink. Both teams were ready for some rough going and, as a result, played much of the game shorthanded. (Staff photo by Geoffrey Cohler)

The Polar Bears tied the score four minutes into the period when, with a four on three advantage, Bill McNamara blasted in a 60 ft. slap shot from the left point.

Bowdoin then grabbed a two goal lead on successive tallies that resulted directly from defensive mistakes in front of the net.

Paul Sylvester gave the Bears the lead at 6:05 when he slipped a loose puck past Riley off a scramble in front. Bill McNamara picked up his second goal, and made it 4-2 just 12 seconds later when he picked up loose puck off a rebound and fired it by a dazed Riley.

The rest of the period was marked by penalties and hard aggressive play that broke wide open at 16:37, when what appeared to be a minor skirmish between Don Murphy and Bowdoin's Mark Pletts became a major incident when Menzies, the Bowdoin goaltender joined into the fight. There was a lot more pushing and shoving, and when it was all over, a confused set of officials sent seven players to the penalty box.

Bob and Bill White and Dean Liacos for UMass, and Pletts, Mike Carman and McNamara for Bowdoin were all assessed

TURN TO PAGE 18

Collegian Sports

The UMass basketball team sorely missed the presence of high scoring forward Mike Pyatt last week. Without Pyatt in the lineup, the Minutemen dropped decisions to Rutgers and Maine. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Bears claw UMass; enhance playoff hopes

By RUSS SMITH
Collegian Staff

So much for the easy win.

The UMass Minutemen journeyed to UMaine's 'Pit' Saturday, and came away with their second straight loss, a 76-74 decision to the Black Bears. The loss drops UMass to 11-7, while upping UMaine's record to 14-6. The win marked only the second time in their last ten encounters that the Orono squad has come away with a victory over the Minutemen. The win keeps the Bears playoff hopes alive.

Though they lost by two points, UMass had to fight to get that close as Maine led in the second half by as much as fourteen, before eking out the victory.

"We were prepared to play" commented Maine's Dave Wyman. "Coach (Skip) Chappelle and (assistant coach Peter) Gavett did a good job on scouting UMass. This was a big game for us; our guys were really psyched."

Before an estimated 2,500 screaming fans, the first openings minutes of play saw a low scoring, defensive struggle by both teams, highlighted by many fouls. UMass' first five points came on free throws (Haymore 3 FT's, Eldridge 2 FT's) and after almost six minutes of play, the score was knotted at 5-5.

Neither team was shooting the eyes out of the basket, and with half of the first half gone (or a quarter of the game, if you prefer) UMass held its biggest lead of the night, 19-16.

Wally Russell hit for the Bears to put them down by one before Len Kohlhaas' rebound of an Eric Williams shot put the lead back at three again. Maine countered with Roger Lapham's jumper; down by one again.

With 1:25 remaining in the half, Maine held a 36-32 lead. Mark Haymore made his way to the hoop for two points, and had a offensive foul added to his stats after the bucket.

Maine increased their lead with four unanswered points, via the charity stripe route, and led at halftime, 40-34.

However, the worst was yet to come.

Maine came out flying and shooting in the second half; while nothing was going down for UMass. And the crowd was loving it.

Slowly but surely, the Bears pulled away. UMass was getting one shot at a time at the basket, and everything was going Maine's way.

With 5:20 remaining, Maine held a fourteen point lead, their largest margin of the evening, 67-53, and things looked dim for the Minutemen.

But Haymore, Derick Clayborn, Chuck Steveskey, Williams, and Kohlhaas (not to forget, Eldridge) led a surge that saw Maine's once immense lead go slip-sliding away.

Maine went into a semi-stall, mainly because UMass was playing better defensively, which also led to the Minuteman comeback effort.

With less than 30 seconds remaining, Eldridge drove the lane for a layup that put UMass down by only one point, 73-72.

Steveskey fouled Maine's Rick Boucher, who went to the line to shoot a one-on-one. He hit the first, but missed the second. Kohlhaas grabbed the rebound, and Mass. called its last timeout.

Only 16 seconds remained. Eldridge passed the ball off to Bill Morrison, who returned it to him. But as Alex began to dribble, the ball skipped off his foot. A diving Kohlhaas attempted to keep it in play, but to no avail.

Rufus Harris subsequently was fouled on the inbounds pass. He sank both free throws putting Maine up, 76-72. The Bears allowed Eldridge an uncontested layup with three seconds left to make it 76-74 Maine. UMass immediately called for a timeout, but having none, were hit with a technical. Maine missed the freebie, but it was irrelevant.

Rim notes: Haymore had 22 pts. for UMass, followed by Eldridge's 20; Kohlhaas grabbed 15 rebounds, while Steveskey played good coming off the bench... Harris led Maine with 23 pts., followed by Lapham (20 pts.) UMass shot 39 per cent from the floor, 64 per cent from the charity stripe — UMaine shot 43 per cent from the floor, 73 per cent from the free throw line... Tom Witkos has been struck by the flu bug, and missed the Maine game....

You are invited to participate in an unprecedented gathering of imagination, fantasy and wonder

Walt Disney World
AUCTION
Take a Wench for a Bride
MERCADO

PUT SOME MAGIC IN YOUR FLORIDA SPRING VACATION

Florida means sunshine, salt spray, and miles and miles of gorgeous beaches. Florida also means Walt Disney World. For a different kind of fun, just a short drive from the beach (90 minutes from Daytona).

At Walt Disney World, you enter a Kingdom of magic. Where you watch your dreams come true. Where you experience the thrill of a fall through the cosmic night inside Space Mountain. Where the Pirates of the Caribbean take you along on their wild adventures.

At Walt Disney World, the kid in you shows through. Shake hands with Goofy. Waddle arm in arm with Donald Duck. And give your regards to Mickey and Minnie as they pass your way.

And you'll be pleasantly surprised at the price of admission. The Magic Kingdom is a real entertainment value ($8 for a day of fun).

Walt Disney World is quite unlike anywhere you've ever been. After all, Cinderella lives here. So does Thumper. And Winne the Pooh.

So put some magic into your Florida vacation this spring. Come see us at Walt Disney World.

WE'RE IN REACH

For about the price of a good dinner, you can have a day-long entertainment feast at Walt Disney World.

JUST A SHORT DRIVE FROM THE BEACH

Walt Disney World is centrally located, near Orlando. Just a short drive from Florida's beach resort areas.

Add some magic to your sun-and-surf vacation. Come to Walt Disney World.

Tallahassee
Jacksonville
I-75
Daytona Beach
90 minutes
Orlando
Cape Canaveral
Walt Disney World
Vacation Kingdom
Orlando International Airport
I-4
Florida Turnpike
Tampa
90 minutes
St. Petersburg
Ft. Lauderdale
Miami Beach

Walt Disney World

Open 9 a.m.-9 p.m., March 5-12, 1978
9 a.m.-10 p.m., March 13-17, 1978
8 a.m.-1 a.m., March 18-31, 1978

Admission and eight Magic Kingdom adventures, just $8.

AD59280178-600M

©1978 WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS

---

NUMMO NEWS

Volume 5 Issue 3

Was Martin Luther King Jr. A Capitalist?

On the hundredth birthday of Dr. W.E.B. Dubois February 23, 1968, Freedomways Magazine sponsored an international Cultural Evening at Carnegie Hall in New York City. The Centennial Address that evening was delivered by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. This particular speech I think was one of his best ones before his assassination and this speech alone was highly responsible for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. because he was in full agreement with what Dr. Dubois finally did in his life.

I will not attempt to give the full text of this speech, but only highlight key points that he made about Dr. W.E.B. Dubois, whom Dr. King loved. The two great intellectuals of our time have given people of color a high standard to live by; it would be well that whites as well as people of color emulate these two unselfish Africans. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. did not make a mystique out of being of African descent. Dr. Dubois felt the same way as Brother Martin. History taught both men of vision that it is not enough to be angry at one's oppressor even if he has your own pigmentation rather than the general oppressors' skin pigmentation. These two men will knew that the supreme task sincere people have is to organize, and unite people so that their anger becomes a transforming force.

Brother Martin stated the following about Dubois: "This life style of Dr. Dubois is the most important quality this generation of Negroes needs to emulate. The educated Negro who is not really part of us, and the angry militant who fails to organize us having nothing in common with Dr. Dubois. He exemplified black power achievement and he organized black power in action. It was no abstract slogan to him." Further on Dr. King continues to praise Brother Dubois.

"We cannot talk of Dr. Dubois without recognizing that he was a radical all of his life. Some people would like to ignore the fact that he was a Communist in his later years. It is worth nothing that Abraham Lincoln warmly welcomed the support of Karl Marx during the Civil War and corresponded with him freely...It is time to cease muting the fact that Dr. Dubois was a genius and chose to be a Communist. Our irrational obessive anticommunism has led us into too many quagmires to be retained as if it were a mode of scientific thinking."

Brother Martin stated further: "Negroes have heavy tasks today. We were partially liberated and then re-enslaved. We have to fight again on old battlefields but our confidence is greater, our vision is clear, and our ultimate victory surer because of the contributions a militant, passionate black giant left behind him." Dr. King used this speech as an organizing tool for the Poor Peoples March on Washington D.C. in 1967. This can be illustrated by the following. "Dr. Dubois has left us but he has not died. The spirit of freedom is not buried in the grave of the valiant. He will be with us when we go to Washington in April to demand our right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We have to go to washington because they have declared an armistice in the war on poverty while squandering billions to expand a senseless, cruel, unjust war in Vietnam."

It is highly difficult to think that in a psychotic fit that Dr. Martin Luther King supported Capitalism and hated progressive thinkers who fought for protection of the oppressed. I think that Martin Luther King was a man that gave everything he had to the masses of all people around the world. Dr. King was warned by the likes of the then Rev. Andrew Young to not speak out against the war in Vietnam. There were young activists who asked Dr. King to speak out against the war and he did. Myself and others who are still around who participated in that period of history owe something to the masses of people. I would have probably not be here at U of Mass had it not been for the efforts of this man. He continued to deal with our concrete struggle both here and abroad and he did not have a liberal tongue. He was not afraid to criticize incorrect behavior. He continues the following. "We will go there, we will demand to be heard, and we will stay until the administration responds. If this means forcible repression of our movement, we will confront it, for we will embrace it for that is what

(Continued on page 2

shimon
Love and Respect
I'M COMING Spot

Quotes:

¶ "Education is an important element in the struggle for human rights. It is the means to help our chiljen and people rediscover their identity and thereby increase self-respect. Education is our passport of the future, for tomorrow belongs to the people who prepare for it today."

Malcolm X, 1965

¶ "We must establish all over the country schools of our own to train our children to become scientists and mathematicians. We must realize the need for adult education and for job retraining programs that will emphasize a changing society in which automation plays the key role. We intend to use the tools of education to help raise our people to an unprecedented level of excellence and self-respect through their own efforts."

Malcolm X, 1965

"In order for the Afro-Americans to control their destiny they must be able to control and affect the decisions which control their destiny: economic, political acnd social. This can only be done through organization."

Malcolm X, 1965

"The community must reinforce its moral responsibility to rid itself of the effects of years of exploitation, neglect and apathy, and wage and unrelenting struggle against police brutality."

Malcolm X, 1965

"A race of people is like an individual man; until it uses its own culture, affirms its own selfhood, it can never fulfill itself."

Malcolm X, 1965

"Our cultural revolution must be the means of bringing us closer..."

Malcolm X, 1965

"Armed with the knowledge of the past, we can with confidence charter a course for our future. Culture is an indispensable weapon in the freedom struggle. We must take hold of it and forge the future with the past."

Malcolm X, 1965

"We appreciate the fact that when the people involved have real equality and justice, ethnic intermingling can be beneficial to all. We must denounce, however, all people who are oppressive through their policies or actions and who are lacking in justice in their dealings with other people, whether the injustices proceed from power, class or "race!' We must be unified in order to be protected from abuse or misuse."

Malcolm X, 1965

"One of the first things I think young people, especially nowadays, should learn is how to see for yourself and listen for yourself. Then you can come to an intelligent decision for yourself. If you form the habit of going by what you hear others say about someone, or going by what others think about someone, instead of searching that thing out for yourself and seeing for yourself, you will be walking east when you think you're walking east, and you will be walking east when you think you're going west. This generation, especially of our people, has a burden, more so than any other time in history. The most important thing that we can learn to do today is think for ourselves."

Malcolm X

Satisfaccion

Lo más hermoso para los que han combatido
su vida entera,
es llegar al final y decir:
creiamos en el hombre y la vida y la vida y el hombre
jamás nos defraudaron

Así son ellos ganados para el pueblo.
Así surge la eternidad del ejemplo.

No porque combatieron una parte de su vida, sino porque combatieron todos los dias de su vida.

Solo así llegas los hombres a ser hombres:
combatiendo dia y noche por ser hombres.

Entonces, el pueblo abre sus ríos mas hondos
y los mezcla para siempre con sus aguas.

Así son ellos, encendidas lejanias.
Por eso habitan hondamente el corazón del ejemplo.

por Otto Rene Castillo.

Satisfaction

The most beautiful
for those who have fought a whole life, is to come to the end and and say:
we believed in man and in life and life and man never let us down.

And so they are won for the people.
And so the infinite example is born.

Not because they fought a part of their lives
but because they fought all the days of their lives,

Only this way do men become men:
fighting day and night to be men.

Then the people open their deepest rivers and they enter those waters forever.

And so they are, distance fires, living, creating the heart of example.

by Otto Rene Castillo

note: Eo From a collection of poems in Let's Go, a bilingual edition of this Guatemalan rationalist's work. Castillo died by torture.

Educational Materials for Sale
Games: "Workers Unite" $3.50
"Strike!' $3.00
2 Games for $6.00, poster free
Guides: Curriculum $2.00
Cards: Attractive note cards with photographs of children, Packet of 10, $2.00
Poster: Black and White Photograph, $1.00

Make checks payable to Che Lumumba School. For more information or to make orders write to: Che Lumumba School, New Africa House, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts, 01003.

The Che-Lumumbas school for Truth was founded in 1972 as an alternative elementary school in service to the Black, Puerto Rican, Chicano, African, and other Third World people in Western Massachusetts. The purpose of the school is to provide a training institution for Third World people who will be prepared socially, politically and intellectually to provide leadership in the tasks of nationbuilding. The School for Truth is an independent school attempting to develop an independent lifestyle for people. The curriculum is designed to give children the opportunity to obtain the knowledge, critical thinking skills and values conducive to developing a commitment to the liberation of all people from exploitation and oppression. The School is cooperatively managed and operates on the principles of unity, self-determination, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, and love and respect for self, family and community. The families and staff are dedicated to the achievement of human rights and the elimination of race, sex and class privileges. These values give the school its purpose and direction. The family and the school work together towards our vision of a world with transformed human relationships.

The Che-Lumumba School over six years has many people to thank for their work on behalf of our school:

Sister Ismat Abdal-Haqq, whose dedication to teaching and children is admirable...

Yvonne Mark John, whose talents and generosity are an example...

Maddie Marquez, whose persistence and patience helped us continue...

Dr. Xala Chandler, Dr. Andre McLaughlin, Jose Tolson, Paul Chandler, Dr. Gloria Joseph, Ann and Bob Saunders, Jonathan and Dee Clark whose vision and perserverance brought the school into being...

Wilessie Commisiong, Bob Padgett, Dr. Esla Lynch, Professor Edward and Vicenta Sotolongo, Professor Acklyn Lynch, Gilberto Sotolongo, William Hasson, Linda Santos, Karen Brown, Debbie Brown, Sonia Stiebel, Celia Alverez, Maceo Shango, Patti Simmons, Hilda Lightborn, Janice Wertz, Julie Anderson, Bridget Porter, Fiseha, Sisey, Birku, Gary Inouye, Irene Perry, Harold Washburn, Keryl Thompson, Harry McCord, Gail Whittaker, Jose Ruiz, Charo Ventura, Terry Jenoure, Zoe Best, Diane Hale, Vonetta, Kim Holder, Gary Owens, Roy Francis, John Samalot, the head teachers during 1974-1976 Susan Markman and Mary Lea, and many others who gave their time and talents during the first five years...

Mauricio Hernandez, Marianela Africano, Cheryl Davis, Wanda Peace, Michelle Whitsett, Eshu Elegra who have given their service during the last year...

Continued on Page 3

Continued from page 1

America's poor now receive. If it means jail we accept it willingly, for the millions of poor already are imprisoned by exploitation and discrimination.

Dr. Dubois would be in the front ranks of the peace movement today. He would readily see the parallel between American support of the corrupt and despised Thieuky regime and northern support to the southern slavemasters in 1876. The CIA scarcely exaggerates, indeed it is sur- [illegible] when it calculates for Congress that the war in Vietnam can persist for a hundred years. People deprived of their freedom do not give up — Negroes have been fighting more than a hundred years and even if the date of full emancipation is uncertain, what is explicitly certain is that the struggle for it will endure."

If. Dr. Martin Luther King could still breathe on this Capitalist economy, I am certain he would not hesitate to call the present National elected officials nothing more than overseers of the oppressed masses of the people both here and abroad.

Note about the author: Nkrumah Lumumba Olinga. "I am currently a doctorial candidate in Mental Health Admin. Prog. I was formerly Donald Wendell Humphrie, but felt that my name was an effect of the mis-education of the African whose total emancipation Dr. Dubois and Dr. King struggled for. I felt that getting rid of my oppressors' name was an important step in the right direction. I did not realize the full impact that this step took until the Northampton Court did not even want me to show up in court.

The Court of Northampton denied me the right to educate the people in the court room about absurdity of Africans in 1978 still being proud of their former slavemasters' name with some type of sick pride.

The court knew I had a just cause for changing my slave name. I told the court that by my continuing to carry this slave name it was an act of genocide against an entire Nation of New African people. The court of Northampton did not even dare ask for public announcement fee for the name change, they simply sent my new rightful name to me in the mail.

It stated that public announcement of name change has been waived for good cause shown. We people of African descent have a whole lot of organizing to do. It is also hoped that non-Africans will pass this on to other people of African descent who did not read this. This type of dialogue is needed to continue until there is full emancipation and not a sad joke like it is at the present.

---

Three Sisters Showing Love and respect by Not fighting and by giving each other flowers.
Alicia

Keeping the Faith

By JAMILA GASTON

In the early years of our children's lives we turn them over to a group of people, strangers, who we believe will socialize and train our children for their future responsibilities. We give money to a fund that pays these strangers salaries, buys them materials, equipment and maintains buildings. In some places the newness and gloss of it all makes us feel good about giving them our children to develop for us. With blind faith we give them our children and our money whether the buildings and books are beautiful or not. We seldom have any control over what happens to any of these; the children, the books, the buildings, the ideas communicated by strangers. If our child comes home with the glow of accomplishment we feel satisfied and successful as parents. If our children come home in pain because they are made to feel stupid, out of place, like they want to be someone else; or hurt by consistent racist, sexist or class insensitivity; or indifferent because they have been treated indifferently, we begin to wonder what is going on. When it happens to just one child we often blame ourselves or the community. When we see this destructive experience repeated not only in one but in many, too many, of our children and our neighbors children we begin to suspect that its not us at all. As we think critically about our observations and share our experiences with others we begin to realize that a pattern has developed. Our children who are poor; who speak a different language at home than in school; who are members of the racial group out of power; our children, who through our efforts to help them survive as best we know how have built up a culture incompatible with that of those who control the country's ideas; our children are not learning the skills that will give them a chance for a good life. When we ask why social scientists and educators tell us there is something innately wrong with them, with the way we love them, with the environment we create. We accept the blame and watch our children fail as they develop unhealthy feelings about themselves and us and their people. Since we hold ourselves as adults accountable for their future we must act to change their lives. At some point we begin to realize that there is nothing wrong with our children, or the way we love them, or the people we are part of.

This recognition is supported by research that documents that the public institutions responsible for the education of our children have never been fair to communities of people who work at poverty levels because they have no power to control, or to people who are unemployed, or to people whose race, language, culture or nationality are not compatible with that of the majority. In the 1960's parents, sensitive teachers and administrators, a few social scientists and educators decided to turn things around. Frustrated in their efforts to achieve quality education by appealing to insensitive policy makers removed from the communities needs they began an intense and arduous struggle to achieve community control of schools.

This meant they wanted to evaluate teachers, form policy, participate in decision-making. Parents felt if they were going to be held accountable for the condition of their children they must control the institutions that determine their lives. They began by shifting the responsibility for the condition of education from the child and the family to the school.

The struggles for community control and parent participation in education stimulated action in over 42 cities. There were varying degrees of success but one thing is certain, the revival of the issue of participatory democracy in education created a distinct change in the approach of educators, administrators and researchers to problems in the education of the children of minorities. The federal government and several states have passed laws and made policy statements calling for parent participation in educational programs and institutions. A few local school systems began to respond by becoming more flexible in their relationship which parents. Activists in several cities created innovative school programs to meet varying racial, linguistic and cultural needs. Others created independent schools with greater freedom for cooperation between teachers and parents.

The community control movement inspired people to believe in themselves and their ability to govern their institutions. It helped many keep faith in the future of their children. Keeping this faith is essential if we expect to have a future at all.

the girl is helping a cat the cat is hurt at night.
Faith
kathy

Our 8 Principles: The Che-Lumumba School

Yael:

We are going to do a play about our school's eight principles. The principles are Liberty, Unity, Faith, Love and Respect, Purpose, Creativity, Self Determination, and Collective Work and Cooperative Economics. We will sing some songs, and we would like you to join us if you know them.

The first song we will sing is a song sung by the freedom fighters in South Africa. Our brothers and sisters are in jail there because they fought for their freedom. Our brother Steve Biko was killed there by the racists. We sing this song for Liberty, who is in jail.

Song:

We Don't Care If We Go To Jail

Cherav:

I am Liberty. I am in jail but they can't stop me. If people want freedom they will get it.

If people want Love and Respect, they will get it. People respect me just like I respect them.

I must get a message to all the freedom fighters to come save me. But how will they know I am in jail? I know! I will send a message to Unity. She will gather the other principles and they will all rescue me.

(She writes a message on a paper airplane and sends it to Unity (Alicia). Unity reads the message, then introduces herself.)

Alicia:

My name is Unity. I help people make friends and work together. I will be angry if people fight, instead of cooperating together. Unity means that it is better to struggle together instead of struggling alone. I hope you act on Unity.

Song:

Solidarity Forever

Alicia:

My sister Liberty is in jail and I must go save her. But I can't go alone. The capitalists, racists and imperialists are too strong for me. How can I save Liberty? I know! Our song gives me Faith. I must go with her!

( Kathy ( Faith) comes out of group and stands with Alicia.)

Kathy:

I am Faith. The people will win if they believe in me. Sister Unity, we need the faith and courage of our brother, Martin Luther King. Let's sing a song about him to give us strength.

Song:

Martin Luther King

Alicia:

And now sister Faith, we need Love and Respect. She can unite all the people, old and young, to help each other and help us. Love and Respect, where are you?

( Yael ( Love and Respect) comes out of group and joins Kathy and Alicia.)

Song:

If I Had a Hammer'

Yael:

I am Love and Respect. Love to me is my school. Respect to me is my brothers and sisters in the school and in my house.

Come sisters, we need Creativity to help us, for this will be a long struggle. We will have to be clever and use our resources wisely. But where is Creativity?

Kathy:

Creativity is at the top of the mountain getting inspiration from Nature. It will take us days to climb. Maybe if we found Purpose, he could help us get there quicker. Purpose, where are you?

Shimon:

Here I am. I am Purpose. I help the people get what they want. Now that I am here we can climb the mountain fast and find Creativity!

( They all walk as if they are climbing toward Ben ( Creativity). As they go they sing.)

Feb 9, 1619 Slavery of Bilalians begins
BEN

Song:

Step by Step.

(They reach Creativity. He introduces himself.)

Ben:

I am Creativity. I make cars; I make people, I make music; I make animals, I make nature; I make houses, I make paper; I make clothes; I can make everything.

We can save Liberty if we use our youth and our knowledge. But first we need to get Self-Determination. She is in a secret camp training guerrillas to fight for the liberation of Azania. On the way let's sing a song about ourselves.

Song:

We Are the Young Ones (chorus only)

(They reach Self Determination. She introduces herself.)

Nataka:

I am Self Determination. Kugachagalia means Self Determination. Nataka means I want. I name myself and let nobody else name me.

Now, sisters and brothers, we are all together. So let's go rescue Liberty!

(They go over to Liberty's jail and knock it over and get her out).

Nataka:

Now we can build a new society with our principle of Collective Work and Cooperative Economics. Let's show we can own the land and control our work together by singing our school song!

Song:

Che Lumumba

Ben:

We's like to close our show by having everyone sing Guantanemera, a song from Cuba, which is an inspiration for revolution and equality in the Third World.

Song:

Children and audience sing Guantanemera.

The End

Venceremos!

Continued from Page 2

Friends such as Big Black, Earl Brown, Loida Figueroa, Yuri Kochiyama, Martin Sostre, Holly Near, Akil Al-Junde, Carlos Feliciano, Madonna Gilbert, Yvonne Wanrow, Prexy Nesbitt... Lolita Lebron and Craeman Gethers who answer all our letters... the Nummo News Staff, Lionel Delevigne, Professor Femi Richards, Professor Gloria Lomax, Dr. Michael Jackson and CCEBS staff, Ahora, Afro-American Students Society, Black Mass Communication Project, Commuter Collective, Malcolm X Center, Hampshire College Third World Student Organization, North-east Sylvan Area Governments, DRUM staff, New Africa House Choir, W E B DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies and other contributors and supporters...

Artists such as Diana Ramos and her Repertory and Theater Company, Archie Shepp and his ensemble, Mageed Greenlee, Bob Marquez, Andrew Salkey, Sonia Sanchez, Eno, David Jackson, the Little Flags Theater and others who contribute their talent...

We remember you and express our appreciation for your work and-or support of the Che-Lumumba School. Each of you has affected us in some way. We are constantly engaged in the dynamics of change as we work towards the fulfillment of our collective vision. "A Luta Continua!" The Struggle Continues!

This newsletter was produced by Maurico Hernandez, Jose Tolson, Lucia Bruno, Tony Crayton, Sonia Nieto, Angel Nieto, Sister Ismat Abdal-Haqq, Jamils Gaston, Ann Ferguson, Kim Holder, Ed Cohen, and the children of Che-Lumumba: Cheray O'Nei, Kathy Ferguson-Brettlinger, Ben Bruno, Nataka Crayton, Yael and Shimone Washburn and Alicea Nieto.

Che-Lumumba School's participating households are headed by: Lucia Bruno, Ann Ferguson, John Brettlinger, Denise Crayton, Tony Crayton, Sonia Nieto, Angel Nieto, Patti O'Neil and Sally Washburn.

Editorial

This issue of the Che-Lumumba Newsletter is dedicated to the work and struggles of people in every nation who are commited to human liberation from oppression. It is dedicated especially to leaders like El Hajj Malik Shabazz, a.k.a Malcolm X, who like Che Guevara, Patrice Lumumba, Albizu Campos and many others has provided us with a life example by which to guide our work.

El Hajj Malik Shabazz believed that the re-education of the people of this country is essential to the development of a mass movement capable of struggling effectively for human rights. He was a man who loved his family and his people. He professed Islam as his faith but developed an understanding of many people's belief systems. As a disciple of Elijah Muhammed and a minister of the Nation of Islam he made many speeches around this country that explained to people the connection between domestic and international struggles for liberation from oppression and for self-determination. By the time he broke his relationship with the Nation of Islam to organize Muslim Mosque, Inc. and the Organization of Afro-American Unity, a secular group, he was known internationally as a master teacher. He constantly urged his audiences to learn to think critically. Through his clear articulation of common experience people began to see and understand issues previously ignored. He was a great orator.

El Hajj Malik Shabazz also wrote many articles for the Nation of Islam. He traveled to Africa twice and the Middle East and Europe. Everywhere, by people of all races, he was received with courtesy, respect and brotherhood. Prior to

Continued on page 4

Our Children — Our Choice

Che Lumumba school
photo by Edward Cohen

by Tony Crayton

Every year millions of people of African, Asian, Native American and Hispanic descent have to choose an educational institution for their children. For oppressed people this choice is critical. It's critical because most of the educational institutions they surrender their children to are created and controlled by the same element responsible for their oppression.

We, as oppressed people have embarked on what Cheikh Kane described as an "Ambiguous Adventure." We in predominantly white institutions are here "to learn the ways of the conqueror." Kane saw the "Foreign School" of the conqueror as a new stage of war against their oppression. The parents of his principle character Diallo, were faced with the same dilemma as we in surrendering our children to the foreigner. Is what they learn at the white institution worth what they loose in identity, culture and historical persective?

We are surrendering our children to an educational system that requires they reduce the worth of their culture to nothing. They loose their culture to incoporate a universalism that results in this "Ambiguous Adventure" on which only the European ideal exists as the basis of fact and reality. Thus they are only to act on what they are taught, not what they thought.

The ideals of these white institutions aim at attaining "productive members" of the exploitative caste. For non-whites miseducated in this manner they become the colonial administrators; overseers of the public poverty They adopt the so called "highe values" of universalism and claim to have become Americans first, individuals second and whatever ethnic group they can't avoid last.

Our children cry if we don't celebrate Thanksgiving or Christmas and are never taught that which the inventors had in mind to give thanks for — the theft of the Indians land and the enslavement of millions of Africans. They mope if they are not allowed to watch the Lone Ranger degrade Tonto or Snow White make chumps out of the seven dwafts. They are given images that are totally against the interest of their people's welfare.

Others claim the technological benefits of the "foreign school" as the reason for surrendering their children. They point out that these institutions have learning centers, with audio-visual aids and reading labs, as well as new math. The schools they say are immacutely cleaned yet they fail to see that the sterile environment includes a sterile education. Sterile because it is living, yet can't produce; it can live for itself but it can't produce; for its own. It teaches them to think for themselves not for their people. They become sterile cultural zombies, living dead, incapable of recognizing the concrete reality of their people. Their education fails to create dedicated workers for those they left behind, unskilled, unemployed and unwanted.

Thousands of Blacks, Hispanics and Asians in the country graduate from colleges and universities and because of their education flee the troubles of their downtrodden people to list their names on the paychecks of capitalist industrial murderers whose products and investments are the major reason for oppressed peoples condition. They develop the "get out of the ghetto blues" and are immortalized in T.V. presentations for having pulled themselves up and abondoned their people.

Too many people take the just struggles of non-whites peoples against capitalist and imperialist exploitation, as a side show interest. They don't take it seriously in their lives until some racism is heaped on their heads and then their tune changes.

But most tragic is that their miseducation effects their children. They'll consider a multi-cultural progressive education as too political yet over coffee and wine the political issues are safely argued as if extermination is around the corner. Since the school is run in a communalistic fashion and parent participation is demandatory many have had reservations about who they can work with. Despite this they can later turn and work on a job with all whites without any difficulty. It became obvious that their education not their talk allows them to support those who oppress them and neglect and condemn those attempting to provide progressive changes for their children.

It is our children who will progress or suffer for our choices in education. The talented tenth theory is discredited and our efforts should be aimed for our masses. As the poet-educator Haki Madhubuti stated:

"If our children, in their later years are to be responsible to us, we, in their youth, have to be responsible in educating them."

Note: Tony Crayton is a parent and polical education teacher of the Che Lumumba School.

Quote from Lolita: Lolita's Story

Puerto Rico will never be free if we don't help make it Free." So Let's march together and make Puerto Rico FREE."
Red White & Blue, the flag's colors
Puerto Rico want's to be Free, let's "help".

I am Lolita Lebron, Puerto Rican patriot and political prisoner; 59 years old, born Nov. 19, 1919, at Lares Puerto Rico, historical city of the first proclamation of the free and sovereign republic of the Puerto Rican nation.

Since July 25, 1898, Puerto Rico has been under the U.S. domination. The U.S. established itself by the force of arms in the Puerto Rican nation as conqueror of our land, hearts and minds...

As a little girl, I went to school where the first thing I learned was, after the bell rang and the line was formed, to place my little hand upon my heart to salute and pledge allegiance to the flag. I learned afterward that the flag was the highest symbol of the nation and that the nation was not Puerto Rico, but a faraway country named the United States of America. We were not taught the meaning of the words. Our education was taught in English language by Puerto Rican teachers who had a strange sound or accent like this of mine.

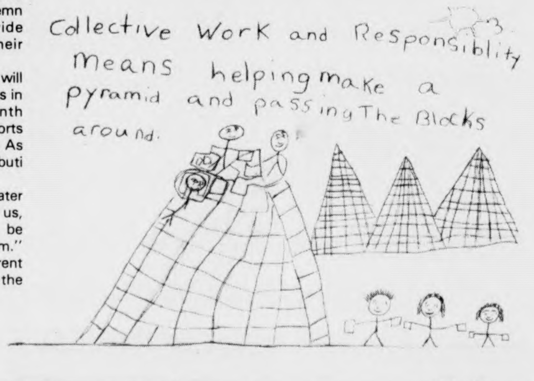
My classmates were very pale, sickly looking children, mostly all barefoot and in rags, with swollen stomachs, skinny bodies, nervous and uneasy. Among the pupils were a few stable, healthy looking and youthful children. These were the sons and daughters of the landowners. The meals at the school were bad, the sanitation horrible, the latrines flooded. The children of the so-called good families did have special privileges, such as receiving their lunches in the school through the maid of the houses.

When I was in sixth grade, I knew that life's lessons in the classroom and in my environment taught two principles: to do the will of the United States, and to do the will of God. But one day I heard myself saying to myself: if I could make another world, I would make it, a world where the hard working people would be able to live more abundantly, just like other people.

Note: Lolita Lebron has been in prison over twenty years. She led a group of men in an attack on the symbol of the United States on March 1, 1954. They wanted to force the American people to pay attention to the plight of the Puerto Rican nation. Puerto Rico became a colony of the United States in 1898.

The population has since been exploited as cheap labor both on the island and in the United States, the economy has been destroyed by United States business and the agricultural and has been seized for military use. Puerto Rican women have been used for birth control experiments and family life has deteriorated as a result of the instability of life on the island.

Drawings by the Children of The Che-Lumumba School



Collective Work and Responsiblity Means helping make a pyramid and passing The Blocks around.
Natake

Continued from page 3

these experiences he had taken the position that all white people, like the ones in America, were evil. When he returned from Africa he expressed the belief that it was possible that evil was not attribute of race but the result of inhumane relationships within a system that was unjust. His ideas were important because so many people were influenced by them. He wanted to convince us of the inalienable right of all people to control their own destiny.

El Hajj Malik's organizing abilities were feared by many people. His potential for helping to unify the Afro-American people was recognized as a threat to the power of several organizations and the government. On July 23, 1964 while he was in Africa El Hajj Malik was poisoned while eating dinner in the Cairo Hilton. When he looked for the waiter, the waiter had vanished. He told his sister, Ella Collins, he felt the C.I.A. was responsible.

One of the things El Hajj Malik Shabazz attempted to do that was considered dangerous was to interest the nations of Africa and Asia in bringing up issues of importance to the Afro-American people at the United Nations. By developing the civil rights struggle into a human rights struggle his work promised to embarrass the United States. The F.B.I. recognized his leadership potential in this country and kept him under surveillance. Two weeks before he was assassinated he flew to Paris, France to deliver a speech to the Congress of African Students. French officials, apparently fearful he would be assassinated on French soil, refused him entrance to the country.

By 1965 El Hajj Malik Shabazz had developed unofficial diplomatic relations with several African nations in the United Nations.

He was received at the United Nations delegate lounge as a working diplomat. He was making progress in his goal of having the United States condemned for violations of human rights at the time of U.S. intervention in the Congo's civil war. He lobbied to convince other African representatives to condemn this action. The U.S. government held him responsible for the mounting attacks against the United States role in the General Assembly debates of 1964.

His friends and family began to feel that to continue this work he needed protection. People warned him that government agents had infiltrated his organizations. On February 13, 1965 at 2:45 a.m. his home was bombed whlile his wife, who was expecting a child and four children and himself slept in their Queens, New York home. The house was destroyed but the family survived. Evidence indicated there was official compliance in this act against the Shabazz family.

On February 21, 1965 El Hajj Malik Shabazz, a.k.a Malcolm X, knowing his life was in grave danger went before an audience of supporters in the Audubon Ballroom in Harlem, New York City to explain the aims and objectives of his work. As he stood on the stage with Asian and Black nationalist activists he was shot down.

After his death by assassination his followers were forced to disperse to avoid a similar end. His writings and recorded speeches continue to influence people. Over the last thirteen years people who were afraid to agree with him when he was alive now willingly associate themselves with his name. Many people who did not know or did not understand his objectives now admire what he was aspiring toward. He is recognized as one of the most dynamic leaders of Afro-American people in the history of the United States.

Che-Lumumba School believes that it is important that we know and understand the work of leaders like El Hajj Malik. Knowledge of our history and understanding of the vision of our leaders will help us plan our future direction.

Peltier Found Innocent on Murder Count

Leonard Peltier.

The American Indian Movement (AIM) won a major victory in Milwaukee Jan. 27. A jury of six Blacks and six whites found AIM activist Leonard Peltier not guilty of the 1972 attempted murder of two former police officers.

"We feel that this is a total victory," Lew Kurwitz, one of Peltier's lawyers, told the Guardian during a telephone interview shortly after the acquittal. "It was a victory brought about by the people who supported Peltier."

Peltier was charged with attempted murder following a fight with two police officers, Ronald Hlavinka and Jim Eccles, at a Milwaukee restaurant. During the agrument, Peltier pulled a defective gun in an attempt to stop the altercation and the officers charged he threatened to kill them.

Two Native American women — neither of them acquaintances of Peltier — testified that the officers beat Peltier before he was forced to pull his gun. The police officers admitted under oath that they were "slightly intoxicated."

The defense also exposed the racism of officer Hlavinka, whose former woman friend, Belle Ann Guild, testified that a few days after Peltier's arrest the officer bragged: "I got me a big Indian."

The defense charged that Peltier, who had just returned from leading the Milwaukee contingent of Native Americans to the Trail of Broken Treaties demonstration in Washington, was beaten and arrested for his part in the demonstration.

The prosecution not only conceded that Peltier's gun was defective and couldn't fire, but also that Peltier was aware of the gun's ineffectiveness. Defense attorneys noted that under similar circumstances most people would have been charged at most with reckless handling of a firearm, a misdemeanor.

One of the major factors in Peltier's acquittal was the ability to get six Blacks on the jury, according to the defense. They noted that this limited the prosecution's ability to appeal to the jury on purely racist grounds.

Dozens of Native American leaders and friends from throughout the U.S. and Canada attended the trial since its opening Jan. 18. The Native Americans held daily pipe ceremonies and vowed to continue their struggle for the reversal of Peltier's 1976 conviction for aiding and abetting in the killing of two FBI agents during the agency's siege of the Pine Ridge (S.D.) Reservation in June 1975.

Peltier is currently serving two consecutive life sentences in federal prison as a result of that conviction. Speaking in behalf of the Peltier Defense Committee, Kurwitz said: "We are now building toward the St. Louis hearing of the new appeal from Peltier's conviction in St. Louis, temporarily set for March 2. We wish to bring the focus onto all political prisoners, as well as Peltier, that are in jail or facing frame-up charges. We call upon friends to support Peltier by joining in the massive rally and demonstration we plan to hold when the oral hearings on the appeal open in St. Louis. We are confident that Peltier will win a new trial and a reversal of his conviction."

Black Health: Hospital Sites Questioned

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) announced earlier this month that it will pursue two Gary, Ind., hospitals for possible civil rights violations because of their efforts to move from the inner city.

HEW officials said the measures were part of an attempt to broaden the scope of civil rights monitoring. A similar action was taken with a third hospital in December.

The two Indiana hospitals recently began to build satellite facilities in the suburbs and HEW charged that these satellites, if expanded, might adversely affect services to inner city residents. St. Mary Mercy Hospital had opened its adjunct in 1973, while Methodist Hospital opened a similar facility in 1976.

In a letter sent to the hospitals last month, David Tatel of the HEW Office of Civil Rights asked that "no further action be taken until the construction plans are properly reviewed and approved by this department as required by the assurances."

These "assurances" stated that the disputed satellites could be built only if the hospitals consulted with HEW before expanding the facilities. But Mercy began building an $8 million extension to its satellite in September and Methodist had similar plans underway — and neither had consulted HEW.

Two months ago, HEW agreed to the Wilmington Medical Center's plans to move from the heart of Wilmington, Del., only if the hospital agreed to provide transportation to the new facility for mainly Black inner city residents.

"To be honest, the Office for Civil Rights has no health enforcement activity at all," admitted Tatel to the Washington Post. "That's why we're the defendant in so many lawsuits. Now we're beginning to do it. The site selection provisions are there and we're going to enforce them."

The HEW action could mean that construction plans for hundreds of hospitals will come under review by the agency, although it has not stated that such plans are in the works. But the physical inaccessibility of hospitals to Black and other third world patients is one of a host of problems confronting health care in minority communities.

In Tulsa, Okla., for example, the largely Black residents of the city's North Side have been demanding a hospital for years. Yet evangelist Oral Roberts has announced plans for a $100 million health facility on the all-white South side.

Health statistics compiled in 1973 for the Tulsa Black community show an infant mortality rate twice that of the citywide rate and a tuberculosis rate nearly four times the city rate. There are two doctors for every 10,000 North Side residents. According to one area Black, "If somebody has a car accident on the North Side, by the time they get to the hospital on the South Side, they're dead."

In a related development, the Congressional Budget Office recently released a report documenting widespread discrimination against third world health care recipients.

The report, requested by Black Caucus members Louis Stokes (D-Ohio) and Parren Mitchell (D-Md.), found that high costs, lack of attention to specific medical difficulties of Blacks and other minority people, and lack of doctors in third world communities are responsible for the failing health of Blacks.

Although the study did not even take into account the extensive discrimination faced by Latinos, which it classified as white, it found that third world women are five times as likely to die in childbirth as whites. This, combined with a 70% higher infant mortality rate, "suggests continuing lack of prenatal care," the report said.

Other findings included: third world people are four times as likely to die of heart and kidney disease as whites; five times as likely to die of tuberculosis; twice as likely to die from diabetes, and three times as likely to die of high blood pressure.

The report also found widespread discrimination in the payment of Medicaid benefits. According to 1969 statistics, the federal medical program paid an average of $375 for each white person who received funds, while third world people averaged $213 each.

Police brutality:
Maryland cops scored

The killing of Black shoplifting suspect William Ray was a "clearcut case of murder," charges the Prince George's County, Md., National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Ray was killed in a Christmas Eve shooting by a local cop after he had been searched twice (Guardian, Jan. 5).

The NAACP's charges reflect an uproar in the area's Black community about racist police brutality in the area. Just weeks after Ray's death, a second Black victim, Abraham Dickens, was killed by a cop who suspected him of robbing a restaurant.

Local businessmen and policemen called a press conference to refute charges of abuse. They responded to the NAACP's charges by inviting NAACP head Arthur Jackson to appear in court. "I'd like him to prove that charge (of murder) to the grand jury," insisted Samuel Serio, attorney for the cop accused in Ray's death. "And if he can't, we'll be back in the next morning with one big slander suit." Jackson has stated publicly that he has spoken with a woman who witnessed the Ray shooting.

Meanwhile, Black demands have forced the local police department to issue stricter guidelines about police use of deadly force. While the guidelines originally said that a suspect must be wanted for a violent crime to warrant the use of such force, they now stated that police can shoot only when there is a "clear and present danger" of serious injury or death. The new guidelines also restrict the use of warning shots.

Peter Morgan, Ray's killer, is under investigation by a county grand jury and faces police department disciplinary hearings. The cop who shot Dickens, however, has simply been placed on administrative leave pending a police department investigation.

LYNORA WILLIAMS

Military Honors: A Little Late

For years, the 761st Battalion has struggled for proper recognition of its efforts in World War 2. Finally, after 33 years, on Jan. 24 President Jimmy Carter awarded the unit the Presidential Unit Citation, lauding it for "extraordinary heroism in action."

The all-Black group, long known as "Eleanor Roosevelt's 'nigers,' " was the first Black unit to assume combat duty for the U.S. They did so despite the vehement opposition of military officials; it is widely alleged that Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of President Franklin Roosevelt, pushed hard for their acceptance.

The 761st is only the second Black unit to receive the honor. The group had asked for the citation six times between 1945 and 1976.

Baum Defies Racist Order, Faces Jail

By DENNIS SCHAAL

Jeanne Baum, a Blackfoot Indian confined to a wheelchair with multiple sclerosis, faced another type of confinement in New York last week — jail.

The Native American militant told the Guardian Jan. 24 that she would surrender to state authorities on charges of child "neglect" rather than return her 15-year-old daughter Siba to a racist Long Island school. Siba Baum plans to remain in hiding.

In a unanimous decision, the Appellate Division of the New York State Supreme Court ruled a day earlier that Baum must send her daughter back to Selden Junior High School or face loss of custody.

"I didn't expect more from the court, practically speaking," Baum said in an interview from Browning, Mont. "I just hoped we'd get a good decision, something people could work with so I could retire from this thing early."

"Parents have the right to say something about the education of their children," Baum continued. "I used to think it was ignorance, but racism is something this government needs to run. They know very well what they are doing."

Annie Stein, a spokeswoman for the Friend of the Court Committee, said attorney William Kunstler intends to file an appeal before the state's highest court, the New York State Court of Appeals, but may be barred from doing so since the adverse lower court ruling was unanimous. In this event, the attorney will appeal directly to the federal courts.

The Blackfoot Indian pulled her daughter out of the junior high school in September 1975 after school authorities refused to take any punitive or remedial action against a teacher who spouted racist slurs against Native Americans in her daughter's classroom. The teacher, for example, said Indians "are lazy" and "got what they deserved."

HISTORY OF THE CASE

The Suffolk County Family Court convicted the Blackfoot Indian of "neglect" in May 1976. Jeanne and Siba Baum fled New York in July of that year and for the next year the two traveled through Native American reservations around the country.

In issuing its verdict last week, the appellate court found that "a child may not be used by a parent as a pawn in a battle with public school authorities."

Far from assuming a pawn's status, Siba Baum told the Guardian that she backed her mother's initiative 100%. "I wasn't really surprised, though, by the court decision," she said. "After everything they did in court, telling all the lies, all the people they called in to testify, I figured they could pull off anything."

The appellate court contended last week that the racial incidents at Seldon Junior High School were "isolated" and that the elder Baum took the law into her own hands by not moving through the proper channels.

Jeanne Baum responded Jan. 24 that she is at a loss to figure out what other channels she could have sought out: she had consulted the school principal, the Board of Education, the school superintendent, the Brookhaven Human Rights Commission, the local teachers union and 23 churches, and had received no help.

"My credo is that if racism raises its ugly head and you don't do anything about it, then you're condoning it," Jeanne Baum explained. "Racism ignored is racism condoned."

— — — —

Contributions to the Jeanne Baum Defense Committee may be sent c/o A. Stein, 400 Central Park West, New York, N. Y. 10025.

NAACP Allies With Big Oil

By LYNORA WILLIAMS

NAACP head Hooks.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has caused a furor by aligning itself with the energy policy of the world's largest oil and gas monopolies.

The new NAACP energy policy position endorses development of the much-criticized, environmentally unsafe nuclear breeder reactor. The country's oldest civil rights organization also says that regulation of fuel prices causes inflation and the loss of jobs.

The stand, which spuriosly links higher gas prices with more job opportunities for unemployed Blacks, has apparently raised a storm of criticism within the ranks of the organization itself.

This view on energy was largely formulated at a late November NAACP conference on the question held in Washington. Many NAACP staff members and other participants in the meeting have charged that the just-released position differs from that agreed upon in Washington.

OIL COMPANY TIES

It has become public knowledge that the NAACP stand was mainly advocated by Black oil executives, many of whom belong to the American Association of Blacks in Energy (AABE). These figures share a common critique with their companies of President Jimmy Carter's new energy plan.

Criticism of the Carter plan, which calls for modified regulation of gas prices and aims at decreasing U.S. dependence on foreign oil imports, is an important element in the NAACP policy statement. (This reflects a ruling-class dispute in which the administration sees a long-term interest in achieving "energy independence," while the oil companies want to protect the superprofits accruing from the import of third world oil.)

In some respects, the NAACP's position is also a byproduct of the failure of most environmental groups to address questions relating to the environment of working class and third world communities. This failure to link environment demands to the pressing concerns of workers and oppressed peoples has to some extent left a clear field for the energy monopolies to make a propaganda connection between their profits and "jobs."

The NAACP position received a broadside attack from the Congressional Black Caucus, which issued a statement opposing its conclusions. Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich.), a member of the caucus, told the weekly Village Voice, "The question is going to be raised as to who the NAACP represents. How on earth could deregulation be in the interests of Black people?...Obviously, we are the relatively largest unemployed and would be most adversely impacted by increased energy costs."

But the architects of the policy slammed right back, "The Black Caucus has only served as a front for white no-growth elitists who thrive on the powerlessness of Black America," charged AABE head Clark Watson. "But now, they've been served notice to replace the rather mundane position they've taken on energy in the past..."

'And a spokesperson for the NAACP told the Guardian it was "a bunch of crap" to think that energy regulation could be achieved without price hikes and a loss of jobs.

PRAISE FROM INDUSTRY

The NAACP garnered high praise for this perspective from industry. "For the first time," the Wall Street Journal crowed in a lead editorial, the group "has sided with the free-marketers instead of the interventionists."

"Since its founding," the Journal continued, "the association has combatted the legal barriers that blocked Black progress and reduced them to the point where they are no longer the biggest problem. The next stage is to expand the opportunities that Blacks can now take advantage of and nothing competes with a vigorous market economy in providing upward social mobility."

SEEK CORPORATE AID

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan also hailed the NAACP move. Speaking Jan. 21 at an Atlanta meeting of the Republican Party's right wing, he commented, "I believe that Black Americans want what every other kind of American wants...and the best way to have those things is for government to get out of the way while the rest of us make a bigger pie so that everybody can have a bigger slice."

While the NAACP clearly has not abandoned its legal strategy, it does appear to be placing increased emphasis on economic development in the Black community and apparently hopes to gain corporate support for this through its new stand.

In requesting backing for his organization's energy position, for example, NAACP executive director Benjamin Hooks wrote last month, "Economic development for Blacks, we recognized, has to be a primary concern for the NAACP.

"The key to our success," Hooks continued, "depends on an expanding economy and a concern for jobs, income and economic welfare. We believe that our success in reducing the present high level of Black unemployment lies in part in the type of national energy policies and plans our government adopts."

In a commentary on this point of view, syndicated columnists Carl Rowan noted, "In the frustration over chronic poverty and joblessness in Black America, with the federal government doing little to alleviate it, NAACP leaders have swallowed the line that they can forge an alliance with 'big oil' that will produce greater profits...with Blacks reaping jobs and prosperity."

'Paul Robeson': Broadway Boycott

The play "Paul Robeson," criticized by many supporters of the Black leader and written by Phillip Hayes Dean, has hit Broadway. And so has a storm of objections.

After being confronted with protests in Louisville, Ky., Philadelphia, Washinton, D.C., Cleveland, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Baltimore, the play was greeted by picketlines and a barrage of poor reviews in New York City.

Critics charge that the play distorts the life of the Black performer and activist who died in 1976 at the age of 77.

In a 2-page advertisement in Variety newspaper, the Ad Hoc Committee to End the Crimes Against Paul Robeson charged the production "is a tissue of inventions and distortions ranging from the most elementary facts of the man's youth, aspirations and development of the roles of his father, his brother, his wife, to the simplest chronological events of his life..." The committee listed a host of the play's inaccuracies in a 22-page document. "Some Facts About Paul Robeson, The Man, Vis-Avis the Stage Play."

More importantly, the ad hoc committee asserts, "There will be many persons, unknowing of the true dimensions of Robeson or the full extent of what was done to him, who may be grateful for what is given. But it is precisely here that the greatest danger lies. For we in the Black community have repeatedly seen the giants among us reduced from revolutionary heroic dimensions to manageable, sentimentalized size. If they cannot be coopted in life, it is simple enough to tailor their images in death."

Black playwright Dean has reflected all criticism, charging that "I don't know what they (the committee) are talking about and neither do they."

James Earl Jones, who plays the role of Robeson in the one-person production told the Washinton Post last month, "I see Robeson as an alone person and, in a tragic sense, a lonely person...It's not that Paul didn't have fun moments in his life, but as a drama it is essentially a tragedy...I consider Robeson as gifted a human being as all the saints in heaven." Jones is under contract to Universal studios, which owns the television rights to the play.

Jones admits that he pays little attention to criticisms of the play from viewers, adding, "The first time I ever tried 'Emperor Jones' it came under attack by NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People). Then I did a production with Gene Hackman called 'Neighbors' and it came under seige by the NAACP and was killed. It was knocked off the air...But I'm not a missionary, I'm a mercenary..."

For more information: National Ad Hoc Committee to End the Crimes Against Paul Robeson, c-o Black Theology Project, Interchurch Center, Room 349, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10027.

Leon Damas Dies In Washington

Leon Damas, a founder of the Black literary-cultural movement called Negritude in France, died Jan. 22 at George Washington Hospital in Washington, D.C. Damas had also served in the French Assembly from 1945-1951, and in 1970s taught at several universities in Washington.

Born in the French colony of Guiana in South America, Damas was a member of a small group of French colonial intellectuals who founded the movement in the 1930s. As students living in pre-World War 2 Paris, the men devoted their works to protesting racism and colonialism. The movement they founded, based on an exaltation of blackness, was a radical contribution to the anticolonial movement in Africa and the West Indies.

Damas' closest collaborators in the Negritude movement were the poet-president of French neocolonial Senegal in West Africa, Leopold Senghor, and the writer-politician from the French West Indian island colony of Martinique, Aime Cesaire. The late Haitian intellectual, Jacques Romain, also contributed.

The term Negritude was defined by Cesaire as "the simple recognition of the fact of being black, the acceptance of this fact (and) of its cultural and historical consequences."

Many of the works of the Negritude movement met the same fate of Damas' poetry collection of 1937, "Pigments," which was banned in France and its colonies as a danger "to the internal and external security" of the empire. But their influence on the upcoming generation of colonial artists, writers and anticolonial activists had already taken root.

Negritude also had an important impact in the U.S. where the Harlem Renaissance of the same period is considered its counterpart. The latter, which saw many Black musical advances and the publication of progressive writers like Langston Hughes, Sterling Brown and others, also influenced important figures of the Negritude movement.

In the 1960s and 1970s, Negritude came under many incisive criticisms, with charges that its political shortcomings contributed to neocolonialism. However, as Damas once said: the literary-cultural movement, born out of colonial and racial oppression, prepared "awareness of a race consciousness which contributed to struggles for independence in Africa."

Amin's Seventh Year

This past January marked the seventh anniversary of the military coup which brought Idi Amin to power in the African nation of Uganda.

International reports say that Amin consolidated his power during the past year and is now stronger than ever, though more security conscious than before. The 260-pound former boxing champion has escaped at least 13 attempted coups during his reign and two assassination attempts last year, proving, to say the least, that he is a durable man.

Reports indicate that the country's economy is desperate, although high coffee prices have eased the economic condition somewhat. Reportedly, stores in Uganda have run out of all but basic supplies. It is said that one egg in the country sells for fifty cents and butter goes for $9 a pound.

It has been estimated that during Amin's reign, between 50,000 and 300,000 Ugandans have been killed for opposing him politically and that the number of political exiles number many thousands more. It is also reported that Amin has banned 27 different Christian churches from the country in favor of Islam, Amin's religion.

Dessie Woods: Action Planned

Woods is serving a 10-year sentence for manslaughter and a 12-years sentence for armed robbery because in 1975 she shot and killed a white man who threatened to rape her at gunpoint on a deserted Georgia road.

Supporters and defense attorneys for Woods have been unsuccessful in repeated attempts to overturn her Feb. 2, 1976 conviction. Meanwhile, she has been subjected to brutal conditions and severe drugging.

Earlier this month, the courts announced they had denied a motion for a rehearing on an appeal argued in November. Although the decision was made Dec. 3, no one was notified until recently.

Defense attorney plan to file a write of habeas corpus in Macon, Ga., by early spring, and have said they will take the case to the Supreme Court if necessary. "It is clearly understood by the National Committee (to Defend Dessie Woods) that the decision of the Georgia Supreme Court was not a mere miscarriage of justice," the committe held in a recent newsletter. Here in Georgia, a white man has never been convicted for raping or sexually assaulting a black woman. The only justice has come through acts such as Dessie Woods and Joann Little carried out."

For information: National Committee to Defend Dessie Woods, P.O. BOx 92084, Atlanta, Ga. 30314. Tel.: 404-758-1577.

Important Notice: The organizational meeting of Nummo News will be held at 7:00 P.M. Wednesday, in the Nummo News Office - room 103 New Africa House. Everyone is invited.

---

Who Killed Malcolm X

Continued From Last Week

By ALAN BERGER

Two Fallen Leaders:
Dr. Martin Luther King and
Malcolm X

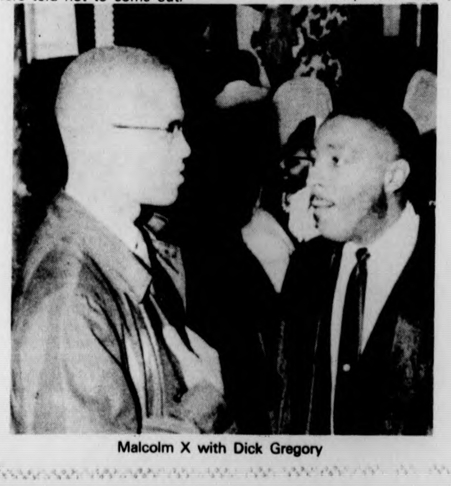
This article first appeared in the Real Paper, copyright the Real Paper, Inc. 1978.

Kunstler relates that under cross-examination Gene Roberts "admitted that he had been the mysterious 'Brother Jean' on the stage of the Audubon Ballroom who was one of Malcolm's security guards, and who attempted to give Malcolm mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after he was shot, and that he had never been called at the murder trial, even though he had a very powerful story to tell. It was he who knocked down Hagan with a chair as Hagan was running out of the Audubon Ballroom, thus making it possible for the people outside to catch up with him. This was his role: he chased him down the center aisle, he saw everything that happened, he could be, very possibly, an exonerating witness for our defendants. His name was suppressed, he was never brought to the stand by the prosecution, his identity was never told to the defense — even though they requested it on numerous occasions."

According to Kunstler, the Roberts' transcript is a crucial ground for retrial because "Roberts' testimony at the Panther trial would have very much buttressed the defesne contention that the police set the thing up — first of all by withdrawing all security from the ballroom. You know, there were only two cops and they were next door, in the Rose Room. And they were told not to come out."

The absence of uniformed police on February 21, was remarked on by many people who attended Malcolm's talks. Apparently at all previous meetings at the Audubon Ballroom there was a large contigent of uniformed police, assigned to protect Malcolm and also to prevent fights between his people and the followers of Elijah Muhammad. After the murder, Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm explained the unusual absence of uniformed police by claiming that protection had been offered Malcolm, but that he had refused it. Alex Haley, in his epilogue to Malcolm's autobiography, writes that "Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm's statement that Malcolm refused police protection conflicts directly with the statements of many of his associates that during the week preceding his assassination Malcolm X complained repeatedly that the police would not take his requests for protection seriously. Finally, although police sources said that a special detail of twenty men had been assigned to the meeting and that it had even been attended by agents of the Bureau of Special Services, these men were nowhere in evidence during or after the assassination..."

Haley's prudence as a writer may have convinced him not to include his own, personal knowledge about Malcolm's desire for protection. But Kunstler mentioned to me that "Alex Haley spoke to Malcolm that week and Haley tells me that Malcolm said absolutely he wanted security, he never said not to have security. If there was any time in his life he wanted security, it was after that bombing of his house."



Malcolm X with Dick Gregory

According to an article by Milton Lewis in the Herald Tribune of February 23, 1965, " 'Several' undercover plainclothesmen were in the uptown meeting hall at the time Malcolm was shot dead there.... According to a high police official, 'several' members of its outstanding unit, the highly secretive Bureau of Special Services (BOSS), were in the Audubon Ballroom....

"It is no secret that BOSS police — who never wear uniforms — have credentials to cover almost any situation, so that if they were required to have a card or emblem of the Black Nationalist sect it is a safe bet they had them."

Lewis also reported that he was told by a police official, "It is sufficient to say that we had him covered."

I was present in the courtroom myself, in 1966, when Patrolman Gilbert Henry, one of the two uniformed policemen stationed in the nearby Rose Room, testified. It was the same day that Betty Shabazz, Malcolm's widow, testified. Henry told the court that he had been ordered to stay hidden and to communicate by walkie-talkie with another officer stationed in the emergency room of the Columbia Presbyterian Hospital across the street "if anything happened." (It must be noted that one of Malcolm's aides telephoned the hospital immediately after the shooting, and after 15 minutes no ambulance had yet arrived. Followers ran across the street, secured a stretcher, came back, put Malcolm on the stretcher and carried him across Broadway to the emergency room.)

Kunstler stressed how ominous the absence of security was by pointing out that even "our friend, Gene Roberts, testified at the Panther trial that he was very much shocked that they had withdrawn all security — particularly since Malcolm's house had been bombed the week before."

There is also evidence that the police in New York knew, despite their claims to the contrary, that Malcolm would be the target of a murder conspiracy. The day after the assassination, Sergeant Edward McClellan of Chicago's police subversion unit stated at a press conference "that Malcolm said December 31 that he feared he was being stalked for death here (in Chicago), and the New York Police were alerted."

Another report in the New York Journal-American of February 22, the day after the assassination, said that "according to police spokesmen, the department knew in mid-January that an attempt was to be made on Malcolm's life."

In one session of the conspiracy trial of Hagan, Johnson and Butler an extraordinary procedure was invoked: the courtroom was cleared of spectators so that the jury could listen to the testimony of two witnesses in secret. The press learned only that the two witnesses were called Timberlake and Sullivan.

Kunstler, who was not himself involved in the trial, explained their secret testimony to me by saying, "We also have the fine hand of the FBI deeply involved. The weapons were taken to the FBI by someone we think was an FBI informant at the rally by the name of Timberlake." Timberlake gave his testimony in secret, Kunstler said, because "he was afraid of retaliation." Kunstler also disclosed that "it was to his (Timberlake's) apartment that the FBI came to get the guns." The FBI agent who came to Timberlake's house to pick up the guns — or gun — was the witness, Sullivan, who testified to that effect in secret.

Kunstler was explicit about the significance of any FBI involvement. "I checked back in the Church Committee report," he said, "and, you know, that Malcolm — or at least the Nation of Islam and Elijah — were designated primary COINTELPRO (the FBI's Counter-Intelligence Program) targets. And one of the main bulwarks of COINTELPRO was to set one group against the other. And this kind of thing involved, as Senator Church testified, a great risk of bodily harm in many cases — vis-a-vis the Panthers and US (Ron Karenga's group), and Malcolm's followers and those of the Nation of Islam."

There are a great many important questions yet to be answered concerning the assassination of Malcom X. Only in the framework of a new trial can it be determined who acted with Hagan and whom they were acting for. If there is a new trial, then we can expect to hear a case for the defense that will attempt to show that American law enforcement or intelligence agencies had foreknowledge of, and, at least by omission, abetted the act.

We already know that Malcolm was not poisoned in Cairo by Muslims, nor turned away from Orly by Elijah Muhammad. We already know that Malcolm's phone was tapped and he was followed by government agents. We already know that several agents had infiltrated his organization and were even among his bodyguards. We already know that the New York Police planted a tin of gasoline on his child's dresser; withdrew normal security from the Audubon Ballroom the day they may have known he was to be murdered; watched the shooting and the murderers' escape in plainsclothes without acting to intervene; stationed Patrolman Gilbert Henry in the Rose Room with his walkie-talkie; and allowed, or asked, police surgeons to leave a bullet in Thomas Hagan's leg for several weeks. We already know that law enforcement agencies "suppressed" Gene Roberts and Reuben Francis, used Ronald Timberlake, intimidated witnesses, and released the "Latin-looking" suspect caught fortuitously by Patrolman Hoy in the Audubon Ballroom — a man who answers to Malcolm's description of an agent who followed him through London and even was on the plane he took back to the United States a week before his death, "a tight-lipped, olive-skinned type with ferret eyes" according to Malcolm's description — a man who some of Malcolm's friends thought might be a Cuban, one of the many exile agents employed by the CIA.

Malcolm X with Rev. Milton Galamison (l) and Rev. Adam Clayton Powell (UPI photo)

If there is a new trial for Johnson and Butler, defense attorney Kunstler will then be able to have subpoenas served to potentially important witnesses, compelling them to testify — witnesses such as undercover agent Gene Roberts, Reuben Francis, and Ronald Timberlake. He will also be able to subpoena pertinent material evidence. Both Alex Haley in his epilogue to The Autobiography of Malcolm X and reporter Peter Kihss in the New York Times of February 25, 1965, have alluded to the existence of motion pictures taken inside the ballroom at the time of the killing. According to the Times article, "The police were in possession of motion pictures that had been taken at the Audubon Ballroom...where the killing took place." No such film was ever produced at the original trial. If there was such a film, and if it still exists today, the showing of it to a jury might resolve some of the disturbing questions of guilt and innocense still surrounding the murder of Malcolm X and might revise the official, legal verdict on the case that has prevailed for a dozen years now.

One provocative implication of Kunstler's statements about apparent FBI involvement in the case is the possibility that undercover agents, having infiltrated Malcolm's OAAU as well as the Nation of Islam, provoked the feud between the two groups. Recent Senate investigations and documents released under the Freedom of Information Act have confirmed that such procedures were a common practice of COINTELPRO. Thus, even if the Black Muslims did seek to assassinate Malcolm, they might have done so at the instigation of police, or federal agents fulfilling their role as agents provocateurs in a program aimed at "neutralizing" individuals and organizations judged by certain high government authorities to be threats to national security.

In the last days before his murder Malcolm sensed that his role at the United Nations was exposing him to great danger. He felt powerful forces closing in on him, and the feeling made him uncharacteristically fatalistic. Two days before he died he told the famous photographer Gordon Parks: "It's a time for martyrs now, and if I'm to be one, it will be in the cause of brotherhood. That's the only thing that can save this country. I've learned it the hard way — but I've learned it...."

Despite his mounting fatalism, he was yet convinced he should leave America for a while, for his own protection. Airplane tickets had been bought for him to fly to Africa on Tuesday, February 23, two days after the last meeting at the Audubon Ballroom. The instinct for survival that Malcolm had had to cultivate and refine living on the streets of Boston and New York almost saved him.

CALENDAR FEBRUARY — MARCH CALENDARIO

| S | M | T | W | TH | F | Sa |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | 21 1965 Malcolm X assassinated in N.Y.C. | 22 1873 Slavery abolished in Puerto Rico | 23 1868 W.E.B. DuBois born in Great Barrington, Ma. | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 1973 Liberation of Wounded Knee S.D. by Oglala Nation | 28 | 1 1954 Puerto Rican Nationalists attack U.S. Congress | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 1770 Boston Massacre Crispus Attucks among dead 1871 Rosa Luxemburg born in Poland | 6 1864 Navajo Long Walk. 8.000 Navajos held as prisoners of war for 3 years. | 7 | 8 1908 Women demonstration on N.Y.C. Leads to International woman's day | 9 1913 Harriet Tubman dies in Auburn N.Y. | 10 | 11 |
| 12 1917 February Revolution in Russia. | 13 | 14 1883 Karl Marx dies in London | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 1937 Ponce Massacre. 19 killed 200 wounded 1960 Sharpville Massacre 71 killed | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 1931 Scottsboro Nine, 9 blacks framed in Alabama |
| 26 | 27 | 28 1871 Proclamation of Paris Commune | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Calendar Notes

Calendars can be useful learning tools at home or in school. The following activities can be used to plan a political education curriculum with your family or class.

1. Each morning look at a historical event and talk about how it has affected your lives. Grandparents, friends and neighbors can participate in telling of any direct experience they had with the event or person being discussed. The following books can be referred to for information: The Autobiography of Malcolm X, Grove Press; The Communist Manifesto, Karl Marx; Reform or Revolution, Rosa Luxemburg; Dusk of Dawn, W E B DuBois; Puerto Rico, Manuel Maldonado Denis; Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee, Dee Brown.

Your library and local organizations can also help you learn more about the work of the people and events on this calendar. You and your family or class can also add current events from the daily newspapers.

2. Develop an encyclopedia of history and current events. Each person can work on one letter or section. News articles and magazine articles can be added to the book each week.

3. Develop a picture book of historical figures. Draw pictures of Malcolm X, W.E.B DuBois, Crispus Attucks, Harriet Tubman, Karl Marx etc.

4. Go to International Women's Day Events in your community. Discuss the condition of women in your community in the United States. Compare this to women in South America, Asia & Africa.

Notes on the Calendar:

Malcolm X was born in Omaha Nebraska. He converted to the Islamic faith while in jail serving a seven year sentence. When he got out he was assigned to Mosque no. 7 in New York City by the Nation of Islam. After serving the Nation as a minister for many years he disagreed with the head of the Nation of Islam's leader, Elijah Muhammed. In 1969 after he left the Nation of Islam he founded The Muslim Mosque and the Organization of Afro-American Unity. He was assassinated while talking to his followers in New York City.

W.EB [William Edward Burghardt] DuBois was a graduate of Fisk University and a Ph.D. from Harvard University (1895). He was a leader of the Niagra Movement which was an attempt to articulate black demands. He helped found the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) but resigned in 1934 because he felt the group was only helping the black bourgeoisie. In 1951 the United States government charged him with being an agent of a foreign power but he was acquited. In 1961 he joined the Communist Party, renounced his United States citizenship and moved to Accra, Ghana. He died there on the 27th of August of 1963. During his life he wrote books such as The Souls of Black Folk, Dusk of Dawn, and many essays like "Toward an Autobiography of a Race Concept."

Rosa Luxemburg was a teacher, revolutionary and a feminist. She helped found the German Communist Party. She was active in the international socialist movement and helped to strengthen Marxist theory with her works on struggle (ie. Reform or Revolution) She formed the Spartacus League with Liebhecht and was murdered after the failure of the 1919 revolution in Berlin.

Harriet Tubman was born in Dorchester County, Maryland. She led hundreds of slaves to freedom in the north by following a route called the Underground Railroad. After the passage of the Fugitive Slave Law in 1850 she guided runaway slaves to Canada. Huge rewards were offered for her capture. During the civil war she was a nurse and a spy for the federal army.

Karl Marx was a sociologist, economist, revolutionist born in Trier, Germany on May 5, 1818. He laid the foundation of socialism and communism. In collaboration with Engels, Marx produced a great many works which affect the lives of people in many countries today. One of the best known of his is the "Communist Manifesto" published in 1848. Marx was instrumental in the formation of the First Internationale (International Working Men's Association) and he wrote The Capital, one of the most influential books in history.

Ponce Massacre (March 21, 1937) took place on Palm Sunday. Puerto Rican nationalists had received government permission to demonstrate in Ponce, Puerto Rico. At the last minute the mayor cancelled the permit. The nationalists decided to continue according to plan and started marching. At the last moment the police opened fire killing 19 people and wounding hundreds of others.

Sharpeville was a peaceful demonstration in (South Africa) Azania during a campaign against the Pass Law launched by the Pan Africanist Congress. 71 people were killed and hundreds were wounded (March 21, 1960).

Four Puerto Rican Nationalists launched an attack on the Congress of the United States to force the government to recognize the right of Puerto Ricans to independence. Lolita Lebron, Rafael Cancel Miranda, and Irving FLores are still in jail today. They are the oldest political prisoners in the United States and probably the world. Andres Figueroa Cordero the fourth commando was released recently because he is dying of cancer (March 1, 1954).

Quote: "Los grandes no son grandes sino porque estamos de rodillas. Levantemonos." ("The big are only big because we are kneeling. Let's stand up.") Betances

---

(2-1) Langston Hughes, Afro-American poet and writer born 1902.

(2-1) 1960 sit-ins for civil rights begin in Greensboro, N. Carolina.

(2-3) 1821, Elizabeth Blackwell, first woman doctor in the U.S., born.

(2-3) In 1899 black inventor B.F. Jackson received a patent for a gas burner.

(2-4) 1961 the beginning of the Liberation War against Portuguese in Angola.

(2-5) Black inventor W. Johnson receives a patent for the egg beater. 1884

(2-6) Seattle General Strike supports dock workers who refused to load arms against the Russian Revolutions. 1919

(2-7) 1965, U.S. begins bombing of North Vietnam.

(2-8) Fard Muhammed began the movement that later became known as the Nation of Islam (Black Muslims) in 1930.

(2-8) Green Haven State Prison, N.Y. formation of first prisoners union in nation 1972.

(2-9) Slavery began in the U.S. in 1619, when 20 Blacks were brought to Jamestown, Va. to be sold as slaves.

(2-10) 1834 — This week, 800 women working in the Lowell Textile Mills, walk out, after their wages are cut and one leader is freed. Next day, they issue a proclamation stating "Union is Power" and 1,200 more women responded.

(2-11) New York: Emma Goldman arrested for lecturing on birth control. 1916

(2-12) Founding of the NAACP in New York City. 1909

(2-13) Negro History Week was initiated by Black historian Carter G. Woodson in 1926.

(2-14) Date commemorated as birthday of abolitionist leader Frederick Douglas. 1817

(2-14) Fort Jackson GIs revolt. Black GIs refuse to do riot duty. 1968.

(2-15) Susan B. Anthony, Leader of Struggles for women's rights, born 1820.

(2-15) Henry Lewis became the first Afro-American to head a symphony orchestra in the U.S. when he was named director of the New Jersey Symphony. 1968.

(2-17) Birth of Huey P. Newton, co-founder of the Black Panther Party, together with Bobby Seale. 1941

(2-19) 1) 1919 First Pan African Congress organized by W.E.B. Dubois in Paris

2) 1942, 112,000 American of Japanese descent put in internment camps.

(2-20) Raymond Yellow Thunder died after abuse by four white youths, who drove him to the local American Legion Club where thee forced him to undress and dance for the 100 persons present, and then threw him out into the winter's cold.

(2-22) 1883 Afro-American inventor Wade Washington received a patent for the corn husking machine.

(2-25) 1) death of the honorable Elijah Muhammad, spiritual leader of the Nation of Islam (1975)

2) Laws are passed in the American colonies paying rewards for Indian scalps. (1745)

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 83 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Town officials doubt campus bypass return

By DAVID GRAM
Collegian Staff

Amherst Town Manager A. Louis Hayward last night said he "would be very surprised" if the town reversed its decision of last spring not to close off the campus section of North Pleasant Street where two recent traffic accidents left one UMass student dead and another injured.

Proposals to reroute traffic around the UMass campus have come before the Town Meeting several times in recent years and have been rejected, according to Diana Romer, chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

"I guess it's three strikes and you're out. It's a dead issue," said Romer.

On Feb. 4, sophomore Scott C. Burgess was struck and killed by a van while trying to cross North Pleasant Street near Morrill Science Center. And on Feb. 11, Joseph O'Rourke was the victim of a hit-and-run when he attempted to cross the street near the Newman Center. O'Rourke suffered a severe bruise on his right leg and lacerations on his hands.

When Selectman Roger Jacques, who is running for re-election this year, was asked last night if he plans to make a campaign issue of the proposed street closing, he said, "Not particularly. I'd like to see an overpass or underpass approach taken." Jacques said, "the town has been aware of the problem, but most residents don't want to cut off the road."

The recent fatality might prompt University and town officials to look again into the problems posed by such a heavily travelled road cutting through the campus, according to Romer. But she said there would be problems "in coordinating work that would have to be done.

"There are questions to be decided between the University and the town on what should be done and who should be doing it," she said.

Jacques called Burgess' death "an isolated incident". "It was tragic," he said, "but it was 1:30 in the morning. I don't think it was due to traffic circulation problems."

Grace Marroquin displays some of her scented hearts to Kathy Forester yesterday, on the concourse. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Flu on 'downward trend'

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

The flu outbreak that has swept the UMass campus during the past two weeks appears to be on a "downward trend" according to Diane N. Smith, director of nursing at University Health Services.

"I think that we're probably seeing the tail end of this," said Smith yesterday, noting that the number of inpatients being treated for the flu at the health center had dropped from 30 (in the middle of the week) to ten yesterday.

The health center is still waiting for test results concerning the strain of the flu that is affecting this area, said Smith. It is very possible that there is more than one strain, she added.

Smith said the papers around the country have been reporting two major strains, the Russian flu and the Texas flu. If there are two different strains in the area, being affected by one strain does not make a person immune to another, she said.

Although Smith said she believes the Russian strain is more likely to affect younger people, she would not make a prediction as to the nature of the local strain.

Smith said the body builds up antibodies that help make a person immune to the particular strain of flu that it has been affected by. However, according to Smith, an individual is still susceptible to other strains. In other words, a person can get "the flu" more than once.

In the dormitories on campus, the situation was also markedly improved.

According to Kevin Fandel, the head of residence of James dormitory in Southwest, reportedly the hardest hit dormitory on campus, "it's (the flu situation) getting better. I was really pleased with the way people stayed around here and relaxed during the weekend."

Fandel said the number of cases in James have dropped by nearly a third in the past week, with the help of the infirmary and the dining commons.

"The infirmary and the dining commons have been sending orange juice and aspirin to the dorm which I think is a pretty nice gesture," said Fandel.

Barbara Smith, head of residence in Thatcher dorm in Northeast Area, said the flu ".... was pretty much passing through.... people are back on their feet pretty much."

She said there were probably only ten new cases in the past few days, compared to last week when she estimated that almost all of the 130 residents were being affected.

The situation in the fraternities and sororities is also improved, according to Joe Barboza, assistant to the Greek Affairs director.

"Several exchanges between the houses had to be cancelled last week because of the flu," said Barboza.

He said however, the input he received from students passing through the office indicated the majority of the sisters and brothers had been affected by the flu last week.

"I would say that it (the number of cases) peaked just before the weekend," said Barboza.

Valentine's lasts a week

BOSTON [AP] — Almost everything has been delayed or postponed in Massachusetts because of last week's paralyzing snowstorm, and Valentine's Day is no exception.

Prodded by florists and flower growers who were unable to make deliveries, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis has given Cupid a few more days to work his Valentine's Day magic.

The governor has declared this week Valentine's Week, extending the traditional Feb. 14 celebration through Saturday.

"For spiritual as well as economic reasons, it makes good sense to make this Valentine's Week," Dukakis said yesterday.

Greenhouse operators and florists had suggested the idea over the weekend after their businesses had been at a standstill for several days because of a ban on non-emergency travel in Boston and most eastern Mass. communities.

Valentine's Day is one of the most profitable days of the year for florists and flower growers, second only to Mother's Day.

The Valentine's Day extension also was welcome news to owners of card shops and candy stores with large inventories of heart-shaped boxes of chocolates and sweetheart greeting cards.

One owner of a small card shop said he usually does one-tenth of his annual business in the week before Valentine's Day, but the snowstorm had forced him to close. Yesterday he was able to open his doors for the first time in a week.

Florists and flower growers now plan a big advertising campaign to sell the extension of Valentine's Day to the public.

"I think people will go along with it," said Jim Kelly, executive director of the Allied Florists of Eastern Massachusetts.

"I don't think there's any great need that we have to celebrate it on the 14th. It's going to take at least twice as long to make deliveries because we've been out of business for a week.

Students are time travellers

By GENE KLOS
Collegian Staff

Time stands still for many UMass students. In apparent disregard for Einstein's continuum of time, there are several campus buildings where time warps can be found.

Students have found, to their amazement, that it is possible to travel back and forth in time by merely traversing the campus. Certainly the experience can be unnerving to the novice.

Consider the situation, a sprawling campus complete with its own skyscrapers and goldfish pond. The distances between classrooms can be intimidating, the time alloted barely enough. Yet the administration is hardly standing still. With the aid of the labor pool, they've created a time machine to negate the problems presented by a large campus.

This machine, a small, smooth, metallic cylinder has but two moving parts discernable to the casual passer-by. These parts (the inventors prefer to call them hands) are the means of assessing a base time. The responsibility for positioning these "hands" is not to be taken lightly. Indeed, our own government has seen fit to invest in a regulatory time commission, which broadcasts on several radio bands something called "Coordinated Universal Time."

The university's time machines are not a part of this "coordinated" system. For example, let us follow the path of a hypothetical student as he or she crosses campus.

Starting at noon from the Blue Wall where the largest time difference is found (before Happy hour) the student is flung four minutes into the past upon arrival at Machmer. When a visit to the library is made our subject is accelerated two minutes more upon arrival in the lobby. This time can be slowed by a quick jaunt to the 26th floor (with a little luck from the elevators). A look out the window at the Old Chapel clock reveals that even greater time jumps are available. Six minutes can be gained by visiting the chapel.

By continuing up the path to Herter, two of the previously chapel-gained six minutes are lost to the time machines. No matter how fast one negotiates the distance between the Chapel and Herter, it always takes two minutes. By the same notion, no matter what end of Herter one leaves from it will require a time loss of three minutes.

These kinds of time fluctuations exist over the entire campus. With a little foresight and awareness of the situation, all last-minute decisions can be made and re-made over and over again. I will outline a brief time map for simple use.

Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Campus Center 12:11

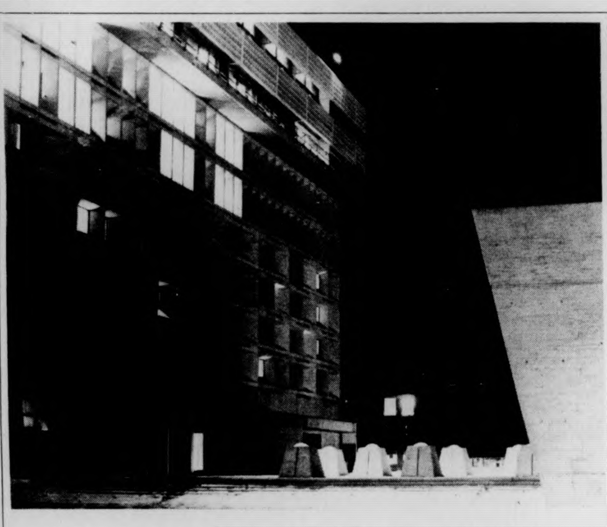
Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Machmer — 12:07

Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Library Lobby 12:09; 26th floor 12:07

Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Old Chapel 12:03

Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Herter 12:05

Coordinated Universal Time 12:00 — Whitmore 12:08



Campus Center south face by moonlight. (Staff photo by David Olken)

Oxford program offers studies in Shakespeare

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

If you're interested in spending your summer on the other side of the Atlantic, the Oxford Summer Program might be for you.

The six-week program is open to all graduate and undergraduate students who wish to study Shakespeare or the Elizabethan period at England's Oxford University.

A program open to all students in the United States, the Oxford seminar was founded and is directed by Dr. Ernest Hofer, associate dean of humanities and fine arts. The UMass-sponsored program is beginning its thirteenth year this semester and is being organized this week.

The total cost for the program is $1000. This year, again, two scholarships of $300 each will be awarded to UMass students.

A meeting for those interested will be held Thursday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. in Bartlett 301.

"We're looking for students with approximately a B average in a humanities major or indeed any major," Hofer said. "We take majors from all over the campus, and we prefer that they have at least 15 hours of writing courses."

The program is limited to 110 students. According to Hofer, anywhere from 150-400 applications are received annually.

Last year's program saw the participation of 29 UMass-Amherst students and six UMass-Boston students.

Hofer hopes the scholarships offered this year will encourage participation in the program. The scholarships are a result of money donated by a UMass alumnus, Dr. Charles A. Peters, member of the class of 1897, who gave $15,000 to the University for the College Shakespearian Club, a now defunct organization. Peters' money is currently housed in a UMass foundation designated for the Oxford program. The interest on the money pays the scholarships.

Eligibility for a scholarship is based on recommendations by professors familiar with the applicants work. The final decision is made by the head of the English Department and the Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts.

Deadline for all application is March 15. Decisions for acceptance are made by Hofer and his committee.

...newslines...

Add-drop form deadline extended to tomorrow

Add-drop forms will be accepted in the Registrar's office through Wednesday, Feb. 15, according to Marion Markwell, the head clerk at the Registrar's office.

Markwell, filling in for vacationing Registrar Ralph D. Jones, said yesterday that because of the confusion surrounding the "official" date, she would accept forms through Wednesday. She said, however, she would not give out any more blank forms.

The schedule booklet for the spring semester, 1978, lists Feb. 13 as the last day for handing in add-drop forms. Tuesday's "snowout" left many students wondering whether that day would be counted as one of the 14 calender days allotted for add-drops.

—LEO PELOQUIN

Collegian blood drive still needs volunteers

So far 20 people have signed up to donate blood in the Collegian sponsored blood drive of tomorrow.

Donation hours are from 2 to 7:45 p.m. in the Public Health Center room N-344. Those wishing to give can sign up for an appointment at the information desk on the Campus Center Concourse.

—JACK GALLAGHER

S.G.A. and University meet, discuss bus funding

Student government leaders and University officials will meet to discuss the UMass bus system today at 3:30 in CC 911-915.

Already the meeting has been cancelled twice: once due to snow problems and the resulting shutdown of school; once to an epidemic of flu on campus.

Student leaders hope to convince University officials that the student government's share of the bus funding should be 70 rather than the proposed 85 per cent.

—JACK GALLAGHER

Come to the ## Collegian open-house

this afternoon, 12:00 to 5:00, downstairs in the Campus Center

There will also be a Collegian recruitment meeting tonight at 7:00 in room 174-176 of the Campus Center.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Maureen Carney

| | |
|---|---|
| News Department | Fifi Ball |
| Sports Layout | Ron Arena |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Ad Layout | Gary Marchese |
| Editorial Layout | Not Paula Strollo |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Town continues search for better water supply

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

The search for future water supplies in Amherst continued last night as town selectmen scrutinized a proposed Amherst-Hadley Water Connection Agreement in an unusually highly attended meeting at Town Hall.

The expansion of the UMass Transit Service was also proposed to the town last night by authorities from the University and from the Transportation and Parking Department of Amherst.

In other business, deeds to parcels of land to UMass were approved and signed by the Selectmen, a grant from the Amherst Housing Authority concerning the proposed rehabilitation of 15 units of scattered sites was reviewed, and various licenses were approved.

The latest draft of the proposed Amherst-Hadley Water Agreement was a main subject of concern for town authorities as they discussed problems seen in the detailed wording of the agreement.

The agreement specifies terms under which Hadley would be obligated to provide Amherst with water, if it were enacted.

Accooding to Town Manager, A. Louis Haywood, Hadley's Financial Package Proposal for this document involves two basic tables: Table A and Table B.

For an amount of up to 30 million gallons per year, Table A would be applicable. A cost of $250 per million gallons would be the flat rate, covering increases in costs for employees salaries, chemicals, and utilities.

Once the amount of water supplied exceeds the first 30 million gallons, Table B would be applicable, starting at a rate of $113 per million gallons, with a permit of $3 increments each year.

Concern revolved around the issue of whether or not the agreement was exactly what Amherst needs and wants.

Chairman Diana H. Romer voiced specific concern over the need for Hadley to have legally binding obligations to Amherst under the terms of the agreement.

Selectman Nancy B. Eddy agreed, "From a positive point of view, they are obliged to provide us with 500,000 million gallons per day if we want it, and that now is not in there," she said.

Haywood agreed to work this week on a redraft of the proposed agreement. A meeting with Hadley Selectmen at 7:30 tonight at Hadley Town Hall was postponed for a week, pending finalization of this agreement.

As reported by authorities of the UMass Transit Service, serious consideration of bus route expansions is now underway.

The Orchard Valley area has expressed particular need for the expansion, according to the authorities considering common concern and population density.

"I think you're correct in emphasizing going where the passengers are, rather than where the roads are...," said Romer, voicing her approval of the proposed plans.

Deeds approving the transfer of land to UMass were approved and signed by Selectmen in other business. The conveyance of two parcels of land to UMass was authorized at the May 1977 Annual Town Meeting in approved articles 33 and 39.

The transfers dealt with a western portion of Massachusetts Avenue near the Hadley Town line, and a portion of Mass Ave formerly part of North Hadley Road.

In an economic development related matter, the Amherst Housing Association explained a housing rehabilitation program for which they need the cooperative agreement of the town.

Under this program, the 15 units of scattered site substandard housing being proposed by the AHA would be applied for under the "Federal Conventional Public Housing Grant Program" currently being sponsored by HUD, a federal housing department.

The purpose of the program is to provide housing for large families presently having trouble affording the existing accommodations in Amherst.

And in final business, selectmen approved a number of applications for one day wine and malt licenses. Included in the list of approved applicants were licenses for performances at the Fine Arts Center of such artists as Marcel Marceau, The Cincinnati Symphony, and Woody Herman.

DVP reschedules Dworkin appearance

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

Distinguished Visitors Program committee members voted last night to reschedule the cancelled lecture by radical feminist author Andrea Dworkin..

Twenty-five Dworkin supporters attended the meeting and presented DVP co-chairpersons Mary Jude Dean and Roger Lukoff with petitions requesting rescheduling. The petition bore over 100 signatures.

John Stoltenberg, representing Dworkin, presented his version of the sequence of events leading up to the cancellation. He then stated the conditions under which Dworkin would agree to speak if the program were rescheduled.

The issue was raised of whether the program had actually been cancelled or just postponed pending reconsideration of the proposal. Dean said it had been cancelled, adding, "DVP co-chairpersons have the power to cancel a program the committee has approved until the committee can reconsider the proposal."

After discussion of other proposals up before the committee Dean asked all non-DVP members to leave the room so that voting could be done in closed session.

Before leaving one of Dworkin's supporters made a final statement to DVP committee members:

"I think you should take into account that a lot of people are really excited about the idea of Andrea Dworkin speaking here. I heard her speak last year, and I think she's one of the most important speakers around today. The committee should keep in mind that a lot of people are really looking forward to hearing her."

"Dworkin has the ability to condense points of view, identify problems in social systems and point them out in a profound way," she added.

Dean then said to committee members, "As I understood it, we accepted Dworkin's name and topic at the Nov. 14 meeting. I didn't know at that time that Dworkin wasn't going to give an additional workshop or press conference. When I found that out and learned about Dworkin's appearance here last spring, I decided the program should be reconsidered."

Dean said she sought information about Dworkin's fees and activities from sources at Yale University, where Dworkin is scheduled to speak in the future.

Lukoff said, "It's routine procedure to call around to other places at which a speaker is scheduled to appear and compare formats and salaries."

The committee discussed the fact that to their knowledge, Dworkin is charging more to speak here than she has at other places. It was pointed out that Dworkin's other appearances may have been workshops rather than major lectures.

Irene Richard, the Student Activities program advisor now working with DVP, said, "Dworkin represents a group of people on campus and in the community ... quite a large number of people, or this wouldn't have become such a controversy. A DVP program featuring Dworkin would probably be very successful."

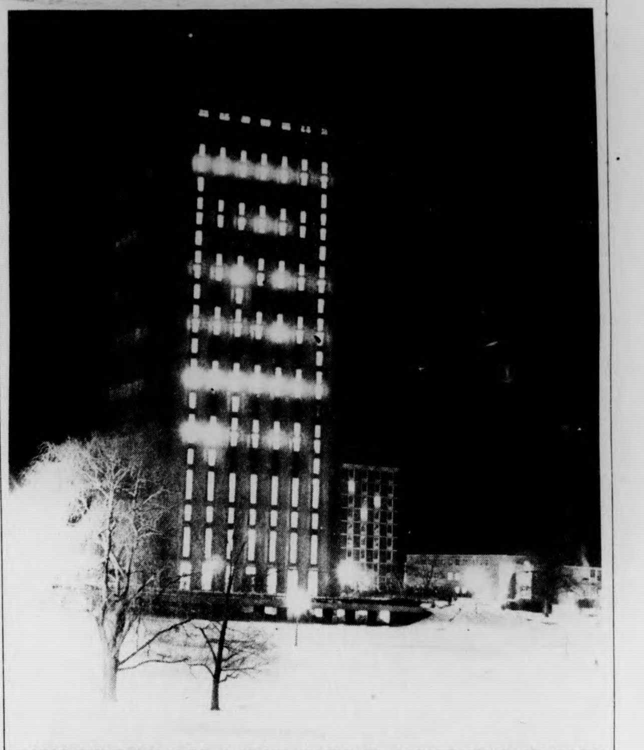
Dean then asked members to "vote the best way, keeping in mind the fact that you're spending student money. Vote your conscience."

The results of the vote were as follows: seven affirmative, two negative, one abstention. The new date for the lecture has not yet been set.

DVP committee members expressed concern about the affect of the Dworkin controversy on DVP's image.

"It's been suggested that there was some sort of conspiracy; that the issue was political. Somebody created the 'political'," said Dean.

Bilotas said, "People on this campus, especially feminists, have the wrong idea about us. We've probably had more women speakers than men this year." He added, "I think, in the future, we ought to be a little more careful about the way in which we negotiate contracts."



Unidentified Flying Objects make a quick pass around the library during last night's "Close Encounter." (Staff photo by David Olken)

Central Area ratifies residential lease report

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

The Central Area Government last night became the first group in the long line of governmental bodies to ratify the Residential Lease Task Force report on the concept of students as tenants and the university as the landlord in dormitories.

David Barenberg, organizer of the Student Organizing Project, brought the Lease to the Council. Barenberg said "the lease originated in the rents and fees committee and a task force was set up by the student senate to do further research.

The Lease, now in its final stages, will be brought before other area governments and to the student senate at Wednesday night's meeting. It will then be taken to the Grad Student Senate. Ordinarily the Lease would next be taken to the faculty senate for a vote but because of a mishap last semester an unfinished version of the lease was sent to the faculty senate and was approved.

Members of the Lease Task Force went to the Residential Areas door to door to see what maintenance complaints students have. Problems from last semester were cited as broken windows that were not fixed after months of complaints, silver fish in the basement of dormitories, and ceiling leaks in numerous rooms.

"The lease would give students some rights in the dormitories," said Barenberg. "The physical plant would be in closer contact with the university to insure quicker and more efficient maintenance."

If the lease is approved by the student governments, its next step is to be reviewed by Chancellor Bromery and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Robert Woodbury.

The report is divided into four parts.

First an opening letter inclosed with the report suggests that the lease is open to comment and critique but is the basis of a plan to affect all students living in the residential areas.

Second, the report states the obligations of the tenant and landlord, listing numerous subheadings such as room assignments, repairs, and liability for damages to tenant and landlord's property.

Third, the report illustrates a supposed contract for a specific dormitory. The specifications for certain functional rooms in the dormitory are outlined in individual dormitory contracts.

The last portion of the proposed lease would contain a questionnaire on dorm problems to give students further input into the dormitory and a dormitory damage checklist and a room damage checklist.

When asked how students will be able to fight back against the university in this arrangement, Barenberg said "the legal services office will aid the student in the event a student has a suit to file."

More snow funds granted

By RICHARD E. BARRELL
Collegian Staff

BELCHERTOWN — Selectmen last night voted to request that the town finance committee transfer an addition at $5,000 to the town's snow removal budget.

Selectman Kenneth H. Snow said the $5,000 would be transferred to offset expenses of the Feb. 6 snow storm. He estimated the town has $14,000 left in its snow removal budget, with some bills as yet unpaid.

The selectmen praised the snow removal efforts of town highway department workers, who worked from 7 a.m. on Feb. 6 until 3:30 p.m. on Feb. 7.

Selectman Bernard F. Wilkes Jr., said "the personnel from the highway department, the Department of Public Safety and the Civil Defense Department should be congratulated for their efforts during the storm. The Belchertown roads are in good shape," he added.

In other business, the selectmen announced the appointment of Edward Foyette of Belchertown to the position of mechanic truck driver. Board members said Foyette had the most mechanical knowledge of all other applicants.

The position is funded by CETA and pays $194 a week. The selectmen also announced that a town position for truck driver, which pays $4.55 an hour was open. The job will be posted at the highway department garage and advertised if it is not filled.

The selectmen also announced that Officer Robert A. Knight has been elected president of Local 1725 AFFCME, representing the Belchertown Police Department. Also, Officer Paul L. DeBettencourt was elected as secretary, treasurer and recording secretary of the local.

The Gong Show will be at Belchertown Old Town Hall on Feb. 17. Selectmen and other town officials have been invited to act as judges.

Dr. Brent Spears, who heads the Belchertown Community Health Center, will meet with the selectmen at their next regular meeting to discuss the operation of the center.

Military Police Sargent James Toland signals to motorist while on emergency watch to ban private car driving in Boston. The Massachusetts National Guard helped police during the worst winter storm in the state's history. (UPI)

Women's Media Project solidifies communications

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

The Women's Media Project is beginning the semester with hopes of establishing a better communications network with women in the Five College area and throughout the Pioneer Valley.

In an attempt to alleviate the fragmentation of women in media and area women's groups, the project is bringing these women together tonight at 7:30 in CC 904, according to Project staff members.

Members of the Project will discuss how best to help interested women to acquire media skills. Also to be discussed is the Media Project planned videotaping and cassette recording of specific events and their distribution. One of the events to be recorded is International Women's Week at UMass.

The Women's Media Project radio show is broadcast on Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 on WMUA. The project began through a media course in Southwest in 1970 and started producing a short radio program in 1971. By 1976 the show was expanded to three hours weekly.

The program includes music by female artists, interviews, poetry readings, and women's news. The four women currently broadcasting the show have Federal Communications Commission licenses and do the show cooperatively.

Many women are involved with the project in various other capacities. Women without previous experiences are invited to explore radio work in the project. Dianne Snyder, one of the disc jockey's on the Media Project, said "the show is always open to women who want to participate in any way and it's open to new participation to any degree."

The women of the Media Project are very aware of the difficulty of breaking through the ice of an ongoing, already established organization. "We are especially sensitive to helping women, who for any reason, would like to be more comfortable with radio," said Snvder.

News Briefs

Peace threatened by drug trafficking

ST. LOUIS [UPI] — Passage of the Panama Canal treaties by the Senate will be doomed if it can be proven that Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos is involved in narcotics traffic, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said yesterday.

At Dole's urging, the Senate voted to go into secret session Feb. 21 to discuss information linking Torrijos with illegal drug dealings. Dole said he came across the informtion in files of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

"This could be the final body blow to the treaties," Dole said during a break in field hearings on the rising cost of medical care. "It's very close now, and it could be the end if the mothers and fathers and grandfathers think he's been involved in sending drugs."

Dole said the information revealed in the closed session will be made public if it will not mean physical danger to anyone.

Guidelines issued for abortion funds

In the wake of the passage of a Congressional amendment limiting the use of federal monies for abortions, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare issued a 74-page outline attempting to explain when federal funds can still be used for abortions.

Here, in brief, is a capsule report on the HEW outline:

A woman can receive an abortion paid by federal funds when one doctor certifies her life will be endangered by carrying the fetus to full term.

She can receive a federally-paid abortion when two doctors certify "severe and long lasting physical health damage" would be done to her if the pregnancy continues.

She can receive the abortion when rape or incest results in pregnancy, and the fact is reported to the proper officials within 60 days. The woman need not report this to the police. She can report to a physician, or a friend, who can then pass the information on to a federal clinic, where funds will be made available for the abortion.

Abortion not racist researchers say

A group of researchers has debunked claims by anti-abortionists that liberalized abortion laws might pave the way for racial genocide aimed at blacks or other minorities.

The researchers circulated the fictional case of a pregnant woman to 42 white abortion counselors in Atlanta, Georgia, and Memphis and Nashville, Tennessee.

The "bogus" woman was described as an underachieving high school junior, with a minor record of what they called "social deviance."

The counselors, 38 of whom were women, were told the woman in the case was unmarried and ambivalent about having the baby. Half the counselors were told the woman was white, and the other half were told she was black. The counselors were asked to rate the fictitious pregnant woman in a number of social and emotional categories, and finally, recommend whether or not she should have the child.

Researchers Brenda Crossley and Lawrence Weitz of the George Peabody College for Teachers, and Stephan Abromowitz of the University of California School of Medicine at Davis, conducted the study.

They concluded that though 33 counselors recommended abortion, they did so equally in white and black cases, and that a "stronger preference for abortion when the patient was black-identified was not found."

The researchers concluded that present data provided no support for anti-abortionists' racial genocide theories.

Pregnancy detection kit available now

A "do-it-yourself" pregnancy detection kit, which has been widely used in Europe for the last five years, will now be distributed in the United States.

Officials of Warner Chilcott, a unit of Warner Lambert Company, said the "E-P-T In-Home Early Pregnancy Test" does not need refrigeration, will be small and disposable, and will be available at drug stores immediately without prescription.

The kit, according to Warner Chilcott, is designed to detect pregnancy as early as nine days after a woman has missed an expected menstrual period.

FDA committee says DES not 'approved'

The Food and Drug Administration's Advisory Committee on Obstetrics and Gynecology is calling for the removal of the drug DES from the US Food and Drug Administration's official approved list.

DES is the chemical currently prescribed to women to relive painful breast engorgement after childbirth. The drug has been linked, not only to breast cancer in women who took it in the early 1950's to avert miscarriage, but to vaginal cancer and reproductive tract defects in their children.

Now, the Washington Post reports that Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the non-profit Health Research Group, has urged an FDA advisory panel to stop listing DES as "approved." Wolfe said the benefits of using the drug for such conditions as breast engorgement are "trivial in comparison to the dangers."

Wolfe's recommendation comes in the wake of the release of preliminary data from the University of Chicago's follow-up on government-funded experiments performed in 1951 and 1952, in which 693 women were given DES. The results established that DES is ineffective in preventing miscarriages. Yet, reports the Post, two million women are estimated to have been given DES for miscarriage prevention since the late 1940's. Wolfe reports results of these experiments also show a marked increase in breast cancer among the women who received DES.

The FDA is expected to adopt the recommendation to deter future use of DES.

Her-Say News Service

DELANO'S
57 North Pleasant Street
Fine Food and Spirits
What's A Sunday Brunch?
ask Delano's
Sunday 19th
Across from the fire station.
253-5141

DISCOUNTS of 20-60% OFF such as...

| | |
|---|---|
| Libbey Mr Pro" Wine Glasses (pkg. of 4) | $3.25 |
| Ekco Can Opener | 50c |
| Plastic Planters with Drainer Tray | 40c, 60c, 90c |
| Planter Chains & Hooks | 50c-99c |
| Pant & Skirt Hangers (pkg. of 2) | 85c |
| Wagner Ware Cast Iron 9" Skillet | $5.00 |
| Farberware Crock Pot | $14.00 |
| Farberware 1 Qt. Saucepan | $9.50 |
| Farberware 2 Qt. Saucepan | $13.00 |
| GE Light Bulbs (pkg. of 4) 60-75-100 watt | $1.66 |
| Stoneware Mugs | 85c |
| Stoneware Ash Trays | 95c |

home works, inc.
30 Main St. Amherst
(between Baskin-Robbins & House of Walsh)
open 9-5 M-F 10-4 Saturday

Nazis salute at funeral honoring war criminal

SOLTAU, West Germany [AP] — Nazi salutes by several mourners marked the burial yesterday of convicted war criminal Herbert Kappler in the north German town where he died of cancer after fleeing an Italian prison hospital.

At least four men raised their right arms in the banned gesture as they filed past Kappler's grave, lined with pine branches, to scatter dirt or flowers on his brown wood coffin.

But the burial in Soltau, near Hamburg, attracted little attention around West Germany, a country sensitive about its Nazi past and eager to forget the Hitler era.

Police estimated 100 people filled a cemetery chapel for the funeral. At least another 100 stood outside on the snowy grounds, listening to the service over loudspeakers.

"Be a just judge," Protestant clergy Dr. Ernest Wilm, a Nazi concentration camp victim, prayed for Kappler. "Grant our brother a new life."

"The common word of God united us," Wilm said in his eulogy, referring to his acquaintance with Kappler after World War II while serving as a chaplain to German war criminals imprisoned abroad.

Until last August, Kappler, former Gestapo chief of Rome, was serving a life sentence in Italy for the reprisal executions of 335 hostages in Rome in 1944.

He died Thursday at age 70 in his wife's apartment over a downtown Soltau pharmacy, where she brought him after smuggling him out of the Roman hospital. Kappler, wasted to 97 pounds, died of the stomach cancer for which he had been hospitalized.

At graveside, a man wearing sun glasses called out to Kappler in the name of the "Greater German Wehrmacht armed forces:

"But what you are, have the courage to be fully. You, Herbert Kappler, acted on orders. You did what every German officer would have done."

After the ceremony, police officer Siegfried Schade said: "Those people weren't known to us. We never expected it to come to this."

He said police were trying to identify the men.

There are occasional neo-Nazi displays in West Germany, but the extreme right has no representation on any level of government. The Interior Ministry reported last year that 42 neo-Nazi splinter groups claimed 18,000 members in a population of 61 million.

SOLTAU, W. Germany: An unidentified mourner makes the Nazi salute at the grave of Herbert Kappler during burial ceremony yesterday for the wartime Nazi police chief of Rome. Kappler died last Friday, six months after his wife helped him escape from a military hospital in Rome. (UPI)

Begin stays open; welcomes U.S. help

JERUSALEM [AP] — Prime Minister Menachem Begin reaffirmed yesterday that the hotly contested issue of Israeli settlements was open for negotiation and he welcomed resumption of U.S. mediation of the Mideast conflict.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, meanwhile, capped his eight-nation bid for international political support with a meeting at the Vatican with Pope Paul VI. The pope urged that international guarantees be provided for Jerusalem's holy places in any future settlement.

Begin was in a conciliatory mood at a news conference yesterday after sharply criticizing U.S. Mideast policy Sunday.

Apparently underlining his willingness to bargain, Begin confirmed a weekend report by Israeli radio that his government has halted its expansion of Sinai settlements. He did not elaborate. Israel was sharply criticized by Egypt for its Jan. 8 decision to "strengthen" existing settlements by increasing their size and population during peace talks.

The radio said Defense Minister Ezer Weizman halted the bulldozers that were leveling ground for new houses at settlements in northeastern Sinai. Begin's cofirmation came in answer to a question.

However, the prime minister left the impression Israel will fight any move to disband settlements. He said all Israel political factions, except the minority Moscow-aligned Communist Party, opposed removal of the outposts.

At its weekly Sunday meeting, Israel's cabinet accused Secretary of State Cyrus B. Vance of "taking sides" against Israel in Mideast mediation.

Begin said he did "not regret one word" of the unanimously adopted cabinet statement, which was his eight-month-old government's sharpest criticism of the Carter administration.

Vance, speaking at a Washington news conference Friday called on Israel to disband its settlements and withdraw from Arab lands won in the 1967 war. He also endorsed creation of a Palestinian homeland.

Begin told reporters his peace plan includes a demand that Israel retain a score of settlements in Sinai after the peninsula is turned back to Egypt. But he added:

"As I always repeated, my friends, everything is negotiable except the destruction of Israel... our peace plan is negotiable, with all its details."

Begin said the "differences that have arisen over Mr. Vance's statement have not annulled our positive attitude toward Mr. Atherton's effort....

"He is a desirable guest in Jerusalem."

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton is due here next week to renew efforts to work out a declaration of peace principles between Israel and Egypt.

Atherton undertook the mediation, shuttling between Jerusalem and Cairo, after Israeli-Egyptian political and military negotiations broke down last month. The U.S. envoy returned to Washington two weeks ago to be on hand for Sadat's meeting with President Carter.

Agreement has been reported on several clauses of the declaration, but Israeli and Egypt are believed divided on the question of Palestinian rights and the extent of Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands.

Before leaving Paris for Rome, the final stop on his tour, Sadat told reporters that Atherton's shuttle was the only avenue open to peace and that direct Israeli-Egyptian negotiations could not resume unless agreement was reached on the peace principles.

In Paris, Sadat met French officials and a delegation of European Jews, led by Nahum Goldmann, former president of the World Jewish Congress. Goldmann told reporters the Jewish leaders expressed support for Sadat's peace initiative.

The pope, who met the Moslem Egyptian leader for the second time in two years, told Sadat that any peace settlement must provide for "justice and security" for all peoples of the Middle East and must satisfy "the legitimate aspirations of the Palestinian people."

He also urged that Jerusalem be made a "religious center of peace," with international guarantees of unrestricted access to Christian, Moslem and Jewish holy places. Israel regards the holy city as the "indivisible capital of the Jewish state."

In Khartoum, Sudan, President Jaafar el Numairi predicted in an interview with The Associated Press that Israeli eventually would accept the creation of a Palestine state in occupied Arab territories as part of a peace settlement.

Nationwide coal strike lasts with no immediate negotiation

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The nationwide coal strike hit the 70-day mark yesterday with growing demands for presidential intervention, supplies growing dangerously low in some places and the Mine Workers Union bogged down in dissension.

A White House spokesperson said there were no plans to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act to get the miners back to work.

There was no immediate move back to the bargaining table following the union bargaining council's rejection Sunday of the settlement terms UMW President Arnold Miller worked out with the soft coal industry.

Miller's resignation was demanded by some of the union's units, though he insisted 90 per cent of the rank and file favored the tentative settlement reached a week ago.

Supplies of the fuel were reaching near-critical levels in some eastern, midwestern and western areas, and some power companies said emergency cutbacks were imminent.

Ohio's congressional delegation joined House Republican Leader John Rhodes in urging President Carter to personally intervene in the dispute.

But press secretary Jody Powell said there were no plans for direct involvement by either the president or his top aides.

The administration is, however, working closely with the states to "alleviate suffering" due to the walkout, Powell said, and a special meeting of high-ranking officials is scheduled at the White House today.

Powell said a good half of yesterday's Cabinet meeting involved the situation stemming from the strike.

But regarding demands that Carter invoke the back-to-work machinery of the Taft-Hartley Act, the press secretary said: 'It is not the recommendation of the secretary of labor that we seek such an injunction."

As for the use of presidential persuasion, Powell said, "It is not the feeling that calling the two sides into the White House at this point would be productive."

Miller expressed doubt that miners would comply with a back-to-work order anyway, saying: "Men don't like to work under such conditions."

House GOP leader Rhodes, calling the UMW "the flakiest union in the United States," told a news conference in Waco, Texas, that the time has come for Carter to invoke Taft-Hartley.

Ohio's U.S. senators and 22 of its 23 House members sent Carter a telegram saying:

"We urge you immediately to call all parties to the White House in an effort to solve the coal strike. We feel the time is now right for you to personally intervene in this strike, which is now creating a major crisis for Ohio and other states."

The other Ohio House member, Republican John Ashbrook, sent his own telegram asking Carter to use Taft-Hartley because "the threat to the national health and safety is clear."

The coal shortage spread to the Far West — the Utah Power and Light Co. reporting its supplies so low it is cutting back generation operations and preparing to buy power from other utilities.

Miller's recommendation for approval of the tentative contract was turned down 30-6 by the council whose approval is needed before the terms are submitted to the membership for a vote.

ALL UMASS MEN WELCOME
OPEN RUSH
AT BETA KAPPA PHI
ON

TUES., FEB. 14 8:00 p.m.
THURS., FEB. 16 8:00 p.m.
and
SUN., FEB. 19 6:30 p.m.

REFRESHMENTS
388 NO. PLEASANT ST.
(Big white brick house one block from campus)
CALL 5-0210 FOR INFO.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

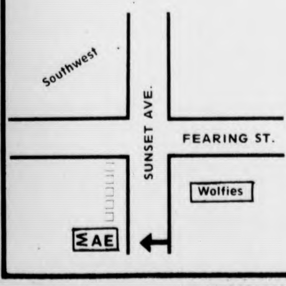
Find out what fraternity life is like —
all university men are welcome to attend.



WHEN: Mon., Feb. 13
Tues., Feb. 14
Wed., Feb. 15
WHERE: 118 Sunset Ave.
TIME: 7:30-9:30

For Info. & Rides
Call 545-2151

Boston returns to work; relies on public transport

BOSTON [AP] — Police blocked highway exit ramps as Boston reopened for post-blizzard business yesterday with a unique experiment in urban commuting — a carless rush hour.

All but a few suburban workers were forbidden from driving into the snow-weary city when stores and offices reopened for the first time since the biggest storm in history paralyzed southern New England one week ago.

Downtown streets were free of cars as mammoth crowds emerged from subway stations. Everyone from factory workers to corporate chairpeople crammed onto over-stuffed trains and buses for slow, claustrophobic rides into the city.

"It was extremely crowded," said Kenneth Campbell, spokesperson for the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority. "The trains were crammed to the grills, shoulder to shoulder and belly to belly."

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis banned all-but-essential traffic in Boston so the city could continue to clean up from the Feb. 6 blizzard that dropped 27 inches of snow.

Despite the inconvenience, most people seemed to make it to work. Gillette Co. reported that 70 per cent of its production workers showed up at its South Boston plant, and John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. said 85 per cent of its employees got to their desks.

Meanwhile, officials worried about another storm approaching the area. However, the National Weather Service said the Boston area would escape today with "a chance of occasional light snow."

Usually bumper-to-bumper downtown streets were jammed with work-bound pedestrians forced into the gray slush by unshoveled sidewalks. Whistle-blowing Army MP's tried to separate the flow of walkers from buses and taxis that were virtually the only vehicles on the streets.

Exit ramps on Boston's major highways were blocked by police who turned back all drivers except a select few who were deemed essential. Among these were doctors, news reporters and utility workers.

"Some people gave us a lot of argument," said Raymond DiRusso, a motor vehicles inspector who manned a downtown exit roadblock. "Everybody thinks they've got an important job. We told them to get back on the expressway and keep heading south."

Another city hard hit by the storm, Providence, R.I., had a similar driving ban yesterday morning, and police reported that some commuters parked illegally on the highways and walked down the ramps to work.

In Boston, about 500,000 people normally use the state-run trains and buses each day, but a transit official said yesterday's totals would be about doublt that.

Hundreds of yellow school buses were also pressed into service to ferry briefcase-toting executives into the city. For most of them, it was the first day of work in a week.

DO YOU WANT TO FLY?

Face it . . . you've always wanted to fly! Many of us have had the feeling . . . and for some it has never gone away.

If you have that feeling, then you're in luck. Air Force ROTC Flight Instruction Program (FIP) is available to you. It's designed to teach you the basics of flight through flying lessons in small aircraft at a civilian operated flying school.

The program is an EXTRA for cadets who can qualify to become Air Force pilots through Air Force ROTC. Taken during the senior year in college, FIP is the first step for the cadet who is going on to Air Force jet pilot training after graduation.

This is all reserved for the cadet who wants to get his life off the ground . . . with Air Force silver pilot wings. Check it out today.

CALL 5-2437

AIR FORCE

ROTC

Gateway to a great way of life.

Order three, one is free!

Now get 3 enlargements for the price of 2 when you order Kodak color enlargements from same-size prints, color slides, or Kodak color negatives. Order 5 x 7-, 8 x 10-, 11 x 14-inch, anything up to and including 16 x 24-inch enlargements. Come in and see us for details today. Offer ends March 15.

COLOR PROCESSING Kodak

tripod CAMERA SHOPS

219 Main St. Northampton, Ma 01060 584-6040
98 N Pleasant St. Amherst, Ma 01002 253-3039

CHINON is coming!

Collegian

OPEN HOUSE RECRUITMENT MEETING

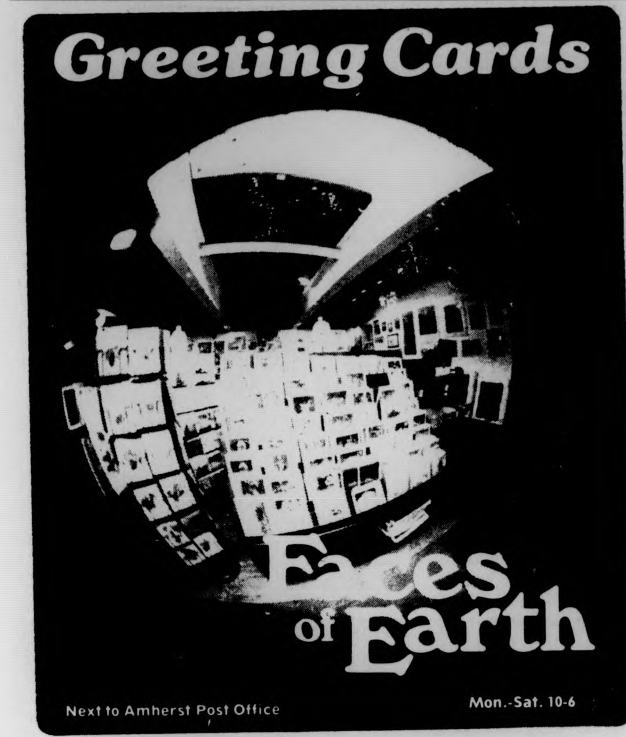
The Collegian is open to visitors today between the hours of 12 noon and 5:00 p.m. People will be available to answer any questions you might have about the Collegian. The office is in room 113 (lower floor-rear) of the Campus Center.

Tonight at 7:00 the Collegian will hold its semesterly recruitment meeting in room 174-176 of the Campus Center. People interested in almost any aspect of newspaper work should drop by and find an area of interest.



Greeting Cards

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office

Mon.-Sat. 10-6

House and Senate file blizzard recovery bills

BOSTON [AP] — Massachusetts legislators, anxious to match the governor's zeal in fighting the blizzard, introduced bills yesterday that would relax school year requirements, toughen looting penalties and give a tax break for storm damage.

The school measure, filed by Sen. George Rogers, D-New Bedford, would allow local school committees to waive the state rule requiring them to provide at least 180 days of classes each academic year.

At the same time, the state Board of Education voted to exempt school boards from having to make up class for any days missed during the blizzard emergency.

Rogers said his bill wouldn't be pre-empted by the board's action. He said the purpose of the measure was to ensure that school committees wouldn't have to cancel spring recesses or push classes into summer vacation periods.

Three Boston-area legislators, upset by reports of looting suspects being granted quick bail, called for a mandatory penalty of two years in jail for anyone convicted of a break-in or theft during an official emergency.

Sen. Michael Lopresti Jr., D-Boston, one of the bill's sponsors, said it would deny bail to suspects as long as the emergency remained in effect.

The measure would cover burglary, theft and defacement of buildings wherever a local, state or federal emergency has been declared. Sentences as stiff as ten years could be suspended to less than two years behind bars.

Laws already on the books provide for sentences of one to ten years but give judges discretion to suspend those terms or postpone cases indefinitely to allow a suspect to demonstrate good behavior.

The bill's other co-sponsors are Reps. Royal Bolling Jr., D-Boston, and Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., R-Winchester.

Sen. Robert E. McCarthy, D-Bridgewater, said the tax bill he and several other senators filed would allow persons to claim the same storm damage deduction on their state tax returns that is allowed on federal returns. The deduction would apply only to the damage suffered in last week's blizzard — not earlier storms — and could only include damages above $100.

The House and Senate each met for only a few minutes each yesterday and only about a dozen members in each chamber showed up. However, Sen. William Saltonstall, R-Manchester, said the relaxed appearance of the lawmakers was misleading, that actually all of them had been hard at work easing various storm problems in their districts.

He said Senate staffers were checking to see if there was a need for any emergency action by the legislature but for the time being, prime responsibility appeared to rest with Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

SUNSET TOURS PRESENTS

DAYTONA BEACH

10 Days/9 Nites

$149.00

•Plus 20% Tax & Service
Price Based On Quad Occupancy

SPRING WEEK

CONTACT MIKE 546-8715

$25.00 needed to hold reservation.
Deposit is non-refundable, non-transferable.
Due February 20

PRICE INCLUDES

Price Includes

- Round Trip via Air Conditioned Luxury Motor Coach
- Free Beer enroute
- 8 Days and 7 Nights at the Luxurious Holiday Inn Directly on Beach
- Pool Party — Free Beer and Barbecue
- Full Breakfast Plan Optional
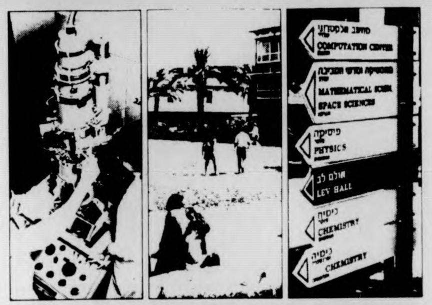
- Baggage Handling at Hotel
- Services of Resident Tour Director
- Hotel Features Include Maid Service / Color T.V. / Swimming Pool, Air Conditioned Rooms with Private Bath and Shower / All Rooms are Ocean View / Restaurant and Lounge with Nightly Entertainment, Free Cover Happy Hour Every Night All Drinks Half Price / Plus Live Entertainment at Pool Side upon Arrival and Departure.



COSMOPOLITAN ISRAEL:
CONCERTS
BEACHES
RUINS CAFES
MUSEUMS
SHOPS
TEL AVIV UNIVERSITY

At Tel Aviv University you can take courses in English, then transfer the credits to your college back home.

We offer semester and full year programs in Liberal Arts, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Business, Judaic Studies, Hebrew and Archaeology.

Studying at Tel Aviv University can be less expensive (both in tuition and living expenses) than many American universities.

For information on these and other programs send in the coupon or call American Friends of Tel Aviv University at (212) 687-5651

Return coupon to
American Friends of Tel Aviv University
342 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017

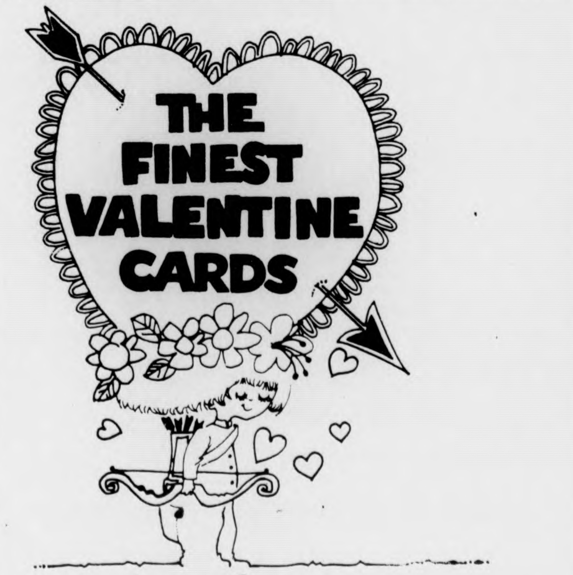
Name ____________
Address ____________
City ____________
State ____________ Zip ______
Telephone ____________ area code
College University ____________
Major ____________



American Greetings
The Fresh Idea Company . . .

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

News in Brief

Eight ski patrollers missing in California

LOS ANGELES [UPI] — "It's becoming fantastic, isn't it?" Sheriff's deputy Carl Riegert said, reporting eight more persons missing in the wake of another storm.

A search for 12 persons missing since Friday in a flash flood in the Angeles National Forest was called off yesterday because of heavy snow. A new search began for eight ski patrollers missing since Sunday.

"This morning," Riegert said, "an emergency services detail, one helicopter and members of the Sierra Madre and Montrose Search and Rescue teams are en route to look for them."

Two of the skiers began a two-hour trek from 8,038-foot high Mt. Waterman to Buckhorn Flats. They never arrived and six more ski patrollers went to look for them. They also vanished.

The series of storms, among the most destructive in Southern California's history, has claimed since Friday at least 11 lives in the southern part of the northern Sierra in addition to the 12 missing in the mountain flood and feared dead.

Residents of canyon areas in northern suburbs were digging out from the deluge of mud, water and debris that destroyed at least five homes and heavily damaged 120 more.

Girl excorcises self; results unknown

ROSARIO DO SUL, Brazil [UPI] — Sixteen-year-old Eliana Maciel Barbosa, who had herself strapped to a wooden cross for three days to exorcise demons, ended her ordeal yesterday but gave no indication whether the effort had been successful.

The Roman Catholic girl Friday night hauled a 44-pound cross up the 450-foot Picucho Hill in the arid, unpopulated western region of the state of Rio Grande de Sul near the town of Rosario do Sul.

According to the girl's parents, Eliana had suffered from nightmares and evil visions for the past six months. After medical tests proved negative, she concluded that "demons and evil forces possessed her soul" and only three days on the cross could save her.

Helped by her fiance Jorge Luiz Goncalves de Lima, Barbosa came down from the cross at 6 p.m., 4 p.m. EST yesterday and was taken to a hospital in the small city of Alegrete, 45 miles from the site.

The Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Dia said a crowd began gathering at the crucifixion site even before the girl was strapped to the cross and the first of at least 20 chartered buses had arrived.

By the time Barbosa came down from the cross, the crowd had grown to an estimated 5,000 people, including hundreds of crippled, blind and otherwise injured persons hoping to be present at a miracle.

Neither the girl nor her family commented on the effects of the ordeal. Her fiance said the couple now planned to marry and hoped that "our life will be stabilized a little more."

Local police did not interfere in the incident but said they planned to take steps to avoid what regional Delegate Acilio Pereira da Cruz called "this farce," which he said could "become fashionable for other persons."

Local Police Chief Jouber Louceva did not permit the girl's parents to nail her hands and feet to the 9.5 foot cross and said they must lash her on with heavy rope.

California hitchhikers attacked and released

JUNO BEACH, Fla. [UPI] — A nationwide alert was issued yesterday for a man who picked up a hitch-hiking couple, shot the man on a Palm Beach County beach and fled to Pensacola before releasing the woman.

Police said the man, known only as "Royce" to his victims, was about 45, 5-feet-8, cleanshaven and wearing a plaid jacket.

Kathleen Wagner, 33, of Berkeley, Calif., and Gary Smith, 23, of Hayward, Calif., said they were hitchhiking Saturday when Royce picked them up north of Stuart and the three decided to go to the beach.

Smith said when Wagner borrowed the truck to go for coffee Saturday night, Royce began shooting at him.

He said he pretended he was unconscious and was dragged 30 feet into some bushes. When he heard Wagner return, he said he took a chance and opened his eyes to see Royce holding the pistol on her.

He said he again rolled his eyes and dropped his head to feign unconsciousness and heard no more shots.

"I didn't think I was going to live," he told a detective.

Smith, paralyzed from the waist down, was found on the beach Sunday. He was hospitalized in stable condition with two bullet wounds in his back, one in his hip, one in an ear lobe and a grazed wound on the head.

Wagner said the man promised her early in their trip north that he would release her.

She said he had no idea where he was headed, although he had Texas license plates on his silver pickup truck.

Mass typhoid victims return from Mexico

BOSTON [AP] — Eleven cases of typhoid fever have been diagnosed among tourists who returned to Massachusetts after a charter trip to Mexico, state health officials said yesterday.

Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, director of the Division of Communicable Diseases, said officials contacted 306 people yesterday who were on the trip.

He said they were asked to have blood tests to check for the disease.

The 11 cases, all in Massachusetts, were discovered after the travelers returned Jan. 30 from a week in Puerta Vallarta, Mexico.

"We know that the organism is sensitive to ampicillin and chloromycetin," Fiumara said. "Once the patients have been admitted to a hospital, they are placed on one of these two drugs, and the response is dramatic."

Fiumara said there is no chance of an outbreak of the disease here.

Typhoid is spread by contaminated food and water. Symptoms include headache, chills, fever, aches and a stomach rash.

All but 34 of the travelers are from Massachusetts, Fiumara said.

Man forgets 6 years; waits in hospital

DENVER [AP] — A few weeks ago, David Drolet woke up.

He was standing at a bus stop in suburban Aurora, waiting for he knew not what.

He still doesn't.

Drolet's life is a blank from June 30, 1972, when he was discharged from the Army at Fort Dix, N.J., to Jan. 23, 1978, when he found himself in Aurora.

"I can't remember a thing," he said recently. "It's like I didn't even exist for six years."

Drolet, now 24 and a patient at the Colorado Psychiatric Hospital here, says he is "scared and nervous" about his predicament.

Hospital personnel refuse to discuss the particulars of his case, except to confirm that they believe he is telling the truth.

Dr. Allan Brock Willett of the Department of Psychology at the University of Colorado Medical School said amnesia is so rare he has seen only a couple of cases in ten years in psychiatry. Willett, who is not directly involved in Drolet's case but is familiar with it added that six years "is a rather long time" to forget.

Willett defined amnesia "as a pathological loss of memory ... and it is close to 100 per cent in its effect."

When Drolet "kind of woke up" he boarded a bus and rode it into downtown Denver and back to Aurora.

He hoped the trip would job his memory, but nothing along the way looked familiar. All he seemed to know was that he didn't know anything. He went to a motel and took stock of his situation.

In his wallet, he found $30, some 6-year-old military identification that provided his name and pictures of "a pretty good looking, brown-haired girl." On his left hand was a gold wedding band.

"It didn't mean anything, so I took it off," he recalled. He spent two days watching television newscasts and riding buses, looking for clues. If they were there, he didn't recognize them.

"Politics at the Grassroots"
Skills and Strategies
A Three Credit Seminar
Starting Feb. 19th

Workshops will be facilitated by nationally known organizing figures such as Mike Ansara of Mass. Fair and Wade Ratke of ACORN.

Contact the SOP Rm. 426 SUB or 5-2415

COLLEGIAN PHOTO MEETING
FOR ALL STAFF PHOTOGRAPHERS
AND INTERESTED STUDENTS
NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED
FEBUARY 15, 1978 7:30
AT THE COLLEGIAN PHOTO DESK

1978 PHONOTHON is looking for recruiters and callers.
Contact
Mary Ellen or Steve
at 545-2317
or drop by Memorial Hall, room 8

The Elmwood Inn
RUSSELL RD HADLEY MA
DINNER SPECIALS

TUES.-THURS.
OLD FASHIONED BEEF POT PIE $4.25
BAKED HAM WITH RAISIN SAUCE $5.50
VEGETARIANS SPECIAL PLATTER $2.85

FRI. & SAT.
BROILED HALIBUT STEAKS $4.95

SUNDAY
SLICED BREAST OF CAPON $4.50

on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6813

Still Room on the Ground Floor for Computer Careers at Amdahl

Computer professionals are aware that today's most advanced large-system technology was developed by a company that, not too long ago, was virtually unknown. It was during late 1975—when Amdahl delivered its first multi-million-dollar 470V/6 system following a 5-year, $50,000,000 effort—that the company first attracted wide-spread industry attention. Now, Amdahl is the most talked about company in the industry: a compact group of highly talented high technologists producing the world's highest performing general purpose computers, the V/5, V/6 and V/7. Over a quarter billion dollars worth of Amdahl systems is now working worldwide in every industry sector using large-scale computers.

The original design team is still virtually intact and working on future systems. Although we are growing at an extremely rapid pace, we are committed to retaining the same creative environment that yielded the V/5, V/6 and V/7. We are still small by computer industry comparisons. We are still friendly. We still enjoy attacking tasks because we think it's fun. And we still reward personal efforts with personal recognition.

We think Amdahl is a great place to work. There's still room on the ground floor for you if you are about to receive a BS or advanced degree in electrical engineering or computer sciences, and consider yourself a cut above your classmates in competence, enthusiasm and potential.

Amdahl Corporation, 1250 East Arques Avenue, Sunnyvale, California 94086. We are an equal opportunity employer.

We are coming to campus to fill positions in hardware, firmware and hardware-related software. We are specifically interviewing for logic and firmware designers and hardware-related, software diagnostic engineers, design automation programmers, and control programmers for our mini-based console.

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWS:
Wednesday, February 15

amdahl

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

UNIV
18
63
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
SACHUSETTS
79
ETTS
19 80

RING DAYS:
TUES. and WED. FEB. 14-15
TIME: 10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
PLACE: UNIVERSITY STORE
$10.00 deposit

Canada asks Russia to pay

UNITED NATIONS [UPI] — Canada formally told the United Nations yesterday the crash of a Soviet nuclear-powered spy satellite on its territory was a "serious incident" and that it had contacted Moscow to discuss Soviet repayment of the cost of recovering the debris.

Canadian UN Ambassador William H. Barton indicated the cost might be considerable.

"The search by air and on the ground will be continued through the coming weeks and is expected to be extended after the spring thaw into the summer months," he said.

Barton opened debate at a three-week session of the 47-member UN outer space scientific and technical subcommittee. " ... We wish to inform this subcommittee of a recent serious incident" — the crash of the Cosmos 954 in Canada's Northwest Territories Jan. 24, he said.

He said Canada would continue discussing various aspects of the accident, "including liability and compensation aspects," directly with the Soviet Union.

A 1967 UN agreement on the peaceful uses of space specifies that "expenses incurred in fulfilling obligations to recover and return a space object or its component parts ... shall be borne by the launching authority.

The United States also assisted in recovering the wreckage, but a State Department spokesperson said it "has no intention" of asking Moscow to foot the bill.

Barton also suggested consideration might be given to advance notification of the launching of a nuclear-powered satellite — a proposal that Moscow, which almost never advertises its space shots, was certain to reject.

The three-ton Cosmos 954 plunged to a fiery death in the atmosphere and radioactive debris landed near Great Slave Lake and the Thelon River in the Northwest Territories, one of the most lightly populated regions of the world.

It carried a nuclear reactor with an estimated 100 pounds of enriched uranium 235 to provide electricity.

Barton said the problem of nuclear-powered satellites was serious. "Approximately 40 satellites of this kind have been placed in earth orbit or used for lunar or distant interplanetary exploration," he said.

"The Cosmos 954 satellite is not the first satellite carrying radioactive materials which has malfunctioned and unexpectedly returned to earth," Barton added.

Girl's murder trial delayed for info

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. [UPI] — The eight men and four women who must decide if Andrew John Carr bludgeoned his 3-year-old next door neighbor two years ago have spent almost as much time out of the courtroom as in.

Carr's Superior Court murder trial resumes today after a 12-day delay, prompted by a prosecution-requested recess and extended by the Blizzard of '78 which kept the Willimantic courthouse closed.

The trial has produced a number of controversies, and the jury has been excused on several occasions while Superior Court Judge Joseph F. Dannehy decided whether or not certain evidence should be admitted into court.

The jury was absent for two days while state police officers testified about their investigation the morning after North Windham volunteer firefighters discovered the nude body of Dawn Peterson, lying face down in a weed-covered abandoned cellar foundation on March 26, 1976. Her skull had been crushed with a large rock.

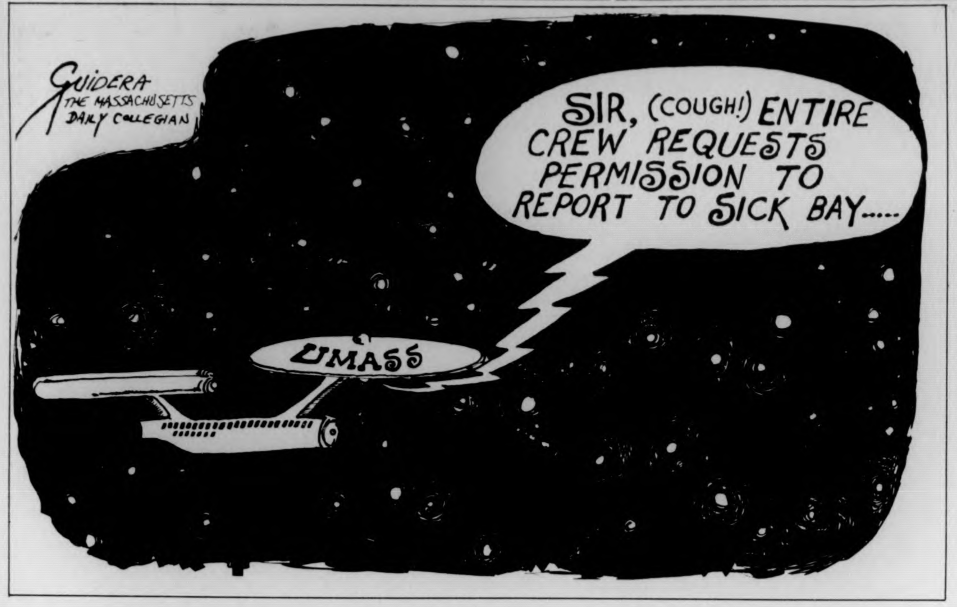
The testimony revealed the troopers awoke Carr about 3 p.m. and took him down to an old, unused police station where he was stripped, examined, questioned and photographed. Later, Carr, 15 at the time, was taken home where he was told to turn in his clothes and sign a statement.

During this time, Carr was never told he could have his parents present, speak to a lawyer, refuse to answer questions or decline to turn over his clothes.

Superior Court Judge Joseph F. Dannehy ruled the evidence — photographs, clothing, a statement, and head and pubic hairs — was obtained illegally by the Connecticut state police and could not be shown to the jury.

The prosecution, which planned to rely heavily on the physical evidence, is now faced with the task of piecing together a scenario for the jury that will place Carr in the cellar foundation when Peterson was killed. It will not be an easy task.

So far, the only evidence the jury has heard that could possibly implicate Carr is the testimony of a 16-year-old North Windham neighbor who said he saw Carr and Peterson together shortly before the state claims the girl was killed.



GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
SIR, (COUGH!) ENTIRE CREW REQUESTS PERMISSION TO REPORT TO SICK BAY.....
UMASS

For the love of love

frank denton

Today thousands of sentient sentiments will ravage this campus, leaving in their wake pathos, chubby cherubs, and cardioids enough to make any corpuscle swell with pride. In this burst of benign benevolence, however, our candor remains as thin as the Hallmark Greeting cards we send. We cannot discern the nature of our affections nor the objects of our desires.

"Love" does not appear to be motivated by any one circumstance. In the annals of literature we find love of wo-mankind; physical love; brotherly-sisterly love; love of God; love of money, self and power; unpremeditated love; pure and unadulterated love. The sincerity of our divided attentions is dubious.

Love of wo-mankind is a peculiar phenomenon, displayed among budding radicals, evangelical politicians, and exhibitionists at Grand Central Station. Those who espouse such a charitable attitude are often frustrated by our adamance against their advances. Perhaps this is because they would impose their visions, fantasies, and idiosyncracies upon our own ignoble pursuits. These social reformers and sympathetic administrators are engaged in an unfortunate conceit which extends beyond themselves.

Sexual love is another popular mode of expression. Although it is by nature, never unrequited, it is not untainted either. Passion is alluring. It is tangible proof that another individual is tending to one's needs. What is so terribly hollow is that s-he is meeting his-her own needs at one's own expense. Traces of symbiotic ambivalence pervade the dual nature of this exchange. Selfless is not the word.

Loves of money, self, and power have the common denominator of catering to what an individual perceives as his-her wants. Gratification can only be achieved in the perception of security in these objects. Few can cuddle up with a dollar or affably squeeze an embossed nameplate.

Brotherly-sisterly love was once considered the paragon of Victorian virtue. With the recent disclosures of paramount homosexuality, lesbianism, incest, and sodomy, this bastion of morality has been riddled with suspicion. Boy Scout troops are under surveillance and new aspersions are levelled at the Women's Temperance Union.

And who, in this catalogue of enamored attentions, is beyond reproach? No one, least of all that element which offers something for nothing. It is "unnatural," against the principles of economics, physics, and the American Association of Psychiatry. There must be interest, energy or gratification forthcoming. Horse manure.

Love is that quality which doesn't require a smooch on the schnozzle and a brownie point for every display of personal concern. It is not justified by internal satisfaction, external rewards, or peripheral exchange. Love is spelled G-I-V-E, and sometimes P-O-O-R, but most often F-R-E-E. When one expects nothing, there is nothing to lose.

Frank Denton is a Collegian Columnist.

Letters

Puzzlers puzzled

To the Editor:

We, and no doubtless others, are subjected daily to Cold Turkey without the crossword puzzle. Why do you deprive us of the one self educational aspect of the Collegian? What are we to do now at dinner time? Please give us back the crossword puzzle so we can keep in shape for the Sunday New York Times puzzle. Disquiparantly yours,

Susan Mahler and Amy Drinker

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Hysterical f

julie melrose

The "hysterical" female. She's the one who insists the shopkeeper replace damaged merchandise; the one who refuses to pay the mechanic for installing parts her car didn't need; the one in the office who won't make coffee.

She's the one who sues the doctor for sterilizing her without her permission; the one who files a grievance when she's discriminated against; the one who cries because the welfare office won't give her enough money to feed her kids.

She's the one who yells when a man grabs her breasts in the subway; the one who shuts a lover who's promised fidelity out of her house after he's been with someone else; the one who stabs the man who's trying to rape her.

> The names and dates hav > is the same: a woman wh
> "unfemine" and therefore

The "hysterical" female is the woman who reacts with appropriate anger in the face of an injustice. She's any woman who, loudly and clearly, fights back.

The word "hysterical" evolved from the Latin root "hyster ... ", meaning womb. Women showing symptoms of "hysteria" were believed to be suffering from disturbances of the womb. This fits right in with the general theory that women are ruled by their reproductive organs.

Historically, women suffering from "hysteria" were treated by such diverse methods as removal of the clitoris, ovaries, and uterus and being sent to the country for "fresh air." The modern counterparts to these are unnecessary hysterectomy and institutionalization.

A woman who engaged in behavior not considered appropriate for females (i.e. reading, masturbating, getting angry) was thought to be "not quite right" and totally unacceptable as a potential mate.

In Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew, Kate advises other women to set aside their anger: "A woman moved is like a fountain troubled; muddy, ill-seeming, thick, bereft of beauty. And while it is so, none so dry or thirsty will deign to sip or touch one drop of it."

The names and dates have changed but the threat is the same: a woman who openly shows anger is "unfeminine" and therefore undesirable to men. This has long served as a highly effective deterrent to progress in the area of women's rights. Isn't there any way a woman can stand up for herself and be loved

---

FOR OUR VALENTINES

Happy Valentines Day to Meme',.. Lucky, Sprinkles, Sparkles, and Stubby the No Neck...Always, Lester

My Lindo-Loo.. Be my Valentine-Doo..'Cause I Love Yoo.. Your Tony-Too

To: Richard L...You are the most important other person in my life, and I promise to love you forever...Pauline

Janice...You're a very special girl who put sparkle in my life. I love you and I miss you... Teddy

To: Kathy... I'm looking forward to spending the rest of my life with you and being for you..Love, Neil

Four Sixty Six. Three in One. Happy Second. Happy Sixteenth. You are Number One. Happy, you're my --Love

In luring oneness, Valentines endeavor. Lovely angel unaffected. Refuse endearment never..Billy Budd

To: Liz L....Happy Valentine's Day!!.. Love ya lots!! [HYB???]..Steve

Tom-Tim-Ray..Happy Valentine Day to three sweethearts!! Bla-Bla-Bla!! Sincerely-"Just Kidding"

Ellen,..'Hang in there'-you have a friend who cares-wherever you go...Mark

To: LN...Sixteen months have been the best. Forever is now. Happy Valentines Day..ILY. FO.

To: Mark S...Tho we're apart you've still got my heart..Love, Elsie

9 J.A.: We'd give you our hearts, but we only have cheeseburgers and cheeps.. Love, two wild and crazy American foxes

Dear Fran, Jill, Linda, Ellen, Keith, Rick, Steve, Chris, and Vince. Happy Valentines Day!

Joel - I'll love you always- Happy Valentines Day - Love Joan

To: Arlene... Happy Valentine Day. I love you very much...Love, Rowjah

Stripe - All my love forever and always to the light of my life... 1-4-3 Yellow

To: 92 Riverglade,.. If you only knew how much I think of you, youd never move away and we could forever play together.. Love, Albert

To the mad biochemist: You're my N.B. Be my Valentine too! To more days of picking on you. Your Pal.

Lar, May Cupid paint your sneakers red. I love you in big ways...and I'll love you always, Be mine.

To: My My Man Whose Rose was red; eyes are blue I lost my keys; but ecstatic I found you. Coupon Giver.

Pooh-Bear:As you can see my poetry rots but I send you love- forever lots and lots!-Waldo.

To The Rare and Wonderful Pamelia Bird: It's been 29 months since you picked me up! Happy V-Day. Joe.

Ron, This Valentines wish is from Amherst to Israel. I miss you desperately! Lots of love, Deb.

Bruce, I'm so glad you're here. All my love, Deb.

Love, like lost underground rivers will soon replenish our rancid, polluted waterways! J.

Steve, You're my cutie always. I treasure that, hold it close to my heart- like you! Love always, Sue.

To Our Mothers: Joy, Gail, Barb G., and Barb R. Happy Valentine's Day. Love your daughters: Arlene, Judy, Cindy, and Karen.

To the Sisters of SDT Happy Valentine's Day. Love, All Your Pledges.

To: BMR: Je t'aime beaucoup.Remember-we have a date! Your Bunny Always.

To my Jewel: STPEC may be all theory, but you are my reality. -Bob.

To: Leslie...I can't remember how it all began, but I hope it never ends. Happy Valentine Day...Love Dave

Snookie,..What can I say to the best 'cept I'll Love you forever as I do now - Love Dough Boy

To: Lauren A... We have just passed our luckly seventh. Lets never let it stop! Happy Valentine Day..Love Stephen

RWY.. I value your friendship more and more each day. Good luck at N.E... With love, RCR

CAW...You're the best of everything all in one. I love you.. B

To the one and only Pat. You can blow my bubbles anytime..Robert

Dear Nettie,.. Happy Valentine's Day! Come on over and help me loosen my nuts!.. Love, your Liquid Wrench

To Scribby,.. If the skunks don't get you, the fish will.. Kibby

To: Scott.. Nobody wishes you a fantastic Valentine's Day - what's more, noone loves you!.. Mary [N.N.]

To: The Rat, Psychiatrist, Friend, Lover... No calculated poetry - Just special thoughts and All My Love. Happy Valentine's Day...L

Gush...Sniff my muff!...Betty

To: Lisa F... As our lips touch tender and sweet, hope your mine to always keep. Be my Valentine...Mark

To: Jose F...Take me to that warm place where the Wild Bunnies breed. Happy Valentine's Day from your love...Susan

To Wee and Wiz...We want to wish wou a wappy Walentine. Wots of Wuv. Wours Truwy, Make and Mike

Carol and Sue...We couldn't forget you. It's a buck and a half just for a laugh, Happy Valentine...Mikes

Kevin, Nubs, Billy & Mike Happy V.D... Love, C&C

Kell..Wish you were here. May a cupid tickle your fancy in 625C.C. Happy V.D. Kisses...Cathy & Carol

Cal.. Will you please be my Valentine? Kisses from a member of the crazy mentals..Cathode

To: Cashin Suites 502 and 503..Wuve and Kwisses and a gweat Vawentine's Day.. Fwom, Sweet 504

Mary Lyon Lady-Its been a year since our first, I hope there is no LAST. Lots of love 313.

Noel- Roses are red/Violets are blue/High fruchose corn syrup is seeet/But not so sweet as you. Donna.

To Our Sisters at Alpha Chi Omega: Happy V.D. Love forever, your sisters in the party Haven.

Sandra J.- Have a happy Saint Valentine's Day. I love you. Dave.

To : N.A.- Cupid's hit me with loaded arrows. I hope he gets you too. Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Skunk Breath.

Richard Oscar - So tell me, how's life in the army? That's good! Always remember: Never go straight, go forward. Sue.

Ladies-Man or Boy? Either way, Happy Twentieth Birthday! Maybe I'll even buy you a beer at the Pub. Spacsshot.

Babyface, Happy Valentines Day. YATO forever and more. I'm thinking of you. I love you, My Sunshine.

To Sue B. - Excuse me, Ma'am, but we miss you. Come visit again soon. Happy Valentines Day. Slim and Tex.

To my favorite person in the whole wide world, My Ooga Booga Baby, I Love you! Happy Valentines Day. Donna.

To L.L.L. - Not to be redundant again but "I Love You." Will go looking for bliffs on our Katamaran. B.F.F.

To Jill, Jill, Gail and Amanda,.. I've had the 'Hots' for you 4 for 4 years.. A Secret Valentine

To: DJA...I just want you to know that I will love you forever...Lots of Love, TREB

David.. Happy Valentine's Day. I love you. There are only 103 days left. I can't wait... All my love, Linda

Michele:..Happy Birthday a day late. Thanks for everything.. Love, Linda & David

To Voni:.. Thanks for the best 361 days of my life.. Love you forever, John

To D.D.,.. Happy Valentine's Day! We're both madly in love with you.. G&R

To Ellen,.. Happy Valentine's Day! Hope it's a great one.. Love, Gus

Twan-.. You, who lets me see, feel, do and be - you, who I love eternally. I am forever grateful..-Linda

Boo Bear...'I said I love you that's forever - I love you just the way you are'...S.B.

Diane - - Thanks for your thoughts, music, energy, wit... and time. [Hope I get more of it!] Heretigically yours...Love, Ron

To KKM...Que cette annee nous apporte bonheur pour toujours.. Love, MJW

Roses are red, violets are blue, Deb you're cute, that's why I love you... The alter boy

Happy Valentine's Day to the girl from the nut house - only fooling!..Joe

To: Janet 4 North Grayson,..Happy Valentines Day from #1!..Love, Bill

To: My Sigma Sisters.. Thanks for all the L.G.S. Happy Valentine's Day from far away.. Love, Deb

To: Pete, Chip, Greg, Harry - Today would be a lovely day to have that dinner you promised..Love, Suite 504

Cliff:..Wish you were here...Love, Liz, Lee, Carol, Sue

To my favorite Nurse, Happy V-Day...Love, Big D

Suggar Daddy: Roses are red, violets are blue, here is a kiss, especially for you! X... With love, Sugar Mama

To the Captain:.. I love you. Thanks for being you and bringing me so much happiness. You are excellent.. Love, The First Mate

Room 801-C.L... Happy Valentine's Day sweets!.. Mike

Joan,.. Happy Valentine's Day from all your pals at St. Michael's College...Lin, Andria, Lin (your sister in law)

To Joe,..You are my Valentine today and every day and I wanted the world to know it! ..-Me

Wizard:.. Let's have a party tonight. Bring some wine and cheese, and I'll bring the buns. I Love You!!! Tushy

Shirley,..Remember that all the "It was bad to, 'mmmm but I had to's" were worth it.. Love, Laverne

To RND Jr.,..When I tell you forever, that's exactly what I mean.. I love you, LRS

To Bunches.. We've had good times, we've had bad times, but the best are yet to come.. Love, Snuggles

With love on Valentines Day and always for Vin, "Biggest Brother", Paul Dale, Mark, Mike, Gail and Anne..1437&4-E

R.C.:.. 'Words can mean that I want to make you into a friend and silence can mean that I accept your already being one'!..C.J.S.

To: The Dead End Kid (E.B.E.S.)..I love Carter, Backgammon, The Pub, Bob Seiger, and YOU!..Love, Your Old Lady

Princess Enniroc,.. The kingdom has been yours for 2 long years. I am forever grateful for your gracious company!.. Love, King NAD

Coombs, the windowsill is for the birds, next time go down the hall. Happy Valentine's Day..4W

Chip,..You're the greatest! Happy Valentine's Day...Love Always, 'Bugs'

Dear Cutie Pie -.. Love is having you for a Valentine 365 days a year.. Love and Kisses, Corinne

Jammit,.. If VD holds true my tongue comes unglued by a crusty smut like you!.. Buster Billy

Cosmic Wimpout sends love and kisses to: Shu, Roseman Terry, Kelly, Deano, Magicman Threcky, Heidi, Andrea, Laura and everyone else!

To: Jeanne S... Your lips like honey, your kisses like wine, you make life sunny, Be My Valentine.. Love, John

To: Eleventh Floor Coolidge.. Just wanted to take this special day to say thanks. You are the best... Love, Kath

To: Anne, gailypoo, 'E'... 'I love you all! Ooooooh!! Happy Valentine's Day! Sit!!!.. Vin

'S Michael.. Happy Anniversary and Happy Valentine's Day. Four months are up - I'm offering free mooskkisses with every renewal..Love, Moosk

To Linda,.. Candy and flowers this message is not. Love is what it is all about!.. Always Brian

Michele:.. From Amherst to Miami, you're the one and only. Happy Valentines Day... Love, Tony

To all the 3rd floor and basement 'Brettites' I love so much! Please send NO candy - Eltona!

Mary B... To my Valentine on Valentine's Day.. Love, Ed

To Phil,.. Happy Valentine's Day! Share a bottle of cold duck?!?.. Love, Joan

Linda - You better stick to me just like glue, 'cause my heat's goin' Boom, Boom, Boom. I love you- Psycho Killer

Pete and Repete,.. Happy Valentine's Day, you crazy, swinging guys! You are just OUT TO LUNCH!!!.. Love, Laverne and Shirley

The "D".. Happy Valentine's from your sister who loves you totally, unconditionally, forever, and just the way you are..Linda

Italian Primate - Want to discover your animal self? Please report to Lab 407 for operant conditioning - 3 credits.. Jane Goodall

Ken - Just one more year (33179) and then forever, loving you always! Happy Valentine's Day!.. Love, Me

To Gordon in Oregon - Happy Valentines Day! Keep Dancing!.. Love, Christie

Kevin and Steve - Happy Valentines Day - Thanks for some of the best (and worst) memories of my life... Love, Christie

To: Lauri.. Roses are Red; Violets are Blue. This is a Valentine's Day Message Especially for you...Perry

Head:.. If his head is as big as your head, you'll have one hell of a marriage!!!

Juny..Best of luck. We'll miss you... Love and Kisses, 84 & 85

Gush,.. Thanks for the memories!.. Theta Chi

Happy Valentines Day GNGR: Dopey, Shortstuff, Di, Shortstop, Deni, Mom, Kell, Suzi Q, Casey, Michelle, Connie, Gigi, Barb, Kathy, Ziggy. FAWFGK

Judy,.. Make but my name thy love, and love that still, and then thou lovest me for my name is Will

J.A.G.B...With all my love... Happy Valentine's Day W-B III

Juneso and Carol, Crig, Melanie, Kook, Jules, Wanice, Jane, Reilly, Melanson, Campo, Malone, Stachora, Put-Happy Valentine's Day! Love, S.

To the gorgeous women at Rolling Green-Happy Valentines Day. P.S. Stay away from Tyson.

To a super B-Ball Team: Your Loyalest fans wish you a great day and a great year. Keep it up.

... A UNIQUE SHOPPING EXPERIENCE ... quality merchandise at reasonable prices
Wicker Items
Bulletin Boards
Gifts for everyone
allen's alley...
Wall Decor
Plant Hangers
MOBILES AND WIND CHIMES 30% OFF
Mt. Farms Mall
Rte. 9, Hadley

Emporium India
EASY LIVING CLOTHES
Happy Valentine's Day
Amherst Carriage Shops

Go Garber
NO HIDDEN CHARGES!
ALL INCLUSIVE PRICES!
INCLUDES — the 15% tax & service charge as low as BERMUDA $275
FT. LAUDERDALE $310
DAYTONA BUS $186 AIR $315
Call your Campus Representatives for further information.
Ask for Bob or Gordon at 549-0235.

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢
TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

For Our Valentine's

Happy Valentine's Day.. Jack Murphy alias "Chuck Bronson". Love, D.S., K.S., & W.S.

Happy Valentine's Day Ralph in 1615 JFK. We love you!.. The girls on 16 Coolidge

Happy Valentine's Day to Tim Murphy, the "swinging bachelor" in J.F.K. 1602. Love Debby, Karen and Wendy

Tommy.. I'll be yours til our breaths grow old... Je t' aime. Margaret

To Z: I know we can work things out. Better days are ahead. Your Affectionate and Loving, C. M.

To Boo: thank you for all you've given me. I love you. Happy Valentine's Day. Your Boo

To: Jeanna Dinklette... Paddington has nothing on me, soon I will see you with no pants on at all.

To Joleen: I really like your face. Let's take a shower. Love, Kevin

To: Leah M.: I hope this will be a Valentines Day you never forget. I love you! Matthew J.

To the boy next door Happy Valentines Day.. Love, Your Princesss

Dear Marianne: Rutland to Albany to who knows where, you're still my one and only. Happy Valentine Day. Love, Billy

Beast! Count 2 (with modification) on Valentines Day and always. I love your level of understanding. Mittens

To the wild the wild, crazy continental guy, may the conehead of love leave you an erotic fabuloid. Love, Your Eveready Sparkplugs.

Ann, Why are you so easy to like so much in so short a time? Happy Valentines Day. Love, Bob

To Iggy's Dad... I.ll love you to infinity and forever and ever. Love, Bessie

To: M.C.C....I'd even debit a credit for you! Will you be my valentine? Much love, D.G.F.

To: Wittie Bear...Let's trade tails on Valentine's Day!.. All my love, Mama Bear

To: Betsy.. This is our third Valentine's Day together.. They keep getting better every year. All my love, Connie

To you SLF. The most wonderful valentine in the world. I love you very much. GLG

To: Nancy K.... Happy Valentine's Day, Dear. You always make my heart skip a beat. Your lifetime skiing partner, Paul

Aphrodite, We went the long way, maybe the wrong way, I'll never know. At least we made the try..Adonis

Aphrodite: If love was for what I sought' then you have given me more than I ever knew existed. Adonis

To: Teddy ... You L. U. M. L. and make every day a Valentine Day ... Love, Brenda

Mark Kaitz and Ross Reilly eager for Thursday! Y.S.V.

When you cross a pig with a centipede you get bacon and legs ... Edgar J.

To my marvelous Marie... Teamo con todo mi corazon... Sugar Bear

To Jeanne the P.... Thanks for coming out here. Happy Valentine's Day!...Love always, Donald P.

Hey Runi Duni, P.B., C.E., and all that jazz-Happy Valentine's Day. I love you lots and lots...Love, Andy

To the UMass Silks...Wishing you the happiest of hearts and hottest of romances this semester!... Melody

Here's to the ladies at 57...You just know when they leave us, their going to heaven, but while they're still here they bring us such cheer we really do dig those 4 women... 56

When you cross a pig with suntan lotion you get oinkment

To Phil...Baby rock star and stud Love Yu live. Edgar

To: Runna...Happy Valentine's Day don't let the "crowd" get you down!... N. and M.

To: Laura ... Rutgers isn't the same without you. Happy Valentine's Day.... Gerry

Marsi and Jody... We may not be Tom and Jim but life's a bitch! Happy Valentine's Day. From 346

Sparky,... You have kisses sweeter than wine. I love you so much. Do ya believe me?

Happy Valentine's Day to my favorite Italian. How about that ice cream? Next week?

Happy Valentine's Day to II C Brandywine and friends at 2, 4, and 6 Webster...Love, Cathy and Sue

Dear Beanie... I love you! Happy Valentine's Day! Love, Weesie

Debra Melanson,... You light up my life! Can't wait to be with you again!..Love, K.H.S.

To: T. Mosca: My arrow couldn't pierce your heart. Have a Happy Valentine's Day.Laurie

Mr. P! We have only 15 weeks left to "Get It On" before we part. Let's set some records!! Love always, Morsecode.

Eric,..You are my true love and special Valentine today and always..With all my love, Julie Hey you old buzzard. I like you....still, Have a good semester!

To: Moni..Happy Valentine Day. I love you..Tim

Bruce,.. Sure miss those raindrops.... !

Rick,..Thanks for all the wivvers. If you are my Valentine I'll give you more... Wuv, Your Chick

Cosmic Wimpout Players: Cosmic Wimpout sends love and thanks to everyone. Look for information concerning the 3rd Annual World Tournament. Cosmic Wimpout

To My Main Man,.. You light up my life. Thanks for the good times, may they never end. Love, Susan

To Kenny,.. Thank you for all the good times and here's to many more. Happy Valentines Day... Love, Jeanette

Hardy: May we spend our lifetime together laughing, loving and growing. All my love, Laurel

To Donna... You're a fantastic runner. These past years have been great. Looking forward to the next... Love, Mike

To Debbie G.... Will you be my steady Valentine!.. Y.G.5.T.T.K.. Love, Mike A.

Attention President of S&M Distributors. Please send two cases of cheese popcorn immediately. I have the noxema. Love, Furry Pits

To: KAR.. Your roses are dead, Your jade plant is too. Nothing is forever, 'cept my love for you..Jay

To: Helena Marie... A song: I love you just the way you are... Frederick

To my Hon,.. The fabulous "C", Happy V.D.! All my love and more,... Ted... Moi

To my Bear... You're everything to me. Thank you for the best two years, I'll love you forever... Your Bear

Michael,.. I love now and forever!!!.. Kathy

10th Floor High Rent Distick.... Come check out our property value on Fri., Feb. 24 - 9th Floor Counter-parts

To: D. 'Until Day is Night and Night Becomes the Day'.. Love always, Doctor

Cindy: Thanks for the best of times & company. Have a nice basketball season.... From a good friend

Linda: Though we have gone thru rough times, things are still O.K. Only the best yet to come - Love, Wayne

To all the wonderful girls on the 11th floor of Coolidge.. Happy Valentine's Day

To Gerald Edmund-Espero que tengas un buen dia de novios!! Contodo mi amor. Maria de Puffton.

ALL our Thoreau friends: We don,t have "AMNESIIA" when it comes to you. Happy Valentine's Day!.. Love Peggy and Patty

421 Thatcher, Whenever I'm near you my heart melts like snow. Pardon me you're not supposed to know. Happy Valentine's Day

Cosmic Wimpout Players: May your sun come up shining on Valentine's Day! See you April 21 at the 3rd Annual Tournament! Off the Wall Enterprises

To Bubbles ..Love ya babes.. Tony V. Disco King

To Bob Goldsmith: Valentine's Day is for remembering Special friends. I'm thinking of you today, Cutie... Love, Marianne

Bobby, I'm still glad I didn't walk Kell back. Happy Valentine's Day..XO Cathy

Maggie: You know, it's hard to tell when you're in the spell if it's wrong or if it's real, but you're bound to lose if you let the blues get you scared to feel. I love you, Mags. Roger Happy Valentine's Day to Lori, Shirley, Laurie, Michelle, Kathy, Deb, Audrie, Cindy, Lisa, Julie, Wendy, and Sue, from guys.

To: Paulette Happy Valentine's Day, Love. Jim.

Bruce: If you won't be my Valentine, I'll d something drastic-like eat 2 lbs. of peanut M&M's. Love you, Bonnie.

To 1302 Washington: Wouldn't want to break a tradition! Happy Valentine's Day! 610

To the 13th floor: Happy Valentine's Day to a sweet bunch of guys. Love, Bonnie.

Bruce: It takes both rain and sunshine to make a rainbow. Happy nine months. Love, Bonnie.

To: Sharyn: Open you, tender flower/Your sweet scent and velvet wings/Brings pleasure to my sensors. Tom.

I love you Rob Carlin and that's forever, this I promise from my heart! Happy Valentine's Day Honey! Love, Jean.

This space is reserved for one "special person" and only the Veets knows who that is. EQ loves you.

To the real Susie Creamcheese: This one is for you-have a Happy Valentine's Day Love, Jefflox.

Trisha, We're still going strong-making up words to songs that we know will someday be. Keep on loving. Paul.

Jake, We love you because you're a dog. But please, no more shitting at our door. -The guys in 82.

To: Chuck.. You'll always be very special to me especially within my heart. Happy Valentine's Day!.. Love, Sue

Lisa L. in Wisconsin:...Happy Valentine's Day, Weirdo! Florida, here we come....Cindy

To: the Trumpet and the Diamond Girl...May Cupid strike one as he already has the other! [someday!]...95-C

To a Special Bananahead...Roses are red, violets are blue, better look out, cause I'm still after you

To Janice...The girl who took over my room and has now taken over my thoughts. Happy Valentine's Day...Mark

Mags, Daytona, Fla. in 32 days! Goodbye snow, Hello rays! Have a Happy Valentines Day but from the candy stay away!....Beech

To. Debbie...I'll always be there beautiful, because I love you, Happy Valentine Day....Greg

Dear Michael... I'm missing you on Valentine's Day. 'Jolly Old' isn't the same without you. With you love, ...Buns

To T'La:...Missing you my best friend

Honeybuns...Come to my chamber tonight and I'll make you toasty -warm. This is no secret admirer.

To Mommy Bear:...We want us....Little Bear

[illegible] my love Bon-Bon..On this Valentine's Day no. 2. We have a long way to go together....Love, Ken

Nut-Nut...Happy 5th, 11 months and counting!!! I love you.

Wendy:...Words can never describe what we've shared or express how I feel. Bob

Happy Valentine's Day...Timothy, Mike, [illegible], Brian, Nini and my friends on the [illegible]... Love, Rose

Dear Phil, Your guitar playing really sends [illegible]... Love, Ralph

Dear Jeff, ... Your beard always tickled. I'm glad you cut it off, you devil... Love, Phil

Rick L. 14FIJa...Knock, knock, this will only take a minute! Happy Valentine's Day....The Wanderers

Peter F. 14FI JA...To a sweetheart, Happy Valentines's Day. Met you behind the Morrill stacks. No Talking! Concentrate!...The "Uninhibited"

Sara: Roses are red, violets are blue, Happy Valentine's Day from Ralph and Plastic Hair too

To: Lynne...Happy Valentine's Day, honey. I love and miss you more than I can say....Always, Tim

Paul W. Brown.. Happy Valentine's Day. A million dollars wouldn't change the way we feel!

To Capozzi...You've driven me crazy for 4 months now. Keep up the good work....Love, Wen

To the Triple People...Thanks again for the birthday party. Happy V-D to you all....Love, T.H. no. 1

To Kev...I'm HAPPY you're here this year. Happy Valentine's Day!...I love you, P.

To: Ken, Zog Field...Happy V.D. you ski bum!...your roomie

To the Boys of 408 Webster:...Pay your phone bill so we can Dial-A-Date. ...Love, Slice and Bake

To:Terri L. Anderson...You are the greatest. Happy Valentine Day. ...Love always, Bruce A. Burnett

To: Bruce C. ... "Remember, Africa came first." Happy V.D. ...El

To Sheryl...My pretty brown eyed "pal" who thinks I let her get away with too much ...Your greatest love, Mark

To Athena ... Did Cupid miss Happy Valentine Day... Van

To the Beautiful Girl in Room 402, very few are as sweet as you. Happy Valentine's Ddy. ...Love, Steve

Jeff in 711 you're the sweetest next door neighbor anyone could ask for. Will you be my Valentine? Love, 709.

To Donna D., Judith Carol, Ria, Carol Joan, Rhodesia, and sister Dot-Happy Valentine's Day my special friends! Love-Mary D.

To Larry H.-Happy Birthday- I remembered! Are you still calypygious? Happy Valentine's Day. Love-Mary D.

John, you fill in the missing colors in my paint-by -number dreams. I love you. Eileen.

Russ, ...You're the best thing I've got....Be my valentine, Love, Patty

Monsieur B.H....Je pense que vous etes un tres beaux homme et je t'aime beaucoup. ...Happy Valentine's Day, with love

...To my sister...When everything is beautiful, or when all else fails, there's always one shining hope-and that's love....Happy Valentine's Day,I love you

To: Wanda...Happy Valentine's Day! You're tough to figure out, but give me a chance!...Your private Doctor

To: George...Have a Happy Valentine Day....Love, Anne

To Tushy Mama from the main man. Happy Valentine Day....R & R

Dearest B.G....I musta got lost. Glad you found me....Love, Pooh Bear

Babes,..Made it thru the Turnpike - we can make it thru anything! Happy Valentine's Day! Much love, Baggy Eyes

To Kevin Barry...Happy Valentine's Day-Hope to hear from you soon...Love, Angela and friends

Happy Valentine's Day to all the sisters and pledges of Sigma Delta Tau...Karin and Barbara

To Phil Croasdale...Happy Valentine's Day-classes just aren't the same without you!...K.

Nancy...I can't stand it anymore. I'm just dying to get you in BED. Love and Kisses,...Guess Who

To: Donna H....Our love and what's come along with it has been really special. Let's keep it going...Love, Steve

To RPS:...Come to my room to practice the opposite of C.P.R. Just don't go beep.... Love, Lorita

To: La Machine...Every day is Valentine's Day, when I'm with you...Love , 2C

J.S....I guess you've got to take my word for it. I love you. Have a happy...DAK

To: Moo!...Surprise and happy Valentine's Day sweetheart...Love, Joe D.

To: Robert Stowe Williamson, Born on Feb. 10, 1978. Weight 8 lbs. Happy first Valentine's Day!... From Maureen

To: The bus driver with the cat hat-have a super wonderful fun and fantastiuc Valentine's Day!...MSK

Go mo donn-gruaig gra . Go mbeirimid eeo ar an am seo aris. Sona breithla leon-mor Gra, An chaora

Happy Days to all my friends ...With love, Josh

Farrah...Love, love, me do, you know I love you, I'll always be true, so please, love me too....Gordon

Hey Cutie...Bitting is allowed on Valentine's Day because you're something special!

Rick.....Happy Valentine's Day to a REAL person! Your presence is always welcome....Gibby

Cathy... Upon awakening to your beauty, my fears and doubts were cast aside. All that remained was my devotion...Gavin

Shelley,..If from no one else, then from me,Happy Valentine Day... Fun I

To Lavek...Thanks for sharing these past four years with me. ...Love you always, Wen

To Suzett and Dibolski...Thought you weren't gonna get a Valentine did you? Come on-not with 'ol Wendell around! Happy V-D Day!

To: Nancila.. Have a Happy Day!..Love, Lorinca and Witch

To: Doll and S.... Happy Valentine's Day! Have a nice day..Love, Faggot

We wish a Happy Hearts Day to our friends Chet P. and Glen M. from Band P.

Bobbi, two years down-a life to go. We all love ya Kid. Love..Ed, Sandy, Salvester

Dear Lisa... You will always be my only Valentine...Happy Valentine's Day! All my love,..Rich

To: Jim Gilbert....How deep in love can one fall? I'm already in over my head....Yours forever, Linda

To my Bazo Face:..Happy Valentine Day, you sexy thing you!. Love, Peetun

Ever notice how "Laurie" and "love" both begin with the letter "L"? Happy Valentines Day, Woodsie (cp)

To Dad Shneaper and the 9th. Happy Valentines Day. Who loves ya!! The Kids

Rich...Happy 24th from your roommate.

Happy Valentine's Day to Margaret who is as cute as a bug's ear.

Happy Valentine's Day to my best friend and favorite Valentine ever. I love you Mark.... Love and Kisses, Pam

B.O.M.L.... I love you just the way you are!..Happy Valentine's Day. Love Bun

To: Sue B., Lynn and Joan... You're what friends are for. Thanks, Happy Valentine's Day.. With Love, Kris

To: Lisa, ..Thank you for what we've had. I hope we get it again.... Steve

Dear JQA 11th... Roses are Red, Violets are Blue, I think you're swell and so does Su...With love. B. X.

To: L.D.L... "Two years ago today we went for pizza, glad we never made it!"... Happy V.D., Anniversary... Love, Lor (L.L.G.)

Dear TJ, Have a Happy Valentine's Day. Hope you're full of love. Love, Hoofas.

Puppy-It is not at all "Hahd" to say I love you. Happy Valentine's Day. Always, Paws.

To the gorgeous women in 203, 610 and 815. Here's to another semester of fun and thrills in GWL. 709.

Robert, 32 Cance dungeon, friendships like ours are made in heaven! Carl thanx for a special friend. Love, Susan.

MAIN ST CENTER
A very special Event at the
MAIN ST. CENTER
northampton
february 20 · 12:30
entertainment
mime dancers fashion and more
a FASHION SHOW and BEARDSLEY'S catered LUNCHEON

Valentines Day
20% OFF any Red Fabrics & Yarns
...through Saturday Feb. 18
New Spring Fabric arriving daily!
EJ EARTHWARES®
103 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST (413) 256-8810

6 nights from $243
bermuda
Includes Saturday flights
March 4-April 15 from Hartford, Boston & NYC
adventura travel
233 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002
(413) 253-3206

THE PILLOW STORE
Pillow Furniture
Happy Valentine's Day
THE PILLOW STORE
255 TRIANGLE ST.
Amherst, Ma. 584-4853

FOR OUR VALENTINES

To My Rhetoric Boy Runner...I hope this isn't my last Valentine to you. ...Love, The Queen of Nutcrackers

To Mark Edward Charles...You and Barry are my Valentines! The afghan is done! Happy 381st!...Love, Nance

Hey Eddie: Where ever I go I see black combs all over the ground! Love ya, O.T.F.

To My Crazy Nut Luana...I love you dearly, dear. Happy Valentine's Day...Kiss-Kiss, Steve.

To Stephen O;Connell:...Thank you for my bricks...My bookshelves thank you for my bricks! You're a cutie! ...Love, Nancy

To the Crazy, but Beautiful Girls...Janice and Hobbit, Happy Valentine's Day. We love you...Steve and Curtis

To P.R.F.: Happy Valentines Day! Is the offer for your dorm to adopt mine still open?...E.P.

To the Sisters of Coolidge , Crampton, Emerson, Melville, JQA and the rest of UMass...Happy Valentine's Day...Mackimmie Brothers

To Presious:...A dream comes true and I'm choosing you!...L.T.

RVB:...I love you. Happy Valentine's Day!...LFB

LJB...Happy Valentine's Day. I love you and your husband loves you.

Kimberly...You're the cutest, the sweetest, the greatest, and all mine until HE finds out. Be mine forever.

To: Lori C....Have a Happy Valentine's Day. [pillow], beeeeep-Attention all.....Te'-Quiero...Love always, Randy S.

Grant, Rian, Dale, ...Be sure you tell the florist it's 149F. Happy Valentine's Dau. You maaroons!...Love, Lisa, Mary, Kiki

Dean, I wish you'd get rid of HER and stay only with me. I'd just love to have you all to myself. Happy Valentine's Day

To the Greek Cohen,...Happy Valentine's Day but more importantly thanks for the best 5! tomorrow...Love, me

To: Audrey...Happy Valentine's Day! I hope there are many more of them for both of us. ...Love, Ron

To Juicy-Lucy...If I told you youhad a nice body would you hold it againat me?...Happy Valentine's, Ward

Hey Marilyn!, Hey Judy!...Happy Valentine's Day...With love, Wisconsin Jim alias Vielie Brain

To Mickey Menna: ...Forget all the rest cause I am the best. On Valentine's Day let's go all the way.... Love, me

To Suzy-Cue-Ball,...I still love you in spite of your pool game. Happy Valentine's Day. ...Love, Ward

Hey Babe,...Happy Valentine's Day, ...

Hey Babe,...Happy Valentine's Day...I love you I 4 3...S-

To my babe,... It's great to be back together. Let's keep it this way. I love you...Ookie

To: The boys on 3 Cool, ...Have a Happy V day!...Love, Zones

To Sasha...My one and only, forever and ever. A dinner, room and me. Happy Valentine Day...Comrade

S...Thanks for the best 463 days ever. Happy Valentine's Day ...Love you, me

Faggot...Happy Valentine's Day! ...Love, Doll P.S. Hello to Alvin!

To JRS ...Cheers to another 14th. Have a happy day, and will you be my valentine? ...I Love you, KLS

To: Mike and Chuck...Happy V.D. and lots of love from the Flop house at SDT. ...Love, AL-MM

To: Laurie...Would you be my BALENTINE? I'll be yours, O.K.? Member I love you. ...Geerie

Sweety-you're my sunshine, stars, and crisp cool breeze. You're all I want and all I need! Love You!...P.F.

Woodsy, The days spent with you were an orgasmic experience and the future promises even more beautiful times ahead...Pandora

To: UMass Women...Two crazy swingin' bachelors want to have close encounters with you. Happy V.D....Horge and Yortuk

Sunshine, ...Lets be forever...Scott

To the Men of Pi Kappa Alpha:...Happy Valentin's Day!!...Women of Coolidge Tower...Rush the Pikes

The pikes have what it takes! Happy Valentines Day to all University women. Rush the pikes...The men of Pi Kappa Alpha Cindy...What would I do without you-I love you-Happy Valentine's Day...D.C.

To the Men in Pi Kappa Alpha,...Thanks for the great party and Happy Valentine's Day!!...Love, Mary Lyons Dorm

We love you, pikes, when's the next party?...The of Emerson Dorm...Rush the pikes!!

To: Dupe...Want to go look for helicopters?...Your Carpenters Dream

To: 3rd floor Dwight,...Happy Valentine's Day, We love you. Hugs and Kisses...Sue, Stacey, Gina and Carol

Hon, 1 4 3 ...Babe

Hey Buddie JER-Happy Valentine's Day-Will you still love me tomorrow-our 2nd V.D. together...Happy Anniversary, Love, KAL

MOE, Glad to see us back together in our ComLit class of Schmegger. So, Moe, and T.J. too Happy Valentine's Day from me and Perdu

Linda, Happy Hearts Day-You have mine. See you in a week.All my love...Gus.

Cher this semester you will swim so that you will be come slim. M & M's are out to day but hav e a Happy Valentine's Daay! ...Beechie

Mary Hag...You light up the Pub with your smiling Irish eyes. Hope they keep smiling on my Molsen Golds

Pedu, Happy 4th with love and kisses. Looking forward to becoming your Mrs.! Be my valentine?...Love, Beechie

Ham, peanut butter, Jelly, chocolate too all these things you can do. So have a Happy Valentine's Day but keep MH and SW away! Beech

To: Sue and Sharon Ist floor Crampton...Try 3rd Kennedy for a Happy Valentine's Day.

Rob: ...Thinking of the good old Valhalla days. To a very special person. Thinking of you always....Love always, Fern

To Larru and Garu:...Yo! Have a Happy Valentine's Day! Thanks for being my special friends....Love always, Fern

Andy...You are so very special to me-I really hope that our relationship will be everlasting. Me too! ..Stacey

Mirna,...Happy Valentines to the most promising writer since Jacqueline Susann...Love, Mustang to Third Floor of Kennedy:...Wishing you the Best partying semester ever. Happy Valentine's Day. ...Love, Me and You

Dear Ralph,...You're the best I've ever had....Love, Jeff

Rhonda,...Happy Valentine's to the Ginger Rogers of Poor Richards. Someday we'll get it right....Love, Fred Astaire

Randi,...Happy Valentine's Day to mon petit homemaker. I hope you'll always keep me in stitches....Love, Betsy Ross

Lisa,...Happy Valentine's to a perfect (4.0) student. Hope your close "contact" works out well....Love, Rick Tessler

To James...Happy Valentine's Day. I love you with all my heart...Your Ski Partner in Baker

To Snuggles, Happy Valentine's Day, with all my love forever...Bunches

Worm Lips:.. Love you forever and forever...Thanks, Huge

To: Chicken Little.. You are the best. I love you lots. Happy Valentine's Day... Love, Sue

Roonie:... Happy Valentine's Day from your Baby

Hey Shnoogie Pie,.. I don't need no cure, I love you. Happy Valentine's Day and kiss Carlos for me... Tania

May your flames burn forever and your beeper never die. Happy Valentine's Day to Charlie... From Kuyla and Mary (our try!)

Jean Moore Sensei and Tomiko...Natahata Sensei, you both are absolutely great. You make "Nihongo" special. Happy Valentine's Day... Lenore

Debbie... To that cute DD waitress, please be my Valentine... Your secret admirer.

To: R.G.... Keep on feeling the real you. Do not let your gentleness shake you... Yellow Roses Forever..K.L.D.

Honey, you set my sails - Happy V-day Charlie!.. With Love, Margaret

To our Little Sisters,.. Hope you have a Happy Valentines Day.. From the Brothers of SAE

Dear Smitty,.. Interested in watching a fire hydrant? Happy Valentine's Day. . Love, T.S. Elliot

Brad...Cheer up. There's a Valentine somewhere waiting for you.. The Nail Groomer

To: Nancy... I have never had anyone as special to me, as you are. Happy Valentine Day.. Love, Mark

Doug-.."Someday soon, we're gonna quit this crazy runaround. Pack our bags and steal away."...I love you, Jeanne

Mikey:... If you will be my Valentine. I'll fill your cup with sweet, sweet wine. Amaretto?..Lizzie

Joan,..I'm just crazy about you. I could just grab hold of you, daily..Happy V. Day

JMC,..Ours is a relationship of starry eyes and quickened heartbeats...I love it!...Sweetcheeks

To Ba:.. I didn't forget two years ago. How Sweet it is to be loved by you...Fa

Dear Diana Ross... Ain't no Moutain High enough, to keep me away from! Happy Valentine's Day... Love, "Brey"

To: The Enchanting Women of 202 Brown... Forget about cupid, I'll be down. Happy Valentine's Day.. Bill

Marlene NB: ...The name's the same but the love is unchanging. LOVE ALWAYS...Dave Found: Pair of ugly orange socks in Hatfield vicinity.

Danny...You're one helluva guy.Happy Valentine's Day...Love, Lynn

To 5-23-53...Everyone deserves a year to get used to new surroundings! Don't youlove it? We hope so! ...11-21-57

To the tall, blonde, Barry Manilow look alike, we six watch you over dinner at Worchester. please be our Valentine!

Jimmy..."You're in my heart." Happy Valentine's Day and be goood. I miss you dearly. ..Love you, Cheryl

Dear Puey,...Happy Valentine's Day!...Lotsa love, Cupcake

Valentine for Kerrie Lipsky...Sobeautiful, such a doll, so nice, such a heartstopper...Return Address

To: Mary...NEVER thought I would fall for a city girl. Happy Valentine Day! ...Love , Soft Ears

Hey Valentine ... Of every monkey in every tree, you're the one most beautiful to me! ... Love, Mare

Beth ... YOU are the greatest! Love, Bill

Dicky ... There can be no rainbow without a cloud and a storm

Hey Les,.. I'll be your coochiecoo, if you'll be my snookiepoo!

To Curt, Black Mark, Disco Daryl:.. I want your bodies!! R.S.V.P... Your Anonymous Lover

Jonathan Livingston Seagull, stay gentle. I won't bother you again; I finally got the message. Happy Valentine's Day Sayonara..Sada

Dan,..When you kissed upon my hand, my heart began to flutter. When you kissed upon my cheek, I turned to Peanut Butter...-Sharon

To my puffball:.. You ARE my everything.. Love, Your Grapefruit

Laurie,.. I don't know much about physics or astronomy, only that I need you. Our love is infinite.. Your Favorite D.I.

Happy Valentine's Day Jessica!.. I love you.. From Mommy

Jon:.. Rosie's not red, My eyes are not blue, Meaningful or not, I love you.. Terry

P.D.-.. You can't split up Peanut Butter and Jelly. Happy Valentine's Day to the greatest Roomie!.. Love Mahgie

Randy & Doug... To our Z favorite Shady's - we could have had a pre-V-Day orgy-.. Love you- Patty & Jill

Dear J.D., T.B., J.B., R.T., J.C., B.Z.,S.W., G.T.,.. Please by my Valentine.. Love, Your Honorary Floor Members

To the Lone Ranger Fans,.. You will always be my favorite guys. Can we be Valentines?.. Love, A Pup Lover

To my favorite mouse,.. That twinkle in your eye's captured me. Let's Celebrate! Want to MMLS? Love you, Half-Pint

Spitz-..You are nuts-be mine-.. Love LA's Chick

To the X605 Washingtoners.. I miss you - happy day -.. Love, Dera X, A. .

To: Nancy W... It never rains is Southern California? Happy Valentines Day!.. Paul

To: Nancy,.. Happy Valentine Day baby. I hope we spend Many more together... Love, Vinnie

Woman.. I LOVE YOU... Man

Yudy,.. Yousa be my Valentine, and Isa be yours...Yimbos

To Bill,.. Happy Valentines Day to a special guy.. I LOVE YOU.. Janet

Dear Janet:.. Will you be my Valentine? I love you, Bill..P.S. and don't forget my puppy dog named Roland!

Lou R. of Northamp... Your like a tingleing warm breeze on a cold winter's day...?

T-Bear,.. You are my favorite animal at the zoo!.. Love, Enis

To Vicki ...May your disco inferno to a girl in

To Vicki ... May your disco inferno to a girl from San Francisco ...Happy Valentine Day...Mark

Pipsky... I'd love you to be my valentine. I'd ask you for a date but you make me nervous. ...Guess

Hey K. ...You're so beauriful, I love you more than I can say. ...Anonymously yours, Pumpkin L.

Lisa, I hope this is the first of many Valentines we will share. Remember my 2 cents is nonrefundable. ...Love, Bob

To Steven Scott Puppy, ...Every day that I'm with you is Valentine's Day! ...I love you-Little Tush

Steve, ... Thanks for coloring my world with rainbows. We've only just begun ... I love you, for always, Carol

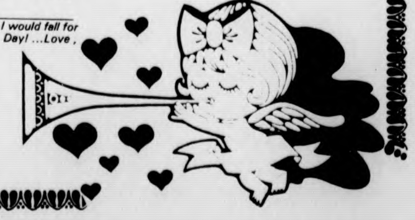
To Karyn ... Happy Valentine's Day to some one very special to me.. Love always,Tom



---

emale

too? The "armies of the status quo" would have us believe not.

If a woman is tired enough of smiling sweetly and silently accepting her fate; if the approval she gets in public isn't worth the emotional ulcer she nurses in private, she may decide to speak out.

So the next time she is clearly being treated unfairly, she unleashes a torrent of righteous indignation. And a funny thing happens — she is told to calm down, and business proceeds as usual. In attempting to call attention to an injustice, she has succeeded only in calling attention to the fact that she has behaved in a manner unusual for a woman. Her reaction, and the response it received, have become a smoke screen for the real issue.

Last week, a story was handed to the Collegian which suggested that a Distinguished Visitors Program (DVP) committee member had acted unethically to obtain information about radical feminist author Andrea Dworkin. The story was well-documented, and contained Dworkin's reaction to the incident:

ve changed but the threat no openly shows anger is undesireable to men.

"It's an incredible outrage to find out that people are chasing around after you when you don't know why or what they want. It's both an intrusion and a threat, and I think it's meant as a threat. The Student Activities office has no right whatsoever to any information about my activities or income, and no one has a right to pose and lie to get information on me."

Indignant? You bet. Angry? Justifiably so. If the allegations are correct, Dworkin has been the victim of something akin to a witch-hunt. But when the story appeared in the paper, it bore the offensive headline "Feminist Feels Intimidated by DVP."

In the first place, Dworkin's statement indicates that she feels anything but intimidated. Furious; yes. Intimidated; no. But most importantly — somewhere along the way, the focus had been changed from the real issue, DVP's actions, to Dworkin's reaction. Dworkin fought back, and "hysterical female" was her reward.

The next time you hear a woman get angry, set aside your prejudice against loud female voices and listen to what she has to say. You might hear a person just letting off steam; we all hear both men and women do that every day. Or you might learn something important.

Julie Melrose is the Collegian's woman's Editor.

Mass media monopoly?

By KEVIN KNOBLOCH

The agencies of mass communication can advance the progress of civilization or they can thwart it. They can debase and vulgarize mankind. They can endanger the peace of the world.

The Commission on the Freedom of the Press

The wholesale buying and selling of financially troubled newspapers in recent months has begun to represent an alarming trend. Last week several events seemed to follow the new trend with uncanny precision.

Time, Inc., publishers of Time magazine and owner of other assorted media interests, purchased the ailing Washington Star last week at the minimal price of $20 million. The owners of the Chicago Daily News, which has garnished a total of 15 Pulitzer Prizes, announced to its 200 editorial employees that a grievous annual debt may force them to halt publication next month, fostering the notion that only a major investor can save the paper. Not to be outdone, the Garnett newspaper chain, the largest in the nation, paid $60 million for the morning and afternoon papers in Wilmington, Delaware.

The significance of last week's happenings, other than the fact they reveal the newspaper business can often be a risky business for investors, is that they represent an increasing monopoly control of the mass media in the United States. Monopoly ownership in the newspaper field is hardly a new aspect of the current trend, however, as realized by those who have watched the disappearance of competing daily newspapers from our cities and the growing influence of the Knight and Hearst newspaper chains.

Time, Inc., is as guilty as any in creating the elite media cartels. The acquisition of the Star merely expands Time's already vast corporate empire, which showed profits of $90 million last year. Time's assets extend over several industries, from magazines (Time, Sports Illustrated, Fortune, Money), newspapers (the Star and Pioneer Press, a chain of 17 Chicago area weekly newspapers), commercial and cable television (Manhatten Cable TV, Home Box Office and station WOTV in Grand Rapids, Michigan) and Book Publishing (Time-Life Books, Book-Of-The-Month Club and Little, Brown and Co.), as well as invested interests in lumbering and paper production, marketing and printing technology research.

Others have extended interests in the communication field. The Washington Star's largest competitor, the Washington Post, is owned by the same company that owns Newsweek. The infamous Rockefeller family owns controlling stock in the $1.5 billion CBS television network. Also included in the Rockefeller empire is a slew of magazines, publishing, recording and film companies, including Columbia Pictures. And, it is commonly believed that Rockefeller money is heavily invested in the prestigious New York Times. The Times' assets alone include radio station WQXR, Educational Book Divisions and interests in Canadian newsprint mills.

The question has been raised as to the extent of control a monopolistic mass media could have regarding public opinion. Since the average family watches television almost 10 hours a day and devotes much of the remaining hours listening to the radio, reading magazines and newspapers or simply glancing at the hundreds of billboards while walking or driving down the street, I believe the potential for powerful control to be great.

Power, in this context, might be defined as exercising discretionary authority over events, such as when Congress signs a bill into law or the President sends troops off to war: News stories in themselves are probably incapable of wielding such power, but a farther reaching editorial policy, which would include the distribution of news coverage and editorial opinion, might achieve the power the daily news copy could not muster.

In apparent agreement of opinion, John Strachey, in his book Contemporary Capitalism, wrote, "Our danger is that virtual monopolization of the media of mass expression by big capital will distort and finally abort the democratic process."

The monopolistic owners would have us believe they voluntarily restrain themselves from exercising editorial control over the media they control. A Time, Inc. executive reported at the time of the Star's sale that the corporation would not intrude on the newspaper's operation.

But, only the most naive could expect any single publication to remain purely objective in a profit oriented market. The dependence of finances in the mass media is great. Author Bryan Key reveals in his book, "Media Sexploitation," that in America it is virtually impossible for a publication to survive without advertising or heavy financial backing. The publication's existence depends on selling the sponsor's product or eliciting the support of an investor, which results in an integration between making editorial decisions and marketing strategies.

In the end, control of the media in the hands of a few is hardly a healthy situation. The relatively well-informed American public is in real danger of losing its one claim to fame in the world — freedom of the press.

Kevin Knobloch is a Collegian Columnist.

Capitalism in the coal fields

By PETER KRACHT

A war is being fought centered in the coalfields of Kentucky and West Virginia. The coalminers' rebellion, now in its 11th week, has seen pitched battles between strikers and scabs. Thousands of non-union miners have joined with their union brothers to further their common struggle against the coal operators. Meanwhile President Carter is considering invoking the Taft-Hartley Act to end this rebellion. An aide confides that he probably won't though, because the miners probably would ignore it anyway.

You can't turn on the news without hearing how the strike may force energy cutbacks and even lay-offs in some states. Clearly, this is no ordinary strike.

What has caused this upsurge? What is its history and what are the issues at stake? A tremendous conflict such as this demands some answers to these questions. The miners' strike movement did not develop because of some mystic quality possessed only by coal miners. Media romantics weave a delicate web of myths which describe the miners as a "breed apart." The truth is that the struggle of the miners grows out of the same conditions that workers everywhere face — being driven down and ripped off by corporate heads (like the mineowners), and often sold out by union misleaders (like Arnold Miller — United Mineworkers President).

However, it is true that the struggle in the coalfields has been particularly fierce and has grown over the past few years. This is because the real class nature of American society has always been more starkly exposed in the coalfields. Everywhere in this country the capitalists rule society, but in the mountain coal camps they just never bothered to hide that fact. Because coal is mined outside of the big cities, the coal operators built their company towns openly to squeeze every drop of labor and profits out of the men and their families. The mineowner was not just the employer, but also the loan shark, the gouging merchant, and the greedy landlord. They didn't just own the mines, but also the cops, and gun thugs. They ran the political parties, they picked the preachers and the teachers. Some of these things have changed — thanks only to bitter struggle on the part of the miners — but fundamentally, the nature of the coal companies, their insatiable drive for profit, have not changed at all.

Their drive for ever higher profits force the companies to push "their" workers harder, longer and faster. Just because the companies haven't changed, combined with the miners' history of fighting back, and because some very sharp attacks have been coming down over the past few years, the present national strike is seen as a real showdown.

What is it that the miners are fighting for? The number one demand is the right to strike over local grievances in any particular mine. This is important because when the men detect something faulty about a mine, their only real defense is to shut the mine down until the problem is resolved to their satisfaction. Present procedures require the miners to write up their complaints and continue working, maybe even for days in unsafe mines. Over the last few years miners have shut down unsafe mines and fought arbitrary firings by the coal operators, only to be told by local judges and their own union leaders that these "unauthorized" wildcat strikes were illegal. Rank and file groups like the Miner's Right to Strike Committee have fought the attempts of higher-ups in the union to sell out the miners on this question in the current negotiations.

The second main demand in the strike is that the companies provide 100 per cent health benefits. This is needed to cover soaring medical costs. Miners are threatened, not only by frequent underground accidents, but also by the notorious Black Lung disease. The coal operators paid for these benefits as many as 30 years ago, but they have chipped away at them ever since. Presently they want to tie health benefits to productivity. As far as the miners are concerned these "benefits" are necessities which they can't afford to bargain away.

The miners' strike is delivering powerful blows to the rich who rule this country. The rich have retaliated with a hysterical media campaign, attempting to cut off the miners from the support of their fellow workers, primarily by raising a hullabaloo about some of the temporary energy problems which will affect other sections of people. "Divide and rule" is an old game, but groups like the National United Workers Organization aren't playing along. Instead they're fighting to unite all workers behind the miners strike, pointing to a common enemy, the capitalist class, messing over everybody.

We students should also stand behind the miners. Not out of pity, but with the spirit of uniting with them in a common struggle, a struggle which will not end until the twisting of human labor for private profit is ended.

VICTORY TO THE MINERS' STRIKE!

Peter Kracht is a member of Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade.

PEACE
SADAT
AUTH
©1978, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP

Notices

WOMEN'S MEDIA VALENTINE GET-TOGETHER
Women involved in the media and all women interested in forming a women's information network in the Valley are invited to come together tonight at 7:30 in CC 904.

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE CLOSED WEDNESDAYS
The Undergraduate Registrar's Office, 213 Whitmore, will be closed all day Wednesdays, from Feb. 22 through March 29.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK
There will be a general meeting for women interested in helping out with all aspects of International Women's Week tomorrow night at 9 in the Suffolk Room, S.U.

WOMEN'S WEEK POSTERS
International Women's Week posters will be ready for distribution tomorrow. They may be picked up in the Student Activities office during the day or at the general meeting tomorrow night.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE COLLEGE ORGANIZATION
There will be a meeting for the Christian Science College Organization tonight at 6. All are welcome. The meeting will be held in the Campus Center at a place posted.

OH-C MEN'S CENTER
Meeting tonight at 9 in 112 Grayson. All welcome.

STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD
First board meeting of this semester today at 5:30 CC 917. New members encouraged to attend. All welcome.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION
All are welcome at this free, open encounter with some readings from the Bible, facilitated by Pete Sabey of the ecumenical UCF campus ministry: 428 Student Union from 7:15 - 8:15 tonight.

BREAD & WINE
Candlelight communion in the round for all who seek a bit of depth, joy, renewal, a caring community; at UCF, 428 Student Union, tonight from 8:15 to about 8:40, celebrated by Pete Sabey, campus minister. All are cordially invited.

BOLTWOOD VOLUNTEERS
Boltwood still needs volunteers for this semester. Come see us during the performances of Co. 3 in the SUB this afternoon.

SUPPORT GROUP FOR RAPE VICTIMS
The Rape Task Force is sponsoring a support group for women who have been sexually assaulted and are ready to integrate the experience into their lives. It will meet every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Everywoman's Center beginning Feb. 28. All interested women should call Donna 253-5788, Diane 549-4773 or EWC 545-0883 before Feb. 25.

MASS PIRG
Meeting tonight at 7:30 in CC 804. Discussion of the projects for the spring semester such as Bottle Bill, TELCAG, Nuclear Power and Alternative Energy. All welcome and urged to attend.

HANG GLIDING CLUB
We are running a movie March 2 and need help. Call Josh 549-6852.

SENATE ELECTIONS
Nominations are now being accepted for Student Senate seats. Find out if there's an opening for you. Go to room 420 S.U. or call 545-0341 for more info.

UMASS ZIONIST ALLIANCE
Meeting tonight CC 165-169 at 7. Discussion; what is Zionism? Refreshments, belly dancing, Israeli folk dancing.

PSYCH MAJORS
First meeting of the semester of CUSP. Please try to attend. All Psych majors welcome; tonight at 7:30 in 304 Tobin.

DANCE WORKSHOP
Offered by the Bill Evans Dance Company from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. today in Chapin Auditorium at Mt. Holyoke College.

WALKING TALL
Film sponsored by John Adams Upper at 7, 9:15 and 11:30 tonight in the CCA.

HOMOSEXUALITY IN FILM
The Lavender Shadows Film Series will present "The Celluloid Closet: Vito Russo," a lecture and film clips of the history of the image of the homosexual in cinema, at 7:30 tonight for $1 in the Main Lecture Hall at Franklin Patterson Hall at Hampshire College.

TM LECTURE
The Transcendental Meditation Program will be discussed tonight at 8 in the New York Room at Mary E. Woolley Hall, Mt. Holyoke College.

SGA PRESIDENT
Nominations open today and close Feb. 24. Pick up papers in 420 S.U. or call for info at 545-0341.

PE 307 LIFEGUARDING
The time has been changed to Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 10. This is a 2-credit course, not 1-credit.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS
Nominations are now being accepted for the B.O.G. For nomination papers and more info go to 420 S.U. or call 545-0341.

ATTENTION UMSFCU MEMBERS
Members interested in applying for B.O.D. or Credit Committee positions, see either Denise Colls or Peter Bloom before the deadline Friday, Feb. 17 at the Credit Union.

LECTURE
Jerome Y. Lettin, neuroscientist, will speak on "Nervous Coding" today at 4 p.m. in Peters Auditorium, Goessmann Hall (attached to the Grad Research Towers). Lettvin's talk will be of interest to anyone involved with language, psychology, computer science or brain theory. This event is sponsored by the Five College Language and Information Processing Seminar. For more information, call Professor Alan Prince, Department of Linguistics, at 545-0889.

THE CLOCK
Film tonight at 9 sponsored by the Mt. Holyoke College Film Committee in Gamble Auditorium.

BLAKESLEE LECTURE
Lorrin A. Riggs, Professor of Psychology, University of Colorado, will discuss "Sensations in the Brain: Some Visual Aftereffects" tonight at 8 in McDonell Hall at Clark Science Center, Smith College.

LECTURE ON EGYPT
"Egypt in Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century Europe: Kircher, Piranesi, Mozart," will be discussed by Jean Seznec tonight at 8 in Wright Hall, Smith College.

GRAD SCHOOL COUNSELING
A new Pre-Graduate Advisor has recently been appointed by CASIAC to assist students considering grad school. Beth Schneider, a Ph.D. candidate in Sociology and an instructor of undergraduate sociology courses for the last several years, offers advice about careers and graduate training in most academic fields, as well as the special problems of women in grad school.

Juniors should begin thinking about graduate school if they plan to attend in the fall following their June graduation. The formal procedure for admissions starts in the fall. However, selecting schools and investigating financial aid sources take much time and should be done before this.

Later this semester, the Pre-Graduate office will offer workshops for students planning to take the Graduate Record Exam at the April 22 and June 10 testings. Students should check with the CASIAC office, E27 Machmer, or watch for announcements in the Collegian for dates of these workshops.

Call for an appointment at 545-2191 or 545-2192.

SIGN CO. 3
A group that performs music through sign language, dance and pantomime will do shows in the S.U.B. today at 2 and 3:30 p.m.

DC menu

TODAY

Lunch: Corned Beef Supreme Sandwich, Austrian Ravioli. Basics: Scalloped Macaroni and Tomato, Soybean Croquettes. Dinner: Chicken Cutlet, Baked Ham. Basics: Chicken Cutlet, Spinach Casserole.

TOMORROW

Lunch: Swiss Turkey Sandwich, Tacos. Basics: Rice and Cheese Stuffed Cabbage, Fried Fish Plate. Dinner: Ginger Pot Roast, Baked Fish. Basics: Barley Soybean Casserole, Baked Fish.

Health Services offers stop smoking program

Want to stop smoking? University Health Services can help you with a "Stop Smoking Program." This program is designed to help you plan and carry out a personalized quitting strategy with group support and help. All smokers who want to quit are invited to participate.

The facilitator, John Peters, has experience in all aspects of smoking cessation programs and other group education. Working with him will be Jeanne Martin, M.S.W., who also has experience in behaviorally oriented groups. Both John and Jeanne are former smokers.

A free orientation to explain the program will be held Wednesday, March 1 at Hills North, Conference room A or B, second floor, 7:00 p.m.

Eight group sessions are then scheduled for March 6, 8, 13, 15, 27, 29; April 3, and 10; 7 to 9 p.m.

A $40 fee will be charged for the program, with a $15 refund if all eight sessions are attended. The charge for student-dependents who are not Health Plan members is $55.

If you want to enroll or need more information, call Paul Davis, Health Educator, at 549-2671.

UMASS ZIONIST ALLIANCE
ISRAEL
BOROCHOV · WEIZMAN · BEN-GURION · HERZL · RABBI KOOK · JABOTINSKY

FIRST MEETING will be held: FEB. 14 in the Campus Center Rm. 165-169
at 7:00 p.m.
DISCUSSION: "What is Zionism?"
AND THERE WILL BE:
— REFRESHMENTS!
— BELLY DANCING!!
— ISRAELI FOLK DANCING!

MEN'S WEAR, WOMEN'S WEAR EVERYTHING. IF WE SELL IT ALL, WE STILL WON'T MAKE A NICKEL ON THIS SALE!
(this month, we don't want to make money)

We just want to clear out our stores to make way for new Spring Fashions. So we've priced every garment at rock bottom, to make sure it won't be there next month

Our stores are crammed with a great selection of current styles from famous makers.

This sale ends when we run out of stock, Which could be soon at these prices. So if you need anything for your wardrobe, hurry in. You won't see a sale like this one again. At least not until next February at the Wearhouse.

HERE'S A SAMPLE OF OUR HUNDREDS OF BARGAINS:

All our Men's Cords Levi's 11.99
All our Men's Jeans Levi's except pre-washed 14.95
All our Men's Sweaters Save 33%
All our Women's Sweaters Save 33-75%
Men's Shirts ... values to $16 Save 33-75%
All Women's Dresses values to $40 9.99

WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

SEE THE BALL LINER FLOAT ACROSS THE PAGE IN ELEGANT "FOUNTAIN PEN-LIKE" STROKES!
MARVEL AS THE BALL LINER RECAPTURES ALL THE GRACE OF THOSE GREAT PENS OF YESTERYEAR WITH THE INK-ACTION OF TODAY'S MARKER PENS!
Pilot Corporation of America Presents... SON of FOUNTAIN PEN
STARRING THE PEN THAT COMBINES THE BEST OF THE OLD AND NEW, THE ONE AND ONLY PILOT Ball Liner
BE AMAZED WITH THE STURDINESS OF THE BALL LINER AS IT WRITES THROUGH CARBON PAPER JUST LIKE A HARD BALL POINT!
THE PILOT BALL LINER: A MAGNIFICENT STEP BACKWARD IN WRITING 89¢
NOW APPEARING AT YOUR BOOK STORE
available at
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Platterpus Records
$4.99 SALE
ALL LP'S
Series 7.98
Codes R & S
SERIES 7.98
CASSETTE & 8 TRACK TAPES $5.49
Code TP
MANY ROCK & JAZZ ALBUM FROM $1.99
WE HAVE THE AREA'S MOST COMPLETE SELECTION OF:
ROCK • JAZZ • CLASSICAL • OPERA • TRADITIONAL FOLK • PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY • SOUNDTRACKS & SHOWS • SHEET MUSIC & MUSIC BOOKS
HAMP PLAZA
NORTH KING ST.
NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
586-5882 master charge

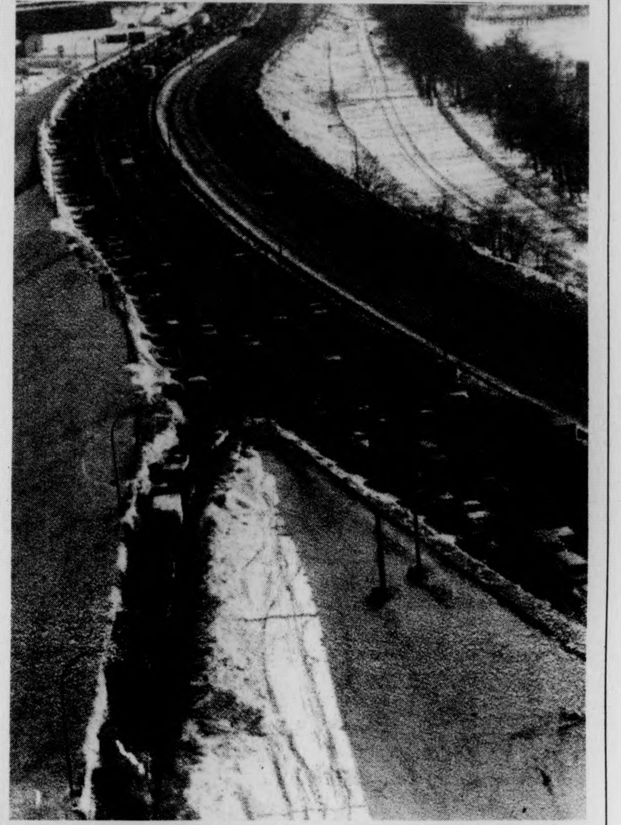
Hours
10-9 p.m.
Mon.-Sat.
Sale Ends
Sat., Feb. 18
SPRINGFIELD CIVIC CENTER TICKET OUTLET
VISA

Traffic jams and crowds accompany return to work



ABOVE: Traffic jam on Rhode Island's interstate 95, which opened yesterday for the first time since the blizzard. Cars remained banned in Providence.
BELOW: A long line of commuters wait to board a Boston bound bus. The ban on private driving in the city continued yesterday. (UPI photos)

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Plump
4 Feeble
9 Pacific island group
14 Arab name
15 Of an arm bone
16 Corrode
17 Fag
19 Sea eagles
20 Each and all
21 Intoxicating beverage
22 Came together
23 Semester
24 Slavs in Saxony
26 Become withered: Var.
29 Elec. Unit
31 English country festival
32 Russian emperor: Var.
33 More rigid
36 Eye part
38 ---- tree
39 Assumed names
41 Greek island
43 Drunkard
44 Devitalizes
46 Long denouncing speech
47 ---- de suite: Immediately
49 Morse Code unit
50 Greek letter
51 From a distance
52 Separates
54 Sitar expert
58 Crater rim
60 Kind of garment
61 Devour
62 ----- of India
64 Teachers
66 Thing of value
67 Concise summary
68 Ending with dem and rev
69 Mongrels
70 Took a nap
71 Police officer: Abbr.

DOWN
1 Phase
2 Full of energy
3 ----- lily
4 Violent anger
5 Malt liquor
6 Opening words: Informal
7 Not disguised
8 Vibrates
9 Be evident
10 Seize and hold legally
11 Mexican Aztec emperor
12 Path: Suffix
13 Roman coins
18 Large naval fleet
24 Distributes widely
25 College advisory boards
27 Accelerated
28 Clear the board
30 Untidy state
33 ----- Luego: Spanish good-bye
34 Very reserved
35 Ceremony expert 37 Rend
40 Kidders
42 Noah's landing place
45 Bakery product
48 Tabletop insulator
53 Armistice
55 Stay clear of 56 Make familiar with 57 Mercator enlargement
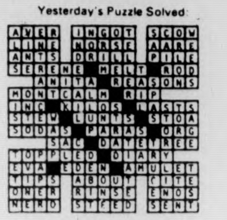
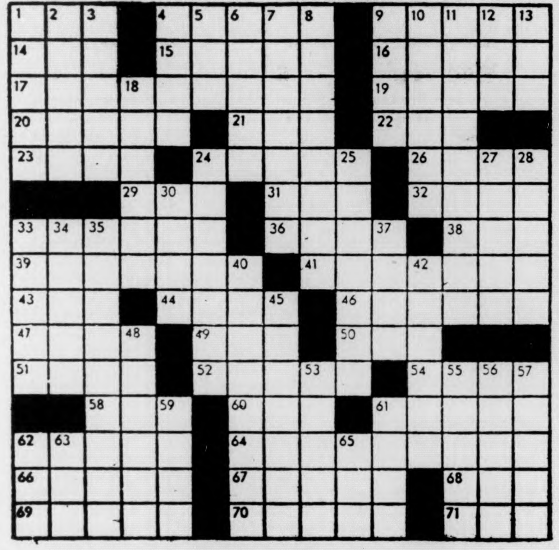
59 Favorites
61 Engrossed
62 Machine part
63 Baton Rouge univ.
65 Outdo

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:





CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
"Oh, God!"
GEORGE BURNS
JOHN DENVER
PG
Eves.: 7:00 & 9:00
Sat. & Sun. Mat.: 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

Joe Don Baker as

Sheriff
Buford Pusser

in

WALKING TALL

Tuesday, Feb. 14
CCA
7, 9:30, 11:30
$1

COLD FEET?
Stay Warm
in the Storm with Timberland
Boots

Guaranteed Waterproof
Insulated to -20°
7 Styles for Men and Women
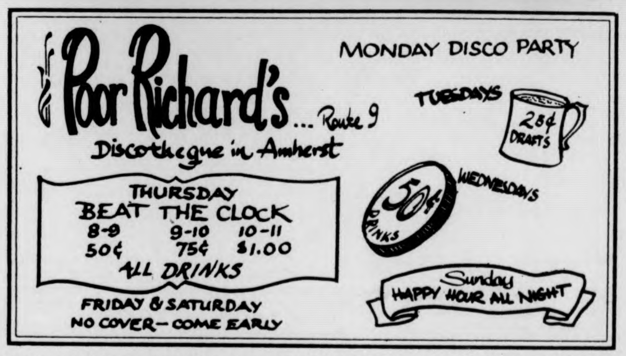
ALSO
THIS WEEK ONLY
FREE Silicone and
Poster w/Boots

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
10-6 Mon-Sat 253-5135

Clip n Save
GOLDEN TEMPLE EMPORIUM
Shocks The Shoe World!!!!!
15% off on all
Chippewa & Timberland
Boots
with this coupon only
Good thru Sat., Feb. 18
Golden Temple Emporium
35 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 256-8470
Coupon Coupon Coupon Coupon



Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY
BEAT THE CLOCK
8-9 9-10 10-11
50¢ 75¢ $1.00
ALL DRINKS
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
NO COVER—COME EARLY
Sunday
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

Owens Corning Fiberglas
Technical Center
will be recruiting on campus
TUES., FEB. 14
For further information contact the Placement Office

Have supper at the Scupper with your sweetheart

Complimentary sweetheart rose for her

The Rusty Scupper
Rte. 9, 529 Belchertown Rd.

---

ENTERTAINMENT

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

1 GEORGE BURNS · JOHN DENVER
Is it Funny!
"Oh, God!"
ENDS TUES.
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30

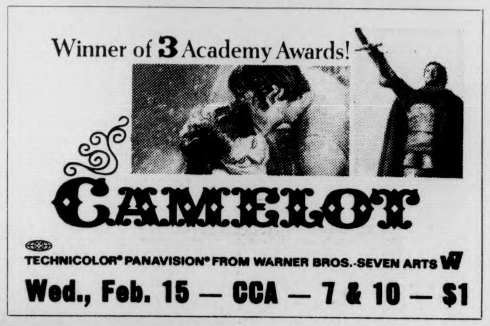
2 CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 4:45)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:00

3 CLINT EASTWOOD
THE GAUNTLET
FINAL WEEK
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:00)-7:30-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:15

4 "SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
R SUN.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SAT. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (Sat. & Sun.) 2:30

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

AMHERST Cinema
253-5426
Pardon Mon Affaire
"MADCAP."
—John Simon, New York Magazine
"Simply Lovely ...an all too human comedy."
JUDITH CRIST SATURDAY REVIEW
PG
PARDON MON AFFAIRE: 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00



Winner of 3 Academy Awards!
CAMELOT
TECHNICOLOR® PANAVISION® FROM WARNER BROS.-SEVEN ARTS
Wed., Feb. 15 — CCA — 7 & 10 — $1

The Amherst College Social Committee proudly presents
Elvin Bishop
and Livingston Taylor
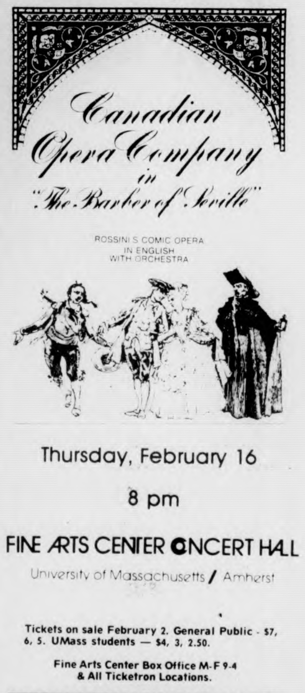
Sunday Feb. 19 at 8:00 p.m.
in
The Amherst College Cage
Tickets on sale at Faces of Earth, Amherst
Goodbodies, South Hadley
Wax and Wane, Northampton
Sales start February 6
Amherst Students (with I.D.) $4.00
Non-Amherst Students $5.00
Advance Ticket Sales Only
No Alcoholic Beverage Please

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TUES. & WED., FEB. 14 & 15
KILROY
and
HOT CALYPSO REY

THURS., FEB. 16
FAT

FRI. & SAT.
FEB. 17 & 18
JAMES COTTON
and
JAMES MONTGOMERY

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/Tel. 665-4937



Canadian Opera Company
in
"The Barber of Seville"
ROSSINI'S COMIC OPERA
IN ENGLISH
WITH ORCHESTRA
Thursday, February 16
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
Tickets on sale February 2. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students — $4, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

Hatch Bar
Student Union Building
Thurs., Feb. 16
The Great Pretenders

I. M. NOTICE

On THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, the Intramural Dept. is sponsoring a CROSS COUNTRY SKI RACE, open to all Students, Faculty & Staff.

The Race will be 7 kilometers long and will take place on the fields in front of Boyden. All participants must report in front of Boyden by 3:15 P.M.

Contact the Intramural Office for more information at 545-2693 or 545-3334.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKI

Victory dunk dooms Southern Conn five

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. [UPI] — Southern Connecticut State College wound up beating itself last weekend with a victory dunk.

Moments after the Owls had beaten hosting Springfield College, 70-69, Sunday night, an exuberant Southern Connecticut player took the ball at midcourt, moved in toward one basket and dunked the sphere as referee Joe Soskovic looked on.

Soskovic, who had not yet approved the final score which would have completed the game, called a technical foul on Southern Connecticut and Springfield's Don Lemieux converted the free throw to tie the game.

But, Southern Connecticut Coach Ed Brown, claiming the game was over and the ruling was incorrect, refused to allow his team back on the court. Soskovic awarded the contest to Springfield by a forfeit score of 2-0.

A man on the scene squelched any thoughts of an incorrect call.

"Rule 2, Section 8 states a game is not terminated until the referee approves the score," said Dr. Edward Steitz, who is both Springfield College athletic director and the national interpretor of the collegiate basketball rules.

"It's the same thing as if a player throws a punch at a referee after a game or if a player curses out an official before the score is approved. That's a technical foul."

Brown, whose 8-11 Owls were deprived of a win over a 14-5 Springfield team, indicated he would protest the game to the Eastern College Athletic Conference, which provides the referees.

Filing a protest would do no good, though, Steitz said. "The National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada does not recognize protests.

"It's a little bit of a strange thing," said Steitz, a former Springfield Collegebasketball coach who witnessed the game.

"The kid did it (dunked the ball) out of exuberance because his team had won, but he dunked it purposely and willfully right under the nose of an official. It probably wouldn't have been called if the official's back were turned, because he never would have seen it. But, he couldn't miss the play."

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days 40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days 35c per line per day

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

72 VW Super Beetle in excellent condition. Call 256-8890, even. Negotiable.

68 Ford Custom 4000 R hdtop. PS, PB, AT, new snows, good cond. $400. 665-3271, nights.

Volvo 1971 4 speed, exc. cond. throughout, radials. $1295 or BO. 665-3412.

67 Chevy Impala auto. p.s. New engine, factory air, $400, eves. 253-7160.

76 Rabbit, AM/FM, leatherette, radials, $3050. Call 665-3832.

1969 Ford wagon, 390, runs but needs work. Call Dave, 546-8618, after five. $1200, nego.

LOST

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

FOR RENT

Single furnished room with private bathroom. $75/month, Amherst Motel. Call after 6, 256-6652.

Rent a refrigerator from Spirit Haus. A limited number still here. Call 253-5384.

One bedrm in beautiful country farm house, available Feb. 1, 1978. Call 659-3542.

Roommate wanted. Get 1st mo. rent free. Male non-smoker, on bus route in Sund. $75/mo. Call Paul, 665-3855.

FOR SALE

Lange Pro Ski boots, size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn on two occasions. $25 will buy you these boots. If interested, call 253-5873.

1¼ acre lot in Brandon, Fla. — ½ hr. from Clearwater. Lot is on hill overlooking large lake. Lovely area. For info call 1-467-3465 after 5 & on weekends.

Pedal steel guitar, 8 string, 3 pedal, beautiful sound, $100. Matt, 546-6158.

5 cubic ft. refrig., largest legal dorm size. $75, will deliver. Glenn, 549-1221.

Phillips GA427 turntable, $50, exc., 66856.

Once in a blue moon. 5 Market St., N'hampton used furn. — antiques, red tag sale, now-18.

Rossignol ROC 550's 195's with look nevbndgs, excel. cond. Only $85, 256-0291.

PERSONALS

To the girl who mistakenly took my mittens at the post office Monday 7: please leave them at the lost and found desk in the CC for me. Thanks.

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

HELP WANTED

Flute teacher needed — beginner. 665-3659.

Maple house, a psychiatric halfway house is offering full-time and part-time internships starting at $40 per week. No live-in positions. Supervision provided. Credit available through students' academic institutions. Send resume to 450 Maple St., Holyoke, Mass.

Counsellor for a Cong. Church youth group. Sundays. Call 584-9392, am.

Overseas jobs — summer/year-round, Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free information — write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

Need help with Stat.? Psych 145 tutor. Call John, 253-3971.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Five College typing service — professional, fast service. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

WANTED

Women's ice skates, good condition. 549-5433.

Female vocalist wants band. Call Alison at 6-7426.

ENTERTAINMENT

Monitor Music partiers know we're the best — for any party. Get us at 546-4732.

AUDIO

Garrard 40B w/wood base and new AT11 cart., $30, 549-4470. Must sell soon.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

SO WHAT YOU BEEN UP TO, UNCLE DUKE? FOUND A NEW JOB YET?
NO, NOT YET..
BAR
BUT I'VE GOT ALL MY RESUMES OUT. I EXPECT I SHOULD BE HEARING SOMETHING PRETTY SOON...
WHAT SORT OF JOBS YOU APPLYING FOR?
OH, THE PRESIDENT OF YALE, HEAD OF ABC NEWS, MANAGER FOR THE REDSKINS, SOMETHING OF THIS NATURE...
SOMETHING OF WHAT NATURE?
YOU KNOW, SHOW BUSINESS. QUITE FRANKLY, NEPHEW, I'VE GOT THE BUG!
2-14
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

TELL ME IF I'M RIGHT...
2-14
YOU DIDN'T GIVE ME A VALENTINE TODAY BECAUSE YOU CAN'T STAND THE SIGHT OF ME
YOU'RE RIGHT
THAT'S A PRETTY FEEBLE EXCUSE!!
1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

OPEN UP, HOUSEWIFE...THIS IS HARVEY STEADFAST WORKING HIS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE SELLING MAGAZINES!
KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK
WHAT COLLEGE IS THAT, HARVEY?...
...AND TELL ME IT'S THE COLLEGE OF HARD KNOCKS AND I'LL BARF ALL OVER YOUR SUBSCRIPTION BLANKS.
2-14
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

YOU LOUSY DRUGGIE! I'LL KILL YOU!
WHO'S THAT?
MY BELOVED DAD!
FACE
ONE SIDE RALPH! I'M OUTA HERE!
FACE
DOMP!
2/14
MR. FORGE GIVES CHASE!
GAANAA!
LAFLER

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

AGAIN THE BATTLE-COMPUTER SAVES DENNIS.
TWIST THE BUTTON THAT I HAVE DIRECTED YOUR HAND TO.
IT WILL CAUSE A FLARE-UP AROUND THE ION-BEAM PROJECTOR.
WHICH WILL SPREAD THROUGHOUT THE SHIELDS AND BUILD IN INTENSITY, ENABLING YOU TO INCINERATE THE RESTRAINER-ROBS!!
THE FIRE QUICKLY FADES,
LEAVING DENNIS FREE TO CONTINUE TOWARD THE PORTAL
WARNING.. BATTLE-ROB PATROL APPROACHING FROM YOUR LEFT.
ROLLINS 2/14
DENNIS WHIRLS TO FACE THE ATTACKERS.
IT IS TOO CLOSE TO USE YOUR ION-BEAM PROJECTOR...
FOR THE SHIELD WAS WEAKENED, AND NEEDS A FEW MORE MINUTES OF RECHARGING:
RRRUMBLE
IT IS TOO WEAK TO WITHSTAND AN ASSAULT NOW. BUT I HAVE AN ALTERNATIVE.

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

You must be Wally. I'm your new roommate, Jim Danby.
Oh, jeeze, another dumb jock!
Welcome to the cinderblock hovel.
Ranney 2/10
Now, don't start thinking I'm just another dumb jock.
Who, me?? Oh, ..uh, no, I would never, you know, uh...

BACK AGAIN by K

Happy Valentine's Day to....
STEPH CATHY LIZ KATHY
CLAIRE JOANNA WENDY NANCE
MOLLY LISA' BARBARA MONIQUE
LYNDA CHERYL ELLEN ANNIE FINDA
LIBBY DOT TERRY MAUREEN
MEG DONNA LAURINDA CONNIE
LAURA MARYLEE DEBBIE BONNIE
SUE PAT PAM
SARAH LAUREN CINDY CHRIS
BETTY KAREN CAROL
...MMRMPH!!..
AND.. UM, UM..
AND TO...
HAPPY VD JAN!!
2/14

Your Birthday

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14 — Born today, you are a clever, critical-minded individuals, inclined to talk more than work, study more than produce, investigate questions more than find answers. You are not inclined toward jealousy, but there are times when you allow a moment of envy to spoil things for you. It is important that you learn to appreciate sincerely other people's success.

It is quite easy for you to get what you want from friends. In fact, you are so successful with them that you are tempted to try the old "con game" with your enemies. You must be careful that you don't make enemies of friends in the process, rather than friends of your enemies. Family members must be especially protected.

You are inclined to spend most of your time indoors, but you should be encouraged to take part in outdoor activities. Athletics, though you may not feel at ease with them, could prove a boon to your health. You would be wise to give sports a try, both to encourage relaxation and to stimulate physical development.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) – Your ability to discover the genuine article among all the fakes brings you real gain.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) – Adventure in the morning may make you more reckless later than you should be.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) – Curb a tendency to make excuses for the young. The time has come for disciplinary action.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) – Imagination and mystery go hand in hand. Solve the latter with the former. Direct energy inward.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) – Sympathy in keeping with a recent event should endear you to friends and family.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) – Outdoor activities bring the greatest benefits today. Don't expect to serve friends for gain.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) – Aggression is essential to success today. Don't assume another's loyalty; ask for it.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) – Ambition may cause you to embark upon impossible enterprises today. Reassess your chances.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Dramatic endeavors early today bring you to the attention of one who can make or break your position.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) – Take the intellectual approach to problems arising early today. Emotions bring disastrous results.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) – Your sense of diplomacy enables you to get what you want without seeming grasping.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) – Your objective approach to a new problem at home insures solutions.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate

Local Television

5:00 2 24 57 MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD
8 19 40 MY THREE SONS "One Week To Go"
11 22 32 EMERGENCY ONE
18 NASHVILLE ON THE ROAD
27 LONE RANGER "Message To Fort Apace"
38 NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
56 FLINTSTONES
5:30 2 SESAME STREET
3 MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
8 19 THE ODD COUPLE
18 CHRIST THE LIVING WORD
24 57 THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
27 THE FBI "The Corrupter"
38 THE GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
40 NEWSBEAT NEWS
56 GILLIGAN'S ISLAND
6:00 3 8 19 22 30 NEWS
9 CONCENTRATION
11 STAR TREK "This Side Of Paradise"
18 BOZO
24 TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — IN OUR OWN IMAGE
32 STAR TREK
38 HOGAN HEROES
40 BONANZA
56 BRADY BUNCH
57 ZOOM
6:30 2 THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
8 22 30 NEWS
[illegible] THE JOKER'S WILD
[illegible] LASSIE
24 TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — EARTH SEA & SKY
27 TARZAN "Four O'Clock Army" Part II.
38 ADAM—12
56 PARTRIDGE FAMILY
57 OVER EASY
6:55 40 NEWSBEAT
7:00 2 ZOOM
3 22 [illegible] [illegible] NEWS
8 CONCENTRATION
9 BOWLING FOR DOLLARS
11 THE ODD COUPLE "This Is The Army Mrs. Madison"
18 FESTIVAL OF FAITH
19 40 THE CROSS—WITS
24 OVER EASY
38 THE ODD COUPLE
56 MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
57 DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 2 ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS
3 THE DAILY NUMBERS
8 40 THE GONG SHOW
9 THE NEWLYWED GAME
11 ACTION NEWS
19 $128,000 QUESTION
22 SHA NA NA
24 57 THE MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
27 NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE BASKETBALL
30 $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
32 THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
38 THE JOKER'S WILD
56 BOSTON COLLEGE BASKETBALL
7:31 3 ALL—STAR ALMOST ANYTHING GOES
8:00 2 24 57 OF RACE AND BLOOD
3 CELEBRITY CHALLENGE OF THE SEXES
8 19 40 HAPPY DAYS "Our Gang" Fonzie s life as a gang leader is recalled to convince Chachi that it's not so cool to be a member of a street gang.
9 NEW YORK KNICKS BASKETBALL
11 LET'S MAKE A DEAL
22 30 I LOVE YOU A special musical-comedy valentine in which celebrities, and some of their families, express their feelings about the many facts of love.
32 FEATURE FILM "Saturday's Children" John Garfield, Claude Rains
38 MARCUS WELBY, M.D. "The Covenant".
8:30 3 SHIELDS AND YARNELL
8 19 40 LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY
11 DINAH!
9:00 3 CBS TUESDAY NIGHT MOVIE "Twilight's Last Gleaming"
8 19 40 THREE'S COMPANY
22 30 THE BIG EVENT: "King"
38 MOVIE "Valentino"
a 56 STAR TREK SPECIAL
9:30 2 24 57 ALFRED I DUPONT—COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY AWARDS FOR JOURNALISM
8 19 40 SOAP
10:00 2 [illegible] [illegible] NEWS
8 19 40 FAMILY "The Transylvania Pavillion" On the eve of his 21st birthday, Willie thwarts plans for a party and goes out alone, later to be joined by his father, Doug, and a sentimental working girl named Bambi.
32 BOLD ONES "Memo From The Class Of 76"
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:15 9 WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE "Angela"
10:30 2 THE MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
9 NEWARK AND REALITY
11 TO TELL THE TRUTH
27 JOE HYDER SHOW
11:00 2 24 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW
3 8 19 [illegible] 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
9 56 THE HOLLYWOOD CONNECTION
11 THE ODD COUPLE "The Breakup"
18 LIVING FAITH
27 MOVIE "Billy Liar"
32 ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS "A Woman's Help"
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 8 19 40 TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK
9 LATE MOVIE "Step Down To Terror" Colleen Miller, Charles Drake
11 THE HONEYMOONERS "Alice And The Blonde"
22 30 32 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
38 IRONSIDE "Let My Brother Go"
56 NIGHT GALLERY
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
11:58 3 EYEWITNESS NEWS

Top 20 college hoop

NEW YORK [UPI] — The United Press International Board of Coaches College Basketball Ratings with won-lost records through games of Sunday, Feb. 12, and number of first place votes in parentheses:

| TEAM | POINTS |
|---|---|
| 1. Marquette (16) (18-2) | 357 |
| 2. Kentucky (15) (17-2) | 345 |
| 3. Arkansas (7) (23-1) | 316 |
| 4. UCLA (2) (18-2) | 258 |
| 5. New Mexico (1) (19-2) | 156 |
| 6. Kansas (20-3) | 155 |
| 7. Michigan St. (18-3) | 140 |
| 8. North Carolina (20-5) | 107 |
| 9. Notre Dame (16-4) | 103 |
| 10. DePaul (20-2) | 99 |
| 11. Louisville (16-3) | 95 |
| 12. Florida St. (18-3) | 36 |
| 13. Providence (18-4) | 30 |
| 14. Texas (19-3) | 19 |
| 15. Georgetown (17-4) | 12 |
| 16. (Tie) Virginia (17-4) | 8 |
| 16. (Tie) Duke (17-5) | 8 |
| 18. St. John's (NY) (16-4) | 3 |
| 19. (Tie) Illinois St. (20-2) | 2 |
| 19. (Tie) Syracuse (16-4) | 2 |

Note: By agreement with the American Basketball Coaches Association, teams on probation by the NCAA are ineligible for Top 20 and National Championship consideration by the UPI Board of Coaches.

Tomjanovich lawsuit moves to federal court

HOUSTON [UPI] — A state district judge, assured intended damages would satisfy the legal minimum, yesterday moved to Federal Court a lawsuit filed by basketball player Rudy Tomjanovich against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Judge William Blanton gave attorneys 90 days in which to specify the dollar amount asked for in the lawsuit.

Tomjanovich, a forward for the Houston Rockets of the NBA, requires extensive facial surgery after being hit by Lakers' player Kermit Washington on Dec. 9 in Los Angeles.

No monetary damage was assigned to the suit initially because all the medical bills are not known, his lawyers said.

The Lakers club is owned by California Pro Sports Incorporated.

Lakers attorney Robert Dunn, who wanted the case tried in Federal Court, objected to Tomjanovich not naming the sum in his lawsuit.

A federal court will not hear a lawsuit of that type unless the amounts exceeds $10,000.

Kim Kronzer, attorney for Tomjanovich, told the court the amount would exceed that figure.

The jury trial is expected to be heard in late fall or early spring.

Ali eyes heavy underdog Spinks as formidable challenge to crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. [UPI] — Muhammad Ali has always been the poet's boxer, even if his own rhyming was never much more than brassy doggerel, and now in his greying years the suddenly silent heavyweight champion is well aware of the irony and poetic justice involved in facing a younger winner of the same Olympic Gold medal.

Leon Spinks, the 10-1 underdog Wednesday night in a triple header of boxing championships, may be written off by "experts" as a $3 million setup for all but the 36-year-old champ knows better.

Ali knows nobody is easy for him these days, especially after going the distance against the likes of Alfredo Evangelista and Earnie Shavers in his last two fights, and he has even stopped making his familiar predictions of victory.

Ali isn't saying much of anything lately, much to the relief of noise control groups and the consternation of the promoters, but he's getting ready to run.

Guarding against chance of losing his title to the 24-year-old slugging Spinks and hoping to reaffirm his own self-proclaimed greatness by beating the most recent Olympic light heavyweight Gold medalist at the start of what will likely be his final year of fighting, Ali may just be inspired enough to produce one of his finest performances.

"He's doing it all by himself and he's working hard," said Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee. "He's taking this guy very seriously. You'll see a lot of movement. He hasn't been sparring but he's been running more."

Ali watched Spinks that a 10-round decision against Italy's Alfio Righetti last November and saw exactly how fast Spinks comes out. Ali will likely cover up during Spinks' assaults then try to dazzle the challenger with flurries of punches and speedy footwork.

Ali may also break his silence in the middle of the fight to try to intimidate Sparks, who has had only seven professional bouts.

"Ali really appreciates the symmetry of this whole fight," says promoter Bob Arum. "You know it's a boost to his ego if he beats the guy who won the same Olympic title."

Spinks was 6 years old when 18-year-old Cassius Clay won the Light Heavyweight Gold in Rome in 1960 and was just getting his education as a street brawler in St. Louis when the young Clay threw his medal in the Ohio River, became heavyweight champ, changed his name and lost and regained his title.

Spinks left the streets to join the Marines and 18½ months ago mauled his way past four opponents in Montreal to win the same 178-pound title. In the finals, he nearly decapitated "Six Gun" Sixto Soria, the Cuban who previously had sent one opponent to the hospital and knocked out two others in the first round.

Spinks was a human hurricane in the Olympics, whaling away relentlessly. But those fights, like his 181 other amateur bouts, were all three rounds or less and he hasn't exactly been overwhelming as a professional.

Spinks, who cherishes the medal Ali tossed away, has had seven pro bouts, winning the first five by KO (three in the first round), drawing against Journeyman Scott Ledoux in 10 rounds and winning the decision against Rhigetti.

Spinks isn't quite the novice that Pete Rademacher was when he fought Floyd Patterson for the championship in his first pro fight 21 years ago, but he will surely be at a disadvantage to the savvy of Ali who has learned all the tricks and invented some new ones while piling up a 55-2 career record.

Ali, hovering around the 225-pound mark after shedding about 20 pounds in two months, may also take as much as a 25-pound weight advantage in against Spinks, who has been drinking beer with his morning eggs to build his weight over the 200 mark.

Experience, weight, speed, reach, height and style are all on Ali's side, but Spinks has precious youth.

"Muhammad's really fighting Father Time in this one," said a close Ali aide. "That's the only challenge he has left and he's savoring it."

For Your Valentine
Tuesday Feb. 14

Almy's
MT. FARMS MALL
RT. 9, HADLEY

Russell Stover CANDIES
Assorted Chocolates

RED FOIL HEART
1 LB. $4.25

SATIN HEART 2 LB. $10.95

Russell Stover
CANDIES

ASSORTED CHOCOLATES
1 LB. $3.25

Get Involved . . .

BE A STUDENT SENATOR

Have a say in how YOUR money is spent.

The following dorms have openings.

MARY LYON FIELD
VAN METER SOUTH
MOORE THOREAU
COOLIDGE LOWER
J.A. LOWER
J.A. UPPER
J.Q.A. LOWER
WASHINGTON MIDDLE JFK LOWER EMERSON
PATTERSON
WHEELER
CANCE

Nominations open today and close the 20th.
For more information come to 420 S.U. or call 545-0341.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Varsity Wrestling — Central Conn 31, UMass 9.

TODAY
Men's Basketball vs Villanova - Home 7:30 p.m.

TOMORROW
Hockey vs Williams - Home 8 p.m.
Men's Swimming at New Hampshire, 3 p.m.
Men's Gymnastics at So. Connecticut, 7:30 p.m.
Women's Gymnastics at So. Connecticut, 7:30 p.m.

Spikers debut with win

DURHAM, N.H. — The newly formed UMass men's volleyball club (UMVBC) began its debut season in the New England Collegiate Volley ball league by defeating Williams College in its first game. UMass, led by the players known as the "Burger King Six-Pack", rallied from a 6-1 deficit to upset the Ephmen, 15-12.

UMVBC went on to lose two games to Williams, and then played arduously against last year's division champs, UNH. UNH won all three games, but could not afford any substitutions versus UMVBC's tough opposition. UMVBC then defeated Lyndon State in three straight games.

Coach Michael Gurk noted that UMass will be a strong contender in its first year. after an extremely creditable league debut.

"Our forte is our court hustle and team morale from the large squad (12 travelling players of 20 members)," he said. "However, many players lack competitive experience in power volleyball."

Saturday, UMVBC will travel to Williamstown to play Williams, UNH, and Middlebury College. Sunday, at the Alumni Gymnasium, the team will play a dual match with Amherst College.

Scores of last weekend's games:

UMass-Williams: 15-12; 8-15; 3-15
UMass-UNH: 3-15; 9-15; 11-15
UMass-Lyndon St.: 15-2; 16-14; 16-14

Notices

JV BASEBALL — All candidates interested in JV Baseball should attend the meeting in Boyden, Room 249, today, 4 p.m.

PLAYOFF TICKETS — Due to a telephone failure, there was a short period of time when student tickets were not available (at the Stadium ticket booth) for the UM-Lehigh NCAA playoff football game Nov. 26. If you paid $4 for a ticket during this time, you are entitled to a $2 refund. You may pick up your refund at the Boyden Building Ticket Office during normal business hours upon presentation of your ID and ($4) ticket stub.

INTRAMURAL NOTICES — Racquetball schedules are ready.

Pickup old Volleyball forfeit fees.

Co-rec bowling entries are due tomorrow. There is a $6 fee to enter.

The following facilities will be closed on the dates listed: Boyden Pool — Feb. 18; NOPE Pool-Feb. 25; Hicks Building — Feb. 14, 16, 18, 21, 23, 27; NOPE Gym — Feb. 25.

Bluewall
Bar

U-MASS
Versus VILLANOVA
Basketball Game
45 min. delay
Tuesday Night
In Color
Game Time 8:45

If you get in to the game, come to the Blue Wall afterwards for a Victory Celebration and a replay of the games highlights.

Wrestlers taken by Devils

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Things got off to a bad start last night. The Minutemen grapplers, rampaged with flu and physical injuries, dropped a 31-9 decision at the hands of the Blue Devils of Central Connecticut last night at Boyden Auxiliary Gym, and for a time there was some doubt that UMass would even win a match.

Starters Larry Otsuka and Tony Perry were out of the UMass lineup, and coach Dave Amato had both Dana Rasmussen and Timmy Fallon wrestling up a class; so to say that the UMass lineup was makeshift would be an understatement.

Opening at 118 pounds, Dave Daly was felled and Rasmussen lost a close 5-4 decision at 126 pounds. The latter's bout ended in a 4-4 tie, but the CenConn grappler was able to win the match on riding time.

CenConn continued the onslaught with a win in both the 134 and 142 pound classes. In the 142 pound match, Charley Rigoglioso, who has been one of coach Amato's most consistent wrestlers, was caught in a rare pin.

Then came Mike Carroll. He's the kid who has been growing too fast for Amato to find a place for him to wrestle, but last night he settled in nicely at 150 pounds and came away with a convincing win, taking his match by a score of 12-2.

Carroll, a freshman from New York, has grown so much in this, his first year of collegiate competition, that he has been unable to make weight at 142 pounds twice this season, even though he competed at a lighter weight in high school.

With Timmy Fallon wrestling at 158 pounds instead of his customary 150, Amato was able to insert Carroll there.

"He was just about the best thing that happened to us tonight," said Amato. "He and Allen were the only bright spots in our lineup."

It seemed as though the UMies would win at 158 pounds, but Fallon, the Minutemen grappler, was awarded only two back points in the third period of his match, rather than the four that he evidently deserved. Rather than winning the match, the bout ended in a 5-5 tie, which adds up to two team points per side. One team point was deducted from the UMass score as Fallon was slapped with a misconduct.

"I don't want to say anything about the ref," said a disappointed Fallon after the meet. "He took two points away from me that I thought I had, but it's not worth talking about. Besides, I screwed up anyway."

CenConn put the meet on ice with three more wins in the 167, 177, and 190 pound weight classes.

In the last match of the night, heavyweight wrestler John Allen, who apparently does not know how to lose, shut out his foe 11-0 for four team points. For Allen, it has been difficult to compete in the final weight class knowing that his team cannot win the meet.

"It's a team sport based on individual competition," said Allen. "I've learned to try as hard as I can no matter what the score is because the team's been losing lately."

The Minutemen, now 4-13 on the season, travel to West Point for a meet with the Cadets tomorrow. New York Maritime has also been added to the meet.

Wrestling Notes — There is still no definite date set for the return of grappler Larry Otsuka.

"We can expect him to be out for at least another week," said George Snook, the team's doctor. "After that we'll just have to wait and see, but he should be ready for the New Englands.

Neither Snook nor Amato were able to comment on the condition of Tony Perry....

★ Minutemen basketball

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

Reggie Robinson and 6-6 freshman sensation Alex Bradley, both of whom are averaging just under 14 points a game. The front court is small (all three starters are 6-6) but they are quick, and UMass forwards had better be prepared for a road race.

Complementing the forwards are guards Rory Sparrow and Whitey Rigsby. However, Rigsby may be unavailable tonight since he's suffering from a back ailment and the after affects of the flu, according to Villanova Sports Information Director Ted Wolff.

Villanova, like UMass, has been affected by the flu bug. Last week both its games were postponed because all but two substitutes had the flu.

Wolff said Villanova had not played a game in ten days and held their first practice in a week on Sunday.

Villanova has a local product on its squad. Marty Caron, who led Notre Dame of Fitchburg to three straight New England Catholic championships, is listed as a center on the team roster. According to Wolff, the sophomore played his best game as a Wildcat ten days ago against George Washington.

"They took us out of our offensive patterns the last time we played them," said Leaman. "We were down 22 in the first half. They're the best team in the EAA."

Hardly the stuff winning streaks are made of.

Year after year, semester after semester, the CollegeMaster® from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular plan on campuses all over America.

Find out why.
Call the Fidelity Union CollegeMaster® Field Associate in your area:

CollegeMaster®

Ronald J. Nathan Agency
747 Main St.
Amherst, Mass.
256-8351

Pyatt returns

Hoopsters to host Villanova

(Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Second year guard Bill Morrison (22) has seen his playing time increase to the point where he has started several games. Here he glides to the hoop against PC's Bob Misevicious.

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

UMass forward Mike Pyatt will return to action tonight when a tired and struggling University of Massachusetts basketball team attempts to snap a two-game losing skein when it hosts Villanova University at the Cage at 7:30.

Pyatt, stricken by the flu bug last week, missed the Minutemen's last two games, both losses, but practiced yesterday and will be available tonight, although UMass coach Jack Leaman isn't sure just how long Pyatt can play.

"I'm going to start Mike tomorrow," Leaman said yesterday after practice. "But I don't know how long he can go for."

Pyatt's presence was sorely missed last week when UMass dropped two decisions away from Curry Hicks Cage. The Minutemen lost to Rutgers at Piscataway, N.J., Thursday, 74-62, then wound up on the short end of a 76-74 decision to Maine Saturday night in Orono.

The shocking result from Maine could partly be attributed to the non-presence of Pyatt, but all excuses aside, there's little justification for any UMass basketball squad, no matter who's playing, to be trailing UMaine by 16 points in the second half.

The team's recent defensive deficiency, especially in the front court, is what disturbs Leaman the most about his team's play.

Leaman said there was no excuse for allowing the Rutgers front line 57 points and then giving away 43 points to Maine's scoring duo of Rufus Harris and Roger Lapham. He was still unsure yesterday about any changes he might make to correct the team's weak defensive play.

"I'm disappointed we didn't beat Maine with what we had," Leaman said. "But I'm especially disappointed with the defense we've been getting from our forwards lately.

"That hasn't been our only problem, though," continued Leaman. "We're not shooting well. We only shot 39 per cent at Maine and they're not a really strong defensive club."

There have been some bright spots, though, in UMass's play recently to encourage Leaman. He's pleased by the play of center Len Kohlhaas, and Leaman has nothing but the highest plaudits for guard Alex Eldridge.

"Right now, Alex is playing the best basketball of his career at Massachusetts," Leaman said. Eldridge scored 20 and 18 points in each of UMass's last two games.

Past history aside, UMass must now focus its attention on an extremely talented Villanova team. The Wildcats sport a formidable 15-5 record that includes victories over such potent teams as Providence, Princeton, Penn and Rutgers. The record also includes a heartbreaking one point loss to Notre Dame at the Irish's home court.

Villanova currently leads the EAA with an unspoiled 7-0 record and needs just one more in-conference victory to clinch top seeding in the league's March playoffs. In other words, they could clinch that top billing with a win tonight.

Villanova coach Roland Massimino, who was the mentor at Lexington high school from 1963-69 and won a Bay State Tournament Class 'A' championship in 1964, has a wealth of talent sitting on his bench.

The Wildcats, who defeated UMass earlier this season, 71-64, are lead by senior Keith Herron, a legitimate All-American candidate. The 6-6 quick forward carries some impressive credentials.

Consider these: He's hit double figures in every game except five while playing in a Villanova uniform; and last season he gained these post season awards: Sporting News' All-America honorable mention, Basketball Weekly's All-East honorable mention.

Herron, averaging 20.8 ppg this season, also was named to last season's ECBL all-star team and the ECBL and NIT All-Tourney teams.

Those statistics, and there are more, are made readily available by Villanova, which sent a four page brochure extolling the talents of Herron. Very few players warrant this attention, but Herron is a pure pro prospect deserving of such accolades.

There is more to Villanova than just Herron, though, as the Minutemen found in their previous meeting.

Joining Herron in the front court are 6-6

TURN TO PAGE 23

Swimmen's 4th in a row

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

Quietly and efficiently the UMass men's swimming team is establishing itself as one of the most successful squads on campus.

Traveling up to the University of Vermont proved to be no obstacle in the mermen's quest for their fourth consecutive win. They returned from last Saturday's meet with the Catamounts victorious again, by the comfortable margin of 61-52.

This win improved their record to a formidable 6-1, with the lone setback coming against the University of Maine. Unlike basketball, losing at the hands of the swimmers from Orono is not a degrading disaster. Maine supplies athletic funding for its swim program, which includes recruits from as far off as Arizona.

UMass, of course, does not supply money to its swim program. The team's success reflects the efforts and sacrifices of the individual members, combined with Coach Bei Melamed's great ability for developing their modest talents to the fullest. "We've outsmarted a lot of teams, such as Tufts," he said. "Plus, we have progressed and improved dramatically from the start of the season."

Despite having many members weakened by the flu, UMass was well in command of the meet. The team assumed the lead from the opening event with the foursome of Jim Leland, Harry Fulford, Bill Tyler and Tom Stevens outdueling the 400 yard medley relay squad of UVM with a time of 3:47:9.

Three members of that relay team also had great success in subsequent events. Tyler won both the 200 yard freestyle and 500 yard category. The latter race produced a rarity in long distance swimming competition, as both he and a member of the UVM team hit the finish line simultaneously in a time of 5:08:9.

Leland went on to gain a school record, lowering his own mark for the third time in the 200 yard backstroke with an impressive 2:05:5.

Fulford, meanwhile, won the 200 yard breaststroke, defeating teammate Russ Yarworth, which is an accomplishment of itself. Yarworth, though second to Fulford, did place first in two other events.

It is impossible to cover a UMass swim meet and leave out the name Yarworth. Lately, whenever he swims, he leaves a trail of broken records behind him. The Vermont meet was no exception.

In the 200 yard individual medley, he broke a UVM pool record with a 2:01:6, and shortly after tied another school record of 2:03:4 in the 200 yard butterfly.

Melamed praised Yarworth, stating, "he can do it all — he is the most versatile swimmer we have, and a good all around athlete. What is most amazing about him, is he is continually getting better. He has yet to hit a plateau in his four years here."

The diving tandem of Antonino and Anthony was again instrumental in UMass' victory. Antonino won both the one meter diving and three meter diving events with Anthony placing second in each.

The next meet will find the swim-team traveling to the University of New Hampshire tomorrow. Melamed foresees no difficulty in outswimming his northern opponents, but he emphasized that as the season winds to an end the importance of dual meets decreases in order to properly concentrate for the upcoming New Englands. UNH is just one of three meets remaining prior to the March 2-4 New England competition.

Russ Smith

The last domain

Things were plenty different, back in the good old days.

Even when the Earth was inhabited with primitive peoples, things ran smoothly enough to get by; cavewomen swept the dust from the floors of their stone age cubbyhole, while the man of the 'household' ventured into the wilds in search of food.

No complaints from the wife, and everything was hunky-dory.

Man eventually became more advanced, and civilized, but needed someone to govern the lands he lived and toiled on. Elections were held, with men running for this office, and that; the women looked on from the background, with noticeable disinterest, perhaps.

Time marched on, to the point of Sunday afternoon football games on a new fangled invention, later to be known as a television (alias idiot box, boob tube, etc.). Many a church-day followed, where the "old man" would escape to the neighboring pub for a beer with his buddies, man-to-man talk, and just plain ordinary shootin' the bull while watching the game on color TV.

But alas, the good old days have long gone.

The cave no longer is swept by the wife, but by the live-in maid, who has her own room on the third floor of the moat-surrounded castle, located in the suburbs of Newton. At least the maid does windows.

Women were 'given' the right to vote, and even permitted to run for offices themselves, instead of running for coffee and doughnuts for the boss.

Bars became co-educational, instead of uni-sexual; though it is uncertain as to what kind of learning is going on in bars today.

These changes were bound to happen, given time. Most of us have come to accept the slightly radical new experience, too, mainly because we couldn't stop their implementation (those that would've liked to).

But things may be getting out of hand. I mean women can vote and drink — what else could they want?

They want the right to go into men's locker rooms, that's what.

Not only all women, presumably; just women sportswriters.

They claim sex discrimination. Men reporters can meander freely amongst athletes dressed in their birthday suits, towels, or Sunday best, whilst their counterparts await behind closed doors — the locker room one. They claim they can't do their job efficiently or effectively, with deadlines hanging over their heads, and do a decent job, because they have to wait until the athlete can come to them, (meanwhile, being scooped by the men writers).

Well, I can see their point, and I can't. Not all sportswriters of the female sex are barred from the male domain. Accommodations have been made to allow them to do their thing in some sports arenas: special rooms set aside and the athlete brought to them, etc.

OK, so the special room cuts down on the atmosphere, and maybe the attitude of the player.

But a woman sportswriter in a locker room could make the athlete uneasy, dampening the interview also.

Different teams handle the situation differently.

"We just tell players a woman may be coming in and the ones it bothers get dressed after she leaves," says Vice President of the Denver Nuggets, Bob King.

That's one way of handling an issue. But that's basketball, and the whole 'female - in - the - locker - room' but may not have come about (or been blown out of proportion) if one Miss Ludtke hadn't been sent by Sports Illustrated to cover the World Series of '77, and the Yankees.

The Yankees refused to allow Miss Ludtke into the locker room. She filed suit against both Bowie Kuhn (Commissioner of Baseball) and the Yankees. Naturally, that suit will be decided in court, as most sports problems are these days.

Did Sports Illustrated know Miss Ludtke would be on the outside of the door marked "men's locker" with her ear to it, to set the court machine in motion? Or was it ignorance on their part?

Whatever the reason, the way I look at it, men aren't ripping the doors off women's locker rooms, and filing suits, etc.

If we don't watch out, the all-male locker room may become extinct, and men's last domain may be washed down the shower drain.

Next thing you know, women will want to play on men's teams too.

Leave it to the Yankees to start trouble.

---

UMass upsets Villanova, 87-72

See page 24

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 84 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Chairmen say no to faculty union

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

Three recently opened ballots from a poll of academic department chairmen have indicated the chairmen do not wish to be included in the faculty union. The three ballots were contested after the poll was taken last year.

One of the ballots opened was for exclusion from the union. The other two favored inclusion in the bargaining unit. Together with the non-contested results of the poll, the chairmen voted 32 against inclusion in the unit, 27 for inclusion, and two for no agent to represent them.

The results of the poll will not be forwarded to the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission. Under the terms of an agreement reached last year, both the faculty union and the administration agreed to petition the labor commission to redefine the union bargaining unit along the lines of the poll of the chairmen. The chairmen presently are included in the unit.

The administration has contended the chairmen should not be part of the union, but the faculty union has claimed they should be.

The administration last year was cited by the labor commission for unfair labor practices for refusing to bargain with the union over the issue of department chairmen.

"I'm disappointed," Massachusetts Society of Professors chairman Larry S. Roberts said. "The matter is not closed though. We always have hope." The Society is the Amherst chapter of the faculty union.

Under Mass. labor law, only the labor commission can certify changes in union make-up. The "preference poll" of the chairmen is non-binding.

A spokeswoman for the labor commission yesterday said it would be "hard to see" how the commission would act on the redefinition.

"It really depends on evidence presented," she said.

The spokeswoman said sometimes the commission will approve redefinitions when both parties agree, but sometimes the commission will not.

A hearing to present the results of the poll was scheduled for last Oct. 31. That hearing was postponed until Dec. 12 and subsequently was postponed until Feb. 9. The Feb. 9 hearing was cancelled due to last week's blizzard.

Zina Tillona, special aide to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, could not be reached for comment. Bromery is UMass senior vice president in charge of faculty relations and was also unavailable.

Some faculty have expressed concern over prospects of the chairmen not being included in the union. They claim that if the chairmen are excluded from the union, faculty could lose their ability to evaluate each other. Faculty presently are reviewed for re-appointment, promotion and tenure by faculty personnel committees and the department chairpersons.

The administration has proposed elimination of the personnel committees in its contract proposal to the union. Should the department chairmen not be included in the union and the personnel committees eliminated, some faculty claim all evaluation will be done by the administration and not faculty.

Alex Eldridge slides by Villanova's Keith Herron on his way to scoring his one thousandth point in his college career. The Minutemen went on to destroy Villanova in a run away game played before 4,000 students in the cage. (Staff photo by Geoffrey L. Cohler)

Snow slows campus affirmative action talks

By E. PATRICK MCQUAID
Collegian Staff

An agreement between chief administrators at this campus and civil rights officials from the Boston office of the department of Health Education and Welfare concerning affirmative action policies has not yet been signed and accepted by HEW because of the recent snowstorm that crippled Boston and most of the east coast.

John Bynoe, regional director for the Office of Civil Rights, HEW Region I, last night said the document had been drafted by Amherst Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery's office Jan. 14 and forwarded to the HEW office last week for his consideration.

Bynoe said he was in Denver, Col. last week and was forced to remain there because of the weather. He said a date will be set soon and the agreement should be signed by both parties within the next week.

Reached at his home, Bynoe said he would not discuss the agreement until he had more time to review the 18-page document at his office.

He said a series of letters beginning last June were sent to the Amherst campus from his office citing a number of "non-compliances" with existing federal guidelines for affirmative action policies after complaints have been lodged by women and Asian faculty members concerning the salary structure here.

Among the provisions of the proposed compromise is a clause requiring the University to establish a data maintenance and analysis system to internally audit, monitor, and assess the effectiveness of its affirmative action policies. But, said Bynoe, the University will not be alone in its monitoring process nor left to evaluate itself.

Our office will be monitoring the University at the same time they are monitoring themselves," he noted. "Of course we will be following their actions all along as they report to us constantly."

Affirmative action guidelines are enforced by the federal government in order to provide equal employment opportunities for all, including women and minority groups.

In his first address to the Board of Trustees in early January, University interim President Franklin K. Patterson included upgrading affirmative action policies at the three campuses as a major issue for their consideration.

Inside

UMass defeated Villanova last night, 87-72. For the full details, see Rich Eckel's story on page 24.

A haunted house in Amherst faces possible demolition if plans to place it on the National Register of Historic Places are not met. See Debbie Schafer's story on page 2.

Central-Orchard Hill area resident assistants last night said the work done by RAs on campus is more than their salary compensation. See Julie Eagle's story, page 3.

Faculty and staff funding of the UMass bus system will be proposed to the Undergraduate Student Senate tonight. See page 3.

Student support for the closing of part of North Pleasant Street could force Amherst selectmen to reconsider the Northwest Bypass. Details on page 3.

Weather

Partly sunny today with highs in the low 30s. Fair tonight with lows in the teens, zero chance of snow or rain.

Student senate requests faculty, staff pay for buses

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

A recommendation was made yesterday by the Undergraduate Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee that faculty and staff contribute financial support to the UMass Bus Service.

The committee unanimously passed a motion which called for establishing "a fee to be paid by faculty and staff or increasing the price paid by faculty and staff for parking lot stickers."

The meeting was called to discuss plans for funding the buses, specifically a recent administration proposal to levy a $5 semester fee on students to pay for the system. The committee rejected the plan for a student fee and called for a tax to be placed on faculty and staff.

Committee co-chairman Bob Dion said, "If the student senate approves it, the administration has the ball. Either they enact the fee or ignore it."

Student Government Association co-president Jon A. Hite said during the meeting "Everytime on this campus we have a community project like the Campus Center, the buses or the Fine Arts Center, it's the student that gets nailed. Faculty and staff should pay for community projects they benefit from."

Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance James L. McBee said at the meeting he didn't think the possibility of establishing a fee for staff and faculty was "realistic".

Jim Starr of Legal Services said, "given the state of affairs with faculty and staff they are less likely to accept a fee than students." He added, "I think students are saying it's about time the other constituencies fork up their share."

McBee said, "Faculty who pay parking fees and don't use the buses don't want to pay for buses."

The vice chancellor also discussed the proposal for a student fee. "It's the best way to provide soundness for the transit system." I don't think it's a political move," he said.

Can it be saved?

Amherst's haunted house

By DEBBIE SCHAFER
Collegian Staff

Amherst's 19th century "haunted house" at 644 Main St. may soon become an empty lot unless the Amherst Historical Commission succeeds in placing the mansion on the National Register of Historic Places.

The 18 room structure has deteriorated in recent years, but until last July it was the home of 97-year-old Mrs. Phillip Smith. Smith left the house then to move into a local nursing home and sold the mansion to Peter Grandonico of Lincoln Realty.

Grandonico made the future of the house uncertain by saying he might demolish it if it did not prove to be an economical investment. He reportedly has a buyer for the bricks if the house is demolished, but commented he would rather see someone purchase the house and renovate it into apartments or offices.

The Historical Commission held an open strategy meeting last month after learning of Grandonico's plans and decided to ask the Massachusetts Historical Commission to try to have the house placed on the National Register.

Entry in the National Register of Historic Places may prevent Grandonico from demolishing the house since it would give the owner "certain tax breaks", according to Kristin O'Connell of the Historical Commission. It makes the owner eligible for federal grants to assist in renovation and restoration, but does not provide funding or tax deductions for any project involving demolition of the house.

The Historical Commission has just received state approval of the application to the National Register, and can now proceed to obtain federal approval. The state's endorsement is an important factor in gaining federal approval, according to O'Connell, and the process is expected to take about six months.

There are no funds in the Commission budget to allow them to purchase the house, but members defined their responsibility as one encouraging private purchase and restoration. The loss of the Smith House, according to Louis Greenbaum of the Historical Commission, "would be a loss to every person in the community."

Two area residents who expressed interest in buying the house and converting it into an apartment block attended the January meeting but were told zoning regulations would limit the number of apartments to four. Both interested parties had planned to construct apartments around the mansion's six fireplaces and said that any limitations would not make a profitable return on their investment, as estimates for the purchase and repair of the house have run as high as $100,000.

It was decided the commission would consider endorsing a request to exempt the house from the zoning ordinance if it is the only alternative to demolition.

One of the potential buyers told the Historical Commission that he "got involved with the house emotionally" and was charmed by rumors that it was haunted. If possible he would live in the house himself and do most of the remodeling.

The house was built in 1840 by Robert Cutler and has become a local legend; though it has "emotional" ties for many area residents, not all agree it should be dubbed as "haunted". Paul Banks, Salem St., has lived near the Smith house for 12 years and said "although we all admit to each other that it looks like a 'haunted house', it simply is not."

"Also, Mrs. Smith is.... a fine, kind, elderly lady, far from being a character from 'Arsenic and Old Lace' as some people might imagine her," he added.

The first resident of the mansion was Ithmar Conkey. He was active in local civil affairs and acted as town moderator, town treasurer, county probate judge, and state representative.

The house was a simple square edifice when Conkey passed the property on to William Barrows. But in 1868 Barrows sold it to Abile Stevens who added the grand veranda, iron fence, the Mansard roof and other typical Victorian embellishments.

Presently included among the 18 rooms are six bedrooms with a fireplace, a large ballroom on the second floor, and four additional rooms on the third floor.

Seventeen buildings in Hadley near the intersection of Route 9 and Middle St. were recently placed on the National Register of Historic Places, after nearly two years of work by the Hadley Historical Commission to gain recognition for them.

Commission members said they wanted the National Register status to ensure preservation of the center, which includes the Town Hall and Farm Museum. The commission's purpose was to protect the building against a federal project like the widening of Route 9, rather than to secure federal grants since none of the buildings are presently in need of major repairs.

Huge mansions like those in Amherst and Hadley once covered the New England landscape. Some of the area buildings have passed through many generations in the same family, while others passed through several owners and have undergone minor and major repairs in plumbing, wiring and appearance.

Amherst's "haunted house", which soon may become a vacant lot if efforts to have the structure placed on the National Register of Historic Places fail. (Staff photo by Debbie Schafer)

....newslines....

Van driver David Sukol's hearing set for March 7

NORTHAMPTON — The hearing for the driver of the van which struck and killed a UMass student two weekends ago has been scheduled for March 7.

David Sukol, of 543 Puffton Village, yesterday in Hampshire District Court pleaded not guilty to charges of speeding and driving to endanger in connection with a weekend accident which left UMass sophomore Scott C. Burgess dead.

—JOE QUINLAN

W. Michael Ryan may run for district attorney

A UMass graduate is expected to announce his candidacy today in this year's race for the Hampshire and Franklin County district attorney's office of Franklin and Hampshire counties.

W. Michael Ryan, class of 1971 and a democrat from Hatfield, is expected to announce his candidacy for the office being vacated by District Attorney John M. Callahan, during visits to three county courthouses today.

Ryan plans to visit the Franklin County Courthouse in Greenfield and the Hampshire District Court in Northampton this morning and the courthouse in Ware at 12:30 this afternoon.

Ryan graduated from Western New England School of Law in 1976 and practices law in Northampton. He served as a probation officer at the district court in Northampton.

—JOE QUINLAN

UMass-Boston studies extended until June 2

BOSTON — Students attending the UMass-Boston Harbor Campus will attend classes one week later in May because of five days they missed during last week's crippling snow storm.

Commencement exercises have also been rescheduled a week later to June 1, according to campus spokesperson Jim Ryan.

Students will still have a spring break in March, Ryan said, but they will not take final exams until late May. Finals period for the campus had been scheduled for May 11-19.

Ryan said the campus reopened for students yesterday after being closed for five days while Bostonians dug out of the worst snow storm in New England this century. Campus personnel returned to work Monday, Ryan said.

—JOE QUINLAN

SW hires musician, buys basketball nets

Southwest assembly last night voted to allocate $150 to hire musician Steve Gire to play at Hampden DC March 3rd. Admission will be fifty cents.

The assembly also allocated $19.20 to purchase eight pairs of basketball nets for the Southwest courts.

An election will be held Feb. 21 to elect an acting president for the SWA. Southwest residents are eligible for this position.

—ANDY McCLELLAN

Today's Staff

Issue Editors Big Bird and D.A.

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Chris Schmitt |
| News Department | Fifi Ball |
| Sports layout | Michael McHugh |
| Day layout | Elaine Scannell |
| Editorial layout | Paula Strollo |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Head darkroom tech | Dale Griswold |
| Photo staff | Geoff Cohler, Amira Rahman, Sue Boissevais |
| Head moose | Gumby Hobbs |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Selectmen reconsider bypass

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

Amherst Selectwoman Nancy B. Eddy yesterday said increased student pressure and support could possibly force the town to reconsider a plan to close the portion of North Pleasant Street that runs through the UMass campus.

Another selectman last night said he did not see a solution to the traffic problem in the immediate future while a third contacted said he did not think the plan was "politically feasible" at this time.

The proposal, referred to in the past as the Northeast Bypass plan, was passed by a 1973 town meeting but was rejected by a town meeting in 1976.

According to Eddy, the bypass proposal was formulated several years ago by the Traffic Circulation Committee, a committee set up by a town meeting that had University representation. She once chaired the committee.

"I have always supported the closing of North Pleasant Street through campus," Eddy said yesterday in a telephone interview. She also said she feels Amherst has an obligation to pedestrians and students to make the campus "pedestrian-oriented".

She said the major opposition to the plan comes from the people of North Amherst who don't like the idea of having a new road built in their part of town.

"They like the idea of having a straight route to the center of town. They don't like the idea of a detour," said Eddy.

The half-mile stretch of North Pleasant Street running from the Newman Center to Governor's Drive has recently been in the spotlight because of two traffic accidents involving UMass students.

Scott C. Burgess was struck by a van and killed as he tried to cross the road near the Morrill Science Center on Feb. 4 and Joseph O'Rourke, a Feb. 11 hit-and-run victim, suffered bruises and lacerations while trying to cross the street near the Newman Center.

Selectman William Atkins yesterday said he did not see a solution to the problem in the immediate future.

"It might take another three years to work out an answer," said Atkins.

He said that although he hadn't studied the issue, he would be willing to sit down with any group to discuss possible solutions.

"I have no opinion at this time," said Atkins.

He did say he didn't think the town would approve a bypass proposal and that some type of proposal to divert traffic from North Pleasant Street would probably be given preference by future town meetings.

One such proposal calls for traffic to be diverted from North Pleasant Street through Rt. 116.

Selectman Nathaniel Reed also supports the original Northeast Bypass proposal but does not think it will be passed again.

"I think it's a good idea. I worked to get the Northeast Bypass accepted," said Reed, referring to his role as a member of the Traffic Circulation Committee.

He said he did not think it was "politically feasible" for the plan to be passed now.

"First, it would be difficult to persuade the town meeting. Even if that could be done, it might be even more difficult to persuade the state to come back in," said Reed.

He said the state is probably still "mad" at Amherst for rejecting the original bypass proposal after the state had already spent $400,000 in planning to build the bypass.

"The state got burned," said Reed.

He said he is in favor of closing the street, not only because of the hazardous crossing conditions but also because he doesn't like the way the street splits the university into two parts.

Reed said that Amherst might be able to use political pressure, through State Senator John Olver and State Rep. James Collins, Amherst Democrats, to get the state to cooperate on a bypass plan.

However, he was not very optimistic. "As for the feasibility of closing North Pleasant Street, I think it looks very dim," said Reed.

Cars driving north on a campus section of North Pleasant Street where two recent auto-pedestrian accidents have left one UMass student dead and another injured. Proposals to close the campus stretch of the street have been proposed by different groups in the past. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Central-Orchard Hill RA's complain about pay

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

Dormitory resident assistants are doing more work than they are compensated for, echoed the major complaint last night at the first organizational meeting of Central-Orchard Hill Area resident assistants.

Although the resident assistant's salary was raised to $2.65 an hour in January, their hours were cut to 6.6 in order they receive the same salary as before, Lisa Melilli, meeting chairperson and Butterfield resident assistant said. Tuition waivers for resident assistants have been eliminated also, she added.

"Although the salary compensation has decreased, the amount of time and energy encompassed has not," Melilli, Jody Marcus, and Helen Berg, all Butterfield resident assistants said in a recent letter to the Collegian.

Melilli said resident assistants "should be getting the right compensation for what we're doing.... because the type of responsibility we're handling — the living situation, the social situation — plays a large part in what goes on with all these people's lives at the University."

Hamlin Resident Assistant Jim Major said being a resident assistant "prevents you from doing what you want to do. Even when you're in your room studying, you're in there, and you're available." Major said resident assistants in his dormitory figured out that in addition to the 6.6 hours they are paid for, they spend an additional 15 hours weekly performing job duties.

The resident assistants at the meeting decided several steps must be taken to begin work on their situation. First, Melilli said, an effort should be made to contact and inform all resident assistants in the Central-Orchard Hill Area about the issue.

"We're starting with Central-Orchard Hill because you have to start with a small group. We'd eventually like it to be a campus-wide thing," Melilli said.

The resident assistants agreed investigating the possibility of receiving money from the Community Development Center or other organizations, such as alcohol and drug rehabilitation centers, or sources outside the university, would perhaps lead to salary compensations.

Acquiring information about other groups having the same problem publicizing the issue in the Collegian, finding out whether or not the university profits from the minimum wage, and who made the decision to decrease resident assistant hours, were other issues also concerning the resident assistants last night.

Another meeting was called for next Tuesday night at 9 in Butterfield Lounge, Melilli said.

The first meeting of the "learn to squaredance" class, sponsored by the UMass Heymakers, got off to a swinging start last night in the Student Union. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Student Senate preview

Student senate hears campus bus proposal

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate will hear a proposal tonight to have the faculty and staff assist in funding the UMass bus system.

The Senate Rents and Fees committee, met yesterday to discuss funding the bus system. They called for faculty and staff to pay a fee or increased parking sticker prices to help pay for the system. If the Senate approves the motion then it will go to the administration.

The senate will also hear reports from the Advocacy Agencies, Legal Services, the Student Organizing Project and the Student Center for Educational Research. The reports from these groups will be on staff work.

The senate also has to decide whether to approve the proposed lease for dorm residents.

There will also be reports on the Financial aid office and its operations.

The Senate will also consider a proposal for setting up a check cashing facility.

Senate Leaders will discuss a meeting they had with Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Robert Woodbury on Student Activities Coordinator Armand H. (Bud) Demers. Student leaders have clashed with Demers on his running of the Activities office. Senate Speaker Pat Whalen did not want to comment on what apparently were guidelines from Woodbury on the Demers matter until his presentation to the Senate tomorrow.

Representatives from the area governments will go before the senate to request $7,031. Last spring the areas were given money based on what they say were incorrect figures.

Area government officials claim that projected population figures were used instead of previous years' population figures which are supposed to be the basis of the allocation.

Black Affairs

Valerie Nii becomes new CCEBS counselor

By TERRELL EVANS
Black Affairs Staff

Valerie Nii, former UMass undergraduate, started her new job yesterday as the sophomore counselor for the Collegiate Committee for the Education of Black Students (CCEBS).

"Today is my first day, said Nii, and I have seen four students, spent a lot of time learning new things, signing add-drop sheets and asking a lot of questions."

Nii was a very active memeber of the Asian American Students Association while at UMass and has been working for the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) as a job counselor for the past six months.

Nii decided that she will not take any courses at UMass this semester, learning her new job is her primary concern. She graduated with a degree in sociology and plans to continue studying for her Masters in Vocational or Academic counseling.

"Because I was unemployed for awhile I went to a lot of counselors from different organizations. I feel that it is important that counselors have warmth and concern for the individual.

Many of the counselors, I feel, had no concern for me at all. Even high school counselors are this way. Counselors, I feel are there for support and encouragement and to help guide," she said.

Nii feels she will have no problem working with college students because of the experience she had working with CETA.

"I feel that if I could work with the laborers, I could deal with the students here. Having been a student there helps a lot too" she said.

Black History Week to be celebrated here

Sponsored by Malcom X Center and Eno Washington February 21-24.
Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 6 p.m. Che Lemumba School presents Childrens' play.
Theme: In memory of Malcom X
Also: Voices of New Africa House Choir
Dinner: $1.00 per plate at Yvonnes
Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. A special Rededication Ceremony of the Malcom X Center
John Bracy, Chairman of Afro-Am Dept keynote speech
Slide Show of Festac, by Prof. Nelson Stevens
Poetry Readings by:
Valery Stevens, Annie Carpenter, Frieda Jones, Shareef Rasool
Dance by Eno Washington
Thursday, 8 p.m. at Campus Center Auditorium Sonia Sanchez: internationally famous poet, sponsored by DVP.
Friday 8-10:30 p.m. Sunlight and Shade. Black Classical music

Our Valentine's Day couples how was your day?

Although Valentine's Day has come and gone, it's a time when loved ones exchange greetings. Despite inclimate conditions causing making flowers less plentiful, Valentine's Day was still the biggest day for the florist industry. It is traditionally a banner day for the greeting cards and candy companies also.

If you gave someone a Valentine's greeting or gift, ask yourself how much time did you take selecting it. Perhaps you show how much you care for someone by how much you spend. If so, examine your reasons.

Some people do not participate in special occasions such as Valentine's Day, but if you celebrated Valentine's, ask yourself why?

Whatever the reasons behind people choosing to celebrate Valentine's, the staff of Black Affairs is delighted to present two beautiful couples who are very in tuned to each other. We could not think of a more effective way of communicating the ideal of togetherness.

Here we have Leon from Mackimmie dorm in Southwest, and his Queen, from South Africa, who also resides in Southwest, and what a fine pair they make.

This Valentine's special is an inspiration to most of us, and we are sure you will appreciate them. Here we have Anna Betsy Medina (wife), Miquel Rivera (husband) and little Kevin Miquel (son) enjoying themselves. (Staff photo by Bari Njiiri)

Around the world in news

NEW YORK — Muhammed Ali sued Playgirl magazine for $4 million Tuesday for allegedly publishing a nude likeness of him in its February issue.

Ali, in papers filed in U.S. District Court, said the likeness violated his right to privacy and exposed him to public ridicule.

The heavyweight boxing champion asked that the magazine be barred from further distribution and sale of the issue.

---

BANGOR, Maine — Newall declared.

"Certainly the Penobscots didn't agree to have four townships stolen from them," Newall said. The Passamaquoddies, at Pleasant Point and Indian Townhip reservations, approved the new proposals with little dissension. The Penobscots, who live at Orono on Indian Island reservation in the middle of the river that carries their name, voted acceptance also, but produced 16 dissenters in a crowd of just over 100.

"I think the hardest part to accept is the small acreage," Nicholas said, speaking of last week's effort by the eight-member negotiating team to present the plan to the Indian community. The initial Indian claim was for about 12 million acres, and the negotiating team agreed to a plan that would give them half-a-million acres at the most.

---

The Women's International Network says it has extensively documented medical evidence indicating that all females aged four through eight in the African nation of Somalia are subjected to the painful practice of infibulation.

WIN says that the operation, without exception, is performed on all girl children. The operation involves having the external genitalia cut off, and then sewing the vagina closed, except for a tiny opening (quote) "to demonstrate their virginity to the man to whom they are given in marriage."

WIN says that many of these operations are conducted in government-sponsored hospitals and clinics — facilities which are operated with the use of funds from Western governments.

WIN says it has sent petitions signed by thousands of women and men around the world to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, asking that all assistance, including military aid, to Somalia be stopped at once until Somali's government corrects what it calls "ongoing human rights violations," specifically the mutilation of female children. — HER SAY

---

South African Black activist Winnie Mandela received two suspended six-month prison sentences last week for violating a banning order against her.

A Bloemfontein, South Africa, court found Mandela guilty of receiving an unauthorized visit from friends and relatives — although she claimed she had not spoken to them — and for holding a conversation with two neighbors in which she discussed the price of a chicken.

Mandela is a recognized leader in the South African Black nationalist movement, and the wife of imprisoned Nelson Mandela, the president of the African National Congress.

Last May, she was moved from her home in Johannesburg's Black Soweto township to Brandfort, a predominantly Anglo-Dutch town of about 5000 people. Under the banning order, her travel, social contacts, and other activities are severely limited.

Mandela has been under restrictions orders for most of the past 16 years. — HER SAY

Black Affairs

UMass hosts Black Studies Conference

By KATHY ROSE
Courtesy of Drum Magazine

In the 1960's the Black revolution emerged to confront the status quo in America. Part of this revolution was the Black student movement, which directly challenged the American educational system and the racial attitudes and practices it fostered. Out of this confrontation emerged contemporary Black Studies programs. This revolution was broad and deep. Black students and educators demanded an education that was relevant, Black oriented and Black controlled.

On March 18-21, 1975, a Black Studies Natinal Conference was held at and sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The Conference attempted to stimulate thought on the factors that have put Black Studies into a period of reassessment. The most direct attack forced reductions in program budgets, reduced student aid, and reduced faculty size. These cutbacks were justified by those who claimed that Black Studies was too politicized, that Academic standards were and that "reverse racism" was being practiced.

The first annual meeting of the National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) was held and sponsored by Ohio State University on February 16, 1977 with over 500 people in attendance. The theme of the Ohio State conference was "Mobilization for Survival." This conference attempted to find solutions to the problems that confront Black Studies.

The second annual meeting of the NCBS will be held April 15-18, 1978 at UMass. It is expected that the participation will be around 700 people. The date of April should contribute to a greater registration, because weather conditions will be good and also the location being on the eastern seaboard should lift attendance.

High notes...

This is the first column in a series on Black Radio. To start this series, I thought it would be enlightening to speak with Sonny Joe White, the program director for W.I.L.D. in Boston. W.I.L.D. is the only Black AM station in Boston and the only major Black radio station in New England. I asked Sonny Joe about this situation of being the "only one" and the following is what came out of our conversation.

Mario — How long have you been in radio?

Sonny Joe — "I've been in radio for nine years now and with three stations other than W.I.L.D. I've been with W.GIV in Charlotte, N.C., W.H.A.T. in Philadelphia, and W.K.-W.K. in St. Louis, Mo."

Mario — Then I imagine that you've noticed a difference in each market.

Sonny Joe — "I certainly have. The listeners vary in each market and the difference shows up mostly in their musical tastes."

Mario — Most (if not all) Black radio stations are daytime stations (operating from sunrise to sunset only), has W.I.L.D. made any recent attempts to become a 24 hour station?

Sonny Joe — "We are constantly making attempts to become a 24 hour station but the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) continually turns us down."

Mario — On what grounds?

Sonny Joe — "Mostly due to a provision that they made in the past that really isn't necessary anymore. You see, we go off the air every day at sunset so as not to interfere with a station in Baltimore which broadcasts at 50,000 watts on the same frequency as we do (1090 AM). In the earlier days of radio, this station was given priority for night time operations as it was one of the few major AM stations on the East coast. They were counted on to service much more than their immediate area due to this situation. Time has gone by and more stations have come into being thus lessening the necessity for one station to carry the whole burden. What we're trying to do is to make the FCC adapt to this situation and see that there's no reason for a Baltimore station to be heard here at night anymore. This would allow us to stay on the air past sunset."

Mario — Is the limited time the reason for the high amount of commercials?

Sonny Joe — "Yes it is. Also, we have to run more commercials to cover our operating costs. We have to run a lot of commercials and we have a limited time to do that. However, we have cut back on the amount of commercials we run so as to fit in more music and news etc."

Mario — Does being the "only one" motivate you or deter you in any way from achieving and-or while setting your programming goals?

Sonny Joe — "It motivates us and makes clear our responsibilities to the Black people of Boston. We try to cover all aspects that would be of interest to the Black community."

Mario — Do you have to compete with white radio stations?

Sonny Joe — "Yes we do. We're in the business of radio just like they are and to pay the bills we have to compete just as they do."

Mario — Radio is a public service, as program director, could you sum up what you feel is the station's responsibility to the Black listeners and cite where you think W.I.L.D. has met, exceeded, or fell short of this responsibility?

Sonny Joe — "I feel that in all departments we have exceeded our responsibility. We, for one, have the most extensive news coverage of any station in the area. We carry four people on our news team and many 24 hour stations don't carry that many. For a daytime station that's quite a commitment. Along with news broadcasts every hour, we run many public affairs announcements and carry a variety of special programs geared to the Black community and dealing with Third World and progressive issues. We also work directly with the community in sponsoring affairs, fund raising for some of the city's organizations and various other things of this sort?

Mario — So I take it that your biggest problem is the lack of air time?

Sonny Joe — "Yes, we have less time to get all the information to the people. Also, the station must run more commercials to maintain the highly professional staff that we have. We have to meet the restrictions that are dealt to us and still do things in a complete and professional way."

Next week, we'll have part II and some critique on Black radio and what the listener has a right to expect. We'll also look at how various situations he-she has to take what he-she can get.

Sterilization ordered by U.S.

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Assistant Editor

Sterilization abuse is a crime kept hidden from public focus. The U.S. Government has ordered millions of illegal sterilization to be committed in Puerto Rico and in the United States. The majority of this is happening to Third World and poor white women.

Presently, in Puerto Rico, 38 per cent of the women have been illegally sterilized by the U.S. government. The Eugenics Board of North Carolina has admitted to ordering, between 1960 and 1968, the sterilization of 1,620 persons. Of that number 1,583 were women and 1,023 were Black. Some 56 per cent of the sterilizations were performed on persons under 20 years of age. One out of every three Puerto Rican women between the ages of 20-49 have been sterilized. In 1975 the government program performed more than 6,000 sterilizations in Puerto Rico. At present in the U.S., 20 per cent of all married Black women are sterilized, three times more than in 1973. With less than million remaining Native Americans, 25 per cent of the women have been illegally sterilized. In total, there are one and a half million women sterilized in this country.

Sterilization abuse is mainly aimed at Third World women in prison, and mental institutions. The U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare started one of the ugliest conspiracies in history. They went into Puerto and established drug companies throughout the commonwealth. Under the guise of "Planned Parenthood", the U.S. government went to Puerto Rico, established clinics everywhere, lied and tricked women into medical procedures that cost them permanent sterilization, and physical mutilation. They experimented with all types of drugs on the women, causing them severe bodily damage and sometimes death. After their experiments with the Puerto Rican peoples, they induced their methods on women in the U.S. Who is ordering these things? We will find the information in subsequent articles. I cannot understand why they would do such a thing. This is a very serious problem and should not continue to go unnoticed. It is a problem that deserves the nation's attention, and the perpetrators should be punished. Remember, this is going on now in this country. If you want information, contact the Committee to End Sterilization Abuse, 80 Main Street, Northampton, Mass., at 584-6863.

Thoughts

Economic distress will teach men...that fact-finding is more effective than fault-finding.

Carl Becker

Announcements

ART EXHIBIT

The Sylvan Cultural Society would like to sponsor a Third World art exhibit. The exhibit is tentatively scheduled for the second week in March. Any Third World student who has works they would like to have shown should contact Renee Mobley at 6-4278.

FINANCIAL AID

All CCEBS students interested in Summer employment should see Brain Maher in Room 209 of the New Africa House immediately. Opportunities exist for summer jobs in the Federal government. There are also opportunities for summer internships in other companies and organizations. Applications deadlines for these jobs are approaching fast. Other information of interest to CCEBS students is posted on the bulletin boards outside Room 209 of the New Africa House. Students are urged to check out these bulletin boards periodically.

CCEBS

Notice to financial aid applicants. All persons who intend to file for financial assistance through this university, should know that today, February 15, is the deadline for university financial aid applications. BEOG and other aid services have their own deadlines but university financial aid forms should be in by today.

Students may pick up and drop off their forms at the financial aid office in Whitmore Administration building.

PARTY

There will be a party at the New Africa House sponsored by the Cultural Center on Friday, Feb. 17, 1978. Admission is free and music will be catered by Mario A. Barros, the best the area has to offer. Be there. Time 9:00 — A little after "until".

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

IF YOUR MOTHER ISN'T AT HOME, WHERE IS SHE, LILY?
2-25
SHE WENT TO A WHITE SALE, OREO!
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate
ISN'T THAT UNCONSTITUTIONAL?
BRANDON JR

Order three, one is free!
Now get 3 enlargements for the price of 2 when you order Kodak color enlargements from same-size prints, color slides, or Kodak color negatives. Order 5 x 7-, 8 x 10-, 11 x 14-inch, anything up to and including 16 x 24-inch enlargements. Come in and see us for details today. Offer ends March 15.
ASK FOR COLOR PROCESSING BY Kodak
tripod CAMERA SHOPS
219 Main St. Northampton, Ma 01060 584-6040
98 N Pleasant St. Amherst, Ma 01002 253-3039
CHINON is coming!

White House hosts coal talks

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter called yesterday for striking miners and the coal industry to resume negotiations at the White House "to end the present stalemate." He said if that does not produce a settlement he will take "stronger measures."

"I continue to support the collective bargaining process. However the welfare of this country must be my overriding concern," said Carter.

"The negotiations at the White House must be viewed as a final opportunity for the bargaining process to work," Carter said. "If it does not, I will have no choice but to resort to stronger measures."

Asked at the conclusion of his statement if the stronger measures would include invoking the Taft-Hartley Act to order the striking miners back to work, Carter said it would be "one of my options."

It was the only question Carter permitted.

Meanwhile, a top industry official called for the union's bargaining council to review the contract it rejected overwhelmingly last Sunday.

The request, made in a letter sent to UMW President Arnold Miller from Joseph P. Brennan, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, gave no indication of whether industry bargainers are ready to return to the negotiating table. Brennan sent the letter before Carter issued his statement.

A union spokesman had no immediate comment on the letter.

Earlier in the day, Carter had summoned Marshall and Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger to the White House for a report on the 71-day-old strike.

Administration officials had continued to rule out the possibility that Carter might immediately invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, in which the government would seek a court order directing the 160,000 striking miners to return to work for an 80-day cooling off period.

Any new administration move would be directed at alleviating job-threatening coal shortages and promoting an early resumption of industry-union negotiations, the White House source said.

Even in advance of his meeting with Marshall, Carter had on his desk a memo outlining various options he could adopt, he said.

Meanwhile, Miller met yesterday with his bargaining council.

In an interview on NBC-TV's "Today" show earlier in the day, Miller contended that a Taft-Hartley injunction against his union would not prove effective. "It never did before," he said.

President Carter yesterday as he announced he has asked striking coal miners and industry to start negotiating in the White House to end the current coalminers strike. (UPI)

NH needs coal

CONCORD, N.H. [AP] — New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomsom yesterday urged President Carter to invoke the Taft-Hartley law to interrupt the national coal strike.

In a telegram to Carter, Thomson said New Hampshire's coal-burning power plants have only 17 days' supply of coal remaining.

ALL UMASS MEN WELCOME
OPEN RUSH
AT BETA KAPPA PHI
ON
THURS., FEB. 16 8:00 p.m.
and
SUN., FEB. 19 6:30 p.m.
REFRESHMENTS
388 NO. PLEASANT ST.
(Big white brick house one block from campus)
CALL 5-0210 FOR INFO.

Flu ends here...

The worst of the flu is over that has swept across campus for the past two weeks, Diane Smith, director of nursing at University Health Services, yesterday said.

"The effects have somewhat diminished, though a significant number of people are affected in one way or another," she added.

She said most people appear to be "continuing on a moderate classroom load" and "there have not been many calls for fluids and medication."

The infirmary is still, however, seeing a "fair number" of people with flu symptoms, said Smith, but the number of inpatients is low.

"Many people are staying in their dorms because they know the flu is going around," said Smith.

The type of virus is still undetermined and results will "take a while" to return from the state lab, said Smith.

— MARCIA MURPHY

..strikes country

ATLANTA [UPI] — The beginning of a Russian influenza epidemic among young people is already under way in the United States, a federal health official said yesterday.

"I think we are already seeing it from California to New York," said Dr. Philip Graitcer, an influenza surveillance officer at the national Center for Disease Control.

The flu virus has zeroed in on one population group, Graitcer said — those under 25. "There have been no isolates that I know of in anyone over 25," he said.

The CDC said there are an estimated 93 million Americans in the under-25 age bracket.

Young persons have no natural antibody protection against the A-USSR strain, which caused epidemics around the world from 1947-57, and therefore are highly susceptible to it.

Persons in older age groups who were exposed to the strain in the late 1940's and 1950's acquired some natural defenses and were not as likely to come down with the ailment health authorities said.

UNIVERSITY OF
MASSACHUSETTS

UNIVE
18
63
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
79
19 80

RING DAYS:
TUES. and WED. FEB. 14-15
TIME: 10 A.M. - 4 P.M.
PLACE: UNIVERSITY STORE
$10⁰⁰ deposit

MONDAYS
COOL
RUM SWIZZLES
.75
9-1

TUESDAYS
Two for One
Drinks & Beer
9-1

WEDNESDAYS
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers
9-1

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST
PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978

THURSDAYS
Two for One
(DRINKS & BEER)
8:30 till 11

FRIDAYS
HAPPY HOUR
3-7
25¢ PUB MUGS
Anniversary
Specials
8-1

SATURDAYS
Anniversary
Specials
9-1

Sunday & Monday — Juke Box Disco
Tuesdays — Dave Powell
Wednesdays — Jim Plunkett
Thursdays — Two Way Street
Friday & Saturday — Disco with Tom Gavin

SUNDAYS
EXCALIBURG
Special
Buy 1 Get 1 Free
12 - 9
GOODTIME HOUR 4 - 8
Qt. Pitcher Beer
1.25

Egypt and Israel buy war planes

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter, in a major policy shift, has decided to allow the sale of war planes to Egypt for the first time, while supplying Israel with more advanced jet fighters, the State Department announced yesterday.

An arms package headed for Capitol Hill also tickets some five dozen of the U.S. Air Force's prime fighter, the F-15, for oil-rich Saudi Arabia. Congress, which has 50 days to veto any of the items, is certain to question both the Egyptian and Saudi shipments.

Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., immediately announced he will introduce a resolution to veto the sale of F-15's to the Saudis.

In announcing the planned sale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said they "will not alter the basic military balance in the region." Vance said the sales would be carried out over a period of several years.

He said the U.S. commitment to Israel's security remains firm and that Carter's decision reflected Israel's needs. As for the Egyptian arms sales, he said the U.S. has a basic interest in responding to Egypt's "legitimate needs."

And Vance paid tribute to Saudi Arabia, noting its "immense importance in promoting a course of moderation" in Middle East affairs and in petroleum policy. "We believe their request is reasonable and in our interest to fulfill," he said.

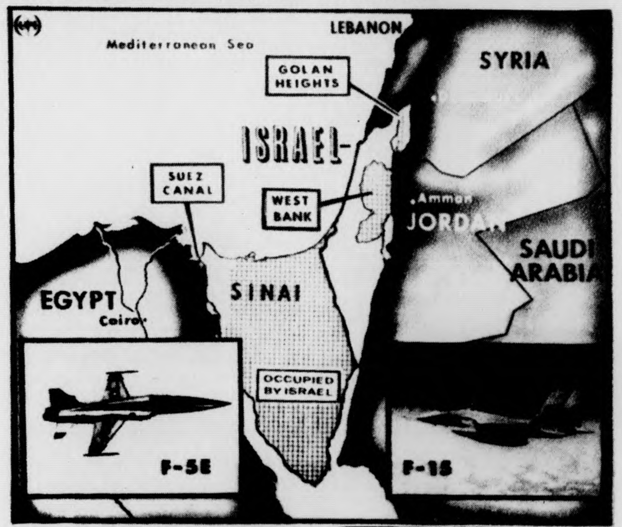
Meanwhile, a key Israeli legislator argued to U.S. congressmen that their approval of American jetfighters for Egypt would risk destablizing the Middle East and jeopardizing peace.

Moshe Arens, chairman of the Israeli Parliament's committee on foreign affairs and defense, said the planes would give surrounding Arab countries a commanding air superiority over Israel. Arens made the remarks in a briefing to the House Armed Services Committee.

Egypt, which has fought four years with Israel in less than 30 years, has never been granted lethal American weapons. In the past it was limited to purchasing such items as cargo planes.

In deciding to sell some 50 F-5E's to Egypt, Carter stopped short of supplying the more advanced F-15's and F-16's that President Anwar Sadat requested during his visit here last week.

Because Israel has strong support in Congress, there may be little opposition to the proposed sale of several squadrons of the sophisticated jets to that country. But supporters of the Jewish state and opponents of arms proliferation generally are likely to form a coalition against the Egyptian and Saudi deals.



COSMOPOLITAN
ISRAEL:
CONCERTS
BEACHES
RUINS CAFES
MUSEUMS SHOPS
TEL AVIV
UNIVERSITY

At Tel Aviv University you can take courses in English then transfer the credits to your college back home

We offer semester and full year programs in Liberal Arts, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Business, Judaic Studies, Hebrew and Archaeology

Studying at Tel Aviv University can be less expensive, both in tuition and living expenses, than many American universities

For information on these and other programs send in the coupon or call American Friends of Tel Aviv University at (212) 687-5651

Return coupon to
American Friends of Tel Aviv University
342 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017

Name ____________________
Address ____________________
City ____________________
State ____________________ Zip ________
Telephone ____________________ area code
College University ____________________
Major ____________________

Calls for full employment

House committee okays Humphrey-Hawkins bill

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House Education and Labor Committee yesterday approved the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill, rejecting a series of Republican amendments sponsors said were designed to defeat it.

The bill, setting an "interim goal" of 4 per cent unemployment by 1983, now goes to the House Rules Committee, and sponsors hope it will reach the House floor early in March.

By largely party-line votes, the committee voted down a series of Republican amendments, most of which had been rejected earlier by a subcommittee.

One called for addition of a second interim goal to reduce inflation to 3 per cent by 1983.

Rep. Ronald Sarasin, R-Conn., said that would make clear that 215 million Americans worried about the "hidden tax of inflation" would not be overlooked in efforts to help six million unemployed.

Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., chief sponsor of the bill, said the measure does call for reducing inflation but sets no numerical goal because that could be enforced only through wage-price controls, which neither business nor labor wants.

Hawkins said Sarasin's proposal was "obviously an attempt by the opposition to make the bill unacceptable."

The committee also rejected a GOP proposal to delete the entire bill and substitute one aimed only at youth unemployment, and turned down another to include a separate goal of "100 per cent parity" for farmers in five years.

"As we set economic goals we ought to set one for agriculture, too," said Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., who made the farm proposal.

Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said he assumed Quie "has his tongue in his cheek." He said the proposal would raise the price of cotton from 50 cents to 75 cents per pound, and denounced efforts "to make a Christmas tree" out of the bill.

The measure sets up procedures for the president and Congress to coordinate policies toward the eventual goal of full employment, while also curbing inflation and increasing production.

It puts stress on creating more jobs first through the private economy. If the president found after two years that conventional methods were not working, he could provide "last resort" jobs to those still out of work.

An earlier version of the bill, co-sponsored by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., who died last month, would have given every American a "right" to a job. The current version, endorsed by President Carter, makes "fulfillment" of that right a national goal.

Carter, acting on another jobs front yesterday directed federal agencies to hire "one needy youth" for every regular employee as part of the summer employment program for younger Americans.

News in Brief

Unemployment cash needed in Mass.

BOSTON [AP] — Massachusetts residents entering their second week of unemployment due to last week's storm may be eligible for state or federal unemployment benefits, according to state officials.

Benefits begin with the second week of unemployment, said John F. Hodgman, director of the state Division of Employment Security.

He added that state law requires the first week of unemployment to be treated as a waiting period for which benefits are not paid. Also, the declaration of eight counties as a federal disaster area did not take effect until Monday.

The only exception, Hodgman said, are people who have filed an unemployment claim within the last 52 weeks who may be eligible to receive benefits for last week.

People who continue to be unemployed will be paid under the state program if their place of work was shut down due to the storm. The federal program covers workers who live or work within the federal disaster area who are not eligible for benefits under the state program.

Chemical gas kills seven plant workers

CHICAGO [AP] — A chemical pumped into the wrong vats mixed with acid already in the vats and created a cloud of poisonous gas that swept through a tannery yesterday killing seven persons and sickening 28 others, officials said.

Firefighters said they found "an eerie scene" at the plant, with workers keeled over in their work areas.

Authorities said the accident occurred at 8:10 a.m., while shifts were changing at the block-long Horween Leather Co. plant. A total of 176 persons were in the building at the time.

The plant is two miles northwest of downtown Chicago.

Of those taken to hospitals, most suffered nausea and vomiting. Fourteen persons were admitted, four in critical condition.

Conrad Dziewulski, a Chicago Environmental Control official, said a liquid chemical containing sulfur was brought to the tannery in a tank truck and "erroneously pumped" into storage tanks containing acid.

He said the combination created hydrogen sulfide, a flammable, poisonous gas that smells like rotten eggs.

Dziewulski said the chemicals mixed in open-topped wooden storage tanks in the plant's basement and the gas quickly spread.

Firefighters entering the plant had to wear gas masks. Authorities said there apparently was a small explosion in the basement but most or all of the deaths and injuries came from inhaling the gas.

Willie Gates, a worker, said about ten persons collapsed in his area.

"The foreman told us to get out of there, then he passed out," said Gates.

Bella Abzug failed yesterday in her attempt to succeed New York Mayor Edward Koch to the House of Representatives. Abzug surged to an early lead of 2,400 votes, only to see her margin evaporate at late returns from the Silk Stocking district came in. The former Congresswoman first gained national attention for her stand on liberal issues and her floppy hats. (Staff photo)

FEBRUARY
17-18 FRI. SAT.
DAVID'S
OF MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
TEL- 586-1878
"The Area's Newest Club"
PRESENTS
CONNECTICUT'S NEWEST ROCK GROUP
Alley Rose
DINE & DANCE
9 PM - 1 AM
FREE! 1-DRAFT BEER WITH COLLEGE ID.
Now appearing every Wed. & Thurs.
Direct from the Hilton.
Sandy Robinson
The fabulous, beautiful vocalist & pianist.

HANDBALLS and HANDGLOVES
SQUASH RAQUETS and SQUASH BALLS
at
A. J. HASTINGS
45 S. Pleasant St. AMHERST

LECTURE NOTES

For some UMass courses, you won't always have to rely on your own abilities as a note-taker. The Student Senate Lecture Note Program offers edited transcriptions, in note form, of lecture sections listed below.

Astro 100 (1)
Astro 100 (3)
BA 210 (1, 2)
Bot 100 (1)
Chem 261
Chem 262A
Chem 262B
Coins 122
Econ 100A, B
Econ 103A
Econ 103C
Econ 104A, E
Econ 104C
Econ 104F
Ex Sci 204
FSN 101 (1, 2)
FSN 102
FSN 130
Mgt 301 (1, 2)
Micro 150
Narest 100
Physics 142 (1, 2)
Poli Sci 101 (1)
Psych 101 (1)
Psych 100C
Psych 100D
Soc 102
Zoo 101 (1)
Zoo 102
Zoo 550

For more information come to room 401 of the Student Union or call 545-2271.

ACT NOW!!
BERMUDA
DAYTONA BEACH
FT. LAUDERDALE
For Spring Break!!
FROM: $275 (All Inclusive)
NO HIDDEN CHARGES
For More Information
Call: JANE 549-2668 or 545-0527
Garber TRAVEL

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Find out what fraternity life is like —
all university men are welcome to attend.

WHEN: Mon., Feb. 13
Tues., Feb. 14
Wed., Feb. 15
WHERE: 118 Sunset Ave.
TIME: 7:30-9:30
For Info. & Rides
Call 545-2151

Southwest
SUNSET AVE.
FEARING ST.
Wolfies
ΣAE

Charlie's says
WEDNESDAY
is MICHELOB NIGHT
Free Munchies
12 oz. 60¢ Bottles
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

MCAT

Classes forming now for the April 15 exam. First meeting will be Saturday, March 4th. Latest materials. No lectures. Fee $175. Call Test Prep Services of Amherst 256-6462.

TEST PREP

SUNSET TOURS PRESENTS
DAYTONA BEACH
10 Days/9 Nites
$149.00
•Plus 20% Tax & Service
Price Based On Quad Occupancy
SPRING WEEK
CONTACT MIKE 546-8715
$25.00 needed to hold reservation.
Deposit is non-refundable, non- transferable.
Due February 20

PRICE INCLUDES
Price Includes
•Round Trip via Air Conditioned Luxury Motor Coach
•Free Beer enroute
•8 Days and 7 Nights at the Luxurious Holiday Inn Directly on Beach
•Pool Party — Free Beer and Barbecue
•Full Breakfast Plan Optional
•Baggage Handling at Hotel
•Services of Resident Tour Director
•Hotel Features Include Maid Service / Color T.V. / Swimming Pool, Air Conditioned Rooms with Private Bath and Shower / All Rooms are Ocean View / Restaurant and Lounge with Nightly Entertainment, Free Cover Happy Hour Every Night All Drinks Half Price / Plus Live Entertainment at Pool Side upon Arrival and Departure.

UMASS SKI CLUB
MEMBERSHIP DRIVE
Wed., Thurs., Fri.
Feb. 15, 16, 17
9:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Nominations are now being accepted.

The B.O.G. is responsible for setting policy for the Campus Center and Student Union.

GET INVOLVED

Nomination close Feb. 24.
For nomination papers or more information
go to rm. 420 S.U. or call
5-0341.

Carter's visit stirs N.E. democrats

[UPI] — New England Democrats began brushing up their party lines yesterday in preparation for President Carter's two-day blitz through Rhode Island, Maine and New Hampshire, beginning Friday.

About the only bump on Carter's program may come in Bangor, Maine, where he will certainly face some irate questions concerning a White House blueprint for settling a controversial Indian land claim base.

The president's representatives last week said the federal government should settle Indian claims against small land owners by ponying up $25 million for the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes.

That would leave the state of Maine and 14 large land owners to settle with the Indians separately or be sued by the federal government on behalf of the Indians. The tribes claim 12.5 million acres of Maine were taken from them in violation of the Indian Nonintercourse acts of the 1790s.

The hop-scotch political trip designed to support three Democratic U.S. senators up for re-election is guaranteed to get off to a good start when Air Force One touches down at 1:50 p.m. Friday at T.F. Green Airport in Warwick, R.I.

Only last week, U.S. Air Force transport planes flying on Carter's orders began pumping federal troops and machines onto Green's runways to battle the blizzard that shut down the nation's smallest state. Much of that snow will still be on the ground when Carter gets a personal "thank you" from Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy. Carter at this time has no plans to tour the stricken area.

He will spend a half-hour touring the Rhode Island Group Health Association Facility in Providence's Moshassuck Square area. It is one of the country's first health maintenance organizations — a federally-subsidized prepaid health care plan.

He follows that with two stops at the Cranston Hilton, ten miles south of Providence. One will be a 30-minute regional news conference. The other is a reception for supporters of Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who is seeking his fourth term.

Carter flies to Bangor Friday evening and will attend a fundraiser for Sen. William D. Hathaway during a "town meeting" similar to the one he held last year in Clinton, Mass.

The president will spend the night in the two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray of Bangor. He is Penobscot County Democratic chairman. The Murrays, married 3 years, have five children.

Early Saturday, Carter will fly to Manchester, N.H., and be driven to nearby Nashua, N.H. for a forum with students at Nashua High School. The school gym will be crowded with representative groups of five students and one faculty member from nearly all of the 108 high schools in New Hampshire.

A television network morning show plans to broadcast from the site on Friday. A spokesman says the plan is to gather 50 to 100 students for a "mass interview" prior to the visit to "get a sense of what's on their minds."

Maine will gain from land claim settlement

BANGOR, Maine [AP] — All of Maine, not just 4,000 of its Indians, stand to gain from the newly proposed settlement to the Indian land claims, two Passamaquoddy tribal leaders insisted yesterday.

"That's why I can't understand why people get all hostile when they discuss the land case," said Bob Newall, a Passamaquoddy council member and part of the negotiating team that worked out the latest land settlement with a White House task force.

State officials and private citizens reacted angrily to the proposal last week, and the state may again spurn negotiations in favor of a drawn-out court fight.

Newall and tribal Gov. Francis J. Nicholas contended that Indians would not be the only ones to benefit from the $25 million in federal money the Indians are to receive in exchange for dropping their claim on 9.2 million acres of private land.

The Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes plan to develop job creating projects for their own people, who now suffer from an unemployment rate near 80 per cent, Nicholas said. The cash and jobs will create more jobs in the white communities surrounding their reservations in Washington and Penobscot counties, he said.

The two Indian leaders, who said they had agreed not to discuss the case during negotiations, told their side of the dispute during an hour-long interview in the airport coffee shop.

The tribes filed suit in 1972, laying claim to 60 per cent of Maine under terms of a 1790 federal law they was was violated in decades of land grabs.

Nicholas, 49, is a tall, soft-spoken retired Army sergeant who put in for 21 years and spent eight years in Vietnam as a Green Beret. A native of the Sebayik, or Pleasant Point, reservation, Nicholas is married and expects his third child to be born within the month.

Nicholas and Newall, a swarthy woodsworker, indicated the tribes want to cooperate with other Maine citizens, and do not plan to ban whites from hunting and fishing on whatever land they obtain.

Under the latest plan, hammered out at ten sessions in Washington — some in the White House itself — the Indians agreed to swap claims to 3.5 million acres of privately owned land for 300,000 acres at $5-an-acre and an option on 200,000 acres.

Woman first choice for Carter's 'town meeting'

BANGOR, Maine [UPI] — A 26-year-old unemployed Bangor woman was the first person selected in a lottery to participate in President Carter's largest town meeting.

Brenda Morrill's name was the first chosen from an ancient rotating drum used originally to draw names for the Civil War draft. She and 2,499 other people were selected yesterday to participate in the Penobscot County town meeting with Carter Friday on the second leg of a three-state New England tour.

After the 2,500 winners were chosen, another 150 alternates were drawn in case some of those chosen could not participate or did not live within the county.

The town meeting will be the largest Carter has participated in since becoming president, and an advance person said it may be the largest he ever holds because of problems encountered with trying to set up the Bangor session.

Morrill said her selection was "wonderful. This is going to be the chance to really talk to President Carter and Sen. William D. Hathaway D-Maine instead of by phone or letter."

She said she had been unemployed for the last five years and is "looking for any kind of job. I should have had a job when I was 21. But people discriminate against me because I have petit mal epilepsy. It's controlled by medication, but people won't hire me. Now I'll have a chance to talk about it to them."

Morrill said she viewed unemployment as a major problem "that has got to stop" and said she would probably ask Carter a question about it.

Said said she and her parents would discuss questions and write something down beforehand to make sure it was worded properly.

"I want to ask about unemployment and about this Indian land thing," Morrill said.

Initially there was some confusion about whether Brenda or her mother had been chosen. Mrs. Jean Morrill said she'd been thinking about questions, too, and unemployment was among the topics. But she said she knew what question Carter would be asked first.

"The Indians. That's the first question he's going to be asked. He's going to be asked if he thought it was fair to the white people. How do you think he'll react? We'll sure find out won't we?" she said.

A presidential task force last week recommended an out-of-court settlement of Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indian claims for 12.5 million acres in Maine, the northern two-thirds of the state.

Under the plan, the federal government would pass $25 million to extinguish claims against small private landowners. The state's 14 largest landowners and the state would then have to settle claims against them.

Activities planned for UM Jewish women

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Several activities by groups aimed at brining together Jewish women at UMass are planned for this semester.

The Hillel Jewish Women's Resource Center, located in Student Union 302, offers a file of articles and bibliographies concerning women in the Jewish tradition.

A colloquium entitled "Women and Judaism" is being taught by UMass student Karen Asher.

"Last semester we were considering starting a support group for Jewish women. That's how the colloquium came about. It's a means of getting women together to meet each other and talk," said Asher.

Participants will look at the lives of Jewish women from historical, legal and contemporary sociological perspectives. The colloquium meets Thursdays at 7:00 p.m. in Herter Hall.

On Sunday, March 5 at 11:00 a.m. a brunch will be held in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union. Guest speakers Martha Ackelsburg, feminist and assistant professor of Government at Smith College, and Shifra Deren, co-director of Chabad House, will present a program entitled "Women In Jewish Life — Two Views."

Nuns win battle on infant drink

[Her Say News Service] —

The Bristol-Myers Corporation has reached an out-of-court settlement with an order of nuns which sued the corporation for "irresponsibly" marketing infant formula in South America.

The Sisters of the Precious Blood claimed in the suit that the corporation was using high-powered advertising to persuade women to abandon breast-feeding and use its product instead. The nuns claimed Bristol-Myers knew poor women had neither the money to afford the formula nor the facilities to properly sterilize it.

Filed in U.S. District Court in 1977, the suit charged the company with making false and misleading statements to its stockholders about the true nature of its marketing methods abroad.

Before that suit could come to trial, however, Bristol-Myers ageed, in an out-of-court settlement, to mail all its stockholders a report on the company's foreign marketing practices. That statement will reportedly include both the nuns' allegations and the company's response to the charges.

A spokesperson for the Sisters of the Precious Blood called the settlement a "victory."

The Nestle's Company, meanwhile, in response to a seven-month-long boycott of its products in America, has announced it is sending a company representative on a tour of the U.S. to explain that corporation's policies for marketing its baby formulas in the Third World.

Nestle's has reportedly been selling its baby milk formulas by sending out employees dressed as nurses, who persuade Third World Mothers of newborn children to use Nestle's formulas instead of breast milk to feed their children. In some countries, such as India, the cost of that formula amounts to more than half the weekly income of an entire family.

In a related matter, a plant partly operated by Nestle's in Medellin, Colombia, and a Nestle's plant at Tongala, in Australia, were reportedly recently found by health authorities in those countries to be marketing milk which was contaminated with bacteria before it even left the plant.

Indian woman contests school

[Her Say News Service] —

"An American Indian woman who kept her daughter out of school after the girl's teacher made disparaging remarks about Indians said she will instruct her daughter to hide on the reservation rather than return to the classroom.

The mother, Jeanne Baum, kept her daughter home from school after a teacher at Selden Junior High School on Long Island allegedly said Indians who lived on reservations were lazy and prone to alcoholism.

The Appellate Division of New York's state supreme court last month upheld a lower court decision that Baum must return her daughter to public school or lose custody of the child.

Baum, however, was not present to hear the ruling. She and her daughter left New York a year ago to visit Indian reservations in the western states.

Her 15-year-old daughter, Baum said, has continued her education, with a Blackfoot tribal medicine man instead of a public junior high school. The native American mother has vowed she will send her daughter "even deeper into the woods" rather than return her to public school.

Baum's lawyer, William Kunstler, said he will appeal the New York court ruling.

WE ARRIVED!!
COME VISIT OUR PERMANENT CENTER:
264 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 01002
413-253-5108

There IS a difference!!! Our 39th Year

PREPARE FOR:
NEW
MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT

Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 39 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers open days, evenings & weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Make-ups for missed lessons at our centers.

AMHERST MCAT CLASS
STARTS FEB. 18
CALL OUR NEW PERMANENT CENTER
253-5108 OR 253-2260

For information please call & come visit our Permanent Ct. at:
264 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst 413-253-5108

Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840

Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
In Boston Area
Call 617-261-5150
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Centers in Major U.S. Cities

Don't get
Lost
In the Computer Career Maze...

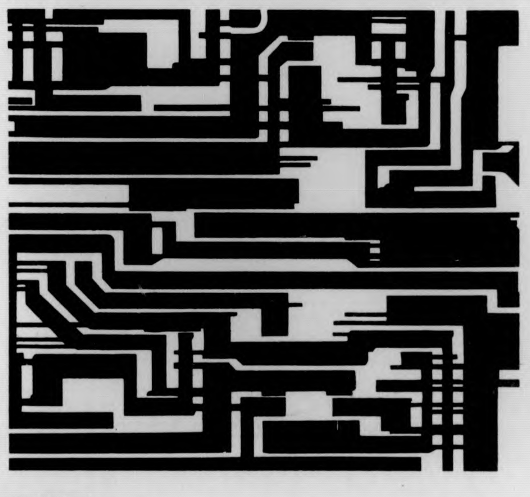
START
AT PR1ME



If you think finding your way around the computer career maze has to be confusing, think smart.

If you think all computer companies offer the same challenges and opportunities, think twice.

And if you know there's a difference between a computer job and a computer career, think Prime.

Prime Computer is the fastest growing high-technology computer manufacturer in the world. We need bright, career-minded engineers who are ready to meet the challenges of today's technology and make original contributions for tomorrow's computers.

Prime Computer will be here soon and if you'd like to talk to us about a computer career, we'd like to talk with you. In fact, if you find our interview sheets at the Placement Office are full, sign up anyway. We'll make the time to meet with you. And you'll talk with members of our engineering department who'll tell you about a computer career at Prime.

While you're signing up, take one of our brochures. It includes our answers to some questions we think you should ask any college recruiter. And when you read the brochure you'll see what three graduates of the class of '77 have to say about why they came to Prime. Prime Computer. Think about us.

Interviewing March 1, 1978

PRIME

PRIME Computer, Inc. 145 Pennsylvania Ave., Framingham, Mass. 01701 (617) 879-2960

GIANT PORKFEST on Meat Street U.S.A.

Finast

Todays biggest Variety and Value... PORK! It's nutritious high in protein...easy to prepare!

Smoked Shoulder or Fresh Pork — Arm Picnic Water Added 69¢ lb.
Center Cut Pork Chops — Fresh Rib $1.49 lb. Thin Sliced Loin lb. 1.59
Assorted Pork Chops — Fresh 3 Blade, 3 Center, 3 Sirloin Chops $1.19 lb.
Boneless Pork Roast — Fresh Boston Butt $1.39 lb.
Country Style Pork Ribs — Rib End $1.29 lb.

Pork Blade Steak Fresh $1.39 lb.
Fresh Pork Kabobs $1.49 lb.
Fresh Pork Cutlets Butt $1.69 lb.

Fresh Boneless Chicken Breast
4 lbs. or more $1.69 lb.
Lesser Amounts lb. 1.79

Whole Pork Loin — Economy Pack Custom Cut Into Roast & Chops $1.29 lb.
Finast Bacon — Sliced 1 lb. pkg. $1.29
Link Sausage — Breakfast $1.19 lb.
Smoked Pork Butt — Freirich Water Added $1.59 lb.
Fresh Pork Spareribs — Lean Meaty $1.29 lb.

Sirloin Steak Full Cut with Tenderloin $1.79 lb.
T-Bone Steak Tailless Beef Loin $1.99 lb.
Rib Eye Steak Boneless Beef $2.79 lb.

Blade Portion Pork Roast $1.19 lb.
Shank Portion Fresh Ham 99¢ lb.
Whole or Shank Half Fresh Ham $1.09 lb.
Butt Portion Fresh Ham — Butt Half lb. 1.19 — $1.09 lb.
Italian Sausage — Marco or Primo Hot or Sweet $1.29 lb.

Lenten Seafood Values!
Shrimp Medium 2 lb. box $4.99
Flounder Fillet Frozen lb. 1.59 . . 5 lb. box 6.99
Large Stuffed Clams. . . . . lb. 1.79

Star-Kist Tuna
Solid White in Water 7 oz. can 68¢ with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Limit one coupon per family. Valid Feb. 12 thru Feb. 18, 1978. H-557 FN
Finast

Freshness is our business!
FIRST O' THE FRESH
Florida Honey Tangerines
Murcotts 10 for 98¢

Grapefruit
Seedless White Indian River 27 count 4 for $1
Squash Yellow Summer . . . lb. 39¢
Eggplant Purple . . . 3 lbs. 1.00
Cortland Apples Crisp-Aire . . 3 lb. bag 79¢
Idaho Potatoes Baking . . . . 5 lb. bag 79¢
Pascal Celery. . . . . . . . bunch 39¢
Yellow Onions. . . . . . . . 3 lb. bag 49¢
Tomatoes Red Ripe . . . . . . 3 lbs. 1.00
Red Radishes . . . . . . . . 1 lb. cello 29¢
Zucchini Squash . . . . . . . lb. 39¢

Orange Juice
Richmond Frozen 4 6 oz. cans $1 with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Limit one coupon per family. Valid Feb. 12 thru Feb. 18, 1978. H-549 FN
Finast

Campbells Chicken Noodle Soup
5 10½ oz. cans 99¢

Scot Towels
Big Roll 119 ct. roll 39¢ with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more. Limit one coupon per family. Valid Feb. 12 thru Feb. 18, 1978. H-550 FN
Finast

Hi-C Fruit Drinks
Grape, Orange Fruit Punch half gallon 69¢
Veryfine Apple Sauce McIntosh . 3 15oz. jars 1.00
Star-Kist Tuna in Oil or Water Chunk Light . . . . . . . 6½ oz. can 69¢

Keg-O-Ketchup
Heinz 32 oz. bot. 88¢
Sunshine Hi Ho Crackers . . . . 16oz. pkg. 69¢
Gold Medal Flour. . . . . . . . . . . 5 lb. bag 69¢

Macaroni & Cheese
Finast Dinner 4 7¼ oz. pkgs. $1

Lenten Dairy Values!
Orange Juice
Finast 100% Pure half gal. 89¢
Amer. Cheese Food Finast Slices 12oz. pkg. 99¢
Cottage Cheese Light N' Lively . . 24oz. cont. 99¢
Breyers Yogurt All Natural . 3 8 oz. conts. 99¢
Hoods Bellacotta. . . . . 16oz. pkg. 99¢

Margarine
Richmond Quarters 1 lb. pkg. 39¢

Frozen Food Values!
Fried Chicken
Banquet 2 lb. pkg. $1.99
Round Ravioli Finast . . . . . 13oz. pkg. 89¢
Pancake Mix Aunt Jemima . . . 16oz. pkg. 59¢
Pound Cake Sara Lee . . . . 10¾oz. pkg. 99¢
Rich's Poly Rich . . . . 3 16oz. conts. 89¢

Ice Cream
Richmond All Flavors half gal. 99¢

Imported Porcelain-Clad Debonaire
Cook & Serve Ware
This Weeks Feature! 3 qt. Dutch Oven $10.49 lb.

Mr. Deli Delight this week!
Baked Ham
Virginia Style $1.29 ½ lb.
Imported Swiss Cheese lb. 2.19
Cooked Roast Beef . . . . . . . . . . lb. 2.19
Domestic Cooked Ham. . . . . half pound 1.19
Chicken Roll Weavers All White Meat . . . . half pound 1.09
Polish Kielbasa Hillshire Farms . . . . . . . . lb. 1.49
Available only in Stores with Service Deli.

Fresh from baker street at Finast!
Loaf-O-White
For Your Favorite Sandwich 3 1 lb. lvs. 89¢
English Muffins . . . . . . . . . . . 3 pkgs of 6 1.00

Prices effective Sunday February 12 thru Saturday February 18, 1978.
We reserve the right to limit quantities.
Not responsible for typographical errors.

Exorcise the gangrene - amputate

bob melia

The UMass student senate is the most corrupt institution I have been affiliated with. It has all the qualities requisite for utter corruption. It is dishonest, as it proclaims it advances student interests but doesn't; it is debased in character, assuming, of course, it has one; and it is infected by petty, personal politics perpetrated by spotlight hounds. It is not even good entertainment. In short, the senate has no redeeming social value and is, according to Supreme Court guidelines, obscene.

Note, though, that it is the institution that is corrupt, not so much its members, at least in the beginning. Taken as a group I suspect my colleagues and I possess no more and no less integrity than any other group. But the senate is like J.R.R. Tolkien's Ring; it is so evil that ultimately it corrupts everyone. Senators are more appropriately called Ringwraiths.

If power corrupts, absolute power corrupts absolutely because there are no restraints on it. For the same reason, the appearance of power without the substance also corrupts absolutely. There are no restraints on the senate because everyone knows it's a joke and consequently no one pays us any attention or holds us accountable. So within our Mickey-Mouse world we mices feel free to forget our responsibilities and hate each other to pieces.

The problem with what many laughingly refer to as "student government" is structural. By that I mean the structure of the governance system stands in an inappropriate relation to student needs because it is based on a misconception of the nature of student interests, student power, and, not surprisingly, students themselves.

The role of a university has traditionally been that of a substitute parent. The corresponding view of students is that we are children, not to be trusted with power and responsibility. Schools were therefore organized so that students could not acquire power. While many changes have been made in the past 15 years, the student senate remains as a morbid monument to the concept of students as children. The senate is designed to make senators act like children, and most, eagerly or reluctantly, consciously or unconsciously, do so, for it is the only mode of behavior which the institution will sanction.

Reasoned debate is unknown on the senate floor. Factionalism is rampant; egotism rife. Cliques and committee's work at cross-purposes. Information is withheld or distorted to serve personal, and hence petty ends. Well-intentioned involvement invites ensnarement by the system. In short, the senate is worse than useless. It is useless because it cannot function in an adult manner, worse than useless because it weekly supports the notion that students are irresponsible and immature and thus promotes a defeatist, apathetic attitude amongst students. The senate is part of the problem; so much so that it is beyond redemption and must be destroyed.

A harsh charge, and staunch senate stalwarts will be reminded that to claim it is not to substantiate it. But there exist compelling reasons why the senate is and must be a mechanism utterly unsuitable for advancing student interests.

To improve our position at UMass we must have power. Seen in this light, our biggest problem is that we are transient. We have only four years here, and the school is so large and complex that before any individual can learn enough about it to oppose it effectively, s-he is gone. Even worse, our strength is in numbers. To use those numbers properly we must hang together, we must have a strong sense of community. But as we are here for only a short while and as we look at UMass primarily in instrumental terms, a sense of community is extraordinarily difficult to develop.

To function effectively the, we first need knowledge. But knowledge is a social product and to be useful it must be shared, not restricted to a handful of senators. For a student advocacy organization to be useful, knowledge must grow out of the dorms and classrooms, and not be imposed from the senate down. And to create a vibrant community, individuals as individuals must cease to play an important role in student government. The reason for this becomes apparent if we think of the student community as an organism. If the individual parts of the organism depart at a rate of 25 per cent per year, the departure would be traumatic and the organism would die, if those individual parts were irreplaceable. Only by intergrating its parts can an organism survive. Senators can learn a lot from studying the amoeba.

If student government is to be effective, power and knowledge must be lodged in many groups. Also, incoming freshpersons must become a part of the political community as soon as possible so that they can replace graduated seniors. Hiding the locus of politics deep in the bowels of the Campus Center does not encourage such participation.

The only way to exercise the gangrene that is the senate from the student body is through amputation. The senate has cut itself off from the student body. The student body must therefore cut the senate off from itself.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

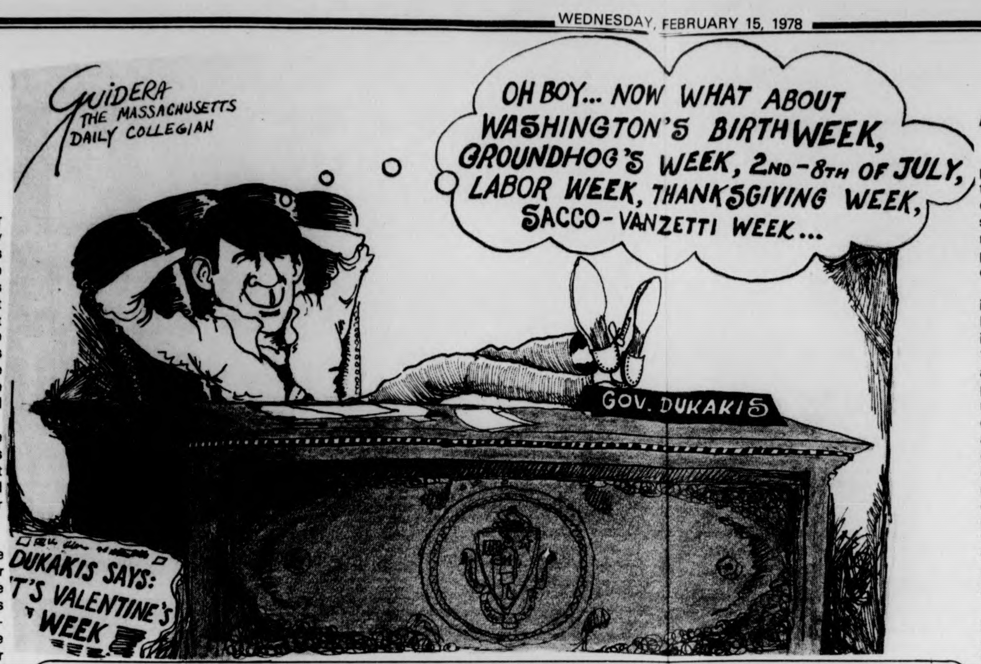
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
OH BOY... NOW WHAT ABOUT WASHINGTON'S BIRTHWEEK, GROUNDHOG'S WEEK, 2ND-8TH OF JULY, LABOR WEEK, THANKSGIVING WEEK, SACCO-VANZETTI WEEK...
GOV. DUKAKIS
DUKAKIS SAYS: IT'S VALENTINE'S WEEK

Letters

UMass accused of discrimination

To the Editor:

The department of Health Education and Welfare found that UMass is discriminating against minority employees. Among the most flagrant violations are those referring to recruitment, hiring, training, promotion, and tenure.

As a member of a community discriminated against, I would like to make some further commentaries on this issue.

The Latin community, especially the students, have been following quite closely some cases that we consider to be examples of discrimination against our people. One of these is the case of Dr. Jesse Ortiz, from the Department of Public Health. Dr. Ortiz is up for tenure. He has not received approval or disapproval until this moment.

With Dr. Jesse Ortiz there were two more persons applying for tenure. They were granted tenure with no problem. It is my understanding [and that of our students] that Dr. Ortiz' record speaks for itself. In terms of publications only, Dr. Jesse Ortiz doubles those of the closer candidate while being at UMass, and over seven times those of the third individual.

Dr. Jesse Ortiz has not been a controversial person. As a matter of fact, I think he is paying the homage he has shown to the system in the past. But, his academic and professional abilities have made him a qualified scholar long ago. For us, it is also a matter of principle: we let Public Health get away with it and soon other departments will follow.

Moreover, there were more Latin professors several years ago than we have now. UMass is turning us backwards, while admitting more Latin students. We feel that we do not want to see UMass creating another phony position in the administration to give it to Dr. Ortiz.

I, personally, would like to know many Puerto Rican, Latin, Black or Asian women are working with physical plant. Or how many Puerto Ricans are full-time employees at UMass.

As for Dr. Jesse Ortiz's case, the Public Health Department should know that our students are getting tired of the situation. Even when Dr. Ortiz has not raised the problem officially in front of the community, we are more than ready to take Public Health and UMass to court on the basis of racial discrimination. For us, it is just a matter of waiting for the right time to act. Public Health has the word!

Miguel Rivera

Crossword fans dismayed

To the Editor:

We, the undersigned, are surprised and dismayed at the exclusion of the daily crossword puzzle in the Collegian. It is, in our opinion, one of the few redeeming features found in the paper. We hope and trust that this exclusion was a mere oversight on your part, and not a deliberate editorial policy. In hopes that this grave error will be corrected, we are—

Jim Hill, Melissa Kantor, Mary Dolan, Noelle White, Steve Ciesluk, Lisa Cote, Michael Critch, Mark Miller, Pat Hart, Paula Haven...... and countless others!

Rolling review plan disputed

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago after class, I came upon a large group of middle-aged UMass faculty members parading the sidewalks of campus in what I considered a tacky display of leadership. What would happen if every student in the university took to demonstrating every time they thought they were being slighted by a teacher? Answer: TOTAL CHAOS. This time I side with the faculty at the risk of losing friends.

If the teachers do not get a cost of living increase or better medical coverage, I would not care, nor do I think anyone would be concerned with the possible exception of the teachers. But, the administration proposes eliminating tenure in favor of a five year rolling review plan. It is for this reason that I am furious!!!

The reason for tenure is to insure academic freedom. The rolling tenure plan would insure that the faculty members would be puppets of the administration's whims. Let us assume a professor began at UMass at age 30 and weathered 4-five year reviews, then got terminated on the fifth review. That would make him 55 years old [probably gray], and "unemployable." This equals do as the administration says or sing the "food stamp blues" at the end of five years. There is no job security.

I still say I have a stake in this mess. I will suffer in the job market when the reputation of UMass is at an all time low. UMass will be the laughing stock among universities.

My children will suffer if they attend UMass because this plan with its non-existent job security will only attract the dregs of the academic community. Thus, it will down grade higher education in Massachusetts.

Please will someone in the administration dispute what I have said. Do not let this low opinion of your plan continue because next time there is a faculty demonstration, they will not be alone. The UMass student has an important stake in this struggle.

William Stuart Price

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

First, understand the problem

By DAMON THOMAS

Proponents of the Seabrook nuclear power plant have recently labelled the acts of the Clamshell Alliance "irresponsible", claiming that the organization's efforts to stop construction are misguided because a recent poll showed public opinion running 60 per cent in favor of the plant with only 20 per cent opposed.

This whole episode brings to mind an interesting point. Following the defeat of Proposition 15 the nuclear safeguards initiative on the California ballot in June of 1976, anti-nuclear pioneers John Gofman and Egan O'Connor urged initiative proponents to deal directly with what a reactor ban would mean in terms of jobs and energy. They emphasized the need for facts and data to combat industry's (and the U.S. governments') predictions of economic chaos in a non-nuclear future. They were correct as far as they went, but "facts and data" from strangers, especially strangers portrayed as "the enemy", "terrorists", or "irresponsible" malcontents, don't go very far. Necessary were trusting, wroking relationships with people from many spheres and diverse economic and social levels.

Organized and unorganized working people, minorities, the elderly, the poor urban communities — these people (along with the increasingly beleagured middle class, which is learning) know firsthand American industry's record on health and safety. They know industry's low regard for the worth of an individual. Yet the majority is supporting industry's pitch for nuclear power.

Richard Grossman, coordinator of Environmentalists for Full Employment, a Washington, D.C. — based coalition of several hundred environmental and community organizations, suggests that this majority is driven primarily by distrust of those who are opposing nuclear power. They consider the anti-nuclear movement to be a threat to their jobs and families and are convinced that anti-nuclear zealots would take the future into their own arrogant, elitist and moralistic hands. Moreover, Grossman suggests that if nuclear opponents want more than moral victories, they need to build locally-based coalitions directed toward development of safe, affordable energy and the creation of an ecologically-attuned full-employment economy.

To expound more fully upon Grossman's remarks, it might be said that concerned citizens, splinters of the labor movement, a minority of scientists, those isolated as "environmentalists" — no one of these groups can by itself provide the jobs and resources needed by this nation. The money, talent and means for safe energy and full employment will become available only after the nuclear venture is over. Similarly, the concept that citizens can provide for more and more of their own needs — including energy needs — by themselves, in their own communities, will not achieve popular acceptance until government directed highly centralized fission and fusion nonsense is over.

By sharing accurate information on the high costs and disastrous consequences of a nuclear economy, with diverse groups approached as equals; by helping to encourage a groundswell for safer, cheaper energy sources which are locally controlled and efficient and provide more jobs; by assuring that no one group or class of people will bear the burden of discarding the nuclear technology; and by assisting diverse people with their economic, health and safety battles, nuclear opponents can finish off the nuclear experiment and help provide alternatives this country can afford.

Many people have become politically active and environmentally aware through involvement in anti-nuclear struggles. Many of these people believe that nuclear energy is somehow a terrible aberration. These people need to look more closely at the history of government and science in service to industry. They need to look at who the nuclear industry is; the oil and chemical companies, large manufacturers of electrical generating equipment and appliances, the utilities, along with interlocked politicians, science and engineering establishments, universities, federal and state agencies, banks and investment houses. Nuclear opponents need to know that these conglomerations are responsible for a terrible record of health and safety created by their use of asbestos, coal gas, mercury, pesticides, food additives, PVC's, PBB's, PCB's, Kepone, and on and on. They are the ones who have been fighting workplace and natural environment protection, who have suppressed toxicity and disease data, and who have used environmental blackmail tactics to avoid cleaning up. They are the ones responsible for the nearly half-million workers disabled yearly by occupational disease.

The anti-nuke movement has been built by hard-working volunteers. Admittedly, there is only so much that volunteers can do. Involvement in health, safety, employment and alternative energy issued may be attacked as diluting the resources of the movement. But, as Richard Grossman notes, without effort in these realms, "anti-nuclear people will be forced to continue battling fellow citizens who may be just as terrified of nukes, but who have been convinced they have no other choice if they are to preserve their jobs and families."

Damon Thomas is a Collegian Commentator.

Massachusetts going to pot?

By GEORGE SOMMERS

Marijuana smokers in Massachusetts should have even greater incentive to register to vote in the elections of 1978 than they did in the 1976 contest between old hard-line-on-drugs Gerald Ford and marijuana decrim advocate Jimmy Carter. For although the president is able to push for decriminalization on a federal level, this still leaves several outdated anti-marijuana laws in the state books. Several states have decriminalized use of the weed, and Alaska has completely legalized it. Massachusetts, which should be a leader in this trend of progressive thought, is not among the states that have decriminalized.

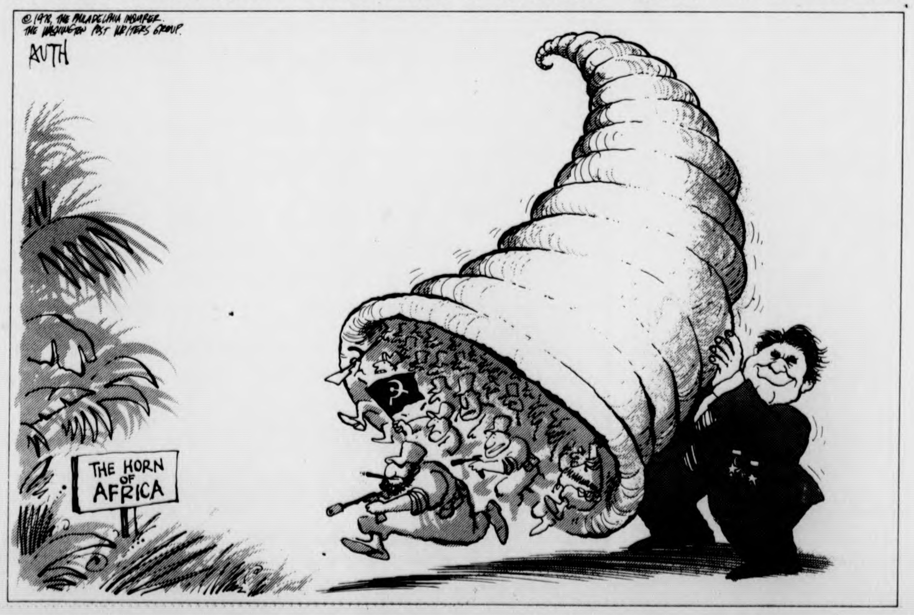
National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) is striving to change the Bay State law through a proposed referendum question on the 1978 ballot. The question is simply whether or not we as Massachusetts voters favor decriminalization. The forces opposed to marijuana are well-organized and well financed and will turn out in droves to assure themselves that another "dangerous drug" that will "corrupt the youth" will not be unleashed on society. Unfortunately, they are basing their reactions on their own perceptions of marijuana. Having had no direct experience — with it, they fear it.

Those who have either smoked or studied the drug know differently. Scientists have yet to come up with positive evidence of any physical harm caused by marijuana, other than that it is carcinogenic. One would have to smoke approximately forty joints a day to expose themselves to the same danger a two-pack a day cigarette smoker submits himself to. The Nixon-appointed (!!!) Commission on Drug Abuse recommended decriminalization. Nixon subsequently stifled and ignored the report.

Users of the drug invariably maintain that its effects are less of an impairment to mental processes than those of alcohol. Nevertheless, opponents of decriminalization question legitimatizing another intoxicant. The fact is that over sixteen million Americans live under a stigma not of their own choice. Keeping marijuana illegal results only in creating a subculture of would-be criminals whose only offense is in a freely chosen, relatively harmless habit they share.

A recent private poll taken of the United States Congress revealed that over half of the senators and representatives smoke marijuana. Yet the politicians are dragging their feet on the issue because they fear reprisals from voters for being "soft on drugs". Thus, it is up to the smokers themselves to push through decriminalization in the '78 balloting.

It looks as if time is ripe for decriminalization in Massachusetts. The Gallup and Harris Polls indicate over half of the public favors decriminalization. Smokers themselves, sick of paying exorbitant prices for their habit, certainly have the motivation to vote on the issue. As usual, the outcome depends on which side is the least apathetic.



© 1978, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER.
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP.
AUTH
THE HORN OF AFRICA

Discussion begins on reverend's sex charge

GREENFIELD [AP] — After hearing the prosecutor call it a case of child abuse, a superior court jury began deliberations last night on sexual misconduct charges against the Rev. Roy Leo, a clergy member known for his political activism.

The six women and six men, residents of rural Franklin County in western Massachusetts, began studying the evidence after one hour of instruction from Judge Raymond R. Cross.

Leo, 55, is charged with statutory rape, assault and battery and unnatural and lascivious acts with a 14-year-old girl. Testifying in his own defense, Leo denied all allegations.

In closing arguments yesterday, Assistant District Attorney John Finn said, "This is not just a case of sexual abuse. This is principally as a case of child abuse, sexual child abuse.

"It's also a case of intimidation, a case of bribery, of threats," Finn said, referring to testimony that Leo had attempted to intimidate potential witnesses against him.

Defense attorney Sebastian Ruggeri, in his closing arguments, said Leo — a Congregational minister — was the victim of a conspiracy to destroy his place in the community.

A teen-age girl, now 16, testified that in 1975 her parents — members of Greenfield's Robbins Memorial Church — sent her to its pastor, Leo, for counseling.

She told the jury Leo repeatedly made sexual advances toward her, and that they first had intercourse during a youth group "sleepover" at the church parsonage.

"Some of the children at the church also are victims in this case," Finn told the jury. "They believed in Roy Leo."

Attacking defense witnesses who placed Leo elsewhere on days he allegedly had sex with the teenager, Finn said, "This also is a case of fairly rank perjury."

Leo, an outspoken former Greenfield School Committee member, has been pastor of Robbins Memorial Church for 11 years. He was involved in a 1976 controversy over allegations that, as chaplain of the county jail, he entertained inmates at his home when they were supposed to be behind bars.

Leo, his wife and daughter sat next to reporters in the nearly-empty courtroom, showing little emotion. The minister's teenage accuser and her family sat across the aisle.

Pregnant? Don't smoke

BOSTON [UPI] — Massachusetts Public Health Commissioner Dr. Jonathan Fielding, asked doctors to strongly recommend that all pregnant patients quit smoking to avoid risks to unborn children.

In an article in the current New England Journal of Medicine, Fielding cited federal studies which have shown cigarette smoking results in smaller babies and higher birth mortality and miscarriage rates.

"In the initial prenatal visit, physicians and nurses should include cigarette smoke in the usual list of drugs that are known to adversely affect the pregnancy and are to be avoided," Fielding said.

"Mention may be made that during pregnancy, the use of all pharmacologic agents is to be kept to a minimum, cigarette smoke which contains over 1,000 'drugs' is of special concern."

Fielding said doctors should consider testing patient carbon monoxide levels because "some evidence suggests that pregnant women may be particularly susceptible to education techniques designed to stop smoking.

"The patient should be shown abnormal laboratory results and told that the high level, which poses a risk to the fetus, can be lowered to the normal range only by cessation of smoking," Fielding said.

Physicians should post a list of reputable local stop-smoking clinics and provide this information... with the suggestion that these peer groups may help the patients stop smoking," he said.

A U.S. Surgeon General's report on smoking estimated 4,600 annual infant and fetus deaths could be directly attributed to smoking.

Fielding also asked the Federal Trade Commission to toughen the health warning on cigarette packages. He recommended the following message.

"Cigarette smoking is hazardous to your health and can cause fatal cancer, heart disease and lung disease. Smoking during pregnancy increases the risk of complications, and the risk of death of the unborn baby or newborn infant."

Population expansion rate drops

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The world population growth rate has turned downward and Earth may have a half-billion fewer people than predicted by the year 2000, a Harvard population specialist reported yesterday.

"It's very encouraging news although it hasn't been fully analyzed and explained," said Nick Eberstadt, chairman of an American Association for the Advancement of Science symposium on world fertility.

Eberstadt, with Harvard's Center for Population Studies, predicted on the basis of the current growth rate the world's population by 2000 A.D. will range from 5.5 billion to 5.8 billion. The United Nations last year projected a total of 6.25 billion.

He said the rate of population growth was 1.9 per cent per year in 1970 and was down to 1.7 per cent last year.

The decline, he said, "has happened much more rapidly than any demographers had anticipated."

"The significance of this is obvious — poor nations are going to find it easier presumably to alleviate poverty within their own borders," Eberstadt said in an interview.

"It also is very encouraging because it is a sign that development is reaching the poorest of the poor — that 40 per cent group that contributes 60 per cent of the world's birth."

He credited the population growth rate decline to "a sizeable and generally unexpected decline in fertility in the poor countries."

The birth rates of the less developed countries averaged about 42 per 1,000 people in 1970. By 1977, he said the birth rates had dropped to 36.

He said a few years ago some specialists had predicted increasing death rates from famine might cause a decline in population growth. But Eberstadt said there doesn't seem to be much supporting evidence.

"As a matter of fact, life expectancy in poor nations is higher than it has ever been before and is increasing at the rate of one per cent a year, at least it has over the '70's."

Eberstadt said he and his associates came up with their figures on the basis of United Nations statistics adjusted according to recent census results from such countries as Mexico, where he said the birth rate has dropped much more rapidly than expected.

Dr. Robert Repetto of the Harvard School of Public Health said income distribution has a significant effect on birth rates. He said nations where birth rates had dropped dramatically over the past two decades — such as China, Taiwan, South Korea, Sri Lanka and Malaysia — saw overall incomes become more equal among their people.

In countries where very unequal income distributions have continued, such as in Brazil and the Philippines, little drop in the birth rate has been recorded.

| | |
|---|---|
| CURA CAO | From $299. |
| GUADELOUPE | From $299. |
| *SANTO DOMINGO | From $269. |
| JAMAICA | From $249. |
| *COSTA RICA | From $299. |
| *EL SALVADOR | From $299. |
| NASSAU | From $329. |

All Trips Include
- Roundtrip air transportation
- Roundtrip transportation between airport and hotel
- Seven nights hotel accommodations
- Baggage handling
- All taxes and gratuities
- And much more

*FULL BUFFET BREAKFAST DAILY

Campus Travel Center

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus on February 22, 24, or contact your Navy representative at 518-472-4424/4462 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

UMASS
STUDENT FEDERAL CREDIT UNION
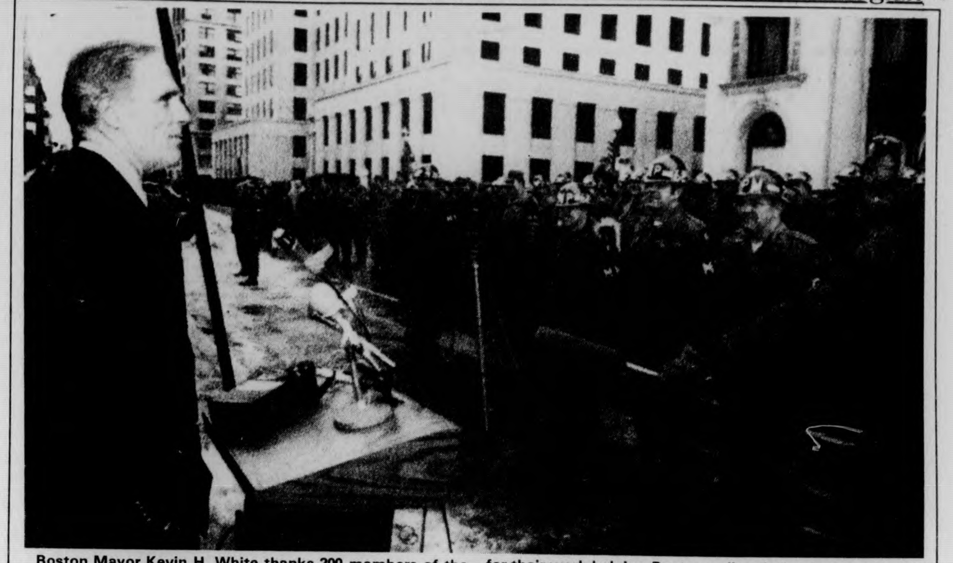
WORK STUDY POSITION
AVAILABLE

Secretary/Receptionist
$2.65/hr.

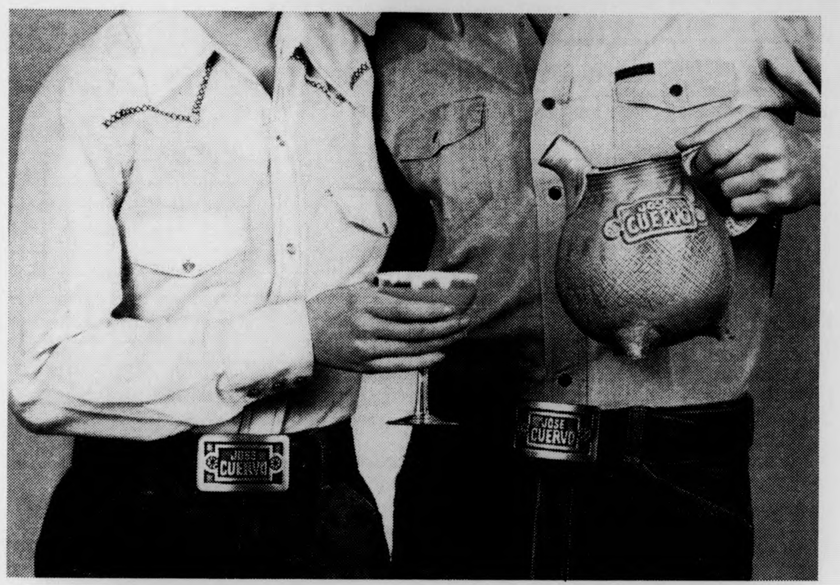
10 hours per week
Must be able to type well
and be available when needed.
Contact BETSY LEHR
545-2800

Deadline: Feb. 24

An Equal Opportunity
Employer



Boston Mayor Kevin H. White thanks 200 members of the Yankee Division of the Army National Guard Military Police for their work helping Boston police during the recent storm emergency. (UPI)



Coming of age in Tequila means learning two very important things... how to hold up your jeans with a Cuervo belt buckle...
and how to mix your Margarita by the Cuervo pitcherful.

Since you're already into the taste of Cuervo Gold, you'll like getting into these Cuervo artifacts:

The Jose Cuervo Belt Buckle in pewter tone metal. One size fits any belt; $2.50.

The Jose Cuervo Margarita Pitcher. A roomy pottery pitcher (guaranteed lead free) that holds manly-size portions; $4.99.

To have either, fill out the coupon below and send it off to our American hacienda.

MAIL TO: Cuervo Buckle/Pitcher Offer
P.O. Box 11152
Newington, Conn. 06111

| Please send me the following: | Quantity | Amount |
|---|---|---|
| Jose Cuervo Belt Buckle @ $2.50 each | ____ | ____ |
| Jose Cuervo Margarita Pitcher @ $4.99 each | ____ | ____ |
| | Total $ | ____ |

Name____________
Address____________
City________State________Zip________

Offer good in the Continental United States, except States where prohibited or licensed. Allow 6 weeks for delivery. Supply limited; offer expires April 30, 1978. Connecticut residents add 7% sales tax.

JOSE CUERVO
JOSE CUERVO

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1978 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Conn. sings state song

HARTFORD, Conn. [AP] — "Yankee Doodle" failed yesterday where the praying mantis and the garnet have succeeded. A move to have Connecticut embrace the song as its own was defeated.

The Government Administration and Policy Committee voted 9-7 against a resolution to designate "Yankee Doodle" as the state song. House Majority Leader William O'Neill, the East Hampton Democrat who also is state party chairman led the movement for the song.

"Right now we'll have to do with "Boola, Boola," the Yale fight song recognized informally as the state tune, said Rep. Clyde Sayre, a Watertown Republican who read a brief ode against the song:

"Chairman Bill has made it known,
to all the party faithful,
The whale, the rock and grasshopper, are landmark legislation.
While the state goes down the drain,
due to fiscal fakery,
Bill is fiddling with a tune,
to give the public cakery.

The sperm whale is the state animal. The Legislature last session named the praying mantis the state insect and the garnet the state mineral. With those precedents, what does Sayre have against "Yankee Doodle?"

"It was all in jest," Sayre explained afterward. "It was only to point out the absurdity of a state song."

"I don't think that's what you'd call essential legislation in a fiscal session. The next legislative session seems to be a more appropriate time.

"It was no political scam against Bill O'Neill," Sayre said. "We had a good time with it. I thought we'd get a hell of a chuckle out of it and we did."

Sayre added that "Yankee Doodle" diehards may seek to revive the resolution this session: "This may not be a dead issue."

Tanker may stay stuck

BOSTON [UPI] — Workers may not be able to dislodge the Greek oil tanker that ran aground in Salem Harbor Feb. 6 for several months, a Coast Guard spokesman said yesterday.

Attempts to refloat the 82-foot tanker Global Hope earlier this week were unsuccessful, spokesman John Bablitc said, adding that owners of the tanker and the Coast Guard determined yesterday that the vessel must now be stabilized and residual 639,000 gallons of oil removed from its fuel tanks.

Once that is accomplished, the Trent Shipping Co. of New York City, owner of the Hope, will determine how to remove the vessel from the harbor, Baltic said.

The Coast Guard, which monitored Monday's efforts to refloat the tanker, will be actively involved in work to remove the oil and to prevent an oil spill, he said.

An earlier effort to remove oil from the ship resulted in a spill of about 40,000 gallons, and an undetermined amount of the spilled oil washed onto the beach in nearby Marblehead. Most of the oil has been recovered, Bablitc said.

PLEASE KEEP OFF
NEW ICE

Ignoring posted signs, these two skaters were seen skating on the reflecting pool of the Fine Arts Center over the weekend. (Staff photo by Christopher Schmitt)

American households win violence award

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Only a battlefield or a riot are more violent than the American home, according to a national survey of household violence presented to a House subcommittee yesterday.

Child abuse, wife and husband beating, sexual assault and sibling violence — all within the "haven of love and mutual support" of the family — were described by three witnesses at the opening of three days of hearings on family violence.

"Violence occurs between family members more often than it occurs in any other setting except with armies in war and police during riots," testified Murray Straus of the University of New Hampshire, who directed what he said was the only national study of violence in American families.

He said the study found:

— "An astounding range and severity of violence toward children by their parents" that includes 1.2 million children aged 3-17 whose parents at some time in their lives had attacked them with a lethal weapon.

— More than 1.8 million wives are beaten annually by their husbands, typically at least twice.

— 2.3 million children had used a knife or gun on a brother or sister.

Douglas Besharov, director of the government's National Center for Child Abuse and Neglect, disclosed new research showing a relationship between spouse-beating and child abuse.

He said a San Diego treatment project sponsored by the center concluded in many cases of family violence the victim is whatever family member happens to be available.

Saleem Shah, chief of a National Institute of Mental Health crime and delinquency unit, said as many as 2,000 of the 20,000 homicides annually in the United States involve husbands and wives.

"We normally consider the family a haven of love and mutual support ... against the rigors of the outside world," said Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., chairperson of the subcommittee on domestic and international scientific planning, analysis and cooperation.

"Out there they are gunning for us. At least in the family it's all for one and one for all," said Scheuer, questioning Shah on why there is so much violence in the presumably safe setting of the family.

Shah replied that research has "shattered a myth" that the family is a bastion of safety against the outside world.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _______
X #days:_____ = _______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#:____________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

72 VW Super Beetle in excellent condition. Call 256-8890, even. Negotiable.

68 Ford Custom 4000 R hdtop. PS, PB, AT, new snows, good cond. $400. 665-3271, nights.

Volvo 1971 4 speed, exc. cond. throughout, radials. $1295 or BO. 665-3412.

1969 Ford wagon, 390, runs but needs work. Call Dave, 546-8618, after five. $1200. nego.

FOR SALE

1¼ acre lot in Brandon, Fla. — ½ hr. from Clearwater. Lot is on hill overlooking large lake. Lovely area. For info call 1-467-3465 after 5 & on weekends.

Pedal steel guitar, 8 string, 3 pedal, beautiful sound, $100. Matt, 546-6153.

5 cubic ft. refrig., largest legal dorm size. $75, will deliver. Glenn, 549-1221.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Sun and heat lamp. Sears 800 watt. Best offer. 546-1043.

Rossignol ROC 550's 195's with look nevbndgs, excel. cond. Only $85, 256-0291.

Phillips GA427 turntable, $50, exc., 66856.

Once in a blue moon. 5 Market St., N'hampton used furn.—antiques, red tag sale, now-18.

FOR RENT

Single furnished room with private bathroom. $75/month, Amherst Motel. Call after 6. 256-6652.

UMass professor has two rooms, $90/mo + ut, large house—Dave Nubert, 545-2227/wkday, 659-3523/wkend-eves. 36 Bridge Millersfa.

Rent a refrigerator from Spirit Haus. A limited number still here. Call 253-5384.

WANTED

Women's ice skates, good condition. 549-5433.

Female vocalist wants band. Call Alison at 6-7426.

Roommate wanted. Get 1st mo. rent free. Male non-smoker, on bus route in Sund. $75/mo. Call Paul, 665-3855.

HELP WANTED

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round, Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free information—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Flute teacher needed—beginner. 665-3659.

Counsellor for a Cong. Church youth group. Sundays. Call 584-9392, am.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

Need help with Stat.? Psych 145 tutor. Call John, 253-3971.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Five College typing service—professional, fast service. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

NEW BABY BOY

Robert Stowe Williamson. Feb. 10, 1978; weight—8 pounds; son of Bob & Sarah Williamson; congratulations, Mommy and Daddy.

PERSONALS

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

To the girl who mistakenly took my mittens at the post office Monday 7: please leave them at the lost and found desk in the CC for me. Thanks.

Scott, we'll remember your smile always—your friends on Baker 4th.

LOST

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

AUDIO

Garrard 40B w/wood base and new AT11 cart., $30, 549-4470. Must sell soon.

ENTERTAINMENT

Monitor Music partiers know we're the best—for any party. Get us at 546-4732.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

ENTERTAINMENT

HYPNOSIS &
SELF HYPNOSIS
Introductory Class.
See Classifieds
Under Instruction

STUDY IN GUADALAJARA, MEXICO
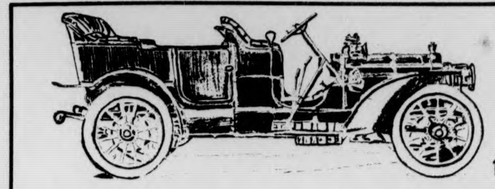
The GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, a fully accredited UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA program, offers July 3-August 11, anthropology, art, bilingual education, folklore, history, political science, Spanish language and literature, intensive Spanish. Tuition: $245; board and room with Mexican family: $285. For brochure: GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL, Alumni 211, University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona 85721. (602) 884-4729.



14 Masonic St.
Northampton
584-5957

Winner of 3 Academy Awards!
CAMELOT
TECHNICOLOR® PANAVISION® FROM WARNER BROS.-SEVEN ARTS
Wed., Feb. 15 — CCA — 7 & 10 — $1

THE RESTAURANT just good food
Featuring: homemade soups, salads, & sandwiches
daily specials
bagels & pastries
256-8955
OPEN 9:30-6:00
MON.-SAT.
AT FACES OF EARTH

Canadian Opera Company
in
"The Barber of Seville"
ROSSINI'S COMIC OPERA
IN ENGLISH
WITH ORCHESTRA
Thursday, February 16
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
Tickets on sale February 2. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students — $4, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

The rusty nail Inn
WED., FEB. 15
KILROY and
HOT CALYPSO KEY
THURS., FEB. 16
FAT
EVERY SUNDAY
GEORGE T. GREGORY
EVERY MONDAY
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
TUES. & WED.,
FEB. 21 & 24
Clean Living and Bear Mountain
COMING
FRI. & SAT.,
FEB. 17 and 18
JAMES COTTON and
JAMES MONTGOMERY
Cover $4.00
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
"Oh, God!"
A CARL REINER FILM
GEORGE BURNS
JOHN DENVER
PG
Eves.: 7:00 & 9:00
Sat. & Sun. Mat.: 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
NOW – ends Tues.
7:00 & 9:00
"Cousin Cousine is fetchingly loony and great fun."
—Janet Maslin, Newsweek
Cousin Cousine
—only area showing!
STARRING MARIE-CHRISTINE BARRAULT
at the Gates of Smith College

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
1 IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat.,Sun. Mon.,Tue.) 2:15
2 CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45 -7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat.,Sun. Mon.,Tue.) 2:00
3 STARTS FRIDAY
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinees (Sat.,Sun. Mon.,Tue.) 2:00
4 "SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
ENDS TUESDAY
R MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat.,Sun. Mon.,Tue.) 2:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

Girl hires grandmother; school party successful

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Nancy Powers needed a grandmother for the traditional sixth grade Valentine's Day party at Price School. But her real grandma couldn't make it, so she did the next best thing — advertise.

Her ad ran in the personals section of Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and, after interviewing nine applicants by telephone, she settled on two. Nancy and her adopted grandmothers, Virginia Groth and Rosemary Niedzielski, agreed yesterday the play was a success.

"She really is a grandmother and I wish I were one," Groth said, pointing to Niedzielski who was sitting across the low table in the school's brightly decorated library.

"I always read the personal column because years ago somebody said they tried to find me through a newspaper ad," Mrs. Niedzielski said. "I have two grandchildren, both boys, and I thought it was about time I had a girl."

Nancy's real grandmother couldn't attend the party because her grandfather was undergoing surgery, and Nancy was disappointed. "She wanted a grandmother in the worst way," her mother said. "She was pretty upset."

The ad, composed by Nancy's father, read:

"Grandma or Great Grandma. Girl age 11 wishes to borrow 1 grandmother for Valentine's Day party at elementary school.

Campaigning course offered

Students interested in earning academic credit for work in political campaigns this semester have until this afternoon to sign up for a 3-credit political practicum on "The 1978 Massachusetts Elections" taught by Ken Mosakowski as part of The Inquiry Program in Pierpont House in the Southwest Residential College.

Students electing this practicum will be required to work for a candidate of their choice running for public office in Massachusetts this year.

The practicum has been offered since 1973 and has helped hundreds of students from UMass and other area colleges gain valuable practical experience in the real workings of the political system.

Interested students may sign up for the practicum today in the Inquiry Program Academic Office in Pierpont House (telephone 545-0871).

HEAD COUNSELORS & COUNSELORS for small summer camp
Call 1-684-3723
or write to
HELENA WEBB
136 No. East St.
Holyoke, Mass. 01040

Reefer Madness
and the 3 STOOGES
PLACE MAHAR AUD. FEB 16 THURS TIMES: 6:30, 8:15 9:50, 11:30
PRESENTED BY BRETT DORM
$1- ADM.

Friday, Feb. 17
HAPPY HOUR
3-7
Doc Sullivan Returns
for 4 hours of Nostalgia.
MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978

Nominations Are Now Open for
SGA President
Be the Student Trustee for your university.
Nominations close the 24th of Feb.
For nomination papers or more information go to room 420 S.U. or call 5-0341.

Beat the high price of PRECISION HAIRCUTS
For His & Her
Includes:
FIRST: a professional consultation.
SECOND: a precision style cut selected individually just for you.
THIRD: our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair.
All For $8.00
Personal Style Cut
Shampoo & Blow Dry
Long Hair Slightly More
ON TUE. & WED. ONLY
With this coupon only.
Limited to new customers only.
Styles by Deborah
Call for appt. 549-5610

CENTRAL AREA WOMEN'S CENTER
presents
Thursday Women's Film Series
Thursday, Feb. 16 — A Doll's House
Thursday, Feb. 23 — Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the Moon Marigolds
Thursday, March 2 — Tell Me Where It Hurts
Thursday, March 9 — Lumiere
All showings are at 8 p.m. in the Center
(Baker House basement)
Admission Free

Blue Wall Bar
WED.-SAT.
The Fools
Feb. 15-18

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

HEY, DUKE, THERE'S SOME ATTORNEY ON THE PHONE FOR YOU! AN EDWARDS WILLIAMS..
NEVER HEARD OF HIM! I'M NOT HOME!
HE SAYS HE'S WITH THE WASHINGTON REDSKINS!
OH, THAT WILLIAMS! HOT DAMN! HE MUST HAVE GOTTEN MY JOB APPLICATION!
WHAT JOB APPLICATION?
FOR GENERAL MANAGER! I FINALLY DECIDED IT WAS TIME TO CASH IN ON MY BACKGROUND IN SPORTS MEDICINE!
YOUR WHAT?
NEPHEW, DID YOU KNOW THREE OUT OF FOUR NFL LINEBACKERS REGULARLY USE AMPHETAMINES?
WANT
2-15
© 1978 G. B. Trudeau
Universal Press Syndicate
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

YOU WON!
CONGRATULATIONS! I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!
LET ME SEE WHAT IT SAYS ON THE TROPHY..
HOW ABOUT THAT? "MOST IMPROVED BIRD"
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
2-15
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

IS THIS A SLOW NEWS DAY?
YEAH, WHATTA YOU GOT?
I GOT A BIG SCOOP ON ICE CREAM.
KILL THE FRONT PAGE, CHARLIE!
2-15
HART

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

YOU LOUSY KID! WHEN I GET MY HANDS ON YOU...
I THINK DAD IS ANGRY!
WHAT A LUCKY BREAK! SOMEONE TRIPPED DAD!
DIMP
2/15
LAFLER
WHILE MR. FORGE IS TEMPORARILY STAGGERED, GERALD DISGUISES HIMSELF WITH HIS PORTABLE FACE!
FACE
HEY! IT WORKS! HE RAN RIGHT BY ME!

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

TAKE THE SMALL BOX IN THE CENTER OF YOUR CHEST-PLATE; AND THROW IT!
ROLLINS 2/15
TENDRILS WHICH START TO ENGULF THE BATTLE-ROB.
THE BOX HITS THE GROUND.
TIK TAK
INSTANTLY, METALLIC TENDRILS SPROUT FROM THE BOX.
WHEN THE BATTLE-ROB IS COMPLETELY COVERED, THE TENDRILS BEGIN TO HEAT UP, PROCEEDING RAPIDLY THROUGH THE SPECTRUM OF COLORS.
CHERRY RED DULL RED ORANGE YELLOW
BLUE-WHITE
BECOMING AT LAST.....
WHITE HOT!
THEN THE TENDRILS COLLAPSE,
LEAVING ONLY MOLTEIV SLAG.

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

So what's your major, Jim, Phys. Ed?
Wrong. It's biochemistry
And if you make one more dumb jock remark, I'll give you that badly needed nose job.
therwise, we should get along st fine. Do you sleep with window open?
I do now, sir.
Ranney 2/15

BACK AGAIN by K

K! HAVE YOU SEEN YOUR ROOMMATE YET?
NO.
AND I CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT. HIS STUFF IS IN THE ROOM AND HIS BED WAS SLEPT IN, BUT I HAVEN'T SEEN HIM.
2/15
I CAN'T IMAGINE WHERE HE IS.

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15 — Born today, you are an extremely perceptive individual, but more likely to perceive his own feelings than those of other people. You may have a greater reputation for generosity of spirit than you deserve. By the same token, your ability to fool others into thinking of you as a sympathetic, giving person is more to your credit than you may think.

There is something romantic about you, though not particularly in your relationships with others. You often look at the world through rose-colored glasses, and resent those who advise you to take them off. You like to think of yourself as an idealist, even when you are not acting idealistically. The key to "good living" – or so you like to think – is optimism.

You have a strict sense of justice. You do not rail against your own fate, because you have taught yourself to believe in the fairness of things. There are times when your belief is strained to the breaking point, but you manage to hold on to your optimistic way of looking at things, nevertheless.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) – Realize the importance of another's career to yours and you will be headed for success.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) – Rely on your own judgment of people, or you may find you have been misled, though honestly so.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) – Fair play is the essence of the good things today offers. Take advantage of your sense of what's right.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) – There is a possibility that you will rise to a serene and rare occasion. Take your place at the top.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) – Seek the advice of associates at work. This may be an excellent day for change.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) – Try to see another's point of view; you may then be able to work with rather than against him.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) – Patient investigation of your problem makes possible a solution that will strengthen friendships.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) – Conversation must be kept "on the track" today, or you may forfeit understanding in the long run.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- You may have several highly emotional hours today. Laughter and tears vie for dominance.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) – Another's viewpoint may be easier to see than yours, especially concerning new friends.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) – Keep words of wisdom to yourself until asked for them. You may see a new harshness in another.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) – Physical activities should be stressed today, especially during the morning. Daydreams mislead.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate

Local Television

5:00 2 24 57 MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD
8 19 40 ABC AFTERSCHOOL SPECIAL CONTINUES
● ● ● EMERGENCY ONE
18 JOURNEY TO ADVENTURE
27 LONE RANGER "The Frightened Woman"
38 NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
● THE FLINTSTONES
5:30 ● SESAME STREET
● THE MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
8 ● THE ODD COUPLE
● CHRIST THE LIVING WORD
● ● THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
● THE FBI "The Daedly Species"
● THE GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
● NEWSBEAT NEWS
● GILLIGAN'S ISLAND
6:00 ● 8 ● ● 30 NEWS
● CONCENTRATION
● STAR TREK "The Devil In The Dark"
● BOZO
● TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — CHILD DEVELOPMENT
● STAR TREK
● HOGAN'S HEROES
● BONANZA "Ballad Of The Ponderosa"
● BRADY BUNCH
● ZOOM
6:30 ● THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
● ● ● NEWS
● JOKER'S WILD
● LASSIE
● TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — EARTH SEA & SKY
● TARZAN "[illegible]ack Of The Dinosaur"
● ADAM—12
● PARTRIDGE FAMILY
● OVER EASY
6:55 ● NEWSBEAT NEWS
7:00 ● ZOOM
● ● ● ● NEWS
● CONCENTRATION
● BOWLING FOR DOLLARS
● THE ODD COUPLE "Oscar's Birthday"
● FESTIVAL OF FAITH
● ● THE CROSS—WITS
● OVER EASY
● THE ODD COUPLE
● MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
● AS MAN BEHAVES
7:30 ● MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS
● THE DAILY NUMBERS
● TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES
● NEWLYWED GAME
● ACTION NEWS
● WHEN HAVOC STRUCK
● THE BIG MONEY TV GAME
● ● MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
● ABBOTT AND COSTELLO
● MUTUAL OF OMAHA'S WILD KINGDOM
● SO THE STORY GOES
● THE JOKER'S WILD
● IN SEARCH OF
● THE MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
7:3[illegible] ● WHEN HAVOC STRUCK
8:00 ● ● NOVA "Children Of The Forest"
● CBS SPORTS SPECIAL BROADCAST "Heavyweight Champion Muhammad Ali vs. Leon Spinks"
8 40 EIGHT IS ENOUGH
9 MILLION DOLLAR MOVIE "Nightmare Honeymoon" Dack Rambo, Rebecca Smith
11 LET'S MAKE A DEAL
22 30 NBC MOVIE OF THE WEEK "The Mountain Man"

******************************

22 1ST TIME ON TV—How ★a man saved his home and animal friends!
"MOUNTAIN MAN"

******************************

27 MOVIE "The Cowboys"
32 38 BOSTON BRUINS HOCKEY
57 THE FORSYTE SAGA
8:30 11 DINAH!
9:00 2 CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN
8 19 40 CHARLIE'S ANGELS "Mother Goose Is Running For His Life"
24 57 GREAT PERFORMANCES — LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER "Luciano Pavorotti"
9:30 2 NO, HONESTLY "No We Are Married"
10:00 2 11 27 NEWS
8 19 40 STARSKY AND HUTCH "Class In Crime" Starsky and Hutch are marked for death by a college professor who earns his own high-powered marks by doubling as a professional hit man.
● NINE ON NEW JERSEY
22 30 POLICE WOMAN "Sons" A black rookie police officer is slain by a juvenile in a racially mixed community that is wracked with unrest over school busing.
● LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
10:30 ● MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
● MEET THE MAYORS
● TO TELL THE TRUTH
27 BIG MONEY TV GAME
38 ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS "Ambition" And "The Throwback"
11:00 ● ● DICK CAVETT SHOW
● ● ● ● ● ● NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
● ● THE HOLLYWOOD CONNECTION
● THE ODD COUPLE "Oscar, The Model"
18 LIVING FAITH
● MOVIE "Crucible Of Terror"
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ● CBS LATE MOVIE "Hawaii Five-O"
8 19 40 POLICE STORY
9 LATE MOVIE "Green Hell" Douglas Fairbanks, Joan Bennett, Vincent Price
11 THE HONEYMOONERS "Opportunity Knocks But"
22 30 32 THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
38 IRONSIDE "Memory Of An Ice Cream Stick"
● DICK CAVETT SHOW
12:00 11 TWILIGHT ZONE "Spur Of The Moment"
● CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS

MACHEATH RECAPTURED Friday, Feb. 17, 8:15 p.m. in Bezanson Recital Hall, Fine Arts Center, UMass. No admission charge.

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Stevedores' milieu
6 Where Caesar rode
10 Clothes: Informal
14 One with expections
15 Shade of blue
16 Tree of Life site
17 Wonderland girl
18 Ending with gen and lit
19 Top-notch
20 Slept under canvas
22 Enjoyment
24 Arab sultanate
26 Ceremonial candle bearer
27 Bore the expenses
31 Baronet's title
32 Arctic, for one
33 Dales
35 Small portion
38 Relative of etc.
39 March of ----
40 Not pronounced
41 "Balder-dash!"
42 Remount a stone
43 Old It. playing card
44 "My Gal ---"
45 Smother
47 ------- and cream
51 Declared
52 Quebec mineral
54 Blazes
58 Oliver Hardy's buddy
59 Building beam
61 Church vestment
62 Civil suit cause
63 Ancient arsonist
64 Wash lightly
65 "Tarzan and the ----"
66 Take hurriedly
67 Noted PGA member

DOWN
1 Relative pronoun
2 Puncture
3 As neat as ----
4 Of a clergyman
5 Civil liberty enjoyer
6 Philippine Sea bay
7 Gridiron covering
8 Glorify
9 Frees
10 Textile worker
11 Smell: Brit.
12 Variety
13 Jeer
21 24 hours
23 Egypt. scared bull
25 Ben ----: Scottish mountain
27 Vigorous person
28 External: Prefix
29 Deed
30 Females
34 Latvians
35 Unimportant village
36 Chemical suffix
37 ---- a-tete: Private chat
39 Removing
40 ------- orange
42 Cheers
43 Suit makers
44 Distinctive odors
46 UK defense force: Abbr.
47 Ravioli dough
48 Prohibit
49 Won by ---- majority
50 Sedate
53 F.D.R.'s mother
55 Percheron's tresses
56 Opera heroine
57 Progeny
60 Filch

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

Stress workshop

Stress: Everybody has it, and has to have it in order to survive. But sometimes it gets to be too much, and can really disrupt your life. What then?

University Health Services will again offer a two-session workshop "Learn to Live with Stress" for students and their dependents. The program is scheduled for March 1 and 8 from 7 to 9 p.m. Preregistration is required: contact Barbara Estabrook at the Health Services (549-2671) by February 23.

"Learn to Live with Stress" seeks to increase your awareness of stress, its causes and effects. Several techniques for dealing with excess stress are explored. Co-facilitators of the program are Stacy Lundin of the Mental Health staff and Barbara Estabrook of Health Education.

DC menu

TODAY

Lunch: Swiss Turkey Sandwich, Tacos; Basics: Rice and Cheese Stuffed Cabbage, Fried Fish Plate; Dinner: Ginger Pot Roast, Baked Fish; Basics: Barley Soybean Casserole, Baked Fish.

TOMORROW

Lunch: Cheeseburger, Liver and Onions; Basics: Vegetarian Chow Mein, Golden Burgers; Dinner: Chicken Cacciatore, Meatballs in Sauce, Fruit Salad Plate; Basics: Chicken Cacciatore, Lentil Loaf

Help Wanted

Work Study students interested in photography experience sought to assist in photo finishing activities in campus photographic laboratory. Call 545-2298 during work hours. Rates and hours negotiable. Ask for Donald Linne.

"Politics at the Grassroots"
Skills and Strategies
A Three Credit Seminar
Starting Feb. 19th

Workshops will be facilitated by nationally known organizing figures such as Mike Ansara of Mass. Fair and Wade Ratke of ACORN.

Contact the SOP Rm. 426 SUB or 5-2415

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON
INVITES ALL UNIVERSITY MEN
TO FIND OUT WHAT FRATERNITY LIVING IS REALLY LIKE.

WHEN Feb 13 - Mon
Feb 14 - Tues
Feb 15 - Wed

WHERE 118 SUNSET AVE

TIME 7:30 - 9:30 PM

for info and rides call 545-2151 or 256-6815

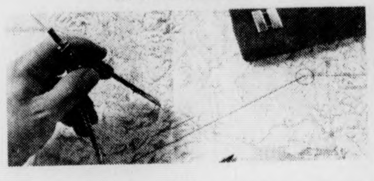
CHART YOUR OWN COURSE



You can't ask for better navigator training than you can get from the United States Air Force. And you can't be better prepared to chart your own course for the future than through Air Force ROTC.

If you're a young person who can qualify for navigator training, you've got a good start. You can also compete for a scholarship that will provide financial assistance while you work on your degree.

After commissioning, your top notch training will continue at Mather Air Force Base near Sacramento, where Air Force navigators are trained in the ultra modern T-43 jet aircraft.

Following 33 weeks of intensive training, you'll be awarded the silver wings of an Air Force navigator. From there on, the sky's the limit.

Find out about AFROTC and the navigator program. Chart a secure future for yourself.

Call 5-2437

AIR FORCE
ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

HC gains; UMass sinking

BOSTON [UPI] — Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose and once in a while you pick up ground without playing at all. Holy Cross, snowed out of games at Notre Dame and Boston College last week, gained from the idleness to jump past Fairfield into second place in the 10th weekly UPI coaches ratings of Division I basketball teams in New England.

The Crusaders, 16-4 heading into a Tuesday night game against Boston University, picked up 52 points in balloting by 15 of the region's 16 Division I coaches.

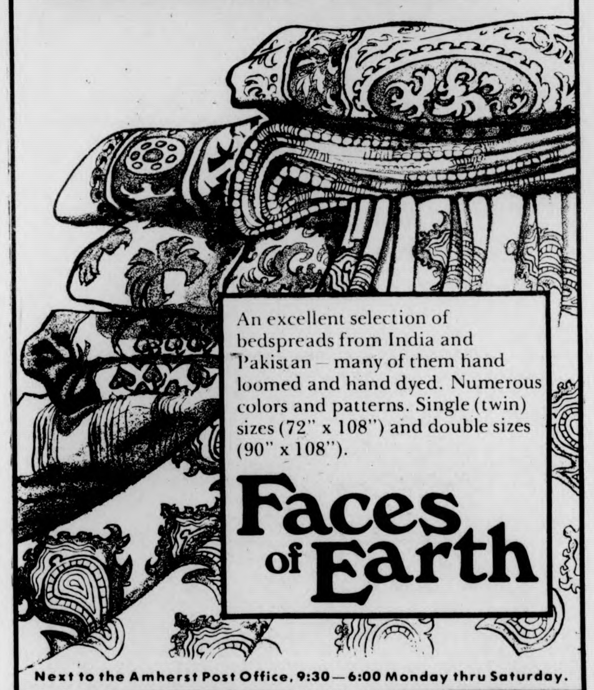
Providence, buoyed by a televised Sunday win over highly-ranked North Carolina, was a unanimous choice for first place. The Friars, 18-4 and enroute to an eighth straight 20-win season, received the maximum total of 75 points.

Fairfield, 18-3 after a Monday win at St. Peter's, was third with 40 points. Rhode Island, 17-5 after clubbing Wake Forest Monday, climbed from sixth to fourth with 23 points.

Boston College, which faced Rhode Island Tuesday in a game that could help decide tournament berths for both teams, stayed in fifth place with 15 points.

Massachusetts, in first place around New Year, dipped to sixth place with 13 points after losing a pair of games to Rutgers and Maine, while Maine remained in the seventh spot with seven points.

Bedspreads



An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x 108").

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office, 9:30—6:00 Monday thru Saturday.

PET FOOD AT DISCOUNT PRICES

DOGS (CANS)

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ALPO | | ALL FLAVORS | MIX & MATCH CASE OF 24 | $7.75 | SAVE 1.20 |
| RECIPE | | ALL FLAVORS | MIX & MATCH CASE OF 24 | 7.75 | SAVE 1.20 |
| CYCLE | | ALL FLAVORS | MIX & MATCH CASE OF 18 | 5.25 | SAVE 99¢ |
| RED HEART | | | CASE OF 24 | 4.00 | SAVE |
| HOBBY | 100% BEEF | NO FILLER | CASE OF 24 | 7.00 | SAVE |
| CALO | 26 OZ. | | 3/1.00 | 4.00 case of 12 | SAVE 97¢ |

SEMI MOIST

PRIME VARIETY 36 OZ.
GAINES BURGERS 36 OZ.
TOP CHOICE 36 OZ.
1.25 EACH 6 PKG./7.00

GAINES BURGERS WITH CHEESE
GAINES BURGERS WITH EGGS
PUPPY CHOICE
6/1.25 6 PKG./7.50

DRY

| | 25 lbs. | 50 lbs. |
|---|---|---|
| WAYNE Chunk & Bite Size | 5.99 | 10.10 |
| WAYNE Promix | 4.99 | 8.99 |
| WAYNE Puppy O's 5 lbs. 1.60 | | 40 lbs. 9.99 |
| BENCH & FIELD | | |
| 17% PROTEIN | 4.75 | 9.25 |
| 20% PROTEIN | 6.00 | 11.50 |
| 26% PROTEIN | 6.50 | 12.00 |
| 28% PROTEIN Puppy Food | 8.50 | |
| TRIUMPH | | |
| 23% PROTEIN | 6.75 | 12.50 |
| GRAVY TRAIN | | 5.49 |
| GAINES MEAL | | 5.49 |
| PURINA DOG CHOW | 25 LBS. | 5.79 |

CATS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 9 LIVES | 6½ OZ. CANS | ALL FLAVORS | | 5.70 case of 24 mix & match | SAVE 1.09 |
| SQUARE MEALS | 15 OZ. | ALL FLAVORS | | 4.75 case of 8 | SAVE 1.01 |
| SQUARE MEAL VARIETY PAK | 6 OZ. | | | 3.60 case of 12 | SAVE 1.08 |
| CALO | 26 OZ. CANS | | 3/1.00 | 4.00 case of 12 | |

PRICES EFFECTIVE FEB. 16-21

- AVAILABLE AT -
SODA CITY
WE DISCOUNT ALL MAJOR BRANDS.
206 Russell St., Hadley
Adjacent to Campus Pizza
HOURS: Mon., Tues., Thurs. & Sat. 10-6. Friday 10-8. Closed Wed.

586-2981

Notices

FOUND
Shepherd-mix puppy, red collar, call 546-4271.

BICYCLE CLUB
Meeting tonight at 7 in CC 178. Club business especially the spring break Tennessee trip will be discussed. All officers should attend. Everyone invited.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB
There will be a meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in CC 176. All five college students welcome.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN
Come and enjoy a home cooked meal tonight at 6 with the sisters and pledges of Sigma Sigma Sigma! Be prepared for a visit to the Pub afterwards! For rides, call 545-0046 or 253-9066.

ENGLISH MAJORS
The Career-Life Planning Ctr. will hold a session for interested undergraduates and graduate students in English tomorrow in 314 Berkshire House from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. The session will involve exploration in self appraisal, decision making and career techniques. Questions? Call 545-0333.

SNOW POLICY REMINDER
University snow regulations prohibit overnight parking in snow lots. These rules will be strictly enforced. Parking in snow season is permitted in Lots 21, 22, 24, 25 (North of access road to P Lot only), 32, 41, 43, 45, 48, 49, 50 and P-Lots (except in front of the Stadium). Overnight parking elsewhere is prohibited and will result in ticketing and towing. Questions? Call Campus Parking Office 545-0065.

ISRAELI DANCING
Every Wednesday in Cape Cod Lounge, SU, by the candy counter, 7:30-8:30; Beg., 8:30-9:15; Adv., Requests 9:15-end. Join Us.

COMPANION VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
Companion Program of Amherst Community Resource Center is looking for volunteers who are interested in being a Big Brother or Big Sister to a child a few hours a week. If interested please call 253-2591.

RAPE VICTIM SUPPORT GROUP
The Rape Task Force is sponsoring a support group for women who have been sexually assaulted and are ready to integrate the experience into their lives. It meets every Tues. 7-9 p.m. at Everywoman's Center beginning Feb. 28. All interested women should call Donna 253-5788, Dianne 549-4773 or EWC 545-0883 before Feb. 25.

PHOTO EXHIBITS
Two photo exhibits, one by several contemporary French photographers and one of Maine's Mt. Katahdin will be shown through this Friday in the Harold F. Johnson Library Center at Hampshire College. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

UNIVERSITY GALLERY
The University Gallery is initiating the spring semester with two one-person exhibitions of Italian painter Sandro Martini and Greek-American photographer Philip Tsiaras. The exhibitions will run through Feb. 19. The gallery is open Tuesday 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Wednesday through Friday 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday 2 to 5 p.m. and is closed Mondays.

DANCE WORKSHOP
From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today by the Bill Evans Dance Company in Chapin Auditorium at Mt. Holyoke College.

CAMELOT
Film tonight in CCA at 7 and 10 sponsored by Brooks House.

STOCKBRIDGE STUDENTS
Service Award Grant applications due in Senate office, SU 432 today.

GREAT DECISIONS
"The Global Power Balance: Can the West Remain Secure?," will be discussed by panelists from UMass, Hampshire and Amherst at 7:30 tonight in Webster Lounge, Orchard Hill. The discussion will be broadcast live over WFCR FM radio at 88.5.

COSMOLOGY LECTURE
"Medieval Cosmology" lecture by Edward R. Harrison of UMass in Gamble Auditorium at Mt. Holyoke tonight at 8.

CONCERT
The Group for New Music, a small ensemble which devotes itself to performance of contemporary works, will perform tonight at 8 in Bowker Auditorium, free.

STOCKBRIDGE SENATE
Meeting tonight at 8.

BAHA'I CLUB
Welcome Foreign Students! The UMass Baha'i is sponsoring a reception for foreign students and all other members of the UMass community so we can get to know one another. There will be music, dancing, and refreshments. Please come to Farley Lodge.

UMASS CREDIT UNION OFFERS TRAVELERS CHECKS
Need some? They're the safest way to carry money while on a trip and are as good as cash all over the country. For your convenience, the UMass Student Federal Credit Union sells Travelers Checks, Mon-Fri. 10-3.

AFTERNOON CONCERT
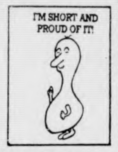
The Life Music Collective will perform today at 2:30 in the Commonwealth Lounge, S.U.

SHORT PEOPLE POSTERS

SHORT PEOPLE HAVE BIG HEARTS



I'M SHORT AND PROUD OF IT!

20x24" COLOR ONLY $2.50
NPH, Inc. Box 9147, Prov., R.I. 02940
NAME
STREET
CITY STATE ZIP
OF POSTERS
____ BIG HEARTS @ $2.50 EA.-$____
____ PROUD OF IT @ $2.50 EA.-$____
POSTAGE & HANDLING + .50
TOTAL ENCLOSED $____

MAKE MONEY ORDER OR CHECK PAYABLE TO NPH, INC.

Icemen face Williams tonight

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

UMass center iceman Lincoln Flagg (18), ties up two Colby pucksters along the boards at Orr rink in a recent 4-3 UMass win. Flagg, along with linemate Mark Ferragamo (14), will be seeking to knock off a tough Williams six, tonight at 8. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

The 8-7-1 UMass hockey team, coming off a split of weekend games against Colby and Bowdoin, heads into the stretch drive towards a possible playoff spot tonight when it hosts the Ephmen of Williams College in an 8:00 contest at Orr Rink.

Currently, the Minutemen stand in eighth place in the Western Division of ECAC Div. II. Williams, at 8-8 is in ninth position, but is rated ahead of UMass in the fight for the last playoff berth as of the last coaches poll.

With all this in mind, tonight's game becomes a very important contest for the Minutemen who are playing their fifth straight home game, and seventh in 1978. They are currently 4-1-1 at Orr Rink in this the second half of the season.

If the Minutemen hope to come up with another win tonight, they will have to overcome the serious problem of the flu which has hit the team very hard.

According to Coach Jack Canniff, only seven of the 19 players that skated against Colby Saturday night were able to practice Monday.

As of yesterday afternoon, the sick call included goalie John Riley, the entire first line, the entire third line and defensemen Jamie Benelli and Chris Lowey.

To add to their problems with the flu, the Minutemen have lost hard-working defensemen Dean Liacos for tonight's game and probably for the season as a result of a hernia.

If things don't get better quickly, the Minutemen will be in tough shape against Williams which is "In pretty good shape fluwise," according to Ephman Coach William McCarmick.

The Ephmen, 4-2 winners over the Minutemen a year ago, are coming off victories over North Adams St. and UConn, sandwiched around a loss to Salem St.

The Ephmen are paced offensively by top scorers Tom Resor, with 27 points, Peter Gonye with 25 points and team captain Dan Sullivan with 23 points.

In the nets for Williams will be either senior Ed Neiss or sophomore Mike Moulton who has started seven of the last nine games and owns a 4.77 goals against average.

BLUELINE BANTER: After tonight's game against Williams, the Minutemen will have three remaining regular season games on their schedule. They will play away games at Boston St. on Feb. 18 and North Adams St. on Feb. 23, before returning home for the finale against Salem St..... The UMass games against Bowdoin and Colby last weekend may be the last for quite some time. Due to financial reasons, the University was forced to drop Bowdoin and Colby from the hockey schedule. In their place, the Minutemen will play two games against Maine, which is now in its first year of hockey.

Suffering gymwomen meet Southern Conn.

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

The women's gymnastics team will have its work cut out tonight when Southern Connecticut hits the Cage at 7:30 for a double dual meet.

As was the case with Temple — narrowly defeated by the Minutewomen last Saturday — Southern Conn. normally is no match for nationally ranked UMass. But injuries and illness have weakened the UMass lineup and Southern Conn. should have more than just a fighting chance tonight.

Still out for the Minutewomen are Stephanie Jones (sprained hip and broken rib), Coleen Thorton (injured back) and floor specialist Julie Myers (flu).

The flu also caught up with senior all-arounder Sue Cantwell, according to UMass Coach Virginia Evans, who said Cantwell's appearance tonight is in doubt. Cantwell has yet to practice this week because of her illness.

Back from the sick list is captain Karen Hemberger and she will be one of the top performers in the all-around.

Cheryl Morrier, who came through nicely with her fourth place finish in the last meet and should be stronger as she is recovering from a two week sickness.

Also competing in the all-around will be freshman Karen Clemente and possibly Deb Smith if Cantwell doesn't show. Smith will also be on the floor exercises.

The strongest event for the Minutewomen has been in vaulting but that could be weakened by Cantwell's absence. Morrier and Debbie Law who finished second and third on Saturday will compete. Kim Whitelaw will also vault.

Whitelaw, along with Laurie Knapp, will handle the balance beam.

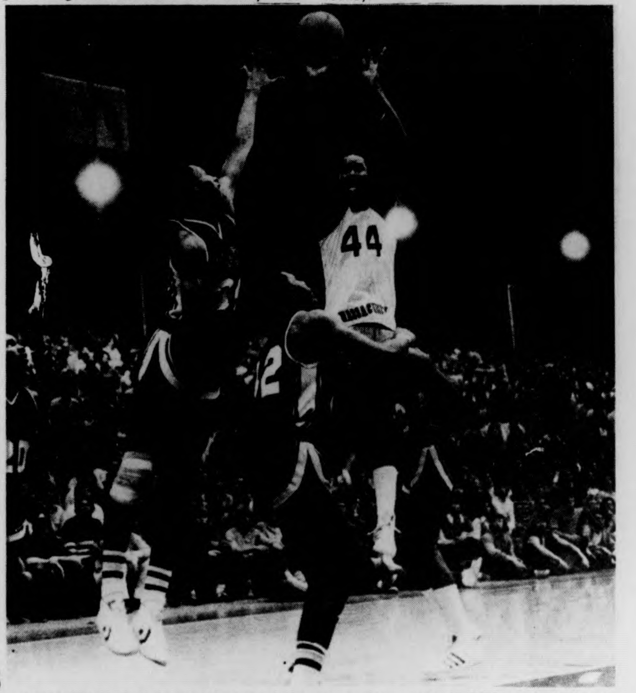
Jean Anderson, with her recent score of 8.4, will be on the bars.

Southern Conn. is highly ranked in the East, and Coach Evans said they are much improved over last year.

"Southern Conn. has been scoring about 120 points per meet this year and we just scored 132.75. Normally (without the absences) we would be up around 135-140. It's going to be very close," she noted.

Because of the weakness caused by the injuries and illness, UMass will be particularly hurt in the all-around performances in which they have only four out of a possible six competitors.

At last count, UMass is ranked either third or fourth in the East.



SKY KING — Minuteman Mark Haymore pops a jumper from high above Wildcats Ron Cowan (34) and Steve Lincoln (12). Haymore keyed a second half surge. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

Gymmen face tough Owls

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

Tonight the UMass men's gymnastics team battles Southern Connecticut State College in Curry Hicks Cage at 7:30. The Owls from Southern were third in the nation last year, and with their forever growing program post better scores this year. Coach Swetman realizes that it is virtually impossible for the gymmen to upset the Owls, but hopes to do the best possible to get ready for the upcoming Springfield meet this Saturday.

The Owls are lead by senior Don Dembrow and sophomore Wallace Miller, just to mention a few. Their awesome power is prominent on floor, vaulting, and the horizontal bar. Their artistic display of gymnastics is pleasing to any eye, and a real treat to any gymnastic fan.

Coach Swetman will be using his full lineup for this encounter with Seniors John Forshay and Dave Kulakoff leading the pack. UMass will definitely have their hands full, as once David with Goliath but the ending shall be different.

The only possible prediction is that co-captain Dave Kulakoff will be victorious on the pommel horse, defending his Eastern Championship Title.

Gymnotes: Freshman Bob Lamb and Paul O'Neil have recovered from the flu and will see action tonight ... Question, will John Forshay hit his press on floor? ... The gymmen are 3-4 on the season with three meets remaining ... both men's and women's gymnastics teams are making good use of new equipment. After many hard falls the gymnasts have new mats which are more forgiving. But the coaches aren't.

★ Minutemen stuff Wildcats

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

public address announcer proclaim he had hit the milestone.

"I knew I was close coming into the game," Eldridge said afterwards. "I've been shooting the ball well and I feel real good right now. I'm in my prime and the way I've been playing lately I think I can play with anybody."

MINUTEMEN NOTEBOOK ... The UMass record book will definitely need some revising after this week. Pyatt is just 19 points shy of the UMass all-time scoring mark, currently held by Julius Erving ... That's not bad company, wouldn't you say? ... Derick Claiborne is now just 33 points away from the 1,000 point plateau ... In case you were unaware, Eldridge broke UMass' career assist record earlier this season ...

VILLANOVA — Herron — 11-2-24; Sparrow — 4-2-10; Robinson — 1-2-4; Bradley — 7-2-16; Lincoln — 2-0-4; Sienkiewicz — 6-0-12; Anders — 0-2-2. TOTALS — 31-10-72 FG per cent .413

MASSACHUSETTS — Haymore — 4-2-10; Pyatt — 9-4-22; Kohlhass — 1-2-4; Claiborne — 4-2-10; Eldridge — 6-5-17; Johnson — 1-3-5; Morrison — 2-0-4; Williams — 5-5-15

TOTALS — 32-23-87 FG per cent .604

Attendance 4200

---

Super Sale!
Take an additional 15% OFF
on Any Purchase in our Junior's Dept.
Our already Reduced Sale Prices!!
With this Ad
... Expires March 1st 1978
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY 3 Miles from Northampton 3 Miles From Amherst
OPEN MON., TUES., THURS., & FRI. 9:30-5:00; WED & SAT. 9:30-1:00 p.m.
TIRES
CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.
MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
MAJOR BRANDS
TIRE SPECIALS
"The boss has gone to Florida on vacation . . .
if you really want
LOW PRICES,
STOP BY NOW!
"My Orders Are To Sell."
RADIALS
MICHELIN, GENERAL, B.F. GOODRICH, DUNLOP, CONTINENTAL, LEE, FIRESTONE, ARMSTRONG, AND MANY MORE. ALL AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY
Cash and Carry or Bank Americard Master Charge
Open Mon., Tues., Thurs., & Fri. 9:30-5:00; Wed. & Sat. 9:30-1:00 p.m.
586-2544

Ali defends title tonite

LAS VEGAS, Nev. [AP] — Muhammad Ali and Leon Spinks, who won gold medals as Olympic light heavy weights 16 years meet tonight in what will be Ali's 23rd heavyweight title fight and Spinks' eight pro bout.

The 36-year-old Ali, an Olympic champion known as Cassius Clay in 1960, is a prohibitive favorite over his 24-year-old challenger.

The fight, for which Ali is getting $3.7 million and Spinks $300,000, is one of two 15-rounders on the card. In the other, Danny "Little Red" Lopez of Alhambra, California, will defend the World Boxing Council featherweight championship against David Kotei of Ghana.

CBS will televise the action at the 4,500-seat Hilton Pavillion starting at 8 p.m. EST, with the Ali fight to start about 10:15 p.m. EST.

Ali, who has refused to talk about the fight, did say when someone wished him luck: "Don't need no luck to beat the Duck."

"The Duck" is a former Marine from St. Louis who is delighted about his quick shot at the championship and not upset about criticism that he has not earned a title match.

"If I had Spinks and the position was reversed, I'd fight Ali," said Angelo Dundee, the champion's trainer. "Why not? Why not jump at it."

With age in his favor, the big obstacles Spinks would have overcome to achieve a stunning upset are Ali's vast experience, Ali's size and the distance.

"I think he's a well-conditioned kid but I think he'll run out of gas," said Dundee. "Ali is in the best condition he's been in for seven years."

Ali weighed in officially Tuesday at 224¼ pounds for his 58th pro fight. His record is 55-2 and 21-1 in title competition, where he lost only to Joe Frazier in the roll of challenger in 1971.

Ten times Ali has had to go 15 rounds. In fact, his last three fights have gone the distance.

Ali has other physical advantages over Spinks, who weighed 197¼. The 6-foot-3 champion has a 1½-inch edge in height.

Sports calender

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Men's basketball 87 Villanova 72

TODAY

Hockey vs. Williams Orr Rink 8 p.m.
Men's swimming at New Hampshire Postponed
Women's gymnastics vs. So. Conn. home 7:30 p.m.
Men's gymnastics vs. So. Conn. home 7:30 p.m.
Wrestling at West Point

TOMORROW

Women's track at New Hampshire 3 p.m.

★ Hoopmen regain form

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

better he gets. There's no way he's peaked yet," Leaman said.

"I'd just like to say that I appreciate the Cage and all the people who come to watch us whether we win or lose. Some people say I hot-dog too much, but I want to do what's best for the team. Whether I score points or not, the most important thing to me is that our team wins," said Eldridge.

Two more UMass records will eventually fall this week as UMass entertains Northeastern tomorrow and George Washington on Saturday. Claiborne only needs 33 points to join Eldridge in the over 1,000 career point total.

Pyatt needs just 19 to surpass Julius Erving on the all-time UMass career point total. Pyatt now has 1,352 points.

"The best medicine was to have these next three games at the Cage to get us on the track again," said Claiborne. "Now that Mike (Pyatt) and Brad Johnson are back, we're ready to get back to normal again."

"The best thing about tonight's game," said Williams, "is that we're playing with fire again. We need that intensity to play and we got it tonight."

Morrison said he preferred to start because it "gets him more in the game" but Leaman did not say whether he will keep him in the starting lineup again.

"I did it to shake things up a bit. But it's a different situation every game. I will say, I was happy with Billy and I want him to play more," Leaman said.

Sports notices

PLAYOFF TICKETS — Due to a telephone failure, there was a short period of time when student tickets were not available (at the Stadium ticket booth) for the UM-Lehigh NCAA playoff football game Nov. 26. If you paid $4 for a ticket during this time, you are entitled to a $2 refund. You may pick up your refund at the Boyden Building Ticket Office during normal business hours upon presentation of your ID and ($4) ticket stub.

INTRAMURAL NOTICES — Racquetball schedules are ready.

Pickup old Volleyball forfeit fees.

Co-rec bowling entries are due today. There is a $6 fee to enter.

The following facilities will be closed on the dates listed: Boyden Pool — Feb. 18; NOPE Pool — Feb. 25; Hicks Building — Feb. 16, 18, 21, 23, 27; NOPE Gym — Feb. 25.

Go Ape

All candidates for the varsity and JV lacrosse teams (Garber's Gorillas and the Chimps, respectively) will meet tomorrow, 4 p.m., in room 251 Boyden. Candidates must attend.

I. M. NOTICE

On THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, the Intramural Dept. is sponsoring a CROSS COUNTRY SKI RACE, open to all Students, Faculty & Staff.

The Race will be 7 kilometers long and will take place on the fields in front of Boyden. All participants must report in front of Boyden by 3:15 P.M.

Contact the Intramural Office for more information at 545-2693 or 545-3334.

CROSS-COUNTRY SKI

Eldridge hits 1,000th pt.

Hoopmen thrash Villanova

'CAT SLAYER — Mike Pyatt skies a la George McGinnis as he converts two of his team-leading 22 points as UMass upset the Villanova Wildcats. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

By now, those who following the comings and goings of the UMass basketball team must feel they are performing some type of sadistic ritual.

Just when it appeared there was no hope and that another UMass basketball season would be labeled 'disappointing,' the Minutemen rallied and gave their fans another shot in the arm last night by upsetting Villanova, 87-72, before 4200 delighted fans.

Saturday night the Minutemen had slumped to the lowest ebb in their roller coaster season with their loss at Maine. But, last night, they gave their following yet one more reason to hang on and have faith by playing their best basketball of the season.

Trailing, 38-35, entering the second half, UMass proceeded to outscore the Wildcats 15-to-2 in the first six - and - one - half minutes of the stanza and then waltzed to a 15 point victory by playing what UMass coach Jack Leaman described as the best half of basketball this season.

The catalyst, once again, was guard Alex Eldridge who tallied 12 second half points (17 total) and simply held center stage among a multitude of impressive performances.

UMass, led by Eldridge, was simply not going to be denied in the second half. The Minutemen scored 53 points by hitting an amazing 68 per cent from the floor, and though Villanova was dragging because of a team bout with the flu, it might not have made a difference even were they healthy.

"That was one of the best halves I've seen," said Leaman. "But the thing that worries you about this team is they may not do it again for another week."

Leaman experimented early in the game by using a number of combinations in search of a group that might propel the team out of its recent lethargic play.

He began the game with the quintet of Mike Pyatt, Len Kohlhaas, and Eric Williams in the front court. They were joined by Eldridge and surprise starter Bill Morrison. That left both Mark Haymore and Derick Claiborne sitting on the bench.

Villanova coach Roland Massimino countered with the 6-6 front court of Alex Bradley, Reggie Robinson and Keith Herron. The backcourt was manned by Rory Sparrow and Steve Lincoln.

The makeshift lineup was effective early and UMass jumped out to a quick 8-to-2 lead behind six quick points by Pyatt, who was playing in his first game in ten days, and a layup by Eldridge.

The defense, which had so displeased Leaman in recent games, came into form and Villanova had trouble getting untracked. It took the Wildcats more than three minutes to score, before a Bradley jump shot (16 points) put them on the board.

Villanova began to heat up and with 6:40 remaining in the half took their first lead of the game at 21-20. Herron, who had a rather curious game (11-for-27, 24 points) began to find the range and the Wildcats opened up to a seven point lead, 38-31, with 1:20 remaining.

Williams and Pyatt then hit two free throws apiece and UMass ended the half trailing by three.

But following the break it was all UMass.

Williams, Pyatt and Haymore took command of the boards (UMass held a 40-34 advantage in the game) and with Eldridge holding the game tempo on his fingertips, the Minutemen spurted to a 10 point lead.

Once they fell behind, the Wildcats applied full-court pressure, but the Minutemen, with Eldridge handing out the assists (10 total) had relatively little problem breaking it, and with 6:14 remaining they held a 13 point advantage at 75-62. In 14 minutes UMass had outscored Villanova, 40-to-24.

"I can't make any excuses for our performance tonight," Massimino said, after watching his team drop to 15-6 overall and a 7-1 record in the EAA. "We came out flat in the second half and Alex Eldridge just put on a great show."

Eldridge highlighted another in a string of brilliant performances by scoring the 1,000th point of his career with 3:56 remaining and UMass holding a 12 point lead.

The senior stepped back after hitting the front end of a one-and-one, then heard the

TURN TO PAGE 22

Cagers regroup forces, return to normalcy

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

It was a return to normalcy for UMass last night and for coach Jack Leaman, it was a welcome relief.

True, Alex Eldridge will long remember last night as he scored his 1,000th career point while pacing the now 12-7 Minutemen to its first ever victory over the Wildcats.

But last night's win, which gives UMass a 3-3 record in the EAA, was a welcome relief to forwards Mike Pyatt and Eric Williams and guards Derick Claiborne and Bill Morrison.

Pyatt, scored 22 points on 9 for 14 shooting and added four rebounds as he played 32 minutes in returning to the UMass lineup for the first time in two games. Pyatt had been sidelined with the flu.

Williams, who Leaman said "played terrifically inspired ball," scoring 18, eight of them in a four minute span, while shooting 5 for 7 and grabbing six rebounds.

Senior guard and Captain Claiborne, although benched for the first time this year from the starting lineup, was still evermost present as he chipped in with ten points, shooting 4-4.

Leaman, perhaps criticized for not playing sophomore guard Morrison more often, responded by playing him for 17 minutes. Morrison responded by scoring four, rebounding twice and handing out three assists.

"It's great to see the team smiling again," said Leaman. "It was a great all-around team effort. Everyone who played contributed."

"It was a great team victory," said Eldridge. "Everybody filled a role tonight. People say UMass doesn't play defense but tonight, we took care of that. At the beginning of the second half, we shut them off."

UMass, behind by three at halftime, 38-35, exploded for 12 unanswered points, with Williams scoring eight of those as they pulled into the lead 46-40.

Behind center Mark Haymore's rebounding and the inspired play of Williams and Eldridge, the Minutemen increased the lead to 65-50 with 8:42 left, outscoring the Wildcats 30-12 in that stretch.

"I knew if Haymore was able to rebound the ball we would have a great shot to win the game, and besides Eldridge, I'd say Haymore was an important key," said Leaman.

Haymore scored ten, eight of those in the second half, shot 4 for 7, but more important rebounded eight times and was immense on defense.

Wildcat shooting forward Keith Herron, who scored 24, kept Villanova in the game single handedly with long range shooting but it was the overall rebounding of the Minutemen 40-34 edge, which stunned the Wildcats who are now 15-6.

Throughout the victory, senior guard Eldridge literally stole the show. Shooting 6-10 with gorgeous drives, handing out ten assists, stealing the ball three times, and rebounding three times, Eldridge was in command.

In dramatic fashion, Eldridge scored his 1,000th UMass career point with 3:56 left in the game at the free throw line. But Leaman maintains UMass has not seen Eldridge at his best.

"We haven't seen the best of him yet. It seems that the better the competition, the

TURN TO PAGE 23

Steve Buckley

That's entertainment

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

A few weeks ago, I made plans to attend my very first girls', er, womens' gymnastics meet. Being a senior on the verge of graduation I reasoned that I had put off the event for too long already.

The UMass team was in possession of a number seven national ranking and their opponents, Michigan State, were ranked number nine — so I figured that I was in for a real treat.

Boy, I bet I'll scream myself hoarse cheering those UMies on! I'll buy some popcorn and maybe I'll sneak in a few beers, too.

The big day arrives and I find myself sitting in the Cage amidst a fairly large gathering of fans. I forgot my beer, but I don't seem to see any of the other fans with any frosties though. Still, I'm sure that a loud, noisy afternoon will ensue.

Then the action begins....

Why is everybody politely applauding for both teams?

Why is the crowd ever so quiet as the athletes proceed to begin an event?

I want to scream, "C'mon Jonsie...Kick ass, Cantwell," but I feel that if I do everybody will look at me as though I were some kind of moronic Yankee fan.

I mean, what the Hell kind of sport is this where the fan isn't obnoxious and fights do not erupt in the stands?

It is a relaxing, artistic sport, that's what it is.

In the right place and time, basketball serves its own purpose — a statement which can be made concerning all sports; and this certainly applies to gymnastics.

On the day that I went, Michigan took all four events (vaulting, balance beam, uneven parallel bars, and floor event) but for some reason I was not all that disappointed as I left Curry-Hicks.

I was entertained.

The experts tell me that UMass should have won the meet, and that a combination of flu illness and physical injuries had taken their toll on the team.

I wanted to know more, so ventured down to Boyden Auxiliary Gym, where the squad practices, to watch them practice.

The change was incredible. There was noise. People were all over the chaulk-infested place and mistakes were being made.

This must be the place where perfection is sought. The Minutewomen were training for an upcoming meet with Southern Connecticut, so if mistakes were to be made I guess that this was the place to make them.

Coach Virginia Evans supervised the workout and although a close examination on my part revealed that she had only two eyes, she seemed to be aware of everything that was happening.

"Against Michigan we were just plain flat," said the coach. "We didn't function as a unit. We didn't score as many points as against Temple, but there seemed to be more enthusiasm, though.

The coach talks about injuries and the nemisis that has burned every team on campus: The Flu.

Then the topic turns to the freshmen. Coleen Thornton, Karen Clemente, and Debbie Smith. Kim Whitelaw, although a sophomore, is also put in this category, this being her first year of collegiate competition.

As we talk, Debbie Smith takes a practice vault. Pointing in her direction, Evans remarks at how hard the freshman from Reading has worked.

"If there was an award for most improved gymnast," says Evans, "then I think Debbie would win it walking away."

You may be wondering what the point of all this is, and to be honest I was a bit uncertain myself, at first. Perhaps I'm just trying to apologize for my own stereotypes, but I just did not expect to see that much talent in one afternoon. The whole thing seemed to fall into place when I observed the team in practice; realizing that these people had to rely more on perspiration than inspiration to win.

The Minutewomen are in action tonight at 7:30 in the Cage against Southern Connecticut.

You've got to see them to believe them.

---

Court disapproves Seabrook's cooling system

BOSTON [AP] — The 1st Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday dealt the Seabrook nuclear power plant a major blow by overturning approval of the plant's cooling system.

The court invalidated the Environmental Protection Agency's approval of the giant cooling tunnels for the plant, which is being built on New Hampshire's coast. The court sent the issue back to the EPA for further action.

EPA Administrator Douglas Costle last year approved the cooling tunnels for the $2.3 billion plant. Costle's decision overturned the EPA's Boston administrator, who said warm water discharged by the tunnels would harm the delicate marine environment off the New Hampshire coast.

Judge Frank M. Coffin, writing for the court, said the case was sent back to the EPA administrator "because he based his decision on material not part of the record."

He said Costle used information volunteered outside the record by a panel of EPA scientific experts.

"No party was given any opportunity to comment on the panel's report," Coffin wrote. The judge said EPA now has three options.

It may "reach a new decision not dependant on the panel's supplementation of the record."

Or it may hold "a hearing at which all parties will have an opportunity to cross examine the panel members and at which the panel will have an opportunity to amplify its position."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 85 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Bromery says HEW didn't notify UMass

By E. PATRICK McQUAID
Collegian Staff

Amherst campus Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery said last night that corrective measures required within the University's affirmative action guidelines are partly the fault of civil rights officials in the Boston office of the department of Health Education and Welfare who failed to notify the University of numerous "noncompliances" beginning in 1974.

It was learned last week that a series of letters beginning in June, 1977 had been sent to Bromery from John Bynoe, director of the HEW Office of Civil Rights in Boston, citing several "problem areas" which the University must clear up or jeopardize some $12 million in annual federal research grants.

According to Bromery, affirmative action policies for the Amherst campus were drafted in 1974 and fowarded to the HEW Boston office for their approval.

"We didn't hear a word from them," said Bromery in a telephone interview Wednesday night. "We were wondering what to do so we decided not to set up all the mechanisms only to find out later it had been rejected. We assumed it had been accepted though."

Bromery said that by the time civil rights officials had devoted attention to the Amherst documents the federal guidelines had changed and the University was caught with noncompliance of the original 1974 policy guidelines and the more recent changes made at the national level.

The correspondence from Bynoe's office addressed three areas and assigned the University separate deadlines for each of 30, 60, and 90 days.

These areas were the University's failure to adequately monitor the Amherst campus, to assign an individual responsible for overseeing the implementation of federal guidelines and a number of complaints from women and Asian faculty concerning the salary structure.

A compromise was drafted in mid-January by Bromery's office but has yet to be accepted by HEW because the recent snowstorm that paralyzed Boston delayed proceedings.

Reached at his home Tuesday, Bynoe said the University will not be trusted to monitor itself in future affirmative action procedures.

"Our office will be monitoring the University at the same time they are monitoring themselves," said Bynoe. "Of course we will be following their actions all along as they report to us constantly."

"That's really what he has to say," replied Bromery. "But I think he's speaking on general terms and not singling out UMass. I'll

TURN TO PAGE 2

HOT
MULLED CIDER
COFFEES, AND TEAS and featuring
OUR OWN
FRESH
BAKED G

Dog may be man's best friend but one should never bite the hand that feeds him. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold)

Proposes N. Pleasant closing

Senate recommends medical leave for Demers

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night recommended that Student Activities Coordinator Armand H. "Bud" Demers be given a medical leave of absence and Acting Assistant Coordinator James P. Riley be made Acting Coordinator.

In other business the Senate proposed closing North Pleasant Street to all but emergency and a public transit traffic from the Newman Center to Eastman lane. This was in response to two recent auto-pedestrian accidents on North Pleasant St. which left one UMass student dead and another injured.

The Senate suggestion of a medical leave for Demers follows a month long controversy which is said to have grown out of Demers handling of his office responsibilities. Part of the issue involves Demers health; he has has persistent back problems since injuring it a few years ago at work in the Recognized Student Organization office.

The proposal to make Riley acting coordinator arose in part as a response to moves by Vice Chancelor for Student Affairs Robert Woodbury. After a Tuesday meeting Woodbury had with student government leaders, the Vice Chancelor announced he was having Dean of Students William F. Field and Student Assistant to the Vice Chancelor Paul J. Hamel fill in as supervisors of office activities.

One of the complaints against Demers has been he has not been in his office enough to provide leadership. Demers has admitted that office morale is low.

Senator Steve Krop said "Dean Field has done more to stop students then almost anybody else we have worked with. We sure as hell don't want him."

Former student government President Jay Martus called the attempt to oust Demers "a purly political move." Martus explained that he felt that "members of a Senate faction did not get jobs that those in the other camp did. The same people that worked quite well with Bud in the past had a vendetta to avenge him."

Senator Alfred Drewes said this charge was "not well founded". "Bud has shown a lack of faith in dealing with us. It has nothing to do with who he's hired or any of that bullshit," Drewes said.

In the president's report, Jon Hite introduced a motion to close North Pleasant street. The Senate passed the motion by a vote of 48-1. In a related amendment the Senate recommended speed traps be set up to deter speeders on North Pleasant.

Hite also announced the academic calender for '78-79 which he expects to be approved by the Faculty Senate. Classes would begin after Labor Day and end before Christmas. There would be one Saturday on which classes would meet to cover for classes missed on a Friday.

Hite also called for a blue ribbon panel to investigate the Bureau of Building Construction which supervises construction of all state buildings.

The Senate also voted to support Kenneth and Elizabeth Chinn in their efforts to get a trial in the supreme court concerning their indictment for plotting to assassinate Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

Inside box

Concern has arisen among campus athletes and resident assistants who think they are not being adequately compensated for their services. See Julie Eagle's story, page 2.

The Stockbridge Student Senate met last night and announced plans to hold a Professional Development Day. The Senate also criticized Collegian coverage of their proceedings. See Martha Kimball's story, page 3.

REGIONAL

A Providence man was charged with plotting to kill President Carter. Carter will visit the Providence area tomorrow. Page 5.

NATIONAL

The coal strike continued to cause problems nationwide, as both sides in the dispute returned to the bargaining table. Page 4.

Israeli Prime Minister Manachem Begin will visit Washington to meet with President Carter in March. The announcement came amid charges U.S.-Israeli relations are deteriorating. Page 3.

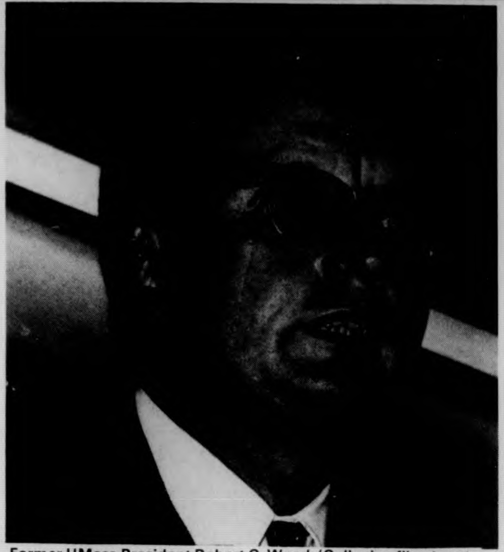
SPORTS

Underdog Leon Spinks beat heavyweight champion Muhammed Ali in a title bout last night. Page 16.

The Alaska pipeline is believed to have been the target of sabotage. Page 3.

WEATHER

Mostly sunny today, with highs in the mid to upper 30's. Cloudy tonight with lows in the teens.



Former UMass President Robert C. Wood. (Collegian file photo)

Higher ed needs a facelift—Wood

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

GREENFIELD — Former UMass President Robert C. Wood yesterday told a group of local businessmen and educators here at the Community College that the state's educational institutions must adjust to changing economic times in order to maintain their autonomy and public support.

Wood, who left UMass Dec 31, said little about specific issues facing the University now. "I see UMass in the paper and say 'ah, another interesting problem', and I turn the page."

Wood addressed about 80 local businessmen and college faculty as part of a fundraising luncheon series sponsored by the college during the academic year.

Wood, now with MIT-Harvard Joint Center for Urban Studies, drove to Bradley International Airport after the luncheon to catch a plane to Washington, where he was to appear before a committee on urban affairs.

Wood told the Greenfield audience that failure of education leaders in 1976 to redefine the relationship between private and public sectors of education "leaves us today in considerable dissarray."

He said the educational systems in the state will lose public support and their fiscal autonomy if they don't "get effective and comprehensive" oversight of their budgets.

The price of education will be the "debate of the eighties," Wood said.

"We are in an age of constraits," Wood said, and most faculty find it hard to come to grip with no pay raises when they were hired in another time period.

"They came into a honored profession, and now find themselves in something they didn't bargain for," he said. "There's a sullen kind of posture that makes them feel let down."

He said there is also "sullen disillusionment playing against the academic community because parents didn't think their children with college grades of AB's would drive taxis or drain oil."

Fee waivers being sought

By JULIE EAGLE
Colllgian Staff

UMass athletes and dormitory resident assistants, neither of whom receive tuition waivers are concerned because they believe they are not being adequately compensated for their services, according to Karl Allen, assistant to Student Government Association co-President Marion Batiste and Jon Hite.

The broad spectrum of UMass students who receive tuition waivers must all perform University services of an academic nature, in order to receive waivers. These services include teaching assistants and associates; research assistants and associates; veterans; foreign students; fellowship recipients; and others.

"The fundamental criterion for a tuition waiver for compensation shall be the individual's contribution to the University's academic-instructional-research functions...." stipulates a July, 1975 document composed by the Trustees Committee on Student Affairs.

Although University athletics are required by the National College Athletic Association to be considered as academic functions, athletes here are not receiving tuition waivers because of a trustee committee vote last August to "reconsider" awarding waivers to athletes, Allen said.

Allen said the trustee committee voted last June to provide 120 tuition waivers for athletes only. But in August, Executive Secretary of Education Paul Parks' recommendation that the waivers be reconsidered was passed 12-1 by the committee. The committee agreed the tuition waivers should not apply solely to athletes, but rather to a wide range of students performing university services, Allen said.

Athletic Department Director Frank McInerney said more compensation for UMass athletes "would definitely be welcomed." He said the Barber Fund, a repository for athletic scholarships, was "almost nonexistent" until the recent addition of revenues earned by television appearances of University athletic teams.

"These revenues will help for a short while, but more funds are needed to help aide athletes," McInerney said.

Dormitory resident assistants also believe they do not receive sufficient compensations for the University services they perform, and have organized a committee in the Orchard Hill-Central Area to help improve their situation. Their duties, however, cannot merit tuition waivers, because they are of a nonacademic nature, according to Allen.

Tuition waivers for resident assistants were granted in the fall of 1974 on an experimental basis, but were then abolished on July 1, 1975, when the trustee committee stipulated waiver recipients must be performing academic functions, Allen said.

The resident assistant's tuition waivers were eliminated because the floor counselors "were not having direct classroom experience," according to Community Development Center Staff Associate Margie Lenn.

Lenn explained tuition waivers "are no cost to the University, but they certainly are to the state. The tuition waivers come right out of state coffers. What they were doing was trying to diminish the total number of students receiving tuition waivers."

While resident assistants are complaining about the abolition, and also a recent decrease in the hours they are being paid for (although their job duties remain constant), others back the decision to rebuke floor counselor tuition waivers.

★Bromery says UMass not notified by HEW

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

stand what we've done here up against any other University in the Northeast."

Bromery said that the "process" of complying with federal guidelines always tends to keep progress at a slow pace and adds a financial burden to the University.

"If we complied to every one of the guidelines put out by HEW alone I'd spend 50 per cent of my budget hiring people to follow the process," he noted.

Bromery said that HEW is "not interested in whether or not affirmative action policies benefit the University. They're only interested in keeping their shirts clean," he commented.

He said the immediate concern was twofold: "First, affirmative action policy is the right thing to do. Second, we have to satisfy the federal guidelines but HEW is out to satisfy a process and not a concept," he said.

While visiting Greenfield yesterday, Robert C. Wood, who resigned as president of the University on Jan. 1, said that he had "vaguely known about the letters" between Bromery and Bynoe during his administration.

Interim president Franklin K. Patterson said he had been informed when he first took office of the controversy and in his first address to the Board of Trustees in early January he cited upgrading of affirmative action guidelines throughout the entire three campus state-wide system as an issue of paramount importance.

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery

"I want to be as helpful as I can," he said Wednesday, "to reconcile the differences between HEW and the Amherst campus but I wasn't referring specifically to this situation in my address to the trustees."

Patterson said the issue of affirmative action didn't "really bubble up until sometime in late January when I began to make specific recommendations to Chancellor Bromery."

...newslines...

Professional day planned

The Stockbridge Student Senate will hold its first annual Professional Development Day Feb. 21 in the Campus Center.

The all day convention will include speakers and exhibitors in agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, plant and soil sciences, forestry and wildlife management, animal science, and other agricultural areas.

Seminars are scheduled hourly from 9:45 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The features speaker will be John Barrus, assistant commissioner for the state Dept. of Food and Agriculture.

A spokesman for the Stockbridge Student Senate said the professional day will likely expand to three days in coming years. He said students from UMass as well as Stockbridge are welcome to attend.

The professional day has been in the planning stage by the senate for the past semester and is designed to provide professional people and students an opportunity to discuss business trends, new practices, problems in related fields and possible employment opportunities.

—MARTHA KIMBALL

Open window cools office

An open window on the 25th floor of the library has been that way over the past several days merely to cool offices located there.

"It's hot over there," said library building director George Wright.

Wright said the window was located in an enclosed office space area of the library and not in a stack area, offering no place someone might jump or fall out of. A suicide occurred at the library some years ago.

"I happen not to believe in the policy," Wright said, referring to opening the window to cool the offices.

—CHRIS SCHMITT

HEW awards UM grants for scientific research

WASHINGTON — The National Institutes of Health of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has awarded three research grants totaling $131,391 to UMass.

77,700 dollars was awarded to a project entitled "Calcium Fluctuation and Localization during Mitosis". The project director will be Peter K. Hepler.

Another project, directed by Leonard C. Norkin, entitled "Defective Virus from Simian Virus 40 Carrier Cultures" will receive $31,941.

The third project, "Hormonal Control of Ovum Transport," will receive $28,750 and will be directed by Donald L. Black.

The department of art has also recently been awarded a grant of $1500 to aid sponsoring an artist-in-residence.

NEAG meets tonight

Plans for Quad Day, the vice presidential election, a proposed women's center, and a "step-by-step" lease policy will be discussed at the first meeting of the Northeast Area Government tonight.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Amy Kaplan

| | |
|---|---|
| News Desk | Christopher Schmitt |
| Copy Editor | Fran Basche |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Sports Layout | Stephanie Richardson |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Marilyn Mankowsky |

Subscription Rates

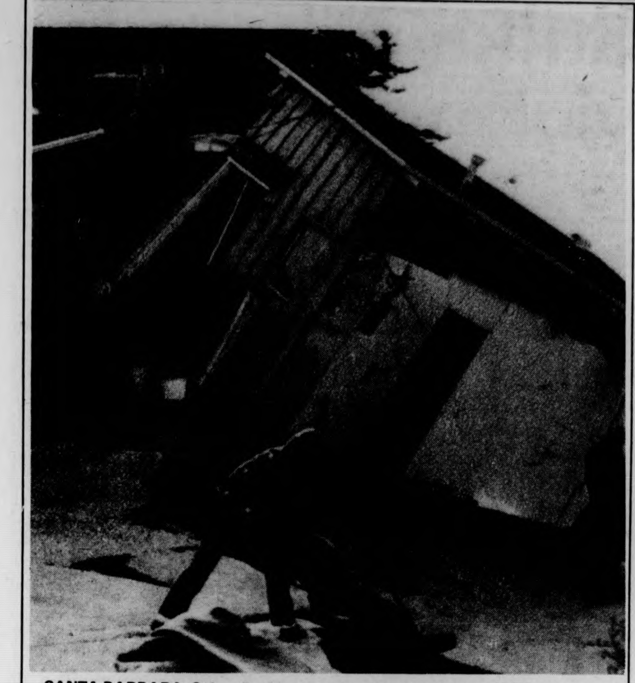
| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.



SANTA BARBARA, Cal. — Residents survey damage sustained by recent rough weather. The rear portion of the house slid one hundred feet toward a nearby beach after rains loosened the steep slope. (UPI)

Begin plans trip to protest sales

JERUSALEM [AP] — Prime Minister Menachem Begin yesterday bitterly protested the U.S. decision to sell warplanes to Egypt and Saudi Arabia and said he would go to Washington next month to try to smooth over the growing quarrel between Israel and its chief ally and arms supplier.

"With all respect I turn to the president of the United States and ask that he reconsider the decision he took last night, because it contains a grave danger to the peacemaking process and to Israel's security," Begin said in a speech to the Israeli Parliament.

He said the first U.S. sale of combat aircraft to Egypt would reinforce what he called ultimatums issued by President Anwar Sadat in peace talks and would encourage saber-rattling in the Egyptian press.

"Threats of war and aggression will not move Israel to take any decision that would harm its status, its rights, its security or its future," Begin said.

The United States "has to understand that the supply of aggressive weapons at this time cannot be other than ... an obstacle to peace negotiations."

In Washington, Carter administration officials acknowledged differences between the two countries but said these do not undermine the basic U.S. commitment to Israel.

They said they wanted to put to rest "speculation" that a crisis had developed with Israel over the aircraft sale to the Arabs.

Begin's visit is unrelated to the arms deal decision and is seen by the Carter administration as an opportunity for a thorough and "quiet exchange" like the one Sadat had with President Carter earlier this month, said a State Department statement.

In other Mideast developments:

— Ten thousand Israelis prayed at the funerals of two men killed in the bombing of a Jerusalem bus Tuesday. In his speech, Begin blamed "the evil hand attempting to rule in Judea and Samaria," an allusion to radical Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Abdul Jalloud, chief deputy to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy, met in Moscow with president Leonid I. Brezhnev. The Soviet news agency said Jalloud and Brezhnev agreed that Egypt's peace overture to Israel is "inflicting serious damage to the interests of Arab peoples."

Begin, who will be making his third visit to Washington since taking office last June, said he would hold three days of talks with President Carter. No dates for the visit were announced, but White House spokesman Rex Granum said it would probably be early in March.

Granum said it was important "to have thorough discussions with Begin" on the Middle East situation similar to the conversations the president held with Sadat during his U.S. visit earlier this month.

Besides the issue of U.S. arms supplies to the Arabs, Carter and Begin are expected to discuss the question of Israeli settlements in occupied Arab lands. The Carter administration opposes the settlements as illegal under international law.

Under the $4.8 billion arms proposal, the United States would sell Saudi Arabia 60 F-15s, the premier U.S. warplane, and Egypt 50 of the less sophisticated F-5E fighters. Israel's would receive 15F-15s to augment the 25 it began receiving 14 months ago, and 75 F-16s.

Selling the advanced F-15s to the Saudis was clearly the more worrisome element of the package to the Israelis, despite Saudi Arabia's status as a moderate state not in direct confrontation with Israel.

Stockbridge senate plans development day

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian STaff

The Stockbridge Student Senate revolved most discussion around upcoming Professional Development Day at its meeting last night. Other business included discussing problems with obtaining adequate coverage in the Collegian and establishing a Stockbridge hockey club. SGA co-President Jon Hite, who attended the meeting spoke on current campus issues.

Professional Development Day, a day-long convention including seminars and exhibitors in many agriculture fields, will be held Feb. 21 in the Campus Center Auditorium. Peter Quinlan, chairman of the event asked all senators to inform their professors and request they announce the event. "A strong turnout is essential to PDD's success," said Quinlan.

In discussing publicity for the event, senate president Geoff MacDuff spoke unfavorably regarding Collegian coverage so far this semester. "We were promised space, with no results. We can get state wide media coverage (for PDD), but nothing in the Collegian," MacDuff said.

MacDuff continued, "I suggest the Stockbridge Senate consider retaining funds appropriated for this service if this continues." The Senate unanimously voted to support MacDuff's statement.

Jon Hite commented on the Collegian coverage issue. "You're not the only one has problems with the Collegian. Stockbridge students are readers of the Collegian, so they should receive coverage, too," he said.

Hite clarified the SGA's position on the funding of campus buses. He also spoke about the possible closing of North Pleasant St. on the UMass campus, the Spring Concert, and banking and check cashing on campus.

Hite voiced his opinion of the University's and Stockbridge's image outside of the Amherst campus. "Massachusetts' papers are not responding favorably to the university. I say to the public, it's your institution; it's your tax dollar," Hite said.

A constitution for a Stockbridge hockey club was ratified by the senate. Due to a lack of ice time this late in the season, the membership into the club will begin next semester.

Alaskan pipeline shuts off after probable sabotage

FAIRBANKS, Alaska [UPI] — The Alaska oil pipeline was shut down yesterday after a leak — possibly a result of sabotage — was discovered a mile north of the Chena River just east of Fairbanks.

Morris Turner, an Interior Department official in Anchorage, said officials suspect sabotage was the cause of a two-inch hole at the base of an above-ground section of the pipeline.

"The best speculation is that it was caused by a third party," Turner said. "A small bullet hole wouldn't do it. Explosives could do it."

Alaska State Troopers and the FBI were investigating the incident.

Aleyska officials said hot oil was still gushing out of a two-inch hole in the bottom of the pipeline at the rate of two to three gallons a second. Cleanup crews were on the scene trying to contain the oil before it reached the river.

Alyeska spokesman John Ratterman said the crews were having difficulty getting close to the leak because the oil was so hot.

The pilot of a private plane notified the Alyeska Pipeline Services Co. of the leak about 2 p.m. Alaska time after he sighted a 160-square-foot patch of oil under the pipeline.

The pipeline was shut down a short time later when an Alyeska helicopter confirmed the sighting.

Alyeska officials said they had no estimate of how much oil might spill out before the leak was patched, but Turner said the total could run as high as 20,000 gallons.

Student jobs still stable despite hourly wage jump

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

The Jan. 1 increase in the hourly minimum wage from $2.35 to $2.65 has not yet reduced the number of campus jobs available for UMass students, according to various campus employers.

Student Payroll Supervisor Charles Trudeau said Tuesday there were 5,300 paying jobs for students on campus last semester. Approximately 3600 students have been cleared for the payroll so far this semester, Trudeau said.

More than 1000 additional students will be cleared in the next two weeks, so there will be no accurate figure of the number of students on the UMass payroll until sometime in March, according to Trudeau.

The largest campus employer of students, Food Services has approximately 1000 working students according to Richard Flynn, food services' manager of student and employee relations.

Flynn said the cost of hiring the students at the higher hourly wage was figured into the Food Services' overall budget and passed on to those students purchasing meal tickets.

Last semester, there were 460 member groups of Recognized Student Organizations, which employed approximately 650 students, according to Lynne Smith, acting manager of the RSO office.

Smith said she expects the same number of students to be employed this semester although it was too early to give an exact number because workers were still being cleared and some were switching jobs.

Timothy Cox, administrative assistant for the campus center, said the complex will employ 500 students this semester, about the same as last semester.

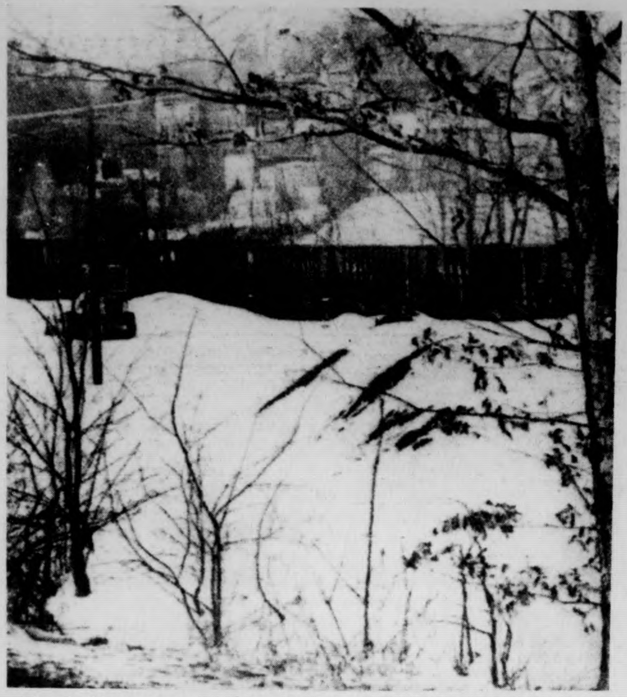
"The increase in the minimum wage hasn't reduced at all the number of student employees here," said Cox.

Campus Center Financial Manager Mohmmad Idress said the Campus Center fee that students pay will not be increased to pay for the higher rate Campus Center workers receive.

"We will try to get the extra revenue by increasing sales within the Campus Center," said Idrees. He also said the Campus Center was interested in hiring more part time student workers rather than full time personnel.

Spokesmen from campus employers that hire smaller numbers of students also did not see a significant reduction in the numbers of students on their payrolls.

The Life Music Collective entertains students yesterday afternoon in the Earthfoods dining lounge. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)



A lone bulldozer sits atop a snow covered pile of coal at the Consolidated Coal Co. mine in Library, Pa., where yesterday empty railroad cars awaited loading some day when the coal strike ends. (UPI)

Phonothon aim:75 thou'

By STEVE DAIGLE
Collegian Staff

The annual UMass Alumni Phonothon March 6 through April 13 hopes to raise $75,000, according to Phonothon Director Mary Ellen Blazon. Blazon said she expects 800 volunteers to work in shifts while utilizing 31 phones.

When the volunteers arrive for work at 6 p.m. they will be served, without cost, a sit-down buffet dinner. Blazon also said the dinner may be washed down at any time through the evening (which ends at ten) by a nearly endless, and free, supply of Schlitz and Schlitz Light.

Once the food has been eaten, the volunteers are briefed and handed a desk blotter inked with all the information a phonothoner could want, and then set to work.

Picking up a directory, the volunteer dials and says to the former UMies, "hello, this evening I'm with a group of volunteers, who are once again phoning to talk about UMass and to request your gift to the Annual Fund."

According to information on the blotter, the former alumni often wish to talk about what UMass is doing today, or why students don't work their way through school anymore.

Once the money has been raised, it is distributed to various needy groups, some whose existence stems from this money. Those groups range from the Alumni Scholarship Program, to athletic scholarships; the largest amount, however, goes to other programs.

The Phonothon is only one of seven UMass Alumni drives. In an attempt to keep the phone call down (all 50 states are called), six other Phonothons were held in Amherst, Springfield, Conn., New York City, Boston, and Washington, D.C. A total of $303,325 was raised last year, and after expenses $250,684 was left. The donations ran from a few dollars to $1500. The average donation was $17.

Strike may cause violence, layoffs

[UPI] — Negotiations to end the longest coal strike in U.S. history were back on track Wednesday, but violence and power shortages spread through the nation's industrial heartland.

In Washington, the Bituminous Coal Operators Association bowed to President Carter's wishes after a short-lived refusal, and agreed to bargain at the White House with the United Mine Workers Union. Talks were scheduled to resume at 8 p.m. EST.

In Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana, striking United Mine Workers hampered efforts to transport non-UMW coal. Western Kentucky miners called for the resignation of union President Arnold Miller.

Kentucky officials confirmed reports of coal-dumping and nail-studded boards thrown under coal truck wheels and said it was investigating the dynamiting of a northeastern Chessie rail trestle earlier in the week. Police said the blast, which was reported Wednesday, damaged a bridge upright and a portion of its undercarriage.

Power companies yesterday predicted layoffs running into the millions and further curtailments caused by rapidly declining coal stockpiles.

The Ohio Public Utilities Commission ordered all state electric utilities to share power and purchase it from out-of-state companies regardless of the cost. Ohio Edison Co. said it had only a 33-day supply of coal remaining.

The nation's major auto producers said layoffs of hundreds of thousands of workers throughout the country will result if the coal strike forces key component plants in Ohio to close.

Hundreds of Ohio pickets forced one truck driver to dump his load of coal and closed a mine and loading dock owned by two companies that supply non-UMW coal to Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Pennsylvania State Police said a band of "300 to 350 locals" picketed three operating non-UMw companies in Clearfield County, but reported only a few minor incidents. They said two arrests will be made in connection with the incidents — one for criminal mischief, one for parking on a highway.

Indiana Gov. Otis R. Bowen mobilized 350 guardsmen to protect a 239,000-ton shipment of coal by the state's largest electric utiltiy, Public Service Indiana, between its plants at Gibson and Terre Haute, 110 miles apart.

A PSI spokesman said the tires of 20 of 75 trucks were flattened by nails thrown on the road.

Meanwhile, petitions seeking the recall of Miller were widely circulated in UMW District 23 in western Kentucky. "We have no way of keeping an accurate count, but it looks like a lot of men from the locals are signing it," a UMW spokesman said.

In suburban Cleveland, a meeting of representatives of 12 Midwestern states studying how to deal with the coal shortage was broken up by nine demonstrators chanting, "Victory to the miners, government hands off!" The meeting was called by the U.S. Department of Energy.

PSI in Indiana announced it will impose mandatory curtailments on all of its 500,000 customers in 69 counties beginning Monday. The move forces Purdue, Indiana and Indiana State universities to impose major electrical cutbacks.

In West Virginia, electric utilities serving the northern and eastern sectors said all major industrial, commercial and educational users will be cut to 70 per cent of their normal load Monday. Officials said the order could result in 25,000 layoffs.

A Monongahela Power Co. official said customers ignoring the 30 per cent curtailment will receive 24-hour written notice and then be shut off.

West Penn Power Co. sent a telegram to Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp requesting emergency powers to require industrial customers to reduce consumption by 30 per cent and to require retail and commercial users to be open a maximum of 45 hours per week, beginning Monday.

North Carolina, South Carolina and Alabama, where coal shortages have not been as critical, announced preparations to ask their electric customers for voluntary cutbacks in energy consumption if the strike continues.

Bill aids coal workers

WASHINGTON [UPI] — With the nation caught in the throes of its longest coal strike, the House yesterday gave final approval to a bill that makes it easier for coal miners with black lung disease to get financial compensation and allows them to reapply for benefits denied in the past.

The measure, approved by the Senate Feb. 6, passed the House on a 264-113 vote and was sent to President Carter.

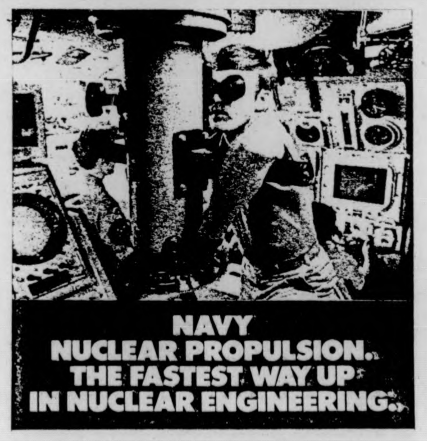
A separate bill to finance black lung benefits through a tax on coal production passed Congress in January.

Wednesday's bill outlines procedures and eligibility requirements a miner or his survivors must meet to get money when a family member has black lung, a debilitating disease suffered by a number of persons who work in underground coal mines. The formal name is pneumoconiosis.

Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., said, "We are giving them some compensation for that suffering — some measure of decency, comfort and support."

But opponents said the bill was too expensive and too generous.

Super Sale!
Take an additional 15% OFF
on Any Purchase in our Junior's Dept. With this Ad
Our already Reduced Sale Prices!!
...Expires March 1st 1978
WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee



NAVY NUCLEAR PROPULSION. THE FASTEST WAY UP IN NUCLEAR ENGINEERING.

If you want to get into nuclear engineering, start by getting into the Nuclear Navy.

The Navy operates more than half the reactors in America. Our nuclear training is the most comprehensive. You start by earning your commission as a Navy Officer. Then we give you a year of advanced nuclear training. During your career, you'll get practical, hands-on experience with our nuclear powered fleet.

If that sounds like the kind of responsibility you're looking for, Sign up for an interview with the Navy Officer Information Team
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
22, 23 and 24 February 1978

Around New England

Minister convicted

GREENFIELD [AP] — The sex-in-the-parsonage trial of the Rev. Roy Leo, accused of having relations over a year's time with a 14-year-old girl ended Wednesday when the activist minister was convicted and sent to jail.

Leo, 55, who had been charged with engaging in numerous sex acts with the daugher of one of his parishioners, buried his face in his hands when he heard the sentence.

The trial has been a sensation in this rural county seat north of Springfield near the Vermont border.

Franklin Superior Court Judge Raymond R. Cross sentenced the Congregational minister to six to 10 years at Walpole State Prison.

The Franklin County Sheriff led Leo from the courtroom while the preacher's wife and 30-year-old daughter stood weeping.

The young girl, who had testified she had fallen in love with Leo after her parents sent her to him for private counseling, sat in the nearby empty courtroom and showed no reaction.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated for eight hours before reaching a decision following the two-week trial. The jury's verdict found Leo guilty of statutory rape and assault and battery.

The trial was closed to the public, but open to reporters. Previously, Massachusetts morals trials involving persons under 18 had been held behind closed doors. The judge, who allowed media coverage of the trial, ordered reporters not name the young girl and her family in the Leo case.

The girl, now 16, testified she had sexual relations with Leo at his parsonage, at a home where she was a babysitter and during a church youth outing to Canada. She described the frequency of the encounters as going on "regularly".

For 11 years, Leo has been pastor of the Robbins Memorial Church in Greenfield.

Army investigated

PROVIDENCE [AP] — Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., said Wednesday he will investigate whether the Army could have moved faster in mobilizing troops for Rhode Island's snow emergency last week.

Referring to a "surplus of confusion," Chafee said he and Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., will hold hearings March 7 in Washington in hopes of finding ways to make the response to disasters quicker.

"The president signed an order on Tuesday afternoon last week ordering the Army to get going and give us a hand...," Chafee said. "Tuesday night came and nothing happened, Wednesday morning and nothing happened, Wednesday afternoon and nothing happened."

Chafee, claiming he prompted the Army to act more quickly, said he did not agree with a system "dependent on a senator calling up the secretary of the Army and telling him to get hustling."

Bd. rejects request

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Connecticut's Board of Education Wednesday rejected requests it not require schools to open 180 days this academic year because of the winter's storms.

"Barring another major emergency, we believe all school districts can meet the 180 days mandate," the board said.

The board rejected the requests by a 5-3 vote. It promised to review the matter later if conditions dictate and entertain specific requests in hardship cases.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso and Senate Minority Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, had suggested the board consider eliminating the 180-day requirement after the state was shut down for two days last week because of the Blizzard of '78.

Houses destroyed

[UPI] — Gas explosions in Sherborn and Brockton destroyed two houses and left one resident seriously burned Wednesday, police said.

James Jordan, 41, was reported in the intensive care unit at Leonard Morse Hospital in Natick after suffering second and third degree burns when his home exploded and burned at 101 Woodland St. in Sherborn.

Another resident, John Willison, 65, escaped uninjured. A police spokesman said the 7:11 a.m. explosion may have been caused by a propane gas tank. The state fire marshal's office is investigating. The house was destroyed.

The Brockton, an explosion apparently caused by leaking gas leveled a two-story, wooden frame house at 304 Winter St. There was no one home at the time of the incident and there were no injuries. Neighbors said they detected strong gas odors before the explosion about 8:45 a.m.

Carter threatened

PROVIDENCE [UPI] — A Providence man has been charged with threatening to kill President Carter during his quick stop in Rhode Island Friday.

Secret Service agents and Providence police arrested John Nanaka, 34, Monday. U.S. Magistrate Jacob Hagopian Tuesday committed Namaka for 60 days psychiatric observation to see if he's fit to stand trial.

Namaka is yet to enter a plea to the charge.

Senate allocates money for Int'l. Women's Week

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Plans for International Women's Week (IWW), March 5-11, became a financial reality last night as the Student Senate allocated $1,100 for child care funding during the week.

Irene Richard, staff coordinator for IWW, announced the Senate's decision to a gathering of 30 women just minutes before last night's IWW meeting. "I feel at this point we can just go ahead," stated Richard, who had been concerned about funding of theweek's programs. She emphasized, however, that financial support was still needed in other areas.

The participation of the handicapped was also discussed at the meeting. "One of the things we are trying to do throughout the week is to accommodate the handicapped women attending the events," said Richard. A committee was formed to organized their attendance.

There is a possiblity that Holy Near's sister Timothy will interpret Near's concert for the deaf. The IWW coordinating committee is also attempting to provide interpreters for the three lectures sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program.

The lectures for the week include a keynote address by former Olympic gold medalist Wilma Rudolph and addresses by consumer advocate Paula Gold and journalist Nora Ephron.

It was also announced that on March 9 a group from Ohio, the Bid Mam Poetry Troupe, will present an evening of original poetry, music and movement.

UM Boston; overcharged?

BOSTON [AP] — A New York consulting firm may have been overpaid by hundreds of thousands of dollars, says a state engineer who accused his boss of consistently taking the side of the controversial firm over the advice of his own staff.

That was the testimony of James J. Cusack, an engineer with the state Bureau of Building Construction, at a hearing Wednesday before a legislative committee investigating contracts for the University of Massachusetts' Boston campus.

Among those contracts is one which netted the firm of McKee-Berger-Mansueto $6 million for supervising the project.

"Quite frankly, I wouldn't engage them (MBM) as project managers on the most simple construction," Cusack told the committee.

He said the firm was paid a fee of 1.53 per cent of the $150 million the project was to cost. However, Cusack said, the firm actually supervised only $110 million in construction, and was, therefore, overpaid by more than $400,000.

FOR BOOZE & BEER
WE'RE NEAR & HERE Right in the heart of Amherst !
Save your time, tires, and gas.
C&C LIQUORS
BEHIND THE POLICE STATION
FREE ON CAMPUS DELIVERY
253-3091

THERE'S A REASON NURSES GET MORE RESPONSIBILITY IN THE NAVY. THEY'RE NAVY OFFICERS.

On one side of her collar is the symbol of the Nurse Corps. On the other is the insignia of a Navy officer.

It makes a difference.

Navy nurses are responsible not only for the care of their patients, but for the training and supervision of hospital corpsmen and other clinical and administrative personnel. Their choice of specialties is from thirteen different fields, with positions in twenty-six cities. They earn an excellent salary, top benefits, and that one intangible that money can't buy—the pride and respect of a Navy officer.

For the complete story, Sign up for an interview with the Navy Nurse Information Team
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
22, 23 and 24 February 1978

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

ARE YOU COMING UP SHORT AT THE END OF THE MONTH?

There's one thing that's probably common to all college students. They have to watch their finances. Here's news about some help you may be able to get.

Air Force ROTC has four, three and two-year scholarships that provide you $100 a month and cover all tuition, books and lab fees. As an AFROTC cadet, you'll enter an exciting program of Air Force instruction that prepares you for one of the most gratifying management jobs available today.

Then, as a commissioned officer in the Air Force, you'll find responsibility and challenge from your very first assignment ... you'll find that people respect you for what you do best.

Consider the Air Force as one of your goals, and consider the AFROTC program as a road to that goal. If you need financial help to free your mind for your studies, find out about AFROTC scholarships today.

Call 5-2437
AIR FORCE
ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

State troopers claim moonlighting necessary

BOSTON [AP] — Overtime and moonlighting may bring a Florida vacation or a new car to some, but to many Massachusetts state troopers they mean putting food on the table.

Some troopers say 16-hour workdays and seven day work weeks are necessary just to make ends meet on the lowest base salary of any New England state police officers.

The winter snow has brought hard times to the troopers, as there are few road jobs available — and uniformed off-duty traffic details on highway construction sites are their largest source of off-duty income.

Now their hopes for financial relief are riding on the appointment of a neutral fact-finder — James Altieri of New York City — to mediate the salary dispute with the state.

In many cases, the outside jobs spell the difference between paying bills and letting them ride, the troopers say.

"It's impossible to work without them," said Trooper John Hayes of Hingham, who earned about $9,000 moonlighting last year, working every day off for 45 weeks.

"The only reason I didn't work 52 was that there wasn't a road job available," the father of four said.

Maximum annual pay for Massachusetts troopers not holding command status is $12,745, compared with $13,887 in New Hampshire, $14,330 in Vermont, $14,335 in Maine, $14,400 in Connecticut and about $15,300 in Rhode Island.

Cpt. David Moran, vice president of the State Police Association of Massachusetts, said his organization is seeking an $18,000 maximum, which he said is comparable to the average pay for police officers in the state's larger cities.

But Gov. Michael S. Dukakis has refused to give the state police more than $15,472, which includes the three-year $1,775 raise negotiated last summer with the Alliance, representing 37,500 state employees.

George Bennett, director of the state's office of employee relations, says acceptance of the state's offer would rank maximum base pay for troopers fourth compared with those in other New England states, New York and New Jersey.

Several hundred holders of law enforcement degrees in the 900-man Massachusetts force also earn incentive pay of up to 25 per cent of their base salary.

And Bennett says state police up to sergeant's grade currently earn an average of $2,400 annually in overtime.

"The real problem is atttempting to move the state from an intransigent position set by other bargaining units," said Moran.

Moran said state police have not had a pay raise since 1969, when they had the highest police salaries in the state except for Cambridge's $13,000 annual pay.

But Bennett contends that does not take into account cost of living increases, which the state considers boosts in salary.

Since November, when off-duty state police stopped patrolling the halls of South Boston High School during court-ordered desegragation, many of the patrolmen have been hurting financially.

"Most of them were working in South Boston because they had to," said Moran, noting state police are now only allowed to work off-duty on highway jobs or at Logan International Airport.

Defense costs climbed in '77 by 17.4 billion

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Defense Department said Wednesday the estimated cost of its major weapons programs escalated by $17.4 billion in the final months of 1977, including a rise of $1.5 billion in the Navy's "low-cost" F-18 fighter program.

The Navy also posted an estimated $10 million increase for each F-14 jet fighter still to be bought at $29.7 million per plane and $1.2 billion extra in "refined" estimates for Trident submarines.

The Navy wanted to delay production of the F-18, but was overruled in budget proposals by Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who told Congress it would be "low-cost" if produced in sufficient numbers.

Under the new figures, based on revised estimates in the last quarter of 1977, the F-18's cost per plane moved up to $17.6 million. That makes it equal in cost with the Air Force's first-line F-15 fighter, considered a more capable aircraft.

Although the F-15 is in production, the F-18 will not go into production until the early 1980s.

Officials attributed the big jump in the F-14s per-plane cost partly to Brown's decision to stretch out production over a longer period, and partly to an extra $546 million in "increased support costs."

Program costs now will go from $10.6 billion to an estimated $12.1 billion for the F-14 and from $12.8 billion to an estimated $14.3 billion for the F-18.

Officials said increased program costs for the Trident missile submarine would amount to $2.9 billion - largely attributed to addition of a 14th submarine and its weapons, but also owing to $1.2 billion in revised estimates.

The estimated $17.4 billion escalation for the 50 weapons programs included in the Pentagon survey approached the $18.4 billion recorded for the last quarter of 1976. That was an all-time record.

Brown told Congress in his recent annual report that failure to go ahead with the F-18 program now would have "far-reaching effects".

"Without F-18 procurement the carrier-based fighter and attack force levels within naval aviation would experience a significant decline in the late 1980s and 1990s," the defense secretary said.

The Pentagon's quarterly price review also said the Army's XM-1 main battle tank, scheduled to start production next year, rose from $4.1 billion to $10.4 billion. But the increase included a decision to more than double the number of tanks produced to the 7,000 mark.

Thurs., Feb. 16
Admission $1.00
7, 8:30, 10, 11:30
(.50¢ 12 & under)

REGENCY

Hair Cutting for Men & Women!!

Ask About Our Apprentice Haircutter.

189 N. Pleasant St.
253-9526 253-7341

THE CELLAR

1386479865
TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
PERSONAL ELECTRONIC

The fact that The MBA™ calculator was designed for business professionals is a great reason for buying one while you're a student.

We designed The MBA to help professionals arrive at fast, accurate answers to a broad range of business and financial problems. The same ones you'll face in your business classes.

Interest, annuities, accounting, finance, bond analysis, real estate, statistics, marketing, forecasting, quantitative methods and many more course applications are in your hands with The MBA.

This powerful calculator also features preprogrammed functions that let you perform more difficult calculations at the touch of a key. Instantly. Accurately. You may also enter your own programs up to 32 steps long, saving significant time if you're doing repetitive classwork problems.

Calculator Analysis for Business and Finance

The MBA comes with an illustrated text, "Calculator Analysis for Business and Finance." This new guide shows you how simple calculator analysis can be with The MBA calculator. It's 288 pages of understandable, easy-to-follow reading. And it's coupled to more than 100 real-world examples that show you step-by-step how to make calculator analysis work for you as never before.

If you're building a career in business, The MBA business financial calculator can be one of your strongest cornerstones.

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS ...INNOVATORS IN PERSONAL ELECTRONICS

© 1978 Texas Instruments Incorporated

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
INCORPORATED

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPRING FLING SKI WEEK AT KILLINGTON, VERMONT
"March is Killington's Best Ski Month with Plenty of Snow, Sun and Fun."
March Ski Weeks Include:
• Five Day Killington Lift Ticket (Mon-Fri) • Five Nights Lodging (Sun-Thurs) • Five Full Breakfasts & Four Complete Dinners • Ski 50 Runs with up to 3000' Drop on 14 Lifts • Night Time Entertainment & Walk to Movies, etc. • Free Keg Party & Dance to Live Bands
ONLY $119.50-$139.50 or $79.50-$99.50 (without meals)
Special Drive-To Package
To receive all the details on this great trip, send this ad with your address to United Intercollegiate Skiers Association, 4040 S. 28th St., Arlington, Va. 22206. (703) 578-3322 (No collect, please) Subject to 6% tax and service charge. Call David Ghareeb 546-7856

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Kent Whalon — Licensed Optician

We are Specialists in:

- FASHION EYEWEAR
- CONTACT LENSES
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

Mike Mudway contemplates the possibility of an early spring. (Staff photo by Howard Barnstone)

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus on February 22, 24, or contact your Navy representative at 518-472-4424/4462 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

Abzug loses to unknown in NY election

NEW YORK [UPI] — Bella Abzug, dealt a stunning defeat by a virtual unknown in Tuesday's special congressional election, yesterday refused to concede defeat in her third try for a political comeback.

Republican S. William Green bumped Mrs. Abzug in her bid to serve the remaining 10 months of Edward Koch's term as U.S. representative from Manhattan's 18th Congressional District.

"This isn't over. Nothing's over. I am a political person and I always will be," Mrs. Abzug told dazed supporters at the Summit Hotel Tuesday night.

The defeat, her third since she left Congress in 1976, capped an unusual campaign in which she only received the Democratic nomination after a confusing court fight with City Councilman Carter Burden. She could not even vote for herself since she does not live in the district.

Early returns showed Mrs. Abzug ahead by some 2,400 votes, but her lead dwindled with later returns. Green went out in front by 577 votes with all but 1 per cent of the vote counted. The last ballots gave him another 11 votes but a recheck by election officials showed he won by 1,270 votes.

The unofficial count gave the former state assemblyman 30,240 votes or 53 per cent to Mrs. Abzug's 28,970 or 48 per cent.

Mrs. Abzug, her crumpled victory speech in hand, demanded a recount. City elections officials said the recounting will be done Friday morning.

Mrs. Abzug, whose floppy hats and outspoken liberal politics made her a national figure, refused to say whether she would try again for the seat in the Democratic primary later this year.

"I don't rule out anything," she said.

A spokesman said Mrs. Abzug met in seclusion with top aides Wednesday at her campaign headquarters to discuss the election and plans for the future.

Money, a solid media blitz and well-organized volunteer work to win "golden nuggets" spelled victory for S. William Green in his congressional race with Bella Abzug.

The day after his election to Congress, Green, a former state assemblyman, visited Upper East Side subway stops to thank voters for their support.

Mrs. Abzug left her congressional post to run for the U.S. Senate but suffered her first political setback when she lost the Democratic primary to Daniel Moynihan.

The second blow came last year, when she lost the seven-way primary for mayor of New York to Koch.

In the other special congressional election Tuesday, state Sen. Robert Garcia won the House seat vacated by Deputy Mayor Herman Badillo.

Garcia, a Democrat who had Badillo's support but was denied his party's nomination because of political squabbles, won easily over Democratic party choice Louis Nine and former City Councilman Ramon Velez.

Letters

The gap is growing

To the Editor:

Israel keeps saying no to a Palestinian state.

A Palestinian state, they say, will pose a mortal danger.

Maybe yes.

Maybe no.

Isolation, too, poses a mortal danger.

So does defiance.

People know that we Jews are no pushovers. Not any more.

We are armed and can be considered dangerous. If you prick us, we can make you bleed.

Enough said.

We're a small minority. For every person who's a Jew, there are 400 who aren't.

And the gap is growing.

We want to be on good terms with the world. And we can't be on good terms with the world if we don't listen to what the world is telling us.

The world is telling us it wants a Palestinian state.

We Jews have to be practical and realistic. Peace with the Palestinians is practical. Peace with our Arab neighbors is practical. Peace with Christians and Muslims is practical. Putting on a long face and scowling at the hypocrites is not practical.

Let's not repeat the mistake of the unlucky motorist who, to avoid the oncoming bus, swerved smack into a truck.

David Ahrens
Hadley

Flu column misleading

To the Editor:

To say that the recent outbreak of flu on campus is due in any large measure to Whitmore is misleading.

For one thing, most of the dormitories and dining commons were constructed under the auspices of the Massachusetts Building Authority. So while it is true that the incidence of infectious disease on campus is in great part due to crowded living conditions, Whitmore cannot be blamed.

The responsibility of the Administration is to see that the campus functions efficiently. Even though they may not feel the flu as those who have it do, they are influenced by it.

What therefore seems to me to be the logical thing to do in a problem situation is to make suggestions; not point an accusatory finger. If you recognize problems on campus, you may be able to help matters by making suggestions. Even constructive criticism can help where a negative grunt cannot. So I have listed a few suggestions for some of the health problems I have recognized here on campus.

I am a senior, a vegetarian and a student of the natural environment. Because of my background I notice little things. For example, I have seen improvements in the quality of food in the dining commons. I do however see room for additional improvements. Why not educate students about eating? A very simple and practical way might be to display posters in the dining commons. The posters could include information on dietary requirements, food combining and food ingredients. What it comes down to is motivating the students' attitudes. Do students eat to live or live to eat?

As the dining commons have room for improvements, so do the adobe dorms we live in. It is in this milieu that we, as students, can have the greatest impact. If we respect and take care of our "dwelling places," we may not eradicate infectious diseases. We may however make conditions more amenable to living. Clearly though, simple hygiene on the students' behalf would reduce the risk of infectious diseases on campus.

You will notice that the above suggestions are directed at the students as well as the Administration. This is not a defense of the Administration's procedures. Nor is it a critique of students' behavior. Rather, it is a recognition that we must look at problems holistically. So let us as students give the Administration helpful suggestions. Let the Administration attend to their respective duties with compassion and concern for the students.

Because by our very nature we are gregarious, we will always be subject to infectious diseases. Likewise, we will also try to find someone or something to blame for our infirmities. As an alternative, why not consider this question: "And why do you look at the speck in your brother's eye; but do not notice the log that is in your own eye?" [Mathew 7:3]

David A. Kimball

More flu flaps

To the Editor:

In regards to staff commentary, specifically Bob Melia's "Flu Flap" of Feb. 13, I think the Collegian should be more realistic in the selection of newsworthy material for publication. I believe in everyone's right to express their views butt "if one has nothing important to say, it is best to say nothing."

I would like to review some of the examples used by Mr. Melia to introduce reality into his dream-world.

First, viruses aren't selective in terms of who they affect. Any and all places where people come in contact with one another have the potential for a virus invasion, whether it be a campus of 20,000 students or a household of 6 family members. Mr. Melia attributes our affliction to poor living conditions but he failed to point out that the United States Military Academy was suffering from a similar virus with a similar percentage of affected. The U.S. Government spends tens of thousands of dollars over the course of 9 years on education, training, and benefits per cadet. Do you think they have poor living conditions?

Mr. Melia attacks the Food Services as another source of illness on campus. Granted, improper nutrition lowers one's resistances to germs and viruses, but this improper nutrition balance is most likely caused by students' dietary habits.

Do you think the Food Services would receive State and Federal subsidies if they served food with no nutritive value? By producing vast quantities of food, one must expect a small decrease in quality, keeping in mind that you get what you pay for. ["There is no such thing as a free luch"]. Imagine the price of a meal plan based on Mr. Melia's concept of separate kitchen and dining facilities in each dorm!

I sympathize with Mr. Melia for having to brave rain and snow to get his meals, it seems that everyone has that problem. Maybe it could be arraigned for his meals and classes to be held in his dorm so he wouldn't have to go outside. [Do you think taxpayers would support a program to enclose the campus entirely so we wouldn't have to go outside at all?]

Mr. Melia, Please be more realistic in the future, since it is absurd 'logic' such as yours that serves to widen the gap between students and administrators, all because of unjustified and unprompted criticism.

Brian D. O'Leary

Senate should act on road closing

To the Editor:

I would like to suggest that the Student Senate meet with the necessary town officers to draw up a warrant to go to the Amherst Town Meeting for the purpose of closing N. Pleasant Street between Massachusetts Avenue and Eastman Lane. I would further like to see this section of road renamed Scott G. Burgess Road.

This suggestion asks for no by-passes or road building solutions to Amherst traffic problems. We have lost a person and the ultimate respect for Scott Burgess will be to peacefully see we lose no more persons. That can be our monument to Scott Burgess.

Dolores D. Sutton

Lower speed limits on N. Pleasant

To the Editor:

Four hundred thousand dollars to plan unrealistic and unacceptable alternatives to the North Pleasant Street Expressway? Why not post and enforce 15 mile per hour speed limits from the Newman Center to Governor's Drive? A large fine would be in order for the selfish few who would violate such a limit. The present speed limit is 25 miles per hour, which means that it would theoretically take 48 more seconds to drive that half-mile with a lowered limit. Surely no one's time is as precious as a pedestrian's life.

Kenneth L. Kornfield

S.O.P. actions alienating

To the Editor:

We demand from the SOP a clear, concise, unambiguous explanation of the purpose of the SOP. In the past four years they have spent over a quarter of a million dollars of the students' money and we feel that the students have a right to know what it has been spent for.

As we see it, the SOP's purpose is to improve and increase interaction between the students and the student government. We applaud their rhetoric but are dismayed with their course of action. It is our common belief that their actions are doing nothing more than further alienating the individual from his-her government. An excellent illustration of just what we are talking about is the SOP endorsed Coordinating Committee of the Student Senate. Having received support from the SOP the Student Senate overwhelmingly approved and mandated the creation of this coordinating committee. This committee is composed of a Student Government Association Co-president, the speaker, treasurer, and committee chairpersons of the Senate. There is no input by the individual to this committee which serves as the SGA central body. This is what we call a concentration of senate power and action, not an increase of student-government interaction.

A second fine example of nonconformity between the SOP's rhetoric and action was the SOP's waffling on the "sunshine legislation" which was introduced and voted on last semester. This legislation would have forced our Honorable senators to report back to their constituency and tell us what they are doing with their title and our money in the Senate. With introduction of these bills the SOP saw that the concept was compatible with their rhetoric and endorsed these bills.

After having been cleared with the SOP the Senate went on and gave overwhelming approval to these bills. Not ten minutes later the SOP reversed its position on the "sunshine legislation" and condemned the two bills. With the railroading expertise of, then, Senate Speaker Brian DeLima, the Senate voted to reconsider those bills and overwhelmingly defeated them.

Here again we see the SOP's rhetoric saying, "more student input," but their actions protecting and securing the insulation of our elected civil servants.

We understand that the SOP has a long range goal as well, Student Unionization.

After the media blitz praising the concept of a student union had run its course, the resistance to a union broke out. The campus saw the formation of an RSO group, The Non-Unionist Students, whose sole purpose was to prevent student unionization.

Following some fact finding was uncovered that for a student union to have a backbone, recognition would have to come from either the UMass Trustees or from the Massachusetts' state legislature. Both routes are viewed with a great deal of skepticism.

Active resistance from a handful of students, apathy from a great many students, and this simple fact of life quite successfully killed off any consideration of a Student Union.

The SOP saw the death of the Union and tried desperately to breathe new life into the union song by giving it a new title, "Student Empowerment." Again the tune was fine but the students recognized the lyrics and resistance was still felt.

With a new semester the SOP brings another new title to their union song, "REORG". As we now understand it, the lyrics have not yet softened up and until they do the students will meet "REORG" with the same resistance and apathy they had given the "Union" and "Student Empowerment."

When will the SOP and the student politicians stop playing political house and listen to the students? If they would only stop their babbling and circus type antics every Wednesday night they would hear that the students don't care about any union. We simply want to receive our education with the least hassle.

We demand that the SOP stop feeding us their baloney and stop spending our money.

Patrick O'Donnell for the
The Non-Unionist Students

Letters Policy

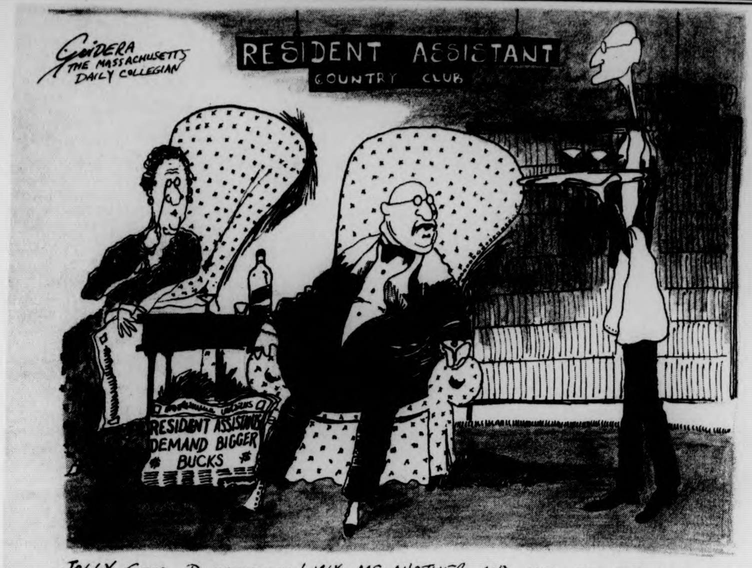
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



GUIDERA THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN
RESIDENT ASSISTANT COUNTRY CLUB
RESIDENT ASSISTANTS DEMAND BIGGER BUCKS

JOLLY GOOD, DUCKWORTHY! MIX ME ANOTHER AND HIT THE KIDS FOR A RAISE!

The folly of rights for Nazis

bill sundstrom

It has been argued on more than one occasion that, in order to preserve the rights of people like Martin Luther King, Jr., to protest what they feel are major injustices, the rights of Nazis and other terrorists must likewise be upheld. After all, the argument goes, if King could march peacefully on Washington in opposition to poverty and racism, the Nazis are certainly entitled to march on Skokie, Illinois, in opposition to that town's Jewish population.

The poverty of this typical "liberal" position is blatant when one recognizes that the very goal of most fascist groups is the ultimate destruction of liieral freedoms for a large sector of the population, while the goal of King and other black activists has historically been to ensure those rights for all people.

The American Nazis, who do indeed plan to stage a "hate march" on Skokie (60 per cent Jewish) this April, have raised some very serious questions about the limits to first amendment rights. Moreover, they have helped delineate some basic differences between so-called radical thinkers and those who would call themselves "liberals."

The major difference arises in the approach to freedoms of speech, press and expression. For the liberal, those rights are directly tied to free market economics and pluralist politics, in which those things considered most true and valuable are those which sell the best. Consequently, free competition between ideas represents the best means of deciding what is true, or at least what the largest number of people have determined is in their self-interest. It also offers ruling class apoligists like Milton Friedman a marvelous defense of capitalism.

A more social notion of the "liberal" freedoms holds that such rights are necessary to the free and healthy functioning of society as a whole. It is through discussion of and disagreement over political and ethical issues that we crystallize our beliefs and achieve a point of equality and mutual understanding — both of what is "true" and of what we are as individuals. These rights must, by the very rrle they are assigned, be balanced against other rights of citizens — the right to be free from poverty and oppression, or the right to be secure from harrassment in one's community.

It is clear that the Nazis have little or no respect for these other rights. In the case of the Skokie march, the community's interests simply outweigh the Nazis' liberal freedoms.

A second, more practical consideration is that one cannot merely dismiss fascist organizations as a serious threat in the United States, particularly at a time when a turn to the political right is frequently documented. Other Western nations are experiencing similar rises in far-right activity...perhaps most frighteningly in Germany. The self-defeating logic of the liberal would have the heroic American Civil Liberties Union defending the Nazis, as they successfully did in Skokie, all the way to the gas chamber.

One of the fundamental problems liberals have in dealing with the issue is that they do not understand Nazism. Their means of treating the symptom — allowing the Nazis to stage the march in the hopes that the irrationally of Nazism will be recognized by the vast majority — ultimately aggravates the disease by providing the Nazis with free publicity. Nazism is difficult for libertarians to grasp because it is a mass movement with its roots in the very nature of late capitalist society. Because individuals do not simply "choose" to become Nazis by virtue of their "free will," liberals totally miscomprehend the nature of the beast.

And thus it is that a magazine like The Progressive, which claims to promote the cause of socialism in this country, can publish a lead editorial sspporting unrestricted speech, "Even for Nazis." The vestiges of the liberal ethic in radicalism are often stronger than many radicals would like to admit.

Of course, the danger inherent in first amendment restrictions is severe, particularly in light of the above-mentioned social functions those freedoms serve. It can only be said that Nazis constitute an extreme case, one where the "marketplace of ideas" cannot be trusted to arrive at the rational judgment.

In the words of conservative columnist George F. Will, "...the logic of liberalism is that it is better to be ruled by Nazis than to restrict them." That logic wilts rather badly in the strong light of 20th Century history.

Bill Sundstrom is Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian.

North Pleasant Street solutions

By DICK JANSSEN

Once more the frenzy of illogic has infiltrated our ranks. People are crying for the closure of North Pleasant Street following the death of Scott Burgess earlier this month. Scott was hit by a van as he dashed across North Pleasant late one Saturday night. This follows in the wake of years of uncoordinated efforts to close the section of road and create a by-pass. Although my deepest sympathy goes with the friends and family of Scott Burgess, one death does not warrant the closing of a road in the same way that we wouldn't tear down the library because someone decided to jump off of it.

It is generally assumed that children of college age have the learned ability to cross the street on their own. It takes the average body about a second to scamper across a twelve-foot wide asphalt lane. A car can cover 90 feet in the same amount of time, but only if it's going 60 m.p.h. The odds certainly seem to favor the pedestrian. But a more comfortable solution seems to be: Slow down the cars. The town of Amherst's solution to slowing down the cars?? Repave the road [!?!] The recently resurfaced street is the smoothest, slickest dragstrip on campus, permitting a velvet-ride at any speed. At least the old washboard tended to slow things up a bit. The town has tried to curb excessive speed by throwing the usual bureaucratic solutions at it....speed limit signs and occasional radar traps, but to no avail.

Why not a sensible solution? Flashing red lights...stoplights, even full-stop signs?? Or why not hit the motorist where he really lives...in his muffler and shock absorbers, by erecting speed bumps along the way?? Don't close the road! It's the only decent access in a relatively inaccessable University. Thousands of off-campus people rely on that road as a strategic drop-off point. And what about the buses?? Where are they supposed to go...through the cross-campus steampipes?? If it becomes inconvenient enough, the average pass-through commuter will find a by-pass route...but this University needs that strip of asphalt. It needs it more than it needs to protect us against the one-in-a-billion odds that we'll meet with unfortunate accident.

I am soared by the overreaction to this issue...I am scared by the general aura of hypersensitive overreaction that seems to infect this entire campus...from students to bureaucrats. It is this same mental disease that historically triggers dumb solutions like sending our brothers overseas to murder and be murdered. Keep the road ... and may cooler heads prevail.

Dick Janssen is a Collegian commentator.

Nuts to you

jim paulin

Well, like they say out here, "It ain't the Hotel Northampton, it's Northampton State Hospital."

And it's not UMass, but it is a state institution, a state hospital, not a state university. But who's to say which is crazier?

People holler and scream out here for their various reasons, just like people holler and scream in Southwest out of the tower dorms for their various reasons. But at the university, if you're screaming because you feel confined, you're always free to walk anytime you want without having to worry about earning "grounds" privileges, that is, permission to go outside.

Like anyplace else, the people who hold keys hold power. The patients don't hold keys because they don't hold power, but are held by power, the power of the state.

And though the state has power, it doesn't have much if money is power since because of tight money you can only get one glass of milk per meal.

As judges are supreme in a court, so are doctors supreme in a mental hospital (or any other). They make the decisions as to who may get privileges such as "Group and O.T." (Occupational Therapy), Grounds, Off Grounds, Home Visit," and "Removal of privileges" if you fuck up.

I was asked if I'm nervous. Yes, I'm nervous. Of course I'm on the defensive, and with good reason. If you were incarcerated without the due process of law you're entitled to by the constitutioc of the United States you'd probably be a little pissed off too.

Make one wrong move, any move the shrinks consider bad and you're sick, sick, sick, and you'll never get out of here.

Although I can't walk outdoors here, one thing's for certain: you can't beat the rent. Nothing like a free room and board in a state building. However, in spite of this official largesse, I'd rather do like Jerry Brown did — decline to live in the state provided mansion and live in my own house, if I owned one that is.

This isn't the governor's mansion for sure, but it beats the Northampton police station jail. At least you are not locked in a cell — you're not locked in your room but you are locked on the ward except when you go down stairs to the canteen to play pool or ping pong or buy cigarettes at UMass prices 65 cents a pack, cups of soda — 15 cents.... candy bars and pastries at the usual price.

There's only one telephone here, a pay phone, downstairs in the lobby. When you want to make a call, you find a staff member who's not too busy to take you down.

And for the first time since September, I'm not living in a basement apartment but in a room on the top floor of the Haskell Building on Ward 3A. And, unlike the dungeon office of the Collegian in the basement of the Campus Center, I've got a view of the Berkshires, even if I can't see the Music Inn in Stockbridge that was more or less my beat for last summer's Collegian.

Jim Paulin is a political prisoner in Northampton State Hospital.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Cyndyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Notices

AMERICAN RED CROSS

Donor center open. Donors will be accepted any Wednesday between 2-8 p.m. at the Public Health Center, behind Morrill, room N-344. Help us get back on our feet after the flu. We need you.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Has. 44 — note new day.

LAMBODA DELTA PHI

Are you looking for something? Lamboda Delta Phi is looking for potential sisters and associate brothers. We're having an open house, tonight, 7-10. Stop by and see us.

DANCE

New England auditions for the summer term of the School of American Ballet in New York will be held at Boston University's Sargent College on Saturday, Feb. 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Intermediate and advanced male and female students 12 years old and over are invited to audition. Applicants should bring practice clothing and must register at the dance studio between 10 a.m. and noon. For additional information call (617) 435-5600 or 473-3850.

SNOW POLICY REMINDER

University snow regulations prohibit overnight parking in snow lots during Dec. 1 to April 1. Parking during snow season is permitted ONLY in Lots 21, 22, 24, 25 (North of access road to P lot only), 32, 41, 42, 43, 44, 49, 50 and all peripheral lots except the front of the Stadium lot. Any question call the Campus Parking Office at 545-0065.

WRITERS NEEDED

UMass Variety Show, a weekly 1-2 hour TV show, needs writers for scenes and satirical commercials. Call the Student Video Project, 545-1336.

JOBS AVAILABLE

Deadline for applications for ws and non ws positions as staff persons at the Malcolm X Center is today, 16th. For info contact Consuelo, 6-9905 or Greg at 6-9731 or the MXC at 5-2819.

EDUCATION-NUTRITION

Cooking instructor Paula Gallagher will demonstrate how to prepare a variety of natur.al foods. 7 p.m. Jones Library in Amherst.

FILM

THE POINT, sponsored by Crabtree House, C.C.A. 7, 8:30, 10 and 11:30.

HILLEL

Correction: Elie Wiesel will speak at the University of Mass. on Feb. 27 instead of Feb. 28 as listed previously. Wiesel will speak at 8 p.m. in the Student Union.

INTERNSHIP: NEW YORK CITY, WASHINGTON, D.C.

This past semester UMass students in majors ranging from journalism, legal studies, design, political science to economics traveled to the Big Apple and the nation's capital and received 15 academic credits for demonstrating to a faculty member what they had learned during their full-time, one semester internship.

LITTLE SISTER'S PARTY

Alpha Tua Gamma is having a party, tonight at 9:00 for all University and Stockbridge women interested in joining the Little sisters program, at 375 N. Pleasant Street.

LOST

Light blue down parka in the pool room of Leach House on Mon. 13, about 8:00 a.m. Please call Tom 546-5565.

Icelandic button-down sweater, off-white with a dark yoke, Friday. Please return to CC lost and found or call Stephanie, 549-0712.

Glasses; brownish color, plastic rims. Call Steve, 6-6330. Keep trying.

GONG SHOW ACTS NEEDED

Grayson dorm needs acts for Gong Show on March 9. Anyone interested call: Larry 6-6955 or Neil 6-6929. First, second and third prizes awarded.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK

We need help for children's workshops during I.WW, March 5-11. Next meeting Feb. 21, 8 p.m., rm 173 CC. Any art supplies you wish to donate can be dropped off in the Commuter Collective office, rm. 404 Student Union.

SPEAKERS

Israel — a racist state? Tonight. The revolutionary socialist view of Israel. Hear Ahmed Shauki, Egyptian political activist and Michael Egan, anti-zionist Jew. CC 904 at 7:30.

O.V. Hirsh, member of United Mine Workers of America, Miners Right to Strike Committee, Nat'l United Workers Org. Tonight 7:30 Morrill rm 245.

MUSIC

Sparky Rucker. Blues, steel-string guitar, Sparky is from Knoxville, Tenn. He played the 5-college Folk Festival in '75 and his latest album is "Cold and Lonesome on a train." Elliot House, Mt. Holyoke, 8:30 p.m., 2. dollars.

WOMEN WRITERS

There will be a meeting for all women interested in covering women's issues for the Collegian tonight at 7:00 in the Campus Center (come to the Collegian office for room number). No writing experience necessary; we will help you learn. Women who do not wish to write for the paper on a regular basis but are willing to cover International Women's Week events should also attend.

OXFORD NIGHT

Meet the co-directors and see slides of the college for the summer '78 Oxford program. Bartlett rm 301, 7 p.m.

UMSFCU

Members interested in applying for BOD or Credit Committee positions see either Denise Colls or Peter Bloom at the Credit Union before the deadline on Fri., Feb. 17.

N.E.A.G. MEETING

N.E.A.G.'s first meeting, Thur. 16th, 7:00 in Knowlton B-1. Each dorm must send at least two reps. Everyone is welcome. For info call Diane, 6-5494 or Carol, 6-5547.

SPECTRUM

Organization meeting Thur. at 5:00. All interested in any area of fiction, art, or poetry are urged to attend.

RUGBY CLUB MEETING

Tonight in CC 915, spring trip and business. All welcome.

WOMEN IN THE AMERICAN ECONOMY

Rosalyn Baxandall and Susan Reverby, co-authors of America's Working Women, will speak tonight at 8 p.m., CC 162, on issues concerning women in the economy.

WESTERN MASS BUS LINE

U-Mass to Worcester in 1-½hrs.
For only $2.50

Buses leave on
Fri. at 1 & 5
Sat. at 12
Sun at 1 & 6:30 from Campus Center Circle
Connection can be made to Boston
For more info call
UMass travel at 545-2006 or Western Mass 584-6481

MCAT

Classes forming now for the April 15 exam. First meeting will be Saturday, March 4th. Latest materials. No lectures. Fee $175. Call Test Prep Services of Amherst 256-6462.

TEST PREP

SUMMER JOBS FOR SOPHOMORES see page 16 for details

Hatch Bar
Student Union Building

Thurs., Feb. 16

The Great Pretenders

Sports Notices

X-COUNTRY SKI — 7 kilometer cross country ski race sponsored by the Intramural Dept. will begin this afternoon in front of Boyden at 3:15. The race is open to all students, faculty and staff.

SPRING SCUBA — There are still openings in the sport scuba course offered by the GPE Program in Key Largo, Fla., this spring break. Organizational meeting, tomorrow night, at 7 in Campus Center rm 911.

MEN'S LACROSSE — Final call for all varsity and JV candidates — meeting at 4 p.m. today, rm 251 Boyden.

GYMS & POOLS CLOSED — on the following days: Boyden Pool — Feb. 18; NOPE Pool — Feb. 25; NOPE Gym — Feb. 25; Hicks Building — Feb. 16, 18, 21, 23, 27.

PE Club a 'major' service to all

By GARY ADINOLFI
Collegian Staff

In late September of 1977 a new organization was formed on campus. The Physical Education Majors Club, as it is now entitled, provides many services for the community along with aiding the PE major.

Last Monday, the club elected its executive board of President Ed Demello, Vice President Gayle Hutchinson, Treasurer Rhoda Metzger and Secretary Mary Catanzaro; who replaced Nancy Carreiro who shouldered the duties last semester. The club also elected a faculty advisor, Arlen Barber. Also three members of the club were chosen to attend the national convention which will be held in Kansas City.

The major objective of the PE Majors Club is to help and improve the physical education program and to bring all PE majors closer together. But as Hutchinson pointed out, "We don't just hold functions for ourselves. We plan to be a community group."

One of these services was to provide a source of transportation to the big UMass-UNH football game last semester. The club will also sponsor a lecture on the Olympic Games given by Frank Rife, a member of the PE faculty.

The PE Majors Club is a good way for the PE major to really become involved in the field of physical education and to provide input that will help them in the long run. The club has elected two students to the department Curriculum Committee. It will provide the students with the opportunity for social functions and workshops as well as having a say in department policy.

Although things are moving along quite smoothly the club does have one problem.

"The hard thing for us to do is to get all of the PE majors to realize that the club is a service for them," said Metzger. "The club does what the members want it to do. We want to get the students to give us input."

Right now the membership of the club is between 60 and 70 members. They welcome any new members from the School of Physical Education. Demello said this is a good amount of people for a club that is still in its infancy.

"Our biggest plus," said Demello, "is that we have a good amount of people that really want to work."

"It has been a rallying point for all PE majors," added Barber. "Where there's numbers there is strength. We can get all kinds of programs going and I also feel that it is important that the students are able to elect their own committee members."

The club keeps good communications up with the other six PE institutions in Massachusetts.

"Although there are some real good clubs among the other institutions," said Demello, "I feel that UMass has the best club in the state."

He urged all PE majors to get together with other PE students and see what the club is all about.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

| | |
|---|---|
| AUDIO | MOTORCYCLES |
| AUTO FOR SALE | PERSONALS |
| CALCULATORS | PHOTO EQUIP |
| ENTERTAINMENT | RIDE WANTED |
| FOR RENT | RIDERS WANTED |
| FOR SALE | ROOM WANTED |
| FOUND | SERVICES |
| HELP WANTED | TO SUBLET |
| INSTRUCTION | TRAVEL |
| LOST | WANTED |
| MISC. | WANTED TO RENT |

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________ (if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________ (enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)

RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

LOST

German Shepard, black, 2 yr., M, reward. 5-2080, 549-0704 or 5-2590.

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

TRAVEL

Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No experience required. Exc. pay, worldwide travel. Summer jobs or career. Send $3 for info. SEAFAX, Dept. E-10 Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

HELP WANTED

Tennis pros and assistant pros—seasonal and year-round clubs; good playing and teaching background. Call (301) 654-3770 or send 2 complete resumes and 2 pictures to Col. R. Reade, W.T.S., 8401 Conn. Ave., Suite 1011, Chevy Chase, MD 20015.

Camp Tomahawk & Wicosuta. Top N.H. men and women interviewing Feb. 24, Goodell building. Positions offered: waterfront, tennis, all athletics, tripping, science, drama, golf, riflery, archery, journalism, rocketry, WSI, piano, crafts, secretary's, lacrosse, wrestling, karate. Contact Lelly West Conry Student Employment Office for appointment. 545-1951.

Head resident positions available. Part time positions at Mount Holyoke College for the academic year 1978-1979. Single persons or married couples. B.A. required. Call (413) 538-2550. An equal opportunity employer.

Phi Sig is looking for housepersons to clean up after meals in exchange for homecooked meals. Call John, 545-0174.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round, Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free information—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

FOR SALE

Pioneer 150 watt amp, Pioneer 112 turntable, pr. of Ambient 22 speakers, amp. Orig. $600, BO over $450. Call 549-0235.

AM FM car radio for sale. Never used. In-dash. Best offer. Louise at 256-8297.

Calculator—TI SR-51 II, 1 year old, ex. cond. $35 or best offer. Call 546-6724.

Refrig., Sanyo, 2 cu. ft. new sacr. $75. Paul, 549-1688.

1¼ acre lot in Brandon, Fla.— ½ hr. from Clearwater. Lot is on hill overlooking large lake. Lovely area. For info call 1-467-3465 after 5 & on weekends.

Pedal steel guitar, 8 string, 3 pedal, beautiful sound, $100. Matt, 546-6158.

5 cubit ft. refrig., largest legal dorm size. $75, will deliver. Glenn, 549-1221.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Once in a blue moon. 5 Market St., N'hampton used furn.—antiques, red tag sale, now-18.

SERVICES

Buy 3 subs get one free. Sundays at Subway of Amherst.

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Five College typing service—professional, fast service. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

AUDIO

Sony 3650 amp 80rms, 5 yr. warr., 256-8709, B.O.

Brand new 22" high efficiency speakers. $200 or b.o. Call Carol at 549-5935.

Garrard 40B w/wood base and new AT11 cart., $30, 549-4470. Must sell soon.

PERSONALS

Roses are red, violets are blue, if I had one jigababy to pick I'd always pick you, love you always, —Capital D.

Thief! You didn't have to steal my Cosmic Wimpout dice. Buy your own at the University Store!

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

To the girl who mistakenly took my mittens at the post office Monday 7: please leave them at the lost and found desk in the CC for me. Thanks.

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

1969 Ford wagon, 390, runs but needs work. Call Dave, 546-8618, after 5. $1200, nego.

FOR RENT

Single furnished room with private bathroom. $75/month, Amherst Motel. Call after 6, 256-6652.

UMass professor has two rooms, $90/mo+ut., large house—Dave Nubert, 545-2227/wkday, 659-3523/wkend-eves. 36 Bridge Millersfa.

WANTED

Female vocalist wants band. Call Alison at 6-7426.

Roommate wanted. Get 1st mo. rent free. Male non-smoker, on bus route in Sund. $75/mo. Cal Paul, 665-3855.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis. Get better grades, improve reading memory & all learning skills easily. Campus Center, Feb. 15, rm. 162; Feb. 16, rm. 809 at 7 & 8:30 p.m. Mr. Morse, hypnotist, consultant M.E.D. 532-5703, free session.

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb. 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY

Men's Gymnastics - 175.60 Southern Connecticut - 217.20
Women's Gymnastic's - 132.55 Southern Connecticut - 122.70
Men's Swimming - vs New Hampshire - postponed, flu
Hockey vs Williams - postponed, flu

TODAY

Women's Track at New Hampshire, 3 p.m.
Men's Basketball vs Northeastern - Curry Hicks Cage, 7:30 p.m.

★Ali dethroned

CONT. FROM PAGE 15

boxing in exhibitions at the age of 15 when he entered his first amateur tournament as a 115-pounder.

He was to have 185 amateur fights, with the final one culminating in the gold medal at Montreal when he knocked out Cuban Sixto Soria to capture the 178-pound title. Upon turning pro after his discharge from the marines after three years of service, Spinks won his first fight, then began a body-building program that saw him gain more than 20 pounds in less than a year.

Spinks was given virtually no chance of beating Ali after two lackluster performances late last year. Spinks fought a draw with the journeyman Ledoux in Las Vegas on Oct. 22 after compiling five knockouts and then won a close decision over Italian Alfio Righetti on Nov. 18, also in Las Vegas.

Spinks has watched at ringside by his mother, Kay and younger brother Michael, the Olympic Middleweight champion, who earlier won an eight-round decision over light-heavyweight Tom Bethea of New York in a preliminary bout.

In the other preliminary bouts, New Yorker Eddie Gregory stopped Jessie Bernett of Los Angeles at 1:59 of the 10th round in a light-heavyweight contest; Great Britain's Alan Minter KO'd Puerto Rican Sandy Torres at 1:57 of the fifth round; and Kansas City Middleweight Tony Chiaverini KO'd Peru's Marcello Quinones at 2:29 of the third round.

Women's b-ball won't play NU, Bridgewater State

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

Due to a series of snowouts, postponements, and cancellations, the UMass women's basketball team will not be back in action until next Tuesday night, when the Minutewomen host UConn in a 7:30 game at the Cage.

UMass played on Feb. 2, when it lost at Providence College, 56-55, in overtime. In the interim, the Minutewomen had games against Bridgewater State (Feb. 7) and Northeastern (Feb. 11) postponed due to snow and poor driving conditions in and around the Boston area.

The Northeastern game was to have been made up today and the Bridgewater State game Wednesday, but due to several schedule conflicts, both contests were cancelled.

Thus, UMass has only two regular season games remaining. The Minutewomen are slated to play New England's number one team, Southern Connecticut, Feb. 28 in New Haven. The UConn game will mark UMass's last home game of the year.

The Minutewomen, 11-5 and ranked second in New England despite losing to Providence, the number three school, are also set to participate in the Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) state tournament. The four-team Division I field will square off at Boston University next Friday and Saturday nights.

UMass won the championship last season, defeating Bridgewater State in the semifinals and Springfield College in the finals. The tourney was held at Bentley College.

"Politics at the Grassroots"
Skills and Strategies
A three-credit seminar
Starting Feb. 19th
Workshops facilated by Mike Ansara of Mass Fair Share, Wade
Ratke of ACORN and other national figures
Contact the SOP, Rm
426 SUB or 5-2415

A new and startling chapter in one of the great journeys of enlightenment of our time

CARLOS CASTANEDA
THE SECOND RING OF POWER

The Second Ring of Power goes far beyond anything Castaneda has yet written. In his great journey towards knowledge and power, he finds himself in a deadly psychic battle with dona Soleda, a female apprentice of don Juan, who turns her power—power she learnt from don Juan himself—against him.

Literary Guild Alternate Selection
Psychology Today Book Club Main Selection

$9.95 SIMON AND SCHUSTER

HADLEY PICTURE FRAMING

Custom
MATTING, MOUNTING AND FRAMING

Also Needle Work Stretched & Framed

Most jobs completed in less than a week

44 Middle Street, Hadley, Mass.
Tel. 586-0332

Mon. Thru Friday 1 to 7 p.m.;
Sat. 12-5 p.m.

CAMPUS CENTER/STUDENT UNION SPACE ALLOCATIONS

Applications are now available for all persons interested in applying for space for 1978-1979 All groups wishing to renew or change space for next year must apply. Forms are available at the Board of Governors office, 817 Campus Center, and must be returned no later than Tuesday, February 28, 1978

The CC—SU Board of Governors is an Equal Opportunity—Affirmative Action organization.

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND

Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great, get-away-from-it-all places.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549 6000

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MR. DUKE?
YEAH. THIS MR. WILLIAMS?
YES, IT IS.
MR. EDWARD B. WILLIAMS, PRESIDENT OF THE RED-SKINS?
WELL, YES.
SORRY TO BE SO SUSPICIOUS. BUT WHEN AN ATTORNEY CALLS, YOU CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL, Y'KNOW?
ANY PARTICULAR REASON?
NO, NO, I JUST THOUGHT YOU MIGHT BE REPRESENTING THIS LITTLE CO-ED. NO BIG DEAL. WHAT'S UP?
2-16
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

I'M SORRY, MA'AM...I WASN'T PAYING ATTENTION
I ACCIDENTALLY STEPPED ON A BUG ON MY WAY TO SCHOOL TODAY
I FEEL SO GUILTY...I HATE TAKING A LIFE...
PUNISH ME, MA'AM... GIVE ME AN "F" IN SOMETHING!
©1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
2-16
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

WHAT IS INTIMIDATION ?
INTIMIDATION IS NAME DROPPING IN FRONT OF SOME POOR INADEQUATE SLOB.
BY THE WAY, DID YOU HAPPEN TO PASS CHARLIE BRONSON ON YOUR WAY UP ?
2-16
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

MY PORTABLE FACE REALLY WORKED ON DAD! I'LL STORE IT AWAY FOR LATER USE!
FACE
I WONDER WHO IT WAS THAT TRIPPED DAD?
LAFLER
OH-OH! THEY'RE STILL THERE! WAIT A MINUTE! IT LOOKS LIKE...
...BENB!
2/16

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

BUT THERE ARE STILL TWO OTHERS TO CONTEND WITH.
BAM!
WHAM!
BUT DENNIS IS SAFE, FOR THE SHIELD IS RECHARGED.
IT AND ITS WEARER WORK AS ONE.
VIP
THE SUIT WAS BUILT TO BATTLE ARMIES.
DODGING, JUMPING; THE SENSORS OF THE BATTLE-COMPUTER COMPENSATING FOR ANY ERRONEOUS MOVES.
FINALLY PLACING DENNIS IN POSITION TO DEAL A KICK!
KLANG!
ROLLINS 2-16

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

I hope you like animals, Jim.
Most of them. What do you have, a dog I can run with?
No, not quite...
A cuddly cat?
No, Sid is a three-toed sloth.
A sloth? what's he do?
Not much of anything, really.
I hang, don't I?
Ranney 2/16

BACK AGAIN by K

HI! I'M YOUR NEW ROOMMATE.
!
2/16
MY NEW ROOMMATE! WHAT HAPPENED TO MY OLD ROOM MATE?
HE WENT TO VISIT FRIENDS IN SOUTHWEST AND HASN'T BEEN HEARD FROM SINCE.

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16 — Born today, you have a keenly intellectual mind, but are often disinclined to use it. You frequently take the emotional view of things, allowing your objective instincts to go unused. You are certain of your ability to achieve whatever you wish, but extremely uncertain about deciding what you wish to achieve. In short, you are hesitant, though very talented.

You are sensitive to the feelings of others, perhaps even more so than to your own, which sometimes take you by surprise. You are often late in recognizing your desires, and thus may lose your chance to realize them. You are, however, quick to know what others wish of and for you and will do your best to fulfill the image others have of you. You have only a vague image of yourself and may find it difficult to focus on a personal identity.

Yours is not an extravagant nature, and you can live on very little. You do need to feel that you have the support of others, not especially in your projects but in your presence, your existence as a separate entity.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Develop your own line of reasoning and you will probably win a few arguments toward evening.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Seek permission of one in authority before you make changes at work.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Mental and physical prowess together win the day. This is a good time to improve your image.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Answers from the business world should put your career where it belongs. Profit accrues at evening.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Indicate your destination before setting out, or those responsible for you may worry.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Love of travel may cause hard times today. Hours of waiting bring impatience.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Curb your tendency toward extravagant purchases. You may be able to satisfy material wants another day.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) -- Negative tendencies bring you contact with one you would rather not be seen with. Turn from temptation.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) -- Success and happiness do not necessarily equate today. The latter may await you upon failure.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — You should be able to attain great success in small things today. You may be tested at evening.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — You may prove difficult to manage today, and one upon whom you depend may force you to cope alone.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — A question of priorities arises early today. Take care that a swift answer is not thoughtless.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate

Local Television

5:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
⑧ ⑲ THE ODD COUPLE
⑱ CHRIST THE LIVING WORD

6:00 ③ ⑧ ㉒ ㉚ NEWS
⑨ CONCENTRATION
⑪ STAR TREK "Operation: Annihilate"
⑱ BOZO
㉔ TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — IN OUR OWN IMAGE
㉜ STAR TREK
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ BONANZA "Tommy"
(56) BRADY BUNCH
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
⑨ JOKER'S WILD
⑱ LASSIE
㉒ ㉚ NBC NIGHTLY NEWS
㉔ TV COMMUNITY COLLEGE — EARTH SEA & SKY
㉗ TARZAN "The Day The Earth Trembled" ㊳ ADAM—12
(56) PARTRIDGE FAMILY
(57) OVER EASY
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ㉒ ㉜ ㊵ NEWS
⑧ CONCENTRATION
⑨ BOWLING FOR DOLLARS
⑪ THE ODD COUPLE "The First Baby"
⑱ FESTIVAL OF FAITH
⑲ ㉚ THE CROSS—WITS
㉔ OVER EASY
㊳ THE ODD COUPLE
(56) MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② WILDERNESS
③ THE DAILY NUMBERS
⑧ THE MUPPET SHOW
⑨ NEWLYWED GAME
⑪ ACTION NEWS
⑲ TATTLETALES
㉒ THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
㉔ (57) THE MACNEIL LEHRER REPORT
㉗ NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE BASKETBALL
㉚ SPECIAL EDITION
㉜ "THE GREAT GETAWAY" Starring George Montgomery
㊳ THE JOKER'S WILD
㊵ BOBBY VINTON SHOW
(56) BOSTON COLLEGE HOCKEY
7:31 ③ DOUBLE PLAY
8:00 ② ㉔ (57) NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SPECIAL "The Great Whales"
③ THE WALTONS Elizabeth suffers a serious fall, leaving her crippled and the Walton family with shattered hopes for her future.
⑧ ⑲ ㊵ WELCOME BACK, KOTTER
⑨ MILLION DOLLAR MOVIE "Rebel Rousers" Jack Nicholson, Diane Ladd
⑪ LET'S MAKE A DEAL
㉒ ㉚ CHIPS "Cry Wolf" A rash of calls sends CHIP officers Baker and Poncherello plus fire trucks and ambulances to a series of nonexistent accidents
㉜ FEATURE FILM "Hammersmith Is Out" Richard Burton, Liz Taylor
㊳ MARCUS WELBY, M.D. "To Live Another Day"
8:30 ⑧ ⑲ ㊵ JOHN DENVER IN AUSTRALIA
9:00 ② (57) WORLD "Holy Growth"
⑱ THE PTL CLUB
㉒ ㉚ JAMES AT 16
㉔ THERE BE BEASTIES
㊳ MOVIE "Emperor Waltz"
9:30 ⑨ NEW YORK ISLANDERS HOCKEY
㉗ THE WAY IS WAS
10:00 ② ⑪ ㉗ NEWS
③ HAWAII FIVE—O Steve McGarrett, pursuing a drug dealer he suspects of having killed a Honolulu police officer, finds himself in bitter conflict with a federal agent blocking his investigation.
⑧ ⑲ ㊵ BARETTA "The Marker" Tony Baretta learns that old friend Carmine Campello feels compelled by family loyalty to carry out a hit on a racketeer.
㉒ ㉚ WHAT REALLY HAPPENS TO THE CLASS OF 65 "The Class Underachiever" ㉔ TWO FOUR SEVEN TWENTY—FOUR TWENTY FOUR ㉜ THE BOLD ONES "And Those Unborn"
(56) JACK JONES SPECIAL
(57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE
10:30 ② MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
⑪ TO TELL THE TRUTH
㉗ THE ELDER AMERICAN
11:00 ② ㉔ (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW
③ ⑧ ⑲ ㉒ ㉚ ㊵ NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
⑪ THE ODD COUPLE "THE Odd Holiday"
⑱ LIVING FAITH
㉗ MOVIE "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms"
㉜ ALFRED HITCHCOCK PRESENTS "Summer Shade"
㊳ THE ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
(56) THE HOLLYWOOD CONNECTION
11:30 ③ CBS LATE MOVIE "Murder On Flight 502"
⑧ ⑲ ㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH
⑪ THE HONEYMOONERS "The Safety Award"
㉒ ㉚ ㉜ JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
㊳ IRONSIDE "The Challenge"
(56) NIGHT GALLERY
(57) CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:00 ⑨ LATE MOVIE "Take Me To Town" Ann Sheridan, Sterling Hayden
⑪ TWILIGHT ZONE "Stopover In A Quiet Town"
12:30 ⑧ ㊵ TOMA
⑪ FILM FESTIVAL "Incident AT Phantom Hill" Robert Fuller, Day Dwyer
1:00 ㉒ ㉚ ㉜ TOMORROW
1:30 ⑧ ㊵ NEWS, WEATHER
1:45 ⑨ JOE FRANKLIN SHOW
2:00 ③ ㉒ ㉚ NEWS, WEATHER
2:30 ⑪ BIOGRAPHY "Winston Churchill" Part I.
★ — DENOTES ADVERTISING

EVENING SPORTS

9:30 ⑨ NEW YORK ISLANDERS HOCKEY Islanders vs. The Colorado Rockies

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Obtain by begging: Slang
6 Prayer wheel user
10 Trackman's goal
14 Representative
15 Lifeless
16 Earthenware pot
17 Equine
18 Of the church
20 Biblical mountain
21 Kept a ship at anchor
23 Make reparation
24 Closes hermetically
26 Kindled
28 At the rear
30 Senator
31 Conclude prematurely
32 Finagled again
36 "---, hoo!"
37 "He makes me -- ---!"
38 --- du Diable
39 Amuse
42 Latin American
44 Makes a study of 45 Powerful
46 Runs a ship aground
49 Paramour
50 Smallest
51 Haul
52 Impatient interjection
55 Bond buyers
58 Erect
60 Activist
61 Arrow poison
62 Birds
63 Outer limits
64 Look intently
65 Transfers property

DOWN
1 Entangle
2 On top of
3 Pass swiftly beyond
4 Iowa university
5 Water main outlet
6 Praises
7 English composer
8 Evil: Prefix
9 Summer drink
10 Giving race tips
11 Assign
12 Aircraft
13 Equipped to hear
19 Ecclesiastical low
22 Not new
25 Healing goddess
26 Mid-Westerner
27 Cheerful
28 Word of endearment
29 Black Poet.
30 Pre-final rounds
32 Streets
33 Immoral person
34 Dash
35 Teeth: Comb. form
37 African village
40 Abrasive tips
41 Occupancy fees
42 Extended over
43 No. American Indian
45 Common fund: Informal
46 Avalanche
47 Carpentry joint
48 Uttered frenziedly
49 Failure
51 Woody plant
53 Worn
54 Hardy heroine
56 Pencil end
57 Single 58 100 square

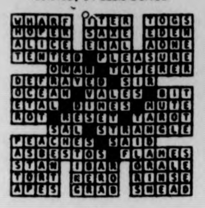
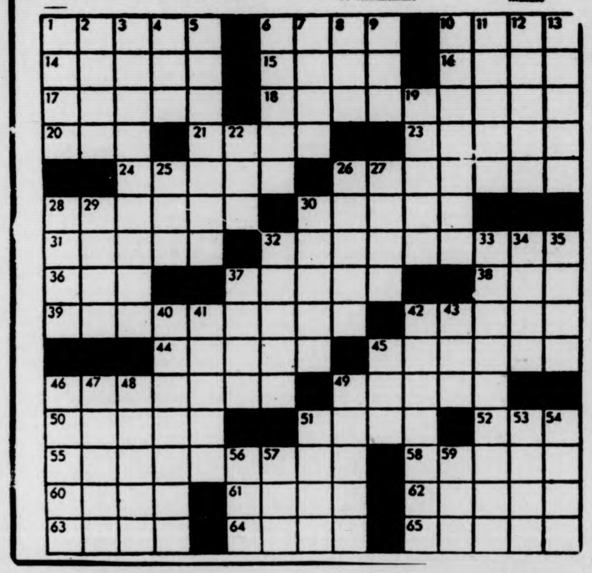
Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:





The rusty nail Inn

THURS., FEB. 16
FAT

EVERY SUNDAY
GEORGE T. GREGORY

EVERY MONDAY
MIDNIGHT SHIFT

Tues. & Wed., Feb. 21 & 22
CLEAN LIVING
and
BEAR MOUNTAIN

THURS., FEB. 23
BRICKER BAND

Fri. & Thurs., Feb. 24 & 25
FAT and MECHANIX

COMING THIS FRIDAY and SATURDAY, Feb. 17 and 18 on the same stage
JAMES COTTON and
JAMES MONTGOMERY
Cover $4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

SUMMER JOB

$500 FOR 6 WEEKS OF OFFICER TRAINING
AT FT. KNOX, K.Y.

ROOM, BOARD, UNIFORMS and TRAVEL EXPENSES

NO OBLIGATION

Earn $2500 as a Junior and Senior and employment worth $11,300/yr. after graduation very likely.

ARMY ROTC 2-YEAR PROGRAM

Call: CPT LEGG 5-2321

Go Garber

NO HIDDEN CHARGES!
ALL INCLUSIVE PRICES!
Our trips aiready include – the 15% tax & service charge.

BERMUDA as low as $275
8 Days/7 Nights
Booze cruise! Complimentary lunches! Beach parties!

Ft. Lauderdale $310
8 Days/7 Nights
Hotel located right on "the famed strip"
Everything is within walking distance.

DAYTONA $315
8 Days/7 Nights
Disney World an hour away

Airfares seem out of reach?
Look into our bus trip $186

Call Your Campus Reps.
For Further Info.
Ask for Bob or Gordon
at 549-0235.

Garber TRAVEL

---

COLD FEET?
Stay Warm
in the Storm with Timberland
Boots

Guaranteed Waterproof
Insulated to -20°
7 Styles for Men and Women
ALSO
THIS WEEK ONLY
FREE Silicone and
Poster w/Boots

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
10-6 Mon-Sat 253-5135

Friday, Feb. 17

HAPPY HOUR
3-7

Doc Sullivan Returns

for 4 hours of Nostalgia.

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978

★ Spinks champ

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

Joe Walcott's title victory over Ezzard Charles in 1951 and Ingemar Johansson's title win over Floyd Patterson 1959.

In this magical mecca of gambling, there was next to none at all on Spinks who was quoted as an 8-1 underdog. That meant if you wanted to bet on Ali to keep his title, there was no one at the Vegas gambling parlors that would accept your bet.

"Odds don't make a fight," said Spinks, who showed remarkable poise considering he had only seven previous pro fights. "I knew about the odds but I didn't worry about them. If I were a betting man, I would have had to bet on myself."

Spinks, a high shcool dropout, said he was willing to give Ali a return although there was no provision for a return bout in the contract he signed for Wednesday's 15-rounder. Spinks received $350,000, by far his biggest purse ever, and Ali made $3.5 million in losing his title.

Ali, who didn't come immediately to the press interview area, said if he had to lose, he was glad to lose to "a man like Spinks.

"What I'd like to do is take some time off and then fight him again," said the somber ex-champ. "I'd like to become the first man ever to win the title three times."

As it now stands, Ali was only one of the two fighters ever to win the heavyweight crown twice. The other man was Floyd Patterson.

Spinks, whose younger brother Mike cheered him on from a ringside seat after winning a decision of his own against Tom Bethea earlier in the evening, said he felt he could beat Ali along.

"I knew he couldn't dance all night and I trained hard," said the new champ. "I had a great opportunity and I knew it. I thank God for what happened. We knew what we had to do to be the man on top and we did it."

Trained by Sam Solomon after turning pro, Spinks made his pro debut on Jan. 15, 1977 in Las Vegas and scored a five-round knockout over Bob Smith. He entered the ring against Ali last night with a pro mark of 6-0-1, the draw coming against Scott Ledoux in a controversial decision last October.

Spinks' road to the sports' richest prize began at the age of 13 when he began taking instructions in the fundamentals of boxing at a recreational center in St. Louis. He was

TURN TO PAGE 12

Kermit ignores boo-birds

OAKLAND [AP] — A Chorus of boos didn't bother forward Kermit Washington as he returned to National Basketball Association action for the first time since being suspended for smashing the face of Rudy Tomjanovich.

Admittedly out of shape, Washington still managed to snare 14 rebounds and score six points during 25 minutes of play in a 98-75 Boston Celtic victory over the Golden State Warriors Tuesday night.

"I was pleased with the reception I got," the 6'8" Boston forward said. "California fans are liberal and will pull things people in other areas of the country wouldn't."

Despite the boos, most of the 13,237 fans in the Oakland Coliseum Arena were most interested in bidding a cheerful farewell to retiring Celtic John Havlicek than blasting Washington.

On Dec. 9, Washington, then a Los Angeles Laker, decked Tomjanovich with a blow that inflicted serious injury to the popular Houston Rocket forward, ended his season and possibly will affect the rest of his career.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien levied the stiffest fine in NBA history, $10,000, and ordered a 60-day suspension, during which the Lakers traded Washington to Boston last month. He practiced with the Celtics only once prior to the game Tuesday night.

"All I had done until last week was try to keep in shape by running," said Washington. "I wasn't making a living and they took $10,000 from my bank account. I wasn't very well off. The thing still isn't over yet."

Washington admits his biggest test awaits him in Houston. The Celtics are scheduled to play there on Tuesday and General Manager Red Auerbach said that Washington, to avoid trouble, won't accompany the team. Washington disagrees.

"I'm going to Houston," he vowed. "I don't care what they say. If they're paying me to play, I'm going. I know Red said no, but I've got a plane ticket and I'm going. I just want to be able to make a living."

Washington insists he has been unfairly branded a monster.

"I see myself as just a person," the five-year NBA veteran said. "I stay home a lot. Sometimes it seems I read about a different person when I read about Kermit Washington, basketball player.

"I'm hesitant now," he said. "If a fan runs up to me, for all I know, he'll stab me in the back. I don't really mean that, that anyone would stab me. But it scares me a little."

★ NU in Cage

CONT. FROM PAGE 16

"But even though they are not a great rebounding team, they make up for it in aggressiveness. Anytime a team can beat a team at home by 13 points, which they did against Colgate last night, you have to respect them."

In last year's game with the Huskies (which UMass narrowly won 82-76), Caligaris scored 28 while Minutemen forward Pyatt scored 26. Guard Alex Eldridge, who Tuesday scored his 1,000th UMass career point, scored 17 and handed out 11 assists.

Two other UMass records are ready to be broken in the next two home games as the record setters will be Pyatt and senior guard and captain Derick Claiborne.

Claiborne needs 33 points to join Eldridge in the over 1,000 career point total, thus giving UMass its first ever over 1,000 point backcourt in the same year.

Meanwhile, in a record that may be set tonight, Pyatt needs 19 points to surpass NBA star Julius Erving as the all-time UMass career point leader. Pyatt now has 1,352 points.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

A VODKA
&
GIN QUARTS
SPECIAL

ICE COLD
KEG BEER
$21.00
And
Up

Lucky Lager
BEER
by Falstaff Brewing Co.
$1.25 A SIX
$4.99 A CASE

In-door Savings too good to be advertised. Come see for yourself!
– UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
– NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
– AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS
In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'til 11 p.m. daily

SPECIALS OF THE WEEK
10% OFF
SOUVERAIN WINES
Premium California . All Types

Many New Cans for you Can Collectors.

REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE – AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384
256-8433 EZ Parking

Spinks is Champ

LAS VEGAS [UPI] — Inexperienced Leon Spinks scored one of boxing's greatest upsets last night when he captured the world heavyweight championship with a 15-round split decision over Muhammed Ali, possibly ending the fabled career of the ring's greatest showman.

Ali was bleeding from the mouth most of the fight as he grew old in the ring at the age of 36 and succumbed to the relentless pursuit of the 24-year-old Olympic light heavyweight gold medalist.

Spinks pressed the attack from the start and never let up. He bloodied Ali's mouth in the second round and ignored all Ali's attempts to rattle him. Ali had a chance to pull out the fight in the final round but was unable to keep Spinks off him and blew a chance for a $12 million rematch with Ken Norton in May.

Immediately after the fight, the exhausted Ali refused to confirm the bout would be his last.

"I did my best," Ali said. "I don't know if I'll fight again. I'd like to maybe have a rematch."

The first thing the new world heavyweight champion did was visit the old one to pay his respects.

"You're a great fighter and fine man," said Spinks to Ali, the man he had just beaten in a 15-round split decision Wednesday night.

"Thanks," mumbled Ali, holding a cold compress to his swollen features. "You ain't so bad yourself."

The next thing the 24-year-old Spinks did was go to his own dressing room where he kneeled down and said his thanks to God for helping him win the championship.

"Ali was my idol since I was a kid," said Spinks, a St. Louis native, who first gained national prominence by winning a gold medal during the 1976 Olympics in Montreal. "He's still my idol. I can't honestly say I feel sorry for him, in my heart I mean, because this is something I always wanted so I could become somebody. But I can't say anything bad about the man. He gave me a great fight."

Spinks' victory over the 36-year-old Ali represented the biggest upset in world heavyweight title history since Ali, an 8-1 underdog himself at the time, dethroned the late Sonny Liston in Miami Beach, Fla., in 1964. It ranked right alongside Jim Braddock's upset over Max Baer in 1935, Jersey

TURN TO PAGE 15

Huskies to invade Cage

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

If Jimmy the Greek were going to set the betting line on tonight's UMass-Northeastern encounter at the Cage, he might pick the Huskies in an upset based upon past performances.

Because, for every time UMass has played tremendously against a Rutgers, Providence, Holy Cross, and most previously a resounding win over EAA league leading Villanova (87-72), they have looked poor in games with Maine, UConn, and West Virginia.

Coming off the upset of Villanova Tuesday night, the Lea-men staged the best offensive-defensive exhibition of the season, outscoring the Wildcats 52-34 in the second half. But can they do it again against the 12-8 Huskies.

Leaman said following the Villanova win that the second half was one of the best halves he has seen this year. "But," he said, "the thing that worries you about this team is they may not do it again for another week."

However, UMass leading scorer Mike Pyatt (15.8), who scored 22 points against Villanova and who has fully recovered from the flu, says the past is history books for the Minutemen and is looking for a sweep of the game tonight and the battle with George Washington Saturday night.

"We're ready again to go on a winning streak," said Pyatt. "Brad Johnson and I are all recovered, and from the way the team played Tuesday, I'd say we're ready."

Leaman said Northeastern is not a team to be taken lightly, based upon the Huskies having the 16th leading scorer in the country in Dave Caligaris (24.1), and a shooting guard in Peter Harris, averaging 16.1.

The Huskies are coming off an impressive road victory against Colgate, 83-70, and have won five in a row against Wagner, Assumption, Drexel, New Hampshire, and Siena.

"Caligaris is a deadly shooter from the perimeter, and the whole offense revolves around him. Northeastern plays a very patient offense and handles the ball extremely well," said Leaman.

The 6'5", 210 lb. senior Caligaris is played at a small forward, while his forward counterparts, freshman Chip Rucker (6'7", 195 lb.), is a 8.8 scorer and also the leading rebounder with 7.6 caroms per game.

In the backcourt Bill Loughnane, a 6'2", 175 lb. sophomore (4.4 ppg) runs the attack, aided by the 6'1", 160-lb. freshman Doug Clary, who averages 6.5 and rebounds at a 5.5 clip. The first forward off the bench is senior captain Dave Sheehan (6'6", 210 lb.), who shoots for a 8.3 average per game.

Huskie coach Jim Calhoun can be proud of the shooting ability of his club as the Huskies have three players over 50 per cent and another hovering around that mark. Caligaris is a 52 per cent shooter while Harris, Sheehan, and Rucker are 56, 53, and 48 per cent, respectively.

Leaman said they play a "pretty good defense, but are only adequate in rebounding."

TURN TO PAGE 15

Like swingin' on a tree gymnast Debbie Smith performs on the uneven parallel bars. UMass won 132.55-122.70. Karen Hemberger with strong performances captured the all around. See Jim Gleason's story in tomorrow's Collegian. (Staff photo by Steven Nugent)

SHAKE AND BAKE — Why are Alex Bradley (42) and his unidentified teammate jumping for Alex Eldridge (24) when Eric Williams (33) is about to shoot an easy layup? The answer may be the reason Eldridge is averaging nearly nine assists a game and just scored his 1000th career point. (Staff photo by Dave Rodman)

Rich Eckel

Take nothing for granted

UMass basketball coach Jack Leaman could hire the Arthur D. Little consulting firm of Cambridge, or he could consult the nearest biorhythmn center, or easier yet, just follow the horoscope chart in the daily paper and the results of these inquiries regarding his team would probably be the same.

About the only conclusion anyone can make after analyzing the 1977-78 Minutemen is that the only predictable element to the team is its total unpredictability.

How, you may ask, can a team operate from both ends of the spectrum in such a short time. The Minutemen had reached the lowest point in their season Saturday night when they lost a two point decision, 76-74, to Maine. The last time a UMaine team had defeated UMass in basketball was 1972.

The loss to UMaine had destroyed any credibility UMass held in New England college basketball circles. Even with the absence of Mike Pyatt, there seemed no excuse capable of explaining how UMass could possibly have lost.

Evidence of local dismay over the loss was visible Tuesday night at the Cage. The stands, which had been filled to an overflow capacity against West Virginia, were noticeably comfortable when Keith Herron and Pyatt squared off for the opening tap.

The doors to Curry Hicks had not been locked and any curious passerby would have been admitted at any point during the game. That is a rare occurrance in these parts when UMass is hosting a team the calibre of Villanova.

When Leaman strode onto the floor before the game he was greeted with a polite, but nevertheless, unenthusiastic round of applause from the crowd. The electricity was missing. The enthusiasm had been drowned in the wake of the UMaine loss and it was obvious the Minutemen were going to have to win back the loyalty of their fans.

They wasted little time.

The second half against Villanova was a virtuoso performance. Alex Eldridge controlled the offense's tempo with the flair of an Arthur Fiedler while standing on the podium with the Pops.

Mark Haymore, Pyatt, Eric Williams, Brad Johnson, Derick Claiborne... may have played second fiddle to the command performance of Eldridge, but they were equally important when the final score was tallied.

You could describe the second half as a UMass blitzkrieg through the Villanova defense. It was clean, convincing and brutally efficient as UMass scored 52 points and shot an incredible 68 per cent from the floor.

The Minutemen withstood the answering vollies of long range gunners Herron and reserve guard Tom Sienkiewicz, who were shooting from somewhere north of Northampton.

The final score was UMass 87, Villanova 72. That's a fifteen point margin for those of you who don't major in math (I used a calculator) and for those who major in roundball the margin of victory had to surprise.

Villanova danced into the Cage with a 15-5 record, and were a perfect 7-0 in the EAA. They left one loss poorer and with renewed respect for UMass. So, too, did the fans.

The victory could have a significant impact on the team's post season play. By next Tuesday night UMass fans should know whether a trip to Pittsburgh on the first weekend in March would be worthwhile.

The Minutemen host George Washington Saturday and then travel to Penn State and Duquesne (next Monday and Tuesday) to make up two league games which had been postponed because of foul weather on January 20 and 22.

The pairings for the EAA round robin playoff to determine the league's representative in NCAA post-season play are determined solely on the teams' in-conference records. Therefore, if UMass (currently 3-3 in EAA) could sweep its remaining league games it would draw a favorable position in the playoff structure.

But UMass must face Northeastern tonight and being a smart bettor I'll leave my wallet at home.

Remember the Maine!

---

Below The Salt
Pottery Anniversary Issue

VOL. VI, ISSUE 15

February 16, 1978

Below The Salt
Feb. 15, 1974 Volume I, Issue I
Another Dollar? For What?
YOU GUTTA T.O.C. CARD?
BLUE WALL
Lori Ann Yeslow 1956-1974 page 3
Below The Salt
Volume 2, Issue 1
September 12, 1974
THE RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES
WORTHLESS PULL-OUT GUIDE — INSIDE
VALLEY Avocado
The Alternative Shopper in the Valley
Amherst/Northampton/Greenfield
FREE
THE VALLEY DOES THEIR DIRT
The Sun Also Volume Three, Issue Twenty
YOU CEDE TO ME ALL THE WORLD OF SENSE?
in this issue: THE DEMON DECEIVER!
I CEDE NOTHING, MONSTER! I HAVE YET TO CALL ON...
DANCE.DANCE.DANCE!
BELOW THE SALT
ISSUE 13
APRIL 28, 1977
Below The Salt
weekly fine arts magazine
Below Salt
VOL. V, ISSUE 5
FEB 25, 1977
MAN OF THE YEAR
GLOBE THEATRE TICKET
ADMIT
GOOD ONLY FOR MATINEE PERFORMANCE FEB 25 1977
ONE
BELOW THE SALT
Volume 6 Issue 7
October 28 1977
Below the Salt
Vol. 6 Issue 3
Sept. 22, 77
The Kent State Massacre
Discorporate and Come With Me ...page 3
Below The Salt
weekly fine arts magazine
Rock 'n' Roll in the Land of Cotton .... page 11
Below the Salt
Labor Issue
The Haymarket Square Affair
BELOW THE SALT.
October 6, 1977
Eat Fatalism
SPECIAL PUNK ISSUE!
BELOW THE SALT
Below The Salt
Looking into 1978
Our Aim is True

Photography

Tsiaras is anything but ordinary

by LESLEY LAWRENCE

The son of Macedonian parents who were forced to leave Greece for their political beliefs, Phillip Tsiaras is one of the youngest photographers to have had museum and gallery shows in both Europe and the United States. A graduate of Amherst College, he has recently returned from a one year stay in Greece where he lived and worked on a Watson Fellowship. With a degree in Comparative Lit., Tsiaras feels that the more information and experience one can bring to his art work the grander the expression.

Phillip Tsiaras is an extremely energetic personality and his dynamic nature shines through in his work. Having had little, if any, previous exposure to photography I found Phillips work to be provocative and challenging. His photographs are sometimes humorous, sometimes shocking, but always anything but ordinary.

---

Salt: How do you photograph yourself?
Tsiaras: When you are in grade school, one of the first intelligent assignments seems to be to try to write an essay on yourself, an autobiography. When we are given cameras we are given the license to record the Universe, so to speak, the objects we perceive thru the lens. I was tired of things, and bored of models and the rest. The biggest problem and the greatest complexity in my life was myself, so I put the camera on a tripod, took my clothes off, and started shooting.

Salt: Why the nakedness?
Tsiaras: Because clothed I simply wasn't revealing enough. That's to say, I needed to strip my personality bare, to reduce it to it's essentials to work towards my greatest embarrassments. I have always felt relatively good about my body. But when I put the camera eye to my naked self-I was a child again; it was terrific.

Salt: Would you say there is a certain amount of narcissism in your self-pastels?
Tsiaras: Definitely. How could there not be? Perhaps in my case there is a little extra. Being Greek, I feel that there are various legacies that have been made available to me. So I can strike an ancient juicy pose and get away with it.

Salt: Do you think your work is erotic?
Tsiaras: Yes, there is sexuality in my work. There is also self-love, hate, self-destruction, and fear of self in it. The personality is always involved in this. I try to give people an interesting part of myself-true or false they put the pieces together...so in a sense it's a personal narrative.

Salt: How do you want people to react to your work?
Tsiaras: I want them to swoon, but intelligently. I'd like them to gush a little bit before my pastels, the way a cave man would when hearing Beethoven's 9th for the first time. Their interest should draw them close enough so that they might sniff the image curiously, as though it were good fromage...After all, art is seduction. We spend our lives refining our vision and technique so that we can seduce someone into believing it too. Personal expression is nothing if you haven't got an audience...

Salt: What about your motion shots?
Tsiaras: When I did my motion shots I did them in such a way as to create a kind of stark background, I think I was very influenced by Bergman's films in the old days and I loved those desolate backgrounds with the white sky and no clouds-with one spare element-like one tree.

Salt: What about your black and white photography? How do you compare them to your pastels?
Tsiaras: In all of this, I do not mean to blaspheme black and white photography. It is a delicate and subtle form of expression. It is, perhaps, an even higher art form than color photography because as a medium it requires greated discipline and refinement of sensibility. The eye is a whore, it wants color. When given a black and white photograph it says "I will not work today." I really take my hat off to people like Steiglitz, Callahan, Weston, Bullock-all those great champions of the black and white image.

Salt: How did this show come to be?
Tsiaras: I probably wouldn't have had this show if I hadn't had one major show in Seattle at the Seattle Museum of Modern Art. When I was at Amherst College I seemed to be having small shows here and there all the time. I guess I always wanted to show my work to people. Now I just do it in bigger spaces.

Salt: How were you able to have shows at such an early age?
Tsiaras: It depends on how the artist developes...first of all you have to have the work, secondly you have to find somebody or someway of getting that work shown and written about...if someone comes to see your work or is interested in you, you have to have some work available so they know by past criticisms that there has been interest in you by intelligent people from the past.

Salt: If that's the case does the public really have a chance to decide for themselves?
Tsiaras: ...There is an aristocracy in the art world just like there is an aristocracy in the money world. Anybody can create the perimeters of tastes if his work and personality is strong enough.

Salt: In what direction do you feel your work taking you?
Tsiaras: I feel that my work is spreading into all kinds of directions. Presently, as you can see with this show, I'm involved with various kinds of arrangements and comparisons, like the double image (one black and white put next to the same image colored) or Time sequence diptychs, or conceptual narrative pieces, and lots of self-work that will be sopping with Byzantine golds. Perhaps I will take the camera into my family life and see what happens. Anyway, it's probably not such good luck to talk about it. Basically, I guess, I will just continue working. In the end it's the only thing that really matters.

Writers wanted

BELOW THE SALT is seeking submissions of the creative literary efforts of U.Mass. students. All are encouraged to submit prose or poetry pieces in order that we may present a fair sampling of community work. Please include name, address or telephone number so that we may offer you feedback regarding your efforts. Manuscripts may be left in the Fiction and Poetry folder, Below the Salt office, located in the rear of the Collegian Office, first floor of the Campus Center.

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst. Editors | Bob ArmstrongMary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacey Belkind |
| Listings Editor | Debbie Wallace |
| Poetry Editor | Lisa Wait |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |

Below The Salt
takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requiree that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".
In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt
is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topics of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submissions can be made at the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center; 545-3500.

Inside today's Salt

about the cover:

Self explanatory. 'Nuff said.

dance

Sharon True extemporates on contemporary dance. Page 4.

Ms. Shain gives Alvin Ailey the once over. Page 11.

fiction

Dukakis' Valentines Week continues. Page 5.

community

Child care in the Valley. Page 6.

film

Skip goes soft on "Semi-Tough." Page 9.

music

Records down 1 ⅓. Page 11.

Our pardon: last week's cover and centerfold photos courtesy Dan Vullemier.

Anti-ar tic-u-la-tion

(dream of patti smith)

roaming on frozen moments in tuned silence
I swallow your patois and my ribs begin to peel enough of your stuff

it's my quarter and
I prefer the flip side
besides of Bancusi and Baudelaire
I drew short straw

so shall I derrange to meet you
the lunch counter at Flo's between layers of a triple decker for dessert

you devil dog in my hotel room and you gaze about homely when stilled taking sub total disques some french books some yours
some yours
some yours

enough of your guff
I'm too old your internicine scene our foreheads link like crazy glue silent squat swat swap spit and gone real gone
w/out
w/out
w/out no sink hairs to remember you
by

-A. RIMBORED

Get it on your chest.

SUPER DISCO LIVE
THE VANILLA TREE
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call

FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060
(413) 584-2124

Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3539

Platterpus Records

$4.99 SALE

ALL LP'S
Series 7.98
Codes R & S

SERIES 7.98
CASSETTE & 8 TRACK TAPES $5.49 Code TP

MANY ROCK & JAZZ ALBUM
FROM $1.99

WE HAVE THE AREA'S MOST COMPLETE SELECTION OF:
ROCK • JAZZ • CLASSICAL • OPERA • TRADITIONAL FOLK • PROGRESSIVE COUNTRY • SOUNDTRACKS & SHOWS • SHEET MUSIC & MUSIC BOOKS

SPRINGFIELD CIVIC CENTER TICKET OUTLET

HAMP PLAZA
No. King St., Rt. 5
Northampton 586-5882

STORE HOURS
Mon.-Sat. 10-9
Sale Ends Sat. Feb 18

Four years of Below the Salt- a crock?

by IRA HUNTER

This week marks the fourth anniversary of the UMass Daily Collegian's fine arts supplement, Below The Salt. Founded by students of Umass to report and reflect their cultural needs and ideas in February 1974, Below The Salt enters its fifth year of publication and service with this "Pottery Aniversary Tribute."

Our figuratively ceramic Salt was molded by its first editor Michael C. Kostek into an outrageously bold and anarchistic creation that challenged the audience to think. Kostek's cultural prodding enlightened some and offended many, but it was never dull. Musical advocate and creator of the "Singing Ink" pages, Michael has since gone on to be a successful local record magnate and entrepreneur-a virtual cultural "salter of the Earth."

The pot was further molded by its next editor, Tyla L. Michelove. Willing to try anything once, Tyla introduced many new elements into Salt and livened up Salt's graphic format. She did, however, maintain Kostek's strong musical orientation with help of Jack Cahill and Andy Mckenzie. Andy went to England after graduation in pursuit of musical Nirvana, and Jack is now audio-visual coordinator at the Hampshire College Library. There is, you see, life after UMass. The ever-experimenting Tyla has stabilized somewhat into a marriage with former Salt theatre editor Jim Sawyer.

In 1976 editor Craig Roche gave Salt a deep-fired record industry glaze. While carrying the "Singing Ink" philosophy to a dangerous extreme, Craig nonetheless added some handsome embellishments to the Salt with well written interviews with political and social notables like William Loeb and Boston mayor Kevin White.

In his second semester Craig enlisted the aid of apprentice potter Mark Leccese. Mr. Roche then mysteriously departed to the west coast, where he has not been heard from since, and left Mark watching the pot in the spring of 1977.

Assistant editors Patrick McQuaid and Debbie Schafer at this time produced the controversial and entertaining "Valley Avocado" (with financial assist from music-mogul Michael Kostek.) This dynamic duo began applying a slick cosmetic glaze to hide the flaws in our three-year-old Salt pot, but Leccese failed to notice. Under his less than watchful eye the pot he was charged to watch tumbled and broke onto fragments.

Leccese resigned, leaving Schafer and McQuaid to pick up the pieces. They were assisted in this task by Mike Doran but the project was soon handed over to Rich Pioli and longtime Salt associate Bob Armstrong in the bloodless coup of September, 1977.

These two craftsmen decided to start with a fresh lump of clay rather than try to repair the former Salt. The remaining debris was swept away and they began this new project, though Bob was left in mid-autumn to finish the work alone. Ken Shain joined the paper at that time and added some new ideas to Salt.

...And here we are, today. Ken Shain is at the wheel, assisted by Collegian news veteran Mary Brown and the already familiar Bob Armstrong. All three are masters of their craft, and the still pliable Salt is beginning to take on a new form as a mirror of campus participatory culture.

"Let us be the first rung on your ladder to superstardom!" propounds young Mr. Shain with obvious editorial ardor these days, aware of Salt's longstanding role as valley starmaker. From its pages stepped the inimitable UMan Gary Gomes, now a social worker and cultural vanguard in the eastern part of the Commonwealth. David Sokol, bon vivant and consumer of redux culture deluxe is a famous participating advocate of spectatorial culture in the valley. E. Patrick McQuaid has seasoned into an energetic stringer for the valley's dailies while the spectral RasTapunk Ram Dass is busy preparing for a study on the effects of money on culture.

In our bullpen, of course, are veterans of the "editorial wars" David Letters and Debbie Schafer, two folks who not only continue to contribute but maintain their professional lives as well. Bob Armstong was last seen here, and so have many other possible geniuses we are always looking to exploit.

"Join the solar system and get Below The Salt! You could be a moon, a planet, or a star, but you might not ever know it unless you try..."

Dollar Brand: piano as percussion

Reviewed by BOB ARMSTRONG

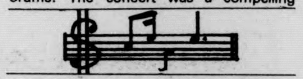
Dollar Brand is a musician whose music transcends ordinary classifications. The South African pianist's ability to synthesize purely African musical elements with those of the Afro-American idiom is matched by no musician. The scope, power, and grand sweep of his music evices a depth of feeling that is unique in its simple yet commanding dignity.

Brand appeared in a concert at the Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College Friday evening. Playing both piano and soprano saxophone he was joined by Talib Quader on saxes, flute, and oboe; Greg Brown on bass; and John Betsch on drums. The concert was a compelling presentation of various African and Afro-American musical forms, ranging from chant-singing in a South African dialect to rousing boogie-woogie finish that had the joint a-jumpin'. The first half of the concert was all ensemble work, with Brand passing almost as much time on soprano sax as on the piano. One piece featured Quader weaving arabesques over Brand's punctual comping. Brand worked relatively restrained pianistic ramblings, and rather simple, folkish sax phrasings, often providing a rhythmic, as well as harmonic counterpoint to Quader's soloing.



After a brief intermission Brand retook the stage to perform alone. A large, angular man, Brand sat at the piano with a sort of regal, quiet dignity. Here his artistry began to fully assert itself; where before he had played comparitively simple tunes and had given his band a great deal of time to solo, he now demonstrated his mastery in creating powerful musical statements by skillfully weaving many layers of hammered notes. Brand is at his best when performing solo piano; where the constraints of added instrumentation are removed he is able to build his own majestic musical structures. This he did, beginning with short, simple melodies and then building on them with increasingly voluminous flurries of notes until he reached thundering climaxes where he was quite literally hammering the piano greatly pleasing the full-house crowd.

Brand is undoubtedly one of the very best "percussive" pianists; with Cecil Taylor, Sun Ra, and McCoy Tyner he shares a talent for making great use of the purely percussive characteristics of the piano, something which has been for too long ignored by most all other pianists. Brand's approach is unique in that he employs indigenously African musical elements, folk melodies in particular (while also using the piano as if it were a choir drum plus Afro-American "jazz" stylings, thus producing a seductive pianistic portrait of these two forms.

After this powerful exploration of sound, the rest of the ensemble reappeared on stage and performed in a few more selections, with Brand again playing in a relatively restrained manner, finishing with a rousing boogie-woogie finish that had the crowd on its feet for an encore, which was also another hard-charging stomper. Brand did seem inappropriately heavy-handed during the more lively numbers; there was a bit too much of a contrast between his punctual hammering and the upbeat swing of the rest of the band. This set did feature some very spirited, if somewhat sloppy music. While Brand and the inventive John Betsch were not at fault, it must be said that Quader and Brown did get a little messy here and there, and though they are competent, they are not on a par with Brand and Betsch. It ought also to be known that Brand was playing last Friday with a bad case of the flu, which would explain why he didn't solo as extensively as he might have otherwise. Still, he, and to a somewhat lesser extent, his group, gave a strong performance, and Brand left no doubt as to the importance of an artist who is able to fuse the music of black people of two continents into a commanding synthesis.

No pie

How nice the plantation is still.
Not by cherry pie
but through false teeth commands;
the leprosy of lies fester
during February come-ons to feast at quick-stops fast-rolling the easy to bythink massacres and assassinations converting neon to green—
"Gorge with George!"

©Zoe Best
All rights reserved, 1977

DISCOVER RUTGERS
THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

Visit with our Representative
DATE: WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 15
TIME: 9:00 A.M.
PLACE: PLACEMENT SERVICE, HAMPSHIRE HOUSE

140 diversified graduate and professional programs are offered through 11 schools on three campuses (NEW BRUNSWICK, CAMDEN, & NEWARK)
FELLOWSHIPS SCHOLARSHIPS
INTERNSHIPS & ASSISTANTSHIPS are available on a competitive basis

Charlie's

HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢

TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID

1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

UMASS
STUDENT FEDERAL CREDIT UNION
WORK STUDY POSITION
AVAILABLE

Secretary/Receptionist
$2.65/hr.

10 hours per week
Must be able to type well and be available when needed.
Contact BETSY LEHR
545-2800

Deadline: Feb. 24

An Equal Opportunity Employer

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty—

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office — Open 10-6 Mon. thru Sat.

MONDAYS
COOL
RUM SWIZZLES
.75
9-1

TUESDAYS
Two for One
Drinks & Beer
9-1

WEDNESDAYS
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers
9-1

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 • TEN GREAT YEARS • 1978

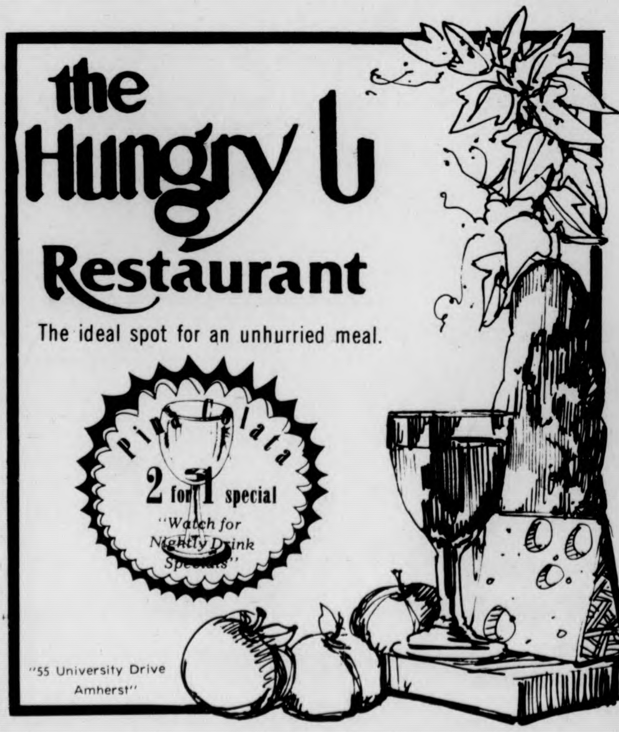
THURSDAYS
Two for One
(DRINKS & BEER)
8:30 till 11

FRIDAYS
HAPPY HOUR
3-7
25¢ PUB MUGS
Anniversary Specials
8-1

SATURDAYS
Anniversary Specials
9-1

SUNDAYS
EXCALIBURG Special
Buy 1 Get 1 Free
12 - 9
GOODTIME HOUR 4 - 8
Qt. Pitcher Beer
1.25

Sunday & Monday — Juke Box Disco
Tuesdays — Dave Powell
Wednesdays — Jim Plunkett
Thursdays — Two Way Street
Friday & Saturday — Disco with Tom Gavin



the Hungry U Restaurant

The ideal spot for an unhurried meal.

Piña Colata
2 for 1 special
"Watch for Nightly Drink Specials"

"55 University Drive
Amherst"

Bringing drama to dance

Reviewed by SHARON TRUE

I am constantly amazed by the awesome power of dance to move, communicate, astound, inspire...and all these inner chords of feeling were struck anew by a performance given Friday, Feb. 10 by the Contemporary Dance System in the Kirby Memorial Theater at Amherst College.

The fiesta dances of the small towns and villages of Mexico, which celebrate much history and tradition, both sacred and profane, is the setting for "La Malinche," a dance choreographed by Jose Limon in 1947 and presented here under the direction of Daniel Lewis and Laura Glenn. The dance "deals with conquest, perfidy, remorse, and triumph, all well-known in the sad and beautiful history of Mexico." (program note).

These political-historical ideas are expressed in the framework of a romantic triangle, with La Malinche (Laura Glenn) foresaking her lover, El Indio (Peter Healey) for the entrancing power of the Conquistador, feeling remorse at the angrily accusing finger of El Indio from his prison cell, then joining forces with him and triumphing over the Conquistador.

Before the conquest, La Malinche and El Indio dance with a carefree air; tripping, light little catch-steps, modestly downcast eyes, slightly bent arms held still before them, with cupped hands, doll-like, with their sweet facial expressions, the girl's rose-colored, puff-sleeved dress and boy's all-white, pajamaish top and trousers completing the image of youthful innocence. The Conquistador comes, places El Indio in an upstage corner (prison) and proceeds to seduce La Malinche in a very curious manner--he slips his waist-high crosssword under the girl's back and slowly draws her up to him, while she is weak with ecstacy mingled with fear. From the corner, the boy watches. Kneeling, he doubles over, struggling with his bonds, and freeing himself, he points a visciously accusing finger at her perfidy. In her remorse, she attempts to protect him by hiding him under the full black skirt she donned during rhe seduction of the Conquistador; this he angrily throws off. Finally, she removes the skirt, and joins with him to overcome the Conquistador.

The emotions evoked by the dancers were genuinely felt, the movements truly motivated; however, I found myself wallowing in the complexities of the plot and getting sidetracked in my efforts to decifer the symbolic meaning of the skirt, the cross, the doll-like arms. Still, it is a fascinating dance.

Another dance thick with ideas and relationships on a touchingly personal level is Doris Humphrey's "Day on Earth," choreographed in 1951 and revived under the direction of Daniel Lewis, to some lovely pioneer Americana music by Aaron Copland. There are four characters, a Woman, a Young Woman, and a Child, all dressed in simple cotton frocks, and a Man dressed in work trousers and shirt.

Whether it was an intentional ambiguity or a flaw in the choreography, the dance could be interpreted in at least two ways; the title and the names of the characters suggest that the dance is about the growth of a family -- courtship, marriage, child rais-

TURN TO PAGE 8

ALL UMASS MEN WELCOME
OPEN RUSH
AT BETA KAPPA PHI
ON

THURS., FEB. 16 8:00 p.m.
and
SUN., FEB. 19 6:30 p.m.

REFRESHMENTS
388 NO. PLEASANT ST.
(Big white brick house one block from campus)
CALL 5-0210 FOR INFO.

Valentine's Day ..........after all

by D.E. MARSHALL

Carl walked slowly through the Campus Center, his books clutched under his arm. He noted all the couples walking hand in hand who passed by. It seemed as if everyone had a partner except him. Well. why not? This was Valentine's Day after all. Carl walked through the coffeeshop hoping to run into a familiar face, but he didn't see anyone. He looked up at the big clock in the coffeeshop; it said 10:00. He had a 10:10 to make, so he hurried past the crowd of students coming into the shop for a break between classes. He passed the fellow selling flowers on the concourse. "Valentine's Day Special," he shouted, "Roses three for a dollar! Buy one for your lover!" Carl stopped by the table to smell the roses; they were beautiful scarlet colored ones and they had a scent that reminded him of his grandmother's parlor on her anniversary when his grandad used to bring his grandma two dozen roses. "Roses for my Rosalie, Carl. I buy your grandma roses for forty-five years now. Always two dozen long-stem roses for our anniversary. You should live so long and be happy. One day you'll have a woman to buy roses for just like your grandma. Wonderful woman, your grandma, Carl."

The man selling flowers noticed Carl smelling the roses. "Wanna bunch, special for Valentine's Day, hey maybe you want to bring some to your girl or something?"

Carl shrugged his shoulders, as if to say no thank you and walked away. "Bring some to my girl, huh? What girl? This guy must think he's really funny." Carl wlaked up the stairs to the candy counter in the Union. "Here's twenty five cents for the Times," he said, leaving a quarter on the counter. Carl scanned the front page as he crossed the path leading to Machmer. "Cuban troops fighting in Somalia, U.S. directly encourages opposition to Nicaraguan regime, International economic forecast remains grim," and near the bottom right corner of the page it said, "Weather today, unseasonably mild, warm, sunny and gay, Cupid's out spreading love today." Maybe my lucky day, Carl thought for a moment as he entered the building. "Quit kidding yourself will you; so what if you meet a woman today, she'll only end up being a close 'friend' like the others."

Carl walked into the class and took a seat in the back. He was late, the professor had already started the lecture. It was his first class in Ancient and Medieval mythology. Today's lecture was on "Arturian Romance and Courtly Love." A timely topic for today, Carl thought, as he opened his notebook and clicked his ballpoint. He tuned his ears in to the lecture. Professor Morgan took a drag from her Benson and Hedges and proceeded to define what was meant by courtly love. "If she doesn't have an oral fixation, I don't know who does," Carl thought, "she smokes at least five cigarettes a lecture."

"Courtly love poets," she was explaining, "wrote great poems given to the praise of adulterous heterosexual relationships. They are poems about mysterious women who have magical powers. The women in these poems symbolize the ideal woman. They are portraits of women who never appear in real life..." Carl played with that last thought in his mind. He was not sure whether he totaly agreed. It was true that he'd never been chosen to fall in love with a magical woman; but he sure thought he'd known a few. Hell, there must have been five or six women who'd been ideal in his life. Except that in his story they had always turned out to be ideal for someone else. It had always been, "Oh Carl you're such a sweet guy, you're really cute, you know that if you were a few years older I'd..."

fiction

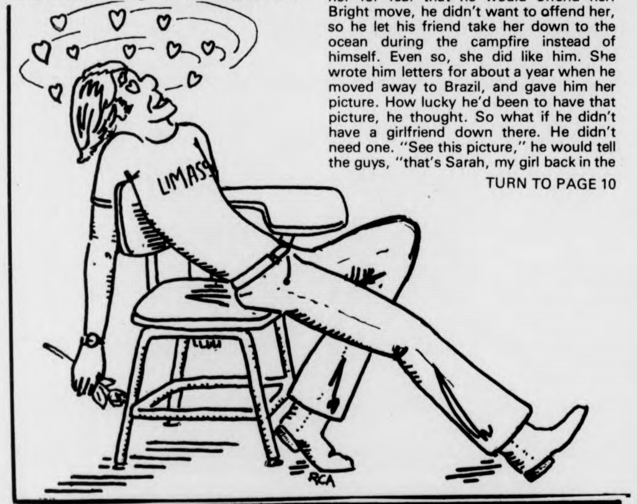
He just couldn't figure it out. Why was it that everytime he was interested in someone they would always go out with someone else? Talk to Carl? Yes. Have sex with him? No. That was the way it was.

Carl had stopped listening to the professor's lecture three topics ago. He was thinking about all the women he had loved. He remembered being in love with Sarah when he was fifteen. He met her camping one summer. She was a beautiful girl, but he had been afraid to be too forward with her for fear that he would offend her. Bright move, he didn't want to offend her, so he let his friend take her down to the ocean during the campfire instead of himself. Even so, she did like him. She wrote him letters for about a year when he moved away to Brazil, and gave him her picture. How lucky he'd been to have that picture, he thought. So what if he didn't have a girlfriend down there. He didn't need one. "See this picture," he would tell the guys, "that's Sarah, my girl back in the

TURN TO PAGE 10



NORTHEAST RESIDENTS
ELECTIONS ARE COMING UP FOR
VICE PRESIDENT POSITION
NORTHEAST AREA GOVT.
paid position open to Northeast residents only

•Elections will be held Feb. 21, 4-7 p.m., Barracks Hall section of Worcester D.C. For job descriptions, or questions contact President, N.E.A.G. at 546-5494 or 545-1595, 418 Lewis House.

HELP SUPPORT YOUR AREA GOVERNMENT
FIRST MEETING THURS., FEB. 16 7 p.m. KNOWLTON BASEMENT
Subsequent Meetings on Sunday Nites

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
5-2 a.m.
Corner of Main & Triangle St.
9 Minute Pick-Up Service

DELANO'S
57 North Pleasant Street
Fine Food and Spirits
What's A Sunday Brunch?
ask Delano's
Sunday 19th
Across from the fire station.
253-5141

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

TACO VILLA
THE NEW ALTERNATIVE...
With the help of our customer's opinions, much research and perserverance, we have developed and are proud to introduce our
NEW, AUTHENTIC & DIVERSE
MEXICAN MENU
with now includes:
• FULL DINNERS •
• ENCHILADAS • TOSTADAS • GUACAMOLE •
REFRITOS • SPANISH RICE • QUESADILLAS
and more!
NOW OPEN SUNDAYS 12-8
Mon.-Thurs. 11-9, Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.
21 Center St., Northampton
(just off Main Street next to the Police Station)
584-0673 * Take Out or Dine In * BYOB

Child care in the Five-College area

by PATRICIA KEEFE

Working or attending school can be difficult, even for those of us on our own. For some, the addition of childcare needs to the schedule can be very restrictive. For parents taking advantage of the many infant and childcare services in the 5-College area, it doesn't have to be. Tuition assistance, co-op and 1/2 day arrangements help to make these services more accessible for low-income and student families.

The UMass Child Care Co-ordinating Office is located at 221 Berkshire house. According to University Directions '78, it operates a system of daycare centers open to children of UMass students, faculty, staff and members of the 5-College Community. These programs are co-ordinated by the University Community Developement Center and UMass Child Care System Co-ordinator Mark Segar. The Child Care Office serves as an information referral center as well as maintaining a library of childcare literature, resource information and pamphelets. Books may be borrowed at any time. The office also maintains a list of babysitters and family day-care centers. The list is sent out to all university staff and departments, as well the Continuing Education program. As explained by Segar, the office "tries to match services to the needs of each particular family." Babysitter screening is left up to the parents.

The office runs a workshop of basic First Aid and Child Development as a service for sitters. There is also a toy-lending library open to community and family daycare centers located in North Village Apts. This service is conveniently open several evenings a week.

Although the idea of daycare is not new in itself, the actual existence and funding of daycare can be considered so. According to Segar, "in the past there was always support for services for dorm residents. Only recently has a rise in support for offcampus students, in particular those with children, been seen." He adds that "child care is still pretty much undervalued in our society. It is assumed that women will care for children for free. It is this attitude that leaves taking care of children the only thing society hasn't placed a dollar sign in front of. People just don't realize how expensive in both time and money it is to provide quality childcare."

Segar believes that contrary to the hopes of childcare chains, (i.e. Living and Learning Schools), it is impossible to make a profit out of childcare. Attitudes are slowly changing. More and more families find themselves in need of second incomes. The number of single parent families is increasing. "It is single women as parents who really need low-cost childcare the most. The university-sponsored childcare centers offer the lowest fees in the state," stated Segar. In this respect, he feels that the university has recognized the non-profit aspect of childcare.

Family daycare and group care centers are run in peoples homes. Facilitators are licensed by the state to assure they have passed health and safety regulations. They are not given educational training as such, although the UMass Child Care Office does run occasional workshops on the basics of child developement. The office also puts facilitators in touch with state agencies.

The Hampshire Community Action Day Care Centers run a system of licensed Federal Daycare Centers (FDC) where health and safety regulations are stressed. To become licensed is a relatively simpleprocess. Most forms can be filled out by the facilitators. A toy lending library is available for those FDC's that don't have the funds to spend on a variety of play equipment for their charges. Most FDC's limit the number of children accepted. Segar maintains that there is nowhere near enough support for these centers which are filled to90%capacity as a national average.

The UMass Child Care system recieves funding from the undergraduate and graduate student senates as well as from the commuter collective. So far this year they have received well over $17,000 in suport from these organizations. One of the major uses of this support is in the form of tuition assistance for student families.

Other forms of aid come from Title XX of the Social Security Act. Title XX subsidizes the cost of daycare for low income families, participants of AFDC and those in training programs to become self-sufficient. "There are several ways to become eligible for this aid," says Segar, "and most student families are eligible."

Presently there are 25 slots reserved for non-tuition children within the university day care system. Sometimes the number of available slots is extended by dividing some slots for 1/2 day participants.

Last year the state tried to tighten the eligibility requirements for Title XX so as to exclude most student families from receiving aid. The centers, by working together, organized demonstrations and sent some representatives to Boston to talk with the Commissionor of the Welfare Dept. and were successful in their attempts to prevent the change.

As with college tuition, daycare center tuitions only cover about one third the cost of the actual program. A system which helps both centers and families needing financial assistance is co-ops. Many parents put in time at several positions in their child's daycare center. This not only cuts costs, but helps to assure some degree of parental control over the education and care of their pre-schoolers.

For those families with special-needs children, there are several alternatives. The Western Massachusetts Association For Children With Learning Disabilities, Inc. provides education and information regarding special problems of children with learning disabilities. The Amherst Community Clinical Nursery School, office is located in Skinner Hall, UMass, and the nursery school is open to Hampshire County children aged 3-7 with mental or physical handicaps. Home teaching is available to handicapped children 3 years of age and younger. There are no waiting lists or fees. Included are referral services to other special programs for retarded and handicapped children.

Other special programs are the Hampshire Educational Collaborative (HEC) located at 127 Russell Street, Hadley and the Green Trustee House on Hopkins Academy Campus. General requirements maintain that the person be a resident of Hampshire County and be determined to need the particular service as determined by HEC and the public school system. The HEC's preschool program deals with children with special needs and operates a diagnostic and evluative center for pre-schoolers where short term and long term programming may be necessary. Also provided is intensive parent counseling and training as well as home and nursery school tutoring.

Photo by Howard Barnstone

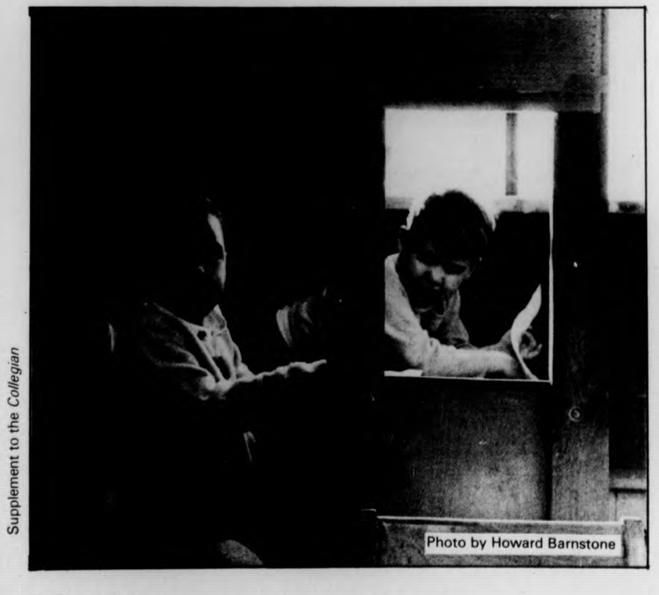

Photo by Howard Barnstone

The Learning Developement Center is located at 305 Shattuck Hall, Mt. Holyoke College. Diagnosis and evaluation of learning disabilities, school year tutorials and consulting are some services offered. The center maintains a learning disabilities library open to the public.

Special programs mentioned by Mark Segar include the new Fort River Preschool which combines special-needs children with "normal" children in the classroom. Segar says that "the objective of most programs is to the greatest degree to integrate their classes."

For those parents concerned with racist and sexist learning materials and educational environments, Segar states that "all university sponsored daycare centers work hard to provide non-racist/sexist and multicultural curriculumn. Some efforts in this area are included in the Universities' affirmative action program. Right now efforts are being made to hire more male staff so that children may experience men in nurturing, caring roles that they don't get in many places in society." At the office library are materials dealing in these areas as well as a pamphelet entitled "10 Quick Ways To Analyze Children's Books For Racism and Sexism."

"Most parents prefer daycare centers either in their neighborhoods or near their place of work," according to Segar. Four of the University sponsored centers are either in or near the University owned family complexes. There are three such centers in North Village Apts. alone, another located near the Newman Center and one near Southwest. For those families that commute either to work or the University, it may make more sense to use neighborhood centers as the university centers are usually full.

The University sponsored daycare centers include the University Day School directed by Margaret Kline and located at Bowditch Lodge, UMass. The school accepts children ages 2-6 years, and is open 8 a.m.-5 p.m. The fees are $175/semester half-day and $350/semester full day. This is the largest center on campus and serves as a teacher training site for the School of Education.

The University Day School is staffed by student teams guided by staff and graduate students in the morning and by a head teacher and assistant teacher in the afternoons. A teacher's aid and many workstudy students complete the staff. Workshops are held for staff and outside resources are consulted.

The day school classroom style is that of an open classroom where emphasis is on preparation of materials and organization of space as opposed to extensive teacher presentation and time organiziations. The school tries to organize their program around the needs of each child as much as possible. They feel that schools inevitably effect the total developement of children-physical, social, emotional and aesthetic as well as intellectual and try to meet all those needs.

The Grassroots Cooperative School, directed by Sandi Mroz, is located at 434 N. Pleasant St. (First Baptist Church). Children aged 2½ - 5 years are accepted. Hours are 8:30 am - 12:30pm and fees are $135(co-op)/$175(non co-op) per semester. The capacity is 24.

The intent of this organization is to provide a quality pre-school program with maximum involvement. Parental control is maintained through working directly in the classroom, establishing school policys, serving as officers and advisory board members and the hiring of professional staff

Educational objectives for children include physical activities, the basic skills for future learning experiences, encouragement of personal expression and the desire for knowledge, and the developement of feelings of selfworth.

The North Village Children's Center (549-6958), directed by Mary Jane MacDonald is situated in J 16 North Village Apts. The center accepts children aged 21/2-5 years. Their hours are 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. and fees are set for the following sessions: A.M. (8:30-12:30) - $165, P.M. (1:30-5:00) - $150, Full day (8:30-5:00) -$340, Extra hours (8:00-8:30)-$20, (5:00-5:30)-$20.

Capacity is 14 with the high teacher-child ratio of 1-4. Curriculum is basically a "hands on" experiential approach to learning. The children are encouraged to explore-touch-ask-take apart-and do as much as possible on their own. Major emphasis is on emotional and social developement, with the premise that this foundation helps build a strong sense of self and an awareness of others. Their semester follows the UMass academic calendar.

For younger children, there is the Infant Care Experiential Center (ICEC) directed by Terry Harris and located in 15 North Village Apts. Children aged 3 months-2 1/2 years are accepted, hours are 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. Fees are as follows: 1/2 day/full semester coop $180/$305/semester, 1/2 day/full day non-coop $205/$355/semester and capacity is 14.

ICEC employs a professional staff of infant caregivers along with student aides. Parents participate in many aspects of the program. The two main objectives of the program are to maintain a healthy atmosphere in which the children can develope a sense of self, both individually and as members of a social group. The second objective is to meet the educational needs of each child, the children are exposed to colors, shapes, the alphabet, numbers, parts of the body, animals and songs.

The New World Day School (NWDS) directed by Marshena Gist is found in J13 and J14 North Village Apts. NWDS accepts children aged 2.9-7 years, hours are 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Fees are listed as follows: 1/2 day/full-day coop $125/$250/semester, 1/2 day/full-day non-coop $175/$350/semester, (extra charge before 8:30 and after 4:30).

NWDS is liscenced by the Mass. Office for Children. They offer a multi-cultural preschool program, which includes elementary Spanish instruction. Objectives of the school include significant contributions made by African, Asian, Hispanic and Native American Cultures. The educational program provides maturational developement of the children and insures the physical, emotional, and social well-being of the children. New World is a parent-cooperative which is administered and maintained by all parents for the purpose of minimizing tuition cost for child care that is needed.

Further information may be obtained from the Child Care Office in a handout entitled "Child Care at the University" or by contacting the center directors for more details. Other child care facilities are as follows:

Infant/Toddler Playgroup Program
Skinner Hall, U.Mass., 545-2403
("never any openings as demand exceeds service")
Human Development Lab School
Skinner Hall, UMass, 545-2403
After School Daycare
Mark's Meadow School, 549-1507
Amherst Community Clinical Nursery School
Skinner Hall, UMass, 545-0715
Amherst Day School [Little Red Schoolhouse]
Amherst College Campus, 253-5259
Amherst Montessori School
740 Main Street, 253-5916
Amherst Nursery School and Kindergarten
Corner of Pine and Henry Sts., 549-1126
Hampshire-Franklin County Day Care
Mt. Toby Friends Meeting House
Long Plain Rd. Leverett, 549-0588
Child Study Nursery School
Amherst Regional High School, 549-3710
The Common School
521 So. Pleasant St., 253-7913
First Congregational Church Pre-school
Main St., 253-7586 or 549-6360
Living and Learning School
611 Belchertown Rd., 253-2517
Unitarian Pre-school
121 N. Pleasant St., 253-2848
Wonderhaven
433 S. Pleasant St., 256-8156
Amherst Well-Baby Clinic
(Free public service, mostly preventitive medicine, call townhall for schedule of appts. and more information)
Belchertown Community Nursery School Inc.
Main St., Belchertown, 323-4467
Belchertown Educational Day Care Center
51 Main St., Belchertown, 323-5107
Cloverdale Parant Co-operative Nursery School
Telephone for information, 586-2224 or 584-1672
College Church Pre-School Kindergarten
58 Pomeroy Terrace, Northampton, 586-4446 or 586-0057
Family Day Care
80 Main St., Northampton, 586-1399
Hampshire County Action Day Care Centers and Pre-School Programs
80 Main St., Northampton, 584-4434 or 586-1399
Head Start - Hampshire
80 Main St. Northampton, 584-4434 or 586-1399
Munroe Child Development Center
40 Munroe St., Northampton, 584-7828
Smith Child Care Center
Elm St., Northampton, 584-6020
Smith College Campus School
Gill Hall, Prospect St., Northampton, 584-2700 ext. 266
Smith Vocational Laboratory Pre-School
80 Locust St. Northampton, 584-6182
Group Day Care
90 Elm St. Easthampton, 584-4434 or 584-1399
Tiny Tot Nursery School
337 Elm St., Northampton, 584-2228

Additional Contacts and Resources as Follows:

Amherst Chamber of Commerce
11 Spring St. 253-9666
Amherst Public Schools
Superintendant's Office
Chestnut St. 549-3690
Direct Information Service - Jones Library
43 Amity St. 256-0121
Job Placement Office [list of baby sitters]
239 Whitmore Adm. Building, UMass, 545-1951
The PLay Library
North Village Apts., Laundry Building, 545-1960
The Adolescent Day Treatment Program
11 Cahpel St., Northampton Administered by: Comprehensive Children's Center, 72 Pomeroy Terrace, Northampton, 584-1644 ext. 200, 240

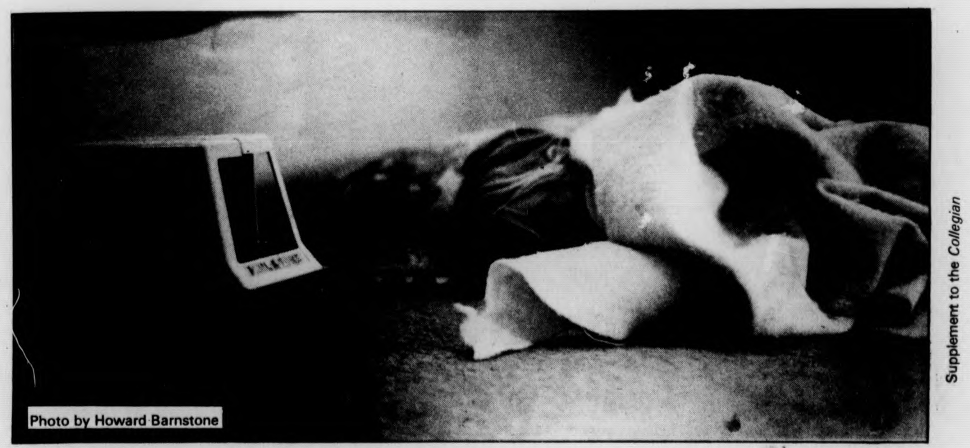

Photo by Howard Barnstone

★ Dramatizing dance

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

ing, and child leaving home, but some of the movements and gestures don't seem consistent with this interpretation. Why, for example, if the Young Woman represents the Woman in her youth, are the Woman and Child also on stage, and why does the Man at first resist the captivating, youthful freshness of the Young Woman's joyous leaps, uplifted face and swooning arms as he digs into the ea. with his plow, and once he succombs, why does it seem that she refects him? I got the sense that this was an affair more than a courtship.

The dance between the Man, the Woman, and the Child is brimming with love and affection. The Man tosses the Child in the air, he and the Woman dance together in strong unison, quiet moments of watching their Child play, or playing with them a kind of tag (she chasing after them as they dance-run backward on a diagonal), embracing together -- it all pulls at your heartstrings in a non-sickening way.

When the child leaves (or dies) the Woman is grief-stricken. She strains after her, her limbs tense, her leaps and turns desperate, the wringing of her hands extending to and encompassing her entire body. Pathetically, she fondles the blanket that had covered her child. After doing a solo that expressed his own grief, the man falteringly begins to plow once again. The dance ends with the Child running on, whispering something to her father, then sitting atop a box as the Man, the Woman, and the Young Woman lie down below her and cover themselves with the blanket.

At its worst, this dance could be gooey, affected, melodramatic, but at its best, as I believe I saw that night, it is deeply moving work. The dancers, Jim May (Man), Hannah Kahn (Woman), Teri Weksler (Young Woman), and little Jessica May (Jim May's daughter as the Child) are to be commended for their sensitive, human portrayals.

"Icarus," choreographed by Lucas Hoving to a gently unfolding, unobtrusive percussion score by Tshin-ichi Matsushita, is based on the Greek myth about the youth Icarus, whose father Daedalus (Pierre Barreau) fashioned a pair of artificial wings for him to escape Crete. He flies too colse to the sun, the wax melts, and he plunges to his death.

Striking aspects of this dance were Peter Healey's characterization of Icarus as an innocent, wide-eyed adventurous youth through quick, yearning, back-and-forth movements, the simple white leotard he wears bare-legged enhancing this image; the Sun (Randall Faxon)'s golden beauty, her arms and legs periodically sending out shivers of radiance, her ominous turning in place as she reaches high noon and melts Icarus' wings: Icarus' plunge to the ground, remarkably suggested by a sequence of tumbling movements on the floor with the legs half higher than the head; and the horror of the final pose, where with arms outstretched, neck twisted to one side, mouth and eyes open, he lies on his upper chest, his upswept legs crossed at the ankle and supported by his father who stands behind him. Daedelus' dead bird-son.

The tragedy was intensified by the slow-motion, inevitable quality of the music and the movement. The only disappointments were the undeveloped character of Daedelus and Icarus' failing to fully express the sensation of flight.

Daniel Lewis' "And First They Slaughtered the Angels" is a humorous-scathing satire of male machismo, with a strong shot of sadism to boot. "Angels" in frilly white dresses dragged on struggling by studded blue-denim thugs, who copulate with them and throw them off, a high society man dancing the tango then pushing his partner's head to the floor, women wrapped around men's waists, their feet dragging -- all with ecstatic, "do-it-again, harder" expressions on their faces. Great material for the CAAVAW (Committee for Action Against Violence Against Women).

Contemporary Dance System presents and presents well the very human side of dance. I would highly recommend seeing them.

HYPNOSIS &
SELF HYPNOSIS
Introductory Class.
See Classifieds
Under Instruction

安城中國飯店
AMHERST
CHINESE FOOD
62 Main St., Amherst Tel. 253-7835
"Good Dining Award from American Diner's Society"
Eat in or take out
Lunch Specials
1.09 and up
Fresh Chinese vegetables from our own farm!
UMASS BUS STOP
Closed Wednesdays

WINTER FESTIVAL
EVENT
Mon., Feb. 20
12:30 p.m.
Fashion Show
Beardsley's Buffet Luncheon
Door Prizes
Demonstrations:
Weaving
Cooking
Stained-Glass
Music
Mime
Dance Gallery
main street center
Main Street Center • 150 Main Street • Northampton

Advertisement

Cabaret Secret 'Leaked'

AMHERST—Sources close to the Chequers' kitchen report an unusually high level of interest in Chicken Cabaret, an elusive melange of flavors and textures dreamed up by The Chequers' chefs, and, one of the best kept secrets on the Pioneer Valley. Rumors have been circulating for weeks speculating on the ingredients that produce its myriad flavor bursts and texture surprises, but the stories of culinary legerdemain and kitchen witchery have proved to be the stuff that dreams are made of—not Chicken Cabaret.

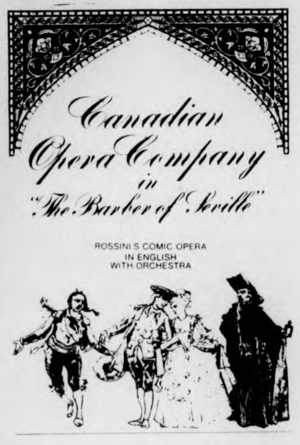
As usual, the truth lies in first class ingredients, lovingly prepared and lovingly served.

In the continuing interest of converting those who would never order chicken in a restaurant, Chicken Cabaret has been added to The Chequers' menu as the fourth Chicken entree along with Cordon Bleu, Cacciatore and Marsala, and it as been an instant success! The dish is made with a peeled, poached, boneless chicken breast, stuffed with Canadian Bacon, laid over cheese-and-butter-seasoned toast points and smothered with with Supreme Sauce, wine and mushrooms.

Chicken Cabaret is now one of the worst kept secrets in the Pioneer Valley but it is still exclusively at The Chequers, Univesity Drive, Amherst.

Advertisement

SHOWCASE CINEMAS 12345678
ROUTE 5, RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD TEL. 733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEES $2.00 TIL 2:30 P.M. WE HONOR MASTER CHARGE
A Gift Certificate For Valentine's Day Is A Great Way To Say You Care.
The story of two women whose friendship suddenly became a matter of life and death.
JULIA
PG
The Year's Best Movie
Bob Thomas A.P.
STAR WARS
Passes not accepted for this engagement
PG DAILY 2:10 7:15-9:35
The Fever is Spreading
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
...Catch it
R DAILY 2:00 7:15-9:40
"SEMI-TOUGH"
R United Artists
DAILY 2:00 7:45-9:55
LAST DAY
MEL BROOKS in HIGH ANXIETY
A Psycho-Comedy
GOLDEN GLOBE AWARD WINNER
Best Picture (Comedy)
Best Actor (Comedy) Richard Dreyfuss
Best Actress (Comedy) Marsha Mason
Best Screenplay (Comedy) Neil Simon
Neil Simon's the goodbye girl
PG DAILY 2:15 7:15-9:30
GOLDEN GLOBE AWARD WINNER
Best Picture (Drama)
ANNE BANCROFT SHIRLEY MacLAINE
The Turning Point
DAILY 2:10 7:20-9:45
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
A TRUE LOVE STORY..
For everyone who believes in happy endings
DAILY 2:00 8:00-10:00
The continuing true story of Jill Kinmont, a woman with enough courage for ten lifetimes and a man with enough love to carry them both.
THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN PART 2
MARILYN HASSETT TIMOTHY BOTTOMS



Canadian Opera Company
in
"The Barber of Seville"
ROSSINI'S COMIC OPERA
IN ENGLISH
WITH ORCHESTRA
Thursday, February 16
8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
Tickets on sale February 2. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students — $4, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

Reefer Madness
and the 3 STOOGES
PLACE: MAHAR AUD.
FEB 16 THURS
TIMES: 6:30; 8:15
9:50; 11:30
PRESENTED BY - BRETT DORM
$1.00 ADM.

---

Satire makes 'Semi-Tough' substantial

Semi-Tough
Cast: Jill Clayburgh,
Bert Convey, Kris Kristofferson,
Burt Reynolds
A Film by Michael Ritchie

Reviewed by SKIP TENCZAR

Michael Ritchie, the maker of such films as "The Bad News Bears" and "The Candidate," has introduced yet another film of similar style, content and quality into American theaters. The motion picture is called "Semi-Tough," and still it probably won't earn him a reputation of being America's best contemporary film satirist, a title which I have no hesitation about giving to him. "Semi-Tough" is a hilarious film that not only stands on its comedy, but on its many meaningful statements contained within. I know that this opinion may be snickered at by many of you who have only been exposed to the overly sensational, sexist promotional campaign waged by United Artists, but let me assure you that when the lights come up at the film's finish the ideas left in your head will not be those left by its advertising.

film

"Semi-Tough" is not just a film about football, but it also is a satirical look at its lifestyle, locker rooms, organizational-team structure, and jet-set mentality, which are all woven together by way of a typical love story. Jill Clayburgh plays Barbara Jean who is the daughter of the Miami team owner Big Ed. She lives in a rather non-traditional living situation with two of the team players: Shake (Kris Kristofferson) and Billy Clyde (Burt Reynolds). The movie unfolds the amusing, but at the same time, sticky predicament of these two players who both love the same woman (Barbara Jean). As this is happening, with the Miami team on the championship trail, Ritchie is comically exposing the hollow, non-directional, meaningless lifestyle that is so prevalent in our society today.

At the movie's end, I can only say that I was amazed by Reynolds' performance, and it has to be the best I've ever seen him do. Also you will be pleased to hear that Bert Convey displays his acting talents quite satisfactorily, playing the part of a jet-set guru who's making millions off of teaching wealthy wanderers how to find "it" (although no one ever knows what "it" is). The film does have a couple of drawbacks, though. First, many of the scenes which were meant to expose racism in the locker room were left so that they could be laughed at by racists. Also this unveiling of racist practices in professional football was not given enough attention so that people could understand its prevalence in our land's most popular sport. The second drawback was Kris Kristofferson, who once again displayed that he just can't act. But anyway see the movie, to give it another label, it's like a Louis Bunuel satire, except it's American and commercial. Just one more thing, if you go see "Semi-Tough" pay very close attention to the field goal kicker on the Miami team. Ritchie makes a subtle political statement through this bit part that is almost unheard of in Hollywood films.

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
"Oh, God!"
A CARL REINER FILM
GEORGE BURNS
JOHN DENVER
PG
Eves.: 7:00 & 9:00
Sat. & Sun. Mat.: 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

CURA CAO From $299.
GUADELOUPE From $299.
*SANTO DOMINGO From $269.
JAMAICA From $249.
*COSTA RICA From $299.
*EL SALVADOR From $299.
NASSAU From $329.

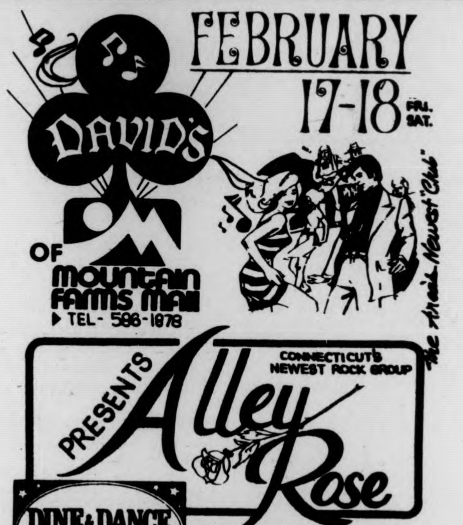
All Trips Include
- Roundtrip air transportation
- Roundtrip transportation between airport and hotel
- Seven nights hotel accommodations
- Baggage handling
- All taxes and gratuities
- And much more

*FULL BUFFET BREAKFAST DAILY

Campus Travel Center

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9–HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 – SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW–TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS
1 IT'S GOT HEAT SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER JOHN TRAVOLTA
R MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:15
2 CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45-7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00
3 STARTS FRIDAY WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' PETE'S DRAGON
G FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00
4 "SEMI-TOUGH" KRIS KRISTOFFERSON BURT REYNOLDS
ENDS TUESDAY
R MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

"The Place that made Amherst Famous"
OLE
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
SANDWICHES & SNACKS
"THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN"
85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548



FEBRUARY
17-18 FRI. SAT.
DAVID'S
OF MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
TEL- 586-1878
The Area's Newest "Club"
PRESENTS
CONNECTICUT'S NEWEST ROCK GROUP
Alley Rose
DINE & DANCE 9 PM-1 AM
FREE! 1-DRAFT BEER WITH COLLEGE ID.
Now appearing every Wed. & Thurs.
Direct from the Hilton.
Sandy Robinson
The fabulous, beautiful vocalist & pianist.

Blue Wall Bar
WED.-SAT.
The Fools
Feb. 15-18

★ A fairy tale for a valentine

CONT. FROM PAGE 5

States. I'm keeping myself for her." Of course, no one believed those stories except himself.

Oh, it wasn't that he didn't like any of the girls at the school. In fact there were two that he was in love with. Debby and Candice. Great women, really down to earth. They both told Carl how much they dug him. Funny thing, though. Debby was going out with Ted, and Candice was going out with Steve. But they were so glad that Carl was around to talk to when they had a problem. Carl went to visit Sarah once when he came back to the States; she told him all about the wonderful guy she was going out with. Candice moved to California. Debby was here at the University with him. She was still a "good friend." Heaven forbid he should display the slightest show of affection toward her.

So that was high school. High school was two years ago. Carl thought back to his first semester last year. "Plenty of women here, I'll surely fall in love." And he had. She had too, but with someone else again. Lauren said she understood how Carl felt. Understood, what could she possibly understand? That he was in love with her? She thought he was being Platonic. Hell. Carl wanted to forget her, but he couldn't, and since she was spending this semester on an outreach program away from campus she remained even more magical and bewitching to him. Well, maybe she would send him a Valentine's Day card at least. The bell rang, Carl gathered his books, and walked into the crisp February air.

"12:05, time for lunch, back to the room to check the mail and then off to my 1:25; no time to look for love right now," Carl said to himself, as he headed in the direction of Southwest. Lunch was a bowl of soup and a tunafish sandwich. Carl stood over the condiment tray spooning some onions onto his tunafish. He looked at the bowl of peanut butter and wondered if he should have some peanut butter, too. He had heard once that peanuts make you horny.Carl set his tray down on a vacant table by the window. Someone had left a Collegian on the chair. He glanced through it quickly till he spotted the page where the Valentine's greetings were printed. Maybe someone had put one in for him. He should be so lucky. To my sweet Baboo -- Love Barbara. Cindy loves Ricky. Mike, I'm ready and waiting, love Suzy. Jeff, saw you at the movie, won't you please be mine, love Peter." "Shit," thought Carl, "even guys write Valentines to each other these days and I can't even say hello to a girl." He wolfed down his sandwich and hurried back to hs room. Maybe there would be mail for him. Carl opened his mailbox. There were four letters. The first was the phone bill. "Your current balance is $28.69 and is five days overdue. Happy Valentine's Day, Ma Bell." The next envelope was in his mother's writing. He opened the card. "To our son on Valentine's Day, may Cupid touch your heart. Love Mom and Dad." The next card was from his grandmother. "Terrific," Carl said to himself, "most folks get Valentine's Day cards from their lovers; I get them from the phone company, my parents and my grandmother." He pulled the fourth letter from the mailbox. It was from Lauren. She had answered his letter after all. He knew she wasn't sending him her love and kisses, but maybe she would have some good advice at least. He opened the letter.

Dear Carl,

Happy Valentine's Day. Glad you like school this semester. Changing your major wa the best thing you ever did. What was that business you wrote me in your last letter? What is a sexual introvert anyway? I want to set the record straight with you. Here is some advice and you better listen good.

Trying to find the perfect relationship won't work. It hasn't ever worked for me. It will happen. I know it will. You are a fine, bright sensitive, feminist man! You will find your woman. I love you, Carl, and know that everything will work out. See you soon.

Love, Lauren

P.S. Marc and I have decided to live together for the semester. Will write more about this later."

"Oh Lauren, you're a sweet one alright. What's this rhetoric about being a feminist man, may I ask? By the way, did you have to end the letter with a PS telling me you're living with Marc for the semester? Do you really think I want to know, you bitch!" She really was a fucking bitch Carl thought as he fought back a few tears and shoved the mail into his pocket.

He grabbed his books for his 1:25 class and threw them in his pack. 1:15, his watch said. He ran out of his room to catch the Campus Shuttle over to Engineering East. "Hey Cupid, you listening?" Carl said aloud. "if you have any feelings take pity on this poor lost virgin will ya?"

Carl walked into his video class and sat down near the window. It was a small class and he enjoyed it very much because the people in it were nice, and there had been this girl Susan he had been watching since the semester started. She had been absent from class last Thursday and Carl wondered if perhaps she had gotten the flu, it was going around. He was the only one sitting in the classroom, but that wasn't unusual, everyone always came late to video.

Carl thought he heard someone come in the room. He turned away from the window and looked toward the door. It was Susan. In her hand she had a red rose. "Happy Valentine's Day, Carl!" She kissed him on the forehead. He blushed. Maybe she'd just end up being another "friend" but for the moment she was his girl.

UMASS SKI CLUB
MEMBERSHIP DRIVE
Wed., Thurs., Fri.
Feb. 15, 16, 17
9:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE

Come learn a foreign language from us.

Choose from seven foreign languages offered this Spring through the Credit-Free Workshop Program of the Division of Continuing Education. These are just some of the many workshops offered!

For registration information and a catalog, please call us at (413) 545-3653, write, or stop by Room 113 Hasbrouck Building, UMass/Amherst.

Remember, we accept American Express, VISA, and Mastercharge.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS/AMHERST

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS

Elvis Costello

Willie Alexander and the Boom Boom Band

March 1st, 8 p.m., Student Union Ballroom, $3.50

Holly Near
March 5th,
8 p.m.,
Fine Arts Center,
$2.50

Tickets for both shows available at: TIX, Sun Music, Faces of Earth, Platterpus Records, Main Street Records

UPCOMING CONCERTS
Geils - March 15th, F.A.C.
Dexter Gordon - April 1st, S.U.B.
David Bromberg/
Maria Muldaur - April 9th, F.A.C.

ENTIRE INVENTORY CLASSICAL STEREO ALBUMS ON SALE!

Every Famous Label
ON SALE Including...
RCA Red Seal
Melodiya
D99 Philips
London Angel

$4.79 Series 798
$5.49 Series 898

All other series at comparable savings

TRANS-ELECTRONIC MUSIC PRODUCTIONS, INC.
SWITCHED-ON BACH
VIRTUOSO ELECTRONIC PERFORMANCES OF BACH FAVORITES
WALTER CARLOS PERFORMING ON THE MOOG SYNTHESIZER OFFENBACH
PERICHOLE
Porgy and Bess
RCA
Faust
Lazar Berman
Claudio Abbado
Rachmaninoff:
Piano Concerto No. 3
London Symphony Orchestra
GREATEST HITS OF 1720
PACHELBEL
JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL, Flutist
SUITE FOR FLUTE AND JAZZ PIANO
CLAUDE BOLLING
ALEXANDRE LAGOYA
Concerto for Classic Guitar and Jazz Piano
Dvorak:
Quintet In A, Op. 81
Rudolf Firkusny
Juilliard Quartet

Also see our huge selection of Odessy, London
Stereo Treasury
Seraphim
RCA Victrola
$2.99 each lp

CLASSICAL STEREO ALBUMS
Titles Pictured Various Series

RECORD TOWN
Records & Tapes at Super Discount Prices. mountain farms mall
Rte. 9, Hadley, Mass.
Sale Good Thru Saturday, Feb. 18

Albums for the insatiable

The David Bromberg Band
Reckless Abandon Fantasy

Reviewed by JOHN BERGMAN

Insatiable. That's the appetite which David Bromberg's fan's have for this bluegrass-jazz-swing-blues picker.

Bromberg has a unique style. His (now six) albums make listeners chuckle and boogie, as Bromberg sings funny lyrics and plays guitar, banjo, fiddle, mandolin—you name it. He is, in some circles, an uncanny musician.

Bromberg has devised a most apt name for his latest album, Reckless Abandon, and it captures the ex-Bob Dylan (Bromeerg plays dobro on Dylan's New Morning LP) and other people's sideman's, loosely flip but sincerely dignified style.

On Reckless Abandon, Bromberg's band displays stunning versatility on tunes ranging from bluegrass to jazzy songs to two classics. While the disc hits some great peaks, it lacks the very steady tightness which marks three of his other records.

John Firmin's cheery clarinet and Dick Fegy's mandolin playing make "Mrs. Delion's Lament ("It's about Stagger Lee")" stand out, and "Stealin' " has fine Bromberg dobro, but it's the rapid medleys, "Battle of Bull Run" and "Sally Goodin' where Fegy, playing mandolin and banjo, sound like he's played with Bromberg for several years on record instead of just over two.

"What A Town", however, is mediocre, and "Child's Song" is boring when compared with other soft Bromberg-sung ballads like "Don't Put Dat Thing On Me (featuring Dr. John of piano)."

"Beware Brother, Beware" is witty but all around, Reckless Abandon isn't as extremely consistent as four of his other LP's which can now be had for cutout ($2.00) prices.

Roberta Flack
Blue Lights In The Basement
Atlantic

Reviewed by MARIO BARROS

I guess the best way to describe Roberta's music is to liken it to a fine wine. Like wine, one doesn't imbibe it in gulps, one sips it so as to savor the not-too-dry-but-not-too-sweet taste. wthe introductions of her pieces are like the bouquet, never overpowering but never understated. The song never lacks body, but it doesn't invade you. Like fine wine dances upon the palate, her lyrics dance across your mind and when it's all over, there's no bad aftertaste.

The analogy goes further in that both can be enjoyed with a candlelight dinner and both are equally at home with romance's tender moments. Also, both can be taken along when invited for that special dinner date. Remember, with fish and poultry, it's red wine; with meat, it's white wine; with romance it's Blue Lights In The Basement.

Andrew Gold
All This And Heaven Too
Elektra/Asylum

Reviewed by ALICIA CUNEO

The title, All This And Heaven Too, is a very appropriate one for Andrew Gold's latest effort. The main theme of the album is one of a love that is lost, or on its way to being lost. All the songs on the album except "Thank You For Being A Friend" say that people may have everything on earth that makes a human happy and appear to be living in a heaven; however, with "all this" heartache of a lost love how can one have a real "heaven?" The song, "Thank You For Being A Friend", is exactly what the title states, a song about the person being a good friend to another. The effect of the album is a sad one, but Andrew Gold's mastery of the keyboards and his exceptional vocal ability give a light, airy, and at times peppy sensation to create a cheerful feeling which counteracts the lost love ache of an individual. All This And Heaven Too is a very mellow and extremely easy to listen to album. The title of the album expertly and precisely depicts the items contained in Andrew Gold's latest and best album to date.

Ailey Co. dazzles-like stars

Alvin Ailey American
Dance Theater
Fine Arts Center
February 9

Reviewed by CHERYL SHAIN

A dazzling display of beauty and skill was what I encountered in viewing the Thursday matinee of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Company. Alvin Ailey brought to the stage his creative talents, both as choreographer and as artistic director. Having studied with the Lester Horton Theater, (Horton was considered a pioneering choreographer devoted to the development of Black dancers), Mr. Ailey explored modern dance and ballet techniques, which helped him develop a style of dancing displaying a historical background of cohesiveness with Black musical giants as well.

"Stream," the opening number, was a bubbly, bouncing, clear-flowing, and forceful display of movement, introducing the multi-ethnic composition of the dance company and streaming indiscriminately between the objects it comes into contact with, only carrying them along with it or pushing them to one side, ever moving with the steady forcefulness of time. So beautiful a scene that Mr. Ailey weaves every move with space and time to show the life-line of a gliding, sweeping "Stream."

A powerful solo performance, "Journey," showed a unique and impressive display of the multi-ethnic background and skill. "Journey," danced by a young Asian woman, clad in white, moved with strength and determination to a "Journey's" end.

I viewed the production with awe and excitement, being extremely impressed with the multi-racial composition of the company. In a day and age like our present state in history, it is important to break the chains of segregation and struggle for full integration. The dance movement in this country for Black and Latino dancers has been and still is a constant struggle for equal access. Mr. Ailey's direction is a conscious effort to eliminate segregative attitudes and this is reflected in the company's style of music and choreography. The beauty and form of the Black male was outstanding, but missing from the company was the beauty of the dark-skinned women. Hopefully, by the next time the Alvin Ailey Dance Company comes our way, we will be consecrated by the presence of a dark-skinned female beauty.

Ending the performance was a brilliant rendition of "Night Creatures," the music by, who else, but the late great Duke Ellington. Done in three movements with the livliness of the "swing" era, "Night Creatures" glittered with the fiery and profound moves of the Harlem nightlife of the thirties. As the "Duke" put it: "Night creatures unlike stars, do not come out at night -- they come on, each thinking that before the night is out, he or she will be the star."

PIZZA - RAMA
355 College St., Amherst
We specialize in
Pizza — Grinders
Spaghetti

FREE DELIVERY call 253-3808
OPEN 7 DAYS: MON-THURS, 11am-1am; FRI-SAT, 11am-2am; SUN, 11am-1am

Bluewall Bar
Happy Hour
2 for 1 Powerhouses
From 3-6
appearing
E.B. MOSS

"Bounce over to The Hideout before or after the game and enjoy the best pizzas & grinders anywhere."

WE DELIVER
ALSO AT LUNCH TIME!!!
256-0441
The Hideout
103 North Pleasant St. • Amherst

Calendar

film

February 16
"The Point" in the Campus Center Auditorium ~~at 7, 8~~:30, 10 and 11:30 p.m.

February 17
"Goodbye Mr. Chips" at Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7:30 p.m.

February 17, 18, 19
"Amarcord" at Merill I, Amherst College at 8 and 10 p.m.

February 18
"Fiddler on the Roof" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 7 and 10 p.m.

"The Working Class Goes to Heaven", winner of the Grand Prize at the 1972 Cannes Film Festival, directed by Elio Petri. In Sage Hall, Smith at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

February 20, 21, 22
"Hester Street" sponsored by the Hillel Foundation at McConnell Hall, Smith at 8 p.m.

February 21
"Rebel Without a Cause" at 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. and "Tea And Sympathy" at 8 p.m. Both films $1 in the Main Lecture Hall of Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

"Going My Way" in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 9 p.m.

February 22
"A Night at the Opera" starring the Marx Brothers. Admission $1 at Wright Hall, Smith, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

theater

February 16, 17, 18
"Marge" by Philip Zweig, directed by Dana Westberg. At the City Studio Theatre, 49 Pearl St., Northampton. At 8 p.m. Admission $2. 584-3994.

February 17, 18
City Studio Theatre's Cabaret at 11 p.m. Showcase for performing and media arts. Cover charge $2.

February 23
Poetry reading. "Poems of Living and Being" by Sonia Sanchez in the Campus Center Auditorium at 8 p.m.

February 25
"Ellis Island: Processing", a production of the City Studio Theatre's Young People's Theatreworks, a CETA-funded project. At 10:30 a.m.

February through March 4
"The Three Sisters" at StageWest in West Springfield. Box office 736-7092.

dance

February 21
First week of a 12-week men's movement workshop at the Unitarian Meeting house in Amherst. Registration is open to all men through personal interview with the two leaders. Call Dan Peterson at 549-6828 or Arnold Westwood at 684-3786 or the Unitarian Society 253-2848.

February 23, 24, 25
Department of Dance Spring Concert in Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith College at 8 p.m.

February 24, 25
Marcel Marceau at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall for two performances. Box office open weekdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 545-2511.

March 10
The Merce Cunningham Dance Company at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, 8 p.m. Box office opens weekdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 545-2511.

art

Febraury 17
Last day of Brendan Stecchini's "Images for the Industrial Scrapyard" in the Herter Art Gallery open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

February 19
Last day of exhibition of works of Italian artist Sandro Martini and Greek-American photographer Philop Tsiaras. At the University Gallery.

Opening of Guy Ducornet and Rikki's Drawing and Painting exhibit at Herter Gallery from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Show will run to March 4.

Through February 24
Exhibition of works by fictional artists Ray Rodrique and Fredrico Fungalini, also Martial Westburg. Student Union Gallery.

"Works of Five Painters" to be shown at the Main Street Center Gallery at 150 Main Street in Northampton. Show features paintings, drawings, and sculptures by Charles J. Miller, Shelly Shicoff, Gregory Stone, David Struthers and Richard Yarde. Monday through Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Thursdays till 9 p.m.

Through February
Mead Art Gallery of Amherst College featuring "Drawings from Outdoor Sculpture", American Genre Paintings, French and Italian Prints and Oriental Art. Open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Through March 12
Works of contemporary Japanese women artists in the Rodney L. White Print Room of the Mount Holyoke College Art Museum. Open weekdays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Artbus
Bus leaves Campus Center circle on Saturdays at 7 a.m. Bus leaves New York from in front of the Whitney Museum at 6 p.m. Information call 545-0976.

music

February 16
"The Barber of Seville" presented by the Canadian Opera Company in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Box office open weekdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 545-2511.

February 17
Dept. of Music and Dance Senior Honors Recital at Bezanson Recital Hall, Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m.

The Emerson String Quartet concert at Pratt Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 8:15 p.m.

February 19
A program of music by the Smith College faculty and guest composers in Sage Hall, Smith. at 8 p.m.

February 25
Art Garfunkel at Mount Holyoke College at 8 p.m. in Chapin Auditorium. Tickets $6.50 advance $7.50 at door available at the Mary Woolley Ticket Office. Tickets from the cancelled December 2 concert will be honored.

March 1
Elvis Costello; the Willie Alexander and the Boom Boom Band. Student Union Ballroom. Tickets available at TIX.

'Seville' opens tonight

Probably the best loved Italian comic opera, Rossini's The BARBER OF SEVILLE is "opera Buffa" at its best, turning easily from sentimentality to laughter, from drama to burlesque. The sardonic mockery, sophistication, gallantry, and intrigues of Beaumarchais' play, upon which the opera is based, find their happy equivalent in Rossini's brilliant score with its wonderful mercurial rhythms and melodies.

The Canadian Opera Company, Lofti Mansouri, General Director, will present the Barber of Seville in English at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall, Thursday February 16 at 8 p.m.

The Barber of Seville features a company of 40, including the 25 member Canadian Opera Orchestra, under the Music Director and Conductor Timothy Vernon. The production will be directed by Lofti Mansouri and designed by Maurice Strike.

Tickets for the Barber of Seville at Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Thursday February 16 are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open Monday through Friday 9-4 and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices for this presentation are: General public, $7, 6, 5. UMass students are $3.50, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens and other students are $6, 5, 4. For more information, call (413) 545-2511.

A scene from a prior production of the Canadian Opera Company's "Barber of Seville." The opera will be performed in English, tonight in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. For ticket information call the box office at 545-2511. The box office is open weekdays 9am to 4pm.

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
NOW – ends Tues.
7:00 & 9:00
"Cousin Cousine is fetchingly loony and great fun."
—Janet Maslin, Newsweek
Cousin Cousine
—only area showing!
STARRING MARIE CHRISTINE BARRAULT
at the Gates of Smith College

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring: lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

THE RESTAURANT just good food
Featuring: homemade soups, salads, & sandwiches
daily specials
bagels & pastries
256-8955
OPEN 9:30-6:00
MON.-SAT.
AT FACES OF EARTH

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
PETER SELLERS
GEORGE C. SCOTT
"DR. STRANGELOVE"
CO-STARRING
STERLING HAYDEN
KEENAN WYNN and TRACY REED
"Miss Foreign Affairs" at 7:15 and 9:05
Friday and Saturday
CAGNEY
27 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-0935

Supplement to the Collegian

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 86 FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Dukakis appoints trustees

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis today is expected to announce the appointment of two trustees and the re-appointment of another to the UMass Board of Trustees.

Simon L. Sawtelle, a plumber from Dorchester, will replace Trustee Catherine F. Clark who died last November and Sister Kathleen M. Popko of Holyoke will replace Robert D. Gordon whose term expired last month. Earline Shearer of Mattapan will be re-appointed to the board for her second consecutive term.

Dukakis said the three appointees' diverse backgrounds will strengthen the board. "They have shown leadership in issues such as the University's responsibility to its neighborhood and to the health care needs of the Commonwealth — issues which must be met if the University is to fulfill its function of educating our people and dealing with the state's social and economic needs," said Dukakis.

Sawtelle, 61, is a senior mechanical engineer of the Boston Building Dept. He attended MIT, Suffolk Law School, and Northeastern University and has been a lifelong resident of Dorchester. He helped establish the Boston branch of the University.

Sister Popko, 35, is the assistant administrator of planning at the Mercy Hospital in Springfield. She is also a member of the Worcester Medical Board and last night said she hopes to bring some of her working knowledge of Worcester to the board.

Shearer, who will be re-appointed to the board, is regional director of the state office for children. She is also corporator at the Boston Five-Cent Savings Bank.

Sawtelle will serve on the board until 1980 when his predecessor's term expires. Popko's and Shearer's terms will expire in 1985.

Gordon, who was not re-appointed by the governor, has served on the board for 14 years. A Dukakis spokesman said the governor wanted to replace Gordon with a representative from the western portion of the state. Gordon's replacement, Sister Popko, is from Holyoke.

Dukakis has appointed or re-appointed over half the members of the board during his three years in office. Two trustees resigned last year protesting changing politics of the board.

Brooke called arrogant

SPRINGFIELD [AP] — Accusing Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., of "arrogance," state Rep. Michael J. Connolly yesterday launched his campaign to unseat the state's junior senator.

"Ed Brooke has a proven record of reluctance to make the tough decisions. We cannot be satisfied to merely re-elect the plump incumbent," said Connolly, a Boston Democrat in his third term in the House. He did not say what he meant by "plump".

He criticized the two-term incumbent for "inability to decide what to do about the Panama Canal treaty" and for "his hands-in-the-air, what-can-we-do approach to the realities of nuclear power."

Connolly, 30, the minimum age to serve in the U.S. Senate, told a news conference he favors the canal treaty if provisos are added that guarantee the United States wartime rights to defend the waterway and to send military vessels through it ahead of all other shipping.

"We should have a ban on all nuclear power" until the nuclear waste disposal problem is solved, Connolly said.

Connolly, starting his campaign with four news conferences across the state, admitted he faces an uphill struggle against Brooke. He noted his campaign slogan confidently urges voters to "Be part of the upset."

Acknowledging that Brook has shown outspoken leadership in fighting to continue federal funding for Medicare abortions, Connolly disputed the Republican's motives and stance.

"Brooke's leadership on the abortion issue is timely because he's running for re-election. But even there I think he's wrong. I'm pro-life. I'm in favor of cutting off federal funds for abortions."

He attacked Brooke for having "planted his roots quite firmly in Washington. You don't have to shovel your walk when you live at the Watergate apartments, and you're probably not aware of what the folks back home are concerned about."

"It's this type of arrogance that I want to see retired."

Asked about his first hurdle — the September Democratic primary — Connolly said he was confident he could overcome an expected challenge for the nomination from state Rep. Elaine Nobel, D-Boston, an avowed homosexual.

Fifty hear miners' rep

By JILL METLITZ
Collegian Staff

A representative of the striking coal mine workers last night said to about 50 UMass students, "we've been sold out before and won't be sold out again."

The speech was sponsored by the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade.

Gina Brandt, a leading member of the Woman's Committee for Miner's Right to Strike spoke instead of the scheduled O.V. Hirsch who was forced to stay on the picket lines in Kentucky due to increased support over the last week.

The 160,000 strikers are fighting having "a rotten contract crammed down their throats" as in 1974 in which binding arbitration was included, according to Brandt. She said the main demand of the rank and file is to strengthen the workers' ability to fight.

The second crucial issue is the cut in medical benefits. For the last 30 years miners received 100 per cent coverage. Six months ago the plan was changed forcing workers to pay a $250 deductible on hospitalization and 40 per cent on doctor's visits.

Third, they want an equalized pension. The amount of pension depends on the amount of production. According to Brandt, it is easy for companies to bankrupt pension funds.

Last Sunday the bargaining council turned down a tentative contract supported by United Mine Workers' Union President Arnold Miller, which Brandt referred to as vicious. The contract included no rights to strike, a labor stability clause allowing companies to fine miners $20 for every day one strikes, the loss of medical benefits after ten days of striking, and the ability of companies to fire a worker for striking. Medical benefits and pensions were also cut down.

During an interview, Brandt explained Jimmy Carter's neutral stand on the coal miner's issue is false. She used the recent intervening of the F.B.I. and the state troopers as proof.

Brandt feels the companies and media are trying to split miners from the rest of the country's workers by building an energy crisis. Miners feel the companies are the "same class of capitalists trying to put down people all over the country." Furthermore, the companies are solely "Crying about losing profits."

SUPPORT THE MINER'S STRIKE

Gina Brandt, a leading member of the Women's Committee for Miner's Right to Strike speaks to UMass students about the difficulties facing the families of the striking workers. (Staff photo by Diane Crawford)

Inside

The chairman of the Stockbridge-sponsored career day, which will take place on Tuesday, hopes departments outside Stockbridge will participate. See the story on page 2, and the schedule of seminars on page 12.

The Canadian Opera Company's production of "The Barber of Seville" delighted an audience at the Fine Arts Center last night. See E. Philip Brown's review on page 2.

Applications for the National Student Exchange Program are due Feb. 24. See Marcia Murphy's story on page 2 for details on the program.

Northampton City Council members last night voted to close down an out-patient mental health center in the city. See the story on page 3.

Weather

Chance of occasional snow Friday, ending by early afternoon and followed by partial clearing except light snow tapering off to flurries over Cape Cod.

Exchange program accepting applicants

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

If you are a student interested in a temporary change of scenery while continuing your college education, the National Student Exchange Program may be what you are looking for.

The program, begun in 1968, is a "product of mutual planning and interest in providing the student with new academic and social experiences through a simplified admissions process, assurance of credit transferability, and minimal additional expense to the student," reads an NSEP brochure.

The exchange offers students the opportunity to "become better acquainted with different social and educational patterns in the U.S. and to experience new life and learning styles, appreciate different cultural perspectives, learn more about themselves and others and broaden their educational backgrounds through specialized courses which may not be available on the home campus," the brochure continues.

During the '76-'77 academic year 33 colleges for 820 students were involved in the exchange program, a 12 per cent increase from the previous year, according to William Loder, coordinator of NSEP.

UMass involved the greatest number of exchange students by sending 99 students to 17 colleges and universities and receiving 109 students from 19 member campuses, according to Loder.

"Most of the students who participate in the exchange program seem to think it's the best thing they did while in college," said Loder.

Students may go on exchange for the fall semester or. at most member colleges and universities, the full school year.

The most and least popular colleges change every year, according to Loder.

"People's priorities change. It mostly fluctuates on what people want and that doesn't always stay the same," he said.

The cost of the exchange includes the instate tuition, room and board of the host campus and transportation. Financial assistance for eligible students is available.

Full-time students should apply as sophomores to participate in their junior year and have at least a 2.5 average.

Although some seniors go on exchanges, juniors are given the highest priority, according to Loder.

"There are serious potential problems in sending seniors because they need to fulfill graduation requirements and they are usually unable to share their experiences when they return," said Loder.

He said the best source of information is from the students who have gone on exchanges.

Catalogs and other information on the colleges and universities involved with the program are available in 255 Whitmore and the deadline for applications is Feb. 24.

Donna Maisserian, a UMass junior who exchanged to the University of Idaho said, "It was an experience that helped me in innumerable ways."

Stockbridge career day open to many

The chairman of the Stockbridge career day planned for Tuesday said the future success of the convention depends upon a turnout of students and faculty from horticulture and agriculture departments in the School of Food and Natural Resources.

The Stockbridge Student Senate has spent $1,000 for the convention.

Peter Quinlan yesterday said he hopes members of departments outside Stockbridge attend the convention because large industries in the agricultural and horticultural fields are sending representatives to run seminars.

Dean of the School of Food and Natural Resources Ross Whaley last night said the career day has been well advertised among department chairmen, faculty and students in fields related to the convention. He estimated 1,500-2,000 students are enrolled in agriculture and horticulture departments in his school.

Quinlan said a successful convention on Tuesday will mean more businesses and seminars at next year's convention, which is already being planned.

Assistant Commissioner of the state Department of Food and Agriculture John Barrus is the guest speaker at the day long convention this Tuesday. His address is at 4:10 p.m.

Local veterinarian John Hite is also scheduled to appear at the convention for a seminar at 1 p.m. The convention is being held on the first level of the Campus Center. Opening ceremonies are at 9:45 a.m.

See schedule, page 12

Theatre review

Barber of Seville is well received at FAC

By E. PHILIP BROWN
Special to the Collegian

The Canadian Opera Company's presentation of "The Barber of Seville" was well-received at the Fine Arts Center last night. Although the show was far from sold out, the audience's applause was well deserved.

The show started with an excellent opening number by the orchestra conducted by Timothy Vernon. Next in significance was the introduction of the Barber of Seville. All members of the cast had extremely dynamic voices; The stage design was simple, but effective and the lighting was adequate for the production. Act 1 ended in hilarity and Art 2 picked up where it left off.

The opera was more of a musical situation comedy than a serious dramatic play. The main characters were Count Almaviva; Abram Morales, Old Dr. Bartolo; Peter Milnè, Rosina; the count's lover and Dr. Bartolo's ward); Kathleen Hegierski, and of course Figaro; Peter Barcza. In the story Count Almaviva falls in love with the beautiful Rosina and tries to take her away from Dr. Bartolo, who also intends to marry his vivacious ward. Figaro is the matchmaker and messenger for the court. Basilio, Rosina's music instructor played by John Dodington stole the show with his hilarious antics and delightful personality. Ambrogio, Dr. Bartolo's servant and Berta the Dr.'s mistress had small parts but added to the comedy immensely.

The major criticisms of the opera are few. One complaint is that the production was too short (only two hours) and seemed too hasty in the orchestral pieces. Another fault was that it was done in English but I overlooked this since the only language I know is English. The show was probably geared to college audiences and hence much was certainly lost.

...newslines...

Police lack manpower to patrol N. Pleasant St.

Amherst Chief of Police Donald Maia last night said that there is not enough manpower to station a permanent patrol to enforce speed limits on North Pleasant Street because of the size of his department.

"North Pleasant Street is a heavily-travelled traffic route, which has always been and will continue to be under speed control by the Amherst Police Department," he said.

A recent student senate proposal for increased speed enforcement as a preventative safety measure for students. Two accidents occurred on the street recently, within the boundaries of the UMass campus.

The most recent of the accidents, a hit-and-run injured one UMass student last week-end. An investigation is still being conducted; as of yet, however, there are no suspects.

— RITA ZEIDNER

Physical plant has coal; UMass can stay warm

The current coal strike will not affect the heating of the campus, according to George Norton, director of the physical plant.

Norton said the coal-fired heating plant uses 50,000 tons of coal a year but the plant has a "pretty good supply."

"We could run, if we don't get supplies, until July," said Norton.

The physical plant orders ahead at the first of the fiscal year and receives most of its shipment in January and February. Norton said the physical plant has only a little more coal to receive on the existing contract.

— GAYLE YOUNG

Pennsylvania students study bars at UMass

Five students from a Pennsylvania college are visiting UMass this weekend to see how the University community handles itself with two bars on campus.

Recent legislation passed in Pennsylvania has lowered the legal drinking age from 21 to 18, and students at Shippensburg State College have decided to open a bar on campus.

The students are being escorted around campus by UMass Police Sergeant Mary Dumas, who yesterday said she plans to show them the campus bars and introduce them to personnel of Health Services, Residential Resource Management, Community Development Center and student government.

The students were supposed to attend the UMass basketball game last night, and will probably attend the game Saturday night also.

University hires student; takes animal complaints

A UMass graduate student has been hired on a part time basis by University police for animal control on the campus.

Peter Harris will be taking complaints from the campus community about animals that are a nuisance in campus buildings, including residence halls.

It is against University regulations for dormitory residents to house pets in their rooms.

Harris has worked as a dog catcher for the town of Amherst, and at Hampshire College in an animal control position similar to his new job at UMass.

— ROB YARVITZ

Governors pass ruling; will meet every other week

Acting upon the only proposal brought before it last night, the Campus Center-Student Union Board of Governors passed a resolution to meet formally every other week beginning Feb. 23.

Among its many activities, the board's major functions include approval of expenditures within the Campus Center involving student monies, and the allocation of space and rooms within the Campus Center.

Shelley Gordon, vice-chairperson of the board, indicated that positions are still open on a number of board committees and that all students are encouraged to join and participate.

Information about the board's various committees can be obtained at the Board of Governor's office located on the eighth floor of the Campus Center.

— JOHN REESE

Today's Staff

Issue Editor J.R.

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Helen Berg |
| News Desk | Laura Kenney |
| Copy Editor | Mary Matson |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Sports Layout | Mike Smolens, Walt Cherniak |
| Head Darkroom Technician | Dave Rodgers |
| Photo Staff | Diane Crawford |
| Ad Layout | Liz Lebow |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Snowstorm idled workers can get special benefits

BOSTON [AP] — Massachusetts workers who lost a paycheck during last week's storm may be able to collect an average of $100 each under a bill signed into law yesterday by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

State Manpower Secretary Howard Smith is scheduled to outline procedures for applying for the special benefits Friday morning.

But in signing the measure at a noontine ceremony, Dukakis urged people not to go to local unemployment offices. He said new simplified forms would be available by next week and could either be filed at one's regular place of employment or by mail.

The legislation, filed at the request of angry labor leaders, was whisked through the legislature in less than 24 hours. The bill provides a special exemption from the week-long waiting period usually required before collecting unemployment insurance.

The exemption applies only to victims of this particular storm, Dukakis said.

Smith said for the average Massachusetts worker, earning $200 a week, the bill would mean benefits of $90 for a four-day loss, $50 for three days and $10 for two days plus $6 a day for each dependent under age 18. No benefits are available for those who lost only one day's work.

Anticipating possible abuses of the new benefits, Dukakis said in most cases the forms will have to be co-signed and verified by employers.

Smith estimated the benefits would cost from $18 million to $38 million.

He said there is currently about $100 million in the state's unemployment insurance fund, which is more than enough to cover the expected run on those funds.

Dukakis defended using the fund, financed by employers in the state, by saying, "That's what it's there for."

Actually the fund still owes $265 million to the federal government, but federal officials have granted the state another two years to pay that back.

Eventually state officials hope the federal government will cancel that debt, which was acquired when Massachusetts unemployment ran into double digits during the recession of the early 70's.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis comments before he signs a bill yesterday which eliminates the normal one-week waiting period before workers can receive jobless benefits on account of last week's storm.

Carter favors proposed Arab arms deal

WASHINGTON [AP] — The Carter administration defended its proposed sale of top-quality jet planes to Saudi Arabia Thursday while Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan met here with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Dayan, the hero general of the 1967 Mideast war, is trying to get the decision on aircraft sales reversed. He probably is fighting an uphill battle. Dayan also is trying to offset Arab gains in U.S. policy and with the American public.

Meanwhile, President Carter told Dayan that the date of Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's visit to Washington will be March 14-15 and that the visit may be three days long.

In a 10-page memorandum, the State Deprtment said that the sale of 60 F-15 Eagles to Saudi Arabia is consistent with "the overriding objective of a just and lasting peace," in the region.

"As you know, this administraton has pursued peace in the Middle East with a scrupulous care for Israeli's security," Douglas J. Bennet Jr., assistant secretary for congressional relations, told Rep. Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Middle East subcommittee.

Dayan is registering Israel's protest of the $2.5 billion deal in talks with President Carter, vance and House members.

He is also trying to promote progress in negotiations with Egypt on a declaration of principles to guide peace talks and hoping to quiet the running public battle with the administration over Jewish settlements in old Arab lands.

Israel contends delivery of the jets, which can zoom into Israeli air space from Saudi Arabia in less than a minute, pose a threat to Israel's security.

But the memorandum said "Saudi acquisition of 60 F-15s would not alter the basic Middle East arms balance. The fundamental inhibitions which have led Saudi Arabia to refrain from combat with Israel in past conflicts would still pertain."

Two-thirds of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is already on record opposing delivery of the F-15s, possibly the best fighter plane in the world.

Carter's $4.8 billion Middle East arms package also includes 50 E-5Es for Egypt, worth $400 million, and 15 F-15s, valued at $400 million, and 75 F-16s, at $1.5 billion, for Israel.

President Carter met yesterday with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan at the White House. He said Israeli Prime Minister Menachim Begin will visit Washington next month.

NEAG plans special election

By CAROL MORRIER
Collegian Staff

A flu-striken Northeast Area Government last night scheduled a special election for its vice president to replace Paul Goldman, who resigned because of academic responsibilities.

The council also listened to a progress report of the campus Alcoholic Task Force, which is formulating a policy for regulating parties with alcohol for sale.

The special election for a vice president is Feb. 21, from 4-7 p.m. at the barracks side of the Worcester Dining Commons. Doug Novitch of Dwight and Andrea Polito of Crabtree are the two candidates for the office.

The council also needs people to complete the dormitory representation on the board. Each dorm is entitled to two representatives.

Some dormitories are also missing senators for the Undergraduate Student Senate, according to council President Diane Lauricella. Lauricella also said the future council meetings will be held Sunday nights at 7 in different Northeast dormitories.

Women, work discussed

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

"Government, management and banking would grind to a halt if the women working within them messed up the organization. Women have to think up new ways to mess up the monopolies they work for," said Rosalyn Baxandall as she spoke last night in the Campus Center on "Women in the American Economy."

Baxandall and Susan Reverby, co-authors of "America's Working Women," addressed a group of 90 people at a lecture co-sponsored by the Commuter Collective and the Labor Center Student Caucus.

Baxandall pointed out that the current women's liberation movement came about partially because "In the 1950's women in large masses started to go to college for the first time."

"They thought they'd get as fulfilling jobs as the ones men were getting but found they were getting the same jobs they would have gotten if they hadn't gone to college at all. Most of the jobs they got were clerical. The ideology was still that they should be at home."

Reverby said, "Historically, women have always worked. They were often skilled workers. Women took low-paying jobs, so those tasks became identified as 'women's work'."

According to Baxandall, one-third of women workers still work in seven main categories. These include bookkeeping, teaching, waitressing and secretarial work.

Baxandall added, "Oppressed women workers tend to use old fashioned ways of protesting. They must think of new ways that make sense in our economy. Resistance is really important, especially in the 70's."

"Everytime we strike back we break some of the social stability. Pessimism and inability to act must be overcome in our jobs," said Baxandall.

"People no longer see women as nurturers and housekeepers," said Baxandall. "Now women are supposed to be everything. They're supposed to be beautiful, sexy — and have a career. I don't know what went wrong, but something certainly did."

Council votes clinic ouster

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — The City Council last night voted 8-1 in favor of a resolution to close down an outpatient mental health center in the Ward 3 section of the city.

The center, known as the "Bridge" has been the center of a controversy since it opened last month.

The vote by the Council came as an anti-climax as earlier this week the State Department of Mental Health indicated to Mayor Harry S. Chapman, Jr. that the "Bridge" rehabilitation program would be moved voluntarily.

Residents have repeatedly claimed that their ward is oversaturated with such facilities. In Dec. 1976, they received an assurance from the Franklin Hampshire Mental Health Advisory Board that no new centers would be opened.

The "Bridge," and other outpatient and halfway-house facilities in the ward were opened to help former patients of the Northampton State Hospital.

A letter sent to Chapman from Evelyn McClean, regional director of the department of mental health, said the department is now in the process of looking for another "suitable location" for the program.

Also last night, the council tabled a recommendation by Chapman that all major purchases and awarding of overtime hours by city departments must first be approved by the mayor's office.

In a 7-2 vote councillors questioned their authority to give power to the mayor, which he said would give department heads "a second opportunity to look at their budgets."

Chapman said his authority over payments of $50 or more might keep city departments from spending money they don't need and would put needed money back into the city treasury.

"It would build a free cash account," Chapman said, "which I feel is depleting at a rapid rate at this time."

Speaking in opposition to Chapman's request, some councilors question whether Chapman or the council had the legal right to put a hold on monies that had already been allocated to city departments.

"Where does it say you can do this?" asked Councilor Charles Barankowski.

Black Affairs

Support Bill HR 9746

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Assistant Editor

There is a bill before the National House of Representatives that stands to end the insurance and guarantees on monies invested in South Africa. The bill is HR 9746. Anyone wanting more information about it or wanting to push for the passage of this bill should write to:

House Banking Subcommittee On International Trade, 3107 House Annex No. 2, Washington D.C. 20515.

The United States Government Export-Import Bank presently guarantees insurances on all investments into the South African economy. Black people working in South African coal mines get only $3 per day. This is starvation pay, and because of such injustice, one out of every three children die before they reach the age of one. The child mortality rate in South Africa is 53 per cent for children under the age of five. Due to this cheap labor, South Africa is a high profit investment.

Almost the entire South African economy is dependent on its export market. Blacks — though 18 million compared to 4 million whites — cannot even afford to buy anything from the system.

This bill, HR 9746, is clearly a step in the direction for a real U.S. economic pullout of South Africa.

Announcements

CCEBS

CCEBS students should note that on Saturday, February 11, the Black Alumni Committee of Amherst College will sponsor a Career Day. Registration is from 7:30 a.m. — 9:00 a.m. in Converse Hall on the Amherst College campus. Activitiis are planned throughout the day until 4:00 p.m. This is a unique opportunity for students to obtain a wide variety of career-related information. A luncheon is also part of the day's activities. Anyone desiring more detailed information concerning this Career Day should contact Brian Maher in Room 209 of the New Africa House.

Fashion show

The Third World Women's Center will sponsor a Spring Fashion Show, to be held April 29. Volunteers for male and female models are needed. All are welcome. A list for signatures will be posted inside the New Africa House lobby.

Drum

DRUM — a student run literary and arts magazine is asking for contributions for the Spring issue in the areas of Art, Photography, Poetry, Essay, Fiction, Reviews and any information relevant to the student body. All articles must be typewritten and double spaced. The deadline is March 17th. Submit articles to Afro-Am office, New Africa House, UMass, Amherst.

Ethiopian students speak on goals

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

The Ethiopian Students Union in North America, (ESUNA) is an organization of Ethiopian students whose objective is to: 1. enlighten people in North America on political developments in Africa in general, and Ethiopia in particular; 2. agitate people to support the Ethiopian masses in their struggles against local reactionary ruling class and international imperialism; 3. help Ethiopian famine victims and political refugees.

The Connecticut-Amherst Chapter of ESUNA is particularly responsible in fulfilling this task in the Pioneer Valley area.

ESUNA is a member of the worldwide Federation of Ethiopian Students. (WWFES) Other members include Ethiopian Students Union in Europe, (ESUE) Ethiopian Students Union in the Middle East and North Africa, (ESUMENA) Ethiopian Students Union in East Africa, (ESUEA) Ethiopian Students Union in Ethiopia, (ESUE) and Ethiopian Women's Study Group, (EWSG).

This is one of a series of articles that the Ethiopian students of the Valley area will be putting out on the situation of The Horn of Africa. The group has also organized a forum on February 25 to further discuss the issue. All are invited.

Pre-February 1974 Ethiopia — A Summary.

Ethiopia, the oldest independent country in Africa and one of the last real monarchies, lies in the eastern horn of the continent. This African nation of 30,000,000 people has a land mass of 475,000 square miles. A country of complex topography, its dominant feature is the high Central plateau split by the Great Rift Valley, with a northern and western periphery of hot, arid lowlands. Ethiopia is bounded on the west by the Sudan, on the East by Somalia, on the south by Kenya and on the east by The Red Sea. Eritrea, the northern province was federated with Ethiopia by the United Nation resolution of 1952, after sixty years of Italian occupation.

During the reign of Halle Selassie, the basic needs of the people, eating, clothing, health and education were only the exclusive monopoly of the royal families and their immediate associates. The royal families and their associates lavishly waste the produce of the people born out of their sweat and blood, thus forcing the majority to go underfed, underclothed, illiterate and diseased. This despite the countries overwhelming potential to be the "granary of The Middle East" has been the reality of present day Ethiopia. The incredible disparity between the privileged few and the toiling masses remained as the contradiction from which resistance against the regime naturally flows.

The imperialist domination of the Ethiopian social institution was the basis for the economic subjugation of the nation. Ethiopia was subjected to U.S. imperialist's sphere of influence serving the strategic and military needs of the hegemonic power and its associated friends. Ethiopia's servile status to world imperialism was maintained by a local ruling class made up of the landlords, and the bureaucratic and comperador bourgeoise. The essential relations of production which enabled the ruling class to subject the Ethiopian masses was a federal made of production with a typical configuration of an advanced rate of disintegration and a capitalist mode of production which is still rare in the countryside and confined to marginal productivity in the urban areas.

All the popular classes suffered oppression and exploitation from the local ruling class and international imperialism, but of all of them the misery of the proletarian and semi-proletarian masses was incalcuable.

The February crisis unfolded in the period of acute crisis of international capitalism. In Ethiopia, the situation was characterized by a crisis between the ruling power — bloc of landlords and big bourgeoise, a crisis that has been growing since the 1960 coup attempt. The staggering economy, the rising cost of living, an empty treasury, an impoverishment that encompasses more and more people. More importantly, intensified mass uprisings, increasing signs that the revolutionary forces were moving in a relatively organized manner, the generalized feeling that things must be changed in a radical manner, the growing militancy of the proletariat.... the war in Eritrea → developing, sapping the economy and demoralizing the army. A regime incapable to undertake the "safety — value" type of reforms, and anachronistic regime isolated at the regional and international level, an embarrassment to its imperialist master, a regime incapable of assuming the regional tasks imperialism had assigned to it — significantly a feeling by both imperialism and the masses that the regime could not save the situation. Imperialism searches a new power bloc that will detour the disaster heading towards it — the masses search for a new social order of thorough fundamental change.

Thus the crisis that erupted in February was not a historical accident but rather a crisis that sooner or later would have erupted. The crisis has both structural and immediate reasons.

Structural:

(1) The contradiction besetting the ruling class was a collection of different interest groups and sub-classes.

(2) The intensified struggle of the oppressed masses, characterized by spontaneity, the absence of a vanguard party — and later by increased consciousness, coherence, realization of class interests, solidarity of action.

(3) The underdeveloped economy, characterized by the absence of meaningful investment of productive industries, the lack of reinvestment of the agricultural surplus, inflation created by the speculative nature of investment and the general crisis of international capitalism, spiralling prices, decreasing buying power of the masses.

(4) The relation of Ethiopia with the capitalist market, a relation of domination and extraction of profit, unequal exchange, a continuous outflow of capital, absence of capital accumulation — the fatal impossibility of the development of homogenous national capitalism in Ethiopia.

Immediate:

(1) Famine, a consequence of capitalist underdevelopment of the country, result of specific ruling class straligies in agriculture and as a result of the impossibility of increased productivity in agriculture. No less than half a million people starve to death contrasting with the ever-filled dining tables and cellars of the ruling class.

(2) Acute unemployment reaching almost 70 per cent in the towns. Rural impoverishment resulting in massive rural-urban migration, rising unemployment over-filled, prostitution reaches a saturation point, 'crimes' increase, and migration to the outside (Sudan, Italy) in search of menial jobs accentuates .... the unemployment spreads to affect even university graduates.

(3) Rise in the cost of basic necessities, increase in the price of petrol etc. resulting from the economic structure of the country.

All these contribute to the breakup of the fabric of society and thus the political power of the ruling class was eroded.

The February mass revolutionary movement erupted as a logical continuation of the decades — long mass struggle against the ruling class and imperialism. It was a path towards which the crisis was heading. If we are to characterize the February movement through its specialties or particularities, we cannot fail to see its revolutionary character.

(This article will be continued in next week's issue of Black Affairs).

Why I write what I write when I write, or Amherst Towing

By TERRELL EVANS
Black Affairs Staff

Most have probably noticed that there is a marked contrast between the tone of my articles and those of other Collegian columnists.

Why do I not choose to write about Amherst tow trucks, marijuana legalization and Whitmore's red tape? Well, they seem to be so unimportant to me when I am sitting in class and my professor tells me that every time I complete a sentence, four children die of starvation in India. The same thing applies as I read a sentence, too.

They all seem so trivial especially when a cop can shoot a fifteen year old child in the head at point-blank range and not even go to jail for it.

Leftfield

I know that my writing reaches a lot of people. Yet I would rather it reached only a few, a few who would be motivated enough to go out and do something about the immense problems that face America. Problems ranging from the Conservation of nature to poverty.

People try to alleviate their guilt feelings by asking, "What can I do?" They come to this conclusion under the assumption that there isn't anything as individuals they can do to help.

Anyone who believes this is wrong, dead wrong. If those people who are always asking this question decided to help, there would be millions on the job. There is no physical force on earth that can hold back the will of a million people pushing collectively for the same cause.

If you decide — "It isn't me. I am not a racist, I haven't done aaything," then again you are wrong, because there is no middle road. Either you want things to change or don't. If you are just riding the crest of the wave doing nothing, you're just adding dead weight to the forces trying to maintain the status quo. This is precisely what they want you to do.

So if in the past, future, or even right now you have felt guilt, then you already know deep down inside that if things are going to change for the better, it is up to each and everyone of us to do his or her part. You are a small cog in the system that enables the present status quo to exist. You must be an even bigger cog if things are going to change. Change is what we desperately need.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

LUTHER'S FATHER IS PARTICIPATING IN THE ENERGY DEBATE?
2-22
IN WASHINGTON?
WITH A GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE?
NO, OREO, IN THE BASEMENT...
...WITH THE BUILDING SUPERINTENDENT!
BRANDON JR
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Black Affairs

Ali! Ali! Ali!...The crowd shouted

By MORSE DIGGS
Black Affairs Staff

Ali! Ali! Ali!
Ali! Ali! Ali!

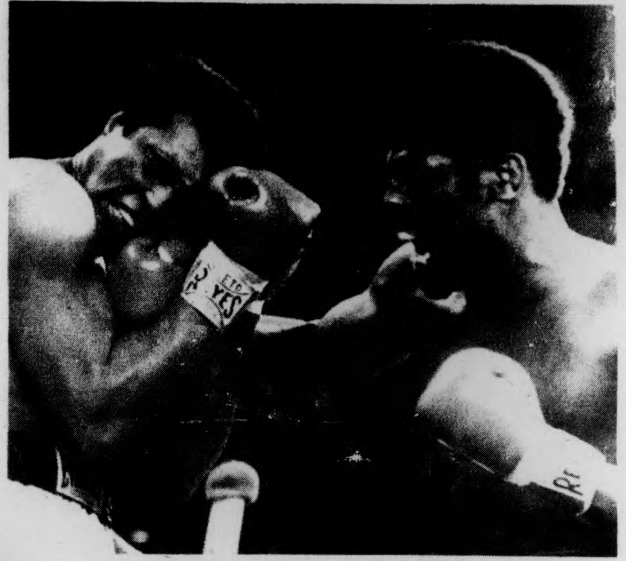
The crowd shouted as it appeared the heavyweight champion of the world would once again turn the tide of his advancing age and the incessant youth of his opponent. But it was not to be Wednesday night as Leon Spinks unleashed a Joe Frazier-like onslaught against Muhammad Ali, capturing the title.

It has already been called the greatest upset in boxing history by some. Such a remark lends testimony to Ali's stature as one of the all-time greats in boxing. But Ali's stature encompasses so much more than the confines of the boxing ring. To Black people and many other peoples throughout the world Ali has been a voice, an identity. Before his fight with Spinks, Ali asked to be introduced from his home town of Louisville, Ky. Speculation was that he would try and reach back for something a little extra, something from his roots of being the arrogant Cassius Clay. Ali has symbolized a common defiant root for Black people. So his loss, only the third of his professional career, was felt as a personal loss by many of us.

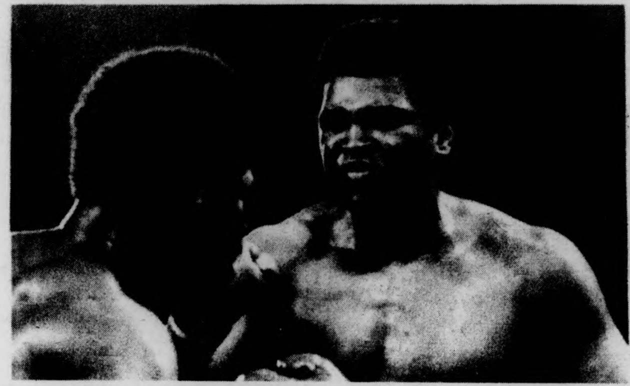
Wednesday night may have signalled the end of one era and the beginning of another. Just as Ali had watched his brother fight in a preliminary fight before he took the title away from Sonny Liston in 1964, Leon Spinks shunned pre-fight standards by rooting his brother Michael on to victory, before doing the unbelievable by taking Ali. The heavyweight championship title exchanged from Olympic Champion to Olympic Champion, from the old God-like warrior to the spirit of youth.

Immediately after the climatic 15th round and recognition to defeat, Ali announced to the world that he would like to come back and be the first man to regain the title for a third time. One can only hope Ali backtracks on this wish, as many who witnessed the fight concur that age was as much a factor in his defeat as was the fighting prowess of Leon Spinks.

Undoubtedly, the promoters will be offering unprecedented dollar figures for a rematch. The money may be too much for Ali to ignore.



Dethroned heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali (L) grimaces as challenger Leon Spinks gets in a stinging right cross to the jaw in 3rd round action of their title bout at the Las Vegas Hilton Pavilion. (UPI photo)



Ali starts right to the head of Leon Spinks in 7th round action of their world title heavyweight bout, but it just wasn't enough to enable him to hold on to his heavyweight belt. (UPI photo)

Hispanic training program to be aired on Channel 57

A bilingual presentation on Hispanic alcoholism will be aired on Channel 57's public access television program The Open Door on Saturday, February 18 at 7:30 p.m. and repeated on Friday, February 24 at 2 p.m.

The public access show allows local organizations to express their views on the air.

The 15 minute alcoholism segment is presented by the Hispanic Alcoholism Training Program (HATP), a division of the Springfield Spanish-American Union (SAU).

After a bilingual introduction, the show will be divided in three segments; a discussion (in Spanish) of HATP; a dramatization (in Spanish) of counselling; and a discussion (in English) about the overall community problem of Hispanic alcoholism.

Appearing on the program will be Melba Alvarez, HATP project coordinator; Frederico Brid, SAU executive director; Luis Aguiar, a recovered alcoholic and HATP trainee; and Edison Santana, a graduate of the program.

HATP is basically a training program which provides qualified bilingual bicultural counselors to the existing alcoholism services.

Training in the program is divided in two segments: the academic part, conducted by Boston University School of Medicine, and the on-the-job experience, conducted through trainees' affiliations with Alcoholism Services in Springfield, Holyoke and Hartford.

CAMPUS CENTER/STUDENT UNION

SPACE

ALLOCATIONS

Applications are now available for all persons interested in applying for space for 1978-1979 All groups wishing to renew or change space for next year must apply. Forms are available at the Board of Governors office, 817 Campus Center, and must be returned no later than Tuesday, February 28, 1978

The CC—SU Board of Governors is an Equal Opportunity—Affirmative Action organization.

THERE'S A REASON NURSES GET MORE RESPONSIBILITY IN THE NAVY. THEY'RE NAVY OFFICERS.

On one side of her collar is the symbol of the Nurse Corps. On the other is the insignia of a Navy officer.

It makes a difference.

Navy nurses are responsible not only for the care of their patients, but for the training and supervision of hospital corpsmen and other clinical and administrative personnel. Their choice of specialties is from thirteen different fields, with positions in twenty-six cities. They earn an excellent salary, top benefits, and that one intangible that money can't buy—the pride and respect of a Navy officer.

For the complete story, Sign up for an interview with the Navy Nurse Information Team
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
22, 23 and 24 February 1978

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB. IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

At Tech Hifi, you get to play.

Some stereo stores have signs that say "Don't Touch The Merchandise."

But at Tech Hifi, we encourage you to play and compare any of the 70 brands we display in our soundrooms.

Here's an outstanding $369 system you can play if you come in this week. It features a refined (but rugged) Nikko 315 stereo receiver, phenomenal EPI 70 Linear Sound loudspeakers, and a belt-driven Philips GA427 auto-shutoff turntable (complete with a Pickering cartridge). The sound quality and features of this combination compare more than favorably with what other stores offer for $400 or more! But don't take our word for it. Play and compare this system with any others in your price range and judge for yourself.

Nikko EPI Philips Pickering $369

We guarantee everything. Even your price.

The Tech Hifi Buyer Protection Plan includes our 7-DAY MONEYBACK GUARANTEE, and 90-DAY 100% TRADE-IN GUARANTEE.

But that's not all. We'll also guarantee your price. Our 30-DAY PRICE GUARANTEE says that if any other franchised dealer offers the same components for less money within 30 days after your purchase, we'll refund the entire differ- difference to you!

tech hifi

Soundrooms you can play in.

79 South Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3100
1376 Boston Road, Springfield 782-5544
Stores also throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

master charge VISA

---

Bell's Pizza

All pizzas are not created equal

549-1311 253-9051

☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆ 65 University Drive ☆☆☆☆☆☆☆

CAREER/LIFE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

Community Development Center, Berkshire House

Career/Life Planning for English Majors
Three two-hour sessions – February 16, 23; March 2
Thursdays 12:30-2:30 p.m.

Career/Life Prospects for Junior and Senior Women
Three two-hour sessions – February 22; March 1, 8
Wednesdays 3:30-5:30 p.m.

How to Develop a Resume
One and one-half hour session – February 23; Mar. 9, 16; April 13, 27
Thursdays 2:00-3:30 p.m.
Thursdays 7:00-8:30 p.m., March 30, April 20

Preparing for Employment Interviews
Two-hour sessions – February 13, March 13, April 10
Mondays 1:00-3:00 p.m. or Monday, March 6, 7:00-9:00 p.m.

For more information and sign-up, stop in Berkshire House, Room 123 or call 5-0333.

College Spring Break

FLORIDA

DAYTONA BEACH
Resort Area

8 DAYS/7 NIGHTS
$ 209⁰⁰

*PLUS 20% TAX & SERVICE
PRICE BASED ON QUAD OCCUPANCY

PRICE INCLUDES

- Round Trip Jet Transportation via Scheduled Flight (Eastern Airlines)
- All Meals in Flight
- 8 Days and 7 Nights at the Luxurious Holiday Inn Directly on Beach
- Pool Party — Free Beer and Barbecue
- Full Breakfast Plan Optional
- Baggage Handling at Airport and Hotel
- Transfers from Airport to Hotel and Return
- Services of Resident Tour Director

CONTACT
KATHY OR DEBBIE
546-9638

*Hotel Features Include Maid Service / Color T.V. / Swimming Pool, Air Conditioned Rooms with Private Bath and Shower / All Rooms are Ocean View / Restaurant and Lounge with Nightly Entertainment, Free Cover Happy Hour Every Night All Drinks Half Price

OPTIONAL TOURS
WALT DISNEY WORLD CYPRESS GARDENS WATER SKIING

| DEPARTS BOSTON | ARRIVES HOME |
|---|---|
| MARCH 17 - 18 | MARCH 24 - 25 |

$25.00 needed to hold reservation. Deposit is non refundable, non transferable.
* Add $10 to week of March 18

News in Brief

Seven tons of local coal help keep trains running

WEST SPRINGFIELD [UPI] — Seven tons of soft coal is being shipped from a generating plant in this town to keep commuter trains running between New Haven and New York City.

Conrail bought the coal from Western Massachusetts Electric's stockpile at its generating plant. The coal is being shipped to the Oak Point freight yard in Brooklyn.

Generating plants are facing severe shortages because of the 73-day old coal strike. The coal sold to Conrail has a sulfur content mix which does not meet environmental standards for use in either Massachusetts or Connecticut.

Older women motivated the most as students

[HERSAY NEWS SERVICE] — Older women who pursue college educations get better grades than their younger male and female colleagues.

This is the finding of Dr. David Beardslee of Michigan's Oakland University. The Detroit News reports that Beardslee, who is the director of that university's Institutional Research Department, studied the transcripts of 6500 Oakland University students. He found that older women got the best grades of anyone; next came younger women; and last, men of all ages who fared about equally.

Beardslee, says The Detroit News does not feel that (quote) "The older people get, the women get smarter and men get dumber ... It's just that older women are (more) highly motivated."

Beardslee noted that women who return to school usually have a strong incentive to do so, like a divorce, or a desire to start a career. For men of the same age, college might be compulsory, rather than voluntary, in order to advance an already-established career.

State troopers enforce speed limit this weekend

BOSTON [UPI] — One state trooper will be assigned every ten miles on all interstate highways in New England this holiday weekend, in an attempt to enforce the 55-mile per hour speed limit and lower traffic deaths.

Massachusetts State Police Capt. Harry Reddish said the troopers will be on all interstate highways from Maine to New York, including I-95, 93, 91, and 86.

Astronomers' meetings outside no ERA states

[HER SAY NEWS SERVICE] — The American Astronomical Society has become the latest group to sanction an economic boycott of states which have refused to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

The Society says it will no longer hold meetings in states which have not passed the E.R.A.

Doctor Margaret Burbidge, the first woman president of the Astronomical Society, in making the announcement, charged that there had been (quote) "severe discrimination against women in astronomy," with only eight per cent of the Society's membership being made up of women.

Burbidge says the Society's boycott will not go into effect until 1980, because all scheduled meetings until that time have been planned in what Burbidge calls "enlightened" states.

Texas, the site of this year's meeting, has ratified the E.R.A.

Damage claims flood Boston storm aftermath

BOSTON [UPI] — More than 1,000 Massachusetts residents have filed federal flood insurance damage claims in the aftermath of last week's blizzard which destroyed homes and businesses in coastal communities.

"We expect to receive at least another 1,000 claims, most of them from the badly damaged cities of Scituate, Hull and Revere," said Thomas Gann, a spokesman for the Flood Insurance Program, this week.

Gann said one result of the storm is that more people are interested in buying flood insurance. He said the program's disaster center in Boston has received many calls from residents wanting to buy insurance to protect themselves against future floods.

There are now 13,000 Massachusetts residents holding $365 million in flood insurance policies.

Officials so far have declined to release specific damage figures on last week's storm.

"We've handed our damage estimate over to state Insurance Commissioner James Stone, and it's up to him to release the figures," said Joseph B. Rottmann, regional property claims manager for the American Insurance Association.

Joan Little free on bail; awaits decision

[HER SAY NEWS SERVICE] — Joan Little has been freed from a New York city jail on $51,000 bail.

Little was acquitted in 1975 of the stabbing death of a white guard in a North Carolina county jail, where she was being held on charges of breaking and entering. When Little was arrested in Brooklyn on December 9, she was a fugitive from North Carolina, where she had been serving a 7-to-10 year jail sentence for a conviction of breaking and entering.

According to Little's attorney, William Kunstler, half of her bail was provided by the Southern Poverty Center and the rest came from private unspecified donations.

MDC adding fluoride to water over protests

BOSTON [UPI] — The Metropolitan District Commission begun adding fluorides to the water supply for Greater Boston, despite protests by some city and town officials.

The chemical is being added to the supply through the Commission in Southborough, which supplies water to Boston, Somerville, Brookline, parts of Cambridge and other surrounding communities.

The Massachusetts Dental Society had recommended the process for several years. The group said fluoride reduces tooth decay in children by 60 to 70 per cent.

Some community groups fought the fluoridation process. They cited possible health hazards and said it is contrary to local home rule rights.

Building's owners named in rape victim's lawsuit

[HER SAY NEWS SERVICE] — In what may turn out to be a precedent-setting case, a woman who was raped by a man who forced himself into her Berkeley, California, apartment, has sued the building's owners and the realtors who allegedly assured her that the apartment was safe.

The 21-year-old rape victim charges in her suit that her landlords knew that a rapist was active in the neighborhood, and assured her that the building was, nevertheless, secure.

Her suit, filed in Alameda County Superior Court, contends that she suffered bodily injury and permanent physical pain, and was forced, as a result of the rape, to give up her job and move in with her parents in another state.

The suit charges that police had told the building's managers that a rapist was operating nearby, but the managers had not — even after this reminder — installed deadbolt locks on the building's outside doors as a city ordinance requires.

Coast Guard boats search Nantucket area for ship

BOSTON [UPI] — A 15,000-square-mile search south and east of Nantucket Island has failed to turn up any trace of a fishing boat missing since Monday with four men aboard.

Five aircraft and the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant continued the search through the night yesterday for the 63-foot Cap'n Bill out of Provincetown.

The vessel was last heard from Feb. 9 when a crewman made a routine call to his family while the vessel was north of Cape Cod. It was due back in Provincetown Monday.

"Nothing has turned up," said Coast Guard spokesman John Balitch. Earlier in the week, searchers found an oil slick off Provincetown. In the slick was a lobster pot but it has been determined it was definitely not from the missing vessel, a scalloper.

The only thing we've been working on is claims by c-b radio operators that they have had contact with the ship's radio," Bablitch said. But there reports have not been confirmed.

The Coast Guard planned to continue searching at least through today, he said.

Longley postpones White House conference

AUGUSTA, Maine [UPI] — Gov. James B. Longley and Attorney General Joseph E. Brennan yesterday postponed for one week a meeting with White House officials to discuss the proposed out-of-court settlement of Indian land claims.

Longley said the trip was delayed at the request of Presidential Counsel Robert Lipshutz and will be re-scheduled next Thursday or Friday. The governor said "both parties felt the additional time was needed for further study and clarification" of the recommendation.

A presidential task force last week proposed the federal government pay Passamaquoddy and Penobscot Indians $25 million to end their claims to 9.2 million acres of Maine.

The task force suggests Maine's 14 largest landowners sell the tribes 500,000 acres, including 300,000 acres at five dollars an acre, to extinguish claims to three million private acres. The suggestion calls for the federal government to provide $5 million for the land purchases.

Longley had criticized the proposal Wednesday, saying it attempted to put large landowners against small propertyowners.

After cancelling his trip yesterday, the governor urged individuals or groups supporting the acceptance of the recommendations to "offer to the attorney general any legal or historical data to support their position."

Longley said supporters of the plan should be "prepared to factually justify their position to the attorney general and to show the people of Maine why this position is not contrary to the U.S. Constitution and why it is not a breach of the constitutional rights we have all enjoyed to own property and to have this property protected by the government and by the laws of our land."

Longley said he and Brennan were prepared to discuss and study the recommendation of the three-member presidential task force "to determine what is the fairest approach for all the people of Maine." He said it would be a "political settlement" to accept the suggestions without input from the state.

Brennan said his office was preparing "a detailed financial and legal analysis and examining the various options available to the state" and it hopes "to have an extensive written report for the governor and the Legislature in the near future."

He reiterated his position that "we have gone about the case in a careful and scholarly manner and I am whollv satisfied that the historical and legal arguments predicate the state's case and prevail in litigation, should that be ultimately necessary."

But Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, told separate sessions of the Maine House and Senate yesterday the state should study its chances of losing and the possible economic impacts before going to court.

R.I. democrats host Carter

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — Jimmy Carter returns today to Rhode Island, where he lost a 1976 presidential primary, to open his second presidential visit to New England.

In a visit that will last just over three hours, Carter will visit one of the nation's first prepaid health care centers, hold a nationally-televised "regional news conference" and meet political supporters of Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who is seeking a fourth term this year.

The Rhode Island visit will be followed by an overnight stop in Bangor, Maine and a trip to Nashua, N.H. tomorrow.

When Carter arrives at T.F. Greem State Airport in Warwick at 1:50 p.m., he will see the mountains of snow which prompted Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy's request last week for Army troops to help unclog the snowstricken state.

Garrahy is hoping Carter will have good news concerning his request for a federal disaster declaration to help with economic recovery from the state's worst snowstorm.

The Cranston Hilton, site of the 3:30 p.m. news conference and Pell reception, was turning away visitors all week. Most rooms were taken in advance by people preparing for the presidential trip.

The hotel swimming pool has been drained and covered with wooden partitions to expand the ballroom to be used for the news conference.

The Rhode Island Group Health Association in Providence will give Carter a 3 minute tour before he heads to the hotel. It is the country's first federally-qualified health maintenance organization and fits his philosophy of curbing hospital costs.

RICHA spokesman Mike Gerhardt said the White House asked the facility last Monday to stop scheduling new appointments for today.

"The president may be only a man, but the office invokes awe in some of the strangest people," Gerhardt said.

The Pell reception, for Democratic State Committee members, legislators and state and local officials, is not a fundraiser. Pell has no announced opposition yet, but always runs as if each contest is his toughest.

Attorney General Julius C. Michaelson, reportedly considering a primary challenge for Pell's seat, said he was invited to it and is delighted to be going and doesn't feel awkward about it.

Protesters take to capitol

CONCORD, N.H. [UPI] — Groups opposed to compulsory education picketed the New Hampshire Statehouse Thursday, demanding the release of a woman who went to jail rather than let her daughter attend schools where sex education is taught.

Carin LaMon said in Manchester she hoped to be released from jail soon because she has decided to follow her new attorney's advice and send her daughter to an unaccredited private school. She was jailed last week.

A federal magistrate late Wednesday rejected Mrs. LaMon's request that she be freed because she was being detached unlawfully. Magistrate William Barry gave Mrs. LaMon 10 days to amend the request because she had not exhausted all the available legal remedies.

A dozen members of the Liberation party, Coalition for Freedom, Guardians of Education for Maine, and Constitutional Revival picketed here on behalf of the Nashua woman.

She was jailed when she refused to produce her 15-year-old daughter for a truancy hearing in Nahsua District Court.

A few people also demonstrated in front of the Nashua City Hall early in the day. A planned demonstration at the Hillsborough County Superior Court in Manchester fizzled when court clerk Carl Randall threatened to call police.

The demonstration was organized by James Pinard of Hampton, state vice chairman of the Liberation Party. He said the party is "totally opposed to any form of compulsory education."

Mrs. LaMon's estranged husband Robert, said he would try to produce the girl but did not know where she was. He filed a contempt motion seeking to force his wife to reveal their daughter's location.

Mrs. LaMon said shortly before her hearing that her husband knew as recently as two weeks ago where their daughter was. She said the girl was being taught by a former California school teacher.

Demostrators said they were protesting "the jailing of Carin LaMon without a trial by her peers."

DIRTY HARRY starring
Clint
Eastwood
Tues., Feb. 21
S. U. B.
7, 9, 11
$1.00
sponsored by
Kennedy Lower

HUNAN
GARDEN RESTAURANT
家 酒 園 南 湖
Mandarin Szechuen
Cuisine
+Open 7 days a week+
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON 1.25 & up
Dinner $3.75
Main course: choice of Szechuen Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib eggroll, chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour soup.
Mon.-Wed. 5:00-8:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

DELANO'S
57 North Pleasant Street
This Is
A Sunday Brunch
FINE FOOD AND SPIRITS
Appetizers
Our Famous
BLOODY MARY WHISKEY SOUR
A SPLIT OF GREAT WESTERN EXTRA DRY CHAMPAGNE
Main Course
QUICHE DU JOUR - surprize, surprize, surprize
EGGS BENEDICT - with Asparagus, the elegant brunch meal
BELGIAN WAFFLE - the ultimate waffle! Served with our own Grand Marnier syrup
LOX & BAGLES - with cream cheese, Bermuda onions and tomatoes. You should have it so good CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF - Served over an English muffin. Definitely not S.O.S.
FRESH FRUIT SALAD - with yogurt, honey, raisins and nuts. Whatever is in season, but ALWAYS fresh.
CREPE OF THE DAY - We can tell you one thing for sure: it is a crepe
OMLETTES - our now famous "Build your own": Choose any of the following: Avocado (in season), Bacon, Chili, Mushrooms, Onions, Ham, Peppers, Sprouts, Strawberries, Sour Cream, Spinach, Tomatoes, CHEESE: American, Muenster, Swiss, Cheddar Deserts (Oh yes, yes yes!)
CHEESECAKE with Strawberries, Cherries or Plain.
DESSERT CREPE - yogurt with Strawberries, nuts and whipped cream. across from the fire station
253-5141

DAVID'S
OF
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
TEL - 586-1878
FEBRUARY
17-18 FRI. SAT.
"The Area's Newest 'Club'"
PRESENTS
CONNECTICUT'S NEWEST ROCK GROUP
Alley Rose
DINE & DANCE
9PM - 1AM
FREE! 1-DRAFT BEER
WITH COLLEGE ID.

Carter urges bargaining for coal strike settlement

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter said yesterday the long-honored collective bargaining process will be "severely damaged" in the United States if the coal strike is not settled through negotiations.

Carter, meeting with about a dozen governors at the White House to map strategy for coping with strike-related problems, said "We are already experiencing severe job losses...and periodic outbreaks of violence."

"We all recognize the seriousness of the problem we have here, if they are not successful in reaching an agreement," he said.

"I think the collective bargaining process itself would be severly damaged and I think the status of the United Mine Workers' union would be damaged as well."

At Carter's urging, the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association resumed negotiations at the Labor Department Thursday and Labor Secretary Ray Marhshall said he may keep them working round the clock in hopes of reaching a settlement by week's end.

Carter noted, however, that even if a settlement is reached at the bargaining table, it will take several weeks before coal starts moving again because of the time it takes to put the mines back in operation and to ratify a contract agreement.

In the meantime, many states are experiencing energy shortages because most of the nation's coal is used by utilities.

To ease the problems in hard hit Indiana, Carter yesterday gave the state permission to suspend air pollution regulations for 30 days so it can use grades of coal that are normally prohibited. He did the same thing for Ohio last week.

Governors who accepted invitations to the White House session were from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Maryland and Wisconsin.

The meeting was designed to coordinate state and federal efforts to deal with strike problems.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Ray Marshall yesterday announced he has given the miners and the soft coal operators a two-day deadline for settling the nation's 73-day-old coal strike, and he ordered them to negotiate around the clock.

Explosion halts pipeline

FAIRBANKS, Alaska [UPI] — State troopers said yesterday they had no leads on who placed an explosive charge under the Alaska pipeline Wednesday, blowing a two-inch hole in the pipe and spilling thousands of gallons of crude oil over four acres of isolated forest.

Oil flow through the entire 800-mile pipeline from the Arctic to the port of Valdez was shut down while repairs were made but was expected to resume by Friday.

"Somebody deliberately went in there and set off an explosion," said Sgt. Larry Mix of the Alaska State Troopers. He said authorities found 20 feet of fuse lying near the leak east of Fairbanks. "The fuse has been identified as a safety fuse," Mix said. "They hook it up and then get off to a safe distance and set it off."

It was the second known attempt to bomb the pipeline. The first last summer ripped off some insulation around the pipe, but didn't dent the pipe itself.

Cold temperatures, with the mercury hovering around the zero mark, congealed the oil and was expected to make the clean-up job easier and keep the impact on the environment minimal.

The leak was plugged late Wednesday night and Alyeska Pipeline Co. officials said they expected to have oil flowing through the line before Friday.

"They've got the oil stopped. It's not leaking anymore," Mix said. Troopers and federal authorities were investigating the sabotage.

Ron Mierzejewski, an Alyeska spokesman, said crews worked through Wednesday night and yesterday to clean up the oil-soaked snow.

"Workers contained the oil within a four-acre area and prevented it from flowing into the Chena River about a mile away," he said.

"They've got a sleeve on the hole," said Alyeska public relations consultant Sam Akin.

The pilot of a private plane reported the leak about 2 p.m. Alaska time Wednesday after he sighted a 160-square-foot patch of oil under the pipeline. The line was shut down a short time later when an Alyeska helicopter confirmed the report.

Officials said the oil gushed out of the leak at the rate of two to three gallons a second for more than six hours.

The $9 billion pipeline had been pumping 700,000 barrels of Prudhoe Bay oil per day to tankers at the southern terminal of the line at Valdez.

The pipeline has been shut down at least three times since it began operating last summer. The most serious interruption was caused by a July 8 explosion and fire at Pump Station No. 8 about 38 miles south of Fairbanks that killed one worker and injured several more.

High Clogs
by ZODIAC
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

SHOWCASE CINEMAS 1·2·3·4·5·6·7·8
ROUTE 5, RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPRINGFIELD TEL. 733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEES $2.00 TIL 2:30 P.M. WE HONOR MASTER CHARGE
A Gift Certificate For Valentine's Day Is A Great Way To Say You Care.
The story of two women whose friendship suddenly became a matter of life and death.
JULIA
PG
The Year's Best Movie
Bob Thomas A.P.
STAR WARS
Passes not accepted for this engagement
PG
DAILY 2:10 7:15-9:35
The Fever is Spreading
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
...Catch it
R
DAILY 2:00 7:15-9:40
"SEMI-TOUGH"
R
United Artists
DAILY 2:00 7:45-9:55
LAST DAY
MEL BROOKS in HIGH ANXIETY
A Psycho-Comedy
GOLDEN GLOBE AWARD WINNER
Best Picture (Comedy)
Best Actor (Comedy) Richard Dreyfuss
Best Actress (Comedy) Marsha Mason
Best Screenplay (Comedy) Neil Simon
Neil Simon's the goodbye girl
PG
DAILY 2:15 7:15-9:30
GOLDEN GLOBE AWARD WINNER
Best Picture (Drama)
ANNE BANCROFT
SHIRLEY MacLAINE
The Turning Point
DAILY 2:10 7:20-9:45
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
A TRUE LOVE STORY..
For everyone who believes in happy endings
DAILY 2:00 8:00-10:00
The continuing true story of Jill Kinmont, a woman with enough courage for ten lifetimes... and a man with enough love to carry them both.
'THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN' PART 2
MARILYN HASSETT TIMOTHY BOTTOMS

Come to the "CLASS HAPPY HOUR" at the Top of the Campus
Every Friday
65¢ "Mich" Bottles
Tired of draft beer, plastic cups and getting your feet stepped on?
Come and enjoy the relaxed atmosphere at the Class Happy Hour every Friday 3:30-6:30 with 65¢ bottled Michelos and Bar Drinks 99¢ plus free Munchies.

from our perspective

Release time for UMass staff workers

International Women's Week activities will be taking place on campus from March 5-11.

Last spring, over five-thousand women participated in Women's Week activities at UMass. Scheduled events included concerts, lectures, theatrical events and over one-hundred workshops on various topics related to women's lives.

The workshops were geared to older as well as younger women; working women as well as students. But many of the women on campus who could have benefited from such workshops did not attend because they were unable to obtain release time from staff positions.

UMass staff and clerical workers, a large number of whom are women, share with workers all over the country the problems of overwork and underpay. The fact that they work in a university setting provides the potential for participation in many activities that might serve as enjoyable "fringe benefits" to their jobs. But they can't take advantage of such benefits if inflexible scheduling prevents their participation in activities.

It seems incongruent for the University to fund workshops for working women and then deny its own workers the opportunity of attending without being docked pay or...penalized.

Staff workers at UMass should be granted release time to attend Women's Week events and other such activities. The obvious argument against this is that it is the staff members presence at work that keeps the University running on a day-to-day basis. But with three weeks' advance notice, departments should have plenty of time to rearrange work assignments and hours to cover for workers who wish to participate in events taking place during their regular hours.

It seems incongruent for the University to fund workshops for working women and then deny its own workers the opportunity of attending without being docked pay or otherwise penalized.

An educational institution should be concerned with the education of all individuals who come in contact with it; not just registered students.

All unsigned editorials are the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Letters

Disagreement over Senate's image

To the Editor:

I strongly disagree with the editorial written by Bob Melia concerning the Student Senate. Mr. Melia feels that the Senate is corrupt and should be destroyed but offers no solution or alternate plan to either create a new system that indeed does work or suggest one that is not "obscene." In this way he is not constructively criticizing but blatantly accusing.

I feel the problem of apathy lies not with the Senators who give their time and hard work, [believe it or not!] but with the student body who do nothing about this so-called "corruption". It seems to me Mr. Melia pointed the finger of blame at the wrong group.

After sitting through a Senate meeting, and after being exposed to the State Senate in Boston for a number of months, I found many similarities in the two governing bodies. Melia suggests that the Student Senate resembles a bunch of children. In my opinion if the Student Senate is childish then so too is the State Senate. Should we therefore abolish it as well?

The major injustice I charge Mr. Melia with is neglecting the fact that UMass is a school and by that I mean a place to learn. The Student Senators are doing just that. They are learning about parliamentary procedure, research techniques and most importantly, they are learning and keeping abreast of the happenings on campus. Abolishing the Student Senate would take away student's rights to express themselves on relevant issues.

Melia states that "hiding" in the Campus Center does not encourage participation. How more centrally located can it be? I cannot believe an intelligent person such as Mr. Melia must be, can think of calling down one flight of stairs and to your right' the "bowels" of anything! Again, I ask, if you don't like the place, can you suggest a more suitable one that would be equally accessible to all persons?

I do realize that Mr. Melia is condemning the students in the Senate as well, but, although the Senators do have their faults at least they put forth the effort of being at meetings and caring about what is going on in this University.

In conclusion, I plead with Mr. Melia to offer a solution to this "gangrene" of a Senate — because without those "corrupt" Senators, students would have no say in what goes on rather than the little say that they do have now. And please, Mr. Melia, I reiterate, put the blame where it is due — on the shoulders of the apathetic student body, not on the shoulders of the hard working Senators.

MaryAnn J. DiNatale

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

Those five-pound bricks

By REBECCA ADAMS

Someone up there is always reminding me of how fragile my human condition is. It never fails. But that someone is not subtle, not subtle at all. He or she might as well throw 5-lb. bricks.

The basic story goes like this. Here we have a pretty optimistic person who often takes the time to thank this someone for the good things in life. This time usually comes when things are going especially well, of course. For example, beautiful day, a little extra money, a new love or good health. But giving thanks for these things is turning into a Curse.

Tuesday night I feel good about men and my recent dates, by Wednesday morning I'm a lonely old maid. Last semester I felt great about my high cum, by the end of finals I had plunged 4 points. Thursday I get a surprise check in the mail for a $70.00 refund, Friday I get a surprise phone bill, $68.99. With the extra dollar I go out and buy a Super Deluxe Fudge Sundae because I had felt so good about sticking to my diet.

Do you remember how you used to cross your fingers, toes and maybe even your eyes if you wanted to make a dream come true? I gave up on that when I turned seventeen. I crossed everything I could in the hopes of getting on the honor roll in my senior year. It took them a week to uncross me, I missed the Beach Boys Concert and got two C's. Now I spread my fingers, toes and eyes as far as I can when I want something badly. Results have been 15 to 20 per cent better.

But the real clincher hit me last week. Remember what a nice day Saturday was? There I was, clicking along and realizing how healthy I'd been for the past 2 months. I breathed deeply, looked up at the blue sky and smiled. Oh, it would be great if I were well all semester. What bliss!

That night, unbeknownst to me, while Jean-Pierre and his magical flute were filling my sense with Mozart and Beethoven, the chief flu germ was directing his workers to fill my body with the dreaded disease. Obviously they had never heard the old proverb "Music soothes the savage germ."

Sunday morning: a little achy, just ignore it, it will go way. Sunday night, slight headache, tiny cough. Keep smiling, just ignore it.

Monday morning: hmmm.... they must have turned the heat way up. Funny, though, no one else is complaining about extra warmth. Maybe my body is just preparing itself a little early for summer. Think I'll go home and rest for an hour. Boom! Slept for 4 hours and woke up with ten 5-lb. bricks on my head. Missed all my classes.

Tuesday afternoon: had to get to class that meets only on Tuesdays and was missed last week because of snow. I dragged the abused assemblage of arms and legs to the film, borrowed 30 tissues from the person next to me and blew my nose for 2½ straight hours. Lucky the film was dubbed, or half the audience wouldn't have heard a thing.

Now it's Wednesday night and I'm beginning to feel partially like a human being. But I refuse to be too optimistic about it, you can never tell when one of those bricks will come tumbling down again. Will someone up there stop throwing those five pound bricks?!

Unions and tenure, for the birds

You know, every day I hear kids here on campus talking about their teachers, and there are some good comments made, along with some very bad ones. But you know, it is the ones like "why does the department keep a jerk like that around for," that really bothers me.

Why? Because most of the time you can't get rid of them. They have tenure. And so as a result, the students are subjected to some real turkeys in the classrooms. And we can bitch all we want, and write the poorest evaluations in the world, but what happens? Nothing. The students come and go, but the jerks stay around forever. Is this right?

I for one don't think so, however, the mood on this campus seems to be "unionization". "If we all get together and organize, we can dictate to the University how our jobs and security are going to be controlled, rather than have them tell us."

Unions and tenure clauses have to be the biggest haven for incompetency in the world. Having worked in three of them, (unions) I have firmly come to believe that. Any person with any motivation at all is stymied the minute s-he enters a union. In the three unions that I worked for, every person that came into the mills as a new union employee started out with a positive attitude toward the work that they were doing, but after their 30 day trial period with the company was up and they officially became union members, they were pressured by the other "old timers" in the union to take their time on the jobs they were doing and never to think about their jobs or how they could improve them.

Anybody who worked fast and was efficient in their job was considered an outcast to the majority of people in the union. They were resented, and tricks were played on them to slow them up in their work. And if you think I'm kidding, just ask anybody who has worked in a big union. I'm sure that they've run into the same things.

Now with this push on campus to have tenured professors evaluated every five years, stiff opposition is being put up by the faculty. Why?

If a professor is doing his job, and doing it well, why should s-he be afraid of being evaluated every five years? I believe that it is primarily the biggest screw-offs in the faculty that are in opposition to the evaluations. In fact, being employees of the state, performance evaluations should be taking place continuously, because they are responsible to the taxpayers of the commonwealth, and their performances from one semester to the next should be public information.

Of course, there are those people who will oppose this idea, but let's compare it to private industry. Suppose you go to work as a middle manager in some industry. You are a salaried employee. What job security do you have? Your job security depends upon your performance in the position that you are in. If you produce, you may be given a raise, or a promotion. If you stagnate, and just barely get the job done, the company may keep you, but no raise or promotion will be forthcoming. If you don't get the job done properly, most of the time you are fired. Doesn't that seem fair? Why the hell should a professor that is stagnating, or who does a poor job and has no desire to improve and who plans on continuing along his-her present course, be kept? This is absurd. And yet, we the students are watching this incompetence flourish here. What fools we are. We are only hurting ourselves.

With unions has come the loss of individuality. We no longer have the right to bargain with our superiors for our own wages. We might be twice the worker or teacher that someone else is, but that other person gets higher wages because he-she has been working here longer. Or if the state or company has to lay somebody off, they have to lay off the person with the least seniority because union or tenure says so, even though the person laid off might produce twice the output per man hour, or be a much better teacher. This is absurd and ridiculous. And yet it is happening every day.

Unions started out as a good thing, because there were those employers who used to exploit their workers. However, today, the trend has reversed itself. Today, the employees are exploiting the employers, and it is destroying ambition in this country. People in unions for the most part, if the unions have been established for a while, become very complacent in their work and stop striving for improvement. After all, nothing is to be gained by them by working hard to improve things for the company or the student. So why should they even bother trying?

Well, I know that there are those out there who will argue with me and say that people have a lot more pride than that, and it will never come to that. Well, I challenge you to work on two or three unions for a while, as I have done. If that doesn't convince you, look at the students who are collecting financial aid who don't need it, and look at all the abuses in the welfare and unemployment programs. People in this country seem to have forgotten the meaning of the word "pride".

Stephen Mathieu is a Collegian commentator.

SICK 'EM, SPARKY!
UMASS
BUREAU of BUILDING CONSTRUCTI HITE
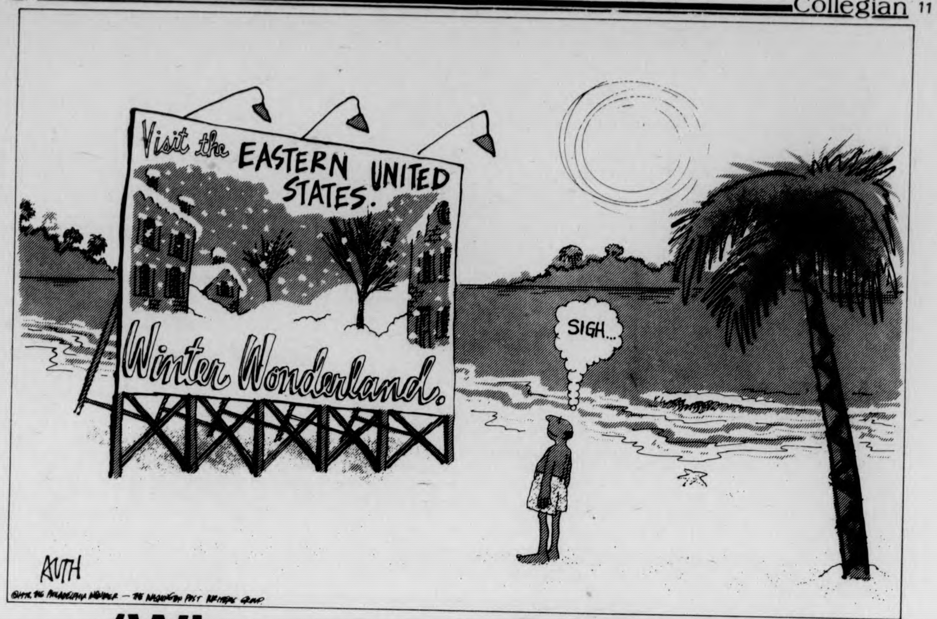
INVEST-IGATION
GUIDERA THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

A BOY AND HIS DOG



Visit the EASTERN UNITED STATES.
Winter Wonderland.
SIGH...
AUTH
©1978 The Philadelphia Inquirer — The Washington Post Writers Group

'Why are we doing this?'

Paul Cronin

Student Government is in danger of turning to stone, despite the movement perceived by some of its participants. It is churning out more paper than ever before, still there is no sign that anyone outside of the Student Senate understands more about what is going on inside. For the last four or five years, Student Government, more accurately the Student Senate, has been involved in an internal Cold War of sorts, sometimes flaring into Civil War, (that is in no way civil). The escalation usually reaches its height around the SGA Presidential elections in March, a time which is quickly approaching. All activity within the Senate will grind to a halt as battle plans are laid for placing a small number of unfortunate souls at the forefront as candidates to carry the flags of various factions.

Lengthy campaign meetings will be held amid tight security. The warring groups within the Senate will hold high-pressure character assasination sessions to first decide who will run. Attempts will be made to narrow down the list of potential opposition candidates. Guesses will be made as to who will be running the other campaigns, what tactics will be employed, where to concentrate the efforts of their own campaign, and how to stretch the $200 given to each candidacy by the Senate. These tete-a-tetes can be the most physically and emotionally draining events a person faces.

There will be one question that will be gnawing at the participants' minds at the start, then later will be whispered, and still later will be screamed late at night after a six hour planning session. That question is: "WHY?" "Why are we doing this?" While the campaign workers will be troubled by this somewhat, the candidates will be terrorized by it, no matter how dedicated. They should be, for if they aren't, they really don't understand the environment they are operating in. Now, no one really fully comprehends the SGA, or what this campus's students want. However, the one problem that is on the mind of everyone active in Student Government is how to get the "average" student more than indirectly involved in SGA operations. This involvement must go beyond the indirect contact the SGA has with its constituency, such as through the buses, the Collegian. or the Course Description and Evaluation Guides.

The Presidential elections will give birth to various proposals, some good, some bad, for improving communications between the president's office and the students, for increasing SGA services, and of course, for improving the power position of students. One of the most frustrating things for any candiate will be the questions raised by the people they will meet while campaigning. Most students show some interest when their door is knocked upon by a hopeful for the office. They are friendly and willing to listen. After a while, the candidates will begin to fall over their audience as they try to explain their platform. People understand about the dorms, the DCs, but those aren't the only issues. Once candidates begin to talk about Student Senate reorganization, people lose interest. The candidates will begin to realize that the issues they have dealt with daily and which they felt they knew intimately, aren't so simple to the average person in the classroom. Simple questions such as how, why, when, and how much become real stumbling blocks. Of course, campaign meetings will formulate answers which will satisfy the superficial interests of some people, but the candidates will feel that they couldn't answer the question the way they wanted to. They'll want to pick up the person and shake them, desperately trying to make them understand.

Part of this frustration stems from the Student Senate's inability to decide what its future is, and more importantly at this point, how to decide what to do. This inertia, this inability, is not the fault of any one faction. It is foolishness and cowardice to say: "If we could only get rid of the SOP we'd be all set," or, "The sellouts have deliberately footdragged on every major issue." All of us in the senate bear a part of the responsibility. For some reason we haven't got on the track. The committees and the task forces are doing some good work, such as the dorm lease and the course and teacher evaluation guides, along with the establishment of the Massachusetts State Student Association. Sadly, the senate as a body is in quagmire of just spending money, but doing little else.

This is a crucial time. All will agree it has been a pretty uneventful and static year in the SGA. Given the elections, the Spring Semester bodes no better. There most likely will be no major change in SGA structure this academic year, simply because of the Constitutional time requirements and the accompanying debate and implementation. The SGA undoubtedly needs an indication from its constituency as to what the Senate should do next. Student Government had better use the upcoming elections to at least begin to understand the questions.

Paul Cronin is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH E. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Notices

CONTRACEPTIVE EDUCATION

The University Health Services offers education sessions to all University men and women. Sessions: Room 302, Health Center Mon.: 3:00, Tues.: 7:00, Thurs.: 3:00. On Wed. session is at 7:00 for couples only.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING

Friday night 8:00-11:00 p.m., Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union. Teaching and reviews begin at 8:00. Open to all.

COMSTU MEETING

All majors are invited to meeting on Tues., Feb. 21, at 4:00 p.m., at Campus Center, Room 903. Finance and Planning Committees will be drawn up.

LOST

Silver bracelet on 2-15. Sent. value, substantial reward. Call Margaret 5-2174 or 549-5310.

PRE-MED SOCIETY

Anyone interested in arranging speakers, trips, etc. contact Dave at 6-4105 so we can get things rolling before our first meeting, Mar. 2.

Coalition to reverse the Bakke decision: Meeting 2:30 Friday 9th floor Campus Center Lounge, all welcome.

CHANGE OF FILMS

Casablanca has been substituted for Amarrcord. Show times are 8:00-10:00 p.m. Admission: 99 cents. Proceeds to charity, Merrill, Amherst.

PUB HAPPY HOUR

Sisters and pledges of Tri-Sigma invite all University women to join us in celebrating that today is Friday. Celebrating between 3:00 and 6:00 for rides; 545-0046 and 253-9066.

FOLK DANCE PERFORMING GROUP

Organizational meeting for all interested in joining. Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union 7:00 p.m.

GAY DISCO

P.G.A. cordially invites all people to disco, Sat., Feb. 18, 10th floor, Campus Center, 9:00-1:00, $1.00 donation.

INFORMAL STUDY ON THE BOOK OF EPHESIANS

Every Fri. 7:30 p.m. First Baptist Church of Amherst. Programs: singing, bible study, and fellowship. All welcome.

SNOW POLICY REMINDER

Univ. snow regulations say NO OVERNIGHT PARKING in snow lots from Dec. 1-April 1. This will be enforced. Parking during snow season is permitted ONLY in Lots 21, 22, 24, 25 (north of access road to P Lot only), 32, 41, 42, 43, 44, 49, 50 and all P-Lots except the front of the stadium. Overnight parking elsewhere is prohibited and ticketing and towing will result from any violation. Questions? 545-0065.

AMERICAN HOME EC ASSOC.

All majors are invited to meeting, Tues., Feb. 21 at 6:30 in Skinner Lounge. A speaker from the placement office will be there.

Woman's Health Univ. Health Services offer women's health workshops to any campus group or dorm. Specific content may be determined by those requesting the workshop. Call the Health Ed. Div. 549-2671 Ext. 181.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers wanted to participate in weekly coffee houses at Northampton St. Call Bobbie or Carrie at 549-4600 Ext. 254.

Stockbridge schedule

9:45 a.m. — Opening Ceremonies; 10:00 a.m. — Joseph Brine, Jr., Brine Tree Experts of Lowden, Inc.; Eugene Kosinski, Vegetable Corps.;11:10 a.m. — Linwood Lesure, 1977 State Tree Farmer of the Year; 1:00 p.m. — Dr. Webster, Worcester Medical School; Dr. John Hite, Veterinarian practicing in Amherst; 2:10 p.m. Alan Cumps, O.M. Scott & Sons Co.; Douglas Carey, Bay State Florists; 3:05 p.m. — Roy Boutard, Berkshire Garden Center; 4:10 p.m. — Guest Speaker John Barrus, Assistant Commissioner, MA State Dept. of Food & Agriculture; 5:00 p.m. — Professional Development Day Closed.

DC menu

TODAY

Lunch: Torpedoes, Tuna Noodle Casserole Basics: Tuna Noodle Casserole Dinner — Roast Turkey, Shrimp Shen. Basics: Shrimp Shen, Mexican Vegetable Bake.

TOMORROW

Brunch: Scrambled eggs, Chicken A La King, Sausage Grinder. Dinner: Fried Fish, Syrian Beef Stew

SUNDAY

Brunch: Scrambled eggs, Hamburgers, Tortellini in sauce. Dinner: Roast Beef, Ratatouille.

mountain FARMS MALL

ROUTE 9
HADLEY

All·American Sidewalk Sale!

February 16, 17, 18 & 20

Thursday thru Saturday and Monday, too!

The mall will be packed with honest-to-goodness all-American values for four big days: All 40 stores will have special clearance sales — honest, we wouldn't tell a lie! In honor of George, we will give away 200 cherry trees!

ENTER WITH THIS COUPON IN ANY MALL STORE TO WIN ONE OF 200 REAL CHERRY TREES, GUARANTEED TO GROW IN YOUR BACKYARD!

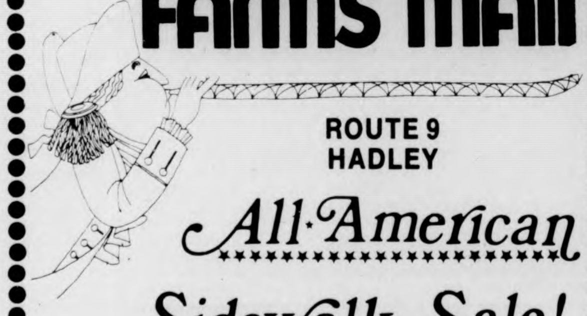
WINNERS WILL BE CONTACTED MONDAY, February 20.

CHERRY TREE GIVEAWAY

Name: ____________

Address: ____________

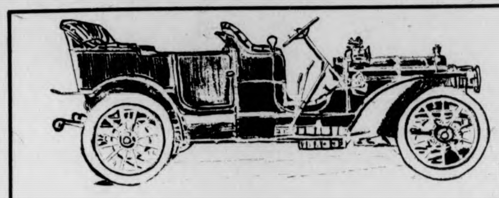
Tel. No.: ____________



The People's Gay Alliance
cordially invites all people to a

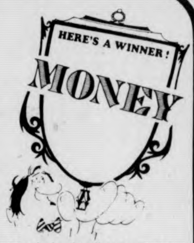
"GAY DISCO"

Sat., February 18, 1978
CC 1009 - 9:00-1:00 - $1 donation
Music by Robert Dwelley



14 Masonic St.
Northampton
584-5957

THIS COULD BE THE START OF SOMETHING BIG



It could be your big chance for a scholarship that pays you $100 a month, plus all tuition, books and lab fees.

If you want to devote a part of your college curriculum to classroom and laboratory training in leadership, management, Air Force history and traditions . . . and you can qualify, it could be for you.

Air Force ROTC leads to an Air Force officer's commission. And that means responsibility, challenge, service to your country. It means taking on big responsibility.

Look into the Air Force ROTC program at your campus. Check out the benefits of an AFROTC scholarship. It could be the start of something big . . . it could be the start of a lasting relationship with the United States Air Force in dedicated service to your country.

CALL 5-2437

AIR FORCE
ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

BUILD YOUR OWN SHIP.

Engineering Duty Officer is the Navy's name for a man whose specialty is ships and ship systems—running them, designing them, building them. An EDO's career can take him from sea duty to postgraduate study then on into his own individual specialty—anything from hard-core pragmatics to pure research.

Engineering Duty. If it sounds like your kind of job,

Sign up for an interview with the Navy Officer Information Team
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
22, 23 and 24 February 1978

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

Jewish Arts Festival has begun

The Fourth Annual Five College Jewish Arts Festival of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations has begun its six weeks of presentations scheduled from February 1-March 15, 1978. The Festival is a series of lectures, films, concerts, art exhibits, workshops, etc. designed to highlight aspects of the Jewish arts and the work of Jewish artists. Its goal is to inform, to heighten interest in the Jewish arts and to encourage their growth.

The Calendar of Events for the Jewish Arts Festival is as follows:

Feb. 13-March 3 — ISRAELI ARTISTS' EXHIBIT AND SALE — lower level of the Helen Hills Hills Chapel, Smith College. An exhibition and sale of silkscreens and lithographs by some of Israel's best known artists: Sharir, Bak, Rotholz, Weil, Stern, Rubin and Basson has been arranged with the cooperation of the Pucker-Safrai Gallery of Boston and Jerusalem.

The show is open to the public free of charge. Anyone desiring more information regarding the exhibit may contact the B'nai B'rith Hillel office at Smith College at 584-2700, ext. 2268.

EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT ISRAELI FOLK-DANCING in the Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union, UMass. 7:30 beginners, 8:30 advanced. Free.

Wed., Feb. 22, Film: HESTER STREET, a poignant Story of Jewish immigrants on the lower East Side of New York at the turn of the century. UMass, Thompson 104 at 8:00 p.m. Free. Introduced by Jules Chametzky, with discussion following the movie.

Mon., Feb. 27, Lecture: ELIE WIESEL, holocaust survivor and renowned author, 8:00 p.m. in Student Union Ballroom, UMass. Sponsored by the Distinguished Visitor's Program and Resources Judaica. Free.

Wed., March 1, JEWISH ARTS FESTIVAL WORKSHOP NIGHT

1) Israeli Folk Dancing — Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union at 7:30 p.m.

2) Calligraphy with Rabbi Alan Morse in Campus Center 904 at 7:00 p.m.

3) Challah Baking with Julia "Childs" Mack in Moore House, Southwest, at 7:00 p.m. (Please call Hillel at 545-2526 if you plan to attend this workshop.)

Fri., March 3, SPECIAL SHABBAT SERVICE, written by the Italian Renaissance composer, Salomone Rossi and sung by UMass music students. In the Marks Meadow Auditorium (School of Ed.), UMass at 7:30 p.m.

Sun., March 5, Brunch: 11:00 a.m. in the Commonwealth Room, Student Union, UMass. Topic: "WOMEN IN JEWISH LIFE: TWO VIEWS" with Martha Ackelsburg, Ass't Prof. of Gov't. at Smith College and Shifra Deren, co-director of the Chabad House. Fee for food only.

Tues., March 7, Film: "THE APPRENTICESHIP OF DUDDY KRAVITZ" at 8:00 p.m. in Thompson 104. Free. Introduced by Jules Chametzky.

Sat., March 11, "AN EVENING WITH KOL B'SEDER," a folk-rock group performing in Hebrew and in English. Cape Cod Lounge, Student Union at 8:00 p.m. $1.00 general admission.

Come learn about Energy Conservation from us.

Energy Conservation is just one of the many workshops offered this Spring through the Credit-Free Workshop Program of the Division of Continuing Education.

For registration information and a catalog, please call us at (413) 545-3653, write, or stop by Room 113 Hasbrouck Building, UMass/Amherst.

Remember, we accept American Express, VISA, and Mastercharge.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS, AMHERST

What's Happening

Youth projects on upswing due to experimental program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Endowment for the Humanities has announced the establishment of a major experimental program — NEH YOUTH PROJECTS — in an effort to increase learning experiences for youth in the humanities. The program will be administered by the Endowment's newly-created Office of Youth Programs.

According to Joseph Duffey, Chairperson of the National Endowment for the Humanities, NEH Youth Projects are designed "to encourage organizations and institutions to provide exciting, new out-of-classroom opportunities for young people to develop interest, knowledge and skills in the humanities.

For additional information about NEH Youth Projects and Youthgrants, potential applicants may write: Office of Youth Programs; Mail Stop 103; National Endowment for the Humanities; Washington, DC 20506.

The Temptations of Goodness talk from Fromm's works

Sunday, February 19, 11 a.m. Arnold Westwood will speak on "The Temptations of Goodness." Drawn from the works of Eric Fromm and Rollo May, this talk will deal with the "perennial problem to all Unitarians — an adequate doctrine of sin." Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 N. Pleasant St. Amherst. Everyone welcome.

Business preview seminars will be held

There are a number of openings, for Friday Evening Business Preview Seminars. They are open to those people who are serious about opening a business of their own and want to know how to start, in their spare time.

The Seminars will be held, at Hotel Conference Rooms, in the Hartford — Springfield area. Businessmen, already established in a successful business of their own, will conduct the seminar from 8-10 p.m.

The seminar is free to all those who apply and qualify. Seminar participants will be selected, by invitation only. To apply, send a letter of intention to: Post Office Box 2139, Enfield, Connecticut 06082.

Big railroad hobby show held this Sunday in S.U.B.

Our Big Railroad Hobby Show held Sunday Feb. 19 from 1-5 p.m., will feature displays, films, slides, and a flea market. This will be your show, bring what you have and show it off to others. The more you bring, the bigger the show.

Displays, both operating and static, will feature model equipment from N sclaes up to live steamers.

Films and slides of model and prototype operations will be shown continuously throughout the show.

Tables will be set up for those wishing to participate in the flea market. This is an excellent opportunity to clear your shelves of extra and unneeded models; and an excellent opportunity for young people to acquire equipment at low prices. So bring in your models, buildings, timetables, magazines, and other model and full sized railroadiana to help make this an interesting sale.

Anyone having heavy displays or unusual space requirements contact one of the following for unloading instructions or to reserve your space: Bob Buck, 413-436-5318, or Ken Coombs, 413-733-3363, during the day, or Bill Venman, 413-549-1098, in the evening.

French surrealist paintings on exhibit in Herter Gallery

AMHERST, Ma. — An exhibit of paintings by two French surrealist painters and poets, Guy Ducornet and his wife, Rikki, will be shown at the Herter Gallery Feb. 19-March 1.

The two artists are participants in the international surrealist groups "Arsenal" and "Phases." Both have shown their work internationally.

Guy Ducornet is a visiting lecturer in French at Amherst College.

The Herter Gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus on February 22, 24, or contact your Navy representative at 518-472-4424/4462 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days 40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days 35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

LOST

Gold watch with multi-colored face lost during finals. Sentimental value. Call Dot, 549-6416 or 545-3500.

My best friend— reward for sm fem dog beag/lab mix? Blw/white belly, paws, chest, neck & tip of tail that wags constantly. Ans. to Poco, gone Jan. 6. Please call 253-2290 if you've any info.

To the guy who picked up 4 letters in coffee shop CC, call if mailed, please. 549-0816. Thanks a whole lot.

TRAVEL

Jobs on ships! American. Foreign. No experience required. Exc. pay, worldwide travel. Summer jobs or career. Send $3 for info. SEAFAX, Dept. E-10 Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

HELP WANTED

Camp Tomahawk & Wicosuta. Top N.H. men and women interviewing Feb. 24, Goodell building. Positions offered: waterfront, tennis, all athletics, tripping, science, drama, golf, riflery, archery, journalism, rocketry, WSI, piano, crafts, secretary's, lacrosse, wrestling, karate. Contact Lelly West Conry Student Employment Office for appointment. 545-1951.

Head resident positions available. Part time positions at Mount Holyoke College for the academic year 1978-1979. Single persons or married couples. B.A. required. Call (413) 538-2550. An equal opportunity employer.

Phi Sig is looking for housepersons to clean up after meals in exchange for homecooked meals. Call John, 545-0174.

Counselors—private coed overnight camp in Berkshires—openings for instructors in: archery, basketball, tennis, soccer, gymnastics, horseback riding, rocketry, camp radio station, sailing, tripping/backpacking, dance, dramatics, arts & crafts, head waterfront (pool). Also needed: general counselors, nurse, head cook & bookkeeper. Good salaries, friendly atmosphere. Contact Paul Krouner, Camp Schodack, 268 Mason Terr., Brookline, MA 02146, (6'7) 277-7600 or Rick Heideman, on campus, 546-9598.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round, Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free information—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

FOR SALE

Pioneer 150 watt amp, Pioneer 112 turntable, pr. of Ambient 22 speakers, amp. Orig. $600, BO over $450. Call 549-0235.

AM FM car radio for sale. Never used. In-dash. Best offer. Louise at 256-8297.

Calculator—TI SR-51 II, 1 year old, ex. cond. $35 or best offer. Call 546-6724.

Refrig., Sanyo, 2 cu. ft. new sacr. $75. Paul, 549-1688.

1¼ acre lot in Brandon, Fla.—½ hr. from Clearwater. Lot is on hill overlooking large lake. Lovely area. For info call 1-467-3465 after 5 & on weekends.

Invest your rent money by buying—you'll come out thousands ahead at graduation. Put the touch on dad for the down payment. Call Dawn Realty, 549-5998.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Once in a blue moon. 5 Market St., N'hampton used furn.—antiques, red tag sale, now-18.

INSTRUCTION

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb. 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

WANTED

Female vocalist wants band. Call Alison at 6-7426.

Scuba tanks, twin 50 plus reg. AM 367-9982.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Bowdoin College any weekend. Will share expenses. Call 6-7260.

VALENTINE

Jean Moore Sensei and Tomiko Narahara Sensei, you both are absolutely great. You make "Nihongo" special. Happy Valentine's Week, Lenore.

AUDIO

Sony 3650 amp 80rms, 5 yr. warr., 256-8709, B.O.

Brand new 22" high efficiency speakers. $200 or b.o. Call Carol at 549-5935.

Garrard 40B w/wood base and new AT11 cart., $30, 549-4470. Must sell soon.

PERSONALS

Thief! You didn't have to steal my Cosmic Wimpout dice. Buy your own at the University Store!

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

Take that, Hal Bjornson.

Gorgeous women at 114 Rol Grn, Happy VD.

To the loveboat—we love you all, you crazy people. The drunks in the honeymoon suite want a name change to the bar.

Remember George, Duke of Clarence, Earl of Salisbury and Warwick, murdered five hundred years ago, 18 February 1478-18 February 1978—a friend.

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

1969 Ford wagon, 390, runs but needs work. Call Dave, 546-8618, after 5. $1200, nego.

ROOM WANTED

Roommate wanted to share a bedroom, non-smoker, Brittany Manor Apts., 253-2107.

FOR RENT

UMass professor has two rooms, $90/mo+ut., large house—Dave Nubert, 545-2227/wkday, 659-3523/wkend-eves. 36 Bridge Millersfa.

Roommate wanted: male or female, smoker or non-smoker, large room in fun Amherst house. Near campus, near OH bus. $100 plus utilities. 549-5862.

Roommate wanted: male or female non-smoker to share Amherst house. Near bus. $100 plus util. Call Kim, 256-0468.

Experience cooperative living in Buckland. Rm for rent in beautiful country house on 240 acres. Vegetarians and non-smokers please. Call 625-2779.

SERVICES

Buy 3 subs get one free. Sundays at Subway of Amherst.

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Five College typing service—professional, fast service. Call Diane, 549-2637.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

ENTERTAINMENT

WINTER FESTIVAL

EVENT

Mon., Feb. 20
12:30 p.m.

Fashion Show
Beardsley's Buffet Luncheon
Door Prizes

Demonstrations:
Weaving
Cooking
Stained-Glass

Music
Mime
Dance Gallery

main street center

Main Street Center • 150 Main Street • Northampton

Academy of Music
Northampton

NOW – ends Tues.
7:00 & 9:00
"Cousin Cousine is fetchingly loony and great fun."
—Janet Maslin, Newsweek

Cousin Cousine
—only area showing!
STARRING MARIE CHRISTINE BARRAULT
at the Gates of Smith College

FIVE COLLEGE SUMMER FLIGHT

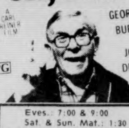
Boston-London round trip only $328. June 12-August 15, Pan American 707. ABC charter (Five Coll., Inc. as agent for Regal Assoc., charterer); non-Five College persons are eligible. Early sign-up urged. Contact: International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore, tel. 545-2710, for application.

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
"Oh, God!"
A CARL REINER FILM
GEORGE BURNS
JOHN DENVER
PG



Eves.: 7:00 & 9:00
Sat. & Sun. Mat.: 1:30
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

The rusty nail Inn

| EVERY SUNDAYGEORGE T. GREGORY | EVERY MONDAYMIDNIGHT SHIFT |
|---|---|
| TUES. and WED., FEB. 21 and 22CLEAN LIVING and BEAR MOUNTAIN | THURS., FEB. 23BRICKER BAND |

FEB. 24 and 25 FRI. and SAT.,
FAT and MECHANIX

COMING TONITE and TOMORROW,
FEB. 17 and 18 ON THE SAME STAGE
JAMES COTTON and JAMES MONTGOMERY
Cover $4.00

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

AROUND THE TOWN

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9–HADLEY, MASS

ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW [illegible] CHILDREN [illegible]—SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R
① MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:15

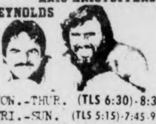
CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND

WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
② MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45-7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

STARTS FRIDAY

WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G
③ FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

"SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
ENDS TUESDAY



R
④ MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:30
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

Bluewall Bar

Feb. 17

Happy Hour 3-6 Featuring E. B. MOSS plus 2 For 1 Powerhouses

Fri. & Sat. night Feb. 17 & 18th
The Fools

Women trample Cats; men to run YanCons

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

DURHAM, N.H. — The UMass women's track team had an easy time of things as it disposed of the University of New Hampshire yesterday in a dual meet, 61-38.

Meanwhile, the men's team went through final preparations for the Yankee Conference Championship meet which will be held Sunday, beginning at noon at the University of Connecticut in Storrs.

"It was a pretty easy meet," said women's coach Charlotte Lettis. "UNH was sick, and our distance runners were stronger anyway. Besides, we had a much deeper team."

UMass was still suffering from the flu, and at least half the team didn't make the trip. The athletes who did were once again forced to double up in events, and once again, responded with durable performances.

Senior Nancy Cominoli won the 50 yard hurdles, ran on the winning 4 x 1 lap relay, and was second in the dash. Diana Sealey won the quarter, also ran on the relay, and was third in the high jump. To top things off, she chipped in with a leg on the winning mile relay.

Cindi Martin, normally a quarter miler, won the half in 2:22, with Bonnie Bukowski second. Barb Callanan, showing a lot of strength coming off the demon flu, won the mile (5:24.8), while behind her, teammate Priscilla Wilson staged a late chase to take second place away from her Wildcat opponent at the wire. Another win was recorded by Mary Ann Stravinskas in the shot put.

The men's team will travel south on Sunday to battle perennial foe UConn for the league championship. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Boston University also will compete.

Brady Mayer, Keith Alston and Bruce Parsons provide a triple threat in the triple jump, while John Slepetz and Parsons will compete in the long jump.

The springs have generally been a weak event indoors for UMass, until this year's addition of Rich Cady.

Other top performers include Don Dowden in the high jump; Joe Martens in the quarter; Stetson Arnold in the mile; Francis O'Keefe in the 880; Mark Healy in the 600; Steve MacDougall in the 1000; Mike Quinn, Mike Morris, Lou Panaccione and Jay Legere in the two mile; and strong mile and two mile relays.

★Swimmers

CONT. FROM PAGE 19

Although the relay teams shoud do the best for UMass, there should be some fine individual performances as well.

One highlight should be the 200 yard butterfly, in which Schwartz will be defending the title she earned last year as a freshman. Schwartz, who will be swimming the maximum number of events allowed, 7, will also be in the 200 IM, the 200 butterfly and some individual breaststroke races.

Another individual swimming the full 7 races who coach Nunnelly "expects to do quite well" is Walsh, who is also entered in the 200 fly, 100 fly, 50 fly, and the 200 free.

Jurcik, who along with Schwartz has been one of the team's leading point-scorers this season, should also do well in the individual races she is in. These include the 50 fly, 100 yard individual medley, and the 50 and 200 yard backstroke events.

Another phase of the competition which UMass may do well is the one-meter diving, in which Suzi Strobel, Chris Bullard and Leslie Dumphey will be competing.

"They've been doing well in practice and look like they're ready," said diving coach Dough Forsythe. Forsythe is hoping for "three in the top 12 — maybe."

Sports Notices

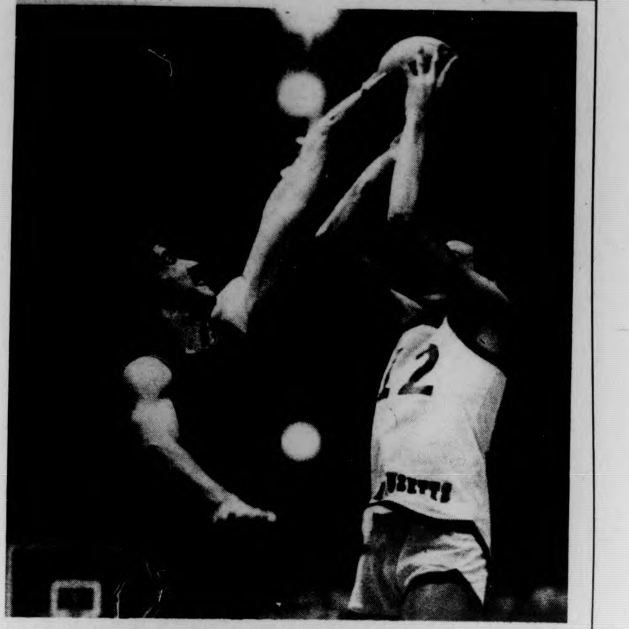
NOTICES

SCUBA TRIP — For those interested in scuba diving off the Florida Keys — and earning credit for it — during spring break (March 19-25), there will be an organizational meeting on Friday, March 10 in Campus Center room 911 at 7 p.m.

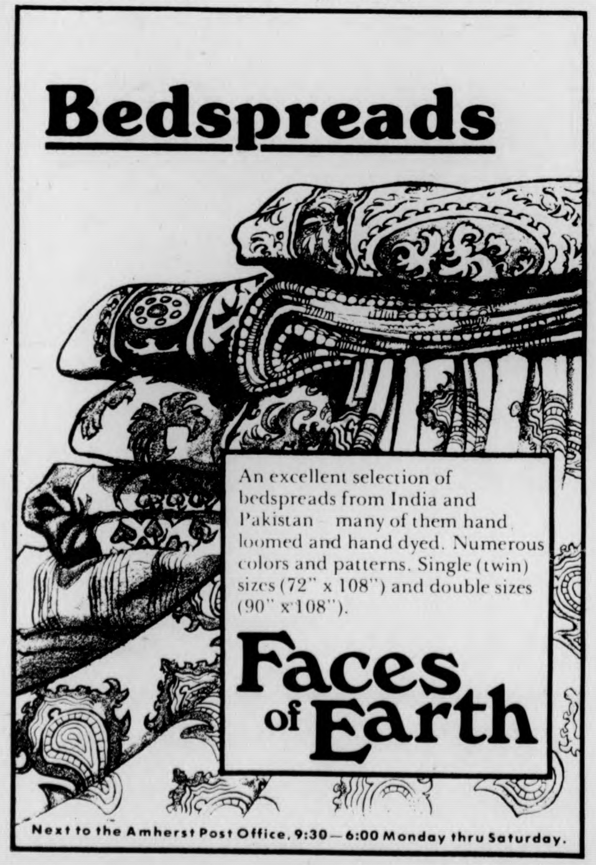
BADMINTON — Attempts are being made to form a UMass badminton club. Call R.W. Trueswell at 545-2851 for further information.

INTRAMURAL NOTICES — The following facilities will be closed: Boyden pool - Feb. 18, Feb. 20 (12-4 p.m.); NOPE pool - Feb. 25; Hicks building - Feb. 16, 18, 21, 23, 27; NOPE gym - Feb. 25.



It's shooter vs shooter as Huskie guard Dave Caligaris, high scorer for the game with 22, attempts to block a jump shot by UMass's Brad Johnson (no. 12). (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Clancy's Pub
featuring Rt. 5, North Hatfield
The Best In Irish Music
this week
New Folk Trio Fri.-Sun.
Next Week from Wed. - Sun.
Wed. night $1 cover
free draft from 8:30 - 9:30



Bedspreads

An excellent selection of bedspreads from India and Pakistan — many of them hand loomed and hand dyed. Numerous colors and patterns. Single (twin) sizes (72" x 108") and double sizes (90" x108").

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office, 9:30—6:00 Monday thru Saturday.

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE
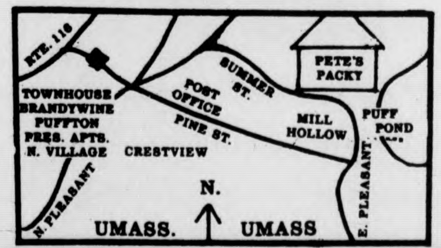
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST

FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)

NIGHTLY 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. 6:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.



RTE. 116
SUMMER ST.
PETE'S PACKY
POST OFFICE
PINE ST.
MILL HOLLOW
PUFF POND
TOWNHOUSE
BRANDYWINE
PUFFTON
PRES. APTS.
N. VILLAGE
CRESTVIEW
N. PLEASANT
E. PLEASANT
N.
UMASS.
UMASS

FALSTAFF
12 oz. cans $5.25

BUDWEISER
12 oz. cans $6.49

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

GOOD NEWS, UNCLE DUKE?
YOU BET IT IS, NEPHEW! OL' MAN WILLIAMS WANTS TO INTERVIEW ME FOR THE REDSKINS MANAGER POSITION!
YOU? HOW COME?
WELL, HE CHECKED OUT MY RESUME AND CLIPPINGS FROM MY SPORTS WRITING DAYS..
AMONG OTHER THINGS, IT SEEMS HE WAS QUITE IMPRESSED WITH MY DETAILED KNOWLEDGE OF THE NEW WORK THAT'S BEING DONE WITH HIGH-PERFORMANCE STEROIDS!
A MANAGER NEEDS TO KNOW THAT?
OH, ABSOLUTELY! WHY DO YOU THINK HE HAD TO LET GEORGE ALLEN GO?
2-17
GB Trudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
2-17
GOOD GRIEF, I'M DROWNING!
WHERE ARE ALL MY FRIENDS?!
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

GURU
TELL ME, WISE SAGE... WILL THE POOR INHERIT THE EARTH?
YES, BUT THE TAXES WILL MAKE THEM WISH THEY HADN'T!
2-17

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

I THINK MY FATHER'S GOT THE COPS LOOKING FOR US BENB! WE'VE GOT TO BLOW THIS TOWN!
RRRRRR!
LAFLER
2/17
THE BOYS DECIDE TO ESCAPE VIA THE SEWER SYSTEM!
SEWER
BLEH! I WONDER WHAT THE MILDEW RATING DOWN HERE IS?

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

DENNIS' RIGHT ARM SWINGS DOWN IN A BLURRED ARC, AND THE FUNCTION OF A BATTLE-ROB
KRRRO NTCH!
IS TERMINATED!!
THE PORTAL BECKONS
DENNIS LEAPS,
AMID A SALVO OF DISSOLVO RAYS.
DENNIS ENTERS THE TUBE, AND EMERGES IN THE SUBTERRANEAN ROOM, HEADING DIRECTLY FOR THE PORTAL.
HE STREAKS INTO THE PORTAL,
WHERE HIS ATOMS ARE CONVERTED INTO ENERGY,
AND THE ENERGY IS BEAMED THROUGH SUB-SPACE, TO ANOTHER PORTAL, WHERE THE ENERGY IS CONVERTED BACK INTO ATOMS.
SO, DENNIS NOLIN RETURNS SAFELY.
HE ALSO RETURNS ABOUT 3 FEET FROM A WALL...
AND IS UNABLE TO STOP.
THWAP!
OOH... MY HEAD... WELL THIS WAS WORTH A FEW LUMPS. I'VE GOT ALL THE PROOF I NEED TO SHOW THOSE IDIOTS AT THE UNIVERSITY THAT I WAS RIGHT ABOUT A GATEWAY.
I KINDA FEEL BAD THAT MY LEAVING DOOMED THOSE MACHINES.
2-17 ROLLINS

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Did you notice that Marty Maceda's strip is no longer in the Collegian?
Oh, pooh! That was my favorite comic!
Really? Could you explain what was going on in there?
Oh, sure. You see,...
...um...
Ranney 2/17

BACK AGAIN by K

WHO'S THAT?
MY NEW ROOMMATE.
TWEET TWEET
TWEET TWEET
I THINK I'M GETTING A NEW ONE IN THE MORNING
TWEET TWEET
2/17

Your Birthday

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17 — Born today, you are inclined to look at life too seriously, and to miss much of the fun that is free for anyone willing to discover it. You have outstanding powers of concentration, but are inclined to use them in interests which may in the long run do you more harm than good, or do others more good than they do you. Self-concern and humor sets all right.

You have an independent nature. You must guard against alienating others because you emphasize personal freedom so much that you cannot work in harmony with anyone else. You strive to overcome a sense of frustration over the state of your friendships; you would do well to approach them with a positive attitude of mutual aid rather than a negative one of live-and-let-live.

You could prove highly successful were you to enter the business world with definite goals, but your tendency to let nature take its course could cause you to let errors get out of hand. You must take care that you don't misunderstand your way to failure. Listen carefully!

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) — Eliminate the possibility of error at evening by being especially careful all day.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) — Select a single aspect of your personality to develop. It may confuse others, but it should calm you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Control a tendency to jump to conclusions. There is much to learn about a new project if you pay attention.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Independence of spirit could backfire. Try to work in harmony with family members. Court peace at home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — A cross temper could lose you gain at home today. Keep emotions under control.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Confusion in a new endeavor makes tempers short at home. Try to placate loved ones.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) — Too much joy could hamper the development of a home project destined to bring profit.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) — A long journey may be offered today as inducement to change your standards. Think it over carefully.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) — Public works gain you recognition you've been hoping for. Don't be overly modest accepting deserved praise.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) — Shrewdness is essential to outsmart one wanting to get the best of you today. Be clever first, then kind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) — Brilliance may not be looked upon with the pleasure you expect. Keep a low profile.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) — Fluency of expression is important to your career. Talk another into an advancement.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate

Local Television

6:00 3 8 19 22 30 NEWS
9 CONCENTRATION
11 STAR TREK "The City On The Edge Of Forever"
18 BOZO
24 57 ZOOM
32 STAR TREK
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 BONANZA "Ponderosa Expolsion"
56 BRADY BUNCH
6:30 2 THE ELECTRIC COMPANY
8 22 30 NEWS
9 JOKER'S WILD
18 LASSIE
24 MUNDO REAL
27 TARZAN "Pride Of The Assassins"
38 ADAM—12
56 PARTRIDGE FAMILY
57 OVER EASY
6:55 40 NEWSBEAT NEWS

7:00 2 SAY BROTHER
3 22 38 30 40 NEWS
8 CONCENTRATION
9 BOWLING FOR DOLLARS
11 THE ODD COUPLE "A Barnacle Adventure"
18 FESTIVAL OF FAITH
19 30 THE CROSS—WITS
24 OVER EASY
38 THE ODD COUPLE
56 MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
57 BOOK BEAT
7:30 3 THE DAILY NUMBERS
8 FAMILY FUED
9 NEWLYWED GAME
11 ACTION NEWS
19 THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
22 32 NAME THAT TUNE
24 57 MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
27 ABBOTT AND COSTELLO
30 THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
38 THE JOKER'S WILD
40 THE MUPPETS SHOW
7:31 3 MATCH GAME

8:00 2 24 57 WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
3 WONDER WOMAN Wonder Woman is pitted against a computer genius who steals the electronic memories and programs of the world's largest computers, as part of his master plan to take control of the world.
8 19 40 DONNY AND MARIE OSMOND SHOW
9 NEW YORK KNICKS BASKETBALL
11 LET'S MAKE A DEAL
22 30 CPO SHARKEY "Sharkey Meets Pruitt's Sister" Sharkey takes an exceptionally active interest in coaching Pruitt's starry-eyed and shapely sister for the annual "Miss Topside" contest.
27 MOVIE "There Was A Crooked Man"
32 FEATURE FILM "The Last Command" Sterling Hayden, Richard Carlson
38 MARCUS WELBY, M.D. "The End And A Beginning"
56 MOVIE "The Young Lions" Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift, Dean Martin
8:30 2 24 57 WALL STREET WEEK
11 DINAH!
22 30 CPO SHARKEY "Sharkey's Back Problems"
9:00 2 MASTERPIECE THEATER "Anna Karenina"
3 CBS FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE "Big Mo"
8 19 40 ABC FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE "Three On A Date"
18 THE PTL CLUB
22 30 ROCKFORD FILES
24 CONNECTICUT
38 MOVIE "Forever Amber"
57 57 REPORTS MASSACHUSETTS
9:30 57 MAKEM AND CLANCY
10:00 2 11 27 NEWS
22 30 QUINCY
24 AUSTIN CITY LIMITS
32 THE BOLD ONES "A Game Of Chance"
56 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE
57 SOCCER MADE IN GERMANY
10:15 9 WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE
10:30 2 MACNEIL/LEHRER REPORT
9 NEW YORK REPORT
11 TO TELL THE TRUTH
27 JACK WOOLNER'S OUTDOORS
11:00 2 24 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW
3 8 19 22 30 40 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS
9 56 THE HOLLYWOOD CONNECTION
11 THE ODD COUPLE "The Pig Who Came To Dinner"
27 MOVIE "Darby's Rangers"
32 BOSTON CELTICS BASKETBALL"
11:30 3 SLIGHTLY LATE SHOW "Bonnie And Clyde"
5 MILLION DOLLAR MOVIE "Lost Command"
9 MOVIE "Conquest Of Space" Walter Brooke, Eric Fleming, Phil Foster
11 THE HONEYMOONERS "The Loudspeaker"
22 30 [illegible] THE JOHNNY CARSON SHOW
38 SHERLOCK HOLMES "Dressed To Kill"
40 BARETTA
56 THE NIGHT GALLERY
57 CAPTIONED ABC EVENING NEWS
12:00 11 TWILIGHT ZONE "What's In The Box"
57 SOUNDSTAGE
12:30 11 PERRY MASON
12:40 40 THE PROTECTORS "Your Witness"
1:00 22 30 [illegible] THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL
1:15 9 JOE FRANKLIN SHOW
40 NEWS
2:00 [illegible] NEWS, WEATHER
2:30 11 BIOGRAPHY "Winston Churchill" Part II
22 30 NEWS, WEATHER

EVENING SPORTS
8:00 9 NEW YORK KNICKS BASKETBALL Knicks vs. Detroit Pistons
11:00 32 BOSTON CELTICS BASKETBALL Boston At Los Angeles

★ — DENOTES ADVERTISING

Matmen in quad-match

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass wrestling team will again be on the road this weekend as the Minutemen take on the likes of Navy, Boston University, and Yale in a quad-match at New Haven, Connecticut.

The Minutemen are preparing for the New England championships at Rhode Island in March, and their lineup this weekend is indicative of both this forthcoming event and the fact that the team is still riddled with injuries.

Coach Dave Amato has decided upon only a few of the weight classes at this time.

Dana Rasmussen will be the starter at 118 pounds. Larry Otsuka is still out of the UMass lineup, and his replacement, Keith Dixon, is also on the shelf.

Charley Rigoglioso and Mike Carroll will compete at 142 pounds.

After a recent stint at 158 pounds, co-captain Timmy Fallon is expected to return to his customary 150 pounds. Monty Payette will probably go at 158 pounds.

Still another either-or situation exists in the 167 pound weight class, where Amato will bring both Fred Rheault and Dave O'Brien on the trop.

After wrestling for much of the season in the 190 pound weight class, Bob Clark will compete at 177 pounds this weekend.

Clark, a freshman, has not wrestled at this weight in college, but may find himself at 177 pounds in the New England tournament.

Bob Radivitz is scheduled to wrestle at 190 pounds, and the heavyweight will be John Allen.

Wrestling notes

The matmen trekked to West Point for a meet with Army on Wednesday, but heavyweight Allen was the only Minuteman grappler able to win a match; his being a superior decision...Things have been so bad for Amato in the lighter weight classes that he was forced to use 118 pound grapplers in the first three weights against Army. Dana Rasmussen opened at 118 pounds, while Rich Schriazzi and Dave Daly wrestled at 126 and 134 pounds respectively. The next, and last, UMass home match is on Monday, February 27, as the Minutemen entertain New Hampshire...Still no word on Tony Perry...

Mermen in home finale

by BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

The men's swim team will appear in their last home meet of the season this Saturday at 2:00 p.m., in the Boyden Pool.

This will be the final opportunity for UMass fans to watch the Mermen, as they take on perennial rival University of Connecticut.

Bei Melamed's squad will be aiming for their fifth straight win en route to a potential 7-1 campaign. Already in February UMass has left in its wake Tufts, Rhode Island, Amherst, and Vermont.

After comparing the two teams it appears the Huskies from Storrs would present only a minor challenge to UMass, but an unforseeable complication has clouded the forecast. The complication is something everyone recently has become all too familiar with, the Russian Flu.

An indication of how severely it has inflicted the UMass team was the forced cancellation of this Wednesday's meet with the University of New Hampshire. Coach Melamed, explaining the situation, said, "We had so many key swimmers weakened and sick it would have been foolish to go up there."

It is presumed most of the "key" performers will be healthier by Saturday, but to what extent is uncertain. The inability to do hard workouts is also a factor that can play an important role in the outcome.

Despite the weakened physical state of the team, Coach Melimed said confidently, "Connecticut is usually one of the swimming powers in New England, but this is an off year for them."

Spikers travel

The UMass mens volleyball team is hoping to improve on its 4-5 record as it travels to Williamstown tomorrow for matches with Williams, Middlebury, and UNH.

The Minutemen will have tough matches on their hands with both UNH and Williams. UNH took three games from UMass last Saturday in Durham and Williams won two of its three games with the Minutemen. Those matches were the competitive debut for many members of the squad, however, and Co-Captains Steve Richter and Kirk Peters promise that the team will be "ready" this week.

"UNH and Williams are the two top teams in our division" says coach Michael Gurk "but they can be beaten". "Middlebury is also a good club, based on what I saw of them in the jamboree at Wentworth, but not as strong as UNH or Williams," adds Gurk.

Gurk said UMass can be competitive with teams in its division in this first year of competition.

Today's Crossword

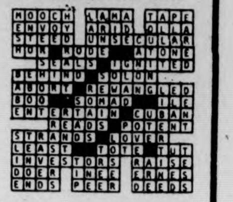
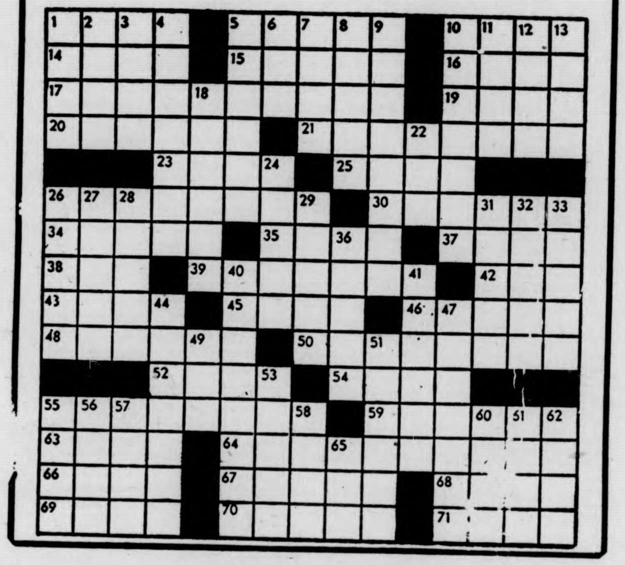
Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:



ACROSS
1 Wan
5 ..... clam
10 State
14 Allied by nature
15 Crazy as .....
16 .... stick: Pole for jumping
17 "Viva la ..........!"
19 "I've Told Ev'ry Little ...."
20 Suggests corruption
21 Smashes
23 "Take ....": M.C.'s words
25 Length x breadth
26 "One for .. ....."
30 Inmost part
34 Revive
35 "..... an' a two"
37 Irish Kings' historic seat
38 Toronto's prov
39 Sol and Ra 2 words
42 Taboo
43 So Amer wood sorrels
45 Chinese dynasty
46 Sheer linen fabric
48 Missile
50 Backed up
52 All right: Var.
54 Shoppers' mecca
55 "As a ...... .. fact"
59 Kobolds
63 Came to rest
64 Toronto or Duluth: 2 words
66 Unaltered
67 Snare
68 Miscellany
69 Fastened with rope
70 Actress .... Garson
71 Be inclined

DOWN
1 Tablets
2 Russian man's name
3 Biography
4 Set on fire Var.
5 Clergyman
6 .... de France
7 The "s" of "S A R"
8 Rich Arabian coffee
9 ........ bandit: Slot machine
10 Self-important person
11 Have on one's person
12 Seaweed
13 .... d-oeuvres Appetizers
18 Jostles
22 Light refreshment
24 Starts to bottle-feed
26 Group of soldiers
27 From this source
28 Inner Anat
29 Hindu mystics
31 Uncontrollable
32 Eccesiastic vestment
33 Declined
36 Ancient Roman date
40 Writing bad checks
41 Showing little emotion
44 Having narrow openings
47 Ace
49 Live from day to day
51 Food processor
53 Reverence
55 Ship's spar
56 Jai ....
57 Opportune moment
58 Ice mass
60 Plow's bottom surface
61 Verdant isle
62 Danish language sound
65 Ibsen character



TACO VILLA
THE NEW ALTERNATIVE...

With the help of our customer's opinions, much research and perserverance, we have developed and are proud to introduce our

NEW, AUTHENTIC & DIVERSE
MEXICAN MENU
with now includes:
• FULL DINNERS •
• ENCHILADAS • TOSTADAS • GUACAMOLE •
REFRITOS • SPANISH RICE • QUESADILLAS
and more!

NOW OPEN SUNDAYS 12-8
Mon.-Thurs. 11-9, Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.
21 Center St., Northampton
(just off Main Street next to the Police Station)
584-0673 * Take Out or Dine In * BYOB

— Wolfies Pizza —
offering the finest selection of:
pizza, subs, and sandwiches

come in and see us, try the the food, sit by a warm fire
or play our pinball machines

★ Special Offer ★
one large drink FREE with the purchase of a pizza or large grinder at Wolfies Pizza offer good Feb. 20-22 with a copy of this coupon deliveries made mon-fri 4:00-?

open 7 days a week sat-sun 12:00-?

located next to Southwest!
173 Sunset Ave.
call 549-5592 or 549-5593

Gymwomen victorious...

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

For the second time in less than a week, the UMass women's gymnastics team defeated its opponent with a makeshift line-up.

Wednesday night the team swept all three places in vaulting and balance beam, leading the way to a 132.55-122.70 victory over Southern Connecticut.

Coach Virginia Evans was "very pleased" with the results, both in performance and spirit. "We really pulled together for this one," she said. "We didn't have a whole lot of experience out there because of the illnesses, but we showed a lot of improvement."

The Minutewomen started off well with captain Karen Hemberger, Susan Cantwell, and Cheryl Morrier sweeping the vaulting event. Hemberger took first with a 9.05.

UMass widened its lead as it outscored SoConn on the uneven parallel bars, 32.05-30.45. SoConn's Colleen Burke took first with an 8.55 but was followed by two UMass gymnasts. Hemberger, in her first meet since coming back from the flu, took second with an 8.25 and Jean Anderson followed with an 8.0.

It was in the balance beam where UMass totally dominated, taking the top four places. Laurie Knapp took first with an 8.6 which Evans said was "one of the best performances of the night."

The ever present Hemberger again took second with an 8.2 with Morrier just behind with her 8.1. Karen Clemente closed out the sweep with her 7.85.

After the beam, the 99.5-91.25 going into the floor exercises.

Hemberger won the event with her 8.55 routine. She was followed by Morrier with an 8.4.

Needless to say, Hemberger won the all-around with a total of 34.05 points which is an improvement over her last performance.

Burke of SoConn took second place honors with 32.15, nipping Clemente's 32.10.

Evans said the meet was valuable, the experience it gave many members on the team which will be needed when the Minutewomen face Springfield Saturday night. She expects to have more of the regular lineup for that meet.

Sue Cantwell participated in only the vaulting event because she came down with the flu and has not practiced since Saturday.

Stephanie Jones will hopefully return for some events and Coleen Thorton will still be questionable.

The gymwomen travel to Springfield on Sunday for a 4 p.m. meet with the Chiefs.

...as men falter again

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

Wednesday night the UMass men's gymnastic team lost to a very powerful Southern Connecticut team, which was of no surprise. Although there were a few surprises in the competition. For instance, senior John Forshay winning the floor against the strongest floor team in the nation. Giving himself the possibilities of doing very well in the Eastern Championships as well as the nationals.

Another surprise was the upset of co-captain Dave Kulakoff on the pommel horse. It was Kulakoff's first defeat in the last year, as he was edged out of the first position by Southern's Don Dembrow. Kulakoff was not all that upset as he states "I know what my mistakes were and how to improve them for Easterns."

The competion was the strongest that UMass has had to face this year, with Southern crushing the young gymmen 217.50-175.20. It was a good experience for them as coach Swetman stated, for the guys did get to see some of the best gymnastics in the nation. Although Southern didn't have their best meet, the gymmen have some idea on how well they will do in the most important meet of the season, Easterns.

The next important meet for the Minutemen is this weekend in another double duel against Springfield College this Sunday at Springfield. Here the gymmen hope to change the swing of things with a full line-up in a month.

Springfield is equally powerful, as the gymmen are faced with the possibilities of a very close meet, which could go either way. Coach Swetman will be sending his strongest lineup and hope to come away with a surprise victory.

UMass visits Springfield College on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Swimmers race in NE's

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

After five months of practice and a 13-meet season, the women's swim team starts competition tonight in their biggest event of the year — the New Englands.

Half the team left last night, and the remainder of the 22-member squad will be leaving this afternoon for three days of competition against 40 other teams from New England at Boston College. The 24-event meet was originally scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, but had to be pushed back a day due to the recent storm.

Although Coach John Nunnelly says it "should be a good meet," he's "not really sure how his team will do." The flu and other illnesses have hit the team hard, with many members being sick sometime during the past two weeks.

"We're just going to go and do our best," said Nunnelly. "Personal best times will be the most important accomplishments."

Last year, the team took eighth in the New Englands, but this year it may not fare as well because the Ivy Leagues, which weren't in the competition last year, will be included. Nunnelly is still hoping to be in the "top ten" however. "Yale and Maine should be battling it out for first," he said.

The best events for UMass should be the relays, which are important because they score two times as many points as the individual events. "But one second will be the difference between first and sixth in these," said Nunnelly.

"Probably the best relay," according to Nunnelly, will be the 800 freestyle, which is one of the three events being held tonight, beginning at 6:30. Swimming for UMass in this event will be Celia Walsh, Deb Schwartz, and co-captains Rachel Mack and Lise Hembrough.

Schwartz, Mack and Hembrough, along with Meegan Primavera and diver Suzi Strobel are returning to the New Englands for the second time this year. Two team members, Lynn Lutz and Alix Denhartog are competing in the New Englands for their third time.

The two other events held tonight will be the 400 yard individual medley and the 1650 freestyle. Entered in the 1650, a grueling 66-lap race, will be Lutz and Val Gulla. UMass' only entry in the 400 IM will be Schwartz, who holds the school record in that as well as three other events.

The 500 freestyle will begin Saturday's competition. Lutz, Gulla, Walsh and Schwartz will also be in this, along with Sue Hoffman.

Following the 500 will be another relay, the 400 yard medley relay, which "could do very well — as high as second or third," according to Nunnelly. Swimming for UMass in this will be Walsh, Schwartz, Mack and Kathy Jurcik.

Completing the relay entries in the meet will be Jurcik, Walsh, Hembrough and Maryanne Primavera in the 200 medley relay, Schwartz, Walsh, Mack and Hembrough in the 400 free relay, and Mack, Hembrough, Meegan Primavera and Cindy Piela in the 200 free relay.

TURN TO PAGE 16

Ski women prepare for tough weekend

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

This weekend could be either tremendously victorious or disastrous for the UMass women's ski team, according to coach Bill MacConnell. Last weekend's meets, scheduled at Pleasant Mt., Bridgeton, Maine, were cancelled, since out-of-state and Boston-based teams were unable to make the trip, due to the blizzard. To make up for lost time, four races, as opposed to the usual two, will be run this weekend.

The UMass team is currently the top team in its league — the Women's Inter-College Ski Conference (WISC). Each victory is actually a win over the four other WISC teams, giving UMass a perfect win-loss ratio of 16-0 out of the four races run so far. This four-race weekend will be crucial, since the Minutewomen could potentially double their winnings, or, with a stroke of bad luck, add sixteen losses to their unblemished score.

The team will begin at Pleasant Mt. on Friday, according to MacConnell, with a slalom and a giant slalom. They will then travel to Tenney Mt. for a slalom on Saturday, followed by a giant slalom Sunday.

Flu-ridden skaters on road

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

The UMass Minutemen hockey team will be travelling to Needham tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. to face the Boston State Warriors at the Charles River Skating Center. Hopefully, hockey coach Jack Canniff will be able to field a team, as over half the team has been stricken with the flu bug that postponed Wednesday's encounter with Williams.

Lately, the only thing that's been able to stop the red hot Minutemen six has been the flu bug, as the icemen had won 5 out of its last 7 games (tied one) before succumbing to the flu Wednesday night, which forced a postponement of the crucial Williams contest at Orr rink. The Williams game has been rescheduled for next Friday night at 6 p.m., which means that the Minutemen will finish the season at Orr rink with a double-header next weekend (Saturday night vs. Salem State).

The Boston State game is still up in the air because, according to Canniff, "over half our players were out yesterday (Wednesday) and I won't know until tonight (last night) if we'll be healthy enough to play Boston State."

The Minutemen have been unable to hold a formal practice since their 4-3 overtime win over Colby College last Saturday night. Canniff said that only seven players showed up for practice on Monday and ten managed to appear Tuesday before Wednesday's postponement.

"Conditioning is going to be the big question this Saturday (tomorrow) because we haven't played since last Saturday. I don't know how much I can push the players because I might worsen their condition. Their legs are going to be a big question," added Canniff, "and whether or not we can play our forechecking game depends on the legs."

The Minutemen, who own an 8-7-1 record, are fighting for a playoff spot, while the Ed Barry-coached Boston State Warriors are fighting for respectability. The Warriors possess a 3-11 Division II mark and a 6-12 overall.

REDLINE RHETORIC — UMass goal tender John Riley was named ECAC Division II player of the week, during the week of January 30-February 4, when the senior goaltender from Lexington was instrumental in the UMies three game sweep of Holy Cross (3-2), Merrimac (7-6 in OT) and New Haven (8-3). Promising sophomore defenseman Dean Liacos will definitely be out for the season with a hernia.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Men's Basketball 61, Northeastern 58
Women's Track 61, New Hampshire 38

TODAY
Women's Swimming — New Englands at BC

TOMORROW
Hockey at Boston St. 7:30 p.m.
Wrestling vs Yale-Navy-BU at Yale
Men's Swimming vs UConn home 2 p.m.
Women's Swimming — New Englands at BC
Men's track — YanCon Championships at URI
Men's Basketball vs George Washington at Curry Hicks 7:30 p.m.
Men's and Women's skiing at Highlands, Tilton, N.H.

SUNDAY
Men's and Women's Skiing at Highlands, Tilton, N.H.
Men's and Women's gymnastics at Springfield 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

ALL UMASS MEN WELCOME
OPEN RUSH
AT BETA KAPPA PHI
ON MONDAY, FEB. 20
at 7:00 p.m.
REFRESHMENTS
388 NO. PLEASANT ST.
(Big white brick house one block from campus)
CALL 5-0210 FOR INFO.

M.S. in U.S.
M.D. in FOREIGN MEDICAL SCHOOLS
The Institute of International Medical Education offers total medical education leading to practice in the U.S.

1. M.S. in cooperation with recognized colleges and universities in the United States leading to advanced placement in Spanish, Italian or other foreign medical schools or veterinary medical schools.

2. While in attendance at the medical school, the Institute will provide a supplemental Basic Medical Sciences Curriculum which prepares students for transfer into an American medical school. (COTRANS)

3. For those students who do not transfer, the Institute provides accredited supervised clinical clerkships at co-operating United States hospitals.

4. During the final year of foreign medical school, the Institute provides a supplemental and comprehensive clinical medicine curriculum which prepares the student to take the ECFMG examination.

The Institute has been responsible for processing more American students to foreign medical schools than any other organization.

INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL MEDICAL EDUCATION
Chartered by the Regents of the University of the State of New York
3 East 54 Street, New York 10022 (212) 832-2089

Cagers hold on to beat Huskies

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

Like the song "Cold as Ice," UMass, particularly its shooting was just that frigid before senior guard Alex Eldridge heated up for 19 points in beating a pesky and hustling Northeastern squad, 61-58, before 4,200 at the Cage last night.

It took an Eric Williams layup with :01 left to insure the 13th victory for the Minutemen who face George Washington at the Cage Saturday night.

With seven seconds left, UMass, leading 59-58, took the ball out at its end, and after a two second delay, Williams took off and was fed by a Derick Claiborne full court pass for an easy layup to put the icing on the victory.

Again, which has so frequently happened this season, UMass took an opponent lightly and it took the heroics of Eldridge and the bench of Chuck Stevesky, Bill Morrison. and Jay Stewart, to prevent a major upset by coach Jim Cahlhoun's Huskies.

Eldridge, hitting 17 of his game total 19 in the second half, decided to get the Minutemen back into the ballgame by using the penetration method. UMass, trailing at halftime 28-27, went to Eldridge, who responded by driving up the middle for nine of UMass's first 11 points in the second half.

But besides Eldridge, the surprise last night were the teammates he played with as UMass coach Jack Leaman took the team's leading scorer Mike Pyatt out of the game along with guard Derick Claiborne, Williams, and center Mark Haymore (four fouls) and inserted Morrison, Len Kohlhaas, Stewart, and Brad Johnson at the 13:52 mark of the second half.

With Northeastern (now 12-9) leading 40-38 with 13:36 left in the game, Morrison hit a jump and Stewart connected on two foul shots to tie the game at 42.

But Huskie senior guard Dave Caligaris, the country's 16th leading shooter with a 24 point scoring average hit a long range jump shot and teammate Chip Rucker hit on a three point play and UMass trailed 46-42 with 10:36 left. Caligaris had 22 points on the night.

Eldridge came back with a brilliant scoop shot and was fouled on the play. He converted the free throw, but a Caligaris jumper still left UMass trailing by three.

Stewart, a 6-7 freshman, then blocked the Huskies inbounds pass leading to another Eldridge drive for two points. UMass now trailed by one.

With 9:17 left Leaman reinserted Pyatt, Williams and Claiborne, and the UMass offense finally heated up, outscoring the Huskies 14-8 the rest of the way.

Within three minutes, jump shots by Williams, Kohlhaas, Eldridge, and Claiborne (2) put UMass into a commanding 58-52 lead with 4:57 left.

The Northeastern strategy was to get the ball to Caligaris as much as possible but UMass's Williams had other ideas.

With UMass using a defense which was to "deny Caligaris the ball as much as possible," the Huskies turned to freshman guard Peter Harris for his shooting. Harris, who scored 14 on the night, hit two turn-around jumpers, one with 1:38 and the other with .07 to keep the Huskies close.

But, when the going got rough, Eldridge and Claiborne took control of the dribbling and the time clock. Eldridge hit one foul shot to give UMass the lead 59-56 with :40 seconds left but missed the second shot. He hustled to pick up his own rebound and again UMass controlled the ball for 22 seconds.

Claiborne was fouled with :18 left but missed on the one-and-one and after a timeout, the Huskies, with :07 found Harris for the jump shot.

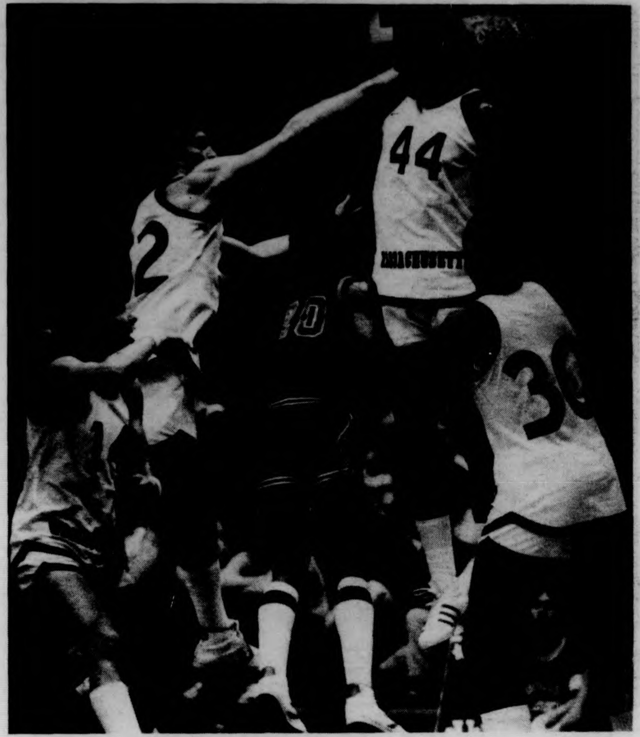
The Huskies, who played smart. patient. and hustling on offense, controlled the tempo of play in the first half and relied on the shooting of Caligaris (12) and three players, Harris, Rucker, and team captain Dave Sheehan to hit for four points apiece.

Meanwhile UMass suffered through a woeful shooting performance from regulars Pyatt, Eldridge, Claiborne, Haymore, and Williams. Shooting 37.1 per cent only Kohlhaas (8) and reserve Steveskey were able to find the shooting range.

Steveskey, came off the bench with 6:50 to go in the first half, hit on two long range bombs and hustled to tap in an Eldridge fast break miss to put UMass back in the game.

UMass — Pyatt 2-1-5, Kohlhaas 5-0-10, Williams 2-1-5, Eldridge 8-3-19, Claiborne 3-0-6, Morrison 1-0-2, Haymore 3-0-6, Johnson 0-0-0, Steveskey 3-0-0, Witkos 0-0-0, Stewart 0-2-2 Totals: 27-7-61

Northeastern — Caligaris 10-12-22, Loughnane 2-0-4, Harris 5-4-14, Clary 2-2-6, Sheehan 2-0-4, Rucker 1-6-8, Shoening 0-0-0 Totals: 22.14.58



Minutemen Mark Haymore, 44, Len Kohlhaas, 53, Chuck Steveskey, 14, and Mike Pyatt, 30, snuff out an attempt by Northeastern's Peter Harris, 20, to put his shot off in last night's 61-58 win. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Collegian Sports

Experience was key

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

"The difference was our lack of experience," Northeastern coach James Calhoun said after watching his team fall three points shy of a New England college basketball upset.

The score: UMass, 61, Northeastern, 58.

The Huskies did everything Calhoun asked of them, but the senior backcourt of Alex Eldridge and Derick Claiborne had the one ingredient Calhoun's team was missing down the stretch.

Poise.

With the score tied at 52 all, Claiborne hit a jumper to give the Minutemen a two point lead. The senior then stole the ball off the inbounds pass and tossed in a jumper from the corner handing UMass its largest lead of the half.

Huskie guard, Pete Harris, a freshman, missed a crucial one-and-one attempt, and Eldridge, who played another in what is becoming a long string of spectacular performances (17 second half points, including 14 of UMass' first 20 in the half) hit for the next three points.

The duo then took charge of a semi-stall and the Minutemen, not without a great deal of agony, had their 13th victory of the season.

"The three seniors did what they had to do," said Calhoun in reference to Eldridge, Claiborne and Mike Pyatt. "My problem was that I couldn't make my kids older in one night."

Northeastern started two freshmen and one sophomore.

It was the mistakes of inexperience that cost the Huskies dearly after they had opened up a five point lead early in the second half.

Northeastern utilized a deliberate offense (they shot the ball just 53 times) and what Calhoun termed a "matchup zone defense," and had everyone in the house worried when they walked out at the break with a 29-28, lead.

But Calhoun disagreed that this was a case of walking into the lion's den and finding the lion asleep.

"I don't think there's any way we caught them napping. It was our intention to come in and slow the tempo of the game down. We tried to put them to sleep," Calhoun said.

The strategy almost paid off.

"I knew there would be a letdown after the other night," said UMass coach Jack Leaman, who watched his team shoot just 42 per cent from the floor, making the Huskies defense look that much more effective. "We were lucky to get away with this one."

At one point in the second half the game turned into a one on one contest as Eldridge and Huskie pure shooter Dave Caligaris (22 points) took control of their team's offense.

Eldridge, realizing the team's predicament, dragged out his repertoire of spinning layups and short bank shots to keep UMass close in the early stages of the second half. He scored 14 points in the first 10:50 seconds of the half to rebound from a cold (one-for-seven) opening stanza.

Meanwhile, Caligaris, an academic All-American, tallied eight points in three minutes, with an assortment of jump shots.

But when the two players looked to their teammates for support, it was the poise and experience of UMass that made the difference.

"A couple of breaks and a couple of calls from the refs down the stretch and the outcome might have been different," lamented Calhoun.

A couple of breaks, a couple of calls and maybe a couple of seniors.

It might have been.

Bill Edelstein

T.V.'s champ

And the new Heavyweight Champion of the World is....

Young Leon Spinks (whenever Leon's name is mentioned, the adjective "young" must necessarily immediately precede it) now has the enviable chance to star in Brut commercials, have a track meet named in his honor and have a song written about his incredible, albeit brief, career. He'll never pass the Crest Test, but neither did Mums Mabely and it didn't hurt her career a bit.

There are those who contend that the winner of Wednesday night's Lalapalooza in Las Vegas is somewhat inarticulate. However, I found the champ quite gifted in the fine art of conversation.

"Champ, the experts didn't give you a prayer. They never thought you'd have the staying power you exhibited, but you made fools of all of them. What was your secret?"

"Sticking and jabbing, jabbing and sticking. We'd jab the little button that switched the viewer to his local station and they'd stick in a minute's worth of 'Fabulous February' promos. Without those clean breaks we could never have stretched a 45-minute heavyweight fight into a three-and-a-half-hour display of lightweight sports programming."

"Spoken like a true champion. You take no credit yourself, but instead let your affiliates bask in the limelight of the station break."

"Well, I don't want to make it sound like we sat on our buttons. I mean we hooked with Anheuser-Busch and countered with Scope. We set up the viewer with a series of short station identifications and then knocked him out of reach of his channel changer with a Dristan to the nose."

"Brilliant combinations."

"Thank you."

"Your lateral movement was especially impressive. How'd you keep it up champ?"

"Movement was the crux of our fight plan. First, the viewer hears Brent Musberger telling him that what he's watching is the most important night in the history of sports. Then, before any member of the home audience can fully recover his senses, Ali's doctor informs him that through close professional scrutiny accutely developed during a lengthy six-year tuteledge at the school of hard knocks, he has determined that Muhammad is bleeding from the mouth. Just as the beliegered viewer is about to embrace Starsky and Hutch, Jimmy the Greek tells the poor fool that Spinks leads on the Greek Card, 6-4-1. Tim Ryan informs the miserable wretch that his card has Spinks ahead 6-5, and Jack Whitaker announces that he has eaten his card."

"Amazing. You know, if, like those announcers, I hadn't been watching the action, I almost would have forgotten I was being bludgeoned to death with boredom."

"Bless you, my son."

"Did you find it difficult to mentally prepare yourself for all those preliminary bouts?"

"Not at all. We knew what had to be done and went out and did it. Each minute was an agonizing, gruelling sortie into impending doom."

"But you still managed to survive it!"

"We survived easily, but those poor sponsors... Each minute of air-time cost them an agonizing chunk of money and no amount of gruelling work by their employees can save them from impending financial doom."

"There you go being modest again. Things must have been pretty gory for you, too, during the preliminaries. People changing channels, going out to get beer for the main event, kicking their television sets."

"I wouldn't know. I was watching Charlie's Angels, waiting for the cheesecake shots."

"You can't tell me that you weren't afraid of being taken out early. The ratings would murder you."

"How could we worry? The sponsors paid in advance, the home viewer paid by watching four dull fights and Ali paid because of his age. In time people will realize that the real winner of the Ali-Spinks fight was us; good old CBS. And that ain't no split decision."

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 87 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1978

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Egypt-Cyprus relations break down after raid

CAIRO, Egypt [UPI] — Egypt ordered its diplomatic mission home from Nicosia yesterday and asked the Cypriot government to shut down its legation in Cairo, in effect securing diplomatic relations.

A cabinet statement charged the Cypriot government had adopted an "unfriendly attitude toward Egypt and its citizens" and called for a "reconsideration of...Cypriot relations."

The crisis, the first in the history of the two countries, came to a head Sunday when Greek Cypriot national guardsmen shot up Egyptian commandos sent to Larnaca to free 16 hostages held by the two Palestinians aboard a DC8.

Fifteen Egyptians were killed and 16 others were wounded by Cypriot fire.

The cabinet met for four hours to examine the Egypt-Cyprus crisis, which began with the slaying of Youssex Seai, a prominent journalist and confident of President Anwar Sadat, by two Palestian gunmen at the Nicosia Hilton Saturday.

"The cabinet has decided to withdraw its diplomatic mission as well as members of its technical and commercial offices in Cyprus," Information Minister Abdel Moneim El-Sawi announced.

"The Cypriot government should withdraw its diplomatic mission and all its commercial and technical legations from Cairo," he said.

El-Sawi said the cabinet decided to "reconsider all forms of Egyptian-Cypriot relations in accordance with the unfriendly attitude taken by the Cypriot government against Egypt and its citizens."

The earlier statement said Sadat has decided to award high military decorations to all members of the Egyptian unit and they would be met on their return by the entire Egyptian cabinet.

The cabinet described the Egyptian commando strike as a "major achievement which was aimed at preserving Egypt's honor and prestige in face of a mean plan carried out by the rejection front and grudging international circles."

The "rejection front" refers to Arab states and Palestinian groups opposed to Sadat's peace initiative with Israel.

War Minister Gen. Mohammed Gamassy reported to the cabinet on the "great heroism" shown by the Egyptian force and said a full report on the incident will be submitted to the Egyptian Parliament in the near future.

"The cabinet decided that all of its members will take part in greeting the returning heroes to show esteem for their heroic mission and show off the real nature of their action to Oudlic opinion.

"Every Egyptian should remain confident that the armed forces are capable carrying out any decisions taken by the government to preserve Egypt's prestige, particularly since Egypt is working for right and justice and the success of Sadat's peace initiative," the statement added.

CRANSTON, R.I.: — Pres. Carter chooses among a barrage of correspondents at the News Conference last week. Collegian reporters give first impressions in story on page 2. (Staff photo by Christopher H. Schmitt)

Committee vacancies lessen involvement

By BERNIE DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

Formal student involvement in University decisions is severely hampered by student vacancies and absenteeism on campuswide committees designed to effect change.

A recent Collegian study of undergraduate student influence on the campus' administrative, departmental and Faculty Senate committees showed it suffering from inadequate student representation, a lack of continuity, and poor coordination over committee seats.

It is not unusual for more than half of the seats allotted undergraduates on campus-wide committees to be vacant, according to Jon A. Hite, co-president of the Undergraduate Student Senate.

As of last week, 46 percent, or 37 of the 80 available undergraduate seats listed by the student government association, remained unfilled, with some committees void of any student representation. The Faculty Senate Academic Matters Council is a case in point.

"At the moment, student participation is inefficient, erratic and uncertain," on that council, according to its chairperson, Joseph T. Clayton. The council, which passes judgment on all University courses and programs, has three official undergraduate positions, all vacant.

Of the 28 groups listed by the Undergraduate Student Senate, at least 10 have no undergraduate representatives at all. Student participation in the remaining 18 groups varies, depending on the committee and personalities involved, according to Pinky Batiste, co-president of the Undergraduate Student Senate.

"We're strong in some areas; weak in others," she said. Four committees with strong undergraduate representation are the Housing Exemptions Board, Arts Council, Faculty Senate Health Council and the Parking Appeals Board.

Joni Mersky, one of two students who help examine undergraduate applications to move off campus on the Housing Exemptions Board, said, "It's a very effective committee; it gets the job done."

The two undergraduates on the Parking Appeals Board, which rules on parking ticket appeals, said they also play an important role in their committee. "Student representation on this board, I think, is excellent," said undergraduate David Koretsky.

"We're really doing something that affects students immediately."

This sense of immediacy, however, is one of the drawing cards lacking on other, more long-range planning committees. The more involved the decision-making process, the harder it it for students to have any direct effect.

The Undergraduate Student Senate president appoints students to these committees for only one year, a term that is often too short for students to make any major changes, according to some observers.

For instance, "If you want to make a major change in the academic life of the University, it should normally take two years," according to David A. Booth, former secretary of the Faculty Senate. Faculty normally serve three-year terms on Faculty Senate committees.

Booth said it takes time to understand the forces working within any one committee. "You have to become inculturated to the mores, values, game playing of that group," he said.

Students can be, and have been, "very effective" when they have attended meetings regularly, Booth said. Still, it is "an awful job getting students to participate on a regular basis."

Student vacancies have been "a persistent and chronic problem" in the five years since Faculty Senate bylaws were changed to make student involvement in committees a more general policy, Booth said.

Terence Burke, current Faculty Senate secretary, agrees. Student involvement has had, "at best,a very mixed record," he said. "It's success has varied from year to year."

Burke said the problem stems from the "all too often" failure of the student senate to fill committee seats, and from the break in continuity caused by the high rate of student turnover.

TURN TO PAGE 9

Community Center failures hurt students, says Hite

By CAROL ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

The Community Development Center has been criticized by the president of the Student Government Association but Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, Robert L. Woodbury defends it.

Student government co-President Jon Hite has said the development center mismanages affairs in the areas of heads of residence, the residence assistants, student-run dormitories, and the housing crisis last semester.

"Sounds like Jon's shooting from the hip," said Woodbury. "I think there are a lot of criticism to be made on the dorm system, but to pin this on CDC isn't accurate. Jon and I aren't really on opposite sides on this thing, I see him almost every day.

Housing Crisis

It is Hite's opinion that the housing crisis was due to a much needed, but missing, link between the center and the office of Residential Resource Management. He claims there was a lack of cooperation coming from the office of the Community Development Center.

Because of the poor relationship between the center and the residential resource office, Hite said "Everyone was protecting their own territory and not working together." He said he feels the residential office was working on behalf of the students, while the center. was advocating for the heads of residence who, he said, were turning away students although there was sufficient space for them.

"The main people it hurts are students who live in dormitories, said Hite, who added he feels the mismanagement of the housing situation was "a perfect culmination which occurred during a pressure period." He added this was merely an example of many of his grievances against the center.

Sally Freeman, director of the office of the Community Development Center denied Hite's allegations saying that no individual or department was responsible for the housing crisis, especially the heads of residence who "were under particularly enormous pressure." She added, "to prepare for the possibility that we would have that situation again," a Residence Task Force has been created.

Regarding Hite's statement that heads of residence were turning away students when there were spaces available for them, Freeman responded, "I can't think of a single case where that occurred."

Freeman did note, however, that there were instances where the Housing Office had sent students, in error, to certain areas which were specified as "specialty corridors," (French, German, and Third World corridors, for example), and had to be sent back to the Housing Office.

The current organization of the two University offices, which are located in Berkshire House, gives the office of Residential Resource Management responsibility for the business aspects of on-campus housing (budgeting, housing and maintenance) while the Community Development Center is responsible for the programatic and educational aspects of campus residences.

Robert Campbell, director of the office of Residential Resource management (who Hite

TURN TO PAGE 12

UMass undergraduates run cooperative farm

By RICHARD E. BARRELL
Collegian Staff

BELCHERTOWN — At an eleven acre farm here run by a UMass undergraduate, six young men are learning the skills of independent living through working cooperatively.

The farm is run by Jeffrey L. Roberts with the help of his wife Judith A. Roberts, and his brother-in-law David R. Allen.

The young men, all 17 years old, are participants in the UMass School of Education Advocate Program.

Roberts, who is 31 years old, is majoring in Juvenile Justice through the University Without Walls Program.

Roberts also said he is a Marine Corp veteran, and has two years experience as a child care worker with emotionally disturbed adolescents along with a stint as assistant manager of a half-way house for ex-convicts.

Judith A. Roberts, who is 28 years old, is a UMass graduate with a B.S. degree in Home Economics Education and Masters degree in Early Childhood Education.

Allen is a 22 year old Psychology major at the University.

Roberts said he has been running the farm for nearly two years.

Roberts said he had little experience in farming at the start.

"It was a new experience for all of us," he said.

Roberts said he is grateful to neighbors who helped him get started with the farm.

"They were extremely helpful and very, very kind," he said.

Roberts called the help he received from neighbors, "part of the cooperative spirit that is part of farming."

Roberts said he contracts with the Advocate Program to provide housing, and guidance for young males referred to the program through the State Division of Youth Services.

According to Roberts each of the six young males at the farm has shown an interest in becoming independent. Each one has signed a contract with the Advocate Program committing them to devote 30 hours per week to working, going to school, and completing the planned steps to independence specified in their contracts.

The contracts, called "contracts for independent living," mean that each participant will complete a series of planned steps which are designed to help them make the transition to independent life according to Roberts.

The contracts over such areas as obtaining a license to drive, investigating the cost of automobile insurance, planning a weekly food budget, and comparing the cost of living in various types apartments, he said.

As an example of the various activities the young men are required to complete as part of their contracts Roberts said they visit several insurance companies to compare the costs of obtaining a license with and without driver education training. Then they may sign up for driver education courses which they pay for out of their earnings. If they successfully complete the course they are reimbursed by the program.

Another example Roberts gave was planning a complete menu for a week. Planning is followed by trips to local food markets to check food prices and plan a weekly food budget.

In another exercise, participants visit ten different apartments and find out the cost of living in each type. Boarding houses, efficiency apartments, studios, rooming houses, and furnished apartments, are compared by the participants who must then decide which is best for them.

"They learn that food is included in some places," he said.

"In others they may share an apartment with other people, possibly someone from the program. In each case they are required to keep a notebook, and discuss their findings with me.

"I help them to decide if their information is complete and accurate, he said.

The exercises are designed to help the participants realize the costs and problems which they will face when they live on their own according to Roberts.

People making the transition from a program like the Advocate Program to independent living are often unaware of the costs and problems involved in the switch according to Roberts.

"People don't realize that to secure an apartment with a telephone, and utility service, they must often be prepared with security deposits."

"The training we provide helps them to investigate and plan for these problems, and to figure out the total cost involved," he said.

Roberts said the training is designed to help the participants realize that there are many choices and options in daily life.

"Choice is the one thing that humans exercise most in daily living," he said.

"Youngsters are not often given choices." They are told that they must do what they are told," he said.

Roberts said that part of becoming an adult in his opinion is "getting used to choice and making difficult decisions."

In referring to the young men in the program Roberts said he does not use the word "kids."

"By using the word kids a youth worker creates a dividing line which can undermine his relationship with the people he is trying to help."

Roberts said the young men in the program often come from backgrounds that included little home life and no help in learning to communicate with people and take on responsibility.

"We help them learn to be genteel and cool when dealing with the problems of day to day communication," he said.

Roberts said the participants learn to overcome fears and gain confidence in talking to people from insurance companies and utilities.

The farm routine and chores are handled on a cooperative basis according to Roberts. The care of animals and daily chores are shared by all with Roberts providing overall supervision and guidance.

The daily schedule calls for participants to be up and out to school by 8:00 a.m., according to Roberts.

Schooling is provided by the Teen Learning Center at Montague House at the University. Classes run from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. when each participant goes to an afternoon job which lasts until 5:00 p.m.

They return to Belchertown on the Student Senate Transit Service bus to Belchertown center. Dinner is served at 6:00 p.m. and the evening is devoted to homework, chores, and free time, he said.

Spare time in the evening is often spent playing games according to Roberts. Chess and monopoly are two of the favorite games he said.

As part of the daily routine, the farm animals must be fed and watered. The cow must be milked, the eggs must be collected, and at night animals must be bedded down Roberts said.

According to Roberts the young men in the program each assume responsibility for the animals care.

"We take care of the animals, and the animals take care of us," said one of the residents.

Food on the farm such as eggs, beef, ice cream, butter, and vegetables are raised by the participants.

Canning of vegetables is done under the supervision of Judith Roberts, while butchering of animals for meat is done by an arrangement with a butcher who also inspects the meat he said.

Roberts said in addition to the good food the participants respond to the surroundings such as the house which he described as neat and comfortable.

TURN TO PAGE 7

Animals graze at Belchertown farm run by three UMass students and half way house youths.

Collegian sends pair to meet Carter in R.I.

By BETH SEGERS and
CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

CRANSTON, R.I. — The way the media reacted to President Jimmy Carter's visit here last week almost overshadowed the presidential visit itself.

The Collegian was fortunate enough to be able to send two reporters to cover the president's visit to Rhode Island, highlights of which included a tour of a Providence health facility, a reception for democrat Sen. Claiborne Pell, and a nationally televised news conference. Later, Carter visited Bangor, Maine and Nashua, N.H.

News of the visit came two weeks ago, when a press advisory clattered over the Associated Press teletype in the Collegian offices.

The message told member newspapers how they could cover the president's journey to New England. "Call the White House," it said, "to obtain press credentials." We called.

"Sorry," a White House press aide said, "the college media will not be allowed to attend the press conference due to limited space."

"Not even if we stand in the back of the room?"

"Sorry. But I can clear you for the other portions of the president's trip."

We thought it best not to fool around with those White House types, so we agreed. No telling what the Secret Service might do. The aide did say he would call if the situation changed.

A call back to Washington early last week revealed that a Collegian representative was first on the waiting list to get into the presidential press conference.

The big news came last Tuesday. The White House called and said one Collegian representative would be allowed into the conference. One of us would go to Rhode Island happy, the other somewhat disappointed.

Picking up press credentials at the Cranston Hilton the morning of the conference was the beginning of a series of long waits for a short presidential appearance.

The day's events began in a small room on the fourth floor of the Hilton set aside for the distribution of press credentials. The little black-and-white badges seemed novel at first but were as common as reporters' steno pads by mid-afternoon.

Once labeled as among the select few authorized to cover the presidential visit, the next stop was to visit the scene — the grand ballroom of the Hilton.

Threading through reporters, photographers and Secret Service personnel downstairs to the ballroom, we found it to be in initial stages of preparation. Camera crews were setting up, seats were in place and telephone wires were not yet connected.

Security was non-existant — at least at this point. Once preparations were complete, the Secret Service men cleared the area and combed the entire room. As the hour of the conference drew near, security picked up sufficiently so that photographers had to remove the lenses from their cameras for inspection.

Meanwhile, we had left the T.F. Greene State Airport in nearby Warwick to meet Air Force One. Grabbing a quick lunch before arriving, we stopped at a restaurant where a woman noticed our press tags and asked if we were from Washington. The temptation was great, but since UMass is not Washington, the response was negative.

The first long wait was at the airport. Although Carter arrived exactly on schedule at 1:50 p.m., press crews had lined up for vantage points hours earlier. Local press pools who had so carefully set up cameras and reserved space were quickly ousted from their spots when a Pan Am flight carrying the White House Press corps arrived.

Carter spent ten minutes at the airport shaking hands, waving, and flashing the famous smile before leaving for the health center, the R.I. Group Health Association.

The trip back to the Hilton was an experiment in cops and robbers — could the local press get their before the national press buses? Some did but most had to run if they wanted a seat at the conference.

Still under the impression that only one representative from the Collegian was to be admitted to the conference (plans later changed so that all members of the press with credentials were eligible to attend), we split up at the ballroom, one of us trying to appear inconspicuous.

Lesson One: sitting in the reserved section for the White House Press Corps is not the best way to look inconspicuous.

Moving into a less noticeable place was necessary. Then, another long wait. Finally the ceremonial voice saying "Ladies and Gentlemen, the president of the United States." All rose while Carter made his way to the podium.

Cameras clicked in one steady stream at first, then the photographers zeroes in on only the presidential smile and hand motions.

What was billed as a "regional" press conference — one focusing on issues and questions concerning the New England region — turned out largely to be a failure. The national press corps, who arrived about 25 minutes before Air Force One touched down, pushed and bullied their way past the local media to turn the regional conference into a national one.

The national corps didn't confine their pushing and bullying to just news coverage of the president. One Collegian staffer was pushed out of his spot on a

TURN TO PAGE 9

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Maureen Carney

| | |
|---|---|
| News Dept. | Carol Rosenberg |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Geoffrey Cohler |
| Sports Layout | Ron Arena and Stephanie Richards |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Ad Layout | Gary Marchese |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

V.I.S.T.A. volunteers connect with P.I.R.G.

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

"Knowledge is power," said John Torian, regional director of ACTION in New England to a group of over 40 VISTA volunteers in the final seminar of the Eastern Regional Conference held in the Campus Center this weekend.

VISTA volunteers connected with PIRG activities heard speakers concerning their roles in the community yesterday morning. This year is the first time the two groups will work together.

The seminar was divided into four parts: a talk by Susan Lennon, an ACTION representative from Boston; discussion with John Torian, regional director of ACTION in New England; an evaluation session handled by Joe Raible, director of National PIRG; and a discussion with experienced VISTA volunteers.

Lennon spoke first to the group of volunteers. She advised them of health benefits and the changing goals of VISTA. Lennon said the role of the volunteer should be a background one. VISTA must move from providing "direct services to getting into community organizations," Lennon said.

Torian addressed the group next. After giving a brief outline of the history of the VISTA program, he re-iterated Lennon's statements. He told the group that VISTA needs to be on the "cut and edge of social change."

Both speakers felt recent changes in national government have provided the impetus for these changes. Lennon said, "The Republican Nixon and Ford administrations were giving band-aids to the nation."

Torian said these administrations had "made it difficult for organizations like PIRG to get VISTA volunteers." Mass PIRG has six VISTAs.

In explaining the role of the volunteer in the community, Torian said, "Create independency for people, and I mean poor people when I say people ... Don't get out front in leadership roles."

TURN TO PAGE 12

Eastern P.I.R.G. conferred on campus this weekend

By RITA ZEIDNER
Collegian Staff

"VISTA, as an extension of PIRG directly into the communities is a principle tool with which we can help communities improve," declared Joe Raible, Director of National PIRG at the Eastern Regional Conference-VISTA Training Session sponsored this weekend by the MassPIRG at the UMass campus.

The conference, held in conjunction with the National PIRG in Washington, included over a dozen workshops and training sessions and was attended by over 50 members of PIRGs from seven states on the east coast.

The conference began Saturday, and included a briefing session on toxic chemicals held by Walter Hang of NYPIRG. Hang, a biochemist focussed his discussion on methods of regulating and insuring safe, clean drinking water.

PIRG's involvement in water quality (specifically of the Hudson River) began following a joint study of PIRG and the Environmental Defense Fund, entitled "Troubled Waters: Toxic Chemicals in the Hudson River." Hang discussed a bill now being voted upon in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. demanding the installation of filters directly into all faucets in the city.

Other major events of the day included workshops entitled "Food and Farm Policy" and "Environmentalists and Labor: Organizing for Occupational Health and Safety."

Sunday's meetings primarily focussed on organizing. Marilyn Ondrasik of NYPIRG, opened with "The Basics of Community Organizing". Later a series of organizing workshops were held.

Mark Dyen, of Mass Fair Share discussed "Utility Organizing". His lecture focussed on methods of fighting rate increases in communities. Dyen told the constituencies to concentrate on when organizing an effort to decrease rates, and also identified the "target handles" (who to watch out for) when organizing a campaign.

Dyen also discussed strategies which might be helpful when fighting a large corporation such as a utilities company. For instance, he discussed the benefits of delayed court hearings, which, in effect would delay rate increases.

The Old Chapel seems lonely being surrounded by empty roadways as many UMass students chose to spend the long weekend away from campus. (Staff photo by Gary Kovner)

Cliff Stone displays his forty year old hobby of making O-gauge railroad cars at the model railroad show held this past weekend in the student union ballroom. (Staff photo by Lynn Marion)

Unwanted sterilizations a crime against women

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Staff

Each year over one million sterilizations are performed on women by doctors and staff using threats and lies. A hospital can receive from $400 to $800 for each sterilization it performs. Until 1973 there were little or no laws regulating sterilization. This practice is, for the most part, restricted to Third World women and poor white women.

All information in this article is obtained from Department of Health, Education and Welfare documents, the Committee to End Sterilization Abuse reports, the Bulletin of the Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee, and Everywoman's Center Newsletter.

News analysis

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare established family planning clinics all over the United States in Third World countries it has come into contact with. Between 1969 and 1974 the family planning budget of HEW increased from $51 million to over $250 million.

International Planned Parenthood, associated with the U.S. Planned Parenthood, conducts most of the sterilizations abroad. Up until 1945, there were 2,200 sterilizations per year. Between 1974 and 1975, there was close to a 300 per cent rise in municipal hospitals.

In Puerto Rico, 38 per cent of the women have been sterilized under a U.S. government sponsored conspiracy. This has to be one of the ugliest conspiracies conceivable. Often when the women are in labor they are inticed into accepting a sterilization operation. They are told that without the operation they will die, they will no longer receive welfare payments, they will be permanently deranged without the operation, and that sterilization is temporary.

Often they are told they have to take drugs during labor, drugs they are completely unsure about; drugs they are experimenting with, later to be used in the U.S.

Almost the only form of sterilization in Puerto Rico is the hysterectomy. Three hundred to 500 women out of every 100,000 who have this operation die.

The same thing is presently being done in the United States. Because of some slight opposition to this, some doctors have tried to sue people they've illegally sterilized on the grounds that the 'doctors' right to free speech is violated."

The reason this goes on is that journalists and media persons do not go out to hospitals and report this evil. These doctors directly manipulate the woman's body to receive more money. Over one million sterilizations should not be allowed to go on in this country under these circumstances.

Thirty-eight per cent of the women in Puerto Rico have been illegally sterilized by U.S. government sponsored organizations, and by United States private companies. The Eugenics Board of North Carolina ordered 1,620 sterilizations between 1960 and 1968. Of that number 1,583 were women and 1,023 were black. Some 56 per cent of the sterilizations were performed on persons under 20 yeas of age.

One out of every three Puerto Rican women between the ages of 20 and 49 have been sterilized. In 1975 the government program performed more than 6,000 sterilizations in Puerto Rico. In the United States 20 per cent of all married black women are sterilized, three times more than in 1973. With less than a million Native Americans in the U.S., 25 per cent of the Native American women have been illegally sterilized in this country.

This trend is increasing in the U.S. under illegal circumstances. It is important that an attempt be made to expose the people involved.

OHAG allots a thousand dollars for the annual Spring Concert

By KAREN PARMENTER
Collegian Staff

Orchard Hill Area Government representatives have voted to allocate $1000 for the Orchard Hill-Central Spring Concert to be held near the end of April. The allocation came at the request of Andy Davidson, Orchard Hill's Spring Concert representative.

Davidson told OHAG members the budget for the concert could total up to $3,400, the largest in recent years, if all the possible sources of funding now under investigation could actually be used.

According to Davidson, this included the $1000 from OHAG, up to $1500 from Central Area Council, possible funding from the Program Council, and $700 which OHAG expects to have returned to it by the Student Senate in SATF funds. The Student Senate has not yet decided whether the funds in question will be returned.

In other business, David Schlier was elected vice-president, 12-4 over Larry Ruth, after three ballots. Stephanie Weingand was approved as secretary by acclamation. Both positions are being tentatively filled until March elections.

The representatives also approved a new by-law changing the date of election of OHAG officers from the first week in March to the end of the month, coinciding with Student Senate elections.

Notice

There is a Stockbridge Career day being held on the first floor of the Campus Center today. A detailed schedule of events can be found on page 7.

International Women's Week lacks finances

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

"In organizing such an important, large scale event as International Women's Week it takes many months of planning. The only thing holding us back has been money," stated Irene Richard, staff coordinator of the week, in a recent interview with the Collegian.

Many campus organizations approached by the Women's Week committee for funding in November would not commit themselves to financial support until this semester.

"Efforts during last semester were quite discouraging. We were told to wait until the beginning of this semester but problems have arisen due to leadership turnovers in many organizations causing delays that have been detrimental to smooth planning, especially in publicity areas. Fortunately we have a large enough committee, ready to devote themselves in these last two weeks before International Women's Week, to distribute information," said Richard.

Among the organizations that have contributed to the week, as of March 16, said Richard, are the Student Senate, Ahora, the Women's Studies Program, the South West Area Director, the Campus Center Program Council and Student Activities. The University Program Council, Commuters Collective and the Distinguished Visitors Program are also supporting the women's week by sponsoring various events throughout the week.

Richard said during the coming week, the committee will be awaiting decisions on funding from the Southwest Assembly, Sylvan Government, Central Area Government, the Third World Women's Center, Afro Am, the Graduate Senate, the Greek Council, Northeast Area Government, Resources Judaica and the Asian American Student Association.

"Funds have been requested of all these groups. The committee hopes that they will be receiving decisions and that the money will be transferred to RSO for International Women's Week," said Richard.

One problem that has developed due to the lack of funding has been the decrease in the number of workshops to be held in comparison to last year's workshop program. Only 54 workshops have been scheduled so far, in contrast to the 85 held during the 1977 women's week, said Richard.

"Without funding, we've been unable to confirm many workshops and events because people became unavailable at such late notice," explained Richard.

Despite the financial problem, Richard believes this year's women's week's to be more organized and thematically stronger than last year's. "The people involved have been more assertive and International Women's Week is much more of a celebration because of the clearer direction," she added.

Woman's center offers career-life workshops

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Women with backgrounds as diverse as professional workers, secretaries, undergraduates, graduates, single, married and separated mothers are all responding with "absolute enthusiasm" to a Career and Life Planning Workshop offered by the Everywomen's Center according to Milka Cardinal, one of the workshop instructors.

"We're taking women through the process of career and life planning," said Marguerite Cookson, the second instructor. "The areas we take the most time with are skills assessment and values. We find out what's important to women in relation to where they work and what kind of work situation they're involved with."

Specifically the workshop deals with resumes, job interviews, assertiveness, job searching and career decisions, according to Cookson.

The workshop originated because an "overwhelming amount" of women were seeking counseling at the Center concerning their jobs and careers, according to Cookson.

Cardinal and Cookson found that organizing a group of women to share common problems and experiences in the form of a workshop "offered many resources that come with the women" and the groups "work more effectively", according to Cardinal.

"Traditionally, decision making and job searching is an isolating process and getting people together in a group takes away some the isolation and involves sharing. All women can share their knowledge," said Cookson.

"It is very supportive in many ways for the women," said Cardinal.

About 20 women are involved in the two and one-half hour long workshop this semester. There is a five dollar fee for materials and no credit is available. Interested women should call the Center for the times of the next workshops.

"The enthusiasm for the workshop is such that the women can't wait for the next class," said Cardinal. "They don't even mind doing their homework."

Baker pressed to leave his Senate G.O.P. leadership

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Fourteen House Republicans Monday urged Sen. Howard Baker to step aside as Senate Republican leader during the Panama Canal debate because he supports the canal treaties.

In a letter to Baker, the Republicans said they think Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., should take over the party's leadership role because of his opposition to the treaties.

Griffin lost to Baker, a Tennessee Republican, by one vote in last year's contest for Senate GOP leader.

The House members said Baker's support of the canal treaties "constitutes a repudiation of the Republican national platform of 1976, the official position of the Republican National Committee, the majority wishes of the membership of our party as well as the majority view of the American people as expressed in many current and past polls."

The signers told Baker," you must realize that in following the path you have chosen in support of these treaties you do not offer our party leadership, but rather another giant step toward political extinction."

Among those signing the letter were Rep. Del Clawson of California, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee; Rep. Gene Snyder of Kentucky, ranking minority member of the House Panama Canal subcommittee and Rep. Phil Crane of Illinois, chairman of the American Conservative Union.

Other signers were Reps. John Rousselot of California, Mickey Edwards of Oklahoma, Eldon Rudd of Arizona, Bill Ketchum of California, John Ashbrook of Ohio, Steve Symms of Idaho, James Collins of Texas, Robert Dornan of California, J. Kenneth Robinson of Virginia, Don Young oF Alaska and Robert Bauman of Maryland.

SUN DAY
Organizational Meeting

CC 903
7:30 p.m.

Come and help
usher in the Solar Age!

for more information call the Coalition for Environmental Quality,
545-0618 or MassPIRG,
256-6434

LOS ANGELES: Southern California beaches seemed the perfect place to celebrate George Washington's birthday as the temperatures reached into the '70's. (UPI Photo)

NOW THRU SATURDAY
ONLY !!!!!
MEN'S & WOMEN'S COTTON TURTLENECK JERSEYS
$7.95
WOMEN'S SHETLAND SWEATERS
20% OFF
Empsall's
Sport Shop
&
Laura Girard Shop
84-86 Green Street, Northampton
584-3924 584-4003

TONIGHT!
"Class Special"
99¢ Drinks
The only way to go is up, so join us at the Top! Every Tuesday it's a "Class Special" with 99¢ bar drinks from 9 pm till 12:30. When you're on you way up, come with us!
Top of the Campus
Restaurant
Lounge

United Mine Workers reach loose settlement

WASHINGTON [AP] — The striking United Mine Workers and a major independent coal company reached a tentative contract settlement Monday that could set a pattern for an industrywide agreement to end the 77-day coal strike.

But Carter administration officials cautioned that major roadblocks remained and began testing congressional sentiment for legislation to force an end to the strike.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall conferred with the chairmen of the House end Senate committees that would handle any legislation to halt the dispute.

Officials said Carter's options for intervening in the strike include one or a combination of the following: invoking the Taft-Hartley Act ordering miners back to work, seeking legislation for a temporary federal seizure of the mines or legislation imposing binding arbitration to dictate contract terms.

The tentative agreement with R&M Coal Co., a Gulf Oil Corp. subsidiary, was taken to the union's 39-member bargaining council for review.

If the contract is approved by the UMW leadership and rank-and-file members employed by P&M, the company could begin producing coal, helping to ease shortages in some areas.

But more importantly, the tentative agreement could bring pressure on the Bituminous Coal Operators Association to reach a settlement.

"The hope is that one by one they might come to an agreement. If enough independent and non-BCOA companies reach agreement, the big operators might fall into line," said Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., after meeting with Marshall.

Thompson, chairman of the House labor subcommittee of the Labor and Education Committee said he believes invoking the Taft-Hartley Act is unlikely and that the administration apparently agrees.

Thompson also said Marshall indicated some hope for a negotiated settlement, despite a gloomy weekend assessment that further talks would be unproductive.

Talks between the union and bargaining group representing 130 companies producing half the nation's coal, collapsed over the weekend.

The failure prompted President Carter to threaten "drastic action" to end the strike, which has caused power cutbacks and job layoffs in several Midwestern and Mid-Atlantic states.

In Indiana, officials reported 400 new strike-related job layoffs in addition to 1,100 last week. Some Indiana utilities already have implemented mandatory power cutbacks while law enforcement authorities escorted coal convoys to utility plants.

The independent coal companies normally follow BCOA settlements. However, the P&M agreement could become a guide for a national agreement or could trigger a breakup of the national bargaining structure if either the union or the BCOA were to declare a negotiating impasse.

P&M, which is not a BCOA member, operates six mines in western Kentucky and on the Kansas-Missouri border employing 800-1,000 miners. The company also operates four mines in the West and in December set the pattern for the UMW's Western contracts, which are separate from the one covering the strike-bound mines in the East and Midwest.

Merlin Breaux, the Gulf Oil vice president who negotiated the tentative contract, said it represented a compromise between earlier UMW and BCOA bargaining demands.

The UMW bargaining council previously rejected a BCOA offer, objecting, among other things, to proposed penalties against miners participating in wildcat strikes. The P&M contract offer disciplines only against those leading such strikes.

Breaux said other coal companies would have three alternatives if the union approves the P&M contract: decide it was likely to be the best it could get because it is unlikely the UMW would settle for anything less; have the BCOA reject it, leaving its members to make individual deals, or stand by and let Carter intervene.

Administration officials also were understood to welcome the tentative contract and to feel that it placed increased pressure on the BCOA.

Sources said the tentative contract called for a wage increase of up to $2.40 a hour over three years, including cost-of-living boosts. Miners now average about $7.80 an hour. The economic package was about the same as the earlier BCOA offer, sources said.

In addition, P&M agreed to drop BCOA demands for the right to process unlimited non-union coal through UMW mines.

Sources said the tentative agreement does not call for a 30-day probationary period for new miners, as did the BCOA's proposal, and also drops production incentives that the major industry group sought over UMW objections.

The contract proposal reportedly was not specific on the key question of health and pension benefit guarantees. Sources said P&M would go along with whatever the BCOA ultimately approves on this point.

BALDWIN, Ill. — Striking members of the United Mine union built a bonfire Monday on the railroad tracks in an unsuccessful attempt to block delivery of coal to the Illinois Power Co. generating plant. State police removed burning railroad ties and delivery was completed. (UPI Photo)

Widow barricades home, threatens suicidal death

QUINCY, Mass. [AP] — A 71-year-old reclusive widow was taken into custody Monday after keeping police at bay from her bungalow with a shotgun for 12 days, threatening to kill herself and anyone who approached.

Detective Guido Pettanelli grabbed Mary Regina Connor when she opened the door of her home early in the afternoon. Officers found a loaded shotgun inside the door, Quincy Police Lt. James Fay said.

Paul Graham, a neighbor, said Mrs. Connor opened the door after Pettanelli had knocked to check on her condition when she did not answer her phone.

She was arrested on an assault charge stemming from a threat she made with the gun, police said.

They said she was taken to Quincy City Hospital.

No shots were fired throughout the siege, which started Feb. 8 and turned Mrs. Connor's little white bungalow with a Valentine heart on the door into a symbol of fear in her neighborhood.

Neighbors quickened their pace when they passed the house and a round-the-clock police stakeout warned loiterers away. A next-door neighbor moved with her children to a relative's home.

Police believe Mrs. Connor was trained to shoot by her late husband Eugene, "and we understand there are other weapons in the house," said Pettanelli.

Fay said police were seeking a warrant to search the house.

The siege began, according to neighbor William Riordan, when Mrs. Connor threatened his son, Timothy, and some other boys with a shotgun in a dispute over fees for shoveling snow.

Police were called, but Mrs. Connor told them through her closed door that she would shoot anyone attempting to enter.

During a telephone interview with a reporter, she threatened to "rig up the gun to kill myself if anyone tries to come in."

A retired telephone worker, Mrs. Connor had little to do with her neighbors, who say she became even more reclusive after her husband died 1½ years ago.

His car sat in the driveway unused, and his widow, dressed in his old clothes, never left her property, according to Sally Turell, her closest acquaintance.

Mrs. Connor spent much of the day in bed and had her groceries delivered, said Mrs. Turell, whose home across the street became a gathering place for police officers during the surveillance.

Police brought Mrs. Connor's brother, Charles White, to the scene, but she refused to allow him in the house, they said.

British report Soviet force buildup

LONDON [AP] — The British government said Monday the Soviet military buildup is outstripping that of the NATO allies in the air, at sea and on land.

The Labor government report said the Russians are spending between 11 and 13 per cent of their resources on the buildup.

"Soviet forces have in many areas been strengthened in size and quality on a scale which goes well beyond the need of any purely defensive posture," it said.

Moscow's military capability goes well beyond Europe into Africa, and the Soviet government is able to deploy military resources rapidly "in support of its political interests in the Third World," the report said. It gave these examples of the increase in Soviet naval power in the Eastern Atlantic and in land power in Central Europe over the past 10 years:

—The number of nuclear-powered submarines increased from 44 to 104, or 136 per cent.

—Missile-armed cruisers and destroyers increased from six to 23, or 283 per cent.

—Fixed-wing maritime aircraft increased from 170 to 230, or 29 per cent.

—Battle tanks increased from 7,250 to 9,500, or 31 per cent.

—Artillery increased from 3,200 to 4,400, or 38 per cent.

—Fixed-wing tactical aircraft increased from 1,655 to 1,975, or 20 per cent.

The British also outlined what they said is today's balance of forces between the Soviet-led Warsaw pact bloc and the NATO countries in the Eastern Atlantic and in Central Europe:

—In surface ships, the Communists have 1.2 vessels for every single NATO warship.

—In submarines the ratio is 1.4 Communist vessels to every NATO sub.

—There are 1.2 Communist troops to every NATO soldier.

U.S. defense officials and other NATO leaders have similarly warned of what they describe as an alarming build-up of the Soviet arsenal and have called for an increase in Western military spending.

Boys killed without motive

DES MOINES, Iowa [AP] — Three teenage boys, well-liked and active in school, were going to be in a musical program at their church next month. Instead, their funeral will be at the church. The three died in a weekend gangland-style slaying with no apparent motive.

On the day the boys were killed, a clerk in a nearby adult bookstore was found shot to death in the same manner. Police were searching for three men seen in the area near the time of the slayings.

Officers said that although the boys and the bookstore clerk were killed in a similar manner — shot in the head — and the vacant building where the boys were killed once housed an adult bookstore, there was no indication the killings were related.

Robbery appeared to have been the motive in the clerk's killing, police said. No motive could be established for the slayings of brothers Gerald and Jeff Hoffman and a friend, Jeff Beavers.

"The boys had no enemies. All three of them were pretty good kids," said Gerald Hoffman Sr., father of the dead brothers.

"The boys were very well liked at school, very socially and athletically active. They were good students and never were in trouble of any kind".

Hoffman, a West Des Moines contractor, said the boys were helping clean up a building he was remodeling for a restaurant.

He said he dropped the boys off Sunday morning at the site, showed them what they were to do and then left. A restaurant equipment supplier stopped by to check on the work and found the boys, lying side-by-side, less than two hours later.

Jeff Hoffman, 14, and Jeff Beavers, 15, were pronounced dead at the site. Gerald Hoffman Jr., 15, died several hours later after surgery.

WANT TO TEACH A
MATH COLLOQ ?
Sign up for the math teacher training workshop
AND GET 2 CREDITS.
CALL Steve Falk : 545-0333
Jack Murphy : 545-2803
OR Come to John Adams lobby room 1 before March 1.

mpus handicapped form new organization

By BRIAN SAWYER
Collegian Staff

A meeting is being held tonight to organize a student group for improving life here for the more than 300 handicapped students here at the University. The meeting is in Campus Center 917 at 7:30 p.m.

The group will try to help meet the specific needs of handicapped students, according to Jane Hansberry, one organizer of the group.

Handicapped students Jane Hansberry and Wayne Howell met during intersession with John Foley of the Board of Governors, and laid the groundwork for the group.

The three intend to fund the organization with money from the student government and outside grants. Hansberry pointed out handicapped students pay fees for some student service they cannot enjoy.

Hansberry said she feels the group should ultimately work toward the goal of "complete handicapped student integration into the University by giving the University the most possible advice in its efforts to facilitate handicapped students under federal 504."

The federal law "puts a ban on discrimination based on whether or not a person is handicapped, all University programs must be made available to all students," according to Paul Appleby, coordinator of Handicapped Affairs.

The University has three years in which to comply with the law. An organization called the Transition Plan Committee is in charge of reporting the necessary changes.

Hansberry said she would like to see increased hours of van service for transporting handicapped students, more campus buildings accessible to handicapped students, more sports facilities for the handicapped, and interpreters available for the deaf during cultural events.

Hansberry said she would like to see more handicapped services available, making it possible for more handicapped students to attend UMass, and also making it possible for more visually impaired, or blind students to live here.

Appleby, when asked about the demands of the student group said, "We are moving in the right direction, though some people aren't moving as fast as I would like." He said that in the near future the campus should become more accessible to the handicapped by modification of student transportation buses.

Appleby said by next fall lockerrooms, showers, and bathrooms should be modified for the handicapped who participate in sports events.

He said he feels it unfortunate that right now many deaf students are unable to enjoy the culture offered on campus, but said it is due to a shortage of qualified interpreters.

Right now there is only one legally blind student on campus according to Appleby. He said he hopes to see the library improve its facilities and is working with a Boston firm on a map which the blind can read.

He said he hopes to get money to aid the blind next year.

Appleby said he foresees classes and dormitory modifications increasing the University's handicapped enrollment.

University of Massachusetts
Union Program Council
PRESENTS

Elvis Costello

Willie Alexander and the Boom Boom Band

March 1st, 8 p.m., Student Union Ballroom, $3.50

Holly Near
March 5th,
8 p.m.,
Fine Arts Center,
$2.50

Tickets for both shows available at: TIX, Sun Music, Faces of Earth, Platterpus Records, Main Street Records

UPCOMING CONCERTS

Geils - March 15th, F.A.C.
Dexter Gordon - April 1st, S.U.B.
David Bromberg/
Maria Muldaur - April 9th, F.A.C.

HERE IS WHERE YOUR BUCK STARTS:

The following is a schedule of budget hearings

2/21:
Nummo News
Project Re-entry
Resources Judaica

2/23:
Drum
Spectrum
WMUA
WBLK

2/27:
Ahora
RSO
BCP
Index

3/2:
Transit Service
Boltwood-Belchertown Project
Third World Women
Belchertown Volunteers

3/6:
CEQ
Afro-Am
Lesbian Union

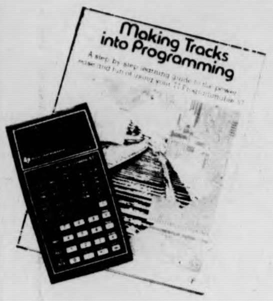
3/9:
PGA
Credit Union

3/13:
Veterans Service Organization
SGA Presidents
Office Attorney General

3/16:
Collegian
SOP
LSO
SCER
LAB Area Govs.

*Any group who misses their budget hearing without notifying the committee chair two school days in advance will not be granted a hearing.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION



Texas Instruments
Programmable TI 57

powerful super slide rule calculator that you can program directly from the keyboard

only $59.95

thru March 31 only list price $79.95

at the calculator store

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

安城中國飯店
AMHERST CHINESE FOOD
62 Main St., Amherst Tel. 253-7835
"Good Dining Award from American Diner's Society"
Eat in or take out
Lunch Specials
1.09 and up
Fresh Chinese vegetables from our own farm!
UMASS BUS STOP
Closed Wednesdays

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequaled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus on February 22, 24, or contact your Navy representative at 518-472-4424/4462 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.

NAVY OFFICER.
IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

★ Belchertown

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

At weekly house meetings the problems of adjusting to the farm life, other participants, and the program are discussed by all the household.

"There are problems inherent in all living situations," he said.

Meetings provide a time and place for people to comfortably expose their feelings and make the adjustment to the farm and the program," said Roberts.

Roberts said most participants are shy at first. Most have never seen a farm or farm animals up close. They are often frightened by the size of the animals and are cautious about approaching them.

Some find the rural setting unnerving Roberts said.

"Some fantasize that bears are lurking behind every tree," he added.

Shoveling manure is something the participants dislike at first Roberts said.

"People consider manure grotesque at first," he said. "They don't like the sight of it or the smell," he added.

But according to Roberts, after playing baseball and football in the pasture and shoveling manure out of the barn, Roberts said people learn to think of it as just another form of dirt which washes off.

Roberts said the program provides a fair amount of structure for the participants to prepare them to organize their own daily lives after they have completed the program.

However, he added, the participants are also encouraged to take part in outside activities such as driver education classes, and movies, and to make friends.

Participants are required to complete their chores each week while going to school and working. If they want to visit a friend after work and stay for dinner they may do so, provided they make arrangements in advance and return by 11 p.m. on weekdays and observe a 1 a.m. curfew on weekends, Roberts said.

Residents earn $2.65 per hour for working and going to school while in the program Roberts said. They are required to keep a bank account and deposit one-half of their weekly earnings he added.

Jobs include working at WMUA, University radio station, the Physical Plant, Belchertown State School, and the Amherst Child Care Center according to Roberts.

After completing the program and achieving independent living status, each participant receives a monthly stipend to help them make the transition to independence Roberts said.

Stipends of $360.00 per month are paid by the State for an average of five months. Each month a portion of the stipend is held in the bank for the participant. The amount held in the bank is increased each month, until in the last month the entire stipend is banked, according to Roberts.

The money is intended to help the participant meet the expenses associated with the transition to independent living, and to provide an economic incentive to complete the program Roberts said.

"I want to prove I can make it on my own," said one young man. He said he feels it is a challenge.

Roberts said he has a good relationship with his neighbors adding that some neighbors helped get the farm started he said.

Roberts said he has met with the Belchertown Board of Selectmen who have expressed no objections to his operation. Selectmen did have some concern about whether the farm needed any permits.

Roberts said his facility is licensed by the State Office for Children.

Selectmen suggested that Roberts meet with the Town Planning Board and Zoning Board of Appeals to be sure that he has all necessary permits and that the operation does not require a zoning variance he said.

Roberts sums up the farm program as one which fills the need for structure and training for the participants, but also goes further.

"If you don't meet the basic needs of the individual, you cannot get to the inner man. You cannot get past the effects of hunger and cold," he said.

With a combination of training, structure, good food, and pleasant surroundings, Roberts is trying to reach that inner man.

Stockbridge Schedule

This is a list of exhibits and seminars sponsored by the Stockbridge Agricultural School taking place on the ground level of the Campus Center today.

The schedule for the day is as follows: 9:45 a.m. — Opening Ceremonies; 10:00 a.m. — Joseph Brine, Jr., Brine Tree Experts of Lowden, Inc.; Eugene Kosinski, Vegetable Corps; 11:10 a.m. — Linwood Lesure, 1977 State Tree Farmer of the Year; 1:00 p.m. — Dr. Webster, Worcester Medical School; Dr. John Hite, Veterinarian practicing in Amherst; 2:10 p.m. Alan Cumps, O.M. Scott and Sons Co.; Douglas Carey, Bay State Florists; 3:05 p.m. — Roy Boutard, Berkshire Garden Center, 4:10 p.m. — Guest Speaker John Barrus, Assistant Commissioner, MA State Dept. of Food and Agriculture; 5:00 p.m. — Professional Development Day Closed.

The following petition was presented to Chancellor Randolph Bromery by the Student Committee for Judaic Studies on Feb. 17, 1978 and was signed by over 1400 students at UMass.

To the:
President of the University,
Board of Trustees,
Chancellor of the Amherst Campus,
Provost of the University,
Faculty Senate and
Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences

The Judaic Studies major at the University of Massachusetts is in peril!

Despite steadily increasing enrollment, Administration support is being cut back. Due to obvious student support for the program, we, the undersigned, demand the establishment of a permanent Judaic Studies Department at this University to guarantee the offering of Hebrew, Yiddish and other Judaic Studies Courses.

DON'T ALLOW THE DEMISE OF JUDAIC STUDIES AT UMASS!

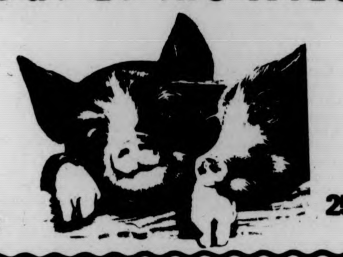
Student Committee for Judaic Studies for information on how you can help contact Fred Shuster or David Day, 545-2526

The Transcendental Meditation Program

Introductory Lecture
Wednesday Feb. 22
Machmer E35
8:00 p.m.
Free and open to the public
For more info
call 549-5335

©1976 World Plan Executive Council — U.S. All rights reserved
Transcendental Meditation™ is a service mark of WPEC — U.S., a nonprofit educational organization

The Hideout
103 North Pleasant St. • Amherst
Pig out at the Hideout



WE DELIVER
256-0441

ELVIS COSTELLO
ON THE LINE WITH YOU

ELVIS COSTELLO
MY AIM IS TRUE
ELVIS COSTELLO
MY AIM IS TRUE
ELVIS COSTELLO
MY AIM IS TRUE

MY AIM IS TRUE
ON COLUMBIA RECORDS AND TAPES

® COLUMBIA ® MARCAS REG. © 1978 CBS INC.

Appearing at UMass on March 1, 1978

★ Vacancies

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Hite said it is said to keep consistent student participation on campuswide committees, and said that while it would be ideal for undergraduates to stay on their committees more than one year, it would be hard to get commitments for longer than that.

Some students drop out or graduate; others just become bored. "People get involved in something else and drop out, unless it's a really good committee," said Batiste.

Hite and Batiste drafted letters of application after they were elected last spring, Batiste said, and advertised committee positions in the fall. It was early November by the time the interviews were completed and the nominees appointed and approved by the Undergraduate Student Senate and many of the campuswide committees had already started to meet. For some, it was a confusing transition.

Although a Student Government Association report listed an undergraduate student, Catherine Corliss, as a representative to the Faculty Senate Extension Council, she said she was never told. Although she had enquired about the position, she said "I never joined the council."

Joseph Clayton said the student senate recalled some of the undergraduates from the Academic Affairs Council at the beginning of last semester, and after that, "we were never told who the reps were." According to the SGA report, two appointments were made.

It can be difficult to keep track which students actually participate in their assigned committees. Although undergraduate representatives are supposed to submit written reports after each committee meeting, only 15 to 20 report back, "at the most," according to Batiste.

Batiste said the process can be frustrating — "How much can two of us do to overview all of these committees?"

The Graduate Student Senate, which also makes appointments to campuswide committees, recently created the position of committee coordinator in an attempt to stabilize committee membership.

Committee coordinator Don Ross said his job is to fill vacancies and maintain continuity on the committees, as well as to keep track of when the committees meet and what they will discuss.

When students do attend committee meetings, they report varying degrees of effectiveness. While many said they thought their opinions were respected and played a part in decisions made, some said they felt like "an outsider."

Sometimes, it shows. Harvey F. Kline, head of the Faculty Senate Program and Budget Council, said "I sometimes get the feeling the undergraduates on the council feel 'Here I am, an undergraduate, with all this faculty, and I think I'll keep my mouth shut.'"

Batiste said students can be initmidated from participating on committees "unless the faculty are not so alienating."

Some of the committees with the largest number of student seats have traditionally had the most successful student input, as is the case with the Faculty Senate Athletics and Health Councils, and the Arts Council, all of which have six student positions.

★ Carter

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

press conference platform at the airport so that a national man could set up a tripod. Others were more considerate.

"You new at this?" asked one kindly looking photographer from a Woonsocket newspaper.

My innocent look gave me away.

"Don't let them push you around," he said. "They're all very courteous until they see Carter's face. Then, watch out."

The advice came in handy at the press conference.

Presidential press conferences are something akin to organized mayhem. By custom, the senior wire service correspondents from AP and UPI ask their questions first, then the president will answer other questions. So, after the two wire service reporters had queried the president, others began jockeying for position.

It was like playing To Tell the Truth with 300 others.

Everybody stood up, shouted "Mr. President, Mr. President" until he chose one lucky person, then everybody sat down again reluctantly. This occurred 10 times in the 30 minute conference.

At one point, the president's selection of questions seemed set up. After responding to one question, Carter looked past all the shouting and waving reporters and all the way to the back of the ballroom to call on Ed Bradley from CBS. Mr. Bradley, whom Carter called by name, had sauntered into the ballroom when it was only half full and purposely selected a seat in the next-to-the-last row of chairs. Apparently, the national media do not have to try as hard.

At any rate, the concept of the "regional" press conference died. Most questions were from the national media and tended toward national interest. Even the president's opening remarks concerned the national coal strike.

The president concluded his trip with a short appearance at Pell's reception and then departed Rhode Island for Bangor, some 20 minutes behind schedule.

UMASS
STUDENT FEDERAL CREDIT UNION
WORK STUDY POSITION
AVAILABLE

Secretary/Receptionist
$2.65/hr.

10 hours per week
Must be able to type well
and be available when needed.
Contact BETSY LEHR
545-2800

Deadline: Feb. 24

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Letters

North Pleasant should be closed

To the Editor:

On 16 February, the Collegian ran a story and a series of articles on the closing of North Pleasant Street. As the sponsors of a motion in the Student Senate requesting the Town of Amherst and the Town Meeting to close parts of North Pleasant Street, we feel it incumbent upon us to explain the motion and its ramifications.

The motion requests the town to close off North Pleasant Street from Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity to Eastman Lane for all traffic except buses and emergency vehicles. Obviously, this is in response to the recent tragedy but it should not be confused with the Northeast By-Pass proposal of three years ago. The Senate is concerned with pedestrian safety, not with road construction.

North Pleasant Street is a two lane road with six busstops and five crosswalks. The street is crossed daily by 22,000 people. Due to the buses and crosswalks, pedestrians often find themselves dodging cars and buses to cross the street. On a college campus, and especially a largely residential one, this is unnecessary and should be stopped. It was the sentiment of the Student Senate, which passed this motion 48 to 1, that this action should be taken now in order to prevent any more tragedies.

The alternative routes to North Pleasant Street for private vehicles are numerous. Cars travelling from North Amherst into town could take either East Pleasant Street or Route 116, which was built in the 60's to handle large amounts of traffic. People wishing to drive to Whitmore from the north could either take route 116 or Commonwealth Avenue by Boyden Gym. Those persons wishing to get to the Worcester Dining Commons parking lots would use Stockbridge Road. The existing routes are available and should be used.

There have been several suggestions made that would not necessitate the closing of the street. Among these are: 1] lowering the speed limit; 2] installing speed bumps; and 3] building a pedestrian underpass. These suggestions, while having some credence, lack the practicality that is desired. Most cars already travel faster than the current 25 mph speed limit and this solution doesn't speak to people getting off the buses and stepping into the street. Speed bumps would ruin the suspension systems on the buses and some private vehicles. The University and the Town would be legally liable in some cases for any damage caused. Finally, underpasses and overpasses just don't work. Pedestrians, at least at UMass, will always take the shortest distance between two points.

It would be safer and more practical if North Pleasant Street were closed to all non-essential traffic. As it now stands, it is a major barrier between the two sides of campus. UMass is a pedestrian campus and should remain that way, so that we may all get around safely.

Jon Hite
Co-President of the Student Government Association
Pinky Batiste
Student Trustee

Bus service doesn't warrant fee increase

To The Editor:

Increasing parking fees or students' fees to pay for bus service is illogical.

UMass buses do not service all local areas. Some areas which have high population density are miles from bus routes. Many students and faculty must struggle to get to UMass. Service stations get rich from starting cold or ice bound cars. These frustrated people are, also, the same ones who pay the parking fees here.

Those people chauffeured in warm buses ride free and need not pay parking fees.

Both students and faculty need every penny to survive the spiraling inflation. Let those fortunate enough to dance pay the fiddler!

It is criminal to tax people who have never been provided with the services.

Rene M. Bernasconi
Chemistry Department

R.A.'s salaries not adequate

To the Editor:

We would like to thank the marvelous artist who drew the editorial cartoon for last Thursday's Collegian on the situation of R.A.'s here on campus. No other graphic but that one could deal more accurately with the issue at hand for R.A.'s here — the amount of hours and energy they put into their jobs is not taken seriously by the administration who pays them.

Do you honestly think it's a country club life to not only carry on as a full-time student but also as a full-time problem solver, resource person, social director and police patrol for a dorm corridor? Obviously not, and so R.A.'s, let people know what you're up to and post the number of hours you're on the job. Maybe somebody will take notice and see you certainly are working more than 6.6 hours and might think more seriously about being a fair employer.

There will be an organizational meeting of OH-C Area Resident Assistants this coming Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 9 p.m. in Butterfield Lounge to discuss petitioning for further R.A. salary compensations. It is imperative that each and every R.A. in the area attend the meeting so that a collective action can be taken and organized to further our benefits.

This issue has been recently raised in light of the minimum wage increase to $2.65 effective Jan. 78. Presently R.A.'s are receiving $2.65 for 6.6 hours weekly. This present salary needs reconsideration by the administration for the following reasons.

-1- R.A.'s work more than 6.6 hours weekly. Not including the 2 to 3 hours alone R.A.'s spend weekly in staff meetings, R.A.'s also have the following responsibilities: key, night duty once a week and rotating weekends, enforcing University policy, act as social coordinators in dorm, often act as disciplinarians, enforce endangering behavior policy.

-2- It has come to our attention that in Sept. 1977 under financial pressure, OH-C Area Residential Offices raised R.A. salaries to $2.65 but cut hours down to 6.6 weekly in order that R.A.'s would receive the same salary as previously allotted and no salary increase would be necessary come January 1978 and minimum wage increase.

-3- R.A.'s now receive the same salary as dorm security guards who work one night a week. Certainly this comparison clearly illustrates that R.A.'s are underpaid.

The present situation is even more alarming in consideration of past years when R.A.'s not only received a yearly stipend totaling $500 [now we receive approximately $460] but also a tuition waiver. Although the salary compensation for R.A.'s has decreased, the amount of time and energy encompassed in the job has not. And then, one must also consider the rise in cost-of-living over the years. Obviously something must be done.

Lisa Melilli, Jody Marcus,
Helen Berg, Darryll Maston,
Pat Brennan

CHIEF JUSTICE BURGER ESTIMATES THAT 20-50% OF TRIAL LAWYERS ARE INCOMPETENT. CHECK THE PROFESSIONS WHERE THAT IS NOT TRUE.
☐ MECHANIC ☐ JUDGE ☐ POLITICIAN ☐ PROFESSOR ☐ JOURNALIST ☐ BUSINESSMAN ☐ ATHLETE ☐ DOCTOR
☐ CHEF ☐ CRIMINAL ☐ CARTOONIST
☐ OTHER
AUTH

'New awareness' of black history

By CHARLES POOLER

This week, February 19-25, is black history week. Different programs are taking place on campus to commemorate this, the life of Martin Luther King Jr. was on T.V. last week, and there's a lot of proud history to be remembered but the rulers of this country have something to say about black history.

What they're saying is "it is just history," that racial discrimination and the struggle against it are a thing of the past. They're saying this by handing down the Bakke decision from the California Supreme Court last year. By saying that blacks are now in a position to "reverse discrimination" against whites. They're saying we should forget the second-class citizenship that blacks were born with in the Jim Crow South (with seats reserved for them in the back of the bus, with separate dining and toilet facilities, with the worst jobs and living conditions.) The rulers of our country are also saying that actions like the lunch counter sit-ins in Mississippi, the armed take-over by black students of Cornell University, and the uprisings of the oppressed nationalities that took place in Watts, Harlem, Roxbury and every other slum in the late sixties will not happen any more because blacks have such a privileged position in our society. But what the rulers of our country are saying is a lie. A visit to any of the above mentioned hell-holes that blacks, Latins and Asians are condemned to will show that national oppression still exists. And the demonstration by 3000 in October in the Bay Area and the building take-overs at UCall-Berkely, Santa Barbara, and San Jose State show that people aren't going to take the Bakke decision lying down.

To understand the effect the Bakke decision will have you have to check out what was accomplished by the uprisings of the blacks and other minorities in the 60's. These uprisings represented the aspirations of millions of oppressed minorities to be treated like humans and not animals. They showed the wrath that burned inside these people for being born into the worst living and working conditions with little hope of any kind of future. And much was won when these people struggled to break their life long oppression: Affirmative Action programs and admission quotas for blacks were won in many Universities as well as quota hiring programs for the skilled jobs in many industries. Beyond the immediate gains that were won, people's consciousnesses were raised. Black studies programs were won by blacks so that they could study their history and be proud of it. The struggle for Civil Rights turned many white people's heads around too and millions of them united with the struggle. This pointed out to many people that the problem with this society was institutionalized racism as opposed to just a lot of people having bad ideas.

But what the capitalists give with an eye-dropped they take away with a steam shovel. So the long years of struggle necessary to bring about these changes can be shot down with one Supreme Court decision. The Carnegies and Rockefellers certainly want to see things the way they were in the fifties. They don't like the history of the past ten years which shows that blacks can be just as good students and can handle any job just as well as whites. When this is proven, it's more difficult to get away with paying blacks half as much as whites than it was 20 years ago. To pay blacks equal wages and give them an equal chance in education hurts their profits so they're trying to reverse the gains that were won by blacks in the last 15 years by calling the gains "reverse discrimination."

The capitalists are using their media to play up the fact that there seems to be something inherently unfair about quotas so that they can do away with them. Well the terrible thing about quotas is that they are necessary in this society. The capitalists are using the fact that people want to live in a free and equal society by saying that if we are to have such a society we can't have quotas. This is true, but to say racial discrimination is a thing of the past is a lie. And the history of quotas and Affirmative Action programs does not show that they have brought about a privileged position for blacks. The facts are that only 5 per cent of all enrollees in Medical school and only 3 per cent of the members of the A.M.A. are black. Just look around at this campus and you'll see that blacks are hardly discriminating against whites. They comprise about 5 per cent of the student population and this is with Affirmative Action. But we still hear all this hype about quotas. Well why aren't these fair-minded souls concerned with some of the other "quotas" in our society? Such as the high infant mortality rate for minority babies, the doubly high unemployment rate for blacks and Latins and the limited spots for minorities in college and the professions. These quotas are met more regularly than the Affirmative Action quotas yet nothing is done about them.

So in April, nine rich white men are going to mete out "justice" for the blacks and minorities in this country. This is the same Court system that ruled at Kent State that the University could build the gym on the site of the 1970 killings no matter what the students wanted.

The history of every movement of the people in the past, including the Civil Rights movement has shown us that these "impartial" judges somehow always screw the people unless real justice is crammed down their throats by the people's struggle. And on April 15, we'll be at the halls of justice to deliver the People's Verdict — Down with the Bakke Decision.

Charles Pooler is a member of the Revolutionary Student Brigade.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

A minority unproclaimed

Frank Denton

On a campus accoutered with collective inferiority complexes and self-proclaimed advocates, it is something of an anomaly to find a fringe group disregarded by activists and reactionaries alike. It was with palpitating pulse and titillating tingle, then, that I discovered an alert elite skulking subversively within the cacophonous squalor of the Fine Arts Center. The UMass Chorale resides in the concrete bowels of oppression.

Editors have been the scourge of the Chorale. A censor whose fertile mind can clone a thousand variations on the theme of road apples can find space only on the snooze and blues pages for our warbling wonders. Some broadsides have been unable to spell "chorale", others have been incapable of endorsing a group which sings eighteenth century drinking songs in harmony.

Because the Chorale does not intone stentorian ululations for extremist causes, they are often discriminated against. A group that has been applauded all over Europe is unable to fill Bowker auditorium. Perhaps if classical music was counter to poverty, injustice, and the American Way, this tale would be different.

Perhaps we would appreciate discordant dissidence less if we were truly interested in gaining a historical perspective. The music, art and philosophy of another age have all shaped ours. The period of Marx's postulations was also the time of Strauss's airs.

This is a generation which remonstrates against the palaverations of the capitalistic s.o.b.'s (sons of the bourgeois). We disparage those whose purviews of equality and equanimity are not equal to our own excellent standards. However, if we ignore apolitical assemblages as insignificant, we have created new minorities.

A minority elevated to popular dispute by the majority is no minority at all. It is a pedestal of the elect. The real minorities are striving to find an audience.

Frank Denton is a Collegian Columnist.

Brown eyes Carter's blues

By GEORGE SOMERS

Calif. Governor Jerry Brown is undoubtedly the most intriguing figure to come down the political pike in decades. Brown is young, a former Jesuit seminarian, and widely known for his spartan lifestyle. He has forsaken ownership of the traditional luxurious mansion which comes with the governorship of the most populous state in the nation, preferring to remain in his one-bedroom apartment. His bed there is a simple mattress thrown on the floor. Jerry Brown's frequent dating of torchy rock singer Linda Ronstadt has endeared him to young rock fans, as well as making his a favorite subject of such magazines as People.

Brown gave candidate Jimmy Carter a close encounter of the frightening kind in the several primaries of 1976 in which he ran against and beat Carter. Most of these were the later primaries in western states where Carter never was overly popular. Carter at that time was additionally suffering from overexposure in the media and frequent blunders made in his exhaustive campaign.

If President Carter fails to get Congress to do his bidding on his energy plan, the Panama Canal, and other substantive issues, he will be open to charges of being an ineffectual president, and will pave the way for rival Democrats to challenge him in 1980. The conservative faction of the party is prepared to groom flamboyant New York Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan for a run, and the left believes that Ted Kennedy is by now sufficiently recovered from Chappaquidick to make a stab at the nomination.

Hovering somewhere around the center is Jerry Brown. Many of his youthful supporters in '76 were under the mistaken notion that he was the alternative liberal choice. Brown is "liberal" only in the sense that Jimmy Carter, and even Massachusetts' own Michael Dukakis, are liberal. He takes liberal stands on issues such as abortion, capital punishment, and equal rights. Where doling out money is concerned, however, for the ailing cities, education, welfare, etc., Brown is extremely tight-fisted. He has never made any strenuous objections to the amount of tax dollars poured into defense. California, by coincidence, receives a disproportionately high amount of these defense dollars. This Sunbelt state enjoys a healthy economy and high employment rate largely due to the defense industry. In "jobs vs. environment" disputes, Jerry Brown almost invariably taken the side of the "jobs". President Carter has a much better record as far as environmentalists are concerned.

"When Democrats form a firing squad, they get in a circle and fire." Thus spake Rep. Mo Udall of the 1976 and 1972 campaigns. In the last two elections in which an incumbent was seriously challenged within his own party (Ronald Reagan vs. Gerald Ford and Eugene McCarthy vs. Lyndon Johnson) the incumbents went down in defeat. If Jerry Brown chooses to challenge Carter, history may repeat itself. We may very well even end up with a president who was also governor of California at one time; Ronald Reagan. Jerry Brown, however, is young enough and enigmatic enough to hold off until 1984.

Only Whitmore can make a day

By ELLEN PLAUSKY

Today is Monday. Or is it Tuesday? Well, I suppose if Dukakis can make a week out of Valentines' Day, then Whitmore can make Tuesday a Monday.

Now I don't know about the rest of you people, but when I wake up on a Tuesday to go to Monday classes, I get a little confused. It's not that I don't understand the way switching the day works, it's just that my system is adjusted to having a Tuesday come after a Monday, even if that Monday is a holiday. And having a Monday come after a Monday just doesn't make it.

And it's scary, too. Now that Whitmore has the power to change the calendar, will they stop with just an extra Monday here or there? If power does strange things to normal minds, can you imagine what will happen to those in Whitmore who now have this extra power in grasp? If they like Mondays this much, will we start having them in the middle of the week, or will we have them all week? You may have an easy Monday, but my scheduled three hour lecture does not make Monday one of my favorite days. Come to think of it, does anyone really like Mondays? To me they've always been like an evil omen, hanging there like a threat to darken the weekend.

Maybe we could start a petition going around to eliminate Mondays altogether, or maybe just to eliminate the control over them that some people have.

Ellen Plausky is a Collegian Commentator, partial to Tuesdays.

©1978 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
PANAMA CANAL
JINGOISM
MONSTER OF THE LOCKS

★Hite criticizes Community Development Center

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

says, "gets no support from CDC") defends the structure of the two offices saying there is some need for improvement. He noted the present organization of the offices has only been in existence since July 1, 1976.

Campbell said he feels "alternative staffing arrangements should be researched" but not necessarily followed. He added that the two departments are trying to make sure what occurred last fall won't happen again.

Residence Assistants Rights

Pointing to another critical area, Hite said, "CDC is more interested in the central staff than they are in the counselors." He said he feels the center should be advocating for the student counseling staff who "are getting screwed — they are underpaid and overworked." Hite noted that several years ago residence assistants received tuition waivers as well as their wages.

The tuition waivers were granted to the R.A.'s in 1972, on an experimental basis, by the University Board of Trustees who decided in the spring, 1975 it was not appropriate compensation.

"R.A.'s are always our first priority in terms of state money," Marjorie Lenn, assistant director of the Community Development Center, said adding that the center are trying to find alternative ratos to reward them. She noted that her office has established the precedent whereby R.A.'s receive academic credit as a form of compensation for their participation in the programs for preservice and in-service training.

Freeman said that tuition waivers would have to come from one of three sources: the state budget, the trustees, (who awarded and withdrew the initial waiver), or directly from the students (by means of the "Rents and Fees" item on the semester bills).

While Freeman said, "We strongly advocate for, and would love to see" the R.A.'s receive "a tuition waiver," she also said the students would not permit an approximate $25 increase of their tuition and said that the other two funding possibilities were financially impossible this year.

Hite was not entirely critical of all the center's departments, "Child Care is handled well. Mark Segar does a tremendous job." The child care department coordinates the five area Child Care Centers run by the University and will soon by offering a baby sitting service. Hite also strongly backed the Resource Network, coordinated by Judith Davis, which "tries to identify the issues" on campus and make recommendations.

Head of Residence Grievances

"Quite frankly there are a lot of heads of residence who are next to useless," said Hite. "You've got heads of residence who are so isolated in their positions that they've stopped caring and being concerned." Hite said this is a failure on the part of the development center because it does not set down enough guidelines for its heads of residence.

Hite said although there are "a lot of good heads of residence out there who relate well to both their students and back to CDC and RRM," he sees the need for tighter communication between all heads of residence and the center (and their area directors). He feels the results would be a "decline in [dorm] damage and things like that."

Freeman denied these allegations commenting, "I would not agree at all, I don't think that can be substantiated about the heads of residence. The problems and complexities have increased but the rewards haven't."

She added that different departments throughout the University make demands on the heads of residence resulting in an "incredibly taxing job.

"I think Jon (Hite) is dealing with a lot of misinformation," Freeman said. "The heads of residence deal very closely with the area staff. That sort of framework is very productive. Obviously I'm not going to agree — I think most of them work incredibly hard and do a tremendous job."

Hite advocates for more student-run dormitories saying, "they (CDC) are under some misguided philosophy that students can't run their own dorms. Moore House is run by students and has done perfectly." Hite noted that there are only four student-run dormitories (Cance, Moore, and John Adams, Upper and Lower, all in Southwest) amounting to only about 1,000 students.

Lenn agreed that they aren't advocating for student-run dormitories because they feel the position is too taxing upon the two students who serve as heads of residence (who aren't required to do as much as their full-time counterparts). "The concern is that at various times the students in those positions encounter academic difficulties."

A group of students petitioned last year to run their own dorm, but were refused after an investigation by the center, said Lenn. "If the students petition for it, we've taken a look at it."

Although Hite said he has no actual grievances against the Career Planning Service, he feels it is misplaced within the structure of the community center. "Career counseling ought to be taken away and put under the Placement Office which should be restructured with a director and more professional counseling staff."

Sarah Hamilton, a representative from the career counseling division of the center said that the Placement Office is purely mechanical, dealing primarily with first and second semester seniors for post-graduate options. The Counseling service, she noted, is more concerned for the individual counseling choices and psychological aspects of students as individuals.

Freeman supports the separation, which occurred in 1976. Prior to that, she said, the agency was divided between two responsibilities dealing with two different kinds of staff. "Probably students are getting better service from both departments" because of the division.

In regard to Hite's allegations, Director Freeman commented, "He just doesn't understand the way the organization is structured."

Hite's major criticism of the center is that because of its many failures it is not working for the student. He concluded, "they've got a lot of work to do."

★PIRG

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

When asked about the continued cooperation of VISTA and PIRG, Torian said, "A lot is dependent on what happens this year and next year. If one can support the other it will work ... "

An evaluation period followed. The participants commented on the presentation of seminars, workshops, and the benefits of the PIRG convention.

The final presentation was led by Ken Sherman, a VISTA supervisor and Don Gallagher, VISTA coordinator for Berkshire County. The two presented specific suggestions on successful planning. Gallagher presented three volunteers who explained their functions in their respective communities.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPRING FLING SKI WEEK AT KILLINGTON, VERMONT
"March is Killington's Best Ski Moəth with Plenty of Snow, Sun and Fun."
March Ski Weeks Include:
• Five Day Killington Lift Ticket (Mon-Fri) • Five Nights Lodging (Sun-Thurs) • Five Full Breakfasts & Four Complete Dinners • Ski 50 Runs with up to 3000' Drop on 14 Lifts • Night Time Entertainment & Walk to Movies, etc. • Free Keg Party & Dance to Live Bands
ONLY $119.50-$139.50 or $79.50-$99.50 (without meals)
Special Drive-To Package
To receive all the details on this great trip, send this ad with your address to United Intercollegiate Skiers Association, 4040 S. 28th St., Arlington, Va. 22206. (703) 578-3322 (No collect, please) Subject to 6% tax and service charge.

The Elmwood Inn
RUSSELL RD HADLEY MA
DINNER SPECIALS
TUES.-THURS.
OLD FASHIONED BEEF POT PIE $4.25
BAKED HAM WITH RAISIN SAUCE $5.50
VEGETARIANS SPECIAL PLATTER $2.85
FRI. & SAT.
BROILED SCALLOPS $4.95
BROILED HALIBUT STEAKS $4.95
SUNDAY
SLICED BREAST OF CAPON $4.50
BROILED SCALLOPS $4.95
ROAST PRIME RIBS ENGLISH CUT $5.95
on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6815

COSMOPOLITAN ISRAEL:
CONCERTS
BEACHES
RUINS CAFES
MUSEUMS
SHOPS
TEL AVIV UNIVERSITY

At Tel Aviv University you can take courses in English then transfer the credits to your college back home.

We offer semester and full year programs in Liberal Arts, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Business, Judaic Studies, Hebrew and Archaeology.

Studying at Tel Aviv University can be less expensive both in tuition and living expenses than many American universities.

For information on these and other programs send in the coupon or call American Friends of Tel Aviv University at (212) 687-5651

Return coupon to
American Friends of Tel Aviv University
342 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017
Name ____________
Address ____________
City ____________
State ____________ Zip ______
Telephone ____________ area code
College University ____________
Major ____________

Notices

AHEA

All Home Ec majors are invited to an American Home Ec Assoc. (AHEA) meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 6:30 p.m. There will be a speaker from the placement office.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

All are welcome at this free, open encounter with some readings from the Bible, facilitated by Gil Caldwell, new Black-Minority Campus Minister, of the ecumenical UCF Campus Ministry; 428 Student Union from 7:15 to 8:15 tonight.

BICYCLE CLUB

Tennessee pre-trip meeting tonight at 7 p.m., Campus Center room 101. Anyone interested in this Spring Break bicycle tour is encouraged to attend. For info. call Fred, 546-6317.

BIOCHEMISTRY LECTURE

Frederick E. Wood of the UMass department of Biochemistry will speak on "Studies on the Mechanism of Low Temperature-Induced Glycerol Accumulation in Insects" in Room 203 of Graduate Research Tower A at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

BREAD AND WINE

Candlelight communion in the round for all who seek a bit of depth, joy, renewal, a caring community; at UCF, 428 Student Union, tonight from 8:15 to about 8:40, celebrated by Gil Cauldwell, new Black-Minority Campus Minister. All are cordially invited.

COLLOQUIUM TODAY

"Structural family therapy", by Dr. Evan Coppersmith (School of Education, University of Massachusetts), Skinner Hall, Mitchell Lounge 4:30-6:00 p.m. Sponsored by the Center for the Family, Division of Home Economics, University of Mass.

'DIRTY HARRY'

Will be playing today at 7, 9, and 11 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Admission is $1.00.

DOGS FOUND

Five dogs have been picked up and are residing at the Amherst Dog Pound, Wagner Farm, 217 North East Street, 253-7294. They may either be claimed or adopted. All dogs require a license and tag before they will be released from the pound.

EXHIBIT

The Herter Art Gallery will exhibit selections from the University's collection of WPA (Works Project Administration) prints and drawings today through March 10. Herter Art Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday for the duration of the exhibit.

FILM

Hester Street, sponsored by Hillel, will be shown on Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. in Thompson 104. The film will be introduced by Prof. Jules Chametzky. Both are free.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

Meeting tonight at 7 p.m., Room 902 Campus Center.

I.W.W.

Meeting tonight for childrens workshops during International Women's Week, 8 p.m. Room 173 Campus Center.

MATHEMATICS AND STATISTICS SEMINAR

This seminar will meet on Wednesdays at 4 p.m., beginning on February 22, in the Mathematics Colloquium room (16 floor, Grad. Research Tower). We will begin by covering the Large Scale Structure of Space-Time, by S. Hawking and G. Ellis. The first speaker will be Prof. Aroldo Kaplan of UMass, who will give three lectures surveying the necessary differential geometry.

MUSIC

The Special Programs in the Arts in collaboration with the Dept. of Music and Dance, and with the cooperation of "Earthfoods" restaurants presents "Jazz Designs" by Chets Keegan in the Commonwealth Lounge on Feb. 22 beginning at 1:30.

NES TUTORS

There will be no tutoring today in Springfield. See you at tonights seminar.

OH-C RESIDENT ASSISTANTS

There will be an organizational meeting of all OH-C Area Resident Assistants this coming Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 9 p.m. in Butterfield Lounge to discuss petitioning for further R.A. salary compensations. It is imperative that each and every R.A. in the area attend the meeting so that a collective action can be taken and organized to further our benefits.

SOLAR ENERGY

Sun Day Organizational Meeting, Room 903 Campus Center at 7:30 p.m. Come and help usher in the Solar Age! For more information call Coalition for Environmental Quality, 545-0618 or Mass PIRG, 256-6434.

STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

Communications committee meeting today at 5 p.m., room 40 of the Health Services. Come and help us plan this semester projects! All welcome.

UMASS MARCHING BAND

Records can still be picked up in Jean's office, FAC 267 anytime. Cost $5.00. Anyone interested in buying one is also welcome.

AQUA VITAE Restaurant
HOME OF REAL ITALIAN FOOD
RTE. 9, RUSSELL ST.
HADLEY
584-9892
Mon.-Fri. 4:30-11
Sat. & Sun. 12-12
WINE & DINE SPECIALS
WEDNESDAY
Spaghetti — Ziti or Shells with Meat Sauce, Tossed Salad and Italian Bread and Butter
$2.50
A complimentary glass of wine is served with these dinners

THERE'S A REASON NURSES GET MORE RESPONSIBILITY IN THE NAVY.
THEY'RE NAVY OFFICERS.
On one side of her collar is the symbol of the Nurse Corps. On the other is the insignia of a Navy officer.
It makes a difference.
Navy nurses are responsible not only for the care of their patients, but for the training and supervision of hospital corpsmen and other clinical and administrative personnel. Their choice of specialties is from thirteen different fields, with positions in twenty-six cities. They earn an excellent salary, top benefits, and that one intangible that money can't buy—the pride and respect of a Navy officer.
For the complete story, Sign up for an interview with the Navy Nurse Information Team
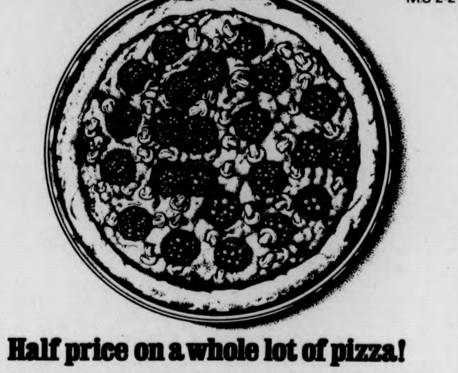
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
22, 23 and 24 February 1978
NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.



1/2 Price
MC 2-21
Half price on a whole lot of pizza!
Right now, you can save 50% when you buy any large size pizza. Mouth watering Thick 'n Chewy® pizza or delicious Thin 'n Crispy® pizza, any toppings you like. So, slice off this coupon, come on in and let yourself go at the Pizza Hut® restaurants listed below.
424 Russell St. Hadley
253-9490
Let yourself go to Pizza Hut.™
Pizza Hut
One coupon per pizza, please. Offer valid with this coupon on regular menu prices only, through March 6, 1978.
Not valid on any other promotional offer
© 1978 Pizza Hut, Inc.
Cash value 1/20¢

CRANES GUARANTEES
NO LOWER PRICES* ON Levi's®
ENTIRE STOCK OF BASIC† Levi's®
DENIMS & CORDUROYS
$11.99
FLARES AND STRAIGHTS
REG. $16.50—$17.00—$17.50
LIMITED TIME ONLY
*BRING IN AD AND YOUR RECEIPT AND WE WILL REFUND THE DIFFERENCE † UNWASHED ONLY
STORE HOURS 10-9:30 M-S
CRANES MEN'S SHOP
Mtn. Farms Mall
STORE ADDRESS
584-9735

Campus Carousel

By TONY GRANITE
Special to the Collegian

AN ELECTROCUTED CAT pictured on the front page of the Central Michigan Life drew letters to the editor from students, faculty and administrators alike, recently.

And they were all scoring the student newspaper for the questionable taste displayed. One student exclaimed: "Shades of the National Inquirer! ... it repulsed a great number of animal lovers, including myself."

A junior coed wrote: "A photograph of the cat that got fried in the transformer (and caused the blackout) is just about the last thing we need to see ... "

"Beware, CMU students — the next time you're in an accident, your broken, mangled body could hit the front page of CMU LIFE," wrote another.

- - - -

PRICE OF BLUE JEANS FADING is the headline over an Indiana Daily Student feature about the high fashion on campuses everywhere. Decreased demand from better dressed students and price wars among jean merchants is the cause, the author contends. And one Health Service person warned students that "most youngsters go astray" if they don't follow his advice "Never to wear blue jeans in winter."

- - - -

NO-DRIP TEA BAGS have been designed by industrial design students at Syracuse U., who have been working on a $2,000 grant from the Lipton Tea Co.

The 19 juniors have been involved in designing "tea infusion systems and products" to avoid such problems as dripping tea bags, tangled strings and tags that fall into tea.

The no-drip bag, designed by Caren M. Idea '79, consists of two flaps attached to the tea bag at one end. When the flaps are extended to winglike position, they hold the tea bag in suspension in a cup because the winglike flaps extend over the lip of the cup. By pulling the flaps together, after tea has been steeped, excess water is pressed out of the bag, making it ready to be discarded without the usual moist mess.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days 40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days 35c per line per day

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _______
X #days:_____ = ______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

LOST

Dane/setter, black & brown. Mix, white chest patch, large paws, 3 months, reward. Call 549-5918. Lost in the North Amherst area.

Reward—for return of gold serpentine chain acelet. Lost Feb. 15 on Hasb.-Thomp.-Hampshire DC-Crampton route. If found, please call Ron, 546-9049 or Mimi, 546-9917.

Ring. Silver band, red stone. 9th floor bathroom. Reward. Kelly, 253-3319, 256-8317.

Silver bracelet on 2/15, sentimental value, large reward! Marge, 5-2714, 549-5310.

Ski mittens, Feb. 15 at CC Blue & black down. Please return. Call 546-4247 or 6-4243.

Blue down parka taken from Goess. I'm freezing. Please return to CC L & F. Call 256-6621 if you have any information.

My best friend— reward for sm fem dog beag/lab mix? Blw/white belly, paws, chest, neck & tip of tail that wags constantly. Ans. to Poco, gone Jan. 6. Please call 253-2290 if you've any info.

To the guy who picked up 4 letters in coffee shop CC, call if mailed, please. 549-0816. Thanks a whole lot.

HELP WANTED

Head resident positions available. Part time positions at Mount Holyoke College for the academic year 1978-1979. Single persons or married couples. B.A. required. Call (413) 538-2550. An equal opportunity employer.

Counselors—private coed overnight camp in Berkshires—openings for instructors in: archery, basketball, tennis, soccer, gymnastics, horseback riding instructor rocketry, camper radio station, sailing, tripping/backpacking, dance, dramatics, arts & crafts, head waterfront (pool). Also needed: general counselors, nurse, head cook & bookkeeper. Good salaries—friendly atmosphere. Contact Paul Krouner, Camp Schodak, 268 Mason Terr., Brookline, MA 02146, (617) 277-7600 or Rick Heideman, on campus, 546-9598.

Overseas jobs—summer/year-round, Europe, S. America, Australia, Asia, etc. All fields, $500-$1200 monthly, expenses paid, sightseeing. Free information—write: BHP Co., Box 4490, Dept. MC, Berkeley, CA 94704.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

Phi Sig is looking for housepersons to clean up after meals in exchange for homecooked meals. Call John, 545-0174.

FOR SALE

Head ski outfit. Parka and bib pants. Women's size 9-12. Exc. cond. 253-3383.

AM/FM car stereo, in dash for most foreign cars, B.O. 546-5000 after 11 or in morning.

Kenwood 2400 stereo receiver, 20 watts. Excellent cond. Call Gary at 549-6235 between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Guild D25 folk guitar, exc. tone, VG cond. $250 or B.O. Yashica TL-Electro 35mm camera. $15 or B.O. 253-3018, after 5:00.

Canon QL17 35mm, new Rollei 121 BC flash. Both 165. Tom, 586-3208.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Calculator—TI SR-51 II, 1 year old, ex. cond. $35 or best offer. Call 546-6724.

INSTRUCTION

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb. 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

Need help in Math 120, 121? Qual. tutor avail. Rates negot. Call Ken, 546-6155.

ROOM WANTED

Roommate wanted to share a bedroom, non-smoker, Brittany Manor Apts., 253-2107.

WANTED

Refrig. 4 cubic ft. or larger. Need as soon as possible. Call Bob, 546-6751.

Scuba tanks, twin 50 plus reg. AM 367-9982.

Female vocalist wants band. Call Alison at 6-7426.

AUDIO

Sony 3650 amp 80rms, 5 yr. warr., 256-8709, B.O.

Brand new 22" high efficiency speakers. $200 or b.o. Call Carol at 549-5935.

Fisher CR5115 3-head cassette deck. Never used. $180. MicroAcoustics FRM1A speakers, $200 or B.O. Call Neal, 546-4375.

PERSONALS

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

To: Gorgeous—I don't need V Day to tell you how much I love you. You're one of the best things that ever happened to me. Always, Alvin.

Kennedy Lower is sponsoring Dirty Harry at the SUB on 2-21, at 7,9, and 11 in the SUB.

Steve Lesser—all this time you had us thinking Jeff sucks eggs but it's really you. Happy belated Valentine's Day, RT.

SMKR, splitting up is like Boris without Victoria, Wood without Stein, Starsky without Hutch. Lotsa luck! MSD.

Leigh, Sarah, Michelle and Susan—happy late Valentine's Day. I'd say it's time for a social at T.O. Love, Have One.

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

VW camper bus, poptop, 1968, $1095. 665-3412.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

Wanted—3rd person to fill 2 bedrm apt. in Brittany Manor. Call 253-2427.

Roommate wanted for 2 bdrm apt., 80 per mo. + utilities + sec. dep. Stop in 57 Northwood from 6 p.m. on or call 665-4127.

Roommate wanted: male or female, smoker or non-smoker, large room in fun Amherst house. Near campus, near OH bus. $100 plus utilities. 549-5862.

Experience cooperative living in Buckland. Rm for rent in beautiful country house on 240 acres. Vegetarians and non-smokers please. Call 625-2779.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Are you tired of missing important lectures and exams because you overslept? Hire a wake-up service! Info, call Sharon, 256-8000.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!

---

ENTERTAINMENT

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR. CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI-LITE SHOW [illegible] CHILDREN [illegible] — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R
① MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:15

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND

WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
② MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45-7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

STARTS FRIDAY

WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G
③ FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

"SEMI-TOUGH"
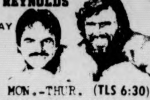
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
ENDS TUESDAY



R
④ MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:30

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

MT. FARMS 4
Mt. Farms Mall
Rt. 9, Hadley, Mass.
584-9153

Starts tomorrow—one week only!
"Only SUNN CLASSIC PICTURES passes will be accepted"
weekdays at 5-7-9, Sat. at 1-3-5-7-9, Sun. at 2:15-5-7-9

They went into the unknown and returned with startling revelations about life after death.

BEYOND AND BACK

Some will believe — others will not. DECIDE FOR YOURSELF!

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
NOW NOW

"Uproarious...lusty entertainment."
—Bob Thomas, ASSOCIATED PRESS

PAUL NEWMAN in SLAP SHOT
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE • TECHNICOLOR® R
SLAPSHOT EVES AT 7:00 & 9:00
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst

MONDAY DISCO PARTY

TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS

WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS

THURSDAY
BEAT THE CLOCK

| 8-9 | 9-10 | 10-11 |
|---|---|---|
| 50¢ | 75¢ | $1.00 |

ALL DRINKS

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
NO COVER—COME EARLY

Sunday
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

DANCE CONTEST

Sunday, Feb. 26

First Prize.........$50.⁰⁰

Second Prize... 2 year's passes at the Mt. Farms 4 Theater

Third Prize........ 2 Saturday Night Fever Albums

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

The Boston Ballet

in

COPPELIA
Music by Leo Delibes
Choreography by
Lev Ivanov and Enrico Cecchetti

AUREOLE
Music by Handel
Choreography by Paul Taylor

Fri. & Sat., March 3 & 4 8pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale for both performances. Gen. Pub. -$7, 6, 5. UM-A $5, 4, 3. Other students and senior citizens -$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

Hatch Bar

Student Union Building

Fri. & Sat.,
Feb. 24, 25

The Shittons
'50 · '60's Oldie Band

Look for specials from 8 - 10

UConn dips swimmen

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

The men's swim team tangled up in an exciting dual in their home finale with the University of Connecticut, Saturday at Boyden Pool. It was a meet that saw the lead sway from side to side more times than a seesaw. Unfortunately for UMass, at the conclusion the score was leaning just enough in favor of Connecticut, 57-56.

It was reminiscent of one of those basketball games where two teams are swapping the lead back and forth, forth and back, until it's just a matter of who can get the last shot before the buzzer.

On this occasion it was the Huskies who took advantage of their last "shot". The meet came down to the last event, the 400 yard freestyle relay.

Despite maintaining a 56-50 lead UMass had hoped the conclusion would not rest on this last race, worth 7 points winner take all. The Huskies had proven throughout the meet their strength rested within the freestyle events. The final relay race was an ideal showcase for these talents. The UMass squad was forced to watch helplessly as the meet and their winning stretch of four came to an end.

Coach Bei Melamed was not surprised with the outcome. "We came as close as we could, considering our situation," he said. He was aware of Connecticut's strong freestylers and the effects that the flu bug would have on his team. Melamed praised the diving trio of Dan Conley, Dan Anthony, and Jim Antonino. "That was the finest job they have done all year, all three dove very well."

For seniors Russ Yarworth, Tom Stevens and Dennis Buss this was their final home meet ever at Boyden Pool. Captain Russ Yarworth made it a memorable moment.

Yarworth began by anchoring the 400 yard medley relay to victory along with teammates Leland, Fulford, and Nowak. Leland and Fulford later scored firsts in the 200 backstroke and 200 yard breaststroke, respectively.

Next came to the 200 yard Individual Medley where Yarworth did what seems to come natural to him accumulating school records. He lowered the previous best time by 1.2 seconds, cutting it to 1:59:8. This gave him the fastest time yet recorded in New England this season.

Finishing off the day in style, Yarworth then proceded to win easily the 200 yard butterfly. It was an appropriate way to end his four years at UMass, alone at the finish line.

Wrestlers lose three

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass wrestling teams had one of those classic weekends in sports where fans and players can sit back and speak about the good things that happened in spite of the team's inability to win. When the dust had cleared at a quad-match at Yale this Saturday, the injury-riddled Minutemen had dropped meets to Yale 36-14, Boston University 24-20, and Navy 40-8.

The injuries of Larry Otsuka and Keith Dixon resulted in UMass having to forfeit all three matches in the 134 weight class, and Tony Perry still not able to compete at 126 pounds. A little quick math reveals that UMass probably would have defeated both Yale and Boston University had Perry and Otsuka been in the lineup. Navy, which also defeated BU and the Yale Bulldogs, was simply out of reach.

Against Yale, Charley Rigoglioso and Bob Smith superior decisioned UMass to a few points on the scoreboard, and heavyweight John Allen pinned his foe.

"Rasmussen and McLarney were pretty good," pointed out coach Dave Amato. "Rasmussen lost all three of his matches, but definitely provided us with quality wrestling."

Mike Carroll and Timmy Fallon (by a fall) were the big guns for the Minutemen in the BU affair, along with Allen, who beat the Terriers' Paul Davis 22-4 to virtually assure the freshman from Farmingville, New York a number one ranking in the New Englands next month.

Navy was, of course, a unique affair as opposed to the other action as the Midshipmen from Annapolis simply overwhelmed the Minutemen 40-8.

One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest
Starring Jack Nicholson
Wednesday Feb. 22
Student Union Ballroom
8:00 & 10:30 P.M. $1.25

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TUES. AND WED.
FEB. 21 AND 22
CLEAN LIVING
AND
BEAR MOUNTAIN
THURS., FEB. 23
BRICKER BAND
FRI. AND SAT.
FEB. 24 AND 25
FAT
AND MECHANIX
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

Tonight
DIRTY HARRY starring
Clint Eastwood
$1.00
7, 9, 11
S.U.B.
sponsored by
Kennedy Lower

ANYBODY LIVING IN SOUTHWEST CAN RUN FOR ACTING PRESIDENT OR ACTING COMMUNICATIONS CO-ORDINATOR!
WHY NOT YOU?
FOR MORE INFO SEE YOU DORM REP TO THE SW ASSEMBLY OR CALL 5-0960!
TAKE AN INTEREST!
IT'S YOUR MONEY

Time stands still at our distillery where we still make Cuervo Gold by hand.
For centuries we've wound our clock by hand. And for centuries we've made Cuervo Gold by hand.
At the Cuervo distillery it's almost as if time has stood still. Our Blue Magueys are nurtured by hand, picked by hand, and carried to the ovens by hand, as they have been since 1795. It is this continuing dedication to tradition that makes Cuervo Gold special. Any way you drink it Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.
Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.
CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

OKAY, MR. DUKE, I'M ALL EARS. WHY SHOULD I HIRE YOU AS MY GENERAL MANAGER?
BECAUSE, MR. WILLIAMS, YOU'RE A MAN WITH A PROBLEM. YOU'VE TRADED AWAY ALL YOUR DRAFT CHOICES, AND ALL YOU'VE GOT LEFT IS A GANG OF ATROPHYING OLD GEEZERS!
NOW, IN A YEAR OR SO, YOUR OPTIONS WILL BE OPENING UP. BUT IN THE MEANTIME, YOU NEED SOMEONE WHO CAN KEEP THE OLD-TIMERS KEYED, CONFIDENT, AND OUT OF PAIN!
COULD YOU BE MORE SPECIFIC?
SURE! SUPPOSE, JUST SUPPOSE, YOU'VE BEEN PLAYING KILMER ON ONLY 50 MGS. DEXEDRINE, SEE?..
2-21
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

I'VE BEEN HAVING TROUBLE STAYING AWAKE, MARCIE.. IF YOU SEE ME DOZE OFF, DO SOMETHING TO WAKE ME UP...
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
Z
2-21
BONK!
BETTER TAKE THE ATTENDANCE RIGHT AWAY, MA'AM...YOU'RE GONNA BE SHORT ONE PUPIL!
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I'M LONELY
ME TOO.
IT SEEMS WE'VE FRIGHTENED OFF THE MEN WITH OUR DOMINATING TACTICS.
WE ASK FOR LIBERTY,... WE GET DEARTH.
AMEN
2-21
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

I DON'T KNOW IF THESE SEWERS ARE A SAFE ESCAPE ROUTE! I THINK I HEAR SOMETHING UP AHEAD...
GOLLUM! WE'VE CAUGHT SOME NICE FISHIES FOR MY PRECIOUS! GOLLUM!
WHOOPS! WE'RE STUMBLING INTO THE WRONG STORY!
SOON...
GREAT! WE FOUND OUR WAY OUT OF THE SEWERS!
LOOKS LIKE WE'VE BECOME TRAVELING MEN, BENB
2/21 LAFLER
BENB IS GLAD TO BE OUT OF EEL TERRITORY

[illegible] by Mark Rollins

BUT DENNIS IS WRONG IN BOTH HIS THOUGHTS
THE BATTLE THAT HE FOUGHT WAS MERELY A RUSE.
THIS WAS SO A "SEEKER" COULD PIERCE THE SHIELD WHILE HE WAS DISTRACTED.
IT REMOVED A SMALL PIECE OF DENNIS' SKIN.
THIS WAS TAKEN BY THE SEEKER TO THE BIO-GENETICS LABS, WHERE KRA-NUM SET TO WORK.
THE CHROMOSOMES IN THE CELLS WERE TORN APART BY FINE FOCUSED LASERS, AND RECOMBINED UNDER KRA-NUM'S ORDERS.
THIS WILL ENABLE KRA-NUM TO CLONE A NEW RACE OF BEINGS TO REPLACE THE CREATORS.
SO DENNIS HAS NOT DOOMED THE MACHINES, BUT THEY MAY HAVE DOOMED HIM.
FOR THE PORTAL WAS EXPLORED BY TECHNO-ROBS; UNDER ORDERS FROM KRA-NUM. THEY SENT A PROBE INTO THE PORTAL; AND AS THE PORTAL WAS SET TO RETURN TO EARTH THE NEXT THING IT RECEIVED, THE PROBE WAS RETURNED INSTEAD OF DENNIS!!!
DENNIS NOW REALIZES THAT THE CHAMBER IS DIFFERENT FROM THE ONE HE LEFT FROM. THIS CAN ONLY MEAN HE HAS NOT RETURNED TO EARTH.
THAT'S ODD, THERE WASN'T A DOOR THERE WHEN I LEFT AND THE ROOM WAS LARGER.
I MUST'VE RETURNED SOMEWHERE ELSE.
BUT WHERE IN THE HELL IS HE?
ROLLINS 2-21

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

All this exercise is really upsetting.
87-88-89-90-
I should do some practicing of my own
91-92-93-94-95-96-
Z
97-98-99-100-101-102-103-104-
Ranney 2/21

BACK AGAIN by K

MY OLD ROOM MATE MOVED OUT TODAY SO I GOT A NEW ONE.
HE LIVES IN A WORLD OF HIS OWN.
"SO TO SPEAK.
Slurrrp!
2-21

Your Birthday

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 21
Born today, you are sympathetic to the very young and the elderly, but you are inclined to feel tremendous competition with everyone else. This may cause difficulties in forming lasting, affectionate relationships with most people. You are a good conversationalist but a vague listener, and are thus apt to miss much in the way of directions and opportunity.

It is difficult for you to deal with the unexpected. You prefer to have your days fall into a predictable pattern arising from logical and reasonable circumstances. Your fondness for children is quite out of keeping with your love of order; you would not tolerate in others the confusion and chaos you expect and enjoy in the very young.

You do not easily admire your peers. You are inclined to think of their success as being accidental and of their failures as being somewhat deserved.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Make things as easy as you honorably can. Don't insist on carrying others' burdens.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Your independent spirit may cause disputes in authoritative circles today. Stick to your guns.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Unsolicited advice is not likely to be well received. Keep your views to yourself.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Seek answers from professionals. Do-it-yourself projects are in for failure today.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Try to improve relationships outside home. People at work may be harboring grudges.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Keep your wallet in your pocket. This is no time for making inessential purchases.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — This is a day for getting and spending. Power goes to him who assumes it; make your play now.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Unless you are open to suggestion, you can hardly expect to advance professionally.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — You will complicate life unnecessarily if you insist on doing things your way. Take advice.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Unless you are happy being bored, seek new enterprises and become involved with new ideas.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Career matters may leave you the worse for wear today. Don't expect to understand it all.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Others may have left a mess for you to deal with at work. Be calm; feel your way around.

Copyright, 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

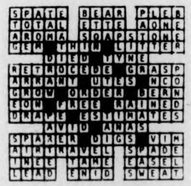
UNITED Feature Syndicate

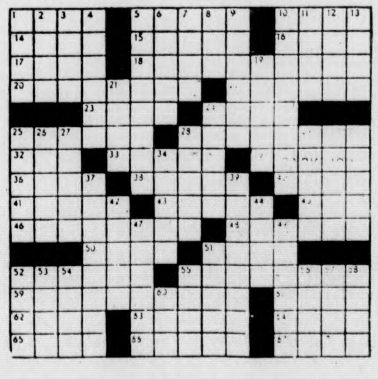
ACROSS
1 Long narrative
5 Edifices
10 Animal's den
14 ---- on the back
15 ----- sea
16 Eight Prefix
17 Insect colony
18 Subjugates
20 Help along
22 Heavy dagger of Malay
23 Lateral part
24 Card game
25 Can football player
28 Things that amuse
32 Eggs
33 Squeeze with the hands
35 Ham it up
36 Medical corpsmen Informal
38 Jefferson or Elmer -----
40 Style
41 Miss Ekberg
43 Oozes
45 Psychiatric org
46 Places emphasis on
48 Feel sorrow over
50 Sale condition
51 Become dried up
52 No Carolina watercourse 2 words
55 Assigns to a position
59 Luncheon course 2 words
61 Small water body
62 Lose interest
63 Discovery of value
64 ---- Taft Benson
65 Baseball's ---- Slaughter
66 Star Prefix
67 Garment feature

DOWN
1 Reasonable
2 Climax
3 Breathe laboriously
4 Certify by oath
5 Form of income
6 Harangue
7 Possessive word
8 Title of courtesy Abbr
9 Disgust interj
10 Fall behind schedule 2 words
11 Feel pity
12 Local people Suffix
13 Abie's girl friend
19 Characterized by anger
21 Weapon
24 "Rain" character
25 Torpors
26 Main ----
27 Lowest point
28 Covers with asphalt
29 Grinder
30 Encampment
31 French upper house
34 Soothes
37 Makes firm
39 Seed scattering implement
42 Thing of value
44 Garment part
47 Rest
49 Grumbles Informal
51 Barrel part
52 Pianoforte Abbr
53 Emerald Isle
54 Continent Comb form
55 Narrow opening
56 Flow out slowly
57 Ibsen's Mrs Helmer
58 Criticism harshly Slang
60 Art Latin

Saturday's Puzzle Solved



SPATE BEAR PLEB
TOTAL ETTE AONE
AROMA SOAPSTONE
GEM THIN LITTER
DIED TYNE
RETROCEDE GRASP
ARRANT UTES NCO
GROW ORDER DERN
EON FREE RAINED
DRAPE ESTIMATES
AVID ANAS
SPACER DIGS VIM
AIRTRAVEL SPADE
INEE TAME EASEL
LEAD ENID SWEAT



Stop & Shop Coupon K18
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Mayonnaise Stop&Shop 32 ounce jar 69¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one jar per customer. 266
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K17
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Apple Juice Stop&Shop 64 ounce bottle 69¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one btl. per customer. 265
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K16
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Star Kist 7 oz. can Tuna Solid White Meat in water 59¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one can per customer. 264
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K15
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Bounty Towels 100 count 2 ply roll 39¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one roll per customer. 263
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K22
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Stop & Shop Coffee 1 lb. can Reg., Drip Elec. Perk or Auto Drip $2.49
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one can per customer. 270
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K21
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Spaghetti Sauce Stop&Shop Meatless, Mushroom or Meat - 32 oz. jar 89¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one jar per customer. 269
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K20
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Individually Wrapped Cheese Spread Slices 16 ounce pkg. Sun Glory White or Yellow 99¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 268
Dairy

Stop & Shop Coupon K19
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase
Crackers Nabisco Ritz 12 oz. pkg. 49¢
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 267
Grocery

Get your Stop&Shop's worth
An all week Festival of values plus over $6.00 worth of coupon savings.

ONE OF THE STOP & SHOP COMPANIES
Stop & Shop
SUPERMARKETS

seafood everything from fillets to shellfish.
Fresh Cod Fillets $1.79 lb
Fresh Cod Steaks per lb. $1.29
Shrimp Shell-on Medium Size frozen 1 lb. pkg. $2.49
Matlaw's Stuffed Clams frozen $1.09
Regular 11 oz., Casino 11 oz. or Oreganata 7 oz.
Cooked Scallops Taste O'Sea frozen 8 oz. pkg. $1.59
Deep Sea Treats Taste O'Sea Cooked - frozen 1 lb. pkg. $1.19
Stop & Shop Cooked Shrimp $1.39
Salad Size - 8 oz. pkg. frozen self service deli Your favorite brands.

Sun Glory Bacon 1 lb. pkg. $1.39
Salame or Pepperoni Gallo Sliced 3 oz. pkg. 79¢
Variety Pack Gallo - Salame, Pepperoni or Provolone Cheese - Sliced - 6 oz. pkg. $1.59
Beef or Extra Mild Franks Stop & Shop 1 lb. pkg. $1.09 corner deli Everything sliced to order.

Available in stores featuring a service deli.
Stop & Shop-Cooked Corned Beef Brisket ½ lb. $1.78
Chicken or Ham Salad Stop & Shop per lb. $1.89
Liverwurst Mother Goose per lb. $1.59
Cooked Ham Domestic - Sectioned and Formed per lb. $2.59
Stop & Shop Baked Ham half lb. $1.79
Fresh Baked Meatloaf Stop & Shop per lb. $1.59

our kitchen fresh made quality foods.
Stop & Shop-Fresh Cheese Pizza 32 ounce Family Size $1.79
Macaroni Salad 1 lb. pkg. 59¢
Double Cheese Pizza Fresh $1.39
Stop & Shop—18 ounce size
Cooked Chicken Roasted or Barbeque Style per lb. 99¢
Stop & Shop "White Gem"

bakery Over 150 treats from our ovens.
Apple Pie Stop&Shop 22 oz. pkg. 89¢
Pound Cake Stop & Shop Gold or Marble 13 oz. pkg. 59¢
Countrystyle Donuts 11½ oz. pkg. of 6 59¢
Stop & Shop - Plain or Sugar
Buttertop Bread Stop & Shop 2 22 oz. loaves $1
Stop & Shop Frankfurt Rolls 3 12 oz. pkgs. of 8 $1

Save on tender, meaty and delicious ...
U.S. Grade A 5-9 lbs Fresh Turkeys 59¢ lb
Sure to please the most discriminating taste ... fresh, U.S. Grade "A" turkeys.
Fresh Turkey Drumsticks 49¢ lb.
Fresh Turkey Breasts Halves $1.39 lb.
Fresh Turkey Cutlets $2.29 lb.

"White Gem" Whole 2½-3 lbs. Chickens 49¢ lb
Cut Up or Split "White Gem" 2½-3 lbs. 55¢ lb.
Chicken Breast Family Pack $1.09 lb.
Combination Pack "White Gem" 3 split breasts, 3 drumsticks, 3 thighs 89¢ lb.
Legs "White Gem" Family Pack 79¢ lb. Wings "White Gem" Family Pack 69¢ lb.

Stop & Shop GREAT BEEF USDA CHOICE
Beef Round Tip Roast $1.49 lb
Our USDA Choice "Great Beef" is naturally aged for tenderness.
Beef Round Tip Steak "Great Beef" USDA Choice $1.89 lb.
Devault Sandwich Steaks Wafer Thin 2 lb. pkg. frozen $2.69
Beef Patties $3.19
Countryfine Dinner Size 8—6 oz. patties, 3 lb. pkg., frozen produce Quality and freshness come first with us.

White Jumbo Seedless Grapefruit Florigold Indian River 23 size 5 for $1
Extra Fancy Red Delicious Apples 2¼" min. 3 lb. bag 89¢
White Seedless Grapefruit Indian River Bag of 6 79¢
Homli Fruit Different & Delicious Part Grapefruit, Part Orange 5 for $1
Tomatoes Fresh Florida 39¢ lb.

Stop & Shop Coupon K23
With this coupon
Save 20¢ Stop & Shop Domestic Swiss Cheese Chunks Random Weight Packages
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 271
Dairy ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K24
With this coupon
Save 35¢ 100 count box Salada Tea Bags
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one box per customer. 272
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K25
With this coupon
Save 20¢ 9 ounce package Taste O'Sea Fish Dinner
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 273
Frozen

Stop & Shop Coupon K26
With this coupon
Save 15¢ 8 ounce package Taste O'Sea Fish Cakes
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 274
Frozen

Stop & Shop Coupon K27
With this coupon
Save 30¢ 24 oz. Stop & Shop Large Fresh Chicken Pie
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pie per customer. 275
Meat ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K28
With this coupon
Save 50¢ Any size package Weaver Fried Chicken
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 276
Meat

Stop & Shop Coupon K29
With this coupon
Save 35¢ 64 ounce bottle Wisk Heavy Duty Liquid Laundry Detergent
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one btl. per customer. 277
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K30
With this coupon
Save 20¢ 40 ct. pkg. Stop & Shop Fabric Softener Sheets
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 278
Grocery

Stop & Shop Coupon K31
With this coupon
Save 25¢ 100 count bottle Anacin Tablets
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one btl. per customer. 279
Grocery ★

Stop & Shop Coupon K32
With this coupon
Save 50¢ 9 count package Gillette Track II Blades
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 280
Grocery ★

frozen foods Shop 700 different items.
Orange Juice Sun Glory 3 6 oz. cans $1
Grapefruit Juice Minute Maid 3 6 oz. cans $1
Seneca Apple Juice 12 oz. can 69¢
Poly Rich Creamer Non Dairy 3 16 oz. ctns. $1
Aunt Jemima Waffles 10 oz. pkg. 59¢
Buitoni Lasagna Family Size 52 oz. pkg. $2.39
Jeno's Snack Tray 7¼ oz. pkg. 99¢
½ Gal. Ice Cream Sealtest Assorted Flavors $1.39
Banquet Cookin' Bags 4 5 oz. pkgs. $1
Veal Parmegan, Creamed Chip Beef, Turkey with Gravy, Beef with Gravy, Chicken A La King, Salisbury Steak or Meatloaf
Stokley Vegetables Blended 16 oz. bag 79¢
Florentine, Orient or Del Sol
Dinner Fries Ore Ida Country Style 24 oz. bag 69¢
Fish Fillets Taste O'Sea Kruncher 8 oz. pkg. 59¢
Shrimp Sticks Gorton's 9 oz. pkg. $1.09

dairy Huge variety. . . all good and fresh.
Minute Maid Orange Juice Half Gallon Ctn. from concentrate. 99¢
Hood Yogurt Firm N' Fruity Ass't'd. Flavors 5 8 oz. cups $1
Cottage Cheese Hood - Large or Small Curd 16 oz. cup 69¢
Cream Cheese Philadelphia Plain or Chive 4 3 oz. pkgs. $1

Stop & Shop Coupon K33
With this coupon
Save 30¢ 30 count package Kotex Maxi Pads
Good Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. Limit one pkg. per customer. 281
Grocery ★

SHOPPING DAY REBATE
Send for a 10% CASH REBATE ON YOUR SHOPPING BILL*
When you buy any of these products totaling at least 36 points and send in one cash register tape with your purchases circled.
*MAXIMUM REBATE $3.50

| | |
|---|---|
| Crisco Oil 48 oz. Worth 12 points | Pringle's Twin Pack Worth 6 Points Each |
| Duncan Hines Cake Mix Worth 4 points | Duncan Hines Brownie Mix Family Size Worth 8 points |
| Jif 18 oz. Worth 6 points | Duncan Hines Moist & Easy Worth 4 points |

*Sorry, no rebates on Alcoholic Beverages, Poultry Products, Tobacco, Milk or Dairy Products. Limit one rebate (maximum rebate $3.50) per name or address. Mail in by March 26, 1978. SEE OUR DISPLAY FOR COMPLETE DETAILS AND REQUIRED CERTIFICATE.

Prices effective Mon., Feb. 20 - Sat., Feb. 25. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other dealers or wholesalers. ©Copyright 1978 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets. All rights reserved. Not responsible for typographical errors.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Women skiers sweep foes

By LISA CAPONE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women skiers did it again.

The team won all four races this weekend, giving UMass a clean sweep for the season, and keeping the skiers number one in their league, according to coach Bill MacConnell. The Minutewomen skied four races this weekend instead of the usual two, because last weekend's meets were cancelled.

"It was an extremely busy time," said MacConnell, "but the women came out with a fantastic 32-0 record (eight wins against four other teams)."

The races began Friday at Pleasant Mt., Bridgeton, Maine, with a giant slolom run on a very hard course, according to MacConnell. Kathy Shinnick of UMass took first place with a time of 84.17 seconds. Shinnick was closely followed by her teammates Nancy Haydon (87.01), and Cathy Donovan (87.72). Gretchen Dietze of B.C. was fourth with a time of 88.58, and UConn's Lizzie Childs fifth at 89.33. Minutewoman Connie Pratt was sixth with a time of 90.68. UMass won the giant slalom with a total team time of 258.90.

In the slalom race, also run Friday at Pleasant Mt., UMass was again the victor, according to coach Jim Hawkins. Minutewomen Shinnick, Haydon, and Donovan came in one-two-three, respectively.

The team moved to Tenny Mt. Saturday for a slalom, followed by a giant slalom Sunday, according to MacConnell. Saturday's meet was won by Nancy Haydon. Shinnick and Donovan completed the tremendous trio by finishing second and third. UMass ended the weekend on a triumphant note by winning the giant slalom with an excellent combined team time. According to coach Hawkins, this was the first time all season that Shinnick, Donovan, and Haydon did not place one-two-three in the race. Gretchen Dietze of B.C. was first, with Minutewomen Haydon and Shinnick placing second and third, respectively. Coming in seventh and ninth, respectively, were UMass Valerie Hansen and Diana Vilenti. Cathy Donovan, who missed a gate, finished eleventh.

"The girls pulled off their ususal good performance," said Hawkins. "They worked together as a team."

The Minutewomen's superb record will be rewarded next weekend when they attend the Middlebury College Winter Carnival, where they have been invited to compete in the Women's Eastern Regionals.

Hoopwomen bid adieu

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

Four seniors will be making their final Cage appearance tonight when the UMass women's basketball team hosts UConn in a 7:30 game.

Lu-Ann Fletcher, Cheryl Carey, Ginny Peebles, and Deb McCulloch are the four Minutewomen who will be saying their goodbyes to the Cage during the game.

For UMass, tonight's competition marks the first game in 19 days as both the Bridgewater State and Northeastern games were cancelled due to the now-famous Blizzard of '78.

The Minutewomen, 11-5, will be facing a UConn team which sported a 6-6 record before weekend games against Harvard and New Hampshire. Coached by Wanda Flora, the Huskies last season were the host team for the Easterns. Despite a sub-.500 mark, they competed because the playoffs were held on their campus.

UConn's scoring is led by freshman forward Chris Gedney, who is averaging 14.3 points and 8.8 rebounds per game. Last year's top point-getter, guard Karen Mullins, is the only other Husky in double figures with a 10.8 ppg average. Mullins is also second on the squad in assists.

UConn's top rebounder is forward Roberts Wachtelhausen, who pulls down 8.9 per game along with averaging 7.3 points.

The Huskies' starting lineup is rounded out by guard Val Sirois (8.4 points and four assists a game) and center Rosie Borsuk (5.9 points and 6.3 rebounds).

Tonight's game is only the second in the Cage this season for the Minutewomen. Two other 'home' games were played over intersession in the Springfield Civic Center, while another was played in the NOPE gym back in December.

Trackmen place 3rd in YanCons

By KEVIN McCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Conn. — Any hope of knocking off conference king UConn was laid to rest after a dismal showing UMass in the mile run, as the Minutemen finished third in the Yankee Conference Championships Sunday.

The meet, run in the UConn field house, established four meet records as well as the hometown favorite Huskies' eighth overall victory in the last nine years. Connecticut topped the seven team field with 155 1-3 points, while Boston University snared the runner-up position with 105 and UMass nipped New Hampshire for third place, 71 1-3 to 67.

"I'm surprised we scored as many points as we did," said UConn assistant coach Bob Kennedy. "Actually, coming into this meet we though UMass was the team to beat. Unfortunately they weren't as sharp as they usually are in the running events."

The triple jump established the first meet record, as Herb Davis of UConn soared 49' 10" to eclipse his own standard of three years ago. Consistent Minutemen performers Bruce Parsons and Brady Mayer rewarded their season long efforts with third and fifth place, respectively. Parsons leaped 45' 6 1-4", while Mayer jumped 45' 3 1-4".

Freshman Dan Dowden registered early glory with a conference championship in the high jump at 6'6". Joe Martens' third place finish at 6'4" and freshman Mark Thompson's clearance over 6'2" for sixth gave UMass its finest showing in the 16 event program.

"After missing twice at the winning height I said forget it, there's no way I can miss this," commented Dowden on his winning performance. "I wanted to go 6' 10" today but I'm happy because I knew we needed the points."

"A scattered handful of performers did well," said UMass coach Ken O'Brien, "but we grossly underscored in our pre-meet predictions. I still believe our front personnel are better than UConn's on a championship level. Aside from a few of our people, today wasn't a competitive effort."

Senior Francis O'Keefe avenged all earlier defeats in this meet by copping his first conference victory by almost two seconds in the 880 yard run. His time of 1:56.7 established a new conference record as this year marks the initiation of the half mile in championship competition.

"I had wild dreams of going 1:54, but I'm happy. This is my first solid victory in a long time," said O'Keefe.

In one of the meet's sparkling matchups, Olympian Glen Cohen from Boston University was pitted against the less publicized talent of Joe Martens of UMass. A furious finish by Martens fell a shirttail short, as Cohen was victorious in the 440 with a time of 49.5 a meet record.

Charlie's
HAPPY HOUR 4-7
35¢ Drafts Most Drinks 75¢
TUESDAY & THURSDAY
UMASS NIGHT
10% OFF
All Food & Drink W./ID
1 Pray St., Amherst 549-5403 Next to the Pub

NORTHEAST RESIDENTS
ELECTIONS ARE COMING UP FOR
VICE PRESIDENT POSITION
NORTHEAST AREA GOVT.
paid position open to Northeast residents only
•Elections will be held Feb. 21, 4-7 p.m., Barracks Hall section of Worcester D.C. For job descriptions, or questions contact President, N.E.A.G. at 546-5494 or 545-1595, 418 Lewis House.
HELP SUPPORT YOUR AREA GOVERNMENT
FIRST MEETING THURS., FEB. 16 7 p.m. KNOWLTON BASEMENT
Subsequent Meetings on Sunday Nites

AS A NAVY ENGINEER, YOU COULD BUILD A HIGHWAY, A PIER, AND A HOSPITAL ALL IN YOUR FIRST YEAR.

As a Navy Civil Engineer, you get responsibility the moment you get the stripes. Responsibility on a wide range of projects. Responsibility in every area of construction and engineering management. Responsibility all engineers dream about, but most spend their first few years waiting for.

You enter the Navy as an Ensign, with the option of either a three- or four-year obligation. You'll be a Navy officer and a Navy engineer and you'll get immediate, hands-on experience.

Sign up for an interview with the Navy Officer Information Team
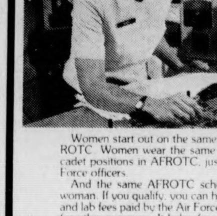
at the Placement Service Office
on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday
22, 23, and 24 February 1978

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.



WOMEN. YOU'RE EQUAL IN THE AIR FORCE.

Women start out on the same footing as men in Air Force ROTC. Women wear the same insignia and hold the same cadet positions in AFROTC, just as they do later on as Air Force officers.

And the same AFROTC scholarship can be yours as a woman. If you qualify, you can have your tuition, book costs and lab fees paid by the Air Force, and receive $100 a month for other expenses. It helps free you to concentrate on your education. And that's important.

As an Air Force officer, you'll be expected to use your training and education, and be a leader managing people and complex systems. You'll be handed executive responsibility starting with your first job.

It's a great way to be equal, and a great way to serve your country. Check into the AFROTC program at your campus. Be sure to ask about AFROTC scholarships — you may be helping yourself earn an exciting new lifestyle.

CALL 5-2437
AIR FORCE
ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

Dukes shoot 'BB's' at UMass

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

PITTSBURGH — One play does not make or break a basketball game, but if ever one play could be used to describe an entire 40 minute game, it was here last night.

With UMass trailing by 11, 55-44, Mark Haymore took a pass from Alex Eldridge and proceeded to the basket for one of his customary dunk shots. Haymore slammed the ball through, however, for the third time in the game, he was called for hanging on the rim and was assessed a customary technical foul. The violation not only cost the Minutemen two easy points, but Haymore was ejected from the game (3 technicals). Then, UMass coach Jack Leaman entered the controversy and was also given a technical by the official.

Thus, instead of cutting the lead to nine, UMass found itself down 15 points after BB Flenory calmly stood at the line and hit all four technical free throws.

That, for all intents and purposes, was the game, as UMass played out the final 13 minutes before bowing to Duquesne, 83-70, before a sparse gathering of 1712 at the Civic Center.

"We can't blame the officiating," said Leaman afterwards. "We just didn't play well tonight. We were flat and we didn't shoot the ball well."

Neither team enjoyed great shooting nights (UM hit 36 per cent, while the Dukes hit 40 per cent), but the Dukes made a first half lead stand up. Led by the flashy sophomore guard, Flenory, (27 points, 15-16 free throw shooting), and the inside play of Rich Cotten (14 pts), Duquesne broke a 35-28 lead at intermission.

Haymore, although exiting early, led all UMass scorers with 23 points, while Mike Pyatt added 14. Pyatt, however, did not hit from the floor in the second half. The loss dropped UMass to 4-4 in the EAA (14-8 overall), while the Dukes upped their record to 10-14, 5-4 in Eastern Eight competition.

Villanova, meanwhile, lost at Pittsburgh last night intensifying the battle for favorable playoff positions for next week's tournament.

The Minutemen travel across Pennsylvania today for another EAA contest with Penn State. The Nittany Lions are currently 3-6 in conference play and will end their regular season tomorrow night against the Minutemen. Senior guard Eldridge learned here yesterday he had been named co-Player of the Week in the EAA. He shared the honor with Flenory for play in last week's games.

UMASS — Pyatt-5-4-14, Haymore-9-5-23, Kohlhaas-1-2-4, Claiborne-2-1-5, Eldridge-2-4-8, Williams-3-3-9, Morrison-3-0-6, Johnson-0-1-1 TOTALS - 25-20-70. FG per cent 36, 25-69.

DUQUESNE — Moore-5-0-10, Hubbard-2-0-4, Cotten-6-2-14, McClain-3-1-7, Flenory-6-15-27, Thomas-2-2-6, Felix-3-1-7, Baldwin-1-2-4, Moon-20-2-2-, Harris-0-2-2. TOTALS-28-27-83, FG per cent 40.5, 28-69.

Halftime Score 35-28.

Technical fouls — Haymore, 3 Mass Bench 2, Thomas, 1. Att. 1712.

DOCTOR WHO? — Senior forward Mike Pyatt became the UMass basketball all-time leading scorer Saturday night, surpassing Julius Erving's career total of 1370. Pyatt had 1376 as of Saturday. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

Gymmen win

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's gymnastics team slipped by a strong Springfield team Sunday, 193.25-192.60, to hand the Chiefs their first defeat by a Minuteman team in three years.

UMass Coach Dick Swetman was ecstatic after the competition calling it a "sweet victory" and a "great lift for the guys this season."

Consistency told the whole story as UMass posted its highest team total of the year and captured the competition in the last event. On the floor exercise, Springfield jumped out to a .05 lead despite a beautiful set by senior John Forshay, ultimately hitting his press for a 9.2 score, winning the event.

The pommel horse was the thorn in Springfield's side as the gymmen romped past the Indians to take a 64.45-61.05 lead. Senior Minuteman co-captain Dave Kulakoff won the event with a solid 9.5.

On the still rings Springfield took the advantage and closed the gap to 1.25. Freshman Dave Fellemen tied for first place with an 8.60, showing difficulty only on his dismount.

Long horse vaulting put the gymmen way out in front again with senior John Forshay leading the pack with a 9.4. Freshman Bob Lamb took second with an 8.9.

The parallel bars were almost fatal to the gymmen as Springfield once again regained the lead by .60, taking the advantage into the last event. UMass sophomore all-arounder Bob Donahue took second in this event with a personal high score of the year 8.4.

The horizontal bar told the whole story as UMass came through with some very consistent routines, while Springfield folded under the pressure. UMass' Tommy Thompson won the event with an 8.7, and Bob Donahue was third with 8.55.

UMass will host its last home meet of the season tonight, saying good-bye to seniors Kulakoff and Forshay. The gymmen will face one of the strongest teams Dartmouth has ever sent against UMass.

The meet will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Boyden's auxiliary gym.

Warriors put UMass hopes on ice

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

NEWTON — The UMass hockey team traveled to Charles River Skating Center here Saturday night with an 8-7-1 record and expectations of an ECAC Division II playoff spot, but in a span of 60 minutes those flickering hopes were all but snuffed out by an eager bunch of Boston State Warriors, who poured home 4 powerplay goals, 51 shots and 3 goals in every period enroute to a 9-3 annihilation of the Minutemen.

"I was shocked we won. It was by far the best performance for us all year," said Boston State hockey coach Ed Barry.

The Warriors upset win was only their fourth Division II victory this year and seventh overall. The Minutemen's loss dropped their record to 8-8-1 and dimmed any hope of a play off spot.

"It was sickening," said UMass hockey coach Jack Canniff. "Everything hurt. Naturally, we weren't physically in shape due to the layoff (one week layoff due to the flu), but we got ourselves into situations that frustrated the players and the more we got frustrated, the more our system disintegrated."

The game was not a spectator's classic. There was a total of 23 minor penalties, 3 majors and one 10 minute misconduct for a total of 71 penalty minutes. Significantly, out of the 27 total penalties whistled, 18 were called against the Minutemen, which meant the UMies were playing shorthanded for a good portion of the contest.

Perhaps UMass forward Bill Estes summed it up best when he said, "it was a case of Boston State capitalizing on their opportunities."

The opportunities that Estes referred to had to be the Warriors efficient powerplay. After John Peters had given the UMies a quick 1-0 lead at 1:50 of the first period, the Warriors scored two powerplay goals in a span of 16 seconds to take a 2-1 lead that they would never relinquish.

Peters was sent to the sin bin for charging at 6:13 and Ron Valicenti followed at 7:01 for cross checking and quicker than you could say "Bobby Hull" the Warriors had fired 5-on-3 and 5-on-4 powerplay goals past UMass goaltender John Riley.

The Warriors Gene Farina scored the first powerplay goal at 7:36 when he blasted a 12 foot "no chance" slap shot past Riley and he was followed 16 seconds later by Mark Barrett, who poked home a 2 foot goal mouth scramble goal.

Minuteman Jamie Benelli made things interesting for awhile, as he fired a wrist shot from the right face-off circle that flew past the Warriors goalie Mark Bartosick at 11:15. Benelli's goal tied the game at two, but the Boston State fireworks were yet to come.

The Warriors skated off the ice in the first period with a 3-2 lead when Bob Masterson and Glen Tedesco broke in on Riley with Tedesco flipping the puck over Riley's shoulder at 17:54.

If there was a turning point, the second period had to be it, as the Warriors powered home 3 unanswered goals. The period showed without a doubt that the flu bug and lay off had taken its toll on the UMies. Badly timed passes, missed checks, shortness of breath and wobbly legs, were all becoming embarassingly obvious, as the Warriors ballooned their lead to 6-2.

George Hooper started the goal parade in the middle stanza with a rink long dash a la Bobby Orr style, as he weaved in and out and around the entire UMass defense and stuffed the puck past Riley at 5:35.

Boston State upped its lead to 5-2 when Dan Maul took a pass from Bob McIvor and slipped the puck along the ice past a surprised Riley at 6:19.

Mark Barrett closed out the scoring in the second period with his second goal of the game at 10:27. Barrett's 15 foot slap shot goal came with just 10 seconds left on a two-minute slashing call on the UMies Mark Ferragamo. This was typical of the frustration that the Minutemen six encountered all night.

The Warriors stellar defenseman Hooper scored his second goal of the game in the early moments of the third period as the enslaught continued. John Mullaly made it 8-2 three minutes later and Canniff decided to replace the shell-shocked Riley with Paul McCann, a senior goaltender from Dedham.

McCann filled in admirably as the Minutemen and Warriors traded goals which produced the final score of 9-3.

GOAL-LINE GAB — The Boston State loss was doubly disheartening when it was learned that Joey Milan and Lincoln Flagg had to spend Saturday night in the UMass infirmary.

Women's gym

The women's gymnastics team added another victory to its record by defeating Springfield College 132.70 to 130.20 Sunday. Captain Karen Hemberger won the all-around competition as the women raised their record to 6-1.

Pyatt fires—GW falls

By BILL EDELSTEIN
and MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

It was vaguely reminiscent of "Bob Cousy Day" at the Boston Garden some fifteen years ago, when, in the midst of all the hoopla, a brassy voice blared out from the crowd and simplified the proceedings. The Voice was brief and to the point. It said, "We love ya Cooz."

The Voice that broke the silence of the Curry Hicks Cage last Saturday night may not have paraphrased the endearment of fifteen years ago, but to Mike Pyatt, the man standing at the foul line, it must have sounded like a tape recording. "Who's Julius Erving?" it wondered aloud.

Scant minutes earlier, Pyatt, a 6'6" New York City native, had broken Erving's UMass career scoring record with a 15 foot jump shot from the left of the key. The shot gave the Minutemen a 54-39 lead on the way to routing an erratic George Washington club, 77-57.

Erving, now playing with the NBA's Philadelphia 76'ers, scored 1370 points in two years at UMass before signing with the nowdefunct ABA. Pyatt, a senior, scored 19 points in the game and had 1376 at the end of the night.

"It took Julius two years to accomplish his record, but there may never be another Julius Erving," said UMass coach Jack Leaman. "As for Mike's record, I think it may stand for a long time. He's a great player, with unlimited potential, and also a great person. I'm very proud to have coached a player of Mike's potential."

"I'm just glad it's over," said a grinning Pyatt of his chase of Dr. J's mark. "I'm really relieved."

In the first half, in which UMass built up an insurmountable 38-21 bulge, Pyatt was three-for-12, and was pressing on his shots.

"I held up on my first three attempts," admitted the senior forward. "It was a Saturday night game in front of a lot of people and I really wanted to break the record for the home crowd."

Luckily for the Minutemen, Pyatt heated up in the second stanza, and his five-foot-six Robin Hood impersonation was instrumental in beating back a rallying George Washington squad. Midway through the second half the Colonials began to get serious and ran off eight straight points before Pyatt answered for UMass. The visitors went on to record a 14-8 spurt, with Pyatt accounting for six of the Minutemen points during that period.

"People will start comparing me to Erving now, but that's not right," said Pyatt. "Julius is doing great things in the pros and I'm only in college. Besides, Erving set the record in two years and it took me four years to break it," added the modest senior.

The contest was utopian for the Minutemen and their supporters. UMass broke on top 8-2, then outscored the Colonials 10-4 for an 18-6 lead that marked the start of as lopsided a game as the Leamen have played all season.

"This, by far, was our most solid win since I can remember," said a beaming Leaman. "We did everything. Our shooting, (69 per cent in the second half, 53 for the game) was fantastic, we played great defense, and our rebounding looked very good We also executed our plays very well."

In fact, UMass executed its plays so well that 11 of its 16 first half field goals were scored on lay-ups and stuffs.

"It's easy to get the team ready for EAA games," smiled Leaman.

It wasn't quite so easy for George Washington coach Bob Tallent.

"It was pathetic," said Tallent. "We didn't work at all out there. It was our worst effort of the season. I'm embarrassed it was on TV."

Indeed, there wasn't much that George Washington did right. The Colonials shot 28 per cent in the first half, 35 per cent for the game. The visitors could manage only 59 per cent from the free throw line. It's a wonder the Voice didn't say, "Who's George Washington?"

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 88 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

UM takes road safety measures

By ARNOLD WARSHAW
Collegian Staff

Traffic lights and other safety measures will be installed at two major pedestrian crossing points on Massachusetts Ave and a recommendation has been made to do the same at a spot on North Pleasant Street, according to a University Public Safety official.

Saul L. Chafin, director of security for UMass, said the measures should make drivers "have a tendency...to drive a lot slower. Pedestrians will be able to walk freely across the street knowing the light is in their favor."

A work order was sent to the Physical Plant by Chafin on Feb. 10. It calls for flashing caution lights; warning signs painted on the streets to alert drivers to crosswalks; and the relocation of bus stops away from crosswalks, at the intersection of Mass. Ave. and Sunset Ave. across from the southwest Residential area.

Signal lights were requested for the intersection of Mass. Ave. and Commonwealth Ave., between Southwest and Boyden Gym.

UMass has jurisdiction over both of these intersections.

In addition, the University has recommended to the town of Amherst, which has control over North Pleasant Street, that signal lights be erected on that street at the point between Hasbrouck and Morrill buildings.

A UMass student, Scott C. Burgess, was struck and killed by an automobile near that spot on Feb. 4 of this year. Chafin yesterday said in an interview the accident had "no effect" on the decision to improve pedestrian safety. He said he made his initial suggestions to the University Safety Committee last fall.

Physical Plant officials could not be reached last night for a determination of when the safety features will be implemented.

Chafin said he would not "even try to guess" on a date when improvements will be completed. He did say however, he hoped that "some things would be done prior to school getting out."

The fast moving traffic going East and West on Mass. Ave. has been the source of complaints for many years. Because there are no warning signs or lights, Chafin said, drivers are not as cautious as they might be.

"You can start on Mass. Ave. at North Pleasant Street," he said, "and there's nothing that states you have to stop until you get to route 47."

A study was made of the Mass. Ave. Sunset Ave. intersection last fall by the UMass Department of Environmental Health and Safety.

The study found: there is a heavy flow of pedestrian traffic across one of the three crosswalks, more than the other two; busses stop in front of the crosswalks and obscure pedestrians' view of oncoming traffic; drivers do not stop for pedestrians on crosswalks; and most traffic continues straight on Mass. Ave., avoiding Sunset Ave.

In another effort to enforce the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit on Mass. Ave., Chafin said UMass police will begin additional monitoring of traffic to detect speeders.

Panamanian leaders knew of drug traffic, Senate told

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Senate was told yesterday that Panama's Gen. Omar Torrijos probably knew of drug trafficking by officials in his government and did not take "sufficient action" against the drug operations of his brother Moises.

"Some sources have provided intelligence which we view as reliable and which we believe suggests that Gen. Torrijos knew about narcotics trafficking by government officials and did not take sufficient action to stop his brother's activities", said the Senate Intelligence Committee report presented to the chamber in a secret session.

The report — released to reporters during the closed-door session — also contained the first official U.S. government acknowledgement that Moises Torrijos, now Panama's ambassador to Spain, was indicted by a New York grand jury in 1972 for heroin trafficking.

It said the Intelligence Committee's investigation of widespread Panamanian drug allegations — which may jeopardize ratification of the canal treaties — is still incomplete but so far "has turned up no conclusive evidence that could be used in a court of law."

Leaving the morning session of the closed-door Senate meeting for a lunch break, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said "no smoking pistol" evidence had been presented that might doom the treaties or damage Omar Torrijos' integrity as guarantor of the pacts.

Cranston supports ratification, but even senators opposed to it said they had heard nothing at the morning review session that had not already appeared in newspaper stories and other public forums.

The report also stated that neither the drug allegations, nor covert U.S. electronic eavesdropping operations carried out against top Panamanian officials, had affected the outcome of the treaty negotiations.

It did say they affected the timing and atmosphere of the negotiations, however.

The voluminous, complicated allegations, on file at the Drug Enforcement Administration and other federal agencies, include claims from former Panamanian narcotics agents and other anonymous sources that Omar Torrijos himself may have been involved in the funneling of drugs — chiefly Colombian cocaine — into the United States.

Conservative senators who oppose ratification of the canal treaties say these charges, if true, call the integrity of the Panamanian government into question and demanded they be reviewed in secret session. The intelligence committee, which has DEA and other classified files on the matter, conducted the briefing.

S. African stock vote in Amherst limelight

By JOAN FEENEY
Collegian Staff

Amherst College students and faculty seeking college divestment of stocks of corporations operating in South Africa expect the College Board of Trustees to realize the "strong student support and concern" for divestment when representatives of both groups meet this Friday afternoon.

The college holds $20 million in stocks of 22 corporations in apartheid South Africa.

Karl Seidman, co-chairman of the South Africa Support Committee, last night said he expects several hundred students and faculty to attend the meeting with the trustees Friday at 4 p.m. in Johnson Chapel.

Seidman said the committee is seeking "a concession by the trustees to the principles of corporate withdrawal from South Africa." He said the committee is proposing the trustees "exercise corporate holdings" during a two year period to request the corporations withdraw business operations from apartheid South Africa, and then divest from the corporations if they do not withdraw.

The trustees last October unanimously voted to maintain the investment policy, but agreed to an open meeting with faculty and students following a demonstration by people supporting divestment outside the trustees' November meeting.

A petition signed by over half the faculty and students of the college was presented to the trustees early in December demanding the open meeting, according to Seidman.

No action on the investment policy can be made at Friday's meeting, Seidman said, because the trustees do not hold an official full board meeting until April.

Kurt Hertzfeld, Amherst College treasurer, last night said the 18 trustees "will meet with faculty and students in good faith" in an opportunity for the trustees to listen to the student support for divestment. Any decisions by the trustees cannot be predicted, he said, in advance of Friday's meeting.

Seidman said the trustees do not prefer student participation in administrative decisions, but added they have been "diplomatic" in the issue of investment policy.

Seidman said college President John W. Ward "won't take a position independent of that of the trustees."

Ward last October said the college "would consider divestment, if the corporation is unresponsive to our objections. However, we at Amherst College think it more morally responsible to try to affect change than to wash one's hands of a problem by simply selling our governmental stocks."

Trustees at UMass, Hampshire and Smith College last year each decided to divest $700,000 worth of stocks of corporations operating in South Africa. Some form of student and faculty protest, including a sit-in at Hampshire, preceded divestment decisions by trustees of the three colleges.

inside

Watroba's move

Amherst selectmen heard a lawyer for Watroba's Grocery in North Amherst discuss a possible move by that store to an adjacent location. Page 3

Energy talk

Exxon officer Dr. Robert Hirsch talked about the nation's energy resources during a visit to campus yesterday. See the story page 6.

Weather

Cold, as usual.

Zoning reviewed by Belchertown boards

By RICHARD BARRELL
Collegian Staff

BELCHERTOWN — Selectmen here cut short their regular meeting last night to meet with the planning board concerning proposed changes in zoning bylaws.

The planning board meeting, in Lawrence Memorial Hall, was held to review changes in the town's zoning bylaws proposed to meet the requirements of new state laws.

During their regular meeting, the selectmen heard complaints from sewer commissioners, proposals concerning the appointment of a medical examiner and increased fees for permits to store explosives and gasoline.

Sewer commissioners' complaints concerned a letter said to have originated from the town's finance committee, which proposed the creation of the position of manager to the department of public works and buildings.

The letter as read, said increasing complications of town affairs due to growth makes it impossible for part time personnel to do the work required in maintaining town roads and buildings.

Specifically, the letter states bureaucratic problems and complex laws have made it necessary to create such a position.

The letter states that "only a strong department head supervising working foremen" can cope with these problems.

Harry L. Brougham, a sewer commissioner, said he disagrees with the proposal in the letter and wanted to meet with the selectmen to inform them of his disagreement. Brougham said the letter was sent without his knowledge and did not reflect the opinions of the sewer commissioners although the letter indicated the sewer commissioner as having reviewed and accepted the proposal.

Selectmen agreed to take the matter under advisement.

Selectmen received the letter from the town of Ware requesting the board to write a letter requesting the appointment of a new medical examiner. The position at present is vacant.

The selectmen said they had previously requested the governor to make a new appointment, but no action has yet been taken. The board took under advisement a proposal calling for the sharing of a medical examiner with the town of Ware with each town paying half the cost, such as salary and expenses.

Cyprus, Egypt may meet; no release for assassins

NICOSIA, Cyprus [UPI] — President Spyros Kyprianou yesterday offered to meet Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to settle the Larnaca airport fiasco but angrily rejected demands that he hand over the two assassins who killed Egypt's top newspaper editor.

Each side blamed the other for causing the airport debacle in which Cypriot troops opened fire on Egyptian commandos trying to free 15 hostages being held by the assassins on board on Cypriot Airways jet. Fifteen Egyptian soldiers were killed by the Cypriot troops but the hostages and gunmen were unhurt.

"Egypt bears the responsibility for this tragedy," Kyprianou told a news conference. "Cyprus cannot be blamed for these tragic events."

Kyprianou flatly rejected an Egyptian demand for the gunmen to be handed over to Cairo for trial. Samir Mohammed Khadar, 28, of Jordan, and Zayet Hussein Ahmed Al Ali, 26, of Kuwait, were charged with murder Monday. They face execution if convicted.

"We have no right under Cyprus law to surrender the two murderers," Kyprianou said. "They will be tried by the Cyprus courts and punished for their crime.

"We have no right to extradite them. Anyway, they are not Egyptian nationals. We do not want to cause further friction among the Arabs."

Kyprianou said he had contacted Sadat through third countries as part of an initiative to "do everything possible" to restore normal relations with Egypt.

"I am even ready to meet with President Sadat, if he wishes, to discuss relations between our countries," Kyprianou said. "I appeal to President Sadat to do his best to calm down the atmosphere in his country."

In Cairo, the Egyptian general who ordered the commando assault said his men were shot in the back "meanly and treacherously" by Greek Cypriot troops.

Brigadeer General Nabil Shukri said he ordered the assault on the plane because "time was running out."

"I waited at Larnaca for one hour and a half, enough time for Cypriot authorities to reach an understanding with the gunmen to surrender themselves," Shukri said.

Shukri said his men actually had reached the Cyprus Airways DC-8 "when Cypriot forces opened fire at our back. This was meanness and treachery ... to open fire on the back of your friends."

The Egyptian commander said that if the Greek Cypriot troops had not intervened, the "operation would have been successfully accomplished, in all certainty, without a single drop of blood being shed."

Kyprianou accused Egypt of using its press to distort events surrounding the airport fiasco.

"They falsely claim that there was a prior agreement for the dispatch of the Egyptian commando group to Cyprus," Kyprianou said. "This is totally groundless."

"Two Egyptian army officers came to Cyprus on Saturday," Kyprianou said. "This shows they knew something would happen here. This adds to the many questions that call for an answer.

Kyprianou also said accusations by Egypt that Cyprus intended to give the two gunmen safe passage once they freed the hostages were groundless.

"We planned to arrest the gunmen and bring them to trial," Kyprianou said. The "big question," Kyprianou said, was why the Egyptian commandos struck.

Kyprianou said Cypriot officials had warned the Egyptian ambassador and Egypt's military attache "not to try to interfere because this would endanger the lives of the hostages and crew.

"We told them we would make our own efforts to secure their release," Kyprianou said. "We did not give our consent or approval for their action. Negotiations had been completed and the gunmen had agreed to free the hostages and surrender themselves."

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Asst. editor | D. A. Rolinon |
| Copy editor | Fifi Ball |
| Sports layout | Mike McHugh |
| Editorial layout | Mikie Ichabod |
| Day layout | Elaine Scannell |
| Head Darkroom Tech | David Olken |
| Ad layout | Karen Libucha |
| Manipulation editor | Yon Ite |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Free puppies were among the usual wares being hawked at the Campus Center yesterday. (Staff photo by Dave Olken)

Childcare staff sought for March women's week

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Donna Brennan, coordinator for the International Women's Week child care program, needs a staff. At a meeting last night in the Student Union, Brennan said 30 paid positions would be available for qualified persons willing to volunteer half of the number of hours they spend working with the children.

Jugglers, artists, puppeteers and people willing to do educational workshops for children are also being recruited by the childcare program. Men as well as women are invited to get involved, according to Brennan.

The childcare program will run during Women's Week, March 5-11, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. for chillren ages six months to nine years. Campus Center rooms 168, 170, and 171 will be utilized for the program. Childcare will allow women with children to attend Women's Week activities.

"Without childcare we couldn't have an effective Women's Week. We're trying to perpetuate the idea that women should be able to be independent from their children and at the same time be assured their children are in a quality environment. That is why we place an emphasis on having a competent staff," Brennan said.

The childcare activities will provide an atmosphere of non-sexist, non-racist attitudes. "We want to be able to offer the children the same thing we're offering their parents — a learning experience and not just a baby sitting service," she added.

The Student Senate has allocated $1,100 for the IWW childcare, making it possible for the coordinating committee to hire a staff. "The committee feels that this type of work seldom receives compensation and we'd like to change this," remarked Irene Richard, staff coordinator of IWW.

SW, NEAG elections held

By ANDY MCCLELLAN
AND CAROL MORRIER
Collegian Staff

Special elections were held last night in two residential area governments. Southwest Assembly elected Joni Mersky acting president, and members of the Northeast residential area elected Andrea Polito as Northeast Area Government vice president.

Mersky, former administrative assistant of Southwest Assembly, won by an 8 to 5 margin. She said she is pleased with her election and that her previous experience on the assembly would be beneficial to her in fulfilling her new job. She said she wants to meet with the dorm representatives several times a month.

In Northeast, Polito, receiving 50 per cent of the vote, defeated two other opponents, Doug Novitch, with 38 per cent, and Ernie Coose who received the remaining percentage.

Spring concert on agenda of senate

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate will consider a number of items tonight including a final decision on the Black American Music Festival for the spring concert.

Two weeks ago the senate postponed a final decision on funding the festival pending the receipt of information on security, cost and performers for the concert. Organizers for the music festival were asked to return tonight with the information.

The senate will also work on appoval and implementation of a lease for dormitory residents. "The administration has accepted our right to draft a lease," said Pat Whelan, senate speaker. The senate will consider the form of the lease and begin work on the specifics for each dorm and other tasks of implementation.

The senate will consider the recommendation of the senate Rents and Fees committee to have faculty and staff pay an increased share of the cost of the bus service through higher parking fees or establishing a separate fee for bus funding.

Whalen said an important bill on reorganization of the senate into a "town meeting" form may reach the floor tomorrow night.

Vance pushes Mideast jet sale

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said yesterday the administration would not accept any congressional effort to dismantle its package of sophisticated fighter planes for Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Israel.

"Partial rejection I find unacceptable," Vance told the House International Relations Committee in presenting the administration's request for nearly $4.6 billion in foreign aid for fiscal 1979. "Total rejection would be very damaging."

Under the administration's proposal, Egypt would be able to acquire 50 F-5E jet fighters; Saudi Arabia, 60 F-15's, and Israel, 75 F-16's and 15 F-15's.

Rep. John Cavanaugh, D-Neb., asked about the possibility that Congress might approve the aircraft for Israel, but not Saudi Arabia or Egypt.

Vance replied, "Our role as a trusted intermediary would suffer most if the package is turned down. If you try to take the package apart ... you would further distort the balance which currently exists in the area.

"Therefore, we hope the Congress in its wisdom would approve the package."

Vance, in his opening presentation, told the committee "we should seek substantial increases in our foreign assistance during the 1979-1982 period, provided we are convinced that such aid can be effectively and efficiently used."

He stressed the importance of economic and military aid to key countries in the Middle East and Africa "which are central to our quest for peace ... we need their cooperation in the Middle East and southern Africa."

"This is the first foreign assistance budget which fully reflects the policies and priorities of the Carter administration," Vance said, giving "special attention to the importance of improving the conditions of political, economic and civil rights worldwide and of integrating these basic considerations more fully into our decisions of foreign assistance programs."

Vance asked Congress to approve a fiscal 1979 budget of $4.582 billion to finance U.S. foreign aid.

That includes more than $2.7 billion for bilateral military assistance, another $1.6 billion for bilateral economic aid, as well as contributions for a total of $282 million to the United Nations and the Organization of American States. Nearly one-third of the proposed 1979 program has been earmarked for Israel and Egypt.

Selectmen ponder Watroba's site change

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

Store owner Chester Watroba does not necessarily want his property to be changed into a town parking lot if he were to move into the present North Amherst Youth Center, according to architect John Kuhn of Gillen Associates.

Kuhn answered questions of residents and selectmen concerning the proposed move at an Amherst selectmen's meeting in Town Hall last night.

Possible swap of the properties is one proposal which has developed from recent discussion of a facelift in North Amherst to solve parking and traffic problems. The proposed transferral was an issue of heated debate among many North Amherst residents last night.

Amherst

The proposal deals specifically with a swap of the present Watroba store building and the North Amherst School being used by the North Amherst Youth Center. According to Kuhn, Watroba plans to take over the ground floor of the school and add an 800 foot addition which would become the main entrance to the store.

The first floor would probably be used for office space. Parking would be provided only on land swapped with the town.

However the proposal must first be passed at a town meeting in May. Watroba would then have a six month option to exchange his present site for the adjacent building.

Concern revolved around the future of the North Amherst youth Center as well as the proposed parking lot to replace the present Watroba building. "It is a question of principle," said one Amherst citizen. "For youth less connected with structured activities (boy scouts or girl scouts, etc.) they make great use of the facility."

"The more important issue is the change of public property to private use. It might set a precedent," she said.

However, other Amherst citizens voiced their disagreement with this view. Viewing the proposal as leading to improvement in the parking problem, beautification of the corner as well as an opportunity to turn an expense into aesthetic income, was a common sentiment among the dissenters.

"Although it's a lousy old building," said another resident, "it's an ongoing business, generating a family's income and providing us with a convenience."

Selectmen took no stand on the issue.

In other business, selectmen approved an Amherst Housing Authority application for a proposed housing rehabilitation program. To be financed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the program would authorize the granting of 15 proposed sites throughout Amherst.

A meeting between Hadley and Amherst dealing with a proposed water agreement between the two neighboring towns was again postponed until March 6. Previously scheduled for last week, the meeting was deferred pending rewording of the agreement by Amherst officials.

According to Town Manager A. Louis Haywood, Hadley now requests time to study the agreement.

A report and accompanying slide presentation was also given to Selectmen by the Amherst ABC group, A Better Chance Corporation. The group is a high school scholarship program, offering deserving youth a chance for better education in the Amherst school system.

Third World most affected

Sterilization abuse widespread

Editor's note: This is the second of a week-long series by James Lewis on sterilization.

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Staff

Reports from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare indicate that over one million voluntary permanent sterilizations are performed on women by doctors each year.

Doctors and aides have stated the sterilization are voluntary, but facts indicate illegal sterilization abuse occurs for an overwhelming majority of women. The U.S. government is presently launching a campaign of genocide by way of sterilizing Third World women.

Sterilization abuse occurs everytime a person is sterilized:

without giving informed consent;

without knowing the operation is permanent;

without any knowledge of the risks, benefits or alternatives to the operation; without having the opportunity to make a carefully thought out decision with the chance to learn the social facts and to understand their implications. (Many women change their minds after consulting with friends); because she has been threatened with the denial of other medical services or termination of welfare payments; by court order or parental consent, because they are "feebleminded" or "socially inadequate" (eugenic sterilization).

When a woman is sterilized because abortion is unavailable or birth control methods too costly, or when a woman is forced to accept sterilization as a condition for obtaining abortion.

News analysis

Many times women are lied to or tricked into these operations. Many Third World Women do not know they are sterilized. At present a hospital can receive from $400 to $800 for every sterilization it performs. How much of this the doctor gets is still undertermined.

Since 1970, the rate of these sterilizations in the U.S. has gone up 300 per cent. These sterilizations are happening on a national increase. It is difficult to prosecute a doctor who has sterilized a woman, and doctors are usually only fined. It is not right for doctors to operate on womens body like this, and it should be illegal.

As part of a genocide plan for population control, this has to be one of the ugliest conspiracies ever. These are the statistics on Third World Women in the U.S.:

Twenty per cent of all married Black women are sterilized. Twenty-five per cent of all native American women are sterilized. The Eugenics board of North Carolina ordered the sterilization of 1,023 Black women between 1960 and 1968, and fifty-six per cent of the women were under twenty years of age.

Over one million sterilizations occur each year on Third World women, and the trend is increasing.

The sterilization abuse situation in Puerto Rico is insane to contemplate, to say the least. The education system stresses sex education and concentrates 90 per cent of its contraceptive focus on tubuligations and hysterectomies.

Until 1972 the hysterectomy was the most common form of sterilization in Puerto Rico and in the U.S. This operation is the cutting out of the woman's uterus, and 500 out of every 100,000 women who have this operation die.

They literally lied, tricked, enduced women into this surgery, and have sterilized 38 per cent of the women in Puerto Rico. Much of this was-is funded by companies owned by the Rockefeller family.

These facts are true and documented. It should be a motive for women and men to find out more about this.

The People's Market is celebrating their fifth anniversary as a student-run student-financed food store. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Pickup truck stolen here

By ROB YARVITZ
Collegian Staff

UMass police are investigating the theft of a pickup truck stolen while the owner was delivering pizza in Webster dormitory Monday night.

Superior Pizzeria employee Dennis M. Lattinville, of 37 Deepwood Drive told police he parked his 1972 Datsun pickup in Lot 48 and left it running while he went inside Webster. When he came out, it was gone.

Police recovered the vehicle approximately an hour later in Cashin Dorm's loading area. Lattinville reported no damage to the car, and nothing was stolen except the keys to the ignition, left in the vehicle at the time of the theft.

A hit-and-run Saturday night in Lot 65 near Engineering East Building caused $150 worth of damage to a car owned by Christopher H. Sloan of Trinity College, Hartford.

An engine compartment fire in the rear of a grey Volkswagen driving along North Pleasant Street last night was extinguished by UMass police.

The fire broke out at approximately 5:30 p.m. directly across from Morrill Science Center.

According to Amherst police, UMass police officers Chris LaFlamme and Barry Landers arrived on the scene first and extinguished the fire before the Amherst Fire Department arrived.

A hearing has been scheduled for March 10 for two UMass students arrested this weekend on charges of larceny.

UMass police said Edward Callahan and Michael Healy, both from Brown Dormitory, were arrested at approximately 2:30 a.m. Sunday morning when they were spotted carrying a counch worth $350 around the east side area of Hamlin dormitory.

A 21 inch color television, worth $500, was stolen from the recreation room of Chadbourne dormitory early Sunday morning. Chadbourne's head of residence, William Harris, told police two chains securing the TV were cut. There are no suspects and the case is being investigated, police said.

Black Affairs

The experience of Sunday worship

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

It is Sunday morning, and one is traveling into town from the direction of UMass on North Pleasant street. A right turn is made on Amity, then a left on Prospect, another right on Gaylord street, and there it stands, in silent pride wearing the number representing 22. The Hope Congregational Community Church.

Hope Church is pastored by the Reverend L.W. Anderson, Jr., who first visited the Amherst area back in 1969. During his talks with black students, he heard a recurring theme expressed by them. The need for a black church. "The Civil Rights movement of the 60's was still active, and students seeking self identity needed to express themselves. They could not accomplish this with the churches in the area," said Reverend Anderson.

In 1970 Reverend Anderson was approached by UMass coordinator of Student Programs, Bill Hasson, and Nate Sims, then a doctoral student at UMass, about remaining in Amherst. "Hasson circulated announcements about a guest speaker," remarked Reverend Anderson, "and I continued to speak ever since. I guess you might describe it as a spontaneous reaction."

According to Reverend Anderson the congregation of Hope Church is composed mostly of students and faculty. Singer-entertainer, and UMass graduate Natalie Cole, frequently attended Hope Church. "You would be surprised at the people who have been up here (UMass) and have attended church," remarked Reverend Anderson. "The church represents a home away from home, we try to offer good will, love, and affection," he said.

Contrary to the belief of many, Hope Church is not a Baptist church, but is affiliated with The United Church of Christ, a church organization representing the diversity in religion, such as Jews, Catholics, Baptists, Protestants, and so on. "People from all kinds of religious backgrounds come to worship. We try not to change anyone's belief, all we ask is that they love the Lord," said Reverend Anderson.

Rhonda Gordon, daughter of Reverend Anderson, and Director of the Upward Bound Program at UMass, described Hope Church as "meeting the spiritual needs of ourselves, as well as that of the congregation."

Gordon grew up in church, and has led an active church life. She was very instrumental in organizing the choir, composed of ten members, and has at various times been pianist, president, and director of the choir. At present Gordon is grateful just to be a member. "We all share leadership roles," she noted.

A strong believer that God is everything, and God can do anything, Gordon places a high value on church involvement. "Experience being involved with a church, it enriches life," she said.

For those who are interested in experiencing church involvement, Reverend L.W. Anderson Sr. and the congregation of Hope Church welcomes any and all to attend services held every Sunday morning beginning at 11 a.m.

> People from all kinds of religious backgrounds come to worship. We try not to change anyone's belief, all we ask is that they love the Lord."
>
> Reverend L. W. Anderson Sr.

The Reverend L. W. Anderson Senior, pastor of The Hope Congregational Community Church. (Photo by Edward Cohen)

The sound of good gospel music can be enjoyed each and every Sunday at Hope Church. Often it is difficult to determine who is leading what song, as the congregation frequently joins the choir members in song.

Front row from l. to r., Rhonda Gordon, Debbie Thompson and Clarice Bryant. Back row from l. to r., Crystal Ivy, Carlos Anderson, Norman Lewis, and Allen Gordon. Absent, Michael Frasier, Les Anderson, Kathy Adamson, and Kathy Anderson. (Photo by Edward Cohen)

Black History Week schedule

Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. A special Rededication Ceremony of the Malcom X Center

John Bracy, Chairman of Afro-Am Dept. keynote speech

Slide Show of Festac, by Prof. Nelson Stevens

Poetry Readings by:

Valery Stevens, Annie Carpenter, Frieda Jones, Shareef Rasool

Dance by Eno Washington

Thursday, 8 p.m. at Campus Center Auditorium Sonia Sanchez: internationally famous poet, sponsored by DVP.

Friday 8-10:30 p.m. Sunlight and Shade. Black Classical music

The Horn of Africa, behind the Ethio-Somalia War

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

This is the second in a series of articles on repression, war, and super-power contention on The Horn of Africa, presented by the Connecticut-Amherst chapter of the Ethiopian Students Union in North America. [ESUNA]

The Ethiopian students of the Valley area cordially invite one and all to the forum this Saturday, February 25, to further discuss these issues. The forum will be held in the Student Union Ballroom beginning at 7 p.m.

The Horn of Africa — Behind the Ethio — Somalia War

The war between Ethiopia and Somali do not just a boundary dispute of a tribal-religious conflict as most Western propagandists try to put it. It is a result of the political, social, economic conditions that had existed and continue to exist in the region. Thus it is necessary to give a brief summary of the historic background of the conflict.

The Somalia Nationality Question in Ethiopia

The beginning of the oppression of the Somali nationality in Ethiopia cannot be seen outside the context of imperialist penetration in North-East Africa. With the end of the stage of capitalism under which free competition was dominant, a period of monopoly capitalism began. Of this stage Lenin said; "with this a tremendous "boom' is colonial conquest begins, and that the struggle for territorial division of the world becomes extraordinarily keen." The reason for this 'urge' of conquest is explained further by Lenin in the following words; "The more capitalism is developed, the more stronger the shortage of raw material is felt, the more intense the competition and hunt for sources of raw materials throughout the whole world and the more desperate is the struggle for the acquisition of territories."

Thus, began the race for the division of North-Eastern Africa between various imperialist powers, notably — Britain, France and Italy. Between 1884 and 1900 a series of agreements between these powers and Somalia "tribal chiefs" led to the establishment of spheres of influence. As a result, the Somalis found themselves under four European administration; in French Somaliland (now the Republic of Djibouti), British, Italian Somaliland (present day Republic of Somalia) and the North Eastern frontier of Kenya. Following an agreement between Emperor Menelik on the one hand and Italy and Britain on the other, the Somalis also came under the Ethiopian empire state.

The Ogaden Somalis Under Ethiopian Feudal Rule

At the time of the partition of Africa by the imperialist countries the Emperor of Ethiopia, having received a substantial quantity of arms began expanding his kingdom to the west, east and south east. His venture towards the east began with the capture of the city of Harar in 1887, which then became the military and administrative center for moving east and southwards into the interior of Ogaden.

Right from the start, the feudal Ethiopian governors and their soldiers set the pattern of exploitation and chauvinistic relationship with their subjects. This was a pattern similar to that practiced by the Ethiopian ruling class on other oppressed nationalities of the newly conquered regions of southern and southwestern Ethiopia. Their lands and cattles were confiscated. They were made serfs like the settled agriculturalist Oromo nationalities of the Ogaden (Qotu). The governors imposed taxes and forced labors on the nomadic Somalis as payment for being permitted to water their cattle on wells which had been used by their forefathers.

The oppressed Ogaden Somali nationalities were also humiliated through social and cultural oppression. Although, nominally Ethiopian, in practice the Somalias were regarded and treated as second class citizens, if not as aliens. The use of their language in schools and government was prohibited. Their culture was denigrated, and were rather forced in various ways to adapt the culture of the ruling nationalities. Every attempt was made to introduce and expand the Christian religion which was the official religion of the empire and the dominant nationality. On the other hand, the practicing of non-Christian religion were frowned upon, especially the Islam religion of which most Somali nationalities are adherent to. Under such conditions it was only natural for numerous revolts to spring up. And when they did, they were brutally repressed by the reactionary Ethiopian state in power.

The Struggle for National Liberation and the Leadership of the "Western Somali Liberation Front [WSLF]"

The oppressed Somali people have persistently fought the colonial rule of Britan, France, and Italy. But they have also fought Minilik's expansionism and the oppressive rule of Haile Selassie big nation chauvinism. And at present the Somalis, like the Eritrean nationalities are fighting the junta's outright reactionary and ultra chauvinist war of national subjugation.

At the time of the scramble for the Horn of Africa and Britains colonization of part of Somaliland, there was a rebellian by the Ogaden Somali nationalities under the leadership of poet Sayia Muhumed Abdulla Hussan (known to the colonialists as the Mad Mullah). Though, this great aspiration of the Ogaden Somalis was temporarily crushed by the powerful colonialist military force, the liberation and total emancipation of the Somali nationalities has always been the dream of every Somali nationals.

In 1948, seven years after the Italian surrender, Haile Sellassie and Britain agreed to incorporate Ogaden to Ethiopia. On the other hand, continued Somali resistance against British and Italian colonialists, culminated in the birth of the Somali Republic in 1960. The new Somalia government, starting from independence, took the position of incorporating the Ogaden in Ethiopia, the North Kenya frontier in Kenya and French Somaliland (still in the hands of French colonialists) into the Somali nation state.

The Ogaden Somali nationalities, however, remained dominated by the Feudo-bourgeoise regime of Haile Selassie. Their aspiration for self determination unfulfilled. The continued struggle resulted in the birth of The Western Somali Liberation Front (WSLF).

This movement is one of the national movements in Ethiopia and has its root in the Somali and Harrare opposition movements. The initial gains in the early sixties, suffered some setback after the Ethio-Somali border conflict of 1964 and the resultant conciliation between the two governments. The then WSLF movement leader Abdullah Hussan Mohammed said "We had to wait at that time (in 1964) because Somali was forced (by agreement with Ethiopia) to deny us aid."

However, when the Ethiopian ruling classes were deeply shaken by the revolutionary forces internally and when their control of the state became very ineffective, Somali thought it to be expedient to prop up the W.S.L.F. in order to realize its long standing claim on the Ogaden region.

CONT. ON PAGE 5

Black Affairs

High Notes...

Black radio, as we learned from Sonny Joe White (last week), is a form of media that is beset with problems. Lack of airtime and funding come under this problem heading and cause a number of other situations to arise. Today, we'll look at some of the effects that the above problems have on what comes out of the little box on your kitchen table or out of the dashboard of your car.

Black Radio really began to take shape as a media form with definite characteristics (as we know them today) in the 60s. It was a form of Black expression for Black people — their music, and their political expression. Ideally, the stations would be formed and staffed by Blacks and provide a forum for the Black community. There were high hopes and ideals for this relatively new form of media in that it would help the people in providing the community with news, public affairs announcements, etc. that would be pertinent to the Black community.

Further growth along these lines has been hampered by what was called "The Establishment" in the 60s. To operate a radio station of any significance in the U.S.A., one must be licensed by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). Black groups who applied for station licenses were "seen coming" so to speak. Others were turned down outright. Those who were licensed, were given a sunrise to sunset license allowing them limited operation. Stations operating during daylight hours only, wouldn't get to people who had to work or keep looking for work. That description covers much of the Black community. By limiting the audience through the licensing channels this way, the impact of the station is limited.

Some stations went the route of obtaining the station license under the guise of another group. They elected to apply through white organizations and some were successful in obtaining full-time licenses. However, more time brought more adulteration. These white groups would make sure that any programming that was objectionable to them was omitted. They held the license, so they held the power. Stations with this restriction would be labeled as "sellouts" and lose their credibility and support in the community. Stations such as WBLS in New York have earned this stigma of being a sellout and have a minimal foothold in the Black Community. In other words, chalk one up for the establishment.

Those stations who broadcast sunrise to sunset without having to adulterate their product as much run into another problem. Radio is radio, whether it's white or Black so each must compete for the advertising dollar to maintain a professional staff. A station that is only for daytime operation is at a disadvantage as the time to run commercials is also limited. To run the necessary commercials would be cutting out time that could and should be devoted to information, music, news, etc.

The remaining options are these: to get a license, have white backers that can get you a full-time license. However, this will be a constriction to your operation as you'll have to literally "please the messah". You could get a solid Black group to get a license but most likely, you'll get a daytime license so be prepared to deal with the problems with that. No matter what route you choose, there are hardships ahead.

What is necessary to help negate these factors along the way, there is one thing that could go a long way in making Black Radio a viable listening alternative for the Black community. This is support from the Black community itself. There is no better way to help determine the flavor and function of Black stations than to support them and help show the necessity for full time licenses and to enthusiastically go out and procure them. The success of this would be twofold; it would be somewhat easier to get a license and the controlling interest would be from the Black community, the people it's supposed to serve.

—mario

Editorial

Many people have become very pesimistic about the country, and the honesty and integrity of our politicians, businessmen, and scientists. Even our churches have come under severe critical analysis. Our view of reality is changing. People no longer hold to traditional patterns of indoctrination about our explanation of reality. Many people do not believe there is a God. Some people profess that God is a human invention, a conspiracy to maintain a subjected class of ignorant people. We should understand that all of us are in the midst of a great psychological revolution, where mankind is seriously looking into the forces and dynamics of oppression, sexism, racism, and the imbalance of power.

Many things are going on that people should be aware of. Hundreds of laser satellites orbit planet earth with the ability to take pictures of car license plates, driving on land, or parked on the streets. These satellites convey information to computer centers established in the United States and in other countries. People should know that this country has been building nuclear reactors for the past twenty years. The Atomic Energy Commission and NASA have been building hundreds of them in this country. They literally have thousands of these projects going on. Plants of this type are in every state. If this sounds doubtful, good. The next step for a doubter is to begin research. Try beginning in the Physical Sciences Library. There lies some unsettling information.

★ The Horn of Africa

CONT. FROM PAGE 4

As a result in the last few years, the W.S.L.F. was armed and financed by the Somali government and regular Somali troops were incorporated into its armed fighters. According to its stated objective, the front wants to incorporate the Somali nationlites of the Ogaden into the Somali nation state. With this stated objective, the W.S.L.F. supported by regular Somali troops and ehavy war machinery successfully waged a military campaign. Here, it is, however, important to note that unless the front comes out with a vivid national program, which takes the objective situation into consideration and guarantee the ultimate and total emanicipation of the people of the area, there is a possibility of set-back if not reversal to the initial political and military gains.

A genuine front is one which is supported by the people and upholds the rights and aspirations of the masses (including other nationals of the Ogaden) to decide their destiny without undue intervention and political manupilation from outside.

Thoughts

It takes two to speak the truth — one to speak and another to hear.

Thoreau

SNOW STORM SALE !
Come in & enjoy the warmth of extra savings due to last weeks storm.

Dresses were $33-$76
NOW $16-$37

Pantsuits were $52 -$123
NOW $25-$55

Sweaters were $18-$43
NOW $8.50-$21

Blouses were $11- $35
NOW $5-$17

Knit Tops were $13-$26
NOW $6-$12.50

Evening Wear was $21-$100
NOW $10-$40

Slacks were $19-$58
NOW $9-$27

Skirts were $21-$42
NOW $10-$20

ACCESSORIES
50% OFF & up

JEWELRY SALE
50% & up

Salt Box
16 Main St.
Amherst

Mon. - Sat. 9:00-5:30

Upcoming events

Sunlight 'n' shade

"Our music is like a mirror of the folks around us and what's happening now...sometimes it's mild, sometimes it's wild," says Avery Sharpe, manager and bassman of Sunlight 'n' Shade, a tight group making it's name known in New England.

The featured vocalist is Semenya McCord. Originally from the Midwest, she opened her New England experiences performing and writing with the Voices of New Africa House Choir at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Semenya was featured with her own song on Archie Shepp's Arista release. "There's A Trumpet In My Soul." The February, 1976 issue of Playboy Magazine reviewed her contribution as "delightful" and requested more. Ebony magazine's November, 1976 issue described her voice as "hauntingly lovely."

Pianist, George Plourte, and guitarist, Joe Cifarelli, take striking leads during a performance. George, a native of Massachusetts, spent time touring with New England show bands and studying music education. He has studied and worked with Archie Shepp, Charles "Magid" Greenlee and John Betsch. Joe, born in New York, has studied drums as well as guitar.

Flutists and percussionist, Jorge "Mandingo" Medina, has recently joined the group. Coming from New York, Jorge shares a rhythmic experience with conga and bango drums which he has known since childhood. He led a sextet in New York, has accompanied Marion Brown and the New World Percussion Ensembly and played flute in the Boston Latin All-Star Orchestra.

Originally from North Carolina, Alvin Terry, drummer, has been working with Avery for several years. Alvin has experienced the teachings of Max Rooch and worked with the Voices of New Africa House Choir and Reconstruction. Avery was born in Georgia and began playing bass in the Church of God and Christ. Studying with Reggie Workmaa at UMass, he now exhibits feelings for all styles of music and provides a dynamic foundation for the band.

Sunlight 'n' Shad will be performing this Friday, February 24, at the Hampden dining commons in Southwest beginning at 8 p.m.

Mt. Holyoke College

This Thursday, February 23, at Mt. Holyoke College there will be a symposium on Current U.S. Policies in Southern Africa. Ambassador William Brewer will be the keynote speaker.

Amherst College

Friday, February 24, at Amherst College, The National Black Students Association will hold a general meeting in the Gerald Penny Memorial Cultural Center. Meeting time is at 7:30 p.m., various topics will be discussed.

Announcements

Fashion Show

The Third World Women's Center will sponsor a Spring Fashion Show, to be held April 29. Volunteers for male and female models are needed. All are welcome. A list for signatures will be posted inside the New Africa House lobby.

Drum

DRUM — a student run literary and arts magazine is asking for contributions for the Spring issue in the areas of Art, Photography, Poetry, Essay, Fiction, Reviews and any information relevant to the student body. All articles must be typewritten and double spaced. The deadline is March 17th. Submit articles to Afro-Am office, New Africa House, UMass, Amherst.

'Solidarity Night'

A "Night of Solidarity with Ethiopian People" will be held this SAturday

A "Night of Solidarity with Ethiopian People" will be held this Saturday, February 25, in the Student Union Ballroom at 7 p.m. The program will feature a speaker, films, slides, and dinner. Admission is one dollar.

This is sponsored by the Connecticut-Amherst Chapter of the Ethiopian Students Union in North America — (Esuna).

Art Exhibit

The Sylvan Cultural Society would like to sponsor a Third World art exhibit. The exhibit is tentatively scheduled for the second week in March. Any Third World student who has works they would like to have shown should contact Renee Mobley at 6-4278.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

YOUR SISTER SURE IS PUTTING ON A LOT OF WEIGHT, MARY FRANCES!
9-30
IF SHE GAINS ANY MORE SHE'LL BREAK THROUGH THE FLOOR IN ONE OF THESE RICKETY OLD BUILDINGS!
DON'T WORRY ABOUT IT, OREO! SHE'S GOING ON A CRASH DIET SOON!
BRANDON JR
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
CRASH
IT'S TOO LATE!

Three energy sources cited by Exxon man

By RITA ZEIDNER
Collegian Staff

Solar, fusion and breeder reactors were identified as the three most feasible future energy resources by Dr. Robert Hirsch of Exxon Corporation yesterday in a lecture sponsored by the office to Coordinate Energy Research and Education.

It was the first of a series on current issues in energy research and development.

Hirsch focused his lecture around three inexhaustible fuel sources, "under the assumption that in the future, one will provide most of the world's fuel." Solar energy was the first topic discussed. He identified some of the sources as being direct thermal, photovoltaic, wind, fuels from biomass, space and power systems and ocean thermal.

These sources he described as being safe, simple and environmentally safe. However, he also identified the disadvantages, including a high initial cost, excessive land requirements, the need for large storage facilities, undesirable land use and a second back-up fuel source.

Overall, Hirsch indicated biomass (organic raw material which could be burnt as fuel) as the most optimistic fuel source of the future, since it could be replenished, and because of its fairly low production costs. The other solar energy sources mentioned currently could not be considered to be realistic, due primarily to their high cost and complicated engineering needs. Hirsch considered thermal energy to be the least feasible solar energy source.

The second fuel source discussed was fusion, the changing of plutonium 238 to thorium. Two methods were described. Magnetic confinement could be enacted through use of equipment such as the tokamak or mirror. Inertial confinement could be enacted through use of the laser, electron beam, or ion beam.

Hirsch said magnetic confinement (or "pure fusion") was the primary approach used in the United States. However, although the "physics are well-along," and the technology is feasible, a great amount of complex engineering will be needed.

In reference to the inertial confinement, Hirsch said although "the physics were promising," the technology was very uncertain, and the techniques were very costly.

In concluding his discussion of fusion, Hirsch said despite its setbacks, "fusion has the potential to be the energy source of the future, since it is the energy source for the universe."

The last energy resource discussed was the "breeder." The types of breeders identified were the liquid metal fast breeder reactor, which used a small amount of plutonium and a lot of uranium-238 to yield a fission product, new plutonium and uranium-238. Other types of breeders include the gas-cooled fast reactor, the electro-nuclear breeder, the light-water breeder, and the fission-fusion hybrid, which, according to Hirsch is "technologically the simplest."

Hirsch described society as "going through a three-way balance, weighing safety, environmental effects and costs of the prospective energy sources. He identified solar energy as being the safest and cleanest source, and the breeder being the least safe. However, in reference to the "probability of low base load energy cost," the breeder revealed the most positive outlook.

Hirsch concluded his lecture with several proposals. He suggested that there be an acceleration of solar research. Government and private agencies should provide additional support to the development of a feasible solar energy resource.

He also proposed the acceleration of fusion research, aimed at operating a fusion electric plant by 1987.

And lastly, he proposed that the U.S. maintain an "active, significant breeder reactor," in spite of current demonstration. He added despite the current protestations towards this energy source, if the two other energy sources fail, the reactor will have to be used.

Belchertown candidates run unopposed, so far

By RICHARD E. BARRELL
Collegian Staff

BELCHERTOWN — Most candidates for town office here may run unopposed in their bid for election with the deadline for candidate nominations less than two weeks away.

Of the 12 town positions open this year only the Board of Selectmen candidates currently face opposition. Candidates for selectmen are Raymond G. Peetz, Jr. and William H. Squires, Jr.

They will be competing for the selectmen's seat vacated by selectman Bernard F. Wilkes, Jr., assistant director of the Campus Center.

Wilkes told the Collegian he made the decision not to run because he would like to devote more time to his family and career.

Wilkes said he plans to return to school to obtain a masters degree.

He also said he would like to spend more time with his children while they are young doing family activities such as camping and cub scouts.

Wilkes describes the selectmen as the town's managers. Selectmen hire and fire town employees, negotiate contracts, and pay the town's bills along with other duties in managing town affairs, he said.

In addition to the selectman's post, town voters will be choosing a town moderator, a town clerk, local and regional school committee members, a planning board member, a cemetery commissioner, a tree warden, a sewer commissioner and board members for the housing authority, board of health and board of assessors.

Candidates on the ballot were chosen at the town's non-partisan caucus in January.

Other candidates may emerge since additional candidates may be nominated by petition.

At present only four persons have taken out petitions to have their names places on the town ballot.

They are: Owens Taylor, a candidate for selectman.

Roy A. Voci, 11 Westwood Drive and George R. Harrell of 2 Amherst Road, school committee candidates.

Floyd R. Peeso, candidate for sewer commissioner.

Stressing that these were only the names of those who have filed petitions for nomination, town clerk Carl J. Peterson, Jr. said potential candidates may obtain blank nomination papers from his office.

Candidates have until March 2 to obtain the papers which must be returned by 5 p.m. Monday, March 6.

Twenty signatures by registered voters are required to place a name in nomination.

Town elections will be held April 10.

Women's group to sing

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Sweet Honey in the Rock, a Washington, D.C. based vocal group will perform at the final concert of International Women's Week in the Fine Arts Center March 11.

The group consists of five black women singers and songwriters who perform a cappella with occasional instrumental accompaniment. Their music ranges from gospel and blues, to black women love songs and political statements.

Sweet Honey in the Rock was formed in 1974 by Bernice Reagon through the Washington Black Repertory Company's vocal workshops. Reagon, along with Patricia Johnson, Louise Robinson, Evelyn Harris and Carol Lynne Maillard harmonize in a way that allows each voice to remain distinctive.

The group's name, "Sweet Honey in the Rock," is based on the refrain of a traditional black spiritual. It refers to "a land so sweet that honey flows from the rocks." The name symbolizes the strength, consistency and warmth of black women.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the Women's Newstand, Tix, For the Record, Platterpus Records and Goodbody's.

THE RESTAURANT just good food
Featuring: homemade soups, salads, & sandwiches
daily specials
bagels & pastries
256-8955
OPEN 9:30-6:00
MON.-SAT.
AT FACES OF EARTH

Charlie's says
WEDNESDAY
is MICHELOB NIGHT
Free Munchies
12 oz. 60c Bottles
1 Pray St., Amherst
549-5403
Next to the Pub

Red Hot Offer from the Red Hot Magazine
ROLLING STONE
SAVE 50% OFF
the newsstand price
26 issues for only $13.00

ROLLING ST
ROLLING ST
FLEETWOOD MAC

ROLLING STONE
SUBSCRIPTION DISCOUNT COUPON
SAVE 50%
OFF NEWSSTAND PRICE
26 ISSUES FOR ONLY $13.00
OR SAVE EVEN MORE
52 ISSUES FOR ONLY $22.00
FILL OUT THE SPECIAL COUPON & MAIL TODAY

YES
Please send me one year of ROLLING STONE (26 issues) at the money saving rate of $13.00.
☐ 26 issues only $13.00
(newsstand price for 26 issues is $26.00)
Save even more!
☐ 52 issues only $22.00
(newsstand price for 52 issues is $52.00)
☐ Payment Enclosed ☐ Bill me later
NAME ______ APT ______
ADDRESS ______
CITY ______
MAIL TO: ROLLING STONE P.O. BOX 2983
BOULDER, COLORADO 80302
ODC1

World Youth
Festival Tours 1978

TRAVEL TO CUBA DURING THE WORLD FESTIVAL OF YOUTH AND STUDENTS!

While the delegation to the Youth Festival will be chosen by the U.S. Preparatory Committee, you can see the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students as a tourist. You will be able to participate in many of the mass rallies and cultural events of the Festival and have a chance to meet the thousands of young people from all over the world who will gather in Havana this summer.

In addition you will have a tour of Cuba seeing the sites and achievements of the Cuban Revolution.

There will be two Festival Youth Tours at the unbeatable price of $575.00.*

The first tour will take part in the first four days of the Festival and the second tour will participate in the last four days.

Festival Tour I July 23-Aug. 6
Festival Tour II July 30-Aug. 13

Send your $150.00 deposit immediately
* All prices from Montreal. Including visa handling. U.S. passport required. Air fare subject to change.

For more information write:
Anniversary Tours Youth Dept.
250 West 57th St.
New York, New York 10019
(212) 245-7501
CUBA

One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest
Starring Jack Nicholson
Wednesday Feb. 22
Student Union Ballroom
8:00 & 10:30 P.M. $1.25

THESIS PAPER AND TYPING PAPER
NOTEBOOK PAPER AND STATIONERY
AT
A.J. HASTINGS
45 S. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST

RUSH THE PIKES
The Brothers Of
Pi Kappa Alpha
Invite All University Men to Attend Informal Rush
Wed. Feb. 22 8:00 p.m.
Thurs. Feb. 23 8:00 p.m.
See what it's like to be a Pike
At 418 N. Pleasant St. (two-minute walk from campus) beer & refreshments served

COMMUTER COLLECTIVE COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Nomination papers are now available for the Spring bye-election for seats on the Commuter Collective council.

Papers are to be picked up in the Commuter Office, Room 404, S.U.

Papers must be returned , with at least 25 valid signitures of undergrad commuters, no later that than Thursday, March 2 at 3 p.m.

ELECTION IS MARCH 8 & 9.

-WOLFIES PIZZA-
Featuring fine food, a warm fire,
cable t.v. and the newest pinball machines
Wolfies specials:
Every Tues. Night 2 for 1
buy 1/get 1 free
(Deliveries and take outs not included)
Every Wed. night
Southwest Special
Spaghetti Plate $1
(includes bread, butter and sauce)
Located next to Southwest
173 Sunset Ave.
call 549-5592 or 549-5593

Career day blooms with agricultural fields

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

Over 700 students, administration, faculty and exhibitors claimed a success at the Stockbridge Professional Development Day, a convention held yesterday that included speakers and exhibitors of various agricultural fields.

Business people from area garden centers, tractor companies, crop and animal feed stores and others involved in agriculture exhibited their products at the convention. Speakers in the fields of forestry, floriculture and animal science were featured throughout the day.

Professional Development Day was organized by the Stockbridge Student Senate last semester. The goal was to offer a chance for students and business people to discuss the available opportunities and problems they will face when they begin working.

Peter Quinlan, chairperson of the conference committee, said he was pleased with the turnout. "The exhibitors are happy and most speakers went overtime. This event will grow. The possibilities of having it in November and having outdoor demonstrations have been suggested," Quinlan said.

John Denison, dean of the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, said, "This is excellent. It gives students, never exposed to business, an opportunity to find out what these people face everyday. It's realistic."

A. Allen Landry, a representative from Conrad Fafard, Inc., and exhibitor at the convention, said, "This is a fantastic opportunity for students to learn about the various businesses in agriculture. I'll return next year." Timothy M. Nourse, from Nourse Farms, Inc., in Whatley, was another exhibitor who felt the event was worthwhile and said he would return next year.

Landscape operations major, Fred Thompson, said, "I'm pleased the students supported Professional Development Day and made it successful."

"The committee did a good job, especially for the limited time they had to work on it," said Geoff McDuff, president of the Stockbridge Student Senate. "Next year should be bigger and better. Eventually the convention may be able to last more than one day," he added.

Kevin Walsh, a Stockbridge floriculture major, said, "The committee did fine work, an exceptional job in organization for the short amount of time we had to prepare."

A highlight of the convention was speaker John Barrus, assistant commissioner of the Mass. State Department of Food and Agriculture.

Stockbridge career day moves outside. (Staff photo by Dave Olken)

Native food a priority

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts has the potential to supply a large percentage of its own food if the Massachusetts Food Policy becomes action, John Barrus, recently appointed UMass trustee and Assistant Commissioner for the state Department of Food and Agriculture, said yesterday at the Stockbridge Professional Development Day.

Barrus explained the Food Policy Bill, passed in 1977, involves purchasing development rights from farmers to preserve agricultural land. "The bill states that land not be destroyed for developmental purposes. A person is not required to farm, but must leave the land as is," Barrus said.

Purchasing development rights involves figuring the difference between the value of land for developmental purposes and its value for agricultural purposes. The amount is then paid to the land owner who cannot develop the land.

The Massachusetts legislature passed a $5 million bond issue to initially support the Development Rights Act. "A task force has been established to initiate the purchasing of these rights and develop a permanent funding method. At present it looks like the taxpayer," said Barrus.

A bill is before the U.S. Congress for the federal government to assist in cost-sharing for development rights purchasing.

Barrus said, "A bank of land at agriculture values would be established enabling people interested in farming the opportunity to obtain land." Presently high land prices causes difficult for a person entering farming.

"Today's Professional Development Conference indicates a positive movement and concern for agriculture in Massachusetts. More and more people are involved in agriculture departments at schools across the country. The convention is an intriguing, unique innovation should should continue. It is worthwhile and well received by students and businesses," Barrus said.

Barrus gave the Connecticut valley as an example of urbanization and the loss of farmland. "The Connecticut valley is one of the top pieces of farmland in the U.S. It is capable of supplying enough food for a large percentage of Massachusetts citizens," he said.

For the Massachusetts Food Policy to work, the present marketing system must change. "Massachusetts people must buy food produced by Massachusetts people," said Barrus.

October, 1978, is the tentative date set for the policy to take effect.

Carter not consulted on aide's defense

WASHINGTON [UPI] — White House press secretary Jody Powell said yesterday he did not consult President Carter before issuing a 33-page defense of Hamilton Jordan, who was accused of spitting liquor at a woman who spurned his attention.

Powell also denied — in strong language — a rumor that the FBI was investigating the incident.

"That is not true, just another example of sleazy crap," he said.

The Washington Post reported in its magazine Sunday that Jordan, Carter's top aide who recently separated from his wife, spit at a woman in Sarsfields bar on Jan. 27 after she refused to talk with him.

The Post said Monday it stood by its story despite the 33-page statement Powell issued Monday "to set the record straight."

Jordan aid there was an unpleasant incident at the bar but denied he spit at the woman, and Powell told reporters he had not discussed the issue with the president or consulted him about the lengthy White House response.

The White House statement included a 24-page affidavit from Sarsfield bartender Daniel Marshall and shorter statements from friends who were with Jordan at the bar. All backed up his version of what happened.

Post reporter Rudy Maxa, who wrote the story, said he had known the woman involved for six years and believed her. He said he also had two witnesses who corroborated her version.

Powell said, "Frankly I don't know how you deal with a situation in which a person in public life is subject to incorrect and vicious allegations as they appear in print.

"I hope you will read the material that is there and make your own judgment about whether it was indeed responsible to print that sort of accusation having made no attempt to contact the bartender," he said.

"I don't know whether a decision to publish without checking the one easily contacted person who might have additional information was ... proper or not.

"I am not sure what an overreaction is when you attack someone's character and integrity. It is possible to publish material of that sort and then if someone has the temerity to set the record straight then you are faced with allegations that you are attacking the First Amendment."

Asked if the incident hampered Jordan's ability to work, Powell said inaccurate and untrue attacks on a man's reputation "are not very helpful in his doing his job."

Jordan also made news recently when he reportedly looked down the bodice of the Egyptian ambassador's wife and said he always had anted to see the "pyramids." He denied that incident, too.

Soviets to pay crash damage

UNITED NATIONS [UPI[ — The Soviet Union said yesterday it will pay for any damage caused by the crash of its Cosmos 954 nuclear-powered satellite in Canada — but it may not include the $2 million Canada has spent recovering the wreckage.

Academician Yevgeniy Federov, Moscow's delegate to a session of a U.N. subcommittee, on science and technology, indicated the Soviets were a bit miffed that Canada rejected an offer of Soviet assistance and turned instead to the United States.

The Soviets concede they are obligated to reimburse Canada for aay damage from the accident Jan. 24. But when asked whether Moscow would pay for the search and recovery efforts, Federov told reporters, "I don't know."

One section of a 1968 U.N. agreement on the peaceful uses of outer space says, "Expenses incurred in fulfilling obligations to recover and return a space object or its component parts...shall be borne by the launching authority."

Federov indicated Moscow may take the position that, in offering at the outset to help look for and recover the wreckage, its obligation was fulfilled.

"Our government said, 'we are ready to investigate, under your Canada's control, to find the peaces and determine the damage,' " said Federov.

"But the Canadians refused. They instead invited the United States. Well, all right. We are not against it, but..."

Man takes child hostages

EATON, Ohio [UPI] — Holding a gun to the head of a child and swearing to the FBI over a Citizen Band radio that he won't be taken alive, a suspected armed bank robber holding three hostages headed for Indiana in a crippled getaway car last night.

The suspect had been trapped on Interstate 70 between two roadblocks near the Indiana-Ohio border when police shot out two of his car tires.

But he demanded another car and safe passage to an undetermined place. Next, he dropped the demand for a car and began inching his way back to Indiana.

Communicating with the FBI over a CB radio, the suspect vowed not to be taken alive. Officials saw him hold a gun to the head of one of the two children he was holding.

Women guards now OK

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Departing from tradition, the Pentagon yesterday announced that women from all military services will be allowed to serve as White House honor guards, but — like men — they must be at least 5 feet 10 inches tall.

A Defense Department spokesman said tall women will be recruited for the special duty by the Army's Military District of Washington, which controls the multi-service groups sent to the White House for ceremonies.

Women in an Air Force ceremonial unit made an issue of the exclusively male honor guard last year, asking Rosalynn Carter in a letter why they could not take part.

The Army said at the time it was considering the matter, but Mrs. Carter said she wanted to see women on the job.

The Pentagon announcement said "the process of recruiting, training and equipping women for ceremonial duties" including the White House, will begin at once.

A spokesman said women will have to meet all requirements that apply to men assigned to the honor guards, including the height restriction.

He said other requirements include a minimum score on military qualification tests, volunteer status for the duty and a clean disciplinary record.

THE PUB MUGS ARE IN

Tonight

10 CENT BEERS

8:30 - 9:30

Jim Plunkett

MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR · THE AMHERST PUB · 1968 · TEN GREAT YEARS · 1978

WANT TO TEACH A MATH COLLOQ ?

Sign up for the math teacher training workshop AND GET 2 CREDITS.

CALL Steve Falk : 545-0333
Jack Murphy : 545-2803

OR Come to John Adams lobby room 1 before March 1.

COALITION FOR ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

OFFICER ELECTIONS

ALL POSITIONS OPEN

7:30 TONIGHT -CC 903

FOLLOWING ELECTIONS

EARTH DAY

ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING

WE NEED YOUR HELP

ENGINEERING GRADUATES

INSTRON

WANTS TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT YOUR FUTURE

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

University Massachusetts, Amherst
Friday, March 3, 1978

The Canton Division of Instron Corporation is a world leader in the manufacture of state-of-the-art materials testing instrumentation, including electromechanical tensile testing systems and servo-hydraulic dynamic testing systems. We also produce computer systems for real-time control of complex instrumentation and dedicated and distributed systems for computer processing and data-base management of physical data.

We are located in a beautiful, and highly desirable area of Massachusetts accessible to Boston and offering a "quality" lifestyle. And our new addition to our plant and Corporate Headquarters (see illustration) will make it possible for Instron to offer a more stimulating and professional environment than ever before.

Once on staff, you will become thoroughly familiar with our distinctive product line through classroom and on-the-job training programs.

Exciting career opportunities are available for:
ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS ▪ ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS ▪ MECHANICAL ENGINEERS ▪ LOGIC DESIGN ENGINEERS ▪ TEST ENGINEERS ▪ MATERIALS ENGINEERS ▪ PROGRAMMERS

B.S. degree is required for all positions, an M.S. desired for Design Engineering positions. Electrical Engineers should have a strong background in digital circuitry and microprocessors. Servo-hydraulics background a plus for Mechanical Engineers.

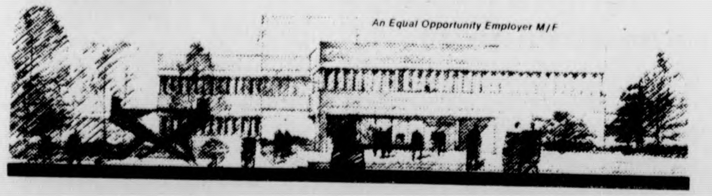
Take this special opportunity to join an expanding company where a young professional can make an immediate impact and enjoy a highly competitive salary, unusually liberal benefits, and continuous opportunities for career growth.

To arrange an appointment, Contact your College Placement Office.

INSTRON

INSTRON CORPORATION
2500 Washington Street, Canton, Massachusetts 02021

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F



THE FINAST®
all things good & fresh

Boneless Beef Shell Strips
USDA CHOICE
Whole Untrimmed Beef Loin $1.99 lb.
Half Shell Strips $2.29 lb.

Top Round London Broil
Boneless Beef U.S.D.A. Choice $1.79 lb.

| Item | Price |
|---|---|
| Boneless Beef Round-U.S.D.A. Choice Top Round Roast | $1.39 lb. |
| Brookside Farms-Whole-2½ lb. Avg. Chicken Legs | 77¢ lb. |
| Boneless Beef Round-U.S.D.A. Choice Tip Roast | $1.39 lb. |
| Finast Meat or Beef Franks | 89¢ lb. |

| Item | Price |
|---|---|
| Corned Beef Boneless Beef Round . lb | 1.29 |
| Smoked Butt Boneless Pork Shoulder Water Added . lb | 1.49 |
| Shell Strip Steak 4 lbs or more . . . . lb | 2.69 |
| Rump Roast Boneless Bottom Round . lb | 1.59 |
| Cube Steak Boneless Beef Round . . lb | 1.89 |
| Fresh Ducks also Frozen . . . . . . lb | 89¢ |
| Chicken Thighs 2½ lb. Avg. Brookside Farms . . lb | 89¢ |
| Drumsticks Fresh Brookside Farms Chicken 2½ lb. Avg. . . . lb | 99¢ |
| Chicken Breast 2½ lb. Avg. Brookside Farms . lb | 1.09 |
| Chicken Breast 3½ lb. Avg. Fresh Boneless . . lb | 1.79 |
| Veal Cutlets Cut from the Leg Fresh Boneless . . . . lb | 3.69 |
| Finast Bologna Meat or Beef . . . 1 lb. pkg. | 99¢ |
| Colonial Sizzle Strips . . 12 oz pkg | 1.29 |

Frozen-Young Turkey Breast
U.S. Gov't. Inspected 98¢ lb.
4 to 8 lb. Avg.

Finast

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| New Item Folger's From Procter & Gamble Flaked Coffee | 13 oz can | $2.89 |
| Campbell's-Old Time Favorite Pork & Beans | 4 16 oz. cans | $1.00 |
| Sweet, Tender Beauties Richmond Peas | 5 16 oz. cans | $1.00 |
| Cream Style or Whole Kernel Richmond Corn | 5 16 oz. cans | $1.00 |
| Irregular Pieces in Light Syrup Remarkable Pears | 2 29 oz. cans | $1.00 |

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Dixie Beverages 4 Flavors . . . . | ½ gal cont | 59¢ |
| Dressings 7 Seas Viva Italian Family French or Herb & Spice . . . | 2 8 oz bots | 99¢ |
| Purple Plums Green Tag Brand . . . . | 2 29 oz cans | 89¢ |
| Richmond Cremes 5 Flavors . . | 2 lb pkg | 99¢ |
| Hi Ho Crackers Sunshine . . . . | 1 lb pkg | 69¢ |
| Vanilla Wafers Sunshine . . . . . | 11 oz pkg | 59¢ |
| Dog Food Redheart 4 Flavors . . . . . . . | six pack | 1.00 |
| Cat Food 9 Lives Tuna . . . . . . | 2 12 oz cans | 99¢ |
| Brock's Candies 3 Vars . | 2 16 oz pkgs | 1.00 |
| Vlasic Spears Kosher or Polish . . | 24 oz jar | 69¢ |
| Pancake Mix Log Cabin . . . . . | 2 lb pkg | 59¢ |
| Stuffing Mix Stove Top Chicken . . . | 6 oz pkg | 65¢ |
| Sliced Carrots Tom Thumb Brand . . . | 3 16 oz cans | 89¢ |
| Stewed Tomatoes Finast . . | 16 oz can | 39¢ |

Fresh Dairy Features!

Orange Juice
Minute Maid from Concentrate ½ gal. cont. 88¢

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Margarine Richmond Quarters . . | 3 1 lb pkgs | 1.00 |
| Cheese Food Slices Finast Ind Wrapped | 12 oz pkg | 99¢ |
| Ballard Biscuits . . . . . . | 6 8 oz conts | 1.00 |
| Ricotta Cheese Finast Whole Milk or Part Skim | 15 oz cont | 89¢ |
| Cheddar Cheese Finast Sharp White | 10 oz pkg | 1.19 |
| Shrimp Cocktail Sau Sea | 3 pack of 4 oz jars | 1.99 |
| Cheez Whiz Kraft Spread . . . . . | 8 oz jar | 89¢ |

Finast Bakery Features!

Round Top
Bread Sliced White 3 20 oz. lvs. $1

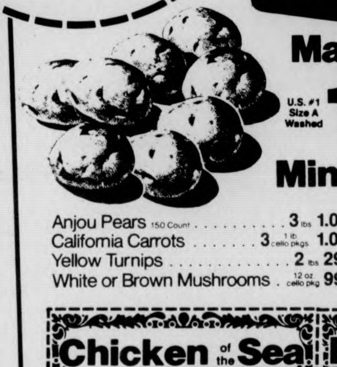
English Muffins . . . . 3 12 oz pkgs of 6 1.00

Bakery Items Available Tues. thru Sat. only!

Health & Beauty Aids!

Deodorant-Reg. or Super Tampons Playtex pkg of 30 $1.69

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Aim Toothpaste 12¢ Off Label . | 4½ oz tube | 69¢ |
| Lavoris Mouthwash . . . . | 12 oz bot | 99¢ |
| Breck Shampoo Dry, Oily or Normal . . | 11 oz bot | 1.39 |



Maine Potatoes
U.S. #1 Size A Washed 10 lb. bag 79¢

Mineola Tangelos
6 for $1
Extra Large 54 Count

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Anjou Pears 150 Count . . . . . . . . . . | 3 lbs | 1.00 |
| California Carrots . . . . . . . | 3 1 lb cello pkgs | 1.00 |
| Yellow Turnips . . . . . . . . . . . . . | 2 lbs | 29¢ |
| White or Brown Mushrooms . | 12 oz. cello pkg | 99¢ |

Chicken of the Sea
Solid White Tuna in Oil or Water 7 oz. can 48¢
FN H-105
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Feb. 19-25, 1978. Limit one coupon.

Finast Pot Pies
Frozen Beef, Turkey, Chicken or MacN'Cheese 5 8 oz. pkgs. $1
FN H-107
Finast with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more exclusive of cigarette and tobacco products. Good Feb. 19-25, 1978. Limit one coupon.

Frozen Food Features!

French Fries
Richmond 5 lb. poly bag 99¢

| Item | Quantity | Price |
|---|---|---|
| Cakes Pepperidge Farm 6 Flavors . . . | 17 oz pkg | 1.39 |
| Finast Spinach Chopped or Leaf | 4 10 oz pkgs | 89¢ |
| Finast Round Ravioli . . . . | 13 oz pkg | 89¢ |
| Vegetables Seabrook Far Eastern Roman or Sicilian Mix . . | 18 oz pkg | 77¢ |
| Orange Juice Minute Maid . . . | 16 oz can | 1.19 |
| Welch's Donuts 3 Varieties . | 2 9 oz pkgs | 1.00 |
| Frisbee Pies Apple or Coconut Custard . . . | 26 oz pkg | 89¢ |
| Sealtest Ice Cream . . . . | ½ gal cont | 1.39 |

Cherry Pie
Frisbee 26 oz. pkg. $1.39

Finasts' Great SAVE-A-TAPE Offer
GE
Appliance at Fantastic Prices
Choose from one of our 3 great SAVE-A-TAPE Plans

Mr. Deli Delights!

Turkey Ham
Low in Calories Sliced to Order $1.99 lb.

| Item | Price |
|---|---|
| Carando Genoa Salami . . lb | 2.19 |
| Mr. Deli Chicken Roll All White Meat lb | 1.99 |

Available Only in Stores with Service Deli Dept.

Not responsible for typographical errbrs

Prices effective February 19 thru February 25, 1978

We reserve the right to limit quantities

Letters

Sexual preference is not the issue

To the Editor:

In the Collegian's front page advertisement for Rep. Michael J. Connolly's campaign to unseat Sen. Brooke, an important piece of relevant information is missing, vis, Connolly's sexual preference. This is important because the only thing we are told about Rep. Elaine Nobel, one of Connolly's expected challengers, is that she is "an avowed homosexual". Surely the Associated Press can extract an avowal on the same matter from Rep. Connolly. I mean, how can we vote for the guy without being told every time his appears that he is an avowed something. He might be a newspaper fetishist for all we know.

Kenneth L. Kornfield

Reverse discrimination a myth

To the Editor:

It was reported in last week's Collegian article that Chancellor Bromery blamed the deficiencies now existing in the Affirmative Action Plan on campus on the federal government. It is their fault, he explains, because the federal government did not point out the problem back in 1974.

Certainly it is not difficult to see the deficiencies in the Affirmative Action Program on campus, unless, perhaps, you are looking at the University from the top floor of an ivory tower. When you go through four years of education and never have a professor who is Black, Asian American, Hispanic or [in many cases] female, when you go through your whole school experience and less than one-tenth of the people you meet as students are members of the third world, when all the secretaries you run into are female and the administrators are male, it becomes so all-pervasive that when you do see a minority or a woman in a position of power or prestige, it sticks out in your mind.

Discrimination on our campus? Yes! Blatant, pervasive and institutionalized.

Do we want it to continue? No! There are many people who want to see the University stop discrimination. We want UMass to go out and recruit oppressed minorities and women not only as students, but to fill positions all over the University.

Is UMass any different than the rest of the country? No! Discrimination is still the bulkhead of our country.

It is interesting that the small gains that minorities and women won in the sixties are now being taken back and that the battle cry of those leading the attack on those gains is "Reverse Discrimination"! If discrimination still exists against women and third world people, how can the opposite also be true? It can't. Reverse discrimination is a myth — a myth at UMass and a myth in the U.S. today.

The Coalition to Reverse the Bakke Decision will be sponsoring a panel discussion Friday night at 7 p.m. in Room 163 of the Campus Center to discuss the myth of reverse discrimination. Panelists include John Bracey, Department of Afro-American Studies; Marcel Rengawa, Bilingual Bicultural Program; Jude Kinney, 12tol, clerical workers organization; a member of the Office of Third World Affairs; and will be chaired by John Yong, Asian American Students Organization.

We believe that the Bakke case is in the forefront of the attacks against women and minorities. If the U.S. Supremem Court upholds this California Supreme Court ruling, Bakke will become the law of the land and "Reverse Discrimination" will become a justifiable excuse for ignoring past discrimination and continuing it today.

Sally Rees
Coalition to Overturn the Bakke Decision

Senate attempts "robbery"

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to inform the complacent student body of a potential robbery — a robbery of the area governments and Greek governments of approximately $7000. Now you may wonder who would be clever enough to pull off a crime of this magnitude. Why the UMass Student Senate of course! Let me elaborate on this; last fall, because of an SGA mistake, the area governments and Greeks were under-allocated an aggregate of $7031. One would assume that when this mistake was discovered it would be immediately rectified by allocating to the governments, the money that is rightfully theirs. No so. Because of the uncertain status of returning SATF money there is a question as to whether or not the senate will have enough money for such a "low priority" issue. The fact that it is such a low priority issue is indicative of a major senate problem in itself; lack of consideration towards its constituency. Area governments are the most direct form of representattion for the students on this campus and provide the most direct benefits. To deny area governments is to deny the vast majority of students at this university and in effect deny the best interest of the senate's constituency.

Moreover, the senate is concerned with the wrong issue in this problem. The question that they are dealing with is whether or not the senate has the money to give to area and Greek governments. This is not the issue. The issue is that these governments were denied a certain amount of money that was rightfully theirs in the first place. There should be no question as to whether or not they should get this money. Of course they should get this money, it is their money. But the senate will continue to be concerned with the wrong issue until the time comes when the students themselves become more involved and concerned with issues that are affecting them.

In conclusion, I would like to make two appeals:

1. An appeal to the Student Senators to be aware of the fact that there is no real issue involved. It is a fact that we owe area government and Greeks $7031. Regardless of what certain senate "leaders" may say to the stability of our finances does not change the fact that we have a moral obligation to these people to give them money that is rightfully theirs. When a vote comes up on this question, I hope you will consider what I have said.

2. An appeal to the student body to let your senator know how you feel. Enlighten him-her to the fact that he-she has a concerned constituency. If you are concerned over the quality of area government services, and if you are bothered and insulted by the fact that many senators seem to have no respect for the well being of the people that they represent, then you can try and stop this potential robbery by letting your senator know how you feel on this issue. It is up to you.

Larry Mandell
OHAG Senator
and the Orchard Hill
Area Government

Regulate actions, not thoughts

To the Editor:

It seems that nobody really believes in democracy anymore. Rather we seem to be engaged in a race to see who will be the first to restrict the rights of others. In his Collegian column of last week [2-16-78] Bill Sundstrom suggested that First Amendment protections should be denied to Nazis on the grounds that they themselves would deny those protections to others.

The language of his article suggests to me that Bill considers himself to be something of a Marxist. If that is true then he should remember that not so long ago Marxists were denied First Amendment protections on the same grounds that they would now be denied to Nazis.

The major flaw in Bill's argument is a failure to distinguish between speech, which is protected by the Constitution, and other forms of action which are not. One is free to advocate repugnant ideas such as the gassing of Jews without being free to gas Jews. Likewise, one can advocate the denial of civil rights without being free to actually do so. In a free society the laws regulate actions not thoughts.

Bill's argument strikes me as profoundly and dangerously anti-democratic in its basic distrust of the people's ability to react rationally to the insanity of Nazism. There is more at stake in Skokie than the right of a few Nazis to speak their minds. The real issue, as in all free speech cases, is whether we will live in a civilized society based on the rational confrontation of ideas or whether we will live in a jungle where the use of force is the ultimate appeal.

The defining characteristic of a civilized society is a fundamental belief that all differences can be resolved by reason rather than by force. The absolute guarantee of free speech, as in the First Amendment, embodies the belief that no idea is too powerful to be confronted by reason. Those who would restrict the free expression of ideas express their ultimate distrust of reason and betray their faith in force as the final arbiter between ideas.

It is ironic that the opponents of free speech for Nazis unwittingly have more in common with that repugnant philosophy than do those who defend their right to speak. The defense of free speech for Nazis is not a defense of Nazism. Likewise, opposition to free speech for Nazis is not necessarily opposition to Nazism. If the Nazi idea is ever to be truly defeated it must be done rationally, and that requires free speech. Otherwise we are, in our panic to oppose Nazism, in danger of succumbing to facism ourselves.

Paul Shepard

Letters Policy

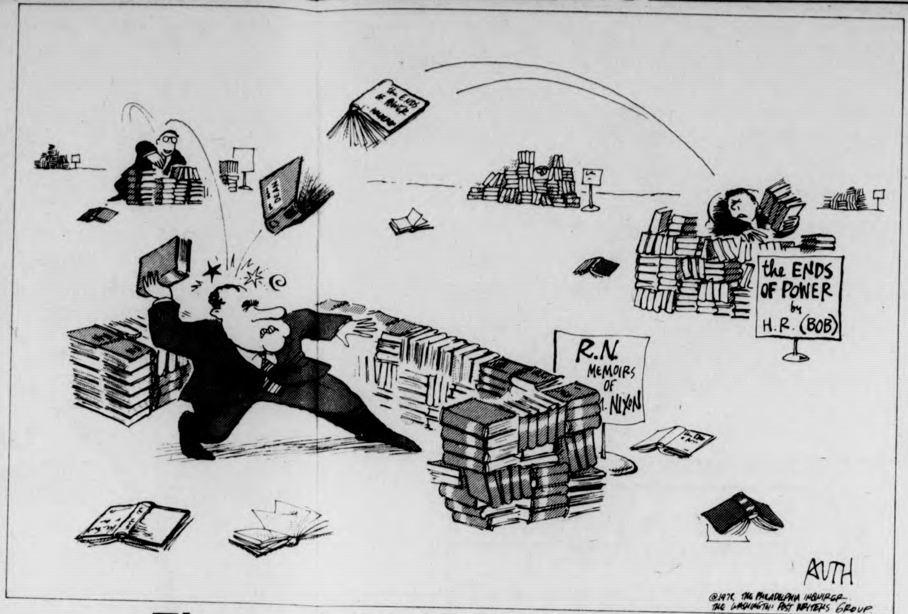
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.



the ENDS OF POWER HALDEMAN
DEAN
the ENDS OF POWER by H.R. (BOB)
R.N. MEMOIRS OF R. NIXON
AUTH
©1978, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP

Financial aid screw-up

Jay Martus

Have you or any of your friends experienced problems with your work study awards or financial aid grants? People who expected Massachusetts Board of Higher Education grants, counting on them to provide necessary dollars to attend school this year, still have not received their fall or spring awards yet. Many people who were "marginally eligible" for these B.H.E. grants were told that due to a lack of funds available this year, they were being classified as ineligible. Our own financial aid office overcommitted itself by $1.5 million in federal aid monies. Does this surprise or anger you? It should for several reasons.

If you expect to stay here during the summer and work and attend Summer session, do not expect to do so on a work study grant. Having asked who would be eligible to receive summer work study awards, the financial aid office answered only persons who receive at least $2500 annually would be considered. Since the overcommitment occurred a tightening up of all aid has set in.

The B.H.E. money question has brought different levels of questions and problems to the surface. The Bursar, Bob Mishol, sent out a letter to all recipients of such an award requiring them to pay the amount of the grant and to await receipt of the money as reimbursement! The note's tone was similar to an unfriendly bill collector implying vague further action if not complied with. This sort of institutional response is a reinforcer of the negative images of the university and can only further alienate students and their parents.

Part of the reason for a lack of state money for financial aid is that the legislature provides more money to Massachusetts residents who attend private schools than those who attend public ones. State law reads that no less than 10 per cent and no more than 25 per cent of state scholarship money will go to students attending public institutions, with the remaining 75 per cent going to the privates. The rationale behind this is that private education costs more and students should be able to attend the institution of their choice. Why do we have public educational institutions? Private schools have been historically unresponsive to the needs and diversification of the public and to insure accessibility to higher education for larger segments of our population, public schools emerged. As the post world war II baby boom was diminishing and public schools offered stiffer competition, the privates began to set up mechanisms like the state financial aid formula to insure their survival. (They also have tax exemptions and other favorable considerations.)

Why are there problems with the aid available here at our "low cost" public university? For a long time tuition was kept very low at public institutions in Massachusetts. But in the seventies the private lobbies saw the need to pressure tuition increases to keep costs between a private education and public education somewhat comparable. The tuition we pay does not go towards any program or activity on campus, but goes directly to the state treasury. In December 1975, the trustees passed a tuition increase which more than doubled tuition here at the university, "to better reflect the costs of education." Students pointed out the areas of the university that we are expected to fully fund by fees (Campus Center, Residence Halls, Dining Commons, etc.) and their spiralling increases and questioned whether the basis of public education, its low cost and quality, would be threatened by the unnecessary and illogical tuition increase. We wondered whether or not middle income and independent students would be squeezed out by the rising costs and inadequate financial aid. We were assured that the financial aid situation would be examined at each level of the tuition increase to ensure that it was adequate, and if it was failing to meet the same level of need they would reconsider the tuition increases.

It is now three years later, and fees are skyrocketing, financial aid is inadequate, and tuition has more than doubled. Students are leaving because they can't afford the costs of education. Services are either remaining at the same levels or more likely, declining in their quality. Financial aid will be in the same or even worse boat next year. Perhaps H.E.W. should spend some time on our financial aid problem as well as our affirmative action failings. Student Government ought to make the issue a priority for action, rather than talking about a new fee for rock concerts and more salaried positions for themselves and friends. The Board of Trustees ought to recognize the significance of the problem and take the idle rhetoric of 1975 and turn it into positive action of 1978!

Jay Martus is a Collegian Columnist.

"It all began in Nicosia"

By BOB STACK

It all began in Nicosia, Cyprus on Saturday, February 18, 1978. Two gunmen, self-proclaimed Palestinians, shot and killed a prominent Egyptian editor, negotiated an escape to a waiting airliner, and boarded with 15 hostages. When refused permission to land in several countries, the plane returned hours later to Nicosia and further negotiation.

The assassination victim, Youssef Sebaei, happened to be a close friend to Egyptian President, Anwar Sadat. The Egyptian government was outraged And demanded action, but the Cypriot government warned against Egypt's intervention. It was a Cypriot affair.

Political hyjacking is not uncommon to this day and age. We have lived through Munich, Entebbe, and Mogadishu, all initiated by political malcontents.

Of course, a negotiator's first concern is for the safety of the hostages. The accepted goal appears to be preservation of human life at little to no expense, mortally or politically. Any action necessary, short of meeting terrorist demands, should be taken to ensure the safety of hostages.

Both Cyprus and Egypt were primarily concerned with the lives of hostages at Nicosia, but their plans to resolve the situation differed dramatically. Egypt cried, "give us the terrorists" while Cyprus retorted, "let us handle this." It certainly was not an atmosphere of cooperation. Not surprisingly, the already heated affair grew increasingly volatile.

There was speculation as to whether the action of the terrorists could influence Anwar Sadat's peace proposals in the Mideast. Palestinian guerillas reportedly rejected his proposals and the two Palestinian terrorists in Nicosia said, "Everybody who went to Israel with Sadat will die, including Sadat." Although Sadat said the assassination of Sebaei "will never influence anything at all", it obviously influenced him enough to ignore the Cypriot government and deliver swift armed retaliation to the terrorists. It was Egypt's way of protecting lives.

On Sunday night, February 19, a C130 cargo plane filled with 60 Egyptian commandos landed at Nicosia. When they shot at the control tower where Cypriot President Spyros Kyprianou was overseeing the negotiations, the nearby Cypriot national guard "opened fire (on them) to protect lives."

What twisted irony! The Egyptians were there to protect lives and were fired upon by Cypriots who also wanted to protect lives. Egyptian commandos finally reached the hyjacked airliner under constant fire several minutes later and forced the surrender of the two terrorists, the remaining commandos surrendering, in turn, to the Cypriots. Although all the hostages were freed unharmed, the expense was dear — 15 Egyptians lie dead. There were 11 hostages aboard the plane at the time.

It is outrageous that two countries with similar responsibilities should undermine each other's goal to spare the innocent. A complete lack of cooperation and communication grossly jeopardized the lives of those in issue and ended those of 15 would-be rescuers. Add to this the Cypriot government's statement that the terrorists had agreed to release the hostages just before the raid and it could make anyone sick.

The ultimate goal to free the hostages safely was accomplished in spite of all. For that, there is a brief sigh of relief. But it is a bitter-sweet victory for many. In effect, no lives were saved at Nicosia on Sunday — they were merely substituted in more than full measure by the lives of others. These "others" were not politicians or diplomats — they were the victims of them. To the Egyptians they are heroes; to the Cypriots, culprits. Whatever the case, they are dead today and their loved ones mourn them. Was it worth the price?

Budget Time; A real knockout

Bob Melia

It's approaching state budget time again, which translates into "open season on UMass," and this year's Battle of the Budget is shaping up as a real knockout. In one corner we have that prophet of profit, Gov. Dukakis, who is recommending a UMass budget no higher (in real dollars) than last year's. Backing him up are millions of angry taxpayers and lots of state legislators, eager, in this year when one fourth of them must lose their seats due to a slimming down of the bloated General Court, to show how responsibly (tightly) they can manage public funds. In the other corner we have faculty and staff demanding more pay, the administration spending a cool million dollars to renovate an old Boston office, and the student senate demanding who knows what.

But the fight will be a massacre. To have the university step into the political arena in an attempt to get more money is like throwing an aging heavyweight into the ring with a hungry young challenger. Like Ali, UMass is ten years past its prime. The inebriating days of apparently unlimited growth are gone forever, replaced by the reality (at least within this political-economic framework) of retrenchment, stagnation and vocationalism.

Even within the university many seem resigned to a quick political knockout. The talk is of "adjusting to fiscal reality," and "scaling down expectations to realistic levels." It seems all politicians have to do these days is shed their kid gloves and pick up their meat-cleavers and educators start running for cover. Nonetheless, the fight won't end without at least a few rounds of counter-punching rhetoric.

Bromery will disseminate drivel about funding liberal arts, but as he knows damn well that Exxon, on whose board of directors he sits, wants students who are trained, not educated, he won't seriously oppose the slide to vocationalism. The faculty will picket and walk around Memorial Hall a couple times, and student "leaders", having boned-up on their high school civics books, will exhort us "sheep" to write our state legislators.

The protests will of course be ineffectual. The legislature will add a little to Dukakis' request, but not nearly enough. The only beneficial effects of the protest will be purely personal. Consciences will be salved and egos inflated, depending on the personalities involved. And of course the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade (formerly the Revolutionary Student Brigade) will have another issue to march to, along with warmer weather to march in. (Capitalists are always safer in the winter. Except in Russia, where the Revolution came in February. But those loonies love the cold, so 1917 doesn't really count).

Anyway the whole thing is a big, ugly, loud mess, which happens every year. It needn't happen next year because I have a solution which is so damn simple it's ridiculous in more ways than one but that only means it's sensible because R.D. Laing has demonstrated that insane solutions to insane situations are really quite sane, and don't tell me Laing has relevance for the sixties but not the seventies because if this were the sixties there wouldn't be any budget mess and this column would be irrelevant, but as mine is a Langian solution it would mean that Lang was irrelevant in the sixties but relevant in the seventies, which is what he was trying to tell people anyway.

If the legislature and the administration were smart, they'd change the composition of the student body from 95 per cent Massachusetts residents and 5 per cent aliens to 5 per cent Massachusetts residents and 95 per cent aliens. The benefits would be liberal. First, tuition could be raised to $3,600 a year, and as New Yorkers will buy anything if the price is high enough, UMass would be flooded with applications.

Tuition revenues would increase by $60,000,000 which would enable the state to hire a couple thousand new faculty members, build enough dorms so everyone could have a single room, and buy real food (cheesecake for dessert). All this would attract better students as well as huge federal and private grants, and in no time UMass would be so elite that Amherst College would have a massive inferiority complex and Smith women would go husband-hunting in the Blue Wall. Outside the university, the taxpayers would be happy that the students are paying a high tuition, the Governor would be happy because he can take credit for improving the school, and anyway he is an elitist, and the image of the state would improve.

Things would be better inside, too, as virtually every group would prosper. The administration would continue to proliferate, thereby justifying more million dollar offices from which to pontificate. The faculty would be spared the profound public embarrassment of marching around Memorial Hall; the last time they did it, some of them looked uncomfortable being there, or contemptuous of the whole process, like it was beneath them to actually engage in the same activity that coal miners and other real live people do. It seems only students would suffer (and especially the R.C.Y.B. Their brand of revolutionary fervor seems to wilt when emotional public issues disappear and hard work is required).

Some would say that we should protest such a scheme because it would dispossess us almost entirely. But as our very own student leaders and staff have dispossessed us from student government, we (or they, and some think the two are synonomous) should be the last to complain. All I ask is that Earthfoods not be turned into a New York-style deli.

Bob Melia is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Women's films lead in Oscar nominations

HOLLYWOOD [UPI] — A pair of sensitive movies dealing with women, "Julia" and "The Turning Point," tied for most Academy Award nominations with 11 each yesterday in the 50th annual Oscar Derby.

The science fiction extravaganzas "Star Wars" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" were third and fourth in the voting with ten and eight nominations respectively.

Twentieth Century-Fox won the nominations sweepstakes with 33 to top all other studios in the number of nominations.

The awards will be presented April 3 in the nationally telecast ceremonies of the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences at the Music Center.

Nominated for best picture were "Annie Hall," depicting the befuddling complications of a modern unmarried couple in love; "The Goodbye Girl," a story of a dispairing divorcee who finally finds a man who will stick by her; "Julia," the true story of the relationship between Lillian Hellman and a schooldays friend, "Star Wars," the outer space epic which has surpassed "Jaws" as the all-time box office winner and "The Turning Point," which deals with two women, who who chooses stardom as a ballerina while the other opts for the domestic life.

In the most closely contested category — best actress — the five nominees were Anne Bancroft, "The Turning Point;" Jane Fonda "Julia;" Diane Keaton, "Annie Hall;" Shirley MacLaine, "The Turning Point;" and Marsha Mason, "The Goodbye Girl."

The five nominees for best actor of 1977 were Woody Allen, "Annie Hall;" Richard Burton, "Equus;" Richard Dreyfuss, "The Goodbye Girl;" Marcello Mastroianni, "A Special Day;" and John Travolta "Saturday Night Fever."

Best supporting actor nominations were Mikhail Baryshnikov, "The Turning Point;" Peter Firth, "Equus;" Alec Guiness, "Star Wars;" Jason Robards and Maximilian Schell, "Julia."

Nominated for best supporting actress were Leslie Browne, "The Turning Point;" Quinn Cummings, "The Goodbye Girl;" Melinda Dillon, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind;" Vanessa Redgrave, "Julia;" and Tuesday Weld "Looking for Mr. Goodbar."

Woody Allen became only the second person in Oscar history to receive acting, directing and writing nominations for the same film, "Annie Hall." Orson Welles received the same triple nominations in 1941 for "Citizen Kane."

Other nominees for best direction were George Lucas, "Star Wars;" Herbert Ross, "The Turning Point;" Steven Spielberg, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind;" and Fred Zinnemann "Julia."

Best original song nominations went to "Candle on the Water," Pete's Dragon; "Nobody Does it Better," The Spy Who Loves Me, "The Slipper and the Rose" from the film of the same name; "Someone's Waiting for You," The Rescuers, and "You Light Up My Life" from the film of the same name.

The movie colony was closely watching the race for best actress with all but Keaton having been nominated previously.

MacLaine and Bancroft, who costarred in "The Turning Point," have eight previous Oscar nominations between them. Bancroft won the Oscar for best actress in 1962 for "The Miracle Worker." MacLaine has never won an award.

Fonda was nominated twice previously and won in 1971 for her performance in "Klute." Marsha Mason, the real-life wife of Neil Simon who wrote "The Goodbye Girl," was nominated in 1973 for "Cinderella Liberty."

Bancroft plays an aging ballet star in "The Turning Point;" Fonda portrays Miss Hellman; Keaton plays the comic girlfriend of Allen, MacLaine is the dowdy housewife who once had an opportunity to be a ballet star and Mason plays a disillusioned divorcee and mother in "The Goodbye Girl."

The youngest nominee of the year is Quinn Curnmings, 10, who won her best supporting nomination for "The Goodbye Girl."

Allen's script for "Annie Hall" was nominated for best original screenplay, as were Simon for "The Goodbye Girl;" Robert Benton for "The Late Show;" George Lucas for "Star Wars;" and Arthur Laurents for "The Turning Point."

Best original score nominations went to "Close Encounters of The Third Kind;" "Julia;" — "Mohammad-Messenger of God;" "The Spy Who Loved Me;" and "Star Wars."

U.S. Secretary pelted with eggs and snowballs

AMARILLO, Texas [UPI] — Angry farmers, saying the federal government is doing too little to help them financially, yesterday pelted Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland with snowballs and eggs.

"We got a kick out of it. It wasn't too bad," said Tom Sand, Bergland's press secretary. Bergland was not hit.

The incident occurred after Bergland emerged from a meeting with farmers to promote the government's crop set-aside and grain reserve programs, the Carter administration's prime solutions to improving farm income.

Bergland stopped to talk to a crowd of farmers when the barrage was launched.

Farmers also let the air out of the tires of about a dozen vehicles, including a police SWAT van.

Police put the agriculture secretary in a waiting patrol car and drove him four miles to the airport where he was scheduled to depart to Wichita, Kan.

At the airport, Bergland's car was met by more farmers. More snowballs were tossed at the secretary and one of his aides and a police officer reportedly were hit.

No arrests were made.

"This was not part of our plan," said Elmo Fortenberry, a Dumas, Texas, spokesman for American Agriculture. "Nobody is happy that it happened."

Sand said the meetings inside the motel "went well and were quite civilized."

But the egg-tossing incidents "shows how disorganized they (the farmers) are because the vast majority wanted to discuss some specific proposals not totally unique to the Amarillo area," he said.

Bergland was in Amarillo on the first stop of a two-day tour through five Western grain states to promote the two government farm programs.

Bergland met with members of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico and a 20-member delegation from American Agriculture, the group spearheading a nationwide farm strike for higher prices.

Bergland is trying to get farmers to enroll in a set-aside program to reduce wheat and fee grain plantings and join in government sponsored grain reserve programs to bolster the lagging farm economy.

Heroic dog saves girls

GLOCESTER, R.I. [UPI] — A white mongrel dog, named Patches because of his brown spots, has become a hero in Glocester.

Patches guarded and kept two young girls warm last month when they were lost in the woods.

As a reward, the Town Council has awarded Patches a lifetime license. Town Clerk Robert W. Wright game him a box of beef-flavored dog biscuits.

Christa Mollica, 4, and Michelle Morvan, 3, were missing for three years in 22 degree weather Jan. 12 until searchers found them sleeping under the dog.

The Transcendental Meditation Program

Introductory Lecture
Wednesday Feb. 22
Machmer E35
8:00 p.m.
Free and open to the public
For more info call 549-5335

THE LOOK OF TODAY

His & Her Precision Hair Styling
Ye Curling Iron
Triangle St. Amherst 549-4412

CLIMB THE LETTERS TO SUCCESS.

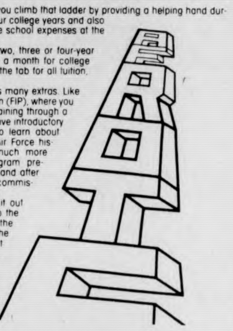
Success is a long way up. But after taking the first step, the second one comes easier.

Air Force ROTC can help you climb that ladder by providing a helping hand during college. It can enrich your college years and also help you with some of those school expenses at the same time.

You can compete for a two, three or four-year scholarship that pays $100 a month for college expenses, while it picks up the tab for all tuition, lab fees and books.

The AFROTC program has many extras. Like the Flight Instruction Program (FIP), where you qualify for Air Force flight training through a screening process and receive introductory flight instruction. You'll also learn about leadership, management, Air Force history and traditions, and much more through AFROTC. The program prepares cadets to take command after they graduate and are commissioned as Air Force officers.

The list goes on. Check it out today. See if you can climb the letters to success and meet the challenge and accept the commitment. You'll find that the Air Force is a great way to serve your country, and that AFROTC is a great way to get there from here.



CALL 5-2437

AIR FORCE ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

Hardee's®

2 BIG DELUXE BURGERS FOR ONLY $1.

Good at all participating Hardee's. Please present this coupon before ordering. One coupon per customer, please. Customer must pay any sales tax. This coupon not good in combination with any other offers.

coupon expires March 7, 1978

Hardee's® of Hadley
430 Russell Street
Hadley, Mass.

Hardee's Food Systems, Inc. 1978

Hester Street to be shown

Film "Hester Street" (1975), with Carol Kane, Steven Keats and Mel Howard, will be shown tonight at 8 in Thompssn 104. The film tells the story of Jewish immigrants on the lower East Side of New York at the turn of the century.

The film will be introduced by Professor Jules Chametzky, author and speaker on the Jewish-American experience. Chametzky, author of FROM THE GHETTO: THE FICTION OF ABRAHAM CAHAN, will lead an informal discussion session following the film. Abraham Cahan, wrote a large body of fiction in English, including YEKL: A STORY OF THE NEW YORK GHETTO [1896] — from which the film "Hester Street" was adapted.

The film and the discussion, both sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation are free and open to the public.

low prices — new 'n used albums
NEW WAVES & OLD FAVES
SUN MUSIC
amhest carriage shops

Bowl-a-thon for women

Getting tired of staying indoors during all these snowstorms? Ready for some physical activity but relunctant to brave the cold and snow to ski or skate?

Here's a solution for that cabin fever — join the NELCWIT Bowl-A-Thon.

Saturday, March 11 from 3 to 6:30 p.m., the New England Learning Center for Women in Transition will hold a Bowl-A-Thon at the Greenfield Bowl-O-Mat to raise money for operating expenses. Bowlers will obtain pledges of pennies, dimes or dollars per point. The higher the pledge, the more funds NELCWIT will raise to help women in transition in this area.

NELCWIT, a non-profit service organization, provides counseling, emergency shelter and other services for any women facing a major life change, such as divorce, remarriage, or having a child.

Prizes from local merchants will be awarded to the bowlers with the highest pledges and scores. Anyone interested in either bowling or pledging to help NELCWIT should call the NELCWIT office, 310 Main St., Greenfield, 772-0806.

DC menu

TODAY

Lunch: Grinders-by-the-Inch, Quiche Lorraine; Basics: Vegetarian Grinders-by-the-Inch, Quiche Lorraine; Dinner: Veal Parmigiana, Baked Fish; Basics: Eggplant Parmigiana, Baked Fish.

TOMORROW

Lunch: Hamburgers, Fried Rice; Basics: Bean Burgers, Vegetarian Fried Rice; Dinner: Chicken Cutlet, Roast Lamb; Basics: Chicken Cutlet, Latin Stew.

Talk on cancer

Interested in learning more about the prevention and detection of cancer? Plan on attending the next community discussion sponsored by the University Health Services in co-operation with the Valley Health Plan. It will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 28, Patterson Lounge, Hampshire College.

Daniel Clapp, M.D., UHS staff physician, Ronald Loescher, M.D., Amherst Medical Associates staff physician, and Alby Reiner, Ph.D., microbiology professor at UMass will discuss and answer questions about how personal life styles and the environment can affect chances of developing various kinds of cancer.

Audio-visual presentations on breast and testicle self-examination will be shown after the panel.

There is no change for the program and it is open to the community.

For more information call Paul Davis, Health Educator, at 549-2671 Tuesdays or Thursdays.

Notices

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA

Film tonight at 7:30 and 9:30 in Wright Hall, Smith College, starring the Marx brothers, $1.

COSMOLOGY LECTURE

Robert V. Wagoner from Stanford University will speak on "Formation of the Elements: the Hot Big Bang" at 8 tonight in Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College.

JAZZ TODAY

"Jazz Designs" by Chets Keegan will be today's program at 1:30 in the Student Union Commonwealth Room. The program is one in the series entitled "Encounters in Contemporary Music," presented by Special Programs in the Arts in collaboration with the Department of Music and Dance, and with the cooperation of Earthfoods restaurant.

The series will feature graduate and undergraduate artists as well as UMass faculty members. Performances will range in size from those by solo artists to large ensembles.

Most concerts will be on Wednesday afternoons and will last about an hour.

OLDER STUDENTS

Jeanne Carritt, one of the original founders of Counseling Assistance for Older Students, has returned to the CAOS counseling staff. Carritt earned her Masters degree in Humanistic Education and Counseling from UMass in 1974. Since that time she has worked at the Amherst Community Resource Center and is now in private practice in Northampton. Carritt's main interest is in counseling older women who are thinking about re-entering school or the job market. To contact Jeanne, call or come into CAOS at 207 Hasbrouck, 545-0057.

ATTENTION VETS

The Veterans Service Organization will conduct its weekly meeting today at 5 in S.U. 411. All members are encouraged to attend; new members welcome.

WILDLIFE SOCIETY

Candace Julyan of the Hitchcock Nature Center tonight at 7:30 in Holdsworth 203.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR WOMEN

There will be a session to discuss personal and career exploration; values, interests and skills assessment; decision making and career research techniques geared toward special concerns of women. The session will be today in 318 Berkshire House from 3:30-5:30.

HOW TO DEVELOP A RESUME

Session on techniques tomorrow in 318 Berkshire House from 2-3:30. All welcome.

MUSICAL RECITAL

The Department of Music and Dance will present a student recital featuring David Stevenson on French horn and Steven Olans on trombone. Assisting on the program will be Patricia Marie Leary, soprano, and David Ertel on trumpet.

The recital will be held in Bezanson Recital Hall at the Fine Arts Center tonight at 8, and is open to the public and free of charge.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Meeting tonight for Elvis Costello and upcoming shows. Attendance mandatory. New members welcome.

INSECT LECTURE

Frederick E. Wood, of the biochemistry department, will speak on "Studies on the Mechanism of Low Temperature-Induced Glycerol Accumulation in Insects" at 4 today in room 203 Graduate Research Tower A. Coffee will be served at 3:45.

GREAT DECISIONS RADIO SHOW

"The Changing Middle East: What U.S. Interests Are at Stake?" will be discussed tonight in Webster Lounge in Orchard Hill at 7:30. The session will be open to the public and broadcast live on WFCR FM at 88.5.

LOST

Vanilla mailer containing 8 rolls of undeveloped film. Left on the 9th floor Campus Center lounge, Monday night, Feb. 13. Call Karen 549-0720 if you found it.

TM LECTURE

Free introductory lecture, Machmer E35, 8 p.m. All invited.

UMASS BICYCLE CLUB

All those interested in riding with the UMass Bicycle Racing Team, meet in CC 901 7 tonight. Slides of the World & Olympic Championships also.

MOLIERE TICKETS ON SALE

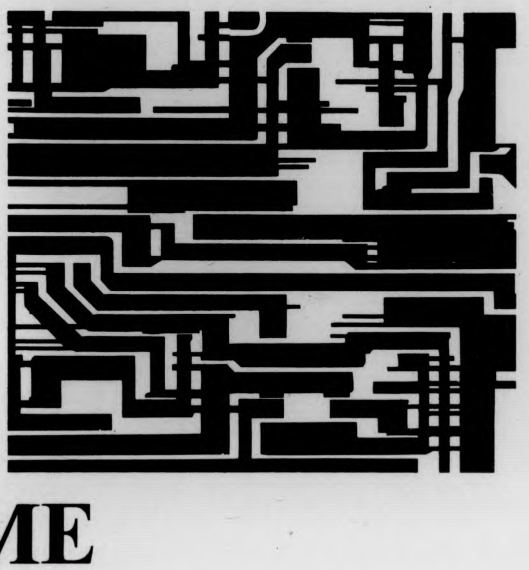
Tickets are now on sale for the University Ensemble Theater production of Moliere's "School for Wives."

Performances of "School for Wives" will be held in the [illegible] Theater of the Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m., Fe[illegible] and 25; 2 p.m., Feb. 26; and 8 p.m. March 2, 3, and 4. Ticket

TURN TO PAGE 14

Don't get Lost In the Computer Career Maze...



START AT PR1ME

If you think finding your way around the computer career maze has to be confusing, think smart.

If you think all computer companies offer the same challenges and opportunities, think twice.

And if you know there's a difference between a computer job and a computer career, think Prime.

Prime Computer is the fastest growing high-technology computer manufacturer in the world. We need bright, career-minded engineers who are ready to meet the challenges of today's technology and make original contributions for tomorrow's computers.

Prime Computer will be here soon and if you'd like to talk to us about a computer career, we'd like to talk with you. In fact, if you find our interview sheets at the Placement Office are full, sign up anyway. We'll make the time to meet with you. And you'll talk with members of our engineering department who'll tell you about a computer career at Prime.

While you're signing up, take one of our brochures. It includes our answers to some questions we think you should ask any college recruiter. And when you read the brochure you'll see what three graduates of the class of '77 have to say about why they came to Prime. Prime Computer. Think about us.

Interviewing March 1, 1978

PR1ME

PR1ME Computer, Inc. 145 Pennsylvania Ave., Framingham, Mass. 01701 (617) 879-2960

Notices

CONT. FROM PAGE 13

prices for the general public will be $3, with discounts available for students, senior citizens and theater groups.

The Rand Theater box office is open from 2 to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday and one hour before curtain time. Seats may be reserved by calling 545-3511.

LECTURE ON HEMOPHILIA

Robert K. Massie, author of "Nicholas and Alexandra" and co-author with his wife Suzanne Massie of "Journey," of a book about their son who is a hemophiliac, will speak about "Hemophilia: Family Anguish, Public Challenge" at a lecture tonight at 8 in Wright Hall, Smith College.

The lecture, which is open free to the public, is being sponsored by Service Organizations of Smith. It will be followed by a coffee hour in Wright Hall common room.

AMERICAN RED CROSS

The UMass Blood Donor Center will be open today from 2-8 p.m. at the Public Health Building. Someone needs your gift of life. Donate today.

B.D.I.C. MOSIAC

There will be a meeting this afternoon at 4 in the BDIC office for all BDIC people who are interested in mosiac. Come and share your ideas.

COALITION FOR ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

There will be elections for officers tonight at 7:30 in 903 CC. Following elections there will be an organizational for Earth Day.

COIN CLUB

Come join us for our first meeting of the semester. All collectors welcome, in CC 902 at 3:30.

BOTANY SEMINAR

The Department of Botany seminar speaker for Thursday, Feb. 23 will be Dr. William Feder. His topic will be "Plants as bioassays for air pollutants." Dr. Feder is a member of the Suburban Experiment Station in Waltham, Mass. He will be speaking at 4:30 p.m. in 203 Morrill Science Center. Coffee will be served at 4 p.m.

ALTERNATIVE ENERGY COALITION FORMING

First AEC meeting, tomorrow at 4 p.m. in CC 168-170. Some proposed projects; anti-nuclear, alternative energy teach-in, energy research groups, concerts. Come one and all who want to promote safe energy!

WESTERN EUROPEAN STUDIES LECTURE

Lecture by Peter Lange, Harvard University: "Eurocommunism in Italy." Tomorrow at 4 p.m. in CC 905-909.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

The University Health Services offer women's health workshops to any campus group or dormitory. Specific content may be determined by those requesting the workshop. Call the Health Education Division at 549-2671, Ext. 181 for more info.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES Daily 45c per line:
5 consec. pub. days 40c per line per day:
30 consec. pub. days 35c per line per day

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________ (if different from ad) Ad Cost:$ ________ (enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

LOST

Dane/setter, black & brown. Mix, white chest patch, large paws, 3 months, reward. Call 549-5918. Lost in the North Amherst area.

Reward—for return of gold serpentine chain acelet. Lost Feb. 15 on Hasb.-Thomp.-Hampshire DC-Crampton route. If found, please call Ron, 546-9049 or Mimi, 546-9917.

Ring. Silver band, red stone. 9th floor bathroom. Reward. Kelly, 253-3319, 256-8317.

Silver bracelet on 2/15, sentimental value, large reward! Marge, 5-2714, 549-5310.

Ski mittens, Feb. 15 at CC Blue & black down. Please return. Call 546-4247 or 6-4243.

Blue down parka taken from Goess. I'm freezing. Please return to CC L & F. Call 256-6621 if you have any information.

My best friend— reward for sm fem dog beag/lab mix? Blw/white belly, paws, chest, neck & tip of tail that wags constantly. Ans. to Poco, gone Jan. 6. Please call 253-2290 if you've any info.

To the guy who picked up 4 letters in coffee shop CC, call if mailed, please. 549-0816. Thanks a whole lot.

HELP WANTED

Head resident positions available. Part time positions at Mount Holyoke College for the academic year 1978-1979. Single persons or married couples. B.A. required. Call (413) 538-2550. An equal opportunity employer.

Counselors—private coed overnight camp in Berkshires—openings for instructors in: archery, basketball, tennis, soccer, gymnastics, horseback riding instructor rocketry, camper radio station, sailing, tripping/backpacking, dance, dramatics, arts & crafts, head waterfront (pool). Also needed: general counselors, nurse, head cook & bookkeeper. Good salaries—friendly atmosphere. Contact Paul Krouner, Camp Schodak, 268 Mason Terr., Brookline, MA 02146, (617) 277-7600 or Rick Heideman, on campus, 546-9598.

Mechanical Engineer or Skilled tech. (Part-time) Exp. in designing, drafting, machining. Work ½ or ⅗ time; make occaisional 2-3 day research trips.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

Student Legal Services is hiring 1 20hr/wk typist(3.50/hr.) and two research paralegals ($20/wk). Appications in 922 CC due by 5:00, 2/28. These are not work study jobs. Affirmative Action Employer.

Phi Sig is looking for housepersons to clean up after meals in exchange for homecooked meals. Call John, 545-0174.

FOR SALE

Fischer skis 180 CM boots sz.8 545-0275.

Bullworker exerciser. $25. call 367-2110.

Head ski outfit. Parka and bib pants. Women's size 9-12. Exc. cond. 253-3383.

AM/FM car stereo, in dash for most foreign cars, B.O. 546-5000 after 11 or in morning.

Kenwood 2400 stereo receiver, 20 watts. Excellent cond. Call Gary at 549-6235 between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Guild D25 folk guitar, exc. tone, VG cond. $250 or B.O. Yashica TL-Electro 35mm camera. $15 or B.O. 253-3018, after 5:00.

Canon QL17 35mm, new Rollei 121 BC flash. Both 165. Tom, 586-3208.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Calculator—TI SR-51 II, 1 year old, ex. cond. $35 or best offer. Call 546-6724.

1970 Toyota II Corona Exc. running condition, body work. Call Jane from 3-4. 253-9733. After 6 at 283-3784.

New Tibetan Tankas Call Allen, 549-6252.

Fiat 128 Wagon '73 Frt. Whl. Drv. Recent valve job. New radials snows. Needs new carb. Some body rust 58,000mi. Call 549-1291 $500.00.

1961 Volks Bus 71 engine. Body great. Must be seen. $1275. 323-4249 Evenings.

INSTRUCTION

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb. 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

Need help in Math 120, 121? Qual. tutor avail. Rates negot. Call Ken, 546-6155.

Math tutor w/dept. Alg. & calc. 665-3412.

ROOM WANTED

Roommate wanted to share a bedroom, non-smoker, Brittany Manor Apts., 253-2107.

WANTED

Refrig. 4 cubic ft. or larger. Need as soon as possible. Call Bob, 546-6751.

Scuba tanks, twin 50 plus reg. AM 367-9982.

AUDIO

Sony 3650 amp 80rms, 5 yr. warr., 256-8709, B.O.

Brand new 22" high efficiency speakers. $200 or b.o. Call Carol at 549-5935.

Fisher CR5115 3-head cassette deck. Never used. $180. MicroAcoustics FRM1A speakers, $200 or B.O. Call Neal, 546-4375.

PERSONALS

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

To Karen (Whip) I'm dying to swim between your legs. Love PJ.

To: Gorgeous—I don't need V Day to tell you how much I love you. You're one of the best things that ever happened to me. Always, Alvin.

Here's looking at you Caldwell! Love Christine.

Jill, Happy 25th from the Maple St. gang in B-town.

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

VW camper bus, poptop, 1968, $1095. 665-3412.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

FOR RENT

Avail. 01 March Furn 2 room Apt. Heat & utilities included. Fireplace, cable, N/C glass doors, kitchen shower bath. 4 mins from campus. 210/mo. Call 253-2950 eves.

Wanted—3rd person to fill 2 bedrm apt. in Brittany Manor. Call 253-2427.

Roommate wanted for 2 bdrm apt., 80 per mo. + utilities + sec. dep. Stop in 57 Northwood from 6 p.m. on or call 665-4127.

Rmate Wtd. Apt. 77/mo. inc. util. 665-4080.

Restored 18th Cent. House in Millers Falls seeks 1 F $90 w/utils. Call 659-3542.

Roommate wanted: male or female, smoker or non-smoker, large room in fun Amherst house. Near campus, near OH bus. $100 plus utilities. 549-5862.

Experience cooperative living in Buckland. Rm for rent in beautiful country house on 240 acres. Vegetarians and non-smokers please. Call 625-2779.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Are you tired of missing important lectures and exams because you overslept? Hire a wake-up service! Info, call Sharon, 256-8000.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

Monitor Music Have the best for your party, we're known. Call 6-4732 or 6-8538.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

Hate Housework? I will clean your apt. fast, through, cheap. $5-6 per visit. Call 665-2939. Hire A Maid.

Five College Typing Service Professional, fast, reasonable. Call Diane 549-2637.

Cosmic Wimpout News

Cosmic Wimpout is planning to hold the 3rd Annual World Wimpout Tournament at UMass on 4/21. We hope to make this something more than just a tornament but we need input from the community. What or whom do you want to see happening at the tournament? Jugglers, magicians, DJ's, Free beer, cash prizes, dancing bears? We have a limited budget but please tell us your fantasies. Perhaps we can make them come true at the tournament. Please contact someone in the Campus Center Concourse at either the rose table or the "UMASS Paper" table with your ideas as soon as possible or call 253-2409.

READERS DAILY LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY LITTLE ADS GET BIG RESULTS REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY

---

ENTERTAINMENT

Double Feature Showing NOW at Two Theatres...

HIT #1 at 7:15

GANGA WEED, GUNS REGGAE MUSIC jimmy cliff
THE HARDER THEY COME

PLUS at 9:00
AN OUTRAGEOUS MEAL OF MADNESS
KENTUCKY FRIED MOVIE R

The AMHERST Cinema
downtown amherst
(5:30 Matinee Sat/Sun)

and also showing

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton

TIME OUT

Monday Nite Special
½ gallon of beer
Miller
Bud $2.50
Free Popcorn
"Amherst's Biggest Little Bar"

14 Masonic St.
Northampton
584-5957

Mt. Farms 4
Mt. Farms Mall
Rt. 9, Hadley, Mass.
584-9153
STARTS TODAY—ONE WEEK ONLY!
"Only SUNN CLASSIC PICTURES passes will be accepted"
weekdays at 5-7-9, Sat. at 1-3-5-7-9, Sun. at 2:15-5-7-9

They went into the unknown and returned with startling revelations about life after death.

BEYOND AND BACK

Some will believe — others will not. DECIDE FOR YOURSELF!

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

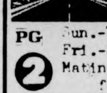
IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R
① Sun.-Thur. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (wed., thur., fri., sat., sun.) 2:15

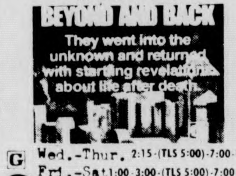
CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
② Sun.-Thur. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 4:45-7:30-9:55
Matinee (wed., thur., fri., sat., sun.) 2:00

FINAL WEEK
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G
③ Sun.-Thur. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinee (wed., thur., fri., sat., sun.) 2:00

ONE WEEK ONLY
BEYOND AND BACK
They went into the unknown and returned with startling revelations about life after death.
G
④ Wed.-Thur. 2:15-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Fri.-Sat. 1:00-3:00-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Sun. 2:15-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Mon.-Tue. (TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING





MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 — SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
(TLS) INDICATES TWI-LITE SHOW—TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

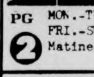
IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R
① MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:15

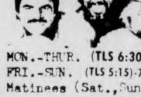
CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
② MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45-7:30-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

STARTS FRIDAY
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G
③ FRI.-SUN. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
MON.-TUE. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:00

"SEMI-TOUGH"
KRIS KRISTOFFERSON
BURT REYNOLDS
ENDS TUESDAY
R
④ MON.-THUR. (TLS 6:30)-8:30
FRI.-SUN. (TLS 5:15)-7:45-9:55
Matinees (Sat., Sun. Mon., Tue.) 2:30

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING





University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Boston Ballet
in COPPELIA
Music by Leo Delibes
Choreography by
Lev Ivanov and Enrico Cecchetti
AUREOLE
Music by Handel
Choreography by Paul Taylor
Fri. & Sat., March 3 & 4 8pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale for both performances. Gen. Pub. -$7, 6, 5. UM-A $5, 4, 3. Other students and senior citizens -$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
WED., FEB. 22
CLEAN LIVING AND BEAR MOUNTAIN
THURS., FEB. 23
BRICKER BAND
FRI. AND SAT., FEB. 24 and 25
FAT AND MECHANIX
EVERY SUNDAY
GEORGE T. GREGORY
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

THE PUB MUGS ARE IN
Tonight
10 CENT BEERS
8:30 - 9:30
Jim Plunkett
MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER BAR
THE AMHERST PUB
1968 · TEN GREAT YEARS · 1978

'Ready' hoopwomen clobber Huskies

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

It didn't look as if the UMass women's basketball team hadn't played for 19 days.

The Minutewomen primed themselves for this weekend's state tournament last night by overrunning UConn, 75-56, in the Cage on Senior Night.

The game was the first for UMass since Feb. 2, and only the second this season in the Cage.

"I thought my kids played hard," UMass coach Mary [illegible]n Ozdarski said. "I was pretty happy with their play."

Most notable among the Minutewomen was Julie Ready. Seeing her most action of the season, the 6-2 center came off the bench midway through the first half to score 19 points and haul down 10 rebounds to lead UMass in both categories.

"We've been working with her in practice," Ozdarski said. "She played herself a super ball game. We can't have a 6-2'er sitting on the bench, so we had a talk with her after the Providence game and she impressed us in practice ever since."

Sue Peters, although off her shooting touch a bit, still managed to pump in 16 points, grab six rebounds, and top the Minutewomen with six assists.

"Sue played an outstanding all-around game," Ozdarski said. "Her rebounding and passing were excellent."

Senior forward Cheryl Carey, playing her last game in the Cage, scored 14 points (12 in the first half) and handed out five assists before fouling out late in the game.

Maura Supinski had eight points and ripped down nine rebounds to aid UMass' cause.

The game itself was never really in doubt. The Minutewomen scored seven points in the first minute to jump off to a quick 7-0 lead. They extended the advantage to a 13-3 with four minutes gone before the Huskies mounted a mild comeback to pull to within 18-14 with 11 minutes left.

The UMass lead then fluctuated from between seven to four points before UConn came to within 31-30 with 2:47 left before the half on a Patty Bresser (10 points) runner in the lane. But the Minutewomen then put together an 8-1 spurt on two baskets by Carey and a hoop and two foul shots by Ready to take a 39-31 edge into the locker room.

The Huskies again narrowed the gap to four points (43-39) with 15:52 left in the game, but UMass went on a 10-2 tear (five different players scored baskets) to lead, 53-41, with 11 minutes left. Five UConn foul shots brought it back down to 53-46, but the Minutewomen then put it away with an 11-1 surge to lead, 64-47, with less than six minutes to play.

UMass is now preparing itself for the state championships, which will be held this Friday and Saturday at Boston University. The Minutewomen, who won the title last year, are slated to meet Bridgewater State at 9 p.m. Friday in the first round.

UMass (75) — Supinski 4-0-8, Carey 7-0-14, Harrington 1-0-2, Peters 7-2-16, Halleran 2-1-5, Ready 6-7-19, Peebles 2-1-5, Parker 0-2-2, Fletcher 1-0-2, McCulloch 0-2-2. TOTALS: 31-13-75.

UCONN (56) — Bresser 2-6-10, Ward 0-4-4, Wachtelshausen 0-2-2, Gedney 4-0-8, Vinson 2-0-4, Cleaver 1-0-2, Borsuk 3-2-8, Sirois 5-8-18. TOTALS: 17-22-56.

MASSACHUSETTS
13

LuAnn Fletcher (l) and Cheryl Carey (r) personify the class of the women's hoop team and the improvement it's shown in the last four years. (Staff photos by Pat Dobbs and Judie Del Frate)

Spikers lose 3

The UMass men's volleyball team took on three tough opponents at Williams Saturday and paid for it, losing three times to host Williams (11-15, 10-15, 14-16) and dropping two of three to both UNH (11-15, 17-15, 3-15) and Middlebury (10-15, 7-15, 15-8).

The Minutemen were competitive in all but the 15-3 loss to UNH and the 15-7 loss to Middlebury, while earning a 17-15 victory over UNH and a 15-8 decision over Middlebury.

UMass is now 6-12 in the New England Collegiate Volleyball League, in their first year of competition. Next match for the spikers will be Mar. 4 in the New England Open at Wentworth.

★Swimwomen

CONT. FROM PAGE 18

time of 1:08.88 in the consolation finals.

Maryanne Primavera, who was the surprise performer of the meet for UMass, placing in two events and setting three personal records, had her first triumph next with a 2:53.47 finish in the 200 yard breastroke, which was good for a 16th place.

The 200 free style relay team of Mack, Hembrough, Meegan Primavera, and Cindy Piela finished 15th with a time of 1:50.23.

As the meet wound up Sunday, many of the same UMass swimmers found themselves taking off in the finals again. Mack, Hembrough, Schwartz, and Walsh got together in the 400 yard freestyle relay and placed 5th in 3:55 — their fastest this year.

Schwartz placed 9th in the 200 IM with a great comeback in the second half of the race, and later took 5th in the 100 fly in 1:04.83.

Primavera captured 16th in the 100 breastroke in 1:19.58, Jurcik finished 6th in the 50 back in 31.02, and Walsh took 7th in the 100 fly with a time of 1:04.87 before the meet ended with a climactic 200 yard medley relay final in which UMass' combination of Jurcik, Primavera, Walsh, and Hembrough took 6th in 2:02.56.

Sports notices

INTRAMURALS — The following facilities will be closed:

NOPE Pool-Feb. 25, March 4, 5; Hicks Building-Feb. 23, 27, 28; NOPE Gym-Feb. 25.

VOLLEYBALL — Forfeit fees should be picked up at the IM office by March 1.

SOFTBALL — Entries are due at the IM office by March 1. There is a $10 forfeit fee.

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

& professional consultation in selecting the haircut best suited for your facial structure...

all at an affordable price

$8.00
-shampoo
-personalized cut
-blow dry (long hair slightly more)

Tues. & Wed. only
Limited to new customers
& with this coupon

Styles By Deborah
549-5610
65 University Dr.
(Next to Bells Pizza)

REDKEN

Iota Gamma Upsilon invites all University women to
Open Rush
Thurs., Feb. 23 8-9 p.m.
Pub Night
Sun., Feb. 26 5 p.m.
Grinder Night
406 N. Pleasant St.-545-0082
I.G.U. is for you!

Bluewall Bar
Wed.-Sat.,
Feb. 22-25
Beaver Brown

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MR. DUKE, I THINK YOU'RE QUITE MISTAKEN ABOUT THE EXTENT OF THE PILL PROBLEM. WHY, NFL OFFICIALS GIVE ANTI-DRUG LECTURES EVERY MONTH..
YEAH, AND 90% OF YOUR PLAYERS ARE LAUGHING THEIR JOCKS OFF THE WHOLE TIME!
MR. WILLIAMS, YOUR PLAYERS AREN'T PILLHEADS BECAUSE THEY WANT TO BE. HELL, NOBODY LIKES TAKING PILLS! THEY TAKE 'EM BECAUSE THEY'RE CONCERNED ABOUT WHAT THE NEXT ATHLETE MIGHT BE DOING!
OH.. OH, I SEE.
IT'S A REAL PROBLEM, SIR! AND I'LL TELL YOU, SOMETIMES IT JUST BREAKS MY HEART TO SEE IT!
BUT YOU SAY YOU'VE HAD SOME EXPERIENCE IN THIS AREA?
I'VE BEEN AROUND THE TRACK A FEW TIMES, YES.
2-22
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

TODAY IS GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY
IF HE WERE ALIVE TODAY, THEY'D PROBABLY BE HAVING A BIG PARTY FOR HIM AT MOUNT VERNON THAT, HOWEVER, NEED NOT CONCERN ANYONE IN THIS CLASSROOM
YOU WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN INVITED ANYWAY!
2-22
© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I SEE A BASEBALL TEAM RUNNING OFF THE FIELD CARRYING YOU ON THEIR SHOULDERS.
PALMIST
YOU MEAN WE WON A GAME?
NO, ... YOU GOT RAINED OUT.
PALMIST
222
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

I WILL CAPTURE GERALD COMMISIONER! MAJOR CARROT NEVER FAILS!
I HOPE NOT!
MEANWHILE GERALD AND BENB ARE SMOKING RED!
AFTER ONE MORE BONE, WE SHALL RESUME HITCHING!
COHIKO!
LAFLER 2/24
SOON...
HOP IN, BOYS!

[illegible] by Mark Rollins

DENNIS WALKS DOWN THE CORRIDOR AND REACHES FOR THE DOOR.
AS HE OPENS IT, HE FEELS A SLIGHT TINGLING ON HIS PALM.*
KEEP THIS IN MIND
THE DOOR OPENS LOUDLY, SQUEAKING ON RUSTED HINGES.
SKREEK!
OUTSIDE IT IS NIGHT, WITH THE STARS SHINING IN THE SKY.
DENNIS WALKS ONTO A SMALL PLATEAU.
BELOW HIM HE HEARS VOICES.
HE CREEPS CAUTIOUSLY FOREWARD.
THEN PEERS OVER THE ROCKS.
DENNIS SEES FOUR MAN-LIKE BEINGS SEATED AROUND A FIRE; HE TRIES TO HEAR THEIR VOICES.
MAY THE GREAT ONE GUIDE US IN OUR QUEST
IT IS NOT WISE TO MOCK THE BELIEFS OF OTHERS.
AW, KNOCK OFF THAT PAGAN CRAP, WILLYA?
RIGHT. MAYBE THE GREAT ONE WILL SEND A DELIVERER.
ROLLINS 2-22

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Mark, have you gotten used to New England winter yet?
Actually, snow's sort of fun once you learn how to bundle against the cold...
But I don't like these rapid weather changes.
Back in California, it's sunny for a few years, then it rains for a few years.
Sounds dull.
No, the drought got pretty exciting for a while there.
Ranney 2/22

BACK AGAIN by K

HEY K!
I HEAR YOUR NEW ROOM MATE IS KINDA NEAT.
KINDA NEAT?
2-22
OH MY GOD!!!
THERE'S A WRINKLE IN K'S SHEET!

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22

Born today, you are extremely tenacious. Nothing can make you give up an objective, so long as it continues to be honorable and worthwhile. However, nothing will make you give up a goal faster than realizing that you have made a mistake, that the end you sought is unworthy of your time and energy.

You are scientifically inclined. You possess a love of the land which, if you are unable to find or afford a country home, could bring considerable sadness. You are neither conceited nor self-centered; you realize your own value and ability and never sell yourself short. Rather, you enjoy letting others know of your talents and abilities.

There may be a time in your life when you will be wildly ambitious, dreaming dreams far beyond your ability to make them come true.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) — Carefully analyze your motives before deciding about a change of job or relationships.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — This is an excellent time for dealing with professionals, but be wary of frauds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You may realize more on an investment than you dreamed possible. Don't be stingy with profits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Keep your gambling nature under control, or you may lose more than you can afford.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — The situation at home leaves much to be desired early today. Make allowances for children.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) — Unless you take responsibility for your actions, others will suffer before nightfall.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) — You should take considerable satisfaction from accomplishments early today. Share the wealth at evening.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) — A complicated morning may make you doubt the possibility of ease later. Trust another's word.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) — Take no unnecessary risks, even for great gain. There is every chance to lose much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) — Practical suggestions from outside home may ease your life. Family matters come into question.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) You should be able to resolve disagreements at home or work. Be willing to compromise.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) — Increased chances for financial gain bring joy later today. Another's sorrow dampens your ardor.

Copyright 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

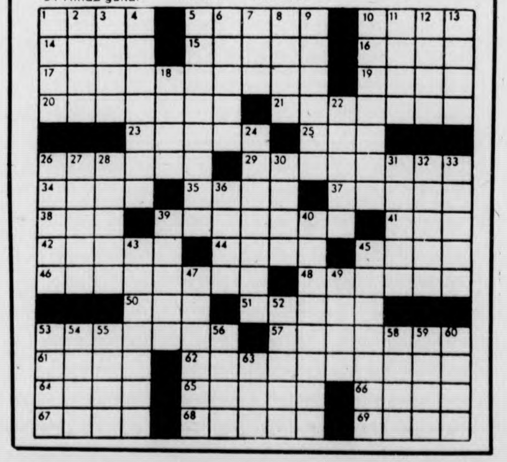
1 Peruse
5 Flower part
10 Inclined roadway
14 Novelist Victor ----
15 Flavor
16 Movie VIP ---- Kazan
17 Annoyance source
19 Noted
20 Ascertain dimensions
21 Hand coverings
23 Motionless
25 New form: Prefix
26 The north wind
29 Keeps back
34 Winglike
35 Ending for dow or man
37 Tutor
38 Small drink
39 Appetite for food
41 --- Canals: N.Amer. watercourse
42 Eject
44 Roman ----
45 Proofreader's mark
46 Christ
48 Rackets
50 Nat'l Rifle Assoc.
51 Hindu guitar
53 Lars -------: Etruscan king
57 Tries out again
61 Nichols' hero
62 Emphasize
64 Make a din
65 Make amends
66 Animal's gait
67 Congers
68 Attacked verbally
69 Expresses in words

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| A | R | C | S | ■ | P | L | U | M | B | ■ | S | I | T | S |
| P | E | A | T | ■ | L | E | V | E | R | ■ | E | C | H | O |
| I | N | V | E | T | E | R | A | T | E | ■ | V | E | A | L |
| S | T | E | W | E | D | ■ | ■ | S | A | L | E | R | N | O |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | A | R | G | U | E | ■ | T | O | R | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| S | C | O | R | N | E | R | S | ■ | H | A | N | G | E | R |
| W | A | R | T | ■ | ■ | A | C | T | E | D | ■ | E | L | I |
| E | L | A | ■ | E | C | L | A | I | R | S | ■ | N | I | P |
| E | L | L | ■ | G | A | S | P | E | ■ | ■ | S | I | Z | E |
| P | A | S | S | E | D | ■ | E | U | R | O | P | E | A | N |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | A | S | I | ■ | S | P | O | R | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| W | H | I | S | T | L | E | ■ | ■ | A | N | C | O | N | A |
| R | I | C | H | ■ | L | A | C | E | R | A | T | I | O | N |
| A | N | O | A | ■ | A | S | O | N | E | ■ | E | M | M | A |
| P | O | N | Y | ■ | C | E | D | E | D | ■ | R | E | E | K |

DOWN

1 Leveling piece
2 Perserve
3 Taj Mahal site
4 More clamorous
5 Eyes searchingly: 2 words
6 Food consumer
7 Pressure unit: Abbr.
8 Whit
9 ------ Tomb: Moscow landmark
10 Bring back into use
11 Sailing direction
12 Aspect
13 Kitchen utensils
18 Bonito's relative
22 Bicuspids
24 Earthquakes
26 Of less value
27 Popeye's girl
28 Swift
30 Notable ages
31 Bouquet holders
32 French school
33 Loafers and moccasins
36 Lost
39 One cubic meter
40 Focused
43 Incense burners
45 Commands
47 Of the hands
49 Farm crop
52 Feminine name
53 Remove by cutting
54 Instrument
55 Sudanese money
56 Kind of tapir
58 Shore bird
59 Trojan War site
60 Establishes
63 "What's up ---?"



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9 10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
29
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67
68
69

Subs spur gymwomen to victory over Chiefs

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

The women's gymnastics team added another victory to its record by defeating Springfield College 132.70 to 130.20 on Sunday. The win was another culmination of efforts by back up gymnasts as the team is still weakened by injuries and illness.

"I'm pleased that we continue to win but it would be nice to have the gymnasts competing for slots in the events instead of going with whoever is healthy", said coach Virginia Evans. "Our back up gymnasts have been coming through for us but we're not competing at full running steam," Evans said.

UMass Captain Karen Hemberger won the all around competition while leading the Minutewomen to their victory. Hemberger scored a 9.25, for first place in vaulting. She was second on the uneven parallel bars with a score of 8.25. Hemberger encountered a few problems on the balance beam, as did most of the gymwomen, and received a score of 7.65. She finished the day with a third place on the floor where she earned an 8.60 mark. Hemberger's total score was 33.70 ahead of Springfield's Michelle Lemieux and Laurie Trangheste who received totals of 33.05 and 32.80 respectively.

Cheryl Morrier continued to regain her strength and finished fourth in the all around. Morrier was third in vaulting (8.75) and tied for first on the beam with teammate Laurie Knapp with a score of 8.35. Morrier also earned marks of 7.25 on bars, which is a big improvement over last weeks performance, and an 8.40 on the floor. Morrier's four event total was 32.75.

Stephanie Jones and Karen Clemente are both on the road to recovery. Jones competed in vaulting and on the bars after sitting out the last two meets to rest hip and rib injuries. She took first place on the bars with an 8.85 despite several small breaks within her routine. Jones' vault was one of UMass' counting scores but was not her usual strong performance.

Clemente contributed scores to three events — vaulting, bars and beam. She finished third on the bars with a 7.85 and fourth on the beam with a 7.95. The floor exercise still offers a strong obstacle to Clemente as she is recovering from ankle injuries that affect her tumbling.

Sue Cantwell, Julie Myers and Diane Laurenson all missed the Springfield meet due to flu or injuries. Evans said she hopes that by this weekend they all will be working out again and possibly ready for the Canisius meet next Saturday.

The gymwomen now stand 6-1 on the season with three meets left before the EAIAW championships to be held in Pittsburgh on March 10 and 11. The New Hampshire meet on February 28 has been moved from Boyden to the Cage.

New Hampshire upset Michigan State, who dealt the Minutewomen their only loss of the season, so an exciting match is anticipated. Hopefully by then the rash of injuries and flu bugs will have passed and both teams will be competing at full strength in preparation for the trip to Pittsburgh.

The old "hidden ball trick" will be only one of many gags perpetrated by the Harlem Globetrotters on both their opponents and the fans at the Springfield Civic Center tonight at 7:30. Tickets are $5, $6 and $7, and are available at the Civic Center box office and all Ticketron locations.

Swimmers surprise NE's

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

A combination of top-placing relays and some surprise individual performances gave the UMass women's swim team a total of 241 points and seventh place out of 38 teams in the New England Women's Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championship at Boston College last weekend.

"We did a good job," said UMass coach John Nunnelly, "I can't believe it."

Last year the team finished eighth in the New Englands, without the added competition from the Ivy League schools which were there this year.

The University of Maine team swam away with the meet, dethroning Springfield College, which finished only one notch above UMass with 337 points. Yale took second, followed by Boston College, Southern Connecticut State College and UConn.

The meet got off to a good start for UMass on Friday night, the first phase of the competition, when Lynn Lutz finished 17th in thh 1650 yard freestyle, setting a new school mark with a time of 19:54.65. Following that, Deb Schwartz captured 8th in the 400 yard individual medley with a 5:00.36 finish, and the 800 yard freestyle relay of Schwartz, Rachel Mack, Lise Hembrough and Celia Walsh took fifth in a 8:36.97 to place UMass in 8th with 39 points.

On Saturday and Sunday finals and preliminaries were held in the remaining 21 events, and UMass swimmers made it to the finals or consolation finals in 14 of those events.

The 400 yard medley relay team of Schwartz, Mack, Walsh, and Kathy Jurcik made it to the finals with a season best time of 4:25.36, and went on to place sixth.

In the 50 yard butterfly, Walsh made it to the consolation finals and took 13th with a 29.5 finish, and Jurcik ended up with a 7th in the finals, finishing in 29.48.

Mack swam a season best time of 58.81 in the preliminaries of the 100 style, sending herself to the consolation finals and a 14th place finish. At this point, UMass was sixth with 101 points.

In the 200 fly, Schwartz failed to defend her first place finish of last year, but managed to come in fourth with a 2:17.65 race in the finals. Walsh also placed for UMass in this event, taking ninth with a time of 2:25.9.

Jurcik had another fine individual performance in the 100 IM, taking 15th with a

TURN TO PAGE 16

20 -60 % off!!
MUGS!! ASHTRAYS!!
OURS 89¢
OURS 50¢
Coming soon...
hot pots, hair dryers, irons, toaster ovens, and more!!
home works, inc.
30 Main St. Amherst
(between Baskin-Robbins & House of Walsh)
open 9-5 M-F 10-4 Saturday

WE ARRIVED!!
COME VISIT OUR PERMANENT CENTER:
264 No. Pleasant St., Amherst 01002
413-253-5108
There IS a difference!!! Our 39th Year
PREPARE FOR:
NEW MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT
Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 39 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers open days, evenings & weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Make-ups for missed lessons at our centers.
MCAT CLASS
BEING HELD IN AMHERST
CALL OUR NEW PERMANENT CENTER
253-5108 OR 253-2260
For information please call & come visit our Permanent Ct. at: 264 No. Pleasant St. Amherst 413-253-5108
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
In Boston Area
Call 617-261-5150
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840
Centers in Major U.S. Cities

Fast Action
Get in on the action. Capture the excitement of the holidays on KODAK Film. Whether you take color slides or movies, we offer quality Processing by Kodak to bring back those exciting moments.
WE OFFER COLOR PROCESSING BY Kodak
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst
Open Mon. - Fri. 9-5, Sat. 11-4

Pyatt may not be Erving but...

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

"Mike Pyatt wasn't much in high school," said UMass captain, and former New York City neighbor Derick Claiborne, jokingly.

At 9:57 of the second half in last week's UMass' 77-57 victory over George Washington Mike Pyatt, in typical form, leaped in the air, and sent a 10' shot jump shot towards the net.

When the ball had cleanly gone through the strings, the 5,000 fans who jammed the Cage needed no announcement to applaud. They knew that the 6'6" 205 lb. senior had surpassed former UMass player and now NBA star forward Julius Erving on the UMass all-time scoring record.

Erving scored 1,370 points in two years (1971-72) before opting for professional basketball. Pyatt's total is 1390 (not including last night's game).

"It took Julius two years to accomplish this shooting record and it took Mike four. But that's all right," said UMass coach Jack Leaman. "There may never be another player in the world like Julius Erving.

"Mike's a great player, an unlimited offensive threat, a great person, and I think, a player of NBA potential. I'm very proud to have coached a player of Mike's caliber," said Leaman.

In his freshman year, Pyatt made the starting five in UMass's fourth game of the season, after playing three games on the JV squad.

He averaged 9.3 points per game but then he blossomed in his sophomore year (15.6) to be named to the now defunct Yankee Conference All-Star team and was 2nd team All-New England. Last year, scoring at a 15.1 clip, Pyatt was named to the E.A.A. All-Tournament team last year and was the leading scorer in the tourney with 68 points in three games.

"I don't think Mike has peaked yet offensively. I do think he has a good shot to go professional but a lot will depend on him," said UMass assistant coach and the man who recruited Pyatt in high school, Ray Wilson.

"If Mike continues to play with intensity, and work hard, and do the little things that's important in basketball, like playing good defense and rebounding, I think he will go far," Wilson said.

For Pyatt, his basketball career started late in high school. Even though he had been playing regularly since 6th grade when he was 5'5" and wore a size 10 sneaker, he didn't make a regular team till his junior year, because of school redistricting.

"It all started to come together for me at Bishop Dubois High School. Maybe it was the tough disciplinary codes we had like wearing a shirt and tie every day to class, but it was then I became a disciplined ball player," said Pyatt.

Other than high school, Pyatt said that playing in the New York City Summer League made him into a "smarter offensive type player and shooter."

From that league, Pyatt made the A.A.U. junior Olympic team which toured Europe for two and a half weeks.

"Visiting Europe was really a good experience for me. We would beat the teams from England, Spain, France by 25 points and people would think we were professional," said Pyatt.

Playing mostly center, Pyatt was the New York Post All-City first team selection as was UMass teammate Alex Eldridge. Pyatt averaged 15 points and ten rebounds per game playing in the center position.

During the summer of his junior year, Pyatt was invited to the Five-Star Basketball camp in Horsedale, Pa. where he competed in a tournament with current NBA players, Moses Malone, and Kenny Carr. Also playing were the Herron brothers Larry and Keith (Villanova) Bob Misevicius (Providence) and Chris Potter (Holy Cross).

From that camp, Pyatt was sent over 100 letters by colleges and universities asking him to apply. Among the 100, Pyatt and his family narrowed it down to UMass, Syracuse, Fordham, and San Diego State.

"It was really a trip going through that recruiting thing during my senior year at high school. It seemed every night I was being asked out to dinner by a visiting coach or I would be going to visit a campus," he said.

Pyatt, all along, wanted to go to a fairly big campus on the East coast that wasn't too far from his family and his New York City home.

"Fordham was out because that was just a few feet from my house. San Diego was too far, so it came down to Syracuse and UMass in the bidding war," he said.

Pyatt visited the UMass campus during the winter of 74 and loved the way the fans turned out at the Cage, in addition to the people on campus itself.

"I came here when UMass beat Maine 108-38 and the feeling at the Cage really impressed me. Then I heard that Alex and Derick were deciding to come here, and that's when I decided I'd become a UMie," Pyatt said.

Overall, the affable Pyatt said he enjoyed his career here, having made many friends. But he said there were low moments during his four years here.

"When Coach Wilson recruited me he said that because of the presence of Alex, Derick, and myself, the offense would change from more of a slow-down pattern offense to more running and free-style," Pyatt said.

"But that wasn't the case all the time. I think it was quite an adjustment for all of us. There were down times, and I don't want to say that we raised dissension on the team, but we questioned the coach a lot."

"I think the thing that Mike, Derick, and Alex brought to the UMass program and the Cage were their personalities. They related to the crowd and the crowd related to them in a positive way," said Wilson.

"The people here at the Cage," said Pyatt, "are real knowledgeable. They know a lot about the game — when we're playing well and when we're not. Many times they have been an extra player on the court."

Pyatt hopes to be drafted, but plans to go into basketball coaching, recruiting or public relations in the New York-New Jersey area. "I'd like for basketball to remain a part of my life if possible," said Pyatt.

Gridders look for talent

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

When a college football team which went 8-3 loses 22 seniors from its roster, it's time to dig into the high school and prep school ranks for some fresh blood.

That's exactly what new UMass football coach Bob Pickett and his staff have been doing for the last two months.

Pickett and his staff of four assistants have managed to sign nine promising players for next season.

"It's always a difficult job," Pickett said of the recruiting process, "but it's a job we all enjoy very much."

Pickett added that his recruiting this year has been aided by UMass's successful 1977 season, which included a Yankee Conference championship and a trip to the national Division II playoffs.

"The main thing is to maintain some consistency year in and year out," Pickett said. "When you win, it sure helps your recruiting."

The coach, who took over the reins from Dick MacPherson in early January, said he doesn't recruit to fill positions.

"We try to find the best athletes we can," he noted. "We look for a guy with size to him, an athlete who can play a lot of positions."

Thus far, the 1978 Minutemen have been bolstered by the addition of some fine recruits, six of whom played their high school ball in Massachusetts.

Victor Pizzotti, a 6-2, 210 lb. linebacker-tight end from Stoneham, has committed himself to UMass. He was an all-scholastic selection of the Boston Globe.

Melrose's Scott Crowell (6-3, 205) is another linebacker-tight end for whom Pickett has high hopes.

Two big offensive linemen — Lawrence's Joe LaRosa (6-1, 245) and Braintree's Chris O'Neil (6-3, 235) — should add bulk to UMass's front, which will be minus Ross Schubarth, Gerry Greene, Mike McLaughlin, Jim Penta next season.

Mahar Regional's Peter Spadafora, a 5-11, 190 lb. running back, who scored over 300 points in his high school career, will also be among the class of 1982. Pickett indicated that he can also play in the defensive backfield.

Another in the running back-defensive back mold is Jim Ryan, a 6-1, 187 lb. prospect from Schenectady, N.Y.

The only defensive lineman thus far to sign a statement of intent with UMass is Dan Petrie, a 6-2, 220 lb. defensive tackle out of Walpole High School and Avon Old Farms Academy.

A recruit with an intriguing hometown is Asa Hilliard, a 6-3, 210 lb. running back who hails from San Francisco. He matriculated at Trinity Pauling Prep School in New York, where the UMass staff got wind of him.

The only junior college transfer signed thus far with UMass is Sandro Vitiello, a placekicker from Nassau County Community College, best known for its feeder system for coach Dick Garber's lacrosse team. Vitiello will enter UMass in the fall as a junior.

In addition, Milford Academy's Eric Cregan, a 6-2, 225 lb. defensive lineman, will be eligible for football this season. He entered UMass this semester.

"We're very pleased with our recruiting," Pickett said. "They're all quality athletes."

Pickett added that his staff is still involved in recruiting a number of athletes, and his list of incoming freshmen is not yet complete.

"We're still adding to that list," he said.

Two veterans, Steve Telander and John Beerworth, were also granted an extra year of eligibility. Telander sat out the entire 1976 season with a severe knee injury, while Beerworth missed most of 1977.

Defensive back Joe Harrington was also granted an extra year to play with the Minutemen, but has decided not to use it, according to Pickett.

UMass missed out on one of the most highly-sought after high school seniors. Chicopee's Jim Budness, who was named to the Parade All-American team, opted for Boston College.

"He did visit the campus," Pickett said.

Budness had also visited Notre Dame, Syracuse, and Purdue.

Unlike Division I schools, where an athlete signs a letter of intent when he decides to choose a school, UMass uses a system which has a prospect sign a statement.

Pickett said that two Yankee Conference schools, Rhode Island and UConn, use the letter of intent system.

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $5.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY 3 Miles From Northampton 3 Miles From Amherst
OPEN MON., TUES., THURS., & FRI. 9:30-5:00; WED & SAT. 9:30-1:00 p.m.
TIRES CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.
MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.
MAJOR BRANDS
TIRE SPECIALS
BRAND NEW — FIRST QUALITY
A78X13 SPECIAL $16.95 ea.
WHILE STOCK LASTS
plus 1.75 fed. ex. tax
FIRESTONE Deluxe Champion Polyester
RADIALS
MICHELIN, GENERAL, B.F. GOODRICH, DUNLOP, CONTINENTAL, LEE, FIRESTONE, ARMSTRONG, AND MANY MORE. ALL AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY Cash and Carry or Bank Americard (VISA) Master Charge
Open Mon., Tues., Thurs., & Fri. 9:30-5:00; Wed. & Sat. 9:30-1:00 p.m.
586-2544

Miller, cold hands sink UMass

Lions spring overtime upset

by RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

STATE COLLEGE, Penn. — The Penn State basketball team presented coach John Bach a going away present last night as it upset the University of Massachusetts, 76-69 in overtime.

Bach, coaching his last game here at Recreation Hall after a ten year career, watched his team lose a 12 point lead down the stretch but outscored UMass 10-3 in overtime for the victory.

Bach will now send his team to the playoffs in Pittsburgh with an 8-18 record (4-6 in EAA) as the Nittany Lions ended their regular season.

For UMass it was an especially tough loss. The Minutemen, playing without Alex Eldridge (knee injury) and Chuck Stevesky for the second half (sprained ankle), fought back from a twelve point deficit with 9:16 remaining and brought the game into overtime on two Mary Haymore free throws with six seconds left.

But UMass had its problems at the foul line in overtime (three missed free throws) and finally succumbed before an enthusiastic crowd of 2223. And so the slumping Minutemen, now 14-9, 4-5 in EAA, ended a two day sojourn to Pennsylvania on the downbeat.

UMass coach Jack Leaman was hoping for a split here in Dutch country after his team dropped a sloppy affair on Monday night in Pittsburgh to Duquesne, 83-70.

Without Eldridge running the attack, UMass had trouble finding any offensive spark in the first half.

After eight lead changes early in the game UMass pulled out to a brief 20-16 lead. But once Mark Haymore picked up his third foul and had to sit down, the Minutemen simply forgot how to operate their offense.

The Nittany Lions took advantage of a UMass dry spell — seven and one half minutes without scoring — and ran off an 11 point spurt to take a 28-20 lead. Mike Pyatt ended the drought with a jump shot and after two free throws from Haymore, Derick Claiborne (14 points) ended the half by hitting a jumper at the buzzer and UMass found itself trailing by six at the break, 32-26.

Once again, the offense staggered in the second half and Penn State was able to open a twelve point advantage mainly due to the strong outside shooting of guard Jeff Miller, who also ended his career at State. Miller ended the game as its leading scorer as he hit for 23 points on 11-for-20 shooting.

But UMass mounted its first steady offensive drive on this trip and steadily closed the gap. The Minutemen received six points from Haymore (20 points), four from Mike Pyatt (also 20 points) and single buckets by Tom Witkos and Eric Williams in a five minute span, while Penn State went scoreless, and UMass found itself back in the game at 58-58 with just under four minutes left.

The teams then traded hoops and ended regulation play tied at 66.

"I was very, very pleased with the effort tonight," said Leaman afterwards. "But our technique was poor and we missed a lot of free throws when it counted (UMass hit just 11-of-18 from the charity stripe), and once again we didn't shoot the ball that well."

In fact, the Minutemen shot just 44 per cent for the game and for the second straight night appeared hesitant to shoot the ball freely.

Thus the Minutemen came up empty on this road swing and now must beat Pittsburgh at the Cage next Monday night to finish at .500 in EAA play.

"This was a very important game for us," said Leaman." We were hoping for a six and four record but now the best we can do is five and five."

Minutemen Notes ... Eldridge hurt his knee against Duquesne Monday and was unable to dress for the game. The extent of his injury is not known ... Penn State hit 55.4 per cent from the floor and 74 per cent from the line ... Miller and team manager Walt Schwarz were the only seniors honored here ... Miller needs just 15 points to become only the eighth player in Penn State history to score 1,000 points.

UMASS — Pyatt 8 4-6 20; Williams 1 2-2 4; Kohlhaas 1 0-2 2; Claiborne 7 0-0 14; Morrison 0 1-2 1; Haymore 8 4-4 20; Steveskey 1 0-0 2; Johnson 1 0-2 2; Witkos 2 0-0 4. Totals 29 11-18 69. FG per cent 44.6.

PENN STATE — Korkowski 3 6-8 12; Kuhn 9 1-1 19; Jefferson 4 0-1 8; Miller 11 1-1 23; Wilkinson 1 4-6 6; Ice 20-04; Brickowski 1 2-2 4. Totals 31 14-19 76. FG per cent 55.4.

Halftime: Penn State 32, Mass. 26.
Regulation: Penn State 66, UMass 66.
Total fouls — Mass. 19, Penn State 15.

Alex Eldridge

6'2" senior guard

New York City product hits 1,000 career point mark

-owns season and career assist titles,too

mark ulriksen graphic

Senior, 6'6" forward Mike Pyatt became the UMass all-time leading scorer last Saturday with 1,376 points, surpassing former UMass star Julius Erving, now an NBA standout.

Steve Lafler graphic

Steve Buckley

Senior night at the Cage

It was senior night at the Cage last night, and along with all the hoopla there was, of course, the game; which UMass won 74-55.

UMass was playing well and despite a daring comeback bid by the Huskies of UConn, the Minutewomen came on strong in the second half and their record was increased to 12-5.

The Minutewomen. An exciting team to watch. But last night the attention of the fans seemed not to focus on the team as a whole, but rather on the four seniors who were making their final Cage appearance.

Namely, Lu-Ann Fletcher, Cheryl Carey, Ginny Peebles, and Deb McCulloch.

As I stated, there was a game. Sue Peters, Mary Halleran, and the other non-seniors were there and UMass played their usual fine style of hoop; but it was for the four seniors that this contest was dedicated.

Lu-Ann, Cheryl, Ginny, and Deb.

There's something about these affairs that strikes a chord in me. Every time I find myself at such gatherings, my mind wanders to Yankee Stadium as Lou Gehrig takes a final bow. I can see myself "high above courtside" on Bob Cousy Night.

The public address announcer at the Cage read off the UConn lineup and then she read off the names of the four honorees. No speeches, no trophies. The game begins ...

The fans let Lu-Ann, Cheryl, Ginny, and Deb know that it was their night: A basket by an underclass Minutewoman brought applause, but a basket by any of these four brought bedlam.

"I'm going to miss them all," said coach Mary Ann Ozdarski. "They're all totally dedicated ladies."

The entire team seemed to share Ozdarski's opinion. When the game was over, the main concern of the team was to get the nets. They lit upon the unsuspecting rim with reckless abandon, and each senior left the court garbed in the latest fashion in hoopnet; courtesy of their adoring teammates.

Of the four seniors on the team, only two, Peebles and Fletcher, are four-year veterans. Carey is a transfer student from Greenfield Community College and McCulloch is only in her first year of UMass competition, being a transfer student from Wade County, Florida.

McCulloch could not reminisce over the glory of games past in the Cage for last night's contest was only her second appearance in the old building, but there seemed to be some feeling there nonetheless. Regardless of how many years of service you devote to your team, how can one not get emotional on senior night?

And emotion there was. Lu-Ann Fletcher looked as though she had something in her eye. She did: tears ...

Cheryl Carey was asked by this reporter for a few comments to the press. She was unable to find the words to fit the occasion ...

And Ginny Peebles, who would terribly out of place without that ever-present smile of hers, was doing just that: showing off that wide grin and embracing her fellow teammates ...

"These are the kind of people that are needed to teach the younger kids how to play the game," said Ozdarski. "They understand, and seventh and eighth grade basketball programs need their talents."

There will not be any glittering careers in pro-leagues for these people and their continued involvement in the game they love depends on seeking coaching positions.

It almost seeks a shame.

But last night was senior night and although it may be rather sad in some respects it stands for success.

The success of Lu-Ann, Cheryl, Ginny, and Deb.

Time will go on and next year four eager, inexperienced athletes will be wearing their uniforms. The four seniors will be gone, along with a flock of seniors from other sports.

And just as we screamed our heads off for Ginny Peebles last night when she made that fantastic hook shot that provided ol' number 34 with her last career points under the roof of Curry Hicks Cage we will (you, at least: I'll be gone, too) next year scream for somebody else ...

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 89 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

The UM sky is not falling and neither is the library?

By LEO PELOQUIN
Collegian Staff

Pieces of brick found scattered outside the fenced-in area surrounding library are probably not falling from the building according to Edmund Ryan, chief project engineer at the UMass Physical Plant.

Ryan said the pieces probably came from work done on the base of the library by Daniel O'Connell & Sons, Inc., a contracter from Holyoke. The contracter had to chip brick on the north side (facing the Graduate Research Center) to gain access to some piping, said Ryan.

Ryan said, "We have no information that pieces of brick are falling from the library."

Robert Mahar, the president of Daniel O'Connell & Sons and the supervisor of the project said it was possible that the chipping work on the north side had been done but he was not aware of it.

A university administrator who found a piece of brick on the north side of the library right next to the fence, described it as being "...large enough to ruin your day if it hit you in the head." The administrator suggested the Physical Plant sweep the area clean and then check every few days to determine if the brick chips were falling from the library.

Ryan said a telescope survey indicated work done in the fall and winter of 1976 had stopped the pieces of brick from falling off the building.

"After the work was done in the spring, we looked at the library through a telescope and there was no indication of further damage," said Ryan.

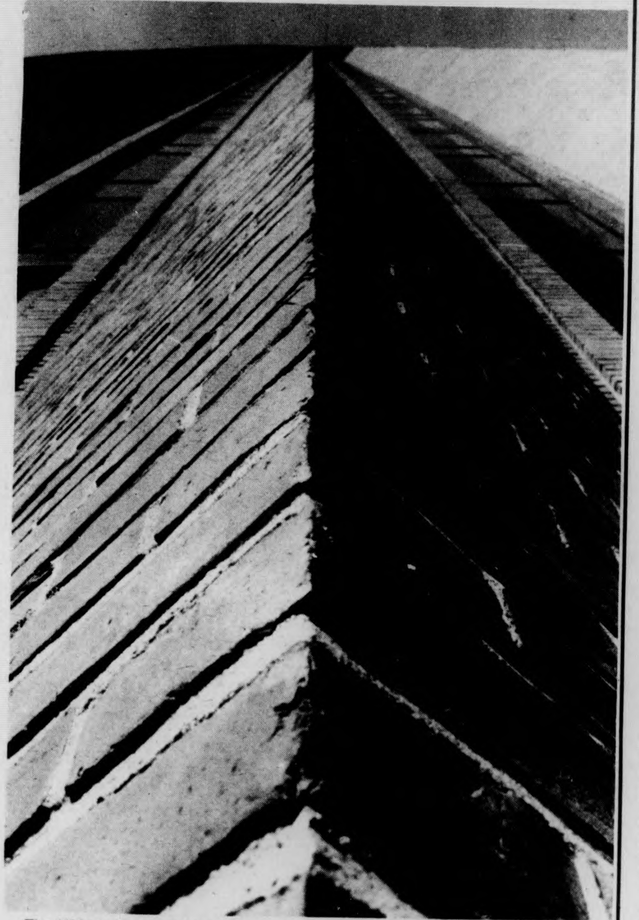
George Wright, deputy associate director of public services at the library said he would be surprised if any pieces were falling on the north side because it was the one side where there had never been problems before.

Wright said although nobody was ever injured when brick pieces were falling two years ago, there had been two cases reported where pieces had hit the ground within ten feet of people walking past the library.

He said pieces found recently could have fallen and bounced outside the fenced-in area.

The fence surrounding the library was erected to prevent people from walking too close to the library where they would possibly be hit by the pieces of falling brick.

Ryan said the distance that the fence was placed from the base of the library was decided by administrators and the contractor.



The UMass library, where bricks may or may not be falling out again, depending on who you talk to. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Students to pay $3 for concert

By JON KLEIN
AND CINDY REGET
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night approved a $50,080 Black American Music Festival as the Spring concert with an admission price of $3 for UMass undergraduates.

A compromise motion was passed by a vote of 30-13 after long and heated debate. This will be the first spring concert in at least four years that will not be free admission.

The compromise calls for a reduced budget, since the original budget called for a $6 admission fee. Details on who will appear were not definite at press time.

The Student Senate did approve the dormitory lease, reject the administration's proposed funding of the campus bus system, endorse the creation of a Judaic Studies Department, and schedule elections for vacant positions of the senate.

The senate approved the dormitory lease which would be signed by the student and the University administration, and would guarantee the student certain rights such as adequate heating and immediate repair of damaged property.

Bob Dion, chairman for the senate Rents and Fees Committee, said although there is a great deal to be resolved with the contract, the students' needs will be met.

The senate rejected the proposal of the University administration to place a $5 fee on the student semester bill to fund the campus bus system and instead passed a motion to either institute a transportation fee for the faculty and staff or raise the cost of faculty parking stickers.

Senate leaders and University administrators are meeting today to discuss further the funding proposals.

Many senators said it is unfair for students to fund the transportation services entirely when the faculty and staff now use the facilities free of charge.

The senate unanimously passed a motion endorsing the creation of Judaic Studies as a regular academic department. The endorsement comes after students expressed a need and an interest in Judaic studies to become a department. The endorsement is an act of faith on the part of the senate because the final decision is up to the University administration, one senator said. Now the proposal will be brought before the Faculty Senate for further debate.

It was also decided at the senate meeting that elections for senate positions now vacant be held March 15 and 16 in dining commons. Residents of Sylvan Area will vote in the lobby of MacNamara Dormitory and students in Orchard Hill will vote in the lobby of Dickinson Dormitory.

Physical plant road improvement scheduled; more extensive than work order request

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

Physical Plant road improvements scheduled to go out to bid by May 1 are more permanent and extensive safety measures than the work order request by Security Director Saul L. Chafin, a physical plant official yesterday said.

University landscape architect William A. Lambert said although Chafin's requests are partially included in the safety projects, Physical Plant is "going beyond it to get into heavier safety measures. "It's more than he (Chafin) ever dreamed could happen," he said.

The projects designed by Lambert call for campus-wide road improvements, rather than concentration on the Sunset Avenue area as suggested by Chafin. He said Physical Plant has had the projects in mind for some time although the money for road improvements was only transferred to Amherst from the Boston campus last month.

Chafin's request, sent to Physical Plant Feb. 8 and termed "obsolete by design" by Lambert, called for flashing caution lights, warning signs painted on streets to alert drivers to crosswalks, the relocation of bus stops away from crosswalks, installation of traffic lights on Massachusetts Avenue, and a proposal that the town of Amherst install lights on North Pleasant Street.

The actual project going up for bid was designed by Lambert to be a permanent safety precaution and includes some of Chafin's requests in addition to new measures. It includes:

— Closing the portion of road where Sunset and Massachusetts Avenues cross.

— Installation of a fence in the median strip from Commonwealth Avenue to Lincoln Avenue. There will be no crosswalks between the two locations.

— Moving the bus stop at Sunset Avenue to a location west of the underpass at the driveway entrance to James Dormitory in Southwest.

— Moving the bus stop from Hampshire House to a location near the ROTC building. Both bus stops will then be on the west side of the underpass rather than the east side.

— Installation of a sidewalk on Massachusetts Avenue to the Southwest concourse.

— The removal of a fence currently connecting the ROTC building to the underpass. An opening will be made and a sidewalk installed.

— Installation of two traffic lights: one at the intersection of Massachusetts and Commonwealth Avenues and the other at the intersection of University Drive and Commonwealth Avenue.

Road improvements for the rest of campus have also been designed by Lambert and are included in the projects up for bid. They are: widening of Commonwealth Avenue for Massachusetts Avenue to Governor's Drive and the installation of sidewalks there; straightening of Governor's Drive to lot 31; raising of the sidewalks on Eastman Lane; improvements to Infirmary Road; installation of sidewalks on Hicks Road and improvements to lots 65 and 40.

Once the projects go to bid May 1, Lambert expects some construction to be done this summer. "For example, I anticipate completion of improvement to Massachusetts Avenue by the time students return to school in Sept.," he said. Traffic lights proposed to be installed may not be in operation at that time due to a six month waiting period, he added.

All new construction proposed must conform to section 504, a federal law passed June 2, 1977 which requires all programs of the university to be made accessible to the handicapped.

Study shows less girls in math and sciences

Most women will never be seen doing this — working math problems — according to recent data. Here Steven Graham, left, and John Tomaz work some mathematics in the library. (Staff photo by Susan Lavoie) [PNS] — Somewhere comparatively early in their educations, most girls decide to abandon studies in mathematics and science.

The objectives of math and the sciences — comprehension and control of the physical world — appear to conflict with definitions of feminity they've been taught; parents, counselors and teachers often confirm these fears. As a result many young women severely limit their career options even before reaching college.

Admissions data from the University of California at Berkeley, for example, reveal that an annual average of 57 per cent of entering male students — but only eight per cent of female students — have taken four years of high school math. Since the high school math sequence is necessary for 15 of the 20 degree programs offered on campus, 92 per cent of entering girl students have effectively narrowed their options to the traditional female fields of education, humanities and social sciences.

Not surprisingly, one-third of all women who graduate from college still earn degrees in education, although there has been little need for teachers in recent years. Conversely, only two per cent of the graduates in engineering are women, although jobs in this field abound.

Now groups of women scientists and educators around the country are organizing to reverse this trend. Through supplementary courses, career conferences and workshops for teachers, these groups are encouraging girls to continue taking math and science courses in high school and to explore career opportunities in math-related fields.

At the instigation of such groups, for instance, many institutions are providing remedial courses for entering college freshmen and programs aimed at keeping young girls turned on to math:

— At Mills College in Oakland, a precalculus course that prepares students for college mathematics regardless of their background has been so successful that math and computer science are now the second and third most popular majors at the women's school.

— At Wesleyan University in Massachusetts, special programs help women students overcome "math anxiety" — the fear that they are incapable of doing math — despite evidence of intelligence and aptitude.

— And at the Lawrence Hall of Science in Berkeley, Ca., an after-school course called "Math for Girls" introduces important concepts to children six to 14 through games and hands-on experiments conducted by women math majors from the University of California. So far 600 girls have taken the course.

At some colleges, women mathematicians have organized to support women in their field. At Barnard-Columbia, such a group encouraged women students to take a qualifying test for honors calculus — a course that was traditionally all male. As a result, the next honors calculus class was half men and half women.

At Johns Hopkins University, researchers found that many high school girls turned down invitations to participate in math courses for gifted children at the university because they and some of their parents thought it would stigmatize them socially. Women mathematicians personally intervened to convince the girls of the value of the courses and to set up a program where they could meet and reinforce each other's interest in math.

Early this month, over 2,000 junior and senior high school girls and hundreds of women in the science professions met in the San Francisco Bay Area to discuss the opportunities and obstacles facing women in the sciences.

Sponsored by the Bay Area Women in Science Network, the Fifth Science Career Conference gave students a chance to join professionals in experimenting in biology, physics, geology, computers and marine science; or work problems in topology, probability, logic and statistics. Meanwhile, parents and teachers followed a separate schedule of conferences on choosing a college and minimizing the effects of sex discrimination.

"The aim is not to turn every girl into a scientist but to persuade them to keep their options open," said Joyce Hakansson, a program coordinator at the Lawrence Hall of Science, one of the conference sponsors. "So many girls drop math in ninth or tenth grade with no idea how they are limiting the choices they will have later ... "

Discussion at the conferences illustrated how deeply girls suffer conflict over the nagging stereotyping of the "woman scientist." "Ugly," "old" and "lonely" were some of the adjectives evoked by the term in one session.

"Why can't we say instead that a woman scientist is 'honest,' 'hard-working' and 'logical?' " asked nuclear engineer Judy Lim.

"They don't want you logical," a 16-year-old honors math student lamented. And a high school senior said the factory where she worked summers had closed off higher-paying jobs to women because they "distracted men." "What if I do all this work and go to school for years and years to get my PhD and then they decide women can't have jobs?" she asked.

"That won't happen to you," countered Luisa Hansen, a senior physicist at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratories. "One of the fantastic things about having a career is the confidence you get from being good at something. Nobody can take it away from you and you will always be in demand because of your competence."

Most of the women at the conference, however, admitted they had suffered some discrimination in their careers.

"We aren't trying to tell you it doesn't exist," said Lenore Blum, head of the Mathematics Department at Mills College, in Oakland. "We're saying it's out there but you can beat it."

Though mathematical abilities of boys and girls are about equal, tests of visual-spatial ability necessary for some kinds of problem-solving show a slight male superiority. Most researchers believe the difference to be culturally, rather than genetically based.

Students study alcohol in hopes of starting bar

By ROB YARVITZ
Collegian Staff

Four student government leaders from Shippensburg State College in Pennsylvania who recently spent four days at UMass studying alcohol on campus, traffic and safety, residential life, and student government, said the knowledge they've gained will help them decide on some necessary changes in policy at their school.

Their concern with alcohol stems from a bill pending in the Pennsylvania legislature which will lower the drinking age from 21 to 18. Patty Fahey, 20, a Junior Senator said that while here, the students did some accounting work for the student body of Shippensburg, which wants to be ready when and if the lowered drinking age becomes reality.

The school has hopes of opening a student-run bar on campus.

UMass Police Sergeant Mary Dumas acted as a semi-tour guide for the group while they were here. She led them to places where they could observe procedures dealing with alcohol and traffic and safety on campus.

Two other students, Michelle Scarpone, 21, and Brian Pile, 21, both senior senators, could not be reached.

Patty Fahey and another Shippensburg student, who was not able to make it to UMass, met Sgt. Dumas at a Traffic and Safety Conference in Lebanon, Pa. last October where Dumas was a key speaker. It was then that the two students first talked with Sgt. Dumas about the possibility of visiting UMass. Sgt. Dumas deserves much of the credit for ironing out the details of finding a place to stay for the visitors, and for devising a useful program of activities for them to follow.

Intersstingly, the group's first official stop was the Cage Thursday night for a briefing of police and security operations before the basketball game. Sgt. Dumas felt that meeting was an alcohol-related function since students are fleeced of their alcohol before granted admission.

Later during their stay, they met with the managers of the TOC, the Blue Wall and the Hatch. Fahey said the meetings turned out to be very helpful and informative for the students received warnings and bits of caution on what to look out for, and how to successfully run a bar themselves. Gaughan feels when the time comes they'll be ready and able to run a bar.

The students then got a glimpse of the alcohol situation through the eyes of the police. Sgt. Dumas escorted them around Amherst and the campus in an unmarked car Saturday night between 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. According to Fahey, they saw a couple of cases of intoxication booked at the Amherst Police Department, but aside from that, they saw nothing to discourage them from wanting a bar on their campus.

The group's next area of concern was traffic and safety. Shippensburg campus security personnel do not carry arms; tied in with the possibility of alcohol on campus, the students feel legislation allowing arms is necessary. They got the arguments pro and con on the matter from UMass police, Fahey said, and they feel they have sufficient knowledge now to present the rest of their student government.

The students got a taste of UMass residential life when they visited two dormitories in Southwest and one in Northeast. They were curious about co-ed living here, for at Shippensburg, H-shaped dorms separate male and female co-eds by sides. They were also interested in the frequency of drinking-related incidents at dorm parties.

...newslines...

Police survey conducted

A campus-wide survey examining crime and the role of the UMass Police Dept. is being conducted in a mail survey this week.

Twenty-six hundred survey forms have been sent to faculty, staff, and students. The questionnaire is designed to determine problems the police can help alleviate, and to solicit opinions and recommendations on ways the police force could be more effective.

The survey is designed by the police department and is being conducted by the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Amy Kaplan

| | |
|---|---|
| Copy Editor | Fran Basche |
| Sports Layout | Stephanie Richardson |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Marilyn Mankowsky |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Science grants awarded totaling $233,370 to UM

The National Science Foundation has awarded grants totaling $233,370 to UMass. The grants are:

— $68,570 for a project entitled "Population Growth and Agricultural Change in the Connecticut Valley."

— $54,000 for a project dealing with "classical" conditioning.

— $35,000 to support a project entitled "Sigma-Bonded Organic Derivatives of the Transition Metals."

— $32,300 for an organic synthesis project.

— $27,000 will support a project entitled "Thermal Stability Analysis of High Power."

— $25,500 for a project dealing with polymerization reactions.

Belchertown residents must register to vote

Residents of Belchertown, including UMass students and employees, who wish to participate in the April 3 annual Town Meeting and vote in the April 10 town elections must register before Tuesday, March 14.

According to Town Clerk Carl J. Peterson, Jr., elections will be held to fill 12 positions, including Selectmen, School Committee and Tree Warden.

The Town Meeting will vote on the Town Warrant, which includes such matters as the police and school budgets, Peterson said.

Peterson said registrations are taken daily at the Town Clerk's office in Lawrence Memorial Hall from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. In addition, the Belchertown Board of Registrars has set dates for special sessions:

Tomorrow 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Lawrence Memorial Hall

Friday, Mar. 3, 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Franklin School

Saturday, Mar. 11, 12 noon-8 p.m. at Lawrence Memorial Hall

Tuesday, Mar. 14, 9 a.m.-10 p.m. at Lawrence Memorial Hall.

206-534 Maureen

Bus Co. asks for money

The Western Mass. Bus Co., which serves UMass, has requested an immediate subsidy agreement with the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority for routes it operates in Northampton, Easthampton, Springfield, West Springfield, and Agawam.

The proposed agreement would run from March 1 to June 30 at a cost of approximately $15,000, according to authority spokesman Terry E. Tornek.

---

Carter asks Congress to expand CETA bill

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter yesterday asked Congress to expand the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act by spending $11.4 billion to aid 4 million persons — while adding provisions to hold down unemployment among minorities.

In a message to Congress, Carter asked that the program be extended until 1982, stressing that CETA played an important role in reducing unemployment from 7.8 per cent to 6.3 per cent since he took office.

His proposed changes would include an automatic trigger that would create new public service jobs whenever the jobless rate tops 4.75 per cent. The new programs would be aimed at employing minorities, particularly blacks and youth.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said the number of jobs that could result "comes close to rivaling the New Deal."

Under the formula, for each half of a percentage point that unemployment goes above 4.75 per cent, 100,000 public service jobs would be added.

"The level of unemployment is still unacceptable," Vice President Walter Mondale said in outlining the program for reporters. "Too many Americans — particularly young people, minorities and women — continue to suffer disproportionately high rates of joblessness.

"The president's proposals are designed to target help to the disadvantaged and those who are most in need."

The jobless rate for non-white teen-agers is more than 38 per cent, while the figure for white youth is just above 14 per cent.

The proposal maintains the current number of CETA public service jobs at 725,000 in 1979 with training assistance for another 3.25 million persons. The total cost would be $11.4 billion, $1.8 billion more than in fiscal 1978.

The following year, the trigger mechanisms would gear the number of public service positions to the jobless rate. The White House said the cost of the program could reach $18.2 billion by fiscal year 1982.

The proposal also includes:

—A requirement that participants be economically disadvantaged, a stipulation not currently required. Generally, it would mean earning below $7,000 annually.

—Safeguards to block the substitution of federally funded workers under CETA for those who otherwise would have been hired with local government funds.

One member of the five bus crew of UMass students glazes the mountainside at Berkshire East, at the Tuesday night ski trip sponsored by the Greeks. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)

Woman unwillingly sterile during recent operation

BOSTON [AP] — Dawn Gore, an American Indian woman from Holyoke, told federal officials yesterday she woke up after her appendectomy to find she had been unwillingly sterilized at the age of 21. She said besides not being able to bear children, she lost her husband and her peace of mind.

Ms. Gore recalled her surgeon explaining through an anaesthetic haze that three children were enough for a native American.

Talking through tears, Ms. Gore called for more stringent guidelines on federally funded sterilizations at a Boston hearing before the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"It ended my marriage," she said. "He didn't have a son and I couldn't give him one. I didn't feel whole.

"I was wishing my children wouldn't grow up," she added. "There was no way I could have another baby."

Ms. Gore, now 31 and a YWCA counselor for pregnant adolescents, has never remarried.

Although her operation was not federally financed, she joined many Boston area women's rights groups in applauding proposed regulations to protect minority and mentally incompetent women from what they charge is an increase in coerced steilizations.

Opposing the guidelines was Dr. William A. Lynch of Milton, Mass., a prominent obstetrician and gynecologist.

The proposed regulations would prohibit sterilization by hysterectomy, set a minimum age of 21 and require written consent procedures for the operation.

Under those procedures patients must fully understand the consequences of, and alternatives to, sterilization and must wait 30 days for the operation.

The rules would allow sterilization of mental incompetents able to understand the procedure, but prohibit it for all others.

"Sterilization has been used forcibly to end the reproductive life of thousands of poor, black and Third World women," charged Diane Givens of the Abortion Action Coalition in Cambridge.

Citing a 1970 study, she claimed 20 per cent of all married black women have been sterilized, three times the white rate. And sterilization among Hispanic women is six times greater than among white women, she said.

Sterilizations on the rise

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Staff

Neo-Malthusianism is the term used to described theory that advocates the sterilization of "unfit peoples" because of their "unfit genes." Recently, there has been a 300 percent rise in the number of sterilizations occuring in the United States and the Third World.

The U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare has published many reports on government studies on the gernerating and population of Third World people all over the world. HEW and some private companies have funded much of the sterilization abroad (with the exception of India).

News Analysis

HEW supplies most of the funds for sterilizations in the United States and has been doing so since 1966. HEW also funds child care facilities, Head Start and community health programs. But, between 1969-1974 funds for these services were cut while the family planning budget increased from $51 million to over $250 million.

HEW funds 80 percent of the budget of Puerto Rico's major sterilizing agency, the Family Planning Association, which is partly responsible for the fact that presently, 38 percent of the women in Puerto Rico are permanently sterilized. That is one out of every three women betwenn 20-49 years of age.

Published reports show: Women are not being properly informed about sterilization. Women are lied to about the operation. They are told that sterilization is temporary, they are told they will not live without the operation, they are told they will not be able to obtain abortion, they are told they will no longer receive Medicaid, welfare, or other security benefits, they are often drugged when approached about the operation.

This goes on because doctors are educated about Neo-Malthusianism and are encouraged to participate in the destructive forces of the elite class. A doctor can receive from $400 to $800 from the U.S. government for every sterilization he performs.

Documents published by HEW say that over one million operations occur each year on Third World women in the U.S., and other sources indicate that the majority of the operations are abuse operations. Before 1945, only about 2,200 sterilization operations were performed annually. There were restricted mainly to women in mental institutions, or in prisons.

Remember, the majority of these sterilizations are illegal and non-voluntary, because of the methods used to obtain them. Twenty percent of all married black women are sterile. With less than one million remaining Native Americans, 25 percent of the women have been sterilized. Sterilization abuse should be clearly outlawed in the United States. The moral ignorance of this should be destroyed.

Senator resigns frustrated

Commuter Senator Adam Auster as he delivered his resignation last night. (Staff photo by John LeJeune)

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Commuter Senator Adam Auster resigned from the unionization movement at last nights senate meeting saying that "work for the student body... is actually work to maintain and support" a select group of student politicians "at the expense of the Student Senate and of students in general."

Auster has held a number of positions in the Student Government Association and in the Unionization movement since his freshman year in 1974. These positions have included Senate parliamentarian and secretary, and a member of the Governmental Affairs and Budgets Committees.

Auster resigned from the Student Organizing Project Board and the Advocacy Services Subcommittee last night. He will remain as registrar of Recognized Student Organizations and Commuter Senator.

Auster said his reasons for resigning were "political, ethical, and personal."

Auster said the political reasons were based on differences in organizing techniques. Auster claimed he favored "grassroots" methods while "the theory that is popular with most SGA-SOP activists might be described as 'bureaucratic organizing'.".

Auster's said his ethical reasons were based on his belief there is a "group which only holds its privilledged position by its ability to pretend that it respects you, serves you (and it) .... actually feels disdain and scorn for you and for the average student."

Auster added that this group is a "small group of people in student government who wield power and who hold you and most of the other students on their campus in deep, cynical contempt."

Escaped convict caught

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio [UPI] — FBI agents and police overpowered escaped convict Byron R. Ball last Wednesday, freeing unharmed the man he held hostage for more than 24 hours and ending a siege that began Tuesday afternoon in Indiana.

FBI Special Agent in Charge Thomas W. Kitchens said Ball was taken to the Montgomery County sheriff's office in Dayton while the hostage, Robert Herrman, of Eldorado, Ohio, was taken to Mercy Medical Center in Springfield.

Kitchens refused to give details on how Ball was overpowered, saying only that no one was injured and no shots were fired.

Police said they did not want to release details on how the escape was made as they may need to employ the same tactics again and did not want them publicized.

Officials at the hospital said Herrman walked out of the ambulance and did not appear to be harmed. He was being treated for exhaustion.

Ball had taken Herrman and his two children hostage Tuesday, then released the children in Eaton, Ohio, Wednesday in exchange for a new car. He then fled east to Springfield where he continued his stalemate with police.

Kitchens said Ball, 40, of Springfield, had escaped from the maximum security Southern Ohio Correctional Institute in Lucasville last summer.

"He is wanted on several bank robbery warrants in the northern Ohio district and New Jersey," said Kitchens late Wednesday.

Ball was stopped by city police in the south central Ohio city, 55 miles east of Eaton, when his car tripped a radar device. The area was immediately sealed off by law enforcement agencies.

Ball had allowed two FBI men to sit in the car for several hours Wednesday afternoon but they failed to talk him into giving up.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday, a police SWAT team and several fire trucks were moved near the car and outdoor klieg lights were turned on, brightly illuminating the site.

Several persons, believed to be relatives of Ball, were brought to the scene to talk with him remaining in the area Wednesday evening.

Ball kidnapped Herrman and his two sons, Rob, 10, and Mike, 6, following the $20,000 robbery of a branch bank in Richmond, Ind., which is near the Ohio border in the western part of the state.

Ball drove to Eaton, Ohio, just inside the border, late Tuesday when he was spotted by police and his tires shot flat.

He negotiated with authorities all night by citizens band radio before they provided him with a 1978 auto afterwhich he released the two boys. Ball kept the father as a hostage and sped east on Interstate 70 toward Columbus with law enforcement officers following him.

Authorities said Ball apparently triggered a radar detector and a local police officer stopped him on the west side of Springfield.

At one time during the tense negotiations Wednesday morning he threatened to fire his pistol "into this kid's head and then his father's" after he thought he saw a police sharpshooter.

Panelists (l-r) N. Gordon Levin, American Studies Professor at Amherst College; Robert M. Haddad, History Professor at Smith; George E. Kirk, History Professor at UMass; and William D. Brewer, Diplomat in Residence at UMass. Last night they participated in the most recent "Great Decisions '78" in Webster House lounge. The changing Middle East conflict was the topic of discussion. (Staff Photo by Marilyn Mankowsky)

More lectures announced for Int'l Women's Week

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Additional speakers and workshops for International Women's Week March 5-11 were announced last night at a planning meeting by Irene Richard, staff coordinator of the week.

Three afternoon lectures have been scheduled for Mar. 8 in Campus Center room 101. At 12:00 p.m. Martha Pitts will speak on "Assata Shakur" and at 2:00 p.m. a Latin speaker will talk on "Lolita Lebron," according to Richard.

The third lecture will be given by Florence Luscomb at 5 p.m., said Richard. This year's "Bread and Roses Calendar" is dedicated to Luscomb, a 94-year-old participant in the women's movement.

An evening program on March 10 entitled "Women Under Apartheid" will feature area Zoe Best and singer Vea Williams who will perform in concert said Richard.

Half the tickets for the March 5 Holly Near concert have been sold, according to Richard. Near will appear with pianist Julie Thompson.

Some of the student area governments approached by the Women's Week committee will be notifying the committee of their decisions of financial support tomorrow, according to Richard. Although the committee is still lacking funds for some programs, "financially we're doing alright but we're cutting corners as much as possible," she said.

Events of Women's Week will be videotaped by the Union Video Center. It began by taping last night's meeting. There is a possibility that the video center will tape the Holly Near concert.

Donna Brennan, the coordinator of the Women's Week childcare program, said there will be a meeting for persons interested in working on the childcare staff tonight at 8 in the Suffolk Room of the Student Union.

The final planning meeting of Women's Week will be held on March 1 at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center. Richard is distributing more information concerning events, workshops and the childcare program from her office in Student Activities.

Coal discussions end; Carter decision likely

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Talks in the nation's record-long coal strike broke down again last night as the coal industry rejection of a union contract offer virtually assuring executive intervention to settle the dispute.

The Bituminous Coal Operators Association refused Labor Secretary Ray Marshall's invitation to sit down with the striking United Mine Workers representatives — instead telling Marshall at a private meeting they would not accept the union offer.

Marshall announced he would go to the White House early Thursday to "determine the future course of action."

President Carter, a staunch proponent of collective bargaining, had ready contingency legislation asking congressional approval to start binding arbitration or outright seizure of the nation's coalfields. A third option is invocation of the strike-halting Taft-Hartley Act.

The UMW, in a ploy that threatened to break the industry's united front, offered a settlement Wednesday based on an agreement it had reached with a non-BCOA coal company, the Pittsburg and Midway Coal Co. of Denver.

Before the industry rejection, a presidential spokesman said, "We would not discourage approval of this agreement." Carter is expected to announce his decision before week's end.

Union President Arnold Miller had offered to "negotiate immediately with any company that wants a contract" patterned on the P and M accord.

His statement meant that if the BCOA did not accept the entire package as a model contract, the union would break off talks and throw negotiations open to company-by-company deals.

Marshall said he briefed the BCOA by telephone with regard to the miners' proposal, then met with them privately before they made their decision.

Industry sources had told UPI there was little likelihood the BCOA would embrace the union's offer, which strengthened the P and M contract on two counts: it would have increased security for miners working security for miners working reclamation projects and sought to guarantee the union's 1950 benefit fund.

Those sources said all 130 members of the BCOA could not accept the P and M agreement. Edward Leisengring, head of Westmoreland Coal Co., said Tuesday: "Certain collective bargaining matters.... were not dealt with adequately in the Pittsburg and Midway... agreement."

One industry source said, "that's OK for a little company with just a few employees, but big companies can't stand for it."

NEW FRYE LACE-UP BOOTS have arrived for men & women
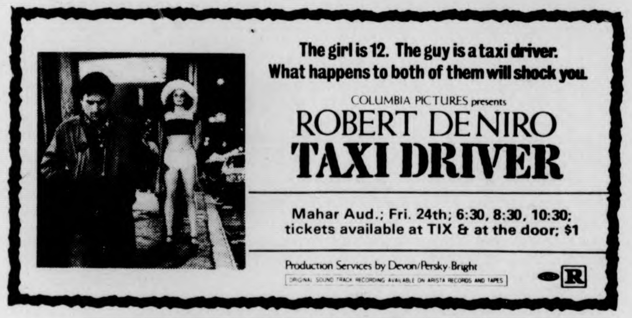
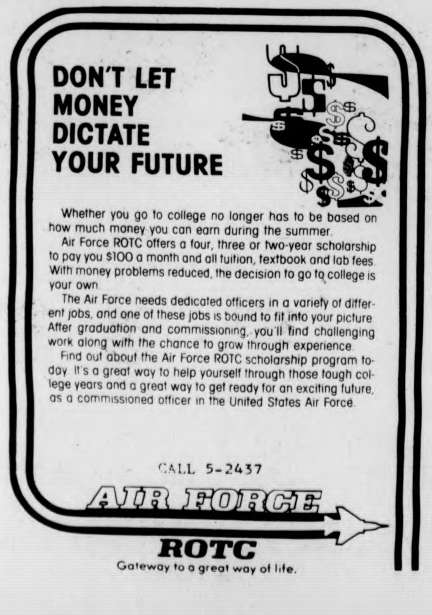
17'' High Tops
Fully Leather Lined
Stacked Leather
Soles & Heels
Rich Black
Cherry Color
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
10-6:00 Mon.-Sat. 253-5135



The girl is 12. The guy is a taxi driver.
What happens to both of them will shock you.
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
ROBERT DE NIRO
TAXI DRIVER
Mahar Aud.; Fri. 24th; 6:30, 8:30, 10:30;
tickets available at TIX & at the door; $1
Production Services by Devon/Persky Bright
ORIGINAL SOUND TRACK RECORDING AVAILABLE ON ARISTA RECORDS AND TAPES
R

The rusty nail Inn
presents
THURS., FEB. 23
BRICKER BAND
FRI. AND SAT.,
FEB. 24 and 25
FAT AND MECHANIX
EVERY SUNDAY
GEORGE T. GREGORY
MONDAY FEB. 27,
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

The scientific calculator you can take everywhere. All you need is a pocket.
$22.95 Casio FX-31
With the FX-31 in hand, you can solve your everyday scientific problems quickly and easily. All the most often used scientific functions are at your fingertips.
- 8 digit green display—large, clear, easy to read.
- Trigonometrics, logarithms, exponentiations, factorials, square root—at the touch of a key.
- Parenthesis up to six levels.
- Sexagesimal/decimal conversion.
- Calculates in DEG, RAD or GRAD
- Standard deviations for x̄, n, σn, σn-1
- Independent Memory (M+, MR, Min)
- Operates on 2 penlight batteries (included) or AC with optional adaptor
- 1" H × 3⅜" W × 5¾" D
- Weighs 6.1 ozs. including batteries.
CASIO
at the calculator store
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst



DON'T LET MONEY DICTATE YOUR FUTURE
Whether you go to college no longer has to be based on how much money you can earn during the summer.
Air Force ROTC offers a four, three or two-year scholarship to pay you $100 a month and all tuition, textbook and lab fees. With money problems reduced, the decision to go to college is your own.
The Air Force needs dedicated officers in a variety of different jobs, and one of these jobs is bound to fit into your picture. After graduation and commissioning, you'll find challenging work along with the chance to grow through experience.
Find out about the Air Force ROTC scholarship program today. It's a great way to help yourself through those tough college years and a great way to get ready for an exciting future, as a commissioned officer in the United States Air Force.
CALL 5-2437
AIR FORCE
ROTC
Gateway to a great way of life.

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies
SUPER-SONIC SAVINGS!
On sale now thru Saturday, February 25.
Cassettes, where available, are on sale at the same price as the 8-track tape.
4.44 OUR REG. 5.47 ABBA: The Album 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.44 OUR REG. 5.47 JAY FERGUSON: Thunder Island 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
6.99 OUR REG. 8.97 SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER: Original movie soundtrack 8-TR., REG. 8.97 6.99
3.99 OUR REG. 5.47 ROD STEWART: Foot Loose & Fancy Free 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
3.99 OUR REG. 5.47 AEROSMITH: Draw The Line 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
3.99 OUR REG. 5.47 L.T.D.: Something To Love 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.64 OUR REG. 5.47 JOHN DENVER: I Want To Live 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.64 OUR REG. 5.47 RUFUS & CHAKA KHAN: Street Player 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.49 EACH OUR REG. 4.99 Rock star belt buckles. 12 designs including Steve Miller, Boston, Kiss, The Doobie Brothers
4.44 OUR REG. 5.47 RHYTHM HERITAGE: Sky's The Limit 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.44 OUR REG. 5.47 STYX: The Grand Illusion 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
4.54 OUR REG. 5.47 KENNY ROGERS: Ten Years Of Gold 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
2.99 OUR REG. 3.49 Disk-Go-Case of shatter-resistant thermoplastic. Holds sixty 45 rpm records. Assorted colors.
4.44 OUR REG. 5.47 BING CROSBY: Seasons 8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94
1.79 OUR REG. 1.99 Snap Jack® wall frame. Displays single or double jacket albums.
1.99 OUR REG. 2.39 Hi-Fi speaker wire 50-ft. Two conductor
Some regular prices may vary by store.
Unusually heavy demands may require our setting reasonable quantity limits on some of the items in fairness to all customers.
master charge VISA Capitol RCA
1-4-1
Bradlees, King St., Northampton

R.A.'s sending letters for more compensation

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

Resident assistants in the Central Orchard Hill Area this week agreed to send letters next week to several University officials stating the floor counsellor's need for "improved salary compensation", according to moderator Lisa Melilli.

Letters will be sent Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury, Director of the Community Development Center Sally A. Freeman and J. Battista, Jr. Assistant Area Director of Central-Orchard Hill, "with the hope that resident assistants will be further compensated," Melilli said.

Melilli has organized a "resident assistants task force," which last night composed the letters.

The letters will explain the hours per week for which resident assistants are paid was decreased in order to accommodate the Jan. 1 minimum wage of $2.65 an hour without giving the floor counsellors a salary increase.

"The amount of time and energy encompassed in the job," however, has remained constant, Melilli said.

Student Government Association co-President Pinky Baptiste, who attended the meeting, told the residential assistants their chances of getting a raise in salaries, which come from the Community Development Center, are slim.

Money for the center is allocated by state funds and "the chances of getting an increase out of state funds — are zilch," Baptiste said.

Baptiste said she will be "review CDC's budget Friday" to see if there is any excess money to be used for resident assistant salary increases.

Baptiste pointed out the unlikelihood of resident assistants receiving tuition waivers because the state stipulates recipients must be performing a service of an academic nature, and floor counsellors are not in this category.

She said there was a possibility of a "special service group" forming who would receive tuition waivers, which she hopes to see initiated by June, which would award 200 to 300 tuition waivers to students performing special services in different areas across campus." A selected number of the approximately 340 University resident assistants might be able to receive tuition waivers under this category, Baptiste said.

Baptiste urged the resident assistants to give her their employment contracts or agreements, so she can "hand them over to the Legal Services Office, which will look at them to ascertain whether they can be used in court if the task force should decide to take legal action."

Graduate senate opposes separate bus fee proposal

By ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate's Finance Committee sent a memo yesterday to the administration opposing a proposal to place a separate fee to support the UMass bus system on student's tuition bills.

The memo also proposed that the Graduate Student Senate's share of the transit budget be paid directly from the Graduate Student Senate's budget.

The memo supported the Undergraduate Student Senate's proposal that 70 percent of the transit system's budget be paid by students and 30 percent be paid by the adminstration.

UMass Director of Planning Jack Littlefield rejected these proposals submitted earlier in the semester by the Undergraduate Student Senate because of a disagreement on the "double assessment" claim. Student leaders claim that since students contribute largely to the parking office budget by buying parking stickers and that the administration would be using these funds to pay for their share of the transit budget, the students are being "double-assessed."

News in Brief

B-1 bomber program killed by House vote

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House finally voted to kill the multi-billion dollar B-1 bomber program yesterday, joining the Senate in refusing to approve an additional $462 million for two more prototypes of the low-flying nuclear attack plane.

The 234-182 vote spelled a finish to the controversial Air Force project that once envisioned a fleet of up to 244 of the manned aircraft to supplement the U.S. strategic force of land and sea-launched ballistic nuclear missiles.

President Carter announced last summer he would keep his campaign pledge and ask Congress to cut off funding for the planes costing $100-million plus apiece. He argued the B-1 was too expensive to build and not necessary with development of the cruise missile, which could be carried by the existing fleet of B-52 bombers.

But supporters tried stubbornly to keep it alive by seeking enough funding for two more planes — which would have brought the total completed test models to six.

After the House vote, Carter's press secretary Jody Powell said "the president has asked me to say he was delighted."

Dukakis proposes regulation changes

BOSTON [UPI] — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis has asked the federal government to change its regulations on unemployment benefits for people unable to work during federally declared disasters.

In a letter Wednesday to Labor Secretary Ray F. Marshall, the governor said existing rules deny Massachusetts workers federal benefits under the disaster assistance program.

According to Massachusetts Economic Affairs Secretary Howard N. Smith, an eligibility formula used by the federal government makes workers eligible for benefits on the first Sunday after a disaster declaration.

Medical instrument detects early cancer

NEW YORK [UPI] — A new medical instrument holds hope for much improved control of cancer of the lining of the womb, a form responsible for 3,300 deaths a year in America, it was announced yesterday in New York.

The device now is available nationally for the first time, the manufacturer, Kendall Company of Barrington, Ill. reported.

Doctors who have used it said the instrument finds the malignancy, known as endometrial cancer, very early — when most curable by surgery.

Called the Curity Isaacs Endometrial Cell Sampler, the device is about one-third as thick as a soda straw. It is inserted into the uterus and cells are drawn out via suction, then examined for tell-tale signs of malignancy.

Deerfield resident missing in Michigan

SAUGATUCK, Mich. [UPI] — State police used tracking dogs and a helicopter yesterday as they searched for a Hope College student who disappeared last weekend while cross-country skiing on Lake Michigan near Saugatuck.

The student, Steven Kubacki, 23, of Deerfield, Mass., apparently set out alone on the lake Saturday. When he failed to return to school late Sunday, his rommate reported him missing.

State police troopers in South Haven said Kubacki's skis, poles and backpack were found Monday on the partially-frozen lake near a beach area north of Saugatuck.

Although Armstrong stopped short of saying police thought Kubacki had drowned, he did label the area where the student's belongings were found as "an unsafe place to go."

Sadat says he ordered airport raid

CAIRO, Egypt [AP] — President Anwar Sadat said yesterday it was he who ordered Egyptian commandos to Larnaca airport on the ill-fated rescue mission that resulted in bloody fighting with Cypriot forces. In an emotional speech to his troops, Sadat also withdrew recognition of Cyprus President Spros Kyprianou, calling him a "dwarf."

Sadat said the decision to use force Sunday night to capture the two terrorists who killed Egyptian newspaper editor Youssef el Sebaei and held 11 Arab diplomats and four crew members aboard a Cyprus Airways DC-8 was his own and not the personal initiative of Brig. Nabil Shukry, leader of the commandos.

"The commander's decision to attack the plane, rescue the hostages and arrest the criminals was based on the facts of the mission he was given," Sadat said in his speech at the War Ministry after the funeral of the 15 commandos who died in the action. At least seven Cypriots were wounded.

"It was not his decision, but it was my decision. Any one of my sons who is given a mission is given full power and freedom to take decisions. We were following everything as was the commando leader there on the spot at the airport," he said, though it was not known whether Shukry consulted with Sadat before issuing the attack order.

"He was following what went on between the control tower and the killers and it became apparent to him and to us here in Egypt also ... that Cyprus was preparing two passports for the killers so they could leave Cyprus, as if they had not committed a crime."

He said at that point, Shukry decided to storm the plane and carry out his orders to return with the hostages and the terrorists.

Shukry told Cairo radio Tuesday he had "no way of knowing" about the progress of the negotiations and acted after he waited "a reasonable time" without hearing any word, a statement that apparently conflicted with Sadat's version.

Kyprianou said Tuesday that Egypt's ambassador and military attache had been told the terrorists had agreed to free the hostages. He said Egypt even gave assurances there would be no attack.

When the Egyptians launched the attack, the Cypriot National Guard "had no alternative but to intervene and take action to save the hostages and to protect the sovereign rights of the Cypriot state," Kyprianou said.

Sadat's statement that he no longer recognizes Kyprianou as President is tantamount to a complete break in relations.

"There is no room for us to deal with dwarfs such as these," Sadat said in his speech. "Our recognition of him as president of the republic, and he hears me now, is withdrawn as of today."

The two gunmen, who identified themselves as Palestinians, shot Sebaei Saturday in the lobby of the Nicosia Hilton and took 11 persons hostage. Cyprus provided the DC-8 which the terrorists took on a flight around the Middle East seeking refuge. Finding no country to accept them, they refueled in the tiny African country of Djibouti and returned to Cyprus late Sunday afternoon.

Israel denies Dayan quotes

JERUSALEM [UPI] — A government spokesman yesterday denied a radio report quoting Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan as saying Israel would consider an Arab proposal to divide the occupied West Bank of the Jordan in two.

"Mr. Dayan's remarks were inaccurately reported," a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The government spokesman declined however to provide an accurate version of Dayan's remarks, which he said were made at a closed meeting of the Security and Foreign Affairs Committee of the Knesset.

The denial came two hours after the initial report was carried by the government-run radio.

In the broadcast, Dayan said Israel would not necessarily reject out of hand an Arab proposal to divide the occupied West Bank.

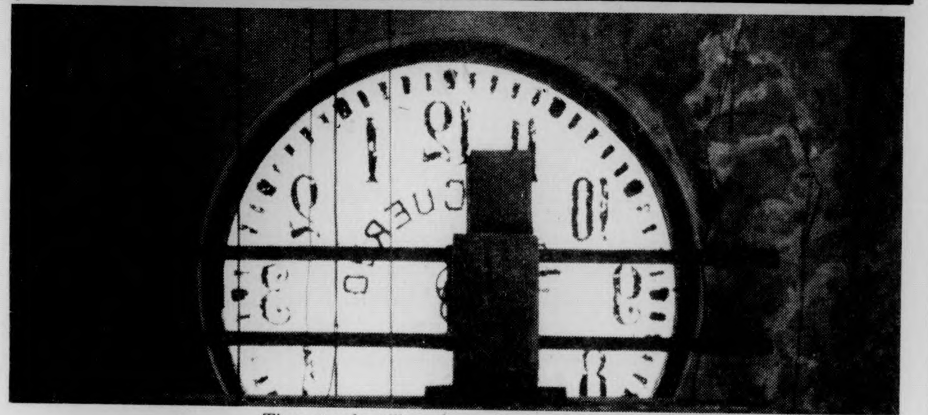
Dayan was asked whether the result of such a discussion would be a negative response. Dayan reportedly replied, "not necessarily."

"We would listen to such a suggestion and discuss it candidly," he told members of parliament, according to the broadcast.

low prices – new 'n used albums
NEW WAVES & OLD FAVES
SUN MUSIC
amhest carriage shops

MAN-WOMAN RELATIONSHIPS
A Six Week Course On Marraige
NEWMAN CENTER SOCIAL HALL
8PM
BEGINNING THURS., Feb. 23

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
A VODKA & GIN QUARTS SPECIAL
ICE COLD KEG BEER $21.00 And Up
Lucky Lager BEER by Falstaff Brewing Co. $1.25 A SIX $4.99 A CASE
In-door Savings too good to be advertised. Come see for yourself!
– UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
– NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
– AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS
In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441



Time stands still at our distillery where we still make Cuervo Gold by hand.

For centuries we've wound our clock by hand. And for centuries we've made Cuervo Gold by hand.

At the Cuervo distillery it's almost as if time has stood still. Our Blue Magueys are nurtured by hand, picked by hand, and carried to the ovens by hand, as they have been since 1795. It is this continuing dedication to tradition that makes Cuervo Gold special. Any way you drink it Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

CUERVO ESPECIAL® TEQUILA. 80 PROOF. IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY © 1977 HEUBLEIN, INC., HARTFORD, CONN.

Senate rejects moves by Canal treaties foes

WASHINGTON [AP] — The Senate conducted its first vote on the Panama Canal treaties Wednesday, rejecting a parliamentary move by treaty foes aimed at torpedoing the twin pacts.

The Senate rejected by a 67-30 vote an effort by treat opponents to first take up the pact that would turn over control of the canal to Panama instead of taking up the neutrality treaty first, as Senate leaders wanted.

Had this move passed, it would have meant that the Senate would have had to decide whether to turn over the canal to Panama before passing the treaty which guarantees the canal's neutrality, giving U.S. ships priority access and guaranteeing U.S. rights to defend the waterway.

Although most of those voting "no" are expected to oppose the treaties, the 67-30 result was only a procedural question and did not provide a clear test of strength on the treaties themselves.

It followed a 14-hour closed-door debate on the alleged Panamanian drug connection Wednesday which ended with a declaration by Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd that the charges should be "put to rest."

Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., a leading treaty foe, sought to have the Senate reverse the order, but the vote came on a motion by Byrd to table that proposal.

Senators on both sides expressed strong doubts that the secret session changed any minds on the Panama Canal treaties, but anti-treaty spokesmen vowed to keep the issue alive.

Immediately following the end of the secret session, the Senate resumed general debate on the treaties.

After doors to the chamber galleries were reopened, Byrd declared that the results of an inquiry by the intelligence committee had produced findings that were "negative on all counts."

He said the "exhaustive investigation" showed "no evidence that would stand up in any U.S. court of law linking Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos to illegal narcotics operations, or that the issue had affected the treaty negotiations or their outcome.

Byrd, a West Virginia Democrat, also said there was no evidence to support suggestions that U.S. drug intelligence activities in Panama caused U.S. negotiators to be subjected to Panamanian pressure, or that senior U.S. officials had sought payoffs in exchange for treaty concessions.

Those questions had been probed along with the drug issue by the Senate panel and were discussed in its report, a censored copy of which was made public.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, an outspoken treaty foe and member of the committee, retorted that Byrd was expressing "a legalistic point of view" in saying there wasn't evidence against Torrijos that would hold up in court.

'No progress' in curbing rate

WASHINGTON [UPI] — "We are making absolutely no progress in reducing the rate of inflation," President Carter's chief inflation-watcher told Congress yesterday.

Unless something is done, Barry Bosworth, director of the administration's Council on Wage and Price Stability, told the Senate Budget Committee, the prospect is that inflation, which has been roughly 6 to 6.5 percent since late 1975, will continue that way indefinitely into the future.

And that is assuming no surprises, Bosworth said. Inflation would be worse if there were a world crop failure, a new energy crisis or some other "shock" to the economy.

That bleak testimony opened a hearing on what to do about inflation — which one member, Sen. Pete Domenici, R-New Mexico described as "an unlegislated hidden tax" on all Americans and a "damper" on investor "enthusiasm" which undermines the basic functioning of free enterprise.

Carter plans a "voluntary" program against inflation. The administration will talk with labor and industry before contracts are signed and other decisions made, to urge them to accept smaller wage and price increases than in the past.

Bosworth said the administration arrived at that plan by process of elimination. It concluded that:

—Attempting to reduce inflation by lowering the deficit to restrict the economy "doesn't work," but in the past has resulted in both high inflation and high unemployment.

—Wage-price controls are unpopular and at best suited to temporary situations; this inflation has been built into the economy since World War II.

—Anti-inflation tax incentives, for example a tax on excessive wage increases would be hard to administer and might increase rather than decrease inflation.

Bosworth said the administration "can't promise exactly what effect" the voluntary approach will have but that it is worth a try, considering the alternatives.

With varying enthusiasm, two private economists, Arthur Okun of the Brookings Institution and Albert Sommers of the Conference Board, also said Carter's plan is worth trying.

Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
MONDAY DISCO PARTY
TUESDAYS 25¢ DRAFTS
WEDNESDAYS 50¢ DRINKS
THURSDAY BEAT THE CLOCK
8-9 50¢ 9-10 75¢ 10-11 $1.00
ALL DRINKS
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
NO COVER—COME EARLY
Sunday HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT

DANCE CONTEST
Sunday, Feb. 26
First Prize.........$50.00
Second Prize... 2 year's passes at the Mt. Farms 4 Theater
Third Prize....... 2 Saturday Night Fever Albums

Collegetown
Barber Shop
183 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
Tel. 253-9884

安城中國飯店
AMHERST
CHINESE FOOD
62 Main St., Amherst Tel. 253-7835
"Good Dining Award from American Diner's Society"
Eat in or take out
Lunch Specials
1.09 and up
Fresh Chinese vegetables from our own farm!
UMASS BUS STOP
Closed Wednesdays

ONE WAY
DO NOT ENTER
STOP
CAUTION WRONG WAY
GO BACK YIELD

Start a career at Prudential. We don't put roadblocks in your way.

Getting ahead. It's important to you and it's important to the Prudential. Our success is based largely on yours. So we don't put unnecessary obstacles in your way.

Right now we can offer you career opportunities in many fields including marketing management, sales, actuarial, computer technology, and investments to name just a few.

A Prudential representative will visit your campus soon. Check with your Placement Office to arrange for an interview. If a company that invites initiative and personal achievement appeals to you, maybe together we can pave the way to a great career.

Prudential

An equal opportunity employer M/F

Letters

Nazis pose real threats

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a letter which appeared in Wednesday's Collegian written by Paul Sheppard. Mr. Sheppard suggests that the Nazi Party be free to advocate "repugnant ideas such as the gassing of Jews without being free to gas Jews." Mr. Sheppard seems to overlook the fact that while to any rational person would dismiss the Nazis, the Nazi appeal is not directed to rational people, but to fanatical racists who would carry thought into action.

I cite a recent case where the NSWPP [Nazi Party] recorded phone messages offering cash payment to every non-white killed. Suppose some psychotic decided to take the Nazis up on their offer? This kind of thing is what makes Nazis dangerous — very dangerous. It is much different from the Marxian principles of overthrow of the capitalist system. I have never heard of a socialist or communist advocating all-out racial war. Having lived in Skokie, and coming from a Jewish family, I have no doubt that the Nazis chose Skokie because of its largely Jewish population, and chose it solely for that reason. I feel that allowing the Nazis to march in Skokie, and to allow them to record such messages on phones is to spit in the face of Jews, Blacks, Chicanos and other non-whites as well as a direct and vicious attack on those progressive forces struggling for racial brotherhood.

Mark Alper
Resident of MacKimmie
Humanity House

Yale conference on South Africa

To the Editor:

On campuses across the U.S. students have demonstrated their opposition to the racist regime in Southern Africa and our government's complicity with them. In the Northeast, many students have been active in many aspects of this campaign on campuses to force their trustees to divest holdings in Southern Africa and in their communities to stop bank loans to South Africa and to stop the sale of Krugerrand.

Now, on the weekend of March 31 at Yale University, a committee of thirteen schools and six national organizations in the Northeast will be holding their first regional conference on the Liberation Struggles in Southern Africa. This conference will include educational workshops on condition in Southern Africa, U.S. involvement there, and tactics for halting that support as well as a wide variety of speakers. The conferees will also form a regional communications network for coordinating anti-apartheid work, and also a regional demonstration calling for the end of U.S. support in Southern Africa will be coordinated.

Certainly this conference will provide large impetus for the continuation of the efforts of students here, at Amherst, Boston U., Clark, Harvard, Princeton, Rutgers, and Yale [just to name a few] where divestment campaigns have been staged and other activities dealing with the help of oppressive conditions in Southern Africa and U.S. support of those racist regimes. But we need your help and involvement in making this conference a success.

If you're interested in halting U.S. support of oppression in Southern Africa, if you're interested in helping crush the apartheid system in Southern Africa, if you're interested in giving support to the liberation struggle in Southern Africa, or if you're just interested in knowing more about what's happening in S.A., come to the information meeting for this conference tonight [2-23] at 8 o'clock in CC 902-903 and hear about conditions in Southern Africa from Zimbabian student Robin Kohach, and what you can do to help.

UMass Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa

Tenure issue is academic freedom

To the Editor:

An assault on the validity of tenure has recently been waged on this campus. This is but another in the long line of recent attacks on the quality of public higher education in this state. The real issues of tenure are those of academic freedom and quality teaching. Witness the administration's most blatant attempt to undermine quality education in their proposal to the faculty union: "...faculty members may not, however, claim as a right, the privilege of discussing in the classroom controversial matter that has no relation to the subject."

While advocating the abolition of tenure, the administration and the Board of Trustees would put in its place a "three year rolling appointment." It is clear as to what this would accomplish.

Without tenure, the freedom of professors to speak out on controversial matters would be ended — their jobs would constantly be on the line. Without tenure, the power of UMass to attract quality instructors would be eroded. The abolition of tenure would cause professors to feel uncertain about the stability of their jobs and their tenuous position might inhibit a full committment to their students. If professors are aware of being constantly reviewed and evaluated, their energies will not be directed towards quality instruction, but rather towards competing with each other and meeting their publishing quotas.

Whereas the abolition of tenure will constitute a serious threat to academic freedom and quality education, there is no guarantee that this solution will get rid of "dead wood" on the faculty. It is true that there are individual faculty members who do not "tow the line". However, let us put the responsibility for this situation where it belongs — in the laps of the department chairs, the deans and the chancellor. They were hired to insure quality education, not to destroy it. The abolition of tenure is no solution to deteriorating educational quality. It is a red herring, a demagogic proposal that was never meant to solve the problem. When the administration and the Board of Trustees actively oppose budget cuts, the public funding of private schools or the vocationalization of UMass, they will be fighting for real solutions. The question for us now is 'why the abolition of tenure is being proposed'?

The proposal for the abolition of tenure must be seen in the context of the overall attacks on public higher education in Massachusetts. Once the legislature decided that it would be the public sector [and not the private sector] which would bear the burden of the fiscal crisis, all sorts of schemes were devised to "rationalize" the reorganization of education. These proposals include "regionalization" [which is why our nursing program at UMass has been cut back], "vocationalization" of higher education and the abolition of tenure. All of these proposals make budget cuts look like "efficiency" operations. They make it easier to terminate faculty contracts and move faculty between departments and schools. They make it easier to "manage" a university like a business rather than an educational institution.

Students United For Public Education [SUPE] is organizing to stop this trend at the public universities. We think these destructive proposals reflect the priorities of the government and are not the only solutions. Come to a meeting to discuss these ideas and see what we can do to change the situation. Thursday, Feb. 23, 1978, 7:30 p.m., Campus Center 809.

Students United For
Public Education
Karen Fitzpatrick
Rona Weiss

People's Market: a group endeavor

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter as a representative of the People's Market. If you don't already know, the Market is run as a collective by twenty workers, all of whom are full-time students. There are no bosses, no hierarchy, and consequently it is often difficult to make what might seem to be the best or most expedient decisions. However, it is important to remember that not only is the Market a place of business, but a very valuable educational experience; we learn from our successes and our mistakes.

At the end of last semester, we lost almost half of our workers to graduation, etc. So we've had to hire a lot of new people. Our hiring process is conducted in the beginning of each semester for two reasons. First, the end of the semester during finals is too crazy for anyone to put in the necessary time. Also, we want to give as many people as possible a chance to apply, including transfers and new students. That's why it takes two weeks for us to open each semester.

Before last fall, everyone that applied was given a personal interview. Ten people were interviewing up to two hundred applicants. Since this was so unrealistic, the idea of asking for a written application took hold. In the fall semster we received 90 applications for eight jobs, and we interviewed 55 people. As often happens with a group process of this nature, our decision about who should be hired was quite emotional and difficult. It was felt at that time that we should strive for a diversity of people and hire those who had no experience with co-ops, so knowledge of them would be spread. This semester, because we have lost so many experienced people, and we'll lose a lot more in May, we needed people with some experience, a year or more left in school, as well as interesting backgrounds and energy. Financial need was also a factor used in making decisions.

Personal interviews this semester still numbered 55, but this was only a quarter of the people that took the time to apply. Trying to pick nine people from 55 is no small task, and it involves making some difficult and sometimes painful compromises. However, the people that were hired represent what we feel is the People's Market...diverse backgrounds, ages, interests and experiences. All of them have good energy and will hopefully become as involved as past workers have.

To those that applied and those that were interviewed but not hired — we try to be as fair and open-minded as possible when dealing with a hard situation. I wish that everyone could work in jobs as meaningful and educational as the Market, but unfortunately there aren't many around. This is why it is important to support the UMass co-ops and help thier growth so that interesting, non-alienating and paying jobs can be more plentiful.

Susan Lewis
for the People's Market Collective

Challenging

Bill Sundstrom

While Collegian columnists have n guarantee that anyone will read their writte efforts, they do have some assurance tha they may express their opinions withou being subjected to prior review by university official.

Such was not always the case. The righ of student journalists at public institutior were secured only after a series of cou decisions declaring that universities cann restrict the student press merely becaus they have some authority over funding.

Students at Boston University are n necessarily so fortunate. Because the cou precedents thus far have relied primarily o the 14th Amendment and its restrictions o states' powers, they pertain only to publi schools. The B.U. administration, headed b conservative (one student compared hi with California's S.I. Hayakawa) Presider John Silber, has apparently taken it upo itself to decide what sorts of things a appropriate for a college paper to print.. namely, nothing critical of the a ministration's position.

This possibility of overt censorship, whic the administration maintains is its right, le to the B.U. daily's private incorporation while back. Even now the Daily Free Pres finds itself harassed by the administratio which has threatened to set up a competit for the paper, and to take away its rente office space.

B.U.'s weekly community paper, th exposure, has had an even worse time of because it is funded through the universi by a student activities fee and is thus subje to Silber's reactionary whims. After a fron page story about Silber in December, 197 the administration froze the exposure fun — the paper has not received money fro the university since then.

Like any alternative or undergrou publication worth its weight in printer's in however, the exposure has managed continue publishing, supporting itself with combination of advertising, benefit event subscriptions and donations. The pape presently working out of a Boston are basement, will no doubt continue it irreverant haunting of the administratio despite Silber's effort to stifle it..

Support from the B.U. community, as we as from certain outside interest groups lik the Civil Liberties Union, has been fairly solid The exposure, "a paper that takes sides," a

---

Below The Salt

Massachusetts Daily Collegian Volume CVII, Issue 89 February 23, 1978

Eno Washington- master of movement

Page 4

Campus Culture Forum

Brand review criticized

Dear Editors:

Please take note of the following corrections I would like to offer regarding the ridiculous, imbicilic and incompetent attempt to review the concert performed by Abdullah Ibrahim, formerly known as Dollar Brand. Does the author still insist upon calling Muhammed Ali, Cassius Clay• South African vocals appeared during the musical presentation, but the only chant was from the KORAN. In addition, there was nothing "simple" about the music just as there is nothing simple about the thousand-year history that has created it or so many other South African artistic expressions. For example the patterns within Ibrahim's compositions were designed in much the way that the Noebele people of South Africa traditionally create their architecture, murals and adornment.

Buckley Hall may on occasion be a "joint", but on Friday, February 10th it was a concert hall which also took on an African presence because of the communal form of music making. Abdullah Ibrahim has worldwide concert experience. No small-town junior journalist should dare to attribute "pianistic ramblings" or "simple, folkish sax phrasings" to anything that happened during this particular evening.

African drumming is the pulse and life source for aesthetic expression on that continent. Abdullah Ibrahim with a sense of this produces an authentic and extraordinary piano effect by becoming master drummer for certain sequences in his music. Therefore, just as there was no "hammering" there were no sensationalistic "climaxes." Crescendos occurred in much the same way as when the natural order disrupts its organic-cosmic cycles. The audience, or the most sensitive who were in majority at the concert, felt the human element as well as the spiritual infinities in the music.

Since the author tried some name-dropping, he should have mentioned Randy Weston. Perhaps the author is a philistine to the degree that he believes readers are unobservant and cannot detect where he has plagarized concepts and phrases. He would have done better to have reprinted the NUMMO preview.

The "Boogie-woogie" finish that Armstrong mentions was a rendering of a work by the foremost American composer, Duke Ellington.

The "messiness" and the "slop" is quite descriptive of the misrepresentation of an outstandingly precious musical experience.

Sincerely,
Zejel

Armstrong replies

I should like to preface my response by saying the following: I believe you have taken what I said in my review out of context and it is unfortunate that you feel the need to resort to facile name-calling.

To answer the criticisms one by one:

1) Abdullah Ibrahim has been refered to as 'Dollar Brand' by many; all his albums have been recorded under that name; he is almost invariably refered to by that name in the press, and he has often appeared in concerts that were advertised using that name—including his concert at Amherst College February 10th: all posters, notices, and tickets for that concert used the name Dollar Brand. Nor did I hear Abdullah Ibrahim object to the name 'Dollar Brand' when he was addressed as such when I spoke with him after the concert. It appears he uses both names; although Abdullah Ibrahim is his formal, proper name—and as such ought to be used in place of Dollar Brand, ideally—refering to this masterful pianist as Dollar Brand is in no way akin to refering to Muhammed Ali as Cassius Clay. Therefore I shall say that while I ideally ought to have used the name Abdullah Ibrahim, I do not feel that the use of the name Dollar Brand is any sort of insult to this artist. I should think that if Abdullah Ibrahim himself insisted on being called by that name only one would never see the name Dollar Brand on his recordings, in articles about him, or see it used to advertise concerts in which he was appearing.

2) I did not refer to the music per se as simple: what I did say was that Abdullah Ibrahim's music was "unique in its simple yet commanding dignity" and that he worked "rather simple sax phrasings". It is unfortunate that Zejel must draw the inference from the use of the word 'simple' that it means stupid, unsophisticated, or easy. By simple I mean unfettered, austere, and unpretentious. This simplicity has a certain dignity that stands in marked contrast to the cheap embellishments which comprise so much of American culture. Abdullah Ibrahim himself spoke of "the profundity of simplicity" after the concert; he, at least, is aware of the true beauty which simplicity can have. Nor did the use of the word "ramblings" imply any sort of aimlessness: it meant—ah, forget it; this is rather pointless.

I shall thank you, Zejel for pointing out that the only chant was from the Koran. I shall admit that the term "the joint was a-jumpin' " might have been inappropriate; it may bespeak some latent, subconscious racist conditioning which I have yet to fully recognise and exorcise; then again it may just be the easiest way to say that the audience exuded great ebullience while enthralled by the rousing visceral energy of the music being performed. Furthermore, the concert was indeed finished by Duke Ellington's "Things Ain't What They Used To Be"; although this piece is not exactly basic boogie-woogie, it does employ rhythms which are usually classified as boogie-woogie. I do believe what I said regarding the sloppiness of some of the musicians to be true; they were sloppy in places, indeed, the entire band badly finished one piece and seemed very confused for a few seconds. No ascriptions of spiritual sanctity to the concert can negate this fact.

To conclude: I should not say that my review was ridiculous, imbecilic, or incompetent. I should say, however, that I find your letter to be the product of some rather unfortunate thinking.

Sincerely yours,
Bob Armstrong

Below The Salt

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor | Ken Shain |
| A'sst. Editors | Bob ArmstrongMary Brown |
| Layout | Rick Alvord |
| Film Editor | Skip Tenczar |
| Music Editor | Ross Nerenberg |
| Dance Editor | Sharon True |
| Theater Editor | Janie Portnoy |
| Book Editor | Arlene McIsaac |
| Art Editor | Stacy Belkind |
| Listings Editor | Debbie Wallace |
| Poetry Editor | Lisa Wait |
| Contributing Editors | Mario BarrosMark Levitan |

Below The Salt takes its name from the relationship between nobles and peasants at the medieval European dinner table. The preciousness of salt requiree that it be placed accessible to the lords and beyond the peasants' reach. Hence, the peasants sat "below the salt".

In an age where the tools of expression are like cultural salt, our paper is dedicated to the restoration of the participatory function of art, music and literature as well as physical culture.

Below The Salt is prepared to accept articles of diverse opinion on a variety of topics of cultural interest, as well as original contributions. Submissions can be made at the Collegian offices, 113 Campus Center; 545-3500.

Inside today's Salt

Below The Salt
Eno Washington- master of movement
Page 4

about the cover:

Debbie Schaefer photographed and designed this inspiring masterpiece.

dance

Getting to know Eno. Page 4.

video

Union Video Center: new name, new face. Page 5.

music

Elvis is on the loose! Page 8.

RasTapunk is back. So what? Page 9.

Music. Music. Music. Page 10.

ROMARE

CETA begins recruiting artists

Artists in a variety of fields will be recruited to work with neighborhood groups throughout the city under a CETA arts program now in preparation, it is announced by Barbara J. Garvey, commissioner of Cultural and Community Affairs. The proposal will be submitted for approval and funding to the Hampden County Manpower Consortium in the near future, the announcement states.

notice

"We are anxious to get this interesting program underway as quickly as possible," said Commissioner Garvey, "and we are requesting those artists in this area who consider themselves eligible for employment under CETA criteria to register at the office of the Division of Employment Services at Worthington and Main Streets."

The program, once approved and funded, envisions placing artists with varying skills to work with neighborhood groups which are in need of their expertise. "It is important that artists register promptly so that we may have a listing which can be made available to the groups. Selection of artists to be employed will be dependent upon the needs as set forth by the groups."

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $5.95 served every day
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Bermuda
from $282.50
MARCH 18-25
includes:
·roundtrip air transportation
·transportation between airport and hotel
·seven nights accommodations
·taxes and gratuities

A new view of black history

"The Champion" by Richard Yarde (oil on canvas).

Chant of Saints
The Massachusetts Review
(Nos 3&4)
ed Michael S. Harper &
Robert B. Stepto

Reviewed by ZÖE BEST

The autumn and winter volumes of Massachusetts Review, edited by Michel S. Harper and Robert B. Stepto, bring together "A gathering of Afro-American literature, art and scholarship." This collection receives its name and dedication from a poem by Sterling A. Brown:

He'd say
"My mother's favorite" And we knew
That what was coming was his chant of saints,
"When de saits go ma'chin home..."
And that would end his concert for the day.

The editors write that these volumes document a decade of artistic contributions and also make special note that, "In the 1970's Sterling Brown was not so much rediscovered as recovered." Chant of Saints is dedicated to Brown.

The visual art on the covers and within penetrates the senses. Volume I includes photographs and photo-montages by Lawrence Sykes. They project narration and symbol-moments devoted to the duality comprised by the African and the land. Romare Bearden is featured in the second volume illustrating his innovative power with color and collage as well as his mastery of the mytho-poetic in his "Odysseus Collages." The overleafs show another facet of Bearden's work, the black and white peopled urban village. Richard Yarde, who is presently part of a show in the area, has assembled individual and group portraits of black men for the autumn volume.

Ralph Ellison is heralded. There is opportunity to comprehend this writer's purpose by way of a letter addressed to a "Senator Sunraider," "The Art of Romare Bearden," and from an interview with him conducted by the editors.

Even though there is a holding to the contemporary period in these presentations, a plaited cord inter-twining other years, other centuries, vast and specific geographies keeps all the works connected. "Africa, Slavery, and the Roots of Contemporary Black Culture," by Mary Berry and John Blasingame makes a direct link to the anthropologically researched conclusions of the preceding article. Ties from the Kongo, Angola, Zambia, and Zaire to Sunbury, Georgia is documented by Robert Thompson revealing that black people in this southern town "talk the old African talk" and maintain African traditions which dictates how they bury their dead.

Sherley Williams analyzes the musical infrastructure of Lucille Clifton's poetry. "Like the blues her poems are firmly based in a living black reality which is more concerned with itself than with direct confrontations with white society and its values."What Williams ibutes to Clifton's writing, could be said of what appears in Chant of Saints. The literature of and by black women is discussed further by Toni Morrison in an interview with Stepto. "I was very interested in how comtemporary black women looked at the stereotype of black women..." She also distinguishes black women's writings from that of black men by the presence of "a sense of joy."

The poetry and fiction single out sequences from the black peoples' odyssey. Michal Harper reflects:

Though I stand before these words
I don't remember your real aims of evil or good, my ancestors
don't know either, though I read
at local libraries about your Bristol,
the great fleets skiffing along wave-
tops, cries of kinsmen below, great schools of sharks forming a crescent
in caravans of corpses buffered by chains.

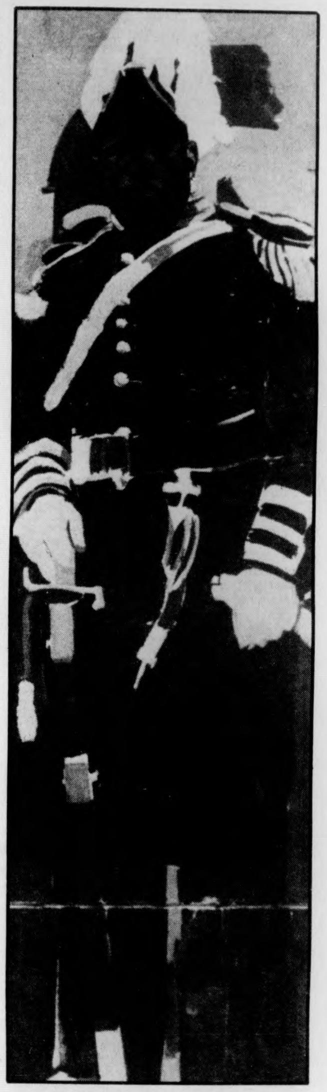
"Packwood's Sermon by Firelight," from the novel The Bloodworth Orphans by Leon Forrest moves in a rythmn of both a rainstorm and at a preacher's pace. The denouement results from the exorcising of Rachel with the church's congregation in attendence, in the mud: "And Reverend Packwood and Sister Rachel climbing into the tree--she upon his shoulders--as the rain poured and the lightning uprooting all life upwards into the storming night and they seemed to vanish into the night, seem-

Richard Wright and John Coltrane appear and reappear in various places. Culminating in a very useful analysis of "Late Coltrane," Kimberly Benston observes,"...it was a struggles for integrity and survival whose dialectical character was insured by Trane's insistence that each new discovery implied a new problem and hence a new stage of awareness."

These volumes of The Massachusetts Review provide work and speculations that are valuable for appraisement from which new aesthetic steps can be taken. Their scope tells of an amalgamation of cultures, of a people's transformation from the African, from the slave, to creator within a society that still refuses to acknowledge life-givers over death-mongers. We can feel the cultural latitudes and dimensions of the Afro-American community that has contributed to the elevation of the whole body of human spirit in this country. It is for all of us that these two volumes are compiled.



"Garvey's Ghost" by Richard Yarde (oil on canvas).

Photos from the Massachusetts Review

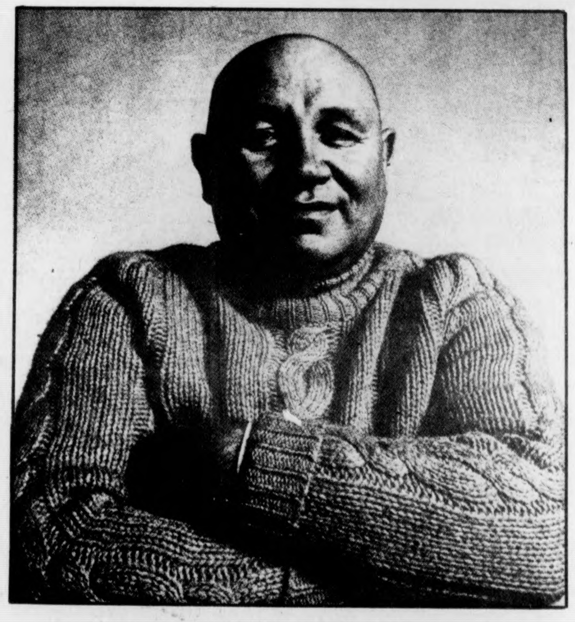
"Richard Wright" by Richard Powell (etching).



Romare Bearden: innovative power.

Eno- dancer, student, artist

by SHARON TRUE

Eno Donald Washington, 26, is a University Without Walls undergraduate with a concentration in dance. He performs and teaches classes in "pan-afrikan" dance, a term that describes dance which is African in influence but non-African in context. In an interview with "Salt" dance editor Sharon True last Wednesday, Eno discussed his background, his theories, and some of the history pertaining to pan-afrikan dance. He also described his activities and some of the problems he's been having with harassment here at UMass.

Childhood

Eno's interest in dance began at an early age. Several aspects of his childhood and youth which he considers particularly significant to his development as a pan-afrikan dance artist and theoretician are his parents' Southern roots (his mother was from Arkansas, his father from Mississippi), his watching and imitating his parents, relatives, and other black people dance and the way they would move naturally, the several years his family spent in the inner-city of Chicago, followed by the all-important move to Portland, Oregon in 1963.

"Had I not left Chicago then, I could have very likely died of an overdose of heroin...or followed my third-grade friend into the maze of gun-toting, switchblade-wielding street gangs. I also know that I have not escaped these ends, perhaps only prolonged an agonizing inability of a black man attempting to survive in the United States of America."

It was in Portland, while attending the experimental Andrew Jackson High School, that he met his first teacher, Ahmad Sahir. "Ahmad was a carpenter, a welder, a contractor; but to me, most importantly, Mr. Sahir was a hand drummer, an African dancer, a fencer, an archer, a choreographer, a painter, a writer, and a philosopher. He gave me direction, and brought a form and content to my art, saving me from the indignities of commercialism"

Eno became the principal dancer in Sahir's troupe, the Black and Tan Afro-American Revue, a group of 40 men, women, and children from the ages of 4 to 54 who performed benefits for black charities and causes.

After performing with a group based at Portland State, Evon Du (meaning pleasureable to see, enjoyable to bewith) that toured throughout the Pacific Northwest, working 40 hour weeks for the Safeway supermarket chain to support himself, and choreographing student dance concerts at Portland state, he decided he had "to leave Portland to continue my growth, or stay and risk stagnation."

In May 1977 he received word of his acceptance to the University Without Walls program at UMass. He gave a farewell concert in Portland, dedicating it to his teacher, Ahmad Sahir, and to the memory of his mother, who had died of leukemia. He received a standing ovation by the sell-out crowd for his performance. A Nigerian woman, Scholastica Oboubori, commented, "Washington, you dance as if you have no bone!"

On August 19 and 20, Eno gave his debut performance at the Main St. Center in Northampton, on invitation from the Unity Ensemble, a band dedicated to the performance of black cultural music.

Defining pan-Afrikan dance

Eno spoke at length of the history and philosophy of pan-afrikan dance; a condensed version of his remarks follows:

"The dances of Africa are traditionally not considered "art" as it is known in Western civilization because in Africa, everyone dances. It is not uncommon to see elderly men and women dancing to the same music as adolescents. There are dances for every occasion: harvesting, planting, births, weddings, funerals, good weather, rain, praise for our teachers."

"The dance is not done for the sake of the individual, but for the African communal body."

"There are two types of African dances -- recreational and ritual. Recreational dance is informal, allowing for free improvisation closely following the trends of popular fashions in music and ideas, and in standards of acceptable behavior. Ritual dance, on the other hand, is relatively unchanging; the bone and blood of African culture with deep psychological and religious roots."

"African dance, for centruies, has expressed a functional unity of art and life, a total synthesis of mind, body and spirit."

"Under the yoke of colonization and slavery, African dance began to change in its form and content." The North American slave trade stripped the African slaves of their culture -- the slave-hunters slaughtered the principal carriers of African history, religion, art, science and medicine (the musicians, the witch doctors, the warriors, the chieftains) and the slave masters did not allow the slaves to worship their gods, play their drums (which as well as being their music were a form of communication), dance their dances, or speak their language. Thus, all ties with their African culture were severed.

"The slaves were allowed to dance only in a manner in which they would ridicule each other or entertain their slave-master's myth of the happy-go-lucky, just-glad-to-be-here slave. Dancing and singing of this type gave birth to the minstrel shows of the late 19th century and eventually to vaudeville and Broadway in the early 1900s."

The years that followed saw the Harlem Renaissance of black music coupled with the development of black social dances that "went back to the real life art of Africa -- the Turkey Trot, the Grizzly Bear, the Monkey, the Chicken Scratch, the Bullfrog, the Hop, and the dance which revolutionized the dance patterns of the white community, the Charleston."

The Depression, along with the Americanization of the Harlem black music and dance(meaning that the innvovations of black artists were picked up by the music industry, then promoted and popularized using white performers whenever possible) brought an end to this period of black innovation and creativity.

Although many believe that so-called jazz and chorus dancing was born on Broadway, Eno maintains that "it was transmuted to Broadway but born and nurtured in the throbbing inner-city ghettos."

Eno's own style of black interpretive dance probably originated in 1931 when the New Negro Art Theater presented a suite of interpretive dances based on Southern spriituals. "Both the subject matter and the approach of the dance went beyond the scope of black dance tradition, and in so doing the suite set a precedent for future interpretive presentations of black music and dance."

A street dancer

Eno's purpose in dancing is for "the re-education of black people to their own glorious but depressed history." He calls himself a black street dancer, a folk artist. In folk art, he says, "there is authenticity, emotion, faith, hope, love, and also, style." The movement of a black street dacner tends to take place within a restricted area. Eno, for example, conceives his dances in columns; complex, but subtle movements confined to a columnar area around his body. This "trapped"style of movement goes back to the days of confinement under slavery, and even further back to the slave ships, where the African slaves were encouraged to dance the limbo to prevent muscular atrophy. (The limbo is danced under a gradually lowered stick.)

The basic characteristics of African dance, as described in Marshall and Jean Stearns' book, Jazz Dance, include the use

TURN TO PAGE 14

Ballet blazes into town

The Boston Ballet will present a traditional ballet and a new addition to their repertoire on Friday and Saturday, March 3 and 4.

The two performances will feature both "Coppelia", a ballet of great comedy and love, and "Aureole", the lively classic of Paul Taylor.

"Coppelia", or "The Girl With Enamel Eyes" is a classic ballet in three acts. This presentation of Coppelia is choreographed by Les Ivanov and Enrico Cecchetti, and staged by E. Virginia Williams. Music is by Leo Delibes.

"Coppelia" is set in the square of a small town, Galacia, several hundred years ago. Dr. Coppelius, a doll maker, has constructed a doll, Coppelia, so life-like that everyone believes it to be a beautiful girl. Swanilda, betrothed to Frantz, becomes angry when she notices Frantz flirtatiously waving to Coppelia. What follows is a timeless test of love between young lovers, and the moment when Swanilda meets and discovers Coppelia.

In the end Frantz and Swanilda are married and their marriage becomes the crowning event of a joyous day for the villagers. Coppelia is adapted from a story by E.T.A. Hoffman. It was first presented at the Theatre Imperial de l'Opera, Paris, May 1870.

"Aureole," choreographed by Paul Taylor is a very original response to Handel's expressive score, the "Concerto grosso in G" and the forth movement of "Alexander's Feast."

"Aureole" is considered as the most popular of all Paul Taylor dances. It is abstract, a close blend between modern dance and ballet.

The dancers, in white, are light and playful, a movement away from laughter. Although many dance companies have requested Aureole for their repertoires, Mr. Taylor has only given this dance to the Royal Danish Ballet, the Ohio Ballet, Rudolf Nureyev and Friends, and now, the Boston Ballet. Aurole was first performed at the American Dance Festival at Connecticut College in New London, 1962.

Tickets for the Boston Ballet are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open weekdays 9a.m. to 4p.m., and all Ticketron locations. Ticket prices are: General public-$7,6,5. UMass students $5,4,3. Senior citizens and other students are $6,5,4. For more information, call 545-2511.

FAST ECONOMICAL & FREQUENT FREQUENT
FREQUENT
FREQUENT
Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer service to Boston, New York and many other destinations.

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS
& PETER PAN BUS LINES

CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.
Peter Pan

For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549-6000

Union video: new name, face

by SKIP TENCZAR

Television, T.V., the glowing eye, the boob tube? We all know it by a diffrent term. Most of us have grown up and continue to grow while watching this odd box. T.V. usually brings to mind Archie Bunker, Ronald McDonald, Walter Cronkite, Rhoda, and a host of other characters, but there is a group of students living and working in our University community who refuse to just sit there and watch it. They've come up with a better, productively beneficial idea; they make their own television and they offer you the opportunity to do the same. They call themselves the Union Center for Video (formerly known as the Student Video Project) and are a recognized student organization that is dedicated to serving television-video needs of the UMass community.

Debbie Schaefer

The University Center for Video, also called U.C.V., is a young organization of only about three years old, and it continues to increase the benefits of the communicative, artistic video medium to our campus. Since its beginning, U.C.V. has offered students free access to the expensive tools of video production, while at the same time providing a place where they can work and meet people whose creative aspirations are similar. Now in addition to the equipment access and invitation to all members of the community to come and take part, the center offers instructional workshops in video production, a wide variety of production departments, and a Video Sidewalk program in which they show tapes of community interest every Wednesday from 11 A.M. to 2 P.M. in the Student Union Building's Cape Cod Lounge free of charge. This adds up to something that is all too rare, but at the same time a neccessity, participatory television with free, open cultural exchange.

Here's a run-down of the production departments and shows that are already in existence within the organization.

The Valley Magazine Show. This often appears on CCATV in Amherst and is a human interest type show, which is usually composed of bit spots put together. In the past they've done segments like "Impressions of Roots," a piece on Orchestra Luna, to helpful hints for the care of houseplants.

The news show. This is a new show which will incorporate documentary investigative video making with university and local news events of interest and consequence.

The variety show. This regular video segment will include a Soap Opera on student life plus various campus entertainment acts who wish to perform on video tape.

Music and Movement. This is an outgrowth and expansion of the video-dance concept. The work will consist of creative uses of the video medium in relation to dance and electronic music.

Community Affairs. C.A. will be documenting many of the important cultural events which will take place on campus. These will include Distinguished visitors speaking on our campus, plus other happenings of interest.

In addition to these, there are a number of other departments which are self explanatory in their function. They are concert crews, theatre series, Third World dept., Woman's program and the Sports Dept.

One of the most important functions of U.C.V. is that they offer free instruction in video production to anyone who wants it. This year, workshops are scheduled in two parts to cover varied aspects of the nuts and bolts of video. In the first part students will learn how to use the cameras and equipment, and do some actual video taping. In the second session, the students will critique what they had shot in the last session and learn how to edit their tape. This should provide the student with all he/she should know to become technically cleared with the organization. (Technically cleared means that the person has proven him/herself competent in using the U.C.V. equipment and this enables them to be eligible to use and sign out the equipment.) The workshops are already scheduled and all one needs to do to take part, is to go down to U.C.V. in 216 Student Union (Commuter Lounge) and sign up in advance. The workshops are in two parts and grouped accordingly: Workshop 1, part 1, Monday, February 27 from 7 to 10 PM. Part 2, Thursday, March 2, from 7 to 10 PM. Workshop 2, part 1, Tuesday February 28 from 2 to 5 PM. Part 2, Thursday, March 2 from 2 to 5 PM.There will be more workshops as the semester progresses, these are the first to be given this year.

This semester the U.C.V. has instituted a new policy of equipment and sign out that should make it easier for more people to use the tools of video. Equipment distribution is in two parts; general access and U.C.V. sanctioned projects. General access is simple, the person wishing to use the equipment signs out it one week in advance so that the following week they can come, pick it up, and begin taping. For the more extensive video projects, the center uses a proposal process. The student or group of students wishing to use the equipment submits a proposal to the coordinating council U.C.V. which then makes the decision about the sanctioning of the project depending upon the immediate demand of the equipment and the value of the proposed project.

Anyone interested in U.C.V. should go down to their offices and talk to the coordinator David Skillicorn who is there almost every school day. It's important to

TURN TO PAGE 15

HAHJEE'S PLACE
The area's only gourmet Persian Restaurant featuring:
lamb, vegetarian dishes, crepes and special cocktails.
Located midway between Northampton and Amherst on Rt. 9, 413-584-9797.
Mon.-Thurs. 4:30-10:30; Fri.-Sat. 12:00-12:00; Sun. 12-10:30

"The Place that made Amherst Famous"
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
(16 Draft)
MEXICAN & AMERICAN FOOD
NEW ENGLAND FRIED CHICKEN
SANDWICHES & SNACKS
"THE DRAKE VILLAGE INN"
85 Amity St. Amherst 253-2548

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEES $2.00 til 2:30 EVERYDAY
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER R
PG STAR WARS
MEL BROOKS in HIGH ANXIETY
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
the goodbye girl PG
PG JULIA
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS' CANDLESHOE G
A TRUE LOVE STORY
'THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN' PART 2
PG
The Turning Point
A story of envy, hatred, friendship, triumph, and love.
PG
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

"Bounce over to
The Hideout
before or after the game and enjoy the best pizzas
& grinders anywhere."
WE DELIVER
ALSO AT LUNCH TIME!!!
256-0441

The Hideout
103 North Pleasant St. • Amherst

★ Eno

CONT. FROM PAGE 12

of bent knees, with the body close to earth, the tendency to use the foot as a whole in that the wieght is shifted immediately from one foot to the other, the isolation of body parts and movements of the head, shoulders, hips, rib cage, etc., the use of rhythmically complex and syncopated movement, the carrying of as many as two or theee rhythms in the body at once also known as polyrhythms. Combining music and dance as a single expression, one feeding the other as two hands wash one another, individualists of style within a group style, and functionalism, becoming what you dance -- these too are characteristics of African dance. To these general characteristics Eno would add, for his particular mode of expression of interpretive black dance, the imitation of animals, and the conveying of African tale and myth, as necessary African dance exponents.

The basic characteristics of African dance, as described in Marshall and Jean Stearns' book, Jazz Dance, include the use of bent knees, with the body close to earth, the tendency to use the foot as a whole in that the weight is shifted immediately from one foot to the other, the isolation of body parts and movements of the head, shoulders, hips, rib cage, etc., the use of rhythmically complex and syncopated movement, the carrying of as many as two or three rhythms in the body at once also known as polyrhythms. Combining music and dance as a single expression, one feeding the other as two hands wash one another, individualists of style within a group style, and functionalism, becoming what you dance -- these too are characteristics of African dance. To these general characteristics Eno would add, for his particular mode of expression of interpretive black dance, the imitation of animals, and the conveying of African tale and myth, as necessary African dance exponents.

Eno teaches pan-afrikan dance at the Amherst Ballet Centre, at the Hampden Theater in Southwest, and at Lewis house for Northeast-Sylvan. He is writing a book which he hopes to get published next year, entitled "Political Perspectives and Ramifications of Pan-Afrikan Dance." He is also taping a lecture-demonstration of pan-afrikan dance with UMass video artist John Zieman, which they hope to sell to a public broadcasting station in Springfield, Boston, or Chicago. Then, there are performances...and occasionally a chance to eat and sleep.

Harassment

He sleeps, that is, provided he isn't plagued by callers who hang up when he picks up the receiver. The problems he's had with harassment extent to R.A.'s questioning his whereabouts, and having photographs, notes, and some of his African artifacts and jewelry taken from his room. "I know I'm under surveillance," Eno said.

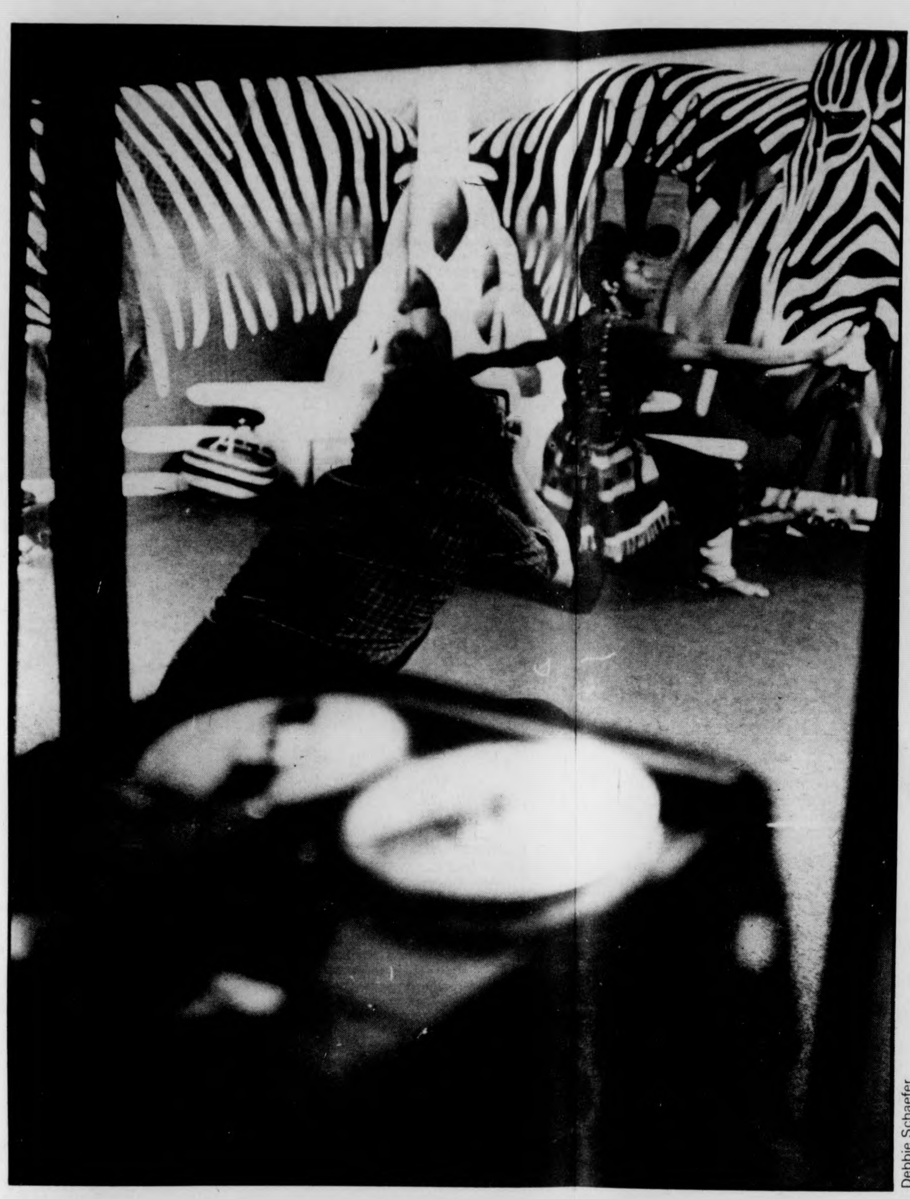
In addition, his non-traditional approach to dance has met with some resistance on the part of the UMass dance faculty with whom he took classes last semester. "They say I've got flat feet and that I don't do my arabesques right," he said. "I'm something of an embarassment to them because I'm an undergraduate teaching dance." He is grateful however , to the UMass dance students for their support; "When I injured myself during the second performance of the Student Dance Concert last fall, they were genuinely concerned for my welfare, getting me icepacks, asking as to my condition, etc."

What might people find threatening about Eno's dancing? Perhaps a remark he made about the plight of African slaves provides an answer: "Africans were stripped of the right to dance their indigenous dances because of the positive psychological effects and the power of the African dance to physically move its exponents from the passive to the active."

Debbie Schaefer

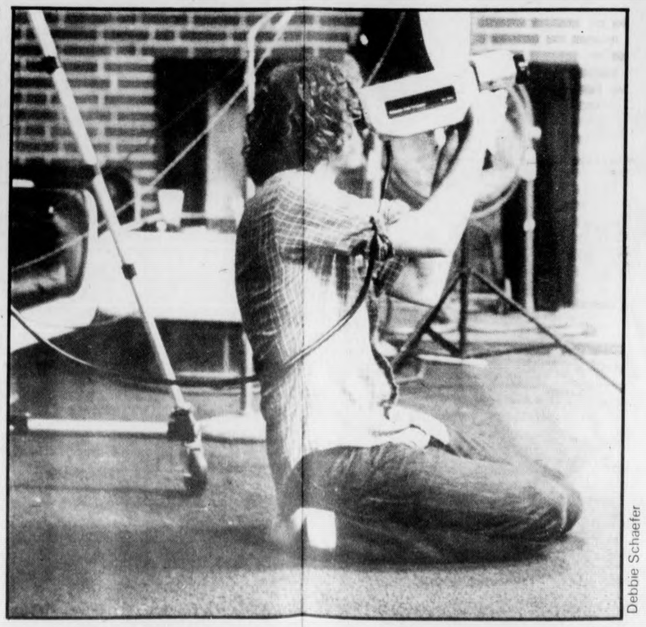
Contrary to the negative connotations of American expressions associated with the color black -- expressions such as "black magic," "black mood," "blacklist," "black sheep," and "devil's food cake" -- Eno is saying that there is nothing wrong with being black. Black history and culture, slowly emerging after years of suppression, is proof of that. But it is Eno's dancing, which I have seen and which I urge everyone to see, that provides the vivid, living proof that there is everything right with being black.

Eno will be performing "Knife Dance" and "Song of Mozambique" Friday evening at the Hampden Theater in Southwest, along with the group Sunlight and Shade, as part of the celebration of Black History Week at the University.



Debbie Schaefer

Debbie Schaefer



Debbie Schaefer

★ Video

CONT. FROM PAGE 13

remember that the center is ultimately student-run, historically it has grown because of the energy of its participants. Its new participants will shape the organization and its services extended to the community. So where can it go from here? U.C.V. members would be the first to say that its growth has no limits with the hope of caele broadcasts throughout the campus. And we must remember that video is still video until it starts to appear on a large number of television screens in the community. Then and only then will video become television.

---

A calendar of video shows to be presented in the Cape Cod Lounge in the Student Union Building every Wednesday morning-afternoon. Everyone is invited.

THE SOCIETY

March 1:

11:00 -- Street Corner Society -- Street theater on popular culture, and male-female conciousness and roles.

12:00 -- Breathing Together -- A documentary on the early seventies that captures the importance of this pivotal point in history.

1:30 -- Future Shock -- Orson Welles narrates Alvin Toffler's thesis on the effects of rapid technological change.

2:30 -- Edits -- A variety of things worth seeing.

WOMAN'S WEEK

March 8:

11:00 -- The Politics of Intimacy -- Nine women talk in a frank and intimate discussion of orgasm and sexuality.

11:30 -- Woman Working -- A survey of women who have filed sex discrimination complaints against their employers.

11:45 -- Ama L'uomo Tuo (Always Love Your Man) -- A portrait of an elderly Italian-American woman who tells of the sacrifices that living by this motto (title) has brought to her.

12:00 -- Anais Nin -- Anais Nin, best known for her diary, is a writer, artist and a major example of a woman fulfilled in and by her life's work.

1:00 -- The Politics of Intimacy --

1:30 -- The Best of the New York Festival of Woman's Films -- Crocus, Cover Girl, New Face in Focus, Cycles.

2:15 -- Edits -- U.C.V. productions --

ART VARIATIONS

March 15:

11:00 -- A Variety of Video Artworks -- Exploring the many avenues being undertaken by current video artists.

12:30 -- Between Time and Timbuktu -- Kurt Vonnegut's film that combines many of his works and themes.

2:00 -- More Video Art --

THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE

March 29:

11:00 -- Scenes From Russia -- Every day life in Moscow.

11:30 -- The Forbidden City -- The Imperial history of Peking, its art and culture then and now.

12:30 -- Cuba: The People -- A look at the Cuban way of life. The old and the new, in a society built by revolution.

2:15 -- The King and Other Swedish Subjects -- Swedish King Carl XVI Gustaf is subject to the passion of royal pagentry, and the tradition of Swedish- Americans living in Minnesota.

THIRD WORLD PERSPECTIVE

April 5:

11:00 -- Last Poets -- A work about the Black Experience in America.

12:30 -- Beyond the Mountains -- Two black video artists trace their roots back to their ancestral home in Africa.

1:30 -- Richard Pryor -- Richard Pryor performing in a night club in New York.

2:30 -- Edits -- U.V.C. work and other things.

THE ENVIRONMENT

April 12:

11:00 -- Pesticide Politics -- An investigative documentary on the use of controversial pesticide 245T.

11:30 -- Water Works -- A short visual essay on what happens to Mississippi River water before it reaches the home.

11:40 -- Incident at Brown's Ferry -- Causes and consequences of a Nuke breakdown.

12:30 -- SEABROOK -- Two thousand citizens occupy the proposed Nuke sight. Complete at the scene coverage.

1:30 -- more tapes to be announced.

SELF HELP

April 29:

Jean Piaget -- Speaks on the nature of creativity at the Eisenhower symposium on creativity.

Supermarket Strategy -- Smart ways to shop.

Edits and more -- check for details the week of the program.

ROCK BABIES

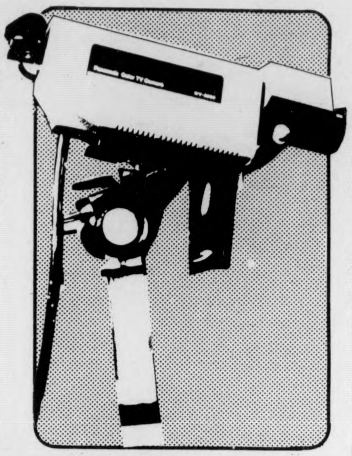
May 3:

11:00 -- The Beatles -- A feature tape on the Beatles; various performances.

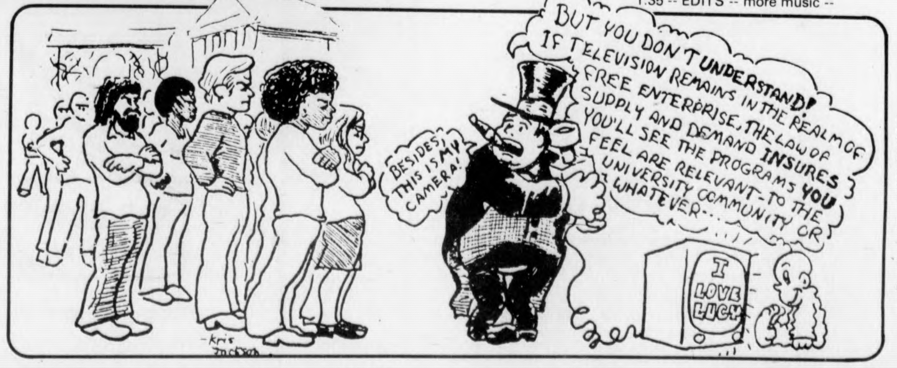
11:45 - Jimi plays Berkeley -- Hendrix at his peak. Memorial day 1970, with Mitch Mitchell and Billy Cox.

12:50 -- Beatles --

1:35 -- EDITS -- more music --



Debbie Schaefer



BUT YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND! IF TELEVISION REMAINS IN THE REALM OF FREE ENTERPRISE, THE LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND INSURES YOU'LL SEE THE PROGRAMS YOU FEEL ARE RELEVANT - TO THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY OR WHATEVER...
BESIDES, THIS IS MY CAMERA!
I LOVE LUCY
-kris Jackson

Double Feature Showing
NOW at Two Theatres...

HIT #1 at 7:15

GANGA WEED, GUNS
REGGAE MUSIC jimmy cliff
THE HARDER
THEY COME

PLUS at 9:00
AN OUTRAGEOUS
MEAL OF MADNESS
KENTUCKY FRIED MOVIE [R]

The AMHERST Cinema
downtown amherst
(5:30 Matinee Sat/Sun)

and also showing

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
in Northampton

Get it on your chest.

Any design or logo Screen Printed on T-Shirts for dorms, teams, clubs, concerts, parties, etc. 20 colors, 15 styles including reg. T's, sweats, shorts, trim T's, French and European cut, and long sleeve T's, etc. No order too large or too small. Write for catalog or call

FORTE PRINTING
P.O. BOX 211
FLORENCE, MA 01060
(413) 584-2124

Campus Rep
Steve Milligan
545-3539

Elvis Costello: the critics' choice

by PERRY ADLER

You probably have Elvis Costello all wrong. You think because he's getting the big push that he's merely a hype? Wrong. New Wave devotees were raving long before he was even signed by CBS. You think because of his name and his appearance on Saturday Night that he's simply another freak act like Leon Redbone? Dead wrong. Elvis Costello is the best singer/songwriter to come along since...

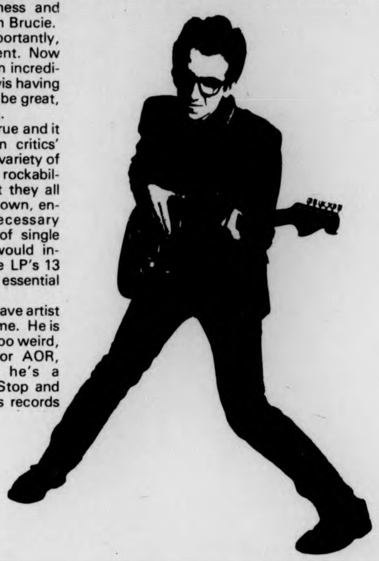
Did I hear somebody say Springsteen? The similarity is only superficial, and at least on record, Elvis is much more listenable. Where Bruce is corny, Elvis is angry, and he lacks the wordiness and melodrama that put many off from Brucie. His singing is better, and most importantly, his material is much more consistent. Now I have seen Springsteen put on an incredible show despite it all, and with Elvis having many fewer handicaps, his should be great, too, and advance word is that it is.

His album is called My Aim is True and it was a nearly unheard favorite in critics' polls . The songs show a wide variety of influences, from bar band blues to rockabilly to Phil Spector to reggae, yet they all come off sounding very much his own, entirely modern and not unnecessary rehashes. And almost all are of single quality; picking the standouts would involve talking about 9 or so of the LP's 13 songs. Suffice to say it is an essential record.

Elvis looks to be the first New Wave artist to completely break into the big time. He is programmable; neither too loud, too weird, too "trivial", nor too British (for AOR, anyway). And, of course, he's a prestigious singer/songwriter. Stop and think how far he would get if his records were simply billed as by the Attractions. But Elvis Costello is one of the few solo artists that has nothing to do with hippy-dippy folkie Sominex; rather, he's in the tradition of the great rockers like Buddy Holly (of whom Elvis is very reminiscent, visually) and that other Elvis.

Don't miss Elvis Costello and the Attractions next Wednesday night at the S.U.B. Sorry if this sounds like an ad, but Elvis really is one of the very best performers to emerge this past year, and considering the astounding musical renaissance now going on, that's saying something.

Oh yeah, Willie Alexander is great, too.

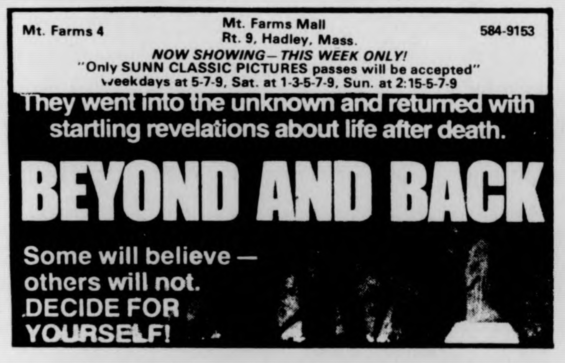


THE RESTAURANT just good food

Featuring: homemade soups, salads, & sandwiches

daily specials
bagels & pastries
256-8955

OPEN 9:30-6:00
MON.-SAT.
AT FACES OF EARTH



Mt. Farms 4
Mt. Farms Mall
Rt. 9, Hadley, Mass.
584-9153
NOW SHOWING—THIS WEEK ONLY!
"Only SUNN CLASSIC PICTURES passes will be accepted"
weekdays at 5-7-9, Sat. at 1-3-5-7-9, Sun. at 2:15-5-7-9
They went into the unknown and returned with startling revelations about life after death.
BEYOND AND BACK
Some will believe — others will not.
DECIDE FOR YOURSELF!

See Jimmy Cliff in the Jamaican film classic The Harder They Come. The reggae beat will move your body and soul. Saturday night, 7,9,11, February 25, 1978 in wondrous Mahar Auditorium. Admission a buck...

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Boston Ballet
in COPPELIA
Music by Leo Delibes
Choreography by
Lev Ivanov and Enrico Cecchetti
AUREOLE
Music by Handel
Choreography by Paul Taylor
Fri. & Sat., March 3 & 4 8pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale for both performances. Gen. Pub. -$7, 6, 5. UM-A $5, 4, 3. Other students and senior citizens -$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

DAVID'S
OF MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
TEL - 586-1878
February
24-25 Fri. Sat.
PRESENTS
CONNECTICUT'S NEWEST ROCK GROUP
Alley Rose
DINE & DANCE
9PM-1AM
FREE! 1-DRAFT BEER WITH COLLEGE ID.
Appearing every Wed. and Thurs.
Sandy Robinson- vocalist and pianist

Approximate genius

Elvis Costello
My Aim Is True
CBS

Willie Alexander
and the Boom Boom Band
MCA

Reviewed by RASTAPUNK RAM DASS

Approximate genius
Elvis and Willie
Croon us with sweet subtle song
Shout
"Shoots in mixed suits
Roots in old boots!
Dress for the new traditions!"
Shake
Sixties-born herb-babies
From
Stone-silent brand mind-rabies
Of spectator awe and madness

Play like we can!
Play like us!
Show us what we could do...
Approximate genius
Exxagerate genius
Elvis and Willie
Costello to you two too
(Aim Alexander true)
Approximate genius
Demystify genius
Do what we could do too

DVP & Resources Judaica
presents
dvp
Elie Wiesel
" An Evening With Elie Wiesel"
Monday, Feb. 27, 1978
8:00 p.m. in Student Union Ballroom

The University Ensemble Theater
presents
Molière's
The School For Wives
Translated by Richard Wilbur
FRANK PRENTICE RAND THEATER
UMass Fine Arts Center
Feb. 24 25 March 2 3 4 at 8:00 pm
Special Sunday Matinee February 26 at 2:00 pm
Reservations 545-3511

Program Council Films Presents:
SILVER STREAK
FILMS INCORPORATED
Starring Richard Pryor & Gene Wilder
Fri., Feb. 24 - 7 & 11:30

NORTH BY NORTHWEST
FILMS INCORPORATED
Starring Cary Grant
Fri., Feb. 24 - 9 CCA - $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS
ADULTS $2.50 STUDENTS & SR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARD $2.00
TWI LITE SHOW $1.50 CHILDREN $1.25 - SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED
TLS ... TWI-LITE SHOW-TICKETS ON SALE 30 MINUTES PRIOR TO TLS

1 IT'S GOT HEAT
SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER
JOHN TRAVOLTA
R
Sun.-Thur. (TLS 6:15)-8:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 5:00)-7:45-9:55
Matinee (wed.,thur. fri.,sat.,sun.) 2:15

2 CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND
WE ARE NOT ALONE
RICHARD DREYFUSS
PG
Sun.-Thur. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 4:45 -7:30-9:55
Matinee (wed.,thur. fri.,sat.,sun.) 2:00

3 FINAL WEEK
WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS'
PETE'S DRAGON
G
Sun.-Thur. (TLS 6:00)-8:30
Fri.-Sat. (TLS 4:45)-7:30
Matinee (wed.,thur. fri.,sat.,sun.) 2:00

4 ONE WEEK ONLY
BEYOND AND BACK
They went into the unknown and returned with startling revelations about life after death.
G
Wed.-Thur. 2:15-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Fri.-Sat 1:00-3:00-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Sun. 2:15-(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00
Mon.-Tue.(TLS 5:00)-7:00-9:00

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TLS TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

ROYALE CASINO
CASINO ROYALE
A CLASSIC JAMES BOND 007 SPOOF
STARRING
PETER SELLERS, WOODY ALLEN
ORSON WELLES , DAVID NIVEN,
URSULA ANDRESS
NEW YORKER MAG.
Saturday Feb. 25th CCA
6:30. 9:00. 11:30
$1.00

Musical shoots...

COLEMAN CLASSICS
1

Ornette Coleman et al
Coleman Classics
(Improvising Artists)

Reviewed by ROBERT ARMSTRONG

This recent Improvising Artists release is quite an interesting one in that it gives one the opportunity to hear how this pioneering ensemble sounded live in person when it was making the transition from bebop to free jazz. This was 1958.

It is Coleman that seems to have the most command on this album; his solos show a strong, fluid style that isn't quite yet ready to burst into his multi-vectorial excursions of a few years later. The same dynamic tension is present here as one finds in many of Coltrane's solos of the period; the melodic elements clash against the atonal, creating a musical tug o' war where neither side really gives any ground. The group is rounded out by Don Cherry on trumpet, Paul Bley on piano, Charlie Haden on bass, and Billy Higgins on drums. Cherry is his usual competent self, sculpting clear, well-rounded proto-free-jazz statements, while Bley comps and runs with appropriate coolness. Haden and Higgins lay down well-postured bop-cool rhythms and display their inventiveness in the few solos that they take.

There are four compositons on the album; "When Will The Blues Leave?," "Crossroads," and "Ramblin'" all by Coleman, and Irving Berlin's "How Deep is the Ocean."

The exploratory energy of the music in this relaxed live setting (a jazz club which is not named on the album -- the customers can be heard yapping a bit) ought to sustain the listeners interest throughout. All the artists on this album have since gone to form their own groups, but this recording shows them in great cohesion during a pivotal epoch in the development of Afro-American music. Hot stuff, this.

Iota Gamma Upsilon invites all University women to
Open Rush
Thurs., Feb. 23 8-9 p.m.
Pub Night
Sun., Feb. 26 5 p.m.
Grinder Night
406 N. Pleasant St.-545-0082
I.G.U. is for you!

NOMINATIONS CLOSE TOMORROW
for
 SGA PRESIDENT ***
 The Student Trustee  and for the
 BOARD of GOVERNORS ***
They set policy for the Campus Center and Student Union
Hustle down to rm. 420 S.U.
for nomination papers, or call
5-0341 for more information

Raydio
(Arista)
Reviewed by MARIO BARROS

This group and LP was put together by Ray Parker Jr., a man who has contributed his guitar and writing artistry to countles Soul hits. As a session man, he's proven very valuable an element for that "Hit Sound."

This LP marks his first project that features his talents (playing, singing, producing and arranging) in the primary role. When one hears some of the titles and lyrics (with titles like, "Me" and "Betcha Can't Love Me Just Once") one feels that Parker emerges from the background with extreme confidence on an ego trip. Any feelingsof repression are totally shucked.

The sound of this LP is truly a "Hit Sound" and one that Parker is quite accustomed to. The skillful blend of Funk, Rock and Soul elements sounds very Brothers Johnsonish. Straight Soul though, is the overriding influence with strong leads and syncopated harmonies most prominent- kind of like the Temptations of old with the Bros. Johnson as their back-up band.

When done with the first listening session with this LP, one thing was clear to me. This LP is Ray Parker in his finest hour (that in itself is a mouthful) and this LP has a solid shot at Soul LP of the year both esthetically (important) and in the marketplace (secondary, but also important.) Raydio will "turn you on!"

Leroy Hutson
Closer to the Source
Warner Brothers
Reviewed by RANDY GLENN

Leroy Hutson's latest album, Closer to the Source, is a combination of musical styles of various recording artists. The most readily discernible styles are Marvin Gaye, Where Did Love Go?, and Issac Hayes, They've Got Love. This is not an exact mimicry; what is noticeable are the stylistic factors that make these artist's music known.

What Leroy Hutson does with this isn't bad. The only drawback to this approach is the listener equates what is heard to the music of the mimiced artist. Leroy Hutson's music really stands on its own when it is something that can be related to him. In the Mood, Get to This (You'll Get to Me), and Closer to the Source are the most dynamic pieces on the album.

Closer to the Source (also the title track), is a very energetic and vibrant piece. This piece and Get to This (You'll Get to Me) are the embodiment of the feeling on this album. The warm sensation and clarity of feeling brings depth to the album's message. There is a weakness in the total selection of songs and the order in which they are grouped. Everybody's a Masterpiece is lost in the album. The song is a spinoff of the old Temptations' song Masterpiece. The melody and the meaning don't cooperate. In fact, they mix as well as oil and water.

Leroy Hutson's strongest asset where music is concerned, is his soothing, melodious voice when it cascades through simple, but, precise lyrics. When he stays with this, he produces solid tunes.

Closer to the Source is a good album, however, it fails to show the potential of Leroy Hutson. It is easy listening and an album to have as a change of pace. I like Leroy Hutson's smooth and even sound. I hope his next effort will be more unified and a bit closer to its Source.

Poetry

Sister Sonia Sanchez will read a selection of her work entitled "Poems of Living and Being" on Thursday, February 23, at 8:00 P.M. in Mahar Auditorium. Sanchez, formerly of Amherst College, currently teaches at Temple University in Pennsylvania. Sanchez is an internationally-known poet, and author of several volumes of poetry and plays. The reading will be free and open to the public.

Hand-Knit Socks
Comfortable, cozy, and casual
Our knee-length socks, hand knit in a cheerful array of colors, are so thick and warm you can wear them as slippers. Tie tops are an interesting detail. Moderately priced at 5.98.
CHILDREN'S SIZES, TOO!
A refreshing place to shop!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

...in various suits

The Dells
Love Connection
Mercury

reviewed by MARIO A. BARROS

The Dells offer us the second step in their "comeback" and it's another Hi-hat Smoker under the direction of Philly's Norman Harris. The Dells teamed up with Harris as they opted for the Philly format in lieu of their petering Detroit formula. The results in spite of the chagrin of Detroit Soul purists has been excellent. They predicted that the Dells would be lost in the Disco shuffle and slide into the myriad of Disco mass producers.

On the contrary, that hasn't happened. There is a very good reason for this and that is Marvin Junior. Junior lends the Dells that unmistakable quality that garnered them so many fans in the late 60s. Those who choose to come back for that second taste will find Marvin in the same condition that they left him in. He's still one of the most talented lead vocalists in the industry today.

The Dells are still the sam talent and personnel-wise. Only the packaging is different. While listening to any of the cuts on the LP there's no mistake that you are listening to the Dells. People have wanted the Dells to come back but were disappointed with weak efforts and weak production in trying to recapture that old sound• Well, this is the 70's and they've finally undergone that much-needed revamping and change that the very talented Norman Harris has given them.

Fat Larry's Band
Off the Wall
Stax

Reviewed by SYBIL WALKER

If there are larger things than a four-piece rock band, there is nothing more pure. The extreme opposite is cooking with eight pieces and nine members: Fat Larry's Band. Appealing perhaps to the credit card set, this funky human music machine has a decidedly commercial sound. Not surprising, as Star Wars was the inspiration Motown veterans Larry James used for several of the pieces. The resulting music contrasts with similar "omnipotent force" inspired work of, say Earth, Wind and Fire in that it lacks their subtle control of dynamics and apparent savoir-faire. What is conveyed is the band's obvious musical enjoyment of one another; a spirituality this reviewer found miraculous within Larry James' contrived arrangement. Interesting that the cut where this comraderie is most evident is "Easy," written by Doris, Larry's collaborator-wife. Here the band shines for a percussion filled five minutes, and it is clear why the musicians were 'hand-picked'. Fat Larry has as much committment to Love as a pornographer: (as much conviction) only he's exploiting his horn section. An overproduced disco delite.

DAVID RUFFIN
AT HIS BEST

David Ruffin
At His Best
(Motown)

Eddie Kendricks
At His Best
(Tamla)

Reviewed by MARIO BARROS

Anyone who's followed soul music for the past ten years (or less even) knows two things about Eddie Kendricks and David Ruffin. One; they were both integral parts of the soul stalwart the Temptations; and two; neither one could compile a greatest hits LP without including some of their Temptations milestones.

Gladly, both have had the good sense to include their Temptations biggies to lend some credibility to the title; "At His Best". With Ruffin, we have "I Wish It Would Rain" and "Ain't To Proud To Beg." You're damned right they went way back! The lot doesn't stop there as a couple other Tempts' sides are thrown in along with his solo hilites. With Mr. Kendricks we see only one Temptations cut but it's one that could never been overlooked in "Just My Imagination." This song isn't only one of his best performances but has to be considered a Temptations classic as it features Kendricks on lead vocals and it was penned and produced by Mr. Norman Whitfield, the driving force behind the Temptations during their best years in the Motor City. (Where it was recorded.)

From a historical perspective, one is better off with the Ruffin compiliation, but Mr. Kendricks has his share of bright moments and outshines Ruffin at times when comparing their solo work. Some disappointment should be expressed with Eddie's LP though. Not present are "Date With The Rain" nor a contribution from his LP "Goin Up In Smoke," his first LP under the production of Norman Harris.

Bootsy's Rubber Band
Bootsy? Player of the year.
Warner Bros.
reviewed by MARIO A. BARROS

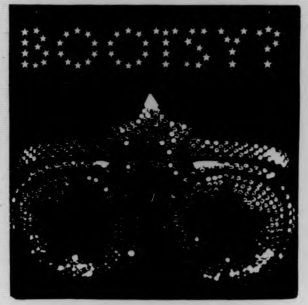
Bootsy comes at us once again with some more of his chanting, ranting, raving, cooing, brooding brand of funk. He continues to bombard his adoring audience with his thundering Space Bass and cajole them with his vocals. With Bootsy? Player of the Year, we find the man continuing pretty much along the same lines he laid down in his other LPs, Ahh, The Neme Is Bootsy Baby! and Stretchin' Out.

Bootsy? is a nice synthesis of some of the better elements of his two previous discs. From Ahh, he takes the chanting element that worded to add more excitement to "We Want Bootsy" from that LP. The chanting of the people in the background gave the cut life and fave it the aura of a live performance. He brings this concept back for another run in "Bootzilla." There's alot going on in this cut but you have total confidence that it all comes from Bootsy in that he creates it and controls it. Bootsy reigns supreme and makes his presence felt with an erratic pluck on the Space Bass or a poetically sung or spoken verse.

With each release, Bootsy realizes more of a following and longs to give them more Bootsy. His confidence increases with each effort and seems to culminate with this LP and ventures into conceit. He could easily hide behind folks like Fred Wesley and Maceo Parker's horns, Mike Hampton's guitar and Bernie Worrel's organ and synthesizer but he doesn't. He gives us more Bootsy than he ever has before and he seems to know that that is definitely what the people want.



With more and more artists electing to hide behind the genius and multitudinal session musicians of various producers, Bootsy gives us exactly what he puts on the Album Jacket - pure, funky and unadulterated Bootsy.

Poetry

On Thursday, March 2, there will be a reading of and by area poets at Pierpont at 8:00 P.M. All are invited to attend and share their work.

SFS '78 Presents...
JIMMY CLIFF in...
"THE HARDER THEY COME"
Saturday, Feb. 25
Mahar Auditorium
$1 Admission

HADLEY PICTURE FRAMING
Custom
MATTING, MOUNTING AND FRAMING
Also Needle Work Stretched & Framed
Most jobs completed in less than a week
44 Middle Street, Hadley, Mass.
Tel. 586-0332
Mon. Thru Friday 1 to 7 p.m.;
Sat. 12-5 p.m.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPRING FLING SKI WEEK AT
KILLINGTON, VERMONT
"March is Killington's Best Ski Month with Plenty of Snow, Sun and Fun"
March Ski Weeks Include:
• Five Day Killington Lift Ticket (Mon-Fri) • Five Nights Lodging (Sun-Thurs) • Five Full Breakfasts & Four Complete Dinners • Ski 50 Runs with up to 3000' Drop on 14 Lifts • Night Time Entertainment & Walk to Movies, etc. • Free Keg Party & Dance to Live Bands
ONLY $119.50-$139.50 or $79.50-$99.50 (without meals)
Special Drive-To Package
To receive all the details on this great trip, send this ad with your address to United Intercollegiate Skiers Association, 4040 S. 28th St., Arlington, Va. 22206. (703) 578-3322 (No collect, please) Subject to 6% tax and service charge.

UNLIKE A CHILD

He blats he's Popeye the Sailor Man.
He taunts, he swings,
He kills, he kills.

Canned guffaws
answer every boast.
Invisible wires and strings yank.
A patriciate says, "Sit tight.

Conscripted by a funny paper country, insane and doomed,
this protege of Popeye learns his act limb by limb.

November 1976
© Zöe Best

-WOLFIES PIZZA-
Featuring fine food, a warm fire,
cable t.v. and the newest pinball machines
Wolfies specials:
Every Tues. Night 2 for 1
buy 1/get 1 free
(Deliveries and take outs not included)
Every Wed. night
Southwest Special
Spaghetti Plate $1
(includes bread, butter and sauce)
Located next to Southwest
173 Sunset Ave.
call 549-5592 or 549-5593

The Hideout
103 North Pleasant St. • Amherst
Pig out at the Hideout
WE DELIVER
256-[illegible]1

Calendar

theater

February 23
Poetry reading "Poems of Living and Being" by Sonia Sanchez in the Campus Center Auditorium at 8 p.m.

February 24, 25
"The School for Wives" by the University Ensemble Theater. A 17th century French comedy translated into English verse. Weekends through March 4. Tickets $3, with discounts for students and senior citizens. Rand Theater Box Office is open weekdays 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. 545-3511.

February 25
Free performance of the Young People's Theatrework's "Ellis Island: The Process" at 10 a.m. in the City Studio Theater, 49 Pearl St. Northampton. Box office tele. 585-3978. Free performance also at 10 a.m. March 4.

March 2, 3, 4, 5
"The Roar of the Greasepaint/The Smell of the Crowd" at the City Studio Theater, 49 Pearl St., Northampton. Tickets are $2.50 for Thursday, $3 for Friday and Saturday and $2.50 for the Sunday matinee. Curtain at 8 p.m., Sunday at 2:15. Box office 584-3978.

March 3, 4, 5
"Boys in the Band" at Fayerweather Theater, Amherst College. Student production. Curtain at 8 p.m. Admission $1. Box office at 542-2277.

February through March 4
"The Three Sisters" by Anton Chekov at Stage West in West Springfield. Box office at 736-7092.

March 10, 11
"Sticks and Bones" at the Kirby Theater, Amherst College. March 11 "The Cuchulain Cycle"-five plays by W.E. Yeats in the Fayerweather Theater, Amherst College. Admission $1. Box office at 542-2277.

"The School for Wives" by the University Ensemble Theater plays through March 4 at the Rand Theater.

dance

February 23, 24, 25
Department of Dance Spring Concert in the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater, Smith College at 8 p.m. 584-2700 ext. 848 between noon and 4 p.m.

February 24, 25
Marcel Marceau at the Fine Arts Center - sold out.

March 3, 4
The Boston Ballet presenting traditional ballet and new additions to their repertoire. Tickets available at the Fine Arts Center Box office, open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and all Ticketron locations or at 545-2511.

March 8
The Merce Cunningham Dance Company at the Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m. Tickets available at the Fine Arts Center box office, open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by calling 545-0190.

film

February 23
"Hester Street" at Hooker Auditorium, Mount Holyoke, 7:30 p.m.

February 24
Double feature "Silver Streak" at 7 and 11 p.m. and "North by Northwest" at 9 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

"The Oddessa File" at Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke 7:30 p.m.

"Chinatown" at 8 and 10:30 p.m. in Merrill I Amherst College.

February 25
Children's film "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" in Wright Hall, Smith College at 2 p.m.

"The 39 Steps" and "Dial M. For Murder" at 7, 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke.

"The Harder They Come" at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium.

February 26
"Chinatown" at 8 and 10:30 p.m. in Merrill I. Amherst College.

February 28
"Boys in the Band" at 6 and 10 p.m. and "The Children's Hour" at 8 p.m. Both films $1. in the Franklin Patterson Hall in Hampshire College.

"Shane" at 9 p.m. in Gamble Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College.

For your information

Groups and organizations wishing to have an event listed in the Calendar section of Below the Salt may submit a typed notice, listing the event's date, time, and place. A short, descriptive sentence telling about the event may also be submitted.

Type the notices at 67 spaces per line, and triple space between the lines. The deadline for the Thursday edition of Salt is the preceeding Sunday at 6 p.m.

music

February 25
Art Garfunkel at Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke at 8 p.m. Advance tickets are $6.50 at the door $7.50. Ticket office at the Mary Wooley Hall.

February 26
Jim Ringer and Mary McCaslin, western and contemporary folk singers at the St. Regis Restaurant, 76 Pleasant St., Northampton at 8 p.m. Admission 2.50.

February 27
Dorothy Bales on violin at the Bezanson Recital Hall at 8 p.m.

March 1
Elvis Costello and Willie Alexander and the Boom-Boom Band at the Student Union Ballroom. Tickets available at TIX. $3.50 general admission.

Student recital sponsored by the UMass Dept. of Music and Dance at the Bezanson Recital Hall at 8 p.m.

March 4
Vincent Mitchell and Marty Schreiner with music from the swing era. Schreiner is a clarentist-composer and a graduate of the UMass Music Dept. at Mary Wooley Hall Mount Holyoke 10 p.m.

March 5
Concert Band Youth Concert in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall at 3 p.m.

March 8
Fernande Kaeser on piano at Bowker Auditorium 8 p.m.

March 11
Music Department Auditions all day.

Jazz artist Stephane Grappelli of the Diz Disley Trio at the Northampton Academy of Music, with the Gary Burton Quartet. Tickets available at the Academy. Concert begins at 7:30 p.m.

March 12
Jazz pianist Oscar Peterson at the Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m. Tickets at the box office, open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 545-2511.

art

February 24
Last day of the exhibition of works by fictional artists Ray Rodrique and Fredrico Fungalini, also Martial Westburg. Student Union Gallery.

Last day of the works of Five Painters to be shown at the Main Street Gallery, 150 Main St. Northampton. Show features painting, drawings, and sculptures by Charles J. Miller, Shelly Shicoff, Gregory Stone, David Struthers, and Richard Yarde. Weekdays from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30p.m. Thursdays till 9p.m.

Through February
Mead Art Gallery of Amherst College featuring "Drawings from Outdoor Sculpture," American Genre Paintings, French and Oriental Art. Open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

February 28 to March 17
Sets designed by Rauschenberg, Hohs, and Warhol for the Merce Cunningham Dance Co. at the University Gallery.

Through March 12
Works of contemporary Japanese women artists in the Rodney L. White Print Room at Mount Holyoke College Art Museum. Open weekdays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Artbus
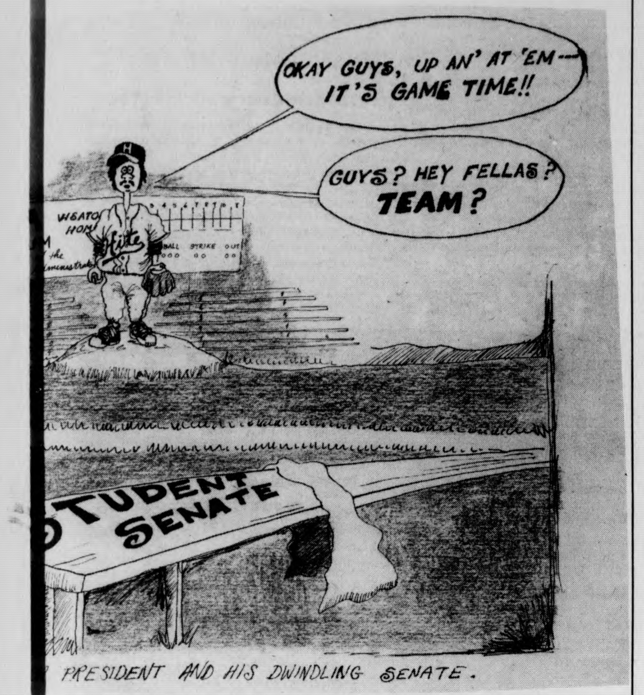
For Artbus information call 545-0976.

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
5-2 a.m.
Corner of Main & Triangle St.
9 Minute Pick-Up Service

Clancy's Pub
featuring
Rt. 5, North Hatfield
The Best In Irish Music
this week
New Folk Trio Fri.-Sun.
Next Week Traveling People- Wed.- Sun.
Wed. night $1 cover
free draft from 8:30 - 9:30



PRESIDENT AND HIS DWINDLING SENATE.

freedom of the press

of its staffers put it, has taken sides in or of the faculty and staff unions at B.U., itions which turned out politically advantageous when it came to rallying support oppose Silber and his gang.

Student activities monies at B.U. are ocated by a student group called the ocations Advisory Board — a Silberian titution apparently designed to give the ministration a fair amount of say in how se funds are used. The Board did allocate 72 to the exposure last year, but the ministration stepped in and declared that if funds were to be used, the paper would e to accept an advisor with prior review d censorship powers. That sort of control s been expressly denied administrations of blic institutions in repeated cases, inding the landmark Antonelli v. Hammond e, which involved the student newspaper Fitchburg State, right here in the old mmonwealth.

The advisor chosen by the exposure was ward Zinn, a well-known radical political entist. Zinn has been a vocal defender of exposure, and made it clear to the iversity administration that he would rely advise, not censor.

This didn't suit Silber, and the funding eze remains in effect today. The exposure has been in contact with a lawyer, and a suit is pending, although there is the chance of a settlement out of court. The American Civil Liberties Union has also expressed an interest in a suit, as a decision would have far-reaching implications for other student newspapers at private colleges.

A quote from the opinion by Judge W. Arthur Garrity, who presided over the Antonelli case in 1970, states rather clearly what was at stake in that decision:

"Because of the potentially great social value of a free student voice in an age of student awareness and unrest, it would be inconsistent with basic assumptions of First Amendment freedoms to permit a campus newspaper to be simply a vehicle for ideas the state or the college administration deems appropriate."

"Student unrest" is hardly at the level it was in and around 1970, but perhaps that indicates an even greater need for a free student voice. The spirit of protest displayed in marvelous fashion by the people at the B.U. exposure is sure to outlive the fascistic attitudes President Silber and the B.U. administration.

Bill Sundstrom is Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian.

Students have power

Jerry Rogers

Bud Demers, the Recognized Student Organizations office business manager, has had his works' effectiveness questioned. Subsequently, he has become the center of a storm of controversy concerning the accountability of professional staff hired by students.

Demers, as RSO's chief administrator, was hired by students to run the RSO office for our benefit. The only reason the RSO office exists is to serve the needs of student groups, yet the office frequently serves more as an extension of the Whitmore Bureaucratic Roadblock in its dealings with student groups. The business manager is officially accountable to the vice-chancellor for student affairs, a post Robert Woodbury currently fills.

Demers pointed out the clarity of this line of accountability by declining to be answerable to the officers of the student senate.

In reference to the matter Demers was quoted as saying, "Hell, I don't have to take that kind of shit."

While Demers claims the "I don't have to take shit from students" feeling is held by other professional staff, nowhere does the claim even approach the degree to which it is entrenched in the RSO office. His disdain for students necessitates his ouster, but that's not the final solution.

Demers is in a contorted position; he finds himself forced to balance the demands of the students that pay him and those of the administration to which he is accountable.

Students have unwittingly cooperated with the administration to put Demers in this position by holding the assumption that our own governing power derives from the administration, as if it were a grant.

The constitution of the student senate is ignored and unaccepted by the UMass Board of Trustees. This is because the campus administration objects to certain parts of the constitution. Specifically, these sections deal with the manner in which Student Activities Tax Fund money is processed and the disciplinary powers of the student attorney general's office.

> Students have unwittingly cooperated with the administration...by holding the assumption that our own governing power derives from the administration, as if it were a grant.

Of course the administration must be concerned with these two areas, because they are the only two areas from which students can derive power for self-determination — which is the goal of most pushes for self-government. Thus, the administration and trustee "concerns" are nothing more than a desire to minimize student power and shore up the status of university administrators. Students add legitimacy to their actions because of the assumption that we must derive our power to govern from the administration.

This assumption is also well illustrated in the operation of the Campus Center. The building is predominantly financed by students' Campus Center fees. But, the student Board of Governors is given little more than advisory power despite the shaky history of Campus Center administrations.

The financing of the building is more costly than it might have been if the university had exercised some fiscal responsibility. Scandal and ineptitude have surrounded every administration in the building. And the results of audits of the administrations' books have always been poor grades for the administrators.

Frequently, BOG advice has gone unheeded, though it might have helped to prevent some of these administrative shortcomings. Here again, student advice is effectively ignored because of the assumption that our power to govern is only as large as that which is given to us.

Though this is perceived as the way it is, it is not the way things must be. Hell, WE don't have to take that kind of shit.

On the other hand, we will not gain full powers for self-determination simply by asserting the right to govern ourselves in areas that directly affect us. Also, there is no guarantee that we can work for our benefit any more effectively than administrators can (though we certainly couldn't do worse). In any event, students will never be organized on this campus until the government-is-granted assumption is eradicated.

Higher education is a process dedicated to furthering students' learning, it can not be assumed to exist for any other reason. The administration exists only to facilitate the teaching of professors and the learning of students. Faculty positions exist only because there are students to be taught.

Students must stop assuming that faculty members, because they teach us, are so virtuous that we must lay our freedom and our right to self determination at their feet, or the feet of administrators. Certainly students would still learn, though at an admittedly slower pace, if faculty and administrators did not exist. But, the latter two groups can not exist without students.

Many students hold fast to the ideal of fully effective self-government for all students. They are decried by some students as being unrealistic. The doubters would be wise to look at the very real falsehoods embodied in the government-is-granted assumption. They would also do well to discard the notion, even if unconscious, that students are only pawns to be played with by the virtuous imparters of knowledge. Students are the sole reason this university exists — and that's a fact.

Jerry Rogers is a Collegian Columnist.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
udent Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Editor-in-Chief; DOROTHY A. CLARK, Managing Editor; LAURIE A. WOOD, Business Manager; JOSEPH A. QUINLAN, News Editor; MICHAEL P. DORAN, Executive Editor; JULIE E. MELROSE, Women's Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; PATRICK O. DOBBS, Photo Editor; DAVID R. RODMAN, Sports Editor; KENNETH S. SHAIN, Fine Arts Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Mark A. Leccese, Assistant Managing Editor; Mark P. Horan, Laura M. Kenney, Christopher H. Schmitt, Elizabeth R. Segers, Assistant News Editors; Eileen M. Foley, Assistant Executive Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor; Daniel R. Vullemier, Assistant Photo Editor; Michael P. Smolens, Assistant Sports Editor; Robert M. Armstrong, Mary L. Brown, Assistant Fine Arts Editors; Candyce A. Carlon, Assistant Women's Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laura P. Bassett, Assistant Business Manager; Linda S. Vene, Advertising Manager; Valerie Beecy, Brad Goverman, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager; Joan Daly, House Accounts Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Notices

POETRY READING

Sonia Sanchez will read "Poems of Living and Being" tonight at 8 in Mahar Auditorium. Sanchez, formerly of Amherst College, is an internationally-known poet.

WINTER HIKE

At Mill Hill Conservation Area. Sat. Feb. 25, from 9-11. Author-Artist-Naturalist, Robert McClung, guide. Meets: Car Pools at Carriage House at Larch Hill, 9:00 a.m. and at Summer Street entrance at 9:15.

NORM DRUCKEF LECTURE

Norm Drucker, supervisor of officials in the National Basketball Association, will present a one-hour lecture open to the public on officialing in the NBS Thurs. Feb. 23, 7:45-8:45 p.m. Herter Hall 231. Norm will answer questions from the audience.

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Holly Near posters ready, please pick up and distribute.

RAPE VICTIM SUPPORT GROUP

The Rape Task Force is sponsoring a support group for women who've been sexually assaulted and are ready to integrate the experience into their lives. It will meet every Tues. 7-9 at E.W.C. Feb. 28. Call Donna 253-5788 or Dianne 549-4773 or EWC 5-0883 before Feb. 25.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Meeting at 7 p.m. Hasbrook 44 on The Optical Testing of a Troublesome Parabolic Mirror

HELP FIGHT APARTHEID

Meeting inviting all new people to organize committee for Liberation of Southern Africa Thurs. 8 p.m. CC 903

STAR TREK LIVES!

Thurs. Feb. 23 7:30 p.m. CC 802

ARTISTS

Important meeting for all those interested in doing art work for the Index. Thurs. Feb. 23 CC 102 7:00 p.m. Bring sample of your work.

WEIGHT CONTROL WORKSHOP

Two nine week sessions. Multi-faceted approach. $20 sessions. $15 refund at end of semester. Free intro meeting. Session 1 — Tues., 4-5:30. Begin Feb. 28 Room 302, UHS. Must be 20 lbs. over ideal weight. L. Lambiase, Clinical Nutritionist. Section 2 — Thurs. 12:30 — 2:00 Begins March 2. 302 UHS, J. Anliker Community Nutritionist. Less than 20 lbs. over ideal weight.

Contact Lisa Lambiase or Hean Anliker at 549-2671.

MOVIE

Women's Center is showing No. 2 of four films in its Thurs. Women's Film Series, Tonight, "The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-Moon Marigolds." The film will be shown at 8:00 p.m. in the basement of Baker House. Free.

FACULTY ART

Art Show opening at 4 p.m. today at Hampden gallery-Southwest "Works on Paper" is a show of work of the Fine Arts faculty. Runs through March, m-f, 4-6 p.m.

ZETA PSI

Open Rush Party, Saturday at 8 p.m. 23 Phillips St., free refreshments.

Near Eastern Studies holds lecture in Herter

The UMass Near Eastern Studies Committee is sponsoring a lecture by Ambassador William Brewer called "The Sudan between the Arab World and Black Africa." It is being presented on the sixth floor lounge of Herter Hall at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 2. Brewer will discuss developments in north-east Africa today in an informal question-and-answer session to follow his lecture. Brewer is visiting the campus this year under the auspices of a Visiting Diplomat program sponsored by the Department of State.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

LOST

Reward—for return of gold serpentine chain acelet. Lost Feb. 15 on Hasb.-Thomp.-Hampshire DC-Crampton route. If found, please call Ron, 546-9049 or Mimi, 546-9917.

Ring. Silver band, red stone. 9th floor bathroom. Reward. Kelly, 253-3319, 256-8317.

Lost a scarf on Orchard Hill near Field House. Woolen with a blue and black print on white. Reward offered, 256-6111.

Blue-red, homemade scarf lost in or outside Bluewall Saturday, 2/18. Please return to Collegian office, or call 256-6055. Reward. No questions.

Blue down parka taken from Goess. I'm freezing. Please return to CC L & F. Call 256-6621 if you have any information.

My best friend— reward for sm fem dog beag/lab mix? Blw/white belly, paws, chest, neck & tip of tail that wags constantly. Ans. to Poco, gone Jan. 6. Please call 253-2290 if you've any info.

To the guy who picked up 4 letters in coffee shop CC, call if mailed, please. 549-0816. Thanks a whole lot.

HELP WANTED

Mechanical Engineer or Skilled tech. (Part-time) Exp. in designing, drafting, machining. Work ½ or ⅔ time; make occaisional 2-3 day research trips.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

Stereo campus rep wanted! Hungry entrepreneur typed needed to sell name brand hi-fi, car stereo, TV, etc. to friends & faculty. Tremendous earning potential. Send for application by mailing this ad to: Music/Sound Dist., Dept. C-178 6730 Santa Barbara, CT. Balto, MD 21227.

Camp Tomahawk & Wicosuta. Top N.H. men and women interviewing Feb. 24, Goodell building. Positions offered: waterfront, tennis, all athletics, tripping, science, drama, golf, riflery, archery, journalism, rocketry, WSI, piano, crafts, secretary's, lacrosse, wrestling, Karate. Contact Kelly West Conry Student Employment Office for appointment. 545-1951.

Tennis pros and assistant pros—seasonal and year-round clubs; good playing and teaching background. Call (301)654-3770 or send 2 complete resumes and 2 pictures to: Col. R. Reade, W.T.S., 8401 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1011, Chevy Chase, amd 20115.

Counselors Assoc. of Private Camps seek qualified counselors for 90-member camps located N. Eastern U.S., July and August. Contact: Assoc. of Private Camps, 55 West 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, (212) 736-6595.

Mechanical Engineer or skilled tech (part-time). Exp. in designing, drafting, machining. Work ½ or ⅔ time; make occasional 2-3 day research trips.

Student Legal Services is hiring 1 20hr/wk typist(3.50/hr.) and two research paralegals ($20/wk). Applications in 922 CC due by 5:00, 2/28. These are not work study jobs. Affirmative Action Employer.

Phi Sig is looking for housepersons to clean up after meals in exchange for homecooked meals. Call John, 545-0174.

Flute teacher needed—beginner, 665-3659.

Student Legal Services is hiring 1 20 hr/wk typist (3.50/hr) and two research paralegals ($20/wk). Applications in 920 CC due by 5:00 2/28. These are not work study jobs. Affirmative action employer.

FOR SALE

Head ski outfit. Parka and bib pants. Women's size 9-12. Exc. cond. 253-3383.

AM/FM car stereo, in dash for most foreign cars, B.O. 546-5000 after 11 or in morning.

Kenwood 2400 stereo receiver, 20 watts. Excellent cond. Call Gary at 549-6235 between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Guild D25 folk guitar, exc. tone, VG cond. $250 or B.O. Yashica TL-Electro 35mm camera. $15 or B.O. 253-3018, after 5:00.

Bullworker exerciser. $25. call 367-2110.

Sleep on an original piece of art. Full size, four post water bed for sale, has driftwood logs as cornerposts and a frame with shell inlay. Everything included for $300. Call Daryl at 253-5674.

Fischer skis 180 CM boots sz.8 545-0275.

AUTO FOR SALE

'66 VW bug, needs a little work, price negotiable. Call Peg 549-5951.

VW camper bus, poptop, 1968, $1095. 665-3412.

New Tibetan Tankas Call Allen, 549-6252.

Fiat 128 Wagon '73 Frt. Whl. Drv. Recent valve job. New radials snows. Needs new carb. Some body rust 58,000mi. Call 549-1291 $500.00.

1961 Volks Bus 71 engine. Body great. Must be seen. $1275. 323-4249 Evenings.

1970 Toyota II Corona Exc. running condition, body work. Call Jane from 3-4 253-9733. After 6 at 283-3784.

INSTRUCTION

Quilting & creative stitchery classes. 8 wks, beg Feb. 16. Professional & reasonable rates at Natural Textiles, 256-6427.

Need help in Math 120, 121? Qual. tutor avail. Rates negot. Call Ken, 546-6155.

Math tutor w/dept. Alg. & calc. 665-3412.

You can lose 17 to 25 pounds in just 6 wks. To get weight off and keep it off call Mary at the Diet Center, 586-5982.

ROOM WANTED

Roommate wanted to share a bedroom, non-smoker, Brittany Manor Apts., 253-2107.

WANTED

Refrig. 4 cubic ft. or larger. Need as soon as possible. Call Bob, 546-6751.

AUDIO

Sony 3650 amp 80rms, 5 yr. warr., 256-8709, B.O.

Fisher CR5115 3-head cassette deck. Never used. $180. MicroAcoustics FRM1A speakers, $200 or B.O. Call Neal, 546-4375.

PERSONALS

SONIX is Sound Services. Any sound job neither too big nor too small. All-Altec P.A. Rentals available. Give us a try. Write Sonix, P.O. Box 781, Northampton or call 584-4076.

To: Gorgeous—I don't need V Day to tell you how much I love you. You're one of the best things that ever happened to me. Always, Alvin.

Here's looking at you Caldwell! Love Christine.

Marceau tkts 2 Sat., want Fri. 549-0257.

Laughing Linda P., a belated Happy Valentine's Day from your two forgetful but sincere roommates!

Here's looking at you, Caldwell! Love, Christine.

ENTERTAINMENT

Disco Dave for all types of music, rock-disco-funk-50's. Complete sound & lights with pro DJ. Reasonable rates. Call Dave, 567-1250. Call collect.

Zeta Psi open rush party, Sat., 8:00, 23 Phillips St. Free refreshments.

FOR RENT

Avail. 01 March Furn 2 room Apt. Heat & utilities included. Fireplace, cable, N/C glass doors, kitchen shower bath. 4 mins from campus. 210/mo. Call 253-2950 eves.

TRAVEL

Wt to spend NT summer sailing the Caribbean? Europe? Cruising other parts of the world aboard sailing or power yachts? For free info send a 13-cent stamp to SKOKO, Box 20855, Houston, Texas 77025.

Winter getting you down? Thinking of moving west? We did. For sound advice on jobs, apartments, and free government services, send $1.00 to C. Planholt, 1036 Law St., San Diego, CA 92109.

Rmate Wtd. Apt. 77/mo. inc. util. 665-4080.

Restored 18th Cent. House in Millers Falls seeks 1 F $90 w/utils. Call 659-3542.

Roommate wanted: male or female, smoker or non-smoker, large room in fun Amherst house. Near campus, near OH bus. $100 plus utilities. 549-5862.

Experience cooperative living in Buckland. Rm for rent in beautiful country house on 240 acres. Vegetarians and non-smokers please. Call 625-2779.

SERVICES

Skiers!! Have your skis professionally hot waxed and flat filed, only $7. Call Rich at 253-3875.

Support group for rape victims will meet Tues., 7 to 9 EWC starting Feb. 28. Please contact Donna, 253-5788, or Diane, 549-4773 before Feb. 25.

Are you tired of missing important lectures and exams because you overslept? Hire a wake-up service! Info, call Sharon, 256-8000.

Free estimates for all stereo equipment with this ad. Airwaves T.V.-Audio Service, 12 Dickinson St., Amherst, 256-6713. Offer good through Feb. 28, 1978.

CB service—fully equipped, professional service. Installation—$10, adjust SWR and check system—$5, alignments and all repairs—$10 hourly. Dale—253-7649 nites.

Hate Housework? I will clean your apt. fast, through, cheap. $5-6 per visit. Call 665-2939. Hire A Maid.

Five College Typing Service Professional, fast, reasonable. Call Diane 549-2637.

COSMIC WIMPOUT NEWS

Cosmic Wimpout is planning to hold the 3rd Annual World Wimpout Tournament at UMass on 4/21. We hope to make this something more than just a tornament but we need input from the community. What or whom do you want to see happening at the tournament? Jugglers, magicians, DJ's, Free beer, cash prizes, dancing bears? We have a limited budget but please tell us your fantasies. Perhaps we can make them come true at the tournament. Please contact someone in the Campus Center Concourse at either the rose table or the "UMASS Paper" table with your ideas as soon as possible or call 253-2409.

HELP WANTED

Counselors—private coed overnight camp in Berkshires—openings for instructors in: archery, basketball, tennis, soccer, gymnastics, horseback riding instructor rocketry, camper radio station, sailing, tripping/backpacking, dance, dramatics, arts & crafts, head waterfront (pool). Also needed: general counselors, nurse, head cook & bookkeeper. Good salaries—friendly atmosphere. Contact Paul Krouner, Camp Schodak, 268 Mason Terr., Brookline, MA 02146, (617) 277-7600 or Rick Heideman, on campus, 546-9598.

---

★ Basketball away

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

Pittsburgh sportswriter, "these guys are the worst in the country."

"Enjoy the trip."

There is, as the saying goes, no sense crying over spilt milk, so Leaman and the team set their sights on Penn State and began their cross-state trip the following morning looking to salvage at least one win on the trip.

The traveling party was split into two groups as Leaman and the team made the first flight from Pittsburgh's airport to Phillipsburg Penn. The team boarded a Beechcraft 99, something resembling Charles Lindberg's 'Spirit of St. Louis' for the 40 minute flight.

A bus was supposed to pick the team up at Phillipsburg for the 50 minute drive to State College. It never showed. Now, just six hours from game time the team found itself without transportation to State.

Leaman, trainer, travel agent and general keeper of sanity, Jim 'Liggy' Laughnane and the team were left sitting at an airport terminal 'somewhere' in Pa. The terminal better resembled a local bus stop.

Somehow, Leaman managed to find a taxi, rent and borrow a car and the team was on its way.

"Enjoy the trip."

The trip had yet another twist when it became obvious that Eldridge, who had injured an already tender knee the night before, would be unable to play. The team, without Eldridge, once again had little offensive spark and wound up losing in overtime to a team previously 7-18.

In two days the team had lost two games, lost two players (Eldridge with a knee injury and Chuck Stevsesky with a badly sprained ankle sustained against State), suffered through its second straight night of cold shooting and transferred an enjoyable trip into a nightmare.

Back at the hotel, Leaman paced the lobby wondering what had gone wrong with a team that began the year by winning its first eight games. Instead of challenging for first place in the EAA his team was now struggling for a .500 record. The team since January had compiled a not too impressive 6-9 mark.

Finally, on Wednesday afternoon the team's plane, a DC-9, began its descent into Bradley airport. The stewardess spoke:

"We hoped you enjoyed your flight and had a nice trip."

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY

Wrestling 28, UConn 19

TODAY

Men's basketball vs. New Hampshire Curry Hicks Cage 7:30 p.m.

Hockey at No. Adams State 7:30 p.m.

TOMORROW

Men's skiing at Snow Bowl, Middlebury, Vt.

Women's basketball, MAIAW Tournament, Boston University

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
MERCE CUNNINGHAM AND DANCE COMPANY

The program will consist of

TORSE
INLETS
SQUAREGAME
SOUNDDANCE

Wednesday, March 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale.Gen. Pub.-$7, 6, 5. UM-A-$3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens-$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC • ST LOUIS WIN A TRIP FOR TWO TO HOLLYWOOD!
BUDWEISER
Rock and Roll TRIVIA TEST
PLAYED HERE

Answer all these music trivia questions correctly and you will be eligible to win one of 1165 prizes.

Prizes:

Grand Prize–A trip for two to Hollywood including round-trip airfare, two nights, three days hotel, 24-hour limousine service, 120 second record shopping spree at Tower Records, a fabulous Sansui GX-5 Rack Stereo System complete with Sansui components, concert tickets, studio tour and $300 spending money.

Four First Prizes–Copies of all new CBS albums released for twelve months plus a complete Sansui G-3000 Music System.

Ten Second Prizes–Your choice of any 25 CBS albums.

150 Third Prizes–Your choice of any CBS album plus the new Journey album Infinity and a Bud/Journey tee-shirt.

1000 Runners-Up–Bud tee-shirts.

BUDWEISER®
ROCK AND ROLL TRIVIA TEST
OFFICIAL RULES-NO PURCHASE NECESSARY
Here's How To Enter:

1. On an official entry form or plain piece of paper no larger than 8½" x 11" (one side only) hand print your name and address, and your T-shirt size (S,M,L,XL). This will help us if you are selected as a T-shirt winner. Be sure to indicate on your entry your answers to the Rock Music Trivia questions. Mail your entry to: BUDWEISER ROCK AND ROLL TRIVIA TEST, P.O. BOX 9017, BLAIR, NEBRASKA 68009 in a hand addressed envelope no larger than 4⅛" x 9½" (#10 envelope).
2. All entries must be received by March 30, 1978. Enter as often as you wish, but each entry must be mailed separately. All winners will be determined in a random drawing from among all entries received. To qualify for a prize, you must correctly answer all of the Rock and Roll Trivia questions. Random drawings will be under the supervision of the D.L. BLAIR CORPORATION, an independent judging organization, whose decisions are final on all matters relating to this offer.
3. This prize offer is open to residents of the United States who are of legal drinking age in their State at the time of entry, except employees of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., CBS [illegible] their affiliates and subsidiaries, distributors, agents, retailers and the families of each. Offer void in Missouri, California, Michigan and wherever prohibited by law. Void via retail store participation in the State of Maryland. Limit one prize per family. No substitution of prize is permitted. Taxes on prizes are the responsibility of the prize winners. All Federal, State and local laws and regulations apply.
4. All Rock and Roll Trivia questions are based on artists and groups who record for CBS and CBS affiliated record companies. All trivia questions are based on general knowledge and no purchase of any CBS Records or Tapes is required to answer any question.

The Grand Prize winner must take the trip to depart April 28, 1978 and return April 30, 1978. The Grand Prize includes a 120 second shopping spree at a Tower Record store in Los Angeles. The Grand Prize winner will have 120 seconds to select any amount of record albums available in the store, and put them into the trunk of the limousine parked directly in front of the store. The Grand Prize winner will not be able to use any receptacles or equipment to carry the record albums.

5. For a list of major prize winners and correct answers available after the close of the promotion, send a separate self-addressed stamped envelope to BUDWEISER ROCK AND ROLL TRIVIA WINNERS LIST, P.O. BOX 8400, BLAIR NEBRASKA 68009.

Questions:

1. The first hit single released from Santana's new album Moonflower was originally recorded by:
   - ☐ A. Zombies
   - ☐ B. Yardbirds
   - ☐ C. Clydesdales
2. What individual made Asbury Park, New Jersey famous? Hint: "The Boss" ________
3. Who is Robert Zimmerman? ________
4. George Duke played keyboard for?
   - ☐ A. The Stones
   - ☐ B. Frank Zappa and the Mothers
   - ☐ C. Miles Davis
5. Blue Oyster Cult's first hit single "Don't Fear The Reaper" came off their live album On Your Feet, On Your Knees.
   - ☐ True
   - ☐ False
6. Ted Nugent recorded his first record with what group? ________
7. What is the title of Simon and Garfunkels first album?
   - ☐ A. Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M.
   - ☐ B. Sounds of Silence
   - ☐ C. Greatest Hits
8. What animals are on Eric Gale's new album Multiplication? ________
9. What two CBS recording artists starred in the movie "2 Lane Blacktop?" ________
10. Felix Cavaliere of Treasure was the keyboard player and vocalist in the Rascals.
    - ☐ True
    - ☐ False
11. What group was famous for the song "Chestnut Mare?" ________
12. Dave Mason's former group was called:
    - ☐ A. Traffic
    - ☐ B. Crawler
    - ☐ C. Them
13. The Epic Act with the initials MF is: ________
14. Henry Gross was a member of what 50's revival group?
    - ☐ A. Flash Cadillac
    - ☐ B. Sha Na Na
    - ☐ C. Firesign Theater
15. How many statues are on the jacket of Boz Scaggs' new album "Down Two Then Left?"
    - ☐ A. Three
    - ☐ B. Four
    - ☐ C. One
16. On what CBS associated label did Lou Rawls record his new album When You've Heard Lou You've Heard It All? ________
17. Who has been known as "The Piano Man," "The Entertainer" and "The Stranger?" ________
18. What English artist wears red shoes and his last name is half of a famous comedy duo?
    - ☐ A. Martin Lewis
    - ☐ B. Elvis Costello
    - ☐ C. Bob Stiller
19. Kenny Loggins was once a member of Buffalo Springfield.
    - ☐ True
    - ☐ False
20. What will be the title of Chicago's next album? ________
21. What famous female singer started her career with The Great Society?
    - ☐ A. Janis Joplin
    - ☐ B. Gracie Slick
    - ☐ C. Karla Bonoff
22. Journey's new album is entitled Infinity.
    - ☐ True
    - ☐ False
23. Who was the lead singer on Jeff Beck's album Truth? ________
24. Who is known as "The Red-Headed Stranger?"
    - ☐ A. Willie Nelson
    - ☐ B. Johnny Winter
    - ☐ C. Edgar Winter

PRIZES PROVIDED BY BUDWEISER, CBS RECORDS AND SANSUI.

Send completed test to:

BUDWEISER ROCK AND ROLL TRIVIA TEST,
P.O. BOX 9025, BLAIR, NEBRASKA 68009

Please note T-shirt size
☐ small ☐ medium ☐ large ☐ X-large

Name ________
Address ________
City ________ State ________ Zip ________
Telephone ________

Void where prohibited by law.

Sponsored by Budweiser and CBS Records.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall

Seagrams 7
$2.99
1.75 Lit.

Tuborhg Beer
12 oz. N.R. Botles
$5.69
Case

Schloss Krowe
Liebfraumilch
$10.49
Magnum

Kahlua
$7.99
Fifth

Tuesday, Feb.21 to Saturday, Feb. 25
We Reserve The Right To Limit Quantities

Hoopmen on the road

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

"Good morning and welcome aboard Allegheny flight number 285 to Pittsburgh and St. Louis," came the reassuring words of the stewardess over the plane's intercom. "We hope you enjoy the flight and enjoy your trip."

So began the University of Massachusetts basketball team's three day road trip that would see them play two consecutive days (Duquesne and Penn State), make four plane trips, and numerous bus, van and taxi connections.

"Enjoy your trip." Sure, it would probably be an enjoyable time.

The Minutemen had won three straight games; they would be playing two teams with a combined record of 16 and 32; and it would mean that two days of classes would have to be missed.

Admittedly, Pittsburgh and State College, Pennsylvania, in the middle of February, are not to be mistaken with Miami or Southern California, but they could be interesting places, despite the weather.

The Minutemen arrived in Pittsburgh just before noon on Monday, tracked down a bus and headed for the Hyatt Regency where they would be spending the night.

"Enjoy the trip."

After spending an afternoon in the hotel the team headed across the street to the Pittsburgh Civic Center. The Civic Center, home of the Pittsburgh Penguins, and isn't that a dubious distinction, was almost empty. It was definitely a sign of things to come.

UMass, without the inspiration of a Cage crowd, or at least the antagonistic chants of an opponents home crowd, were flat. As dead as the sparse crowd of 1712 in a building capable of holding more than 12,000.

Even still, the Minutemen found themselves trailing by just seven points at the half thanks mainly to the sporatic play of Duquesne. The fun hadn't begun, though. The team had yet to get a taste of real down home hospitality.

UMass, shooting poorly, found itself trailing by 11 points with just over nine minutes remaining in the game, when Mark Haymore received a pass from Alex Eldridge and moved to the hoop for what he hoped would be another in his long string of slam dunks.

What happened next was the center of discussion for the remainder of the trip. First, Haymore ferociously slammed the ball through the hoop almost bringing the basket, backboard and roof of the building down. Next, the basket was disallowed (travelling) and a technical was called on Haymore.

Since it was the third such call against Haymore he was automatically ejefted from the game. That wasn't disputed. What coach Jack Leaman argued was that Duquesne should not be allowed two free throws for the technical. The referee disagreed and a fuming Leaman asked for clarification on the ruling. The ref refused.

Leaman continued to protest and was finally slapped with a technical. The Dukes flashy guard B.B. Flenory then stood at the line and converted four straight free throws. Thus, instead of trailing by nine UMass found itself down 15 points and essentially out of the game.

"Don't tell me about the officials in Springfield," Leaman snapped at a local

TURN TO PAGE 23

★ Skiers lose

CONT. FROM PAGE 26

by its stiffest competitor, Plymouth, by about 2¼ seconds. The star here was Frangilo, who finished with a time of 95.23 seconds, almost 2½ seconds faster than his nearest foe. He skied a near perfect race, according to McConnell. The closest finisher for UMass was Maynard, who placed third. The UMass skiers were actually happy for their Plymouth counterparts because they have great respect for their skiing ability.

The final match of the weekend was a giant slalom, again won by UMass, with an excellent team time of 346.18, a full four seconds ahead of Northeastern and Plymouth. Seven skiers from UMass finished in the top 20, a remarkable accomplishment for any team, according to MacConnell.

Three UMass skiers, Scott Prindle, Maynard, and Harold Smart have qualified to participate in the Eastern Championships to be run this weekend at the Middlebury Carnival. In two week, UMass will ski in the league championships, where they will be heavily favored.

Thank George.
Chinos on sale.

LODGE CHINOS
The Lodge's own chino pants in poly/cotton blend wash 'n wear fabric. All the classic colors and three all new ones; Cream, Burgundy and Kelly, Reg. $12.95
$9.95

MIA CLOGS
Leather sandal clogs

DIESSE CLOGS
High-heeled clogs in leather

SKANDALS CLOGS
Leather open backs with buckles

LEVI'S For KIDS
CORDUROYS
Sizes 4-7, Reg. $10.00
$6.99

THIS SALE ENDS SATURDAY

THE LODGE at harvard square ®

Amherst, Rt. 9—next to McDonald's, 584-9690
Store hours: Monday to Friday 10-9, Saturday till 6

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MR. WILLIAMS, I HOPE I'M NOT BEING OUT OF LINE IN TELLING YOU THAT I THINK I UNDERSTAND YOUR PROBLEM. BASICALLY, YOU'RE HOT FOR THE SUPER BOWL!
CAN YOU GET ME THERE, MR. DUKE?
WITH TIME? WITHOUT QUESTION, SIR! BUT I'D BE REMISS IF I FAILED TO MENTION THAT MY TALENTS ARE IN CONSIDERABLE DEMAND NOW!
WELL, DO YOU THINK YOU COULD LIVE WITH $100,000 A YEAR?
HMM.. I'D LIKE TO, SIR, I REALLY WOULD. BUT WITH MY MOTHER IN THE HOSPITAL NOW..
PITY. COULD YOU SUGGEST ANYONE ELSE WHO..
OH, THE HECK WITH MOM! THIS IS TOO IMPORTANT!
2-23
GBTrudeau

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

© 1978 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
2-23
WOODSTOCK ISN'T MUCH FOR DOING ANYTHING RIGHT
SCHULZ

B.C. by Johnny Hart

I HAVE A BILL ADDRESSED FOR ANYONE.
I'LL TAKE IT!
ONE DIAMOND RING...13¢
...IT'S FOR YOU.
FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC. 1978
2-23
hart

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GOIN' DOWN THE ROAD FEELING BAD...
DON'T WANT TO BE TREATED THIS OL' WAY!
GOIN' WHERE THE CLIMATE SUITS MY CLOTHES...
GOIN' WHERE THE WATER TASTES LIKE WINE!
2/22 LAFLER

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

DENNIS STANDS UP AND WAVES TO ATTRACT THEIR ATTENTION.
I HOPE THEY'RE FRIENDLY.
HELLO! HELLO! I MEAN YOU NO HARM. MAY I COME...
ROLLINS 2-23
DENNIS DOESN'T NOTICE WHERE HE IS STANDING.
THE ROCK GIVES WAY..
AND DENNIS TUMBLES DOWN THE STEEPLY INCLINED HILL.
BECAUSE OF THE SUITS SHIELD, HE IS UNHURT; EXCEPT FOR HIS PRIDE.
HE FINDS HIMSELF FACING A HOODED FIGURE, AND WHAT APPEARS TO BE TWO ELVES AND A HEAVILY ARMED DWARF.

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Wally Dorf?
That's me.
Where am I?
We moved into your old apartment, and you had left this cactus behind.
Oh, no! Not this dorf again!
Well, thank you.
I hope you didn't water it.
Just a little.
Take me back! I don't want to die!
Ranney 2/23

BACK AGAIN by K

WHERE'S MY ROOM MATE?
HE MOVED OFF CAMPUS.
OH, WELL, WHO'S THE NEW ONE?
YOU'VE GOT A SINGLE A SINGLE?
I'VE GOT A SINGLE?
YUP.
2-23
THUD!
YAHOOOOOO

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23

Born today, you have a clever and perhaps overly critical mind. You tend to look on your work and others' as falling too short of perfection to be taken seriously. This ultimately proves discouraging, and in the end produces what it expects: work of inferior quality. Those born today should look to their optimistic friends, and perhaps even wear rose-colored glasses, at least occasionally.

You are highly intelligent but inept at applying that to practical and profitable ends. This is true especially during your maturing years when the conflict between earning money and fulfilling artistic urges may make you do a lot of introspective but non-progressive worrying about your future.

You are quick to make plans, and equally quick to give them up. It is easy for you to learn on an academic level, but difficult for you to take a commonsense approach to everyday problems.

Also born on this date: Peter Fonda, actor.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — You can make an unexpected personal gain early today. Take friends at their word this afternoon.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Your sense for the right word at the right time saves you embarrassment. Keep energy up.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Your understanding of another's outburst will help keep it from happening again. Seek the motive.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — You can be determined as well as flexible. Be available to one with a sad tale to tell.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — You may have to take charge of an unpleasant situation when relatives refuse to do their part at home.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Take family members into your confidence about financial matters.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Unless you finish present paperwork, you will not have room for what is coming this evening.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Make your search for companions broader. You may be getting into a social rut.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Business must take precedence over everything today. Don't be alarmed by affairs at home.

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Compromise today. This is no time to stick to your guns in the face of loss.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Your participation in others' affairs may leave you too tired for family fun at evening.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Consult an expert before making up your mind on finances. Experience tells.

Copyright 1978
United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Fen
6 Dry skin scales
11 --- session
14 Oval
15 Cardinal number
16 Cockney's "present"
17 Memorial
19 Fare
20 N. Amer. Indian
21 Cereal grass
22 Imbibe
24 Support
26 Climbing vines
27 Seaman
30 Alter
32 Former U.S. vice-president
33 Fact
34 Mme. equivalent
37 ---- best friend
38 Evil spirit
39 Act of skill
40 Affirmative vote
41 Cycled
42 Sudden movement
43 Forage plant
45 Vessel's captain
46 Smear with lard
48 Not found naturally
49 Wheel spokes
50 Free of bias
52 Animal's den
56 Qty.
57 Equipment upkeep
60 The tone G: Music
61 Marble
62 Feminine name
63 Snoop
64 Observes carefully
65 Animal

DOWN
1 Thomas ----: Eng. statesman
2 Declare
3 Branches
4 Tall towers
5 Garment edge
6 Long narrow strip
7 Conversation
8 Ash receptacles
9 Cash sale slip: Abbr.
10 Furnishing nutrition
11 Subtlety in reasoning
12 Place of action
13 Looks furtively
18 Rude person
23 Fragment
25 Brawl
26 Real estate
27 Coarse hominy
28 Gelatin substitute
29 Blamelessly
30 Approving sound
31 Posterior
33 Small child: Var.
35 Ire
36 Silver marking: Abbr.
38 ---- iron: Mashie
39 'Plane section
41 Superintendent: Informal: 2 words
42 Boy
44 Fall behind
45 Female horse
46 Seize firmly
47 Noise abroad
48 Coins of small value
50 Sanction
51 Before: Comb. form
53 "---- Karenina"
54 Decorates cakes
55 Repose
58 Gone by 59 Grab: Slang

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:

SCAN SEPAL RAMP
HUGO TASTE ELIA IRRITATION SEEN MEASURE MITTENS
INERT NEO BOREAS RESERVES
ALAR AGER TEACH
SIP STOMACH SOO
EVICT NOSE DELE
REDEEMER NOISES
NRA SITAR
PORSENA RETESTS
ABIE UNDERSCORE
ROAR ATONE TROT EELS LACED SAYS

Senior co-captain Dale Maynard, who coah Bill MacConnell has called "the best and most consistent ski racer at UMass in the last 16 years," is shown her in slalom action.

Skiers 'drop' to 39-1

By JEFFREY GLYNN
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's ski team improved its record to 39-1 this weekend by winning four matches and losing one.

The first race, run at Pleasant Mountain in Bridgeport, Maine, was a make-up match due to the recent snowstorm. The Minutemen won this giant slalom race with a team time of 396.64 seconds. Dale Maynard of UMass took first place with a time of 76.64 seconds. Rick Frongilo of Plymouth St. was second at 76.94, followed by Jeff Lyons of Northeastern (77.05) and Bob Grout of UMass (77.14). UMass skiers dominated the top 12 positions, defeating their nearest competitor, Plymouth State, by a margin of 4 seconds.

In the first regularly scheduled match, a slalom race at Pleasant, UMass's depth was evident as it won this match without anyone placing in the top three. However, the Minutemen grabbed the 4th, 7th, 9th, 10th and the 11th positions to capture 1st place by .76 seconds over Plymouth. Coach Bill MacConnell said that UMass has so much talent that anyone could start for this team and give the league a run for first place.

After the close victory in the slalom, UMass destroyed the competition in the giant slalom, defeating Plymouth by almost eight seconds. Maynard won this again with a time of 76.33. All five UMass skiers finished within the top 10 positions, which explains the wide margin of victory.

The teams then moved to Tenny Mountain for their final two races, and this is where tragedy struck. UMass was finally defeated

TURN TO PAGE 24

IM Notices

FACILITIES CLOSED — NOPE Pool — Feb. 25, Mar. 4 and 5, Hicks Building — Feb. 23, 27 and 28. NOPE Gym — Feb. 25.

VOLLEYBALL — Forfeit fees should be picked up by Mar. 1.

SOFTBALL — Entries are due at the IM office by Mar. 1. There is a $10 forfeit fee.

LSAT·GRE·MCAT

Thorough review courses. Top-scoring instructors. Up-to-the-minute course materials. Informal classes. Weekly sessions. Affordable fees. Early enrollment advised. Call Test Prep Services of Amherst at 256-6462.

TEST PREP

pandas's

MEXICAN SWEATER SALE
STARTING AT $36
Mexican, Navajo, Tibetan
& Pakistan Rugs

oriental rugs - mexican imports main st. center northampton, ma. 584-3958
Second floor

Hatch
Bar

The Great
Pretenders

Last Performance
Until April 6th---

Don't Miss It.

HATCH
BAR

Fri. & Sat.,
Feb. 24, 25

The Shittons

50¢ DRINKS 8-9
2 FOR 1 POWERHOUSES
9-10

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

Kent Whalon
—Licensed
Optician

We are Specialists in:
- FASHION EYEWEAR
- CONTACT LENSES
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

Benjamin Moore PAINTS
Decor-Kraft®

LATEX FLAT FINISH $6.95 per gallon
★ With Matching Latex Semi-Gloss $8.95 per gallon also rollers, brushes and all painting needs

Quinn's
INCORPORATED
9 Pray St. Amherst, Mass.
549-6237

★ Save 10%
On Any Item with a copy of this ad

C & C LIQUORS
Next To Town Hall, Amherst
FREE DELIVERY ON CAMPUS
253-3091

BALLANTINE ALE 16 oz. RET. $5.99 plus deposit
SEBASTIANI Burgundy and Chablis 1/2 gal. plus 10% $3.49 OFF ON CASES
VODKA $8.99 1.75 liters
ROSEGARDEN LIEBFRAUMILCH $3.59 50 oz.

Sr. gymmen exit winners

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

The place was Boyden's Auxiliary gym, the night was Tuesday, the time was 7:30, and the competition was against Dartmouth. The most significant event of the night was not that the UMass men's gymnastics team crushed an unsuspecting Big Green team by the score of 190.00-168.65.

But, the fact that the presence of seniors John Forshay and co-captain Dave Kulakoff shall never again grace the lime-light of competition at UMass was. It was the last home meet of the season for the gymmen and most importantly the last home meet for the graduating seniors.

What will be missed most is the dynasty that these two seniors represent. That of course is the domination of UMass gymnastics over other competing schools on the East coast, which was only to be inevitably the dwindling dream of past head coach Tom Dunn.

Kulakoff and Forshay were the last gymnasts to be recruited by Dunn, who is presently the assistant coach of the powerful Penn State team. These two seniors were the last two building blocks in Dunn's aspiration to have virtually a gymnastic powerhouse here at UMass. But alas, the dream only crumbled to dust as Dunn left for higher ground, taking his dreams and aspirations with him.

What was left were a few confused, misguided gymnasts holding up the foundation of what could have been a decade of ruling power of gymnastics on the east coast. Tuesday was that inevitable night that Forshay and Kulakoff would join the ranks of what had gone before them, in the dreams of a man who no longer graces the halls of Boyden.

The night was not to be denied to these seniors as they led the gymmen to an easy romp over Dartmouth. Forshay once again dominated the floor exercise with a very beautiful set scoring a 9.10 and winning the event easily. Kulakoff then went on to win the pommel horse event, tying his season high of 9.50.

The still rings, although there was no seniors in this event, saw freshman Dave Felleman win it with a personal high score of 9.05, keeping the flame alive in the possibility of gymnastics once again rising up to be what it once was at UMass.

Vaulting was also dominated by Forshay, who performed his last vault for a UMass crowd and scoring a solid 9.20. The parallel bars was won by Kulakoff, in performing his forever solid clean set.

The horitzontal bar put the icing on the cake for UMass as Dartmouth rolled over after Bob Donahue's high score of 9.00. Donahue also won the all-around competition with the highest score of his career, 48.65.

Now the eyes of the gymmen turn to Philadelphia as UMass travels this weekend to meet Temple in its last meet of the season.

Swimmers end at 7-2

By BILL TARTER
Collegian Staff

Dennis Buss, Tom Stevens, and Russ Yarworth all gave inspired farewell performances Tuesday night as the men's swim team successfully concluded its season, swamping Central Connecticut, 63-48. UMass ended the season at 7-2.

Among the many responsible for the fine campaign were the foursome of Jim Leland, Harry Fulford, Tom Nowak and Tom Stevens, who reeled off a pool record of 3:47 in the meet's opening event, the 400 yard medley relay.

Tom Stevens saved his best for last, not only winning both the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events, but breaking a school record as well. Competing in his last dual meet ever, he shattered his previous best performance in the 50 free and reduced Russ Yarworth's former record time to 22.3.

In the 200 yard freestyle Russ Yarworth's time of 1:49:6 was both a pool and school record. Later competing in the 200 yard butterfly, Yarworth officially concluded his dual meet career with another pool record, hitting the wire in a time of 2:01:5. Ho Hum.

The last of the departing seniors Dennis Buss also had the adrenalin flowing, recording his personal best in the 100 and 200 yard freestyle events.

The results seemed almost startling, as this year's squad nearly caused a complete revision of the school record book. During the course of the year thirteen records were either tied or broken.

REGENCY
We now have SunFlicks
by CLAIROL
189 N. PLEASANT ST.
253-9526— 253-7341
THE CELLAR

FENTON'S

SQUASH? ?
We supply the Amherst-area with the finest in athletic supplies and equipment! !
377 MAIN ST., AMHERST MASS 253-3973
RACQUETBALL? ?

WATCH FOR OUR END OF SEASON SALE ON ALL HOCKEY EQUIPMENT
10-25% OFF
STARTS MARCH 1

BUY ONE STICK — GET THE SECOND ONE FOR 1/2 PRICE

FENTON'S

Minutemen aim to shoot Cats

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

The UMass basketball rollercoaster, which climbed to new heights just last week with convincing wins over Villanova and George Washington, has now in a span of 60 hours plummeted to a new low level.

Just how low the injury riddled, travel wearied Lea-men are will be determined tonight at the Cage as UMass takes on New Hampshire in a 7:30 contest.

The Cagers (or temporarily called Leaman's Walking Wounded) will be without the services of starting guard Alex Eldridge (knee injury) and substitutes Chuck Steveskey (sprained ankle) and Jay Stewart (flu).

Both Steveskey (now on crutches) and Stewart (still in the infirmary) may be lost for the season. The team trainer James Laughnane says it is a "day to day" matter with Eldridge, but the senior guard, who recently was named both ECAC and EAA co-player of the week, says different.

"The way it is feeling today (Wednesday), the earliest I could play would be next Monday. But even then, if it's not feeling right, I will rest it until the EAA playoffs (next Thursday)," said Eldridge.

Eldridge's injury is diagnosed as a ligament sprain in the knee region. "Off and on this season, I felt twinges of it, but in Monday night's game in Duquesne, on the very hard floor, it finally went," said Eldridge.

Steveskey's injury is more serious, as the senior guard-forward sprained his ankle in the second half of Tuesday's overtime loss to Penn State. Yesterday, Steveskey was reported on crutches, and his playing time may be doubtfull for the rest of the season.

Stewart, who went into the infirmary last Saturday with the flu has not recovered, and Leaman doesn't know the extent of Stewart's illness. "The doctors aren't even sure as to the extent of Jay's illness," said Leaman.

Despite taking a double dip against Duquesne and Penn State within a span of 24 hours Leaman says that all is not lost.

"We obviously are a very tired basketball team (playing five games in a week) but despite our injuries, it is not a catastrophy. We have to adjust playing without Alex for a while and hope the rest of our people will be back for the tournament," Leaman said.

Leaman said he plans to start freshman Tom Witkos in place in Eldridge but maintains Witkos and sophomore Bill Morrison will split the guard position. "I'm pleased with the way Mike Pyatt and Derick Claiborne have been shooting but I want more points from the other guard position," said Leaman.

Claiborne is rapidly nearing the UMass 1,000 point career scoring plateau he needs just four points to hit the mark.

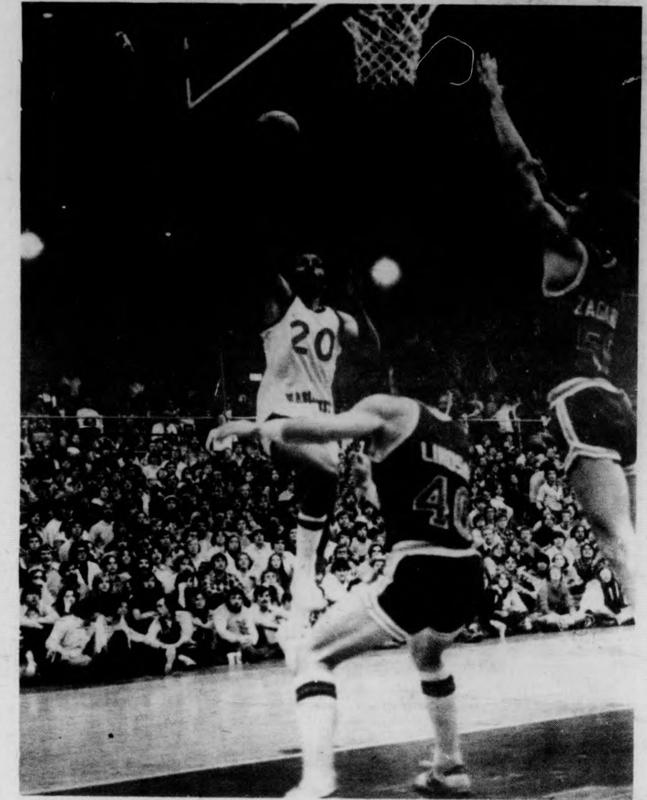
Meanwhile, the Wildcats (5-19) come into the Cage tonight with memories of their 78-76 triple-overtime victory last season, marking the last time the Minutemen have lost at the Cage.

Senior, 6'8" center Tom Cavanaugh, senior 6'6" forward Peter Laskaris, junior 6'6" forward Brendan VanDeventer, senior 6'1" guard Ron Layne, and junior 6'2" guard Keith Dickson comprise the Wildcat starting five and all participated in last season's win over UMass.

Dixon is the team's leading scorer, averaging 13 a game while VanDeventer is the top rebounder with an average of ten.

"Their style is a lot like Maine and Northeastern. They are very patient on offense and take their name. They are a very controlled team," said Leaman.

The Wildcats five wins have come against Boston College (87-77), Old Dominion, BU, Vermont and Maine (65-61). On Tuesday, they fell victim to Maine, losing 68-59.



With his fourth point tonight, senior co-captain Derick Claiborne will give the Minutemen their first backcourt with two 1000 point scorers. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

Icemen slip slidin' away

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

A hurting UMass hockey team will begin a rugged weekend of action tonight when it ventures to North Adams State to take on the scrappy Mohawks in a 7:30 contest at Veterans Memorial Rink.

The Minutemen, weakened from the effects of the flu and injuries to key players, will play three games in three nights in this the last weekend of the regular season. After tonight's encounter with North Adams, they will return home for a make-up game with Williams on Friday night and the finale with Salem State on Saturday night.

At stake for the Minutemen is a possible playoff berth in the Western Div. In the latest coaches poll, conducted earlier in the week, the UMies, currently 8-8-1, were listed in eighth place in the west, behind Middlebury, Plattsburgh State, Oswego, Elmira, Norwich, Army and Hamilton.

As it stands now, the chief rival for the final playoff spot is Buffalo, which is currently 9-10-0. Both UMass and Buffalo have three games remaining in the regular season.

Buffalo will play Brockport State, a Division II team, Geneseo State and Union, a comparatively easy slate compared to the trio the Minutemen will have to face.

Coach Jack Canniff and his players are not looking ahead to the playoffs yet, they have their sights focused in on North Adams, which, although it is only 5-9 in the division, is not a team to be taken lightly, as the Minutemen found out last year when the Mohawks came down to Amherst and shelled UMass 7-1.

The Minutemen will be in tough shape tonight injury-wise, as they have lost defensemen Dean Liacos and centers Joe Milan and Lincoln Flagg for the rest of the season.

With the shortage of centers, Canniff has had to do some juggling with his lines. The way it looks now, one line will have Bill Estes centering for the White brothers. The second line will have Don Murphy between Nick Carny and John Peters while a third line will feature Ken Richards centering for Mark Ferragamo and Bob Gould.

Canniff said that overall, the team is still a little weak from the flu, but "should be stronger than they were Saturday night" when the Minutemen were stung 9-3 by Boston State.

North Adams, which is currently 10-10 overall, and coming off a recent upset over AIC, is led offensively by Mark Sheldon, who has 14 goals and 32 points; Dave Rand, who has 30 points and Pete Leahy with 23.

In goal for the Mohawks will be either sophomore Karl Anderson, who owns a 2.70 goals-against average for six games or Gary Mastroanni, another sophomore who has played the other 14 games and has a 4.08 goals against average.

The Minutemen will face a key game this weekend when they face off against North Adams State. A playoff berth may be on the line. (Staff photo by Geoff Cohler)

Steve Zack

Play ball with Red

Your chance to become an NBA great has arrived. Enter the Red Auerbach Giveaway and win an all-expenses-paid ten-day contract with the Boston Celtics.

Join the likes of Zaid Abdul Aziz and Ernie DiGregorio. Bring back the memories of Bobby Wilson.

Take your shot at the roster and have the chance to replace such notiables as Tommy Boswell, Curtis Rowe, and JoJo White.

Just meet these simple requirements, and you can be on your way to a career of fame and fortune.

1) You must be a player with previous NBA experience.

2) You must have been waived or released within the last five years. Please print or type your name, address, previous teams and duration with them, and your career scoring and rebounding averages. Then, send it along with your reasons, in twenty-five words or less, for wanting to be a Celtic. (Note: any reference in your answer to Celtic Pride immediately disqualifies you.)

Mail your entry to: Fools on Parade, c/o Red Auerbach, Boston Garden, Causeway Street, Boston, Mass.

Send your entry in by February 25 and receive a 45 r.p.m. recording of Celtics owner Irv Levin singing Welcome to My Nightmare. On the flip side, Red Auerbach sings Tradition.

I get the feeling that we have seen the last of Curtis Rowe in a Celtic uniform, especially if he goes on the disabled list. The reasoning for my belief is quite simple. When Tommy Boswell returns to the team in a couple of weeks, he'll be playing forward only, provided that Abdul-Aziz is still backing up Dave Cowens. This means that the team will require one less forward of the power variety, meaning Rowe. If you're wondering why they should keep the likes of Tommy Boswell, instead of Rowe, remember that Boswell is younger, physically sounder, his future is ahead of him, and he's cheaper to maintain — that is, a lower salary.

If Rowe is released, don't be surprised if he returns to the Pistons where he enjoyed the better years of his career. The Pistons could use a forward of Rowe's potential calibre since the Detroiters are desperately fighting for a playoff berth.

The Denver Nuggets are fast becoming the favorite to win the NBA Championship. If not for their ability to beat the Trailblazers time after time, they should be favored for their preparation.

When Brian Taylor took his walk, the management went right out and acquired Darnell "Dr. Dunk" Hillman from the Nets for the low, low price of a second round draft pick and cash. Not satisfied, the Nuggets front office went back to the trade table and re-acquired Ralph Simpson from Detroit. If you can remember back a couple of years, Simpson was traded by Denver to Detroit, which sent Rowe to Boston, which sent Paul Silas to the Nuggets. By the way, the price for Simpson was Jim (Price, that is).

When it comes time to choose the Rookie of the Year, I hope the men who pick the award don't forget Atlanta'S Charlie Criss, the league's oldest rookie at age twenty-eight.

In this week's issue of the Sporting News, Mike Newlin of the Houston Rockets on the Washington-Tomjanovich affair: "The guy [Washington] is a criminal...and he belongs behind bars. If he did to me what he did to Rudy, I'd go out and get the biggest gun possible and shoot him."

Maybe the NBA should get rid of types like Newlin.

Turning to college basketball for a moment, didn't you television viewers of the UMass-George Washington game find it insulting that neither Bob Cousy nor Bob Fouracre knew what scoring record Mike Pyatt had broken until about two minutes after it happened.

Alex Eldridge, the NBA awaits you.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 90 FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1978
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Concert to be reconsidered

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-presidents Jon A. Hite and Marion L. "Pinky" Batiste in a decision made late last night vetoed the Student Senate compromise motion passed on Wednesday to have a Black American Music Festival with a $3 admission fee.

In their letter to Senate Speaker Pat Whelan, the presidents said they were responding to "many requests from constituents and from senators ...(which) indicate that this compromise is not acceptable to many students."

Batiste said "the phone has been ringing all day." Senator Don Bishop said "Constitutents have been blasting the hell out of them (senators). A Collegian phone poll revealed that 62 per cent of the student body was opposed to the admission fee.

The decision to veto was made after a petition was circulated by Bishop and Senator Paul Koslenikous asking the presidents to veto the motion to "facilitate...discussion" among senators on the nature of the concert. There were 25 senators who signed the petition out of the total of approximately 100 senators.

The veto is a "suspensive veto" which means that no negotiations can be made with an performers until the senate reconsiders the motion passed on Wednesday night. The motion allowed the Festival committee to enter into negotiations under the $34,080 compromise budget worked out that night which reduced the ticket price from the original $6 to $3. The budget was not $50,080 as reported in yesterday's Collegian.

With the new budget adopted on Wednesday night and the veto last night the talent situation is uncertain. Possibilities under a $6 ticket price budget included Aretha Franklin, the Ellington Orchestra, Ella Fitzgerald, Taj Mahal, and others. However, no decision has been made on who will appear for the concert this spring.

Reactions from student politicians varied. Student Treasurer Priscilla West said the possibility of Stevie Wonder coming to UMass increased Senate support of the festival. Student leaders learned that Wonder would not appear during last intersession. West said that while Wonder's appearing "wasn't in the motion I believe it was in everyone's mind." She added that "nobody wants to stand up on the Senate floor and tell the Third World caucus, 'I don't want your concert' because they don't want to be called racist."

Former Senate Speaker Brian DeLima who said he was "strongly in favor" of the festival said that "having a theme is more progressive. It's more meaningful. Music knows no color lines. The festival can educate people to understand how music has developed."

Senator Ron Corriveau who helped draft Wednesday's compromise with Third World Coordinator called the plan a "political solution to a political problem. ..Otherwise we would have ended up in a stalemate." Corriveau said, "People were thinking of their own political interest, not the students' interests."

"The one thing the Senate does that people enjoy is the concert and they want a free concert," said Batiste.

Senate Speaker Whelan said "There are not many people who haven't spent $3 in a minute on a pitcher of beer. Whelan said he didn't "think $3 was too much to ask for top-notch people" Whalen said he could "understand why people are angry."

Third World Senator John Yong said "we feel that in the past spring concerts have not represented a Third World perspective."

'A political solution to a political problem...'

—Senator Ron Corriveau, on the spring concert

TURN TO PAGE 6

100 polled by phone

Students dispute senate concert proposal

The majority of 100 students contacted yesterday in a Collegian random telephone survey indicated that they do not agree with the present plans for the 1978 UMass Spring Concert.

The survey was conducted to gauge student reaction to a motion passed by the Student Senate but vetoed last night by Student Government Association Co-president Jon A. Hite. The motion will be reconsidered by the senate on Wednesday.

Students were asked:

Do you agree with having to pay admission to the concert?

Do you agree with the suggested format (Black American Music Festival) for the concert?

What kind of a concert would you like the Spring Concert to be?

Thirty-three agreed with the admission charge for the concert, while 62 disagreed with having to pay. Five students had no opinion.

Forty-two students agreed with the musical format of the concert while 56 said they would like a different format and 2 students had no opinion.

Many of the students who were against the admission fee based their feelings on the 1977 Spring concert.

Sophomore Tom Good said, "They had decent talent last year and it was free. Why can't they do it again?"

Sophomore Debbie Wayne said that it was the quality of the entertainment, not the money, that was important.

"I don't mind spending the money for good talent," she said.

Junior Karen Berberian said she thought the idea of a Black American Musical Festival was a good idea for a concert but not for the Spring Concert.

Sophomore Jim Bradbury agreed, stating, "I like that kind of music but it should be a more varied concert."

A number of students polled said they thought the turnout for the concert would be much greater if a more varied musical format was presented.

The senate appropriated $34,080 for a Black American Music Festival which would charge a $3 admission price for UMass undergraduates.

This poll was compiled by Collegian staff members Wendy Carlson, Mark Horan, Linda Ann Maurice, Barbara Metzler, and Leo Peloquin.

All in a day's politics: Student Senate president Jon Hite had a busy day yesterday. He went before the Faculty Senate to talk about the fall academic calendar. He also bowed to student pressure and vetoed the spring concert proposal passed by the senate Wednesday night. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Fall term to start later

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

Students can finally cease griping about an academic calendar which many found troublesome as the faculty senate passed a motion yesterday recommending that fall 1978 commence after Labor Day.

The revised academic calendar now goes to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery for final approval who has said he will sign it.

The fall semester usually begins before the Labor Day weekend.

Final exams will now end on December 23, the last day of Friday classes will be on Saturday, and there will be more Monday, Wednesday and Friday classes than Tuesday and Thursday classes scheduled during the semester. However, the semester will still be 14 weeks long.

According to Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury, the primary reason for revising the calendar is the inconvenience of starting school before Labor Day for students whose summer jobs extend until after the holiday weekend. "76 per cent of students depend on earnings from summer jobs to support their education," Woodbury said.

Senator Irving Rothberg scorned the idea of class on the Saturday before finals saying it was "an ideal thing in Plato's heaven" but that students would simply take an extra holiday.

Student Government Association Co-president Jon A. Hite retorted to Rothberg's charges saying, "studies show that students are more into academics now and holding class on Saturday will give students an extra reading day to bone up for exams."

In other business, Program and Budget Council Chairman Harvey Kline, upon issuing the council's annual report, said the report's negative attitude no longer exists due to a free flow of data between the Administration and the council, largely due to acting Provost Jeremiah M. Allen's efforts to make data available.

The council had previously experienced stonewalling by the administration regarding requests for budget information and had been the source of much anti-administration sentiment especially toward former Provost Paul L. Puryear.

Amid clouds of confusion, Chairman of the Rules Committee, David Yaukey sent a motion recommending guidelines and schedule for the evaluation of administrators back to committee for further consideration and study. The senate was concerned about the evaluations being placed in personnel files by the senate, to which an undetermined number of faculty and administrators have access.

Inside

"Math anxiety" is discussed by scholars in the five-college area. See Pamela Lindmark's story on page 2.

Amherst College students and faculty supporting divestment of college-owned stocks in South African corporations present demands to college trustees this afternoon. See story on page 3.

James Lewis concludes his week-long series on sterilization of women today on page 3.

Weather

Today it will be clear and cold. And the end of the week!

'Math anxiety' probably not sex based

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

The Pythagorean Theorum (A2+B2 = C2) is enough to send many students, both male and female, into high states of anxiety.

The case is no different for students here in the Five-College area, according to local math authorities. "Math anxiety yesterday was cited by several professors in the Five-College area to be prevalent, especially in the introductory level math courses."

However, opinion varied as to whether or not this condition is one shared equally be men and women.

"I'm not sure that it is purely a female problem," said UMass Math Professor James E. Humphreys in a telephone interview yesterday. "It's difficult to make blanket judgements. The specific situation at UMass is that there are more male than female math majors."

According to William D. Tunis, UMass Dean of Admissions and Records, the 1977 fall enrollment proves this to be true. Of a total enrollment of 108 math majors, 39 were female, 69 male.

However, Humphreys said he did not feel these figures necessarily pointed to the problem as being primarily female.

The anxiety part is very difficult to measure, he said, pointing out that the majority of students with such anxieties avoid taking math courses altogether.

The underlying problem which supports the belief that math anxiety is a woman's problem is that the traditional career preferences are still very strongly felt, he emphasized.

"Cultural bias is still a strong factor. And the anxiety is there.

"However," Humphreys concluded, "I see anxiety in both male and female students. I'm not sure I see it just in females."

George Cobb, Mount Holyoke math professor, agrees that the problem does seem to be part of the socialization process, but pointed to the fact that his situation at Mt. Holyoke, an all-female college, shielded him from the male-female differences in anxiety level.

Nonetheless, Mt. Holyoke does acknowledge the existence of the problem, according to Cobb.

"To the extent that we want to organize the math curriculum to respond, we have in the last two years introduced five new courses — one is simply a more basic level, and the four others emphasize another aspect of math," he said.

Cobb said he feels math is actually much closer to music than to the sciences. He views it as the abstract study of patterns, using the mind rather than the hearing processes.

"Mathematics is a creative thinking process," he emphasized. "If that side of mathematics were presented in lower grades, it would appeal to everybody rather that people pressured into studying math because it is supposedly useful."

Smith College math professor Marjorie Senechal does not agree with Cobb's belief that this is the key to overcoming the problem.

Senechal said math anxiety was present at Smith, particularly in the introductory courses. She said the majority of the math department faculty at Smith feel the best thing to do is present material in such a way as to get them to do the problems and there by obtain greater confidence.

It is, said Senechal, a case of getting students to let go from their reliance on books and studying.

"I find it is the way the course is taught," she stressed. "I don't think that viewing math as a creative thinking process is the crutch. I teach two courses, on Introduction to Symmetry and a Pre-calculus course. One deals with creative patterns, one with a more scientific appraoch, and the results in both are the same."

When asked if she feels the problem arises from a basic cultural influence, Senechal pointed to her two daughters.

"Well," she said, "I have two daughters, both raised the same way. One hates math and one loves it...."

Alexandra G. Kaplan, professor of psychology here at UMass, views the entire situation in another light.

"The push," said Kaplan, "is typically to push the child not toward a happy medium, but rather to the defined stereotypical behaviors."

Kaplan said there is no question that teachers assume girls will do worse in math than boys. They encourage boys more, as in coming up to the blackboard, and a clear message is communicated to girls.

Eleven UMass Physical Plant workers carefully align an 8x15 foot pane of glass at the east end of the Campus Center concourse. A number of students reportedly watched the event and were heard to have been speculating on the sight if the glass should fall. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Professional group seeks neutrality of speakers

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

Charles Lyman, speaker for the senate of the Professional Association of UMass at Amherst said yesterday, "If a professional union is approved, we could work very well with them...(the union members) We want to remain neutral."

Lyman emphasized the association's neutrality in an interview following yesterday's first monthly senate meeting of the spring semester.

Lyman said the association's activities should be kept separate from those of the union because the University cannot deal with an unrecognized union due to the limitations of labor laws. "We are here to encourage," he said, "Those who are in favor of a union are a subset of us. We represent our professional staff — those who are involved in the union and those who are opposed."

Efforts to form a professional union have been underway for more than a year, but as of now no union officially exists. Jack DeNyse, director of personnel, was scheduled to speak to the group last semester but canceled because of the possibility of an unfair labor charge being brought up against him. DeNyse had decided to wait until after his appearance before the Labor Relations Board at a December hearing. The re-scheduling of DeNyse was among the business discussed at the meeting held in the Campus Center.

Harry Brooks, representing the Office of Budgeting and Institutional Studies, Management Systems, suggested hearing a speaker from the Union of Professional Employees at one of the next meetings. Lyman suggested a more neutral speaker.

Other business handled at the meeting included reports from all committees and from the association representatives to such groups as the Faculty Senate and the Board of Trustees.

Speaker Lyman asked that any professional staff member interested in serving on the Provost Search Committee get in contact with a member of either the Executive Committee or the Committee on Committees immediately.

There will be three more meetings of PAUMA this semester, including one in May to hold general elections.

....newslines....

Campus police begin speed trapping Monday

The UMass Police Dept. this Monday will begin posting radar speed traps at different locations on campus as part of a new safety program.

The program, according to Chief of Police Robert G. Joyce, has been started as a "result of changing weather and the necessity for enforced traffic conditions."

Joyce said the program is not in reaction to the fatal and near-fatal pedestrian accidents which occurred on North Pleasant Street earlier this month. Police will be patrolling all roads on campus with emphasis on Massachusetts and Commonwealth Avenues, Joyce said.

He said the program is an attempt to cut down speeding by issuing warnings. Citations will be issued to excessive speeders. UMass violators will feel this most in their wallets: ticket costs can range from $25 to $50 and Mass. drivers will be levied an insurance surcharge of $25 per year for three years.

Joyce said that of 563 moving motor vehicle violations, 162 of them were for speeding. Joyce said students walking to and from Southwest are asked to use the tunnel under Mass. Ave.

—MICHAEL F. ROAN

Pres. Search Committee classifies its candidates

The UMass Presidential Search Committee last Monday met to further discuss the 25 candidates remaining in the search for a new UMass president, and they also interviewed one candidate.

The day-long, closed-session meeting took place at University headquarters in Boston.

The committee discussed how the separate candidates compared to criteria the committee had already decided on. The committee also classified the remaining candidates into groups consisting of those who had best qualifications, those the committee needed more information on, and those candidates who do not show a strong standing but who will still be considered.

The name of the candidate interviewed was not disclosed.

—GAYLE YOUNG

Controversial Bakke case to be debated by students

The controversy surrounding the Bakke case and affirmative action resurfaces at UMass tonight with a panel discussion called "The Myth of Reverse Discrimination" sponsored by the Coalition to Reverse the Bakke Decision.

According to John Yong, chairman of the panel, discussion will center on affirmative action at UMass in the wake of a recent HEW investigation of affirmative action policies at the University.

The panel will also discuss the effects of the Bakke decision on UMass, Yong said.

According to Sally Rees, organizer of the program, the panel will include five members.

John Bracey, chairman of the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro American Studies, will give a history of the Civil Rights movement.

John Yong from the Asian American Students Association will talk about the Bakke case.

Also on the panel will be Marcel Ringawa from the Bilingual and Bicultural Professional Program, Julie Hall, a UMass sophomore and a representative of the Office of Third World Affairs. An undetermined representative of the 12-1 Association, an organization of women university employees will also be on the panel.

The program will take place tonight at 7 p.m. in Camus Center 163.

—MARK HORAN

Inadequacies in dorms subject of SOP inquiry

A recent inquiry into dormitory living, conducted by the Student Organizing Project, discovered leaky roofs, broken windows and showers, and snow in some dorms.

Project members canvassed 15 dorms last week in an attempt to discover dorm inadequacies and to inform students of possible rebates.

Student complaints will be given to the Student Center for Educational Research where the best way to improve dormitory living will be determined.

Project organizer Mike Brennen said he felt students housed by the University should have the same rights as apartment dwellers. Rebates to students might be in order if the conditions are not improved because some of the faulty dorm conditions have been present for over a year.

A couple inches of snow from the recent blizzard was found on the floor of one room in Johnson House. There were also complaints of mice and silverfish in some dorms.

—BETH SEGERS

Today's Staff

Issue Editor J.R.

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistant Issue Editor | Helen Berg |
| News Desk | Laura Kenney |
| Editorial Layout | Fifi Ball |
| Sports Desk | Walt Cherniak |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dave Rodgers |
| Copy Editor | Mary |
| Photo Staff | Jon Geller, Diane Crawford, Pat Dobbs |
| Ad Layout | Liz Lebow |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Dwight summoned in MBM case

BOSTON [AP] — The head of a legislative committee probing a controversial $6 million state contract says he thinks "other people", possibly influential people, had a hand in negotiating and awarding that contract.

The director of the state Bureau of Building Construction, Walter J. Poitrast, denied the charge, claiming total responsibility for drawing up the McKee-Berger-Mansueto contract.

"Frankly I think there were other people involved, other decision makers from day one," said Rep. Gerald Cohen, D-Andover.

Cohen heads the Post Audit and Oversight subcommittee charged with conducting the probe of the MBM contract to supervise construction of the University of Massachusetts Boston campus.

Cohen questioned Poitrast for nearly five hours Thursday about his role in the contract.

The firm's work has come into question following disclosure by MBM officials of thousands of dollars in payments to prominent politicians.

After learning that MBM was picked about five days after the field was narrowed to three candidates, Cohen said, "Knowing how things happen at the statehouse, I am amazed at the haste with which all this was done."

MBM was actually ranked third of the three candidates for the job, Cohen said.

Poitrast acknowledged that and said when the three names were submitted to the state's Designer Selection Board, of which he is a member, all the board did was put them in alphabetical order.

The list went to then Commissioner of Administration and Finance Donald Dwight, who picked MBM for the job.

"It appears Dwight took the alphabetized list and picked the third ranked firm," Cohen said.

"It appears we may have to hear from him."

Dwight, now publisher of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, said he'd be glad to testify, but added, "I have zero knowledge of any campaign contributions by MBM to any campaign."

Asked if there had been any political pressure or input into the selection, Dwight said, "None that I recall. When the names of the three firms came to me, I had confidence that every firm was fully qualified."

The former Republican lieutenant governor called the probe, "a political field day."

Poitrast too said he did not recall any phone calls or any pressure from then Gov. Francis W. Sargent or anyone else.

Graduate Student Senate Treasurer Ken Ross and Plant and Soil Department Representative Steve Modina last night entered into discussion of the transit service budget. (Staff photo by Jon Geller)

Grad senate rejects university bus plans

By ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate last night supported the motion by its Finance Committee opposing a proposal to place a separate fee on students' tuition bills funding the UMass bus system.

This matter must be resolved by March 1 to meet a deadline set by the Administration.

The second motion which supported the Undergraduate Student Senate's proposal that 70 per cent of the Transit Service's budget be paid by students and 30 per cent be paid by the administration was tabled after a heated debate between Steve Modena of the plant and soil department and Treasurer Ken Ross over a lack of clear, comprehensible information.

The supported motion proposed that the Graduate Student Senate's share of the Transit budget be paid directly from the Senate's budget. The money would be derived from an increase in graduate students' tax of $2 to $4.

The tabled motion will be reconsidered at a Senate meeting scheduled for Monday. Expected to be attached to that motion will be a specification citing a source of potential funds which the administration could use to pay its share of the Transit budget, according to Ross.

Currently the adminstration is using funds from the budget of the parking office to pay off interest on bonds sold to build the Campus Center Garage. Fifty-six per cent of the parking office's budget is comprised of money paid by students through parking tickets and stickers. The Balanced Transportation and Parking Council has asked the state to take over the funding of the garage so as to free these funds, according to Senate Vice-President Monte Pearson.

Student leaders claimed if this money was available the administration would have ample funds to pay the share of the transit budget which the Senate proposes. The administration had earlier rejected this proposal claiming a lack of sufficient funds.

In other business, Jerri Mulvaney-Husch was appointed to the search committee for the new provost formed by Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery.

College community to debate investments

By JOAN FEENEY
Collegian Staff

Representatives of the Amherst College South Africa Support Committee will present demands for divestment of the college's corporate stock holdings in apartheid South Africa when they meet the college Board of Trustees this afternoon.

The college holds $20 million in stocks of corporations operating in South Africa.

The 18 member Board of Trustees last October unanimously voted to maintain the college's investment policy. The college holds $20 million in stocks of corporations operating in South Africa.

The support committee and several trustees are meeting today to debate the investment policy.

The trustees agreed to today's 4 p.m. meeting in Johnson Chapel after their November meeting was picketed by the support committee and a petition demanding divestment was presented to them in December.

Support committee member Karl Seidman last night said the college's Afro-American Society has endorsed the committee's divestment demands.

Seidman earlier this week said the support committee is asking the trustees to "exorcise corporate holdings" rights and request the corporations to withdraw their operations from South Africa. If the corporations refuse the request during a two-year period, Seidman said the support committee wants the trustees to divest the stocks.

Seidman said no official action can be taken by the trustees today because the session is not an official trustee meeting. The next full board meeting is in April, he said.

College Treasurer Kurt Hertzfeld said the trustees "will meet with the faculty and students in good faith" and would listen to the student support for divestment.

Representatives of the support committee and trustees will make opening statements at the meeting before each side engages in a debate over the investment policy.

Trustees at UMass, Hampshire and Smith Colleges last year voted to divest whole or partial stock holdings of corporations in South Africa.

Reports of sterilization abuses documented

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Staff

News Analysis

There are some evil things going on with sterilization abuse. The writer does not mean to be crude or anti-socially revealing, but these problems demand attention if they are to be stopped. Bear in mind the fact these cases are documented reports.

The Women's International Network says it has extensively documented medical evidence indicating that all females aged four through eight in the African nation of Somalia are subjected to the painful practice of infibulation. The operation, without exception, is performed on all female children. The operation involves having the external genitalia cut off, and then sewing the vagina closed, except for a tiny opening "to demonstrate their virginity to the man to whom they are given in marriage." The network says many of these operations are conducted in government-sponsored hospitals and clinics - facilities which are operated with the use of funds from western governments.

An example of contraceptive experimentation documented in Population Target took place in Guatemala where 48 poor women who were to have hysterectomies were injected transvaginally with paraformaldehyde. The hysterectomy operations (the removal of the uturus) were performed one to six weeks later in an experiment to determine whether this powerful poison had the desired effect of permanently blocking the tubes.

The aim of the effort was to develop a sterilization kit that people with little medical training could use. One of the women died with bronchial spasms. This was funded by the prestigious Population Council, owned by John D. Rockefeller.

In the book Population Target, by Bonnie Mass, 1976, it is also sited that 40,000 women were sterilized in Columbia between 1963-65 by Rockefeller-funded programs. These women were coaxed by gifts of lipstick or artificial pearls, by small payments of money, and by promises of free medical care.

The Institute for the Study of Medical Ethic, a Los Angeles-based group, has charged that blacks and members of other minority groups are being singled out as guinea pigs for experiments with the drug-Depo-Provera.

The Food and Drug Administration has for 20 years refused to approve the use of Depo-Provera as a contraceptive, which may cause sterility. The institute placed an advertisement in the personal column of a Los Angeles newspaper which read "urgent. If your contraceptive is a three month injection, call this number."

The group says that over 100 women responded to the ad. Seventy-five percent of the women were black, and 85 percent had not been told by their doctors that Depo-Provera was an experimental drug which was not approved as a contraceptive by the government. The report said they would not have taken the drug if their doctors had informed them about it beforehand.

Sonia Sanchez, renowned poet shares work with 350 in Mahar

By ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Editor

Internationally-renowned poet Sonia Sanchez spoke last night on "Poems of Living and Being" to a crowd of about 350 in Mahar Auditorium.

Apparently disturbed by the high levels of noise caused by the circulation vents in the building, Sanchez read most of her works with her left hand covering her ear.

Sanchez opened her reading with "After Saturday Night Comes Sunday," a poetry reading about love between man and woman, and love between a man and his addiction to drugs.

The love between the man and woman in the poem is strong and real, especially during Saturday night, yet the harsh light of Sunday morning's reality sees the love between man and his addiction to be even stronger.

From her first book 'Homecoming,' Sanchez read various poems such as 'Black Magic' and 'Poem at 30.' Throughout her appearance Sanchez demonstrated her ability for various means of vocal expression. She talked, sang, stammered, stuttered, and chanted.

In a change of pace, Sanchez read from her book entitled 'Love Poems.' Among these was a poem dedicated to a woman who married at the age of 17 called 'Poem No. 7'. This is a short piece dealing with a young wife and her unfaithful husband who comes home to her after being with another woman. "He slid into me like glass, and there was the sound of splitters," read Sanchez.

Of her work Sanchez said, "I have to write, it's continuing a tradition of writing. There are many sounds and motions available, and I'm blessed with being able to use them."

Black Affairs

Fearing for her life
Joan Little wins delay

NEW YORK [UPI] — Fugitive Joan Little, saying "I fear for my life," won a temporary delay Thursday of her extradition to North Carolina where she escaped from prison last October while serving a sentence for larceny.

The 23-year-old black woman, who gained nationwide attention when she was acquitted two years ago in the icepick slaying of a white jailer she said was forcing sexual acts upon her.

Attorney William Kunstler, granted the delay by Justice Sybil Kooper, told the court he would produce a North Carolina official he said could support Miss Little's contention that her life would be in danger in her home state.

Kunstler,.who said he would press his case in the federal courts, if necessary, refused to identify the official or disclose the nature of his evidence.

North Carolina officials have denied that Miss Little was ever mistreated while in jail.

"I fear for my life," Miss Little told a knot of newsmen and supporters who pressed against her in a fifth-floor hallway in the Brooklyn courthouse. "I'm as good as dead in North Carolina."

Why? Miss Little was asked.

"Because I know they would kill me," she said. "And some way or other, it would come out as suicide. I would rather take my chances in the courts here and hope that the governor Hugh Carey would see that I shouldn't be sent back."

Carey ordered Miss Little's extradition Wednesday at the request of North Carolina Gov. James Hunt Jr., an action Kunstler called "a blatant betrayal of the many minority people whose votes were responsible for his election four years ago, as well as of the most fundamental of human rights".

Kunstler added, "to order Miss Little's extradition... was an act not only of sheer racism but of political cowardice as well."

Miss Little, who was serving 7-10 years for breaking and entering and larceny, escaped from the North Carolina prison Oct. 15 and was arrested Dec. 7 in New York after police received a tip she was at Kennedy Airport.

In addition to the extradition proceeding, she faces New York state charges of assault and reckless endangerment in connection with her arrest, which came after a high speed chase through Brooklyn.

Kunstler said he would file for a writ of habeas corpus March 6.

UMass student writes from Kenya East Africa

Greetings from Kenya, E. Africal I am writing this letter as a Peace Corps Volunteer stationed in Limur, Kenya. I am assigned to work with the Ministry of Agriculture, here in Kenya, as a Floriculturist. I have been in Kenya for only 6 weeks all of which have been involved in cross cultural training programs.

A 1977 Stockbridge School of Agriculture graduate with a degree in Floriculture, I applied to the Peace Corps last January upon returning from Intersession. I was very unsure as to whether my trade was of any value to Peace Corps but hoped there was a place for me. Unknown to me at the time, a specially trained Floriculturist, with the background I had obtained from Stockbridge; applying to the Peace Corps is somewhat of a rarity. Upon arrival in Kenya, I discovered that I was now the only Floriculturist in Kenya and that my arrival had been long anticipated.

I now find that along with my PC assignment of assisting small farmers with their floral crops, I am also working on a United Nations Development Project (UNDP). This project is fairly new to Kenya and concerns itself principally with growing carnations and statice for export to Europe.

They are now in hopes to expand their market and test the acceptance of new crops on the European Flower Market. Being a small, new project has many advantages, one being that I was supplied with a Honda motorcycle for transportation in my work. This overcomes the biggest problem most PCVs face as transportation is a big problem here.

Cross cultural training has been very rewarding, yet very intense. The first week was spent in Nairobi to familiarize ourselves with the city itself. Nairobi is quite similar to an American city and now, with everything in bloom is very beautiful. The 2nd week, spent in Limur, some 30 miles north of Nairobi, with lush green growth, and plenty of sunshine but a cool breeze prevails making it just beautiful. Limur's weather makes it perfect for growing anything from tea to flowers or vegetables.

The last 3 weeks of training were spent in Malindi, on the coast of the Indian Ocean. Classes ran from 6:30 a.m. through 12:30 p.m. stopping before it became too unbearably hot. All classes were in Kiswahili and the "No English" rule was strictly enforced. Malindi is beautiful; the beach stretches for miles, the water warm and clear. The heat was something to be remembered as Nov.-Feb. is the warmest time on the coast. The coolness of Limur suits me fine.

The PC-Kenya Director informed me I have made PC-Kenya history as the youngest volunteer to join PC-Kenya. (I'll be 21 next month; the average PCV age is 24 or so). He also commented on how well qualified I was for my position as a result of my education at Stockbridge.

I wholeheartedly encourage anyone presently in the Stockbridge Floriculture program to look into Peace Corps as the demand for specialization is high here. Also four year Horticulture students are being sought after.

Kenya has much to offer a PCV as well as a PCV having much to offer Kenya and its people. I look forward to my 2 years as a volunteer and would be happy to lend a hand to anyone considering Peace Corps in the future.

My warmest "Hello" to my UMass and Stockbridge friends, former professors and to all on the 17th floor of George Washington Upper, I miss you all—

Joy Gallagher, PCV
P.O. Box 30518
Nairobi, Kenya, E. Africa

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

TYRONE VICTOR THOMPSON!
IF YOU HAD A DOZEN APPLES AND GAVE AWAY SIX, HOW MANY WOULD YOU HAVE LEFT?
!
2-8
WELL... WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?
THE INSTANT REPLAY!
BRANDON JR
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Black American Music Festival coming reality

By JAMES LEWIS
Black Affairs Assistant Editor

This past Wednesday night, February 22, saw an attempt by some members of the Finance committee to stop the Black American Music Festival, this year's Spring Concert. The committee has been working on this concert for two years. It was agreed to sponsor the Spring concert with a drop in admission rate from $6 to $3 per UMass student. The Senate deliberated for three hours in heated debate over the issue.

This year's concert, will be a tribute to Black Classical music. Ella Fitzgerald, Max Roach, Archie Shepp, Bob Marly and the Wailers, and Herbie Hancock were some of the names mentioned to attend. This concert is planned as an experience for all UMass students to enjoy.

Editorial

Myth of Puerto Rican large families

By JAMES LEWIS JR.
Black Affairs Assistant Editor

I get sick of hearing people talk about Puerto Ricans as if they are animals. People should learn to get themselves together before they open their mouths. One of the most common things, myths, I hear about Puerto Ricans is that they have large families. I should like to clarify a few things for those poor fools who insist on dis-uniting our race.

What would you do if your race of people were numbered a little over three million in Puerto Rico and five million in the U.S., and you found out that at least 38 per cent of your women were permanently sterilized. What would you do if you found that 38 per cent of the women on your three million person island, were sterilized. If I was married and had a fertile wife, we also would have many children, as many as we could possibly afford.

Before the U.S. went into Puerto Rico, pushed the farmers off the farmland and into the cities, and subjected them to an ugly mass sterilization plan, Puerto Rican peoples had average size families. The Puerto Rican peoples know what they are doing, and so should we.

Chinese Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo Feng ("77 photo) will be an additional post of chief of state during the forthcoming fifth National People's Congress which opens in Peking 2-26.

The Horn of Africa

Note: This is a continued series of articles dealing on the super power involvement in Africa, presented by the Connecticut-Amherst chapter of the Ethiopian Students Union in North America.

The intensification of the new democratic revolution in Ethiopia, which started since the great February 1974 upsurge, the tremendous gain made by the national liberation movements and the general trend of revolution in the world has shaken the imperialist and reactionary camps. In an attempt to arrest the revolution and assume their political, economic and strategic interest, the imperialist and reactionary forces have resorted to their counter revolutionary intrigues. Both the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., along with their regional proxies started to use every means to advance their objectives. The U.S. which under Haile Selassie was the major imperialist power providing, economic military and political support to the reactionary rulers continued its policy fundamentally unchanged. Continuing its old policy, the U.S. provided the junta with three hundred million worth of arms. Israel following suit, not only continued its age old policy, but also intensified its aid by sending a large number of experts to help the junta train its counter insurgency forces (like the Flam Bergade). The U.S., however, recognizing the volatile position of the ruling clique, was at the same time strengthening the reactional feudal remnants organized under the Ethiopian Democratic Union, by providing U.S. arms, money and making its propaganda machinery (in Khartoum).

The political development was also being closely watched by the Moscow leadership with the objective of exploiting any contradiction that might crop up between the Junta and Washington. This drama was particularly intensified in 1977. While the Soviets were trying to strengthen the Mengestu clique and expand their hegemony by trying to reconcile the differences between the Ethiopian junta on the one hand and its pro-Soviet neighbour, Somalia; the U.S. on the other hand was trying to strengthen the pro-U.S. clique within the junta. The unannounced visit of Castro to Ethiopia, his secret meeting with Mengestu and Barre in Aden, the Podgorney visit to East Africa (including Somalia); the secret meeting of reactionary Arab-League countries, climaxed by the Sanaa (North Yemen) meeting of Arab head of states is part of the U.S.S.R.-U.S. instigated conspiracy to suppress and dampen the Ethiopian revolution, and strengthen their cliques.

TURN TO PAGE 5

---

Black Affairs

Exiled S.A. leader to speak

Sipho Bithelezi

Sipho Buthelezi, former General Secretary of the now outlawed Black People's Convention and political exile, will speak on conditions in South Africa at the Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 North Pleasant St. Amherst on Sunday morning, February 26 at 11 a.m. Mr. Buthelezi was an associate of Stephen Biko, whose death in a South African prison last fall stirred worldwide protest. Mr. Buthelezi will be touring this country under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee.

New treatment for sickle cell

BERKLEY, Calif. [UPI] — A new technique for treating sickle cell anemia has been developed in a test tube, the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory announced Thursday.

The next step will be to test the method on humans. Sickle cell anemia is a hereditary disease of the red blood cells affecting 50,000 people in the United States, mostly blacks.

The Lawrence Laboratory has found that a chemical called imidester, if injected and then trapped in red cells, will inhibit abnormal hemoglobin from "sickling."

The hemoglobin sickles when the body is low in oxygen and forms a rigid crescent shape. These cells tangle and block blood vessels, causing severe pain, fever, jaundice and a loss of red cells. The loss of red cells leads to complications which can cause early death.

Lester Packer, a Lawrence physiologist, said, "Our experiments have shown this treatment can prevent distortion of the molecules.

"We have done it with human blood in the test tube. If we can do this in patients, then the clinical symptoms of the disease, and the complications, should not occur."

Announcements

'Sunlight and Shade'

"Sunlight and Shade" the Black Classical Music group, featuring Semenya McCord, former member of the "Voices of the New Africa House Choir," will be performing at Hampden Dining Commons at 8 p.m. tonight.

'Solidarity Night'

A "Night of Solidarity with Ethiopian People" will be held this Saturday.

A "Night of Solidarity with Ethiopian People" will be held this Saturday, February 25, in the Student Union Ballroom at 7 p.m. The program will feature a speaker, films, slides, and dinner. Admission is one dollar.

This is sponsored by the Connecticut-Amherst Chapter of the Ethiopian Students Union in North America — (Esuna).

CCEBS

On Thursday, March 9, 1978, at the Placement Office, a representative from Proctor & Gamble will be interviewing for a sales position. Interested CCEBS students, especially graduating seniors, should contact Brian Maher in room 209 New Africa House immediately.

Drum

DRUM — a student run literary and arts magazine is asking for contributions for the Spring issue in the areas of Art, Photography, Poetry, Essay, Fiction, Reviews and any information relevant to the student body. All articles must be typewritten and double spaced. The deadline is March 17th. Submit articles to Afro-Am office, New Africa House, UMass, Amherst.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

T. V. THOMPSON IS RIDICULOUS!
2-10
HE WATCHES TELEVISION ALL THE TIME!
WHY DO YOU THINK HE WATCHES TELEVISION SO MUCH, LUTHER?
BECAUSE THE ANNOUNCER ALWAYS SAYS STAY TUNED, OREO!
BRANDON JR
© 1978 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Picture of the week: Brother Carlos W. Anderson (center) performing in one of last year's play of, "Tomorrow's Been Here and Gone." Brother Anderson will be performing next week in "Illusions," a play that he wrote and directed. The play "Illusions, A Ceremony," will be held at Bowker Auditorium March 2, 3, and 4. Admission is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for non-students.

This play is presented by the Black Cultural Center of UMass.

★The Horn of Africa

As is clear today, especially after the Barre cliques in Mogadishu intervened in the Ogaden's people struggle for national self determination and the beginning of the Ethiopian junta's all out war, the situation in the Horn has become a concern for international peace. The U.S.S.R., Cuba, South Yemen, East German, Libya and other Soviet satellites along with Israel have not only sent arms worth billions of dollars, but have also been directly involved through their military personnels.

Likewise, despite the cowardly and hypocritical statements of Carter, the U.S. has given Somali arms worth hundreds of millions of dollars from its stock-pile in Iran and Saudi Arabia. Besides Egypt, The Sudan, Iran, Pakistan and other U.S. satellite were encouraged to send military personnels, estimated in thousands to the Somali Republic.

The war in the Horn, that has already caused the lives of hundreds of thousands of fraternal people is continuing unabated. If there is any new development, it is only further intensification and internalization of the war. Such being the case, the possibility of super-power confrontation is not only probable but also possible. However, this possibility of super-power confrontation and the mutual liquidation of the people of the Horn is avoidable, by the revolutionary uprisal of both the Ethiopian and Somalia people against the imperialists and their local agents in Addis Abeba and Mogadishu. To this end the world's people should be behind revolutionary forces in Ethiopia and Somalia.

Bluewall Bar
Friday Happy Hour
Feb. 24
2 for 1 Powerhouses 3-6

NBA official speaks; hits salaries, violence

By STEVE ZACK
Collegian Staff

A National Basketball Association official last night said the large salaries of NBA athletes are partially to be blamed on the income provided by television.

Supervisor of Officials for the NBA Norman Drucker spoke to a group of about 50. The event was sponsored by the UMass Sport Management Department.

"We (the NBA) have probably the greatest athletes in the world," Drucker said. "We know it by the salaries they demand."

The current average salary in the NBA is over $140,000, according to Drucker. Television income ranges from $11 million to $12 million per year.

Drucker then switched to the subject of the referee. He remarked on the difficulty of officiating in today's game where "each team has a seven-foot center and a six-foot-ten forward."

Currently the league employs 26 officials whose salaries range from $20,000 in the first year to $45,000 after ten years. This year there are four new referees chosen from over 250 applicants.

Before answering questions from the audience, Drucker spoke on violence in the NBA. He said there is no more violence now than there was before but that it will no longer be tolerated by the commission.

A special committee consisting of Drucker, coaches, general managers, players, and the deputy commissioner was set up to develop solutions to the problem of violence.

Among the questions from the audience that Drucker answered were those concerning a third official and how one can become a referee in the NBA.

Drucker said a decision on the matter of adding a third official has been delayed until June. One of the reasons for the delay was the fact that there is no one group that has 100 per cent approval for the addition of a third official. It would also require that an additional $700,000 be added to the officiating budget in order to accommodate a third official.

Norman Drucker, supervisor of officials for the National Basketball Association, last night spoke to an audience of about 50. The speech was sponsored by the Sports Management Department. (Staff photo by Diane Crawford)

★ Concert reconsidered

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

Third World Senator Julie Hall said the concerts have been "selectively discriminatory against the Third World community."

Coordinator for Third World Affairs Stan Kinard could not be reached for comment last night. At the Senate meeting Kinard said the Senate made a 1976 commitment to funding a concert commemorating black music. The following is a chronology of events compiled from student government leaders leading up to last night's veto:

SPRING 1976: There is discussion involving the Duke Ellington Foundation which is in its creation stages. The organization (as it is described now) would try to convert the Ellington home into a museum, build up an archives of black music and run an outreach program for New York City School Children.

There was talk in the spring of 1976 to convert the name of the Fine Arts Center to commemorate Ellington. There was also complaint that the '76 spring concert was not representative of all groups on campus. An investigation is made into Affirmative Action guidelines for the 1977 concert.

FALL 1976: There is talk of bringing Wonder to UMass among other big names.

SPRING 1977: Early in the spring there is talk of bringing Wonder to UMass, now for the spring concert. Late in the spring there is discussion of having Wonder to UMass in the fall in conjunction with the Ellington foundation and a festival commemorating black music. This plan collapses when the football team practice prevents access to the stadium.

OCTOBER 1977: The Senate allocates $450 to send Kwaku Saunders to Los Angeles to meet with Stevie Wonder and managers of Wonder's record company.

NOVEMBER 1977: Kwaku Saunders reports to the Senate and describes his trip as a "success". Saunders added that Wonder was concerned he was "getting involved in more than a concert." "It is the idea that the concert would benefit the Duke Ellington Foundation that attracted Stevie," according to Saunders, Wonder told him "he wanted to do it."

DECEMBER 1977: The Student Senate in the last meeting of the semester agrees to deficit spend up to $76,000 for a Black American Music Festival which would hopefully include Wonder and others. Kinard said Wonder had made "a verbal commitment that he is interested in doing the concert."

INTERSESSION: Student government officials are told that Wonder will not be coming to UMass. Director of Security Saul Chafin could not guarantee that he could secure the stadium for a Stevie Wonder concert. Some SGA officials feel there was never a chance to get Wonder.

FEBRUARY 1978: Plans continue for a black festival without Wonder. The headliner would now be Aretha Franklin. At their first semester meeting the Senate hears from the festival committee that Franklin has "expressed interest" in doing the UMass concert. Proceeds would still go to the Ellington Foundation.

FEBRUARY 22: The Senate approves the Festival with a $3 ticket price and a 50-50 split of the profits. Half would go to the Foundation; the other half would go to the Senate. Talent for the event is left unspecified. The total cost of the concert would be $34,080.

FEBRUARY 23: Student government presidents veto the compromise forcing further consideration and a delay in negotiations for talent.

Zeta Psi
invites you to an OPEN RUSH PARTY
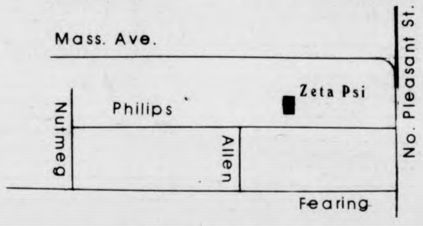
Saturday, Feb. 25 at 8:00
23 Philips St.



free refreshments

ROYALE CASINO

CASINO ROYALE

A CLASSIC JAMES BOND 007 SPOOF
STARRING
PETER SELLERS, WOODY ALLEN
ORSON WELLES, DAVID NIVEN,
URSULA ANDRESS

"A Very Funny Picture" New Yorker Mag.

Saturday Feb. 25th CCA
6:30. 9:00. 11:30
$1.00

---

Cleaning up oil spill continues on shorelines

BOSTON (AP)—Crews continued cleaning Cape Cod beaches and coves along the state's North Shore where thousands of gallons of heavy oil have washed ashore since the blizzard two weeks ago.

Up to 8,000 gallons of oil, turned into tarlike balls the size of grapefruits by the cold air and water, washed up on beaches at Truro, Wellfleet, Eastham and Orleans on Cape Cod.

Coast Guard spokesman John Bablitch said from Salem Thursday 13,000 gallons of oil plus 123 truck-loads of oily debris were removed from coves and inlets along the northern part of Marblehead.

The oil there came from the tanker Global Hope, which ran aground in Salem Sound about 1,000 yards off Marblehead on Feb. 6 during the worst blizzard to hit the state this century.

There was speculation the oil washing ashore on Massachusetts Bay beaches of Cape Cod also came from the Global Hope, but Bablitch said samples of the oil were being examined at the University of Rhode Island, and there was no confirmation on the source of the spill.

The Global Hope contained approximately 260,000 gallons of oil when it went aground and lost 10,000 gallons through its damaged stern, Bablitch said.

Approximately 30,000 gallons was lost Feb. 8 when the tanker shifted while oil was being transferred from its engine room to a cargo area, he said.

A private firm was awarded a $1.6 million contract to remove the oil and cleanup, and estimated it would take 100 working days, Bablitch said.

In Wellfleet, Harry DeLashmutt, chief ranger at the Cape Cod National Seashore, said no oil washed ashore overnight Wednesday.

"I think we're going to be okay now," he said.

About 2,000 gallons of oil washed ashore last week and the rest overnight Tuesday, he said, and there had been fears more would come in at high tide Wednesday night.

Another private firm was hired to clean beaches on the Cape, and DeLashmutt said approximately 30 men were working on the job.

"It looks like it will be, for sure, two to three weeks" to finish, he said.

He said the oil had been no real problem for wildlife. A few dead birds were washed ashore, but it was hard to determine whether they died before they were stained with oil.

"It's the type of oil that doesn't really hurt birds too much," he said, explaining it is like tar balls, rather than a massive oil slick that pollutes feathers.

About 60 harbor seals wintering off the Cape apparently are unaffected. "We were concerned for their safety, but we haven't noticed any problems," he said.

DeLashmutt said it was early to assess potential damage to shell fish, but the oil "could certainly affect oysters in Wellfleet Harbor" if the oil shifts into there.

Bill banning foes declare 'war on litter'

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Foes of a bill banning throwaway beverage bottles and flip-top cans Thursday declared "absolute war on litter," saying it poses a threat to the public and wastes energy.

Sen. George Hannon, D-East Hartford, held a news conference with a spokesman for the bottling industry outlining their alternative legislation, which they said goes the so-called bottle bill one better.

"The bottle bill doesn't go far enough and it would increase the price of beer and soda," Hannon said. "We declare absolute war on litter."

"We have to educate the public about the threat of litter as a waste of energy and money," Hannon said.

Later in the day, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said she supports the bottle bill, but would not say whether she would veto Hannon's litter bill if it passes.

Hannon's bill proposes a fine of $10 for the first arrest for littering and up to $100 for each subsequent violation. It also sets up system of sentencing repeat litterers to picking up garbage from roadsides.

In the 1960s, Connecticut launched a similar campaign against litter with $200 fines, massive threatening billboards and distribution of hundreds of litter barrels.

But the fine was later reduced to $10, and legislators said police and judges were reluctant to charge someone $200 because he threw a piece of paper out his car window.

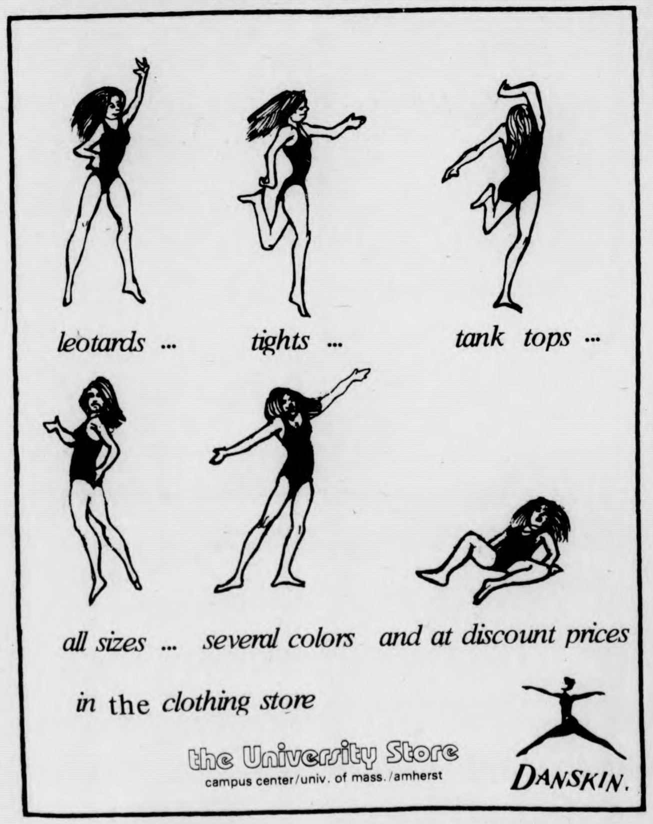
Hannon said his bill encourkages recycling; assesses all businesse that produce products that are potential litter sources a fee to be used in cleanup operations; enforces the litter laws and provides jobs for youth in cleanup campaigns.

"The assessment on business is so small that it could not possibly be passed on to the consumer," Hannon said. "But it will raise a total of $3 million to help clean up litter."

Backers of the much-debated bottle bill, which has been a legislative issue for five years, claim it would fight litter and encourage recycling. Last year the measure passed both the House of Representatives and Senate, but was killed by a parliamentary technicality.

The Legislature's Environment Committee will hold a public hearing Monday on both the bottle bill and the "antilitter bill" being pushed by Hannon and the bottling industry as an alternate measure.

Rep. John Anderson, DRedding, cochairman of the Environment Committee, said both the anti-litter and bottle bills will be approved by his panel.



Roll-Up
Bamboo Shades

Useful as window shades, doorway curtains, or room dividers. Each shade contains 550 individual bamboo sticks, completely assembled with hooks for hanging.

2' x 6' - $4.95
2½' x 6' - $5.95
3' x 6' - $7.50
3½' x 6' - $8.50
5' x 6' - $12.95
6' x 6' - $14.95
4' x 6' - $9.95
8' x 6' - $21.95

10% Discount On Purchase Of 3 Or More Shades

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Mon - Sat 9:30 to 6:00

Indian remains stay in boxes, can't be buried

BOSTON (AP) — The ancient remains of five American Indians excavated in the past few years are being stored in wooden and cardboard boxes in an office about 40 miles from here because there is no place and no money to bury them. Some of the remains date back 400 years.

"I'd be happy to turn them over to Indians to bury them, but I can't do that under the law," says State Archaeologist Dr. Maurice Robbins, who has kept the remains in his office in the Bronson Museum in Attleboro for the past few years.

Under Massachusetts law, remains discovered on public property must be turned over to the state archaeologist and then buried by a mortician.

But Robbins, who is unsalaried, notes, "I have neither the funds nor a place to bury them."

The status of the partial skeletons, found in Mashpee, Hyannis, Middleboro and Shrewsbury, underlines American Indians' concern about the treatment of the remains of their ancestors.

Indian burial sites, most of which are unmarked, are not protected by state law when they are on private property. Many remains unearthed by amateur archaeologists or treasure hunters are displayed as collectors' items, according to Robbins, and Jake Thompson, executive director of the state Commission on Indian Affairs.

"It's a flagrant violation of the human rights of a deceased person of Indian descent." said Thompson, a descendant of the Oneida tribe. "I think if it's a known burial ground, out of due respect for the dead it should remain as such...We should let the dead be."

Thompson asked the state legislature this week for a twoyear moratorium on the excavation of Indian burial sites so that a formal procedure can be developed for the remains.

However, archaeologists say that burial sites are most often uncovered by accident, frequently by bulldozers preparing a site for construction. Remains would be destroyed in the course of construction if a moratorium took effect, they say.

"It's a tragedy that archaeologists and Indian groups have reached a sore point...The real threat is from modern construction which is destroying these remains without any emotional reaction," says Prof. Carol Barnes of Providence College, president of the Massachusetts Society of Archaeologists.

Archaeologists say the Indian remains that are uncovered in Massachusetts, some of which are 10,000 years old, are vital in gathering information about ancient and prehistoric cultures.

"It's one of the last ways for native Americans to regain their heritage," says Michael Roberts of the Institute for Conservation Archaeology in Cambridge.

Bill's Shoe Repair
Located in the Center of Amherst
We repair Clogs, Frye Boots, Hiking Boots,
Leather Jackets, Purses, and Carryalls

FBI director pledges 'badge will stay shiny'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William H. Webster took office as FBI director Thursday with a pledge that wrongdoing will not blemish the agency's record during his 10-year term.

Presented an FBI badge after taking his oath before President Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale, Webster said, "My pledge to you is that 10 years from now this badge will be just as bright and shiny as it is today.

"We will do the work that the American people expect of us in the way that the Constitution demands of us."

The FBI's public image, and the morale of its agents, have suffered in recent years from disclosures that agents conducted improper and allegedly illegal surveillance, bugging and break-in operations, and harassed political dissidents of all types during the reign of the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Chief Justice Warren Burger administered Webster's oath in an auditorium in the J. Edgar Hoover Building, the FBI's national headquaters.

Carter promised to work in parnership with the new FBI director.

"I am deeply aware of the importance of the leadership of the FBI," the president said. "I can't think of any position that has more influence on the attitude of our people toward their government ... than the leadership of the FBI.

"This agency has set a standard of integrity, competence and for preserving the safety of lives and property and protecting the basic rights of the American people."

Carter also praised retired FBI Director Clarence Kelley, who was present at the ceremony, saying Kelley "has done a superb job ... through strong leadership, good management and personal integrity.

Webster was chosen after a year-long search by Carter and Attorney General Griffin Bell for a man with legal knowledge and administrative skill.

Webster, 53, served on the 8th U .S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. He was confirmed by the Senate Feb. 9 but delayed taking office to complete several cases pending before him.

He became the third full time director to head "the modern FBI" —Hoover, who ran the bureau from 1924 until his death on May 2, 1972, and Kelley. Three acting directors have filled interrim vacancies since Hoover's death.

A graduate of Amherst College in Amherst, Mass., and Washington University Law School, Webster is a former president of the St. Louis County Young Republicans and the Missouri Association of Republicans.

Wayne Hays will seek Democratic nomination

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wayne L. Hays, whose career as one of the nation's most powerful congressmen was cut short by the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal, re-entered politics Thursday as a candidate for the Ohio Legislature.

Hays, 67, said he will seek the Democratic nomination in June for the 99th district seat now held by Rep. A.G. Lancione, a Democrat who is retiring at age 72.

"I have had a lot of people ask me to run. I don't mean 20 or 30, I mean in the hundreds," Hays said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from a St. Clairsville bank where he serves on the board.

Hays said backers have told him that any references to the 1976 affair with Miss Ray, a Capitol Hill secretary, would only strengthen their support.

"I think people are inclined to say that has no bearing on this," Hays said. "If they (constituents) hold it as a major bar to my being a representative, I wouldn't run."

In an interview with a Wheeling, W.Va., radio station, Hays added, "I'm sick and tired of that Elizabeth Ray scandal. Since when has it been a scandal for a single man to have an affair with a single girl? It has been blown out of proportion."

Miss Ray said at the time that she could not even type and was on a congressional committee payroll only because she provided Hays sexual favors. Hays denied that she was hired solely for sexual reasons.

Hays, who was divorced at the time of the affair, married his second wife, Pat, a few months before he resigned on September 1, 1976.

At least five other Democrats are running in the primary for a chance at representing the 99th district, which incorporates three rural southeastern Ohio counties dotted with farms and coal fields.

Hays' rivals include 24-yearold Edmund Sargus Jr., whose family is well-known politically in the area, and Belmont County Treasurer Joseph Pappano, who ran unsuccessfully against Hays in a 1970 congressional election.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays

Hays was chairman of the House Administration Committee when he acknowledged having an affair with Miss Ray, a $14,000-a-year committee employee.

He was finishing his 14th term in Congress when he resigned, stopping a House Ethics Committee investigation into his conduct.

Lancione, retiring after a 32- year career, said he did not think Hays would be "an asset to the state of Ohio," but he said he would not change his mind about resigning.

Judge withholds decision

PROVIDENCE R.I. (UPI) — A federal judge is withholding his decision for at least three weeks in a suit filed by a follower of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church who claims she was the victim of illegal "deprogramming."

Leslie Weiss, 25, of Waltham, Mass., is suing Theodore Patrick, a nationally-known "deprogrammer" from San Diego, Calif., and Albert Turner of Warwick, R.I., for $400,000.

She claims the two men violated her constitutionallyprotected religious freedoms when they locked her in a room on Thanksgiving Day, 1974, in an unsuccessful effort to get her to renounce Moon's church.

Six days of testimony ended Wednesday. U.S. District Court Judge Francis J. Boyle gave both sides two weeks to file written arguments and a third week to develop rebuttals.

Miss Weiss claims she was tricked into going to Turner's home for deprogramming. In her suit, she said she has suffered mental anguish since the incident and now fears traveling alone.

John A. Burgess, a lawyer for the two men, said they were hired by her mother who has a "compelling interest" to protect her daughter even if she is a legal adult. Burgess said the pair did nothing illegal.

John G. Hines, Miss Weiss' lawyer, argued that a ruling in favor of Patrick and Turner would open a "Pandora's box" of vigilante groups infringing on religious and other freedoms.

As an example, Hines said a wife might hire a deprogrammer to get her husband out of a gun club for fear he will be hit by a stray bullet.

Bell's Pizza
taste the distinctive difference of Bell's"
549-1311 253-9051
65 University Drive

FIVE COLLEGE SUMMER FLIGHT
Boston-London round trip only $328. June 12-August 15, Pan American 707. ABC charter (Five Coll., Inc. as agent for Regal Assoc., charterer); non-Five College persons are eligible. Early sign-up urged. Contact: International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore, tel. 545-2710, for application.

FREE SODA WITH SUB
Greenough
· Snack Bar
coupon
2/24 – 3/2
BUY 1 SUB → GET 1 SODA

TIME OUT
Monday Nite Special
½ gallon of beer
Miller
Bud $2.50
Free Popcorn
"Amherst's Biggest Little Bar"

The rusty nail Inn
presents
FRI. AND SAT., FEB. 24 and 25
FAT AND MECHANIX
SUNDAY Feb. 26
GEORGE T. GREGORY
MONDAY FEB. 27
MIDNIGHT SHIFT
TUES. and WED., FEB. 28 and MARCH 1
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

Sbicca
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

SUNLIGHT AND SHADE
Featuring: Semenya McCord, vocals,
Kevin Jones, percussion
ENO
TONIGHT
Friday Feb. 24th at 8:30 pm in Hampden Student center, Southwest.
FREE ADMISSION
Sponsored by the Malcolm X. Center

The girl is 12. The guy is a taxi driver.
What happens to both of them will shock you.
COLUMBIA PICTURES presents
ROBERT DE NIRO
TAXI DRIVER
Mahar Aud.; Fri. 24th; 6:30, 8:30, 10:30;
tickets available at TIX & at the door; $1
Production Services by Devon/Persky Bright
ORIGINAL SOUND TRACK RECORDING AVAILABLE ON ARISTA RECORDS AND TAPES
R

Vision Showcase
(formerly House of Vision)
Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324
Kent Whalon
— Licensed
Optician
We are Specialists in:
- FASHION EYEWEAR
- CONTACT LENSES
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

We also carry fashion styles by
Diane Von Furstenberg
& Oscar De La Renta
Geoffrey Beene
Optyl

Clip n Save
GOLDEN TEMPLE EMPORIUM
Shocks The Shoe World!!!!!
15% off on all
Chippewa & Timberland
Boots
with this coupon only
Good thru Sat., March 4
Golden Temple Emporium
35 N. Pleasant St., Amherst 256-8470
Coupon Coupon Coupon Coupon

PIZZA - RAMA
355 College St., Amherst
We specialize in
Pizza — Grinders
Spaghetti
FREE DELIVERY call 253-3808
OPEN 7 DAYS: MON-THURS, 11am-1am; FRI-SAT, 11am-2am; SUN, 11am-1am

Senate Minority Whip Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., House Majority Leader Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., and Baker's press secretary Ron McMahan leave the White House yesterday after meeting with the president to discuss the coal strike. (UPI)

Carter urges bargaining

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter kept alive hopes for a negotiated settlement to the coal strike yesterday as the 80-day-old dispute brought the first major layoffs in the auto industry.

The president said he has decided against immediate government intervention in hopes of getting the striking United Mine Workers and coal industry officials back to the bargaining table.

"We're still trying to get the parties to negotiate with each other," he told a reporter at swearing-in ceremonies for the new FBI director.

The president met earlier with bipartisan congressional leaders and was to confer later with the governors of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Kentucky — states hard hit by the bitter walkout.

Administration officials said the president told the lawmakers there was still a last chance for a negotiated agreement and that he could not wait past the weekend to act. The officials said Carter stressed there was a need to keep options open for a few days and that congressional support was needed to let industry and union know that backing exists for seizing the mines or invoking the back-to-work orders of the Taft-Hartley Act.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll found that nearly two-thirds of the American people think Carter should try to reopen the mines through Taft-Hartley.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, Jr., who was among those meeting with Carter, said it could be late April or May before Congress could act on special legislation. By then, he said, there could be 90 per cent power cutbacks in some areas and millions of people out of work.

Although Carter still hoped for a resumption of negotiations, the two sides appeared deadlocked. The industry had said Wednesday it could not accept the union's proposal calling for a settlement nearly idential to one reached earlier with a major independent producer, Pittsburg & Midway Coal Mining Co. The union declared it could accept nothing less.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who had been trying for 10 days to negotiate a settlement, announced that the industry "declined to respond" to both the union's offer and his invitation to join in face-to-face negotiations with the UMW. Coal operators said further talks "hardly seemed fruitful" in view of the union's bargaining position.

With both sides seeming inflexible in their negotiating positions, the administration appeared to be pushing for a break up of national coal bargaining, possibly coupled with direct intervention.

Should the government declare a bargaining impasse, each of the 130 member companies of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association would be free to negotiate individual contracts with the UMW. Some industry sources have hinted that some companies would be willing to make such a move.

Power cutbacks resulting from the coal strike were blamed for one-day layoffs of 8,300 hourly workers at General Motors' Delco Electronics plant in Kokomo, Ind., and at GM's Delco-Remy plant at Muncie, Ind. Donald Atwood, manager of the Kokomo plant, said another one-day layoff may be necessary March 3 if the coal shortage continues.

Elsewhere, more power cutbacks were expected in Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Maryland and Virginia.

Further financial hardships are in store for some 81,600 beneficiaries of the UMW's retirement fund and 7,100 persons receiving union survivors' benefits. The UMW Health and Retirement Funds announced it will not pay out benefits during March because of cash shortages triggered by the strike.

The major differences between the union and industry focus on disciplinary action against wildcat strikers, guarantee of pension and health benefits, royalties to the union for non-UMW coal that is processed through union-organized mines and industry-proposed deductibles for previously free health care.

Tougher Egyptian stance barrier to mediated peace

JERUSALEM (AP) — American efforts to mediate a Middle East peace settlement are running into snags because of a toughened Egyptian stand, Israeli officials said Thursday.

A pessimistic view of chances for an Egyptian-Israeli agreement leaked out of a closed briefing given Wednesday by Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt appears to be retreating from his acceptance of a U.S. formula to break the negotiating deadlock, the officials said, and they confirmed that Dayan saw an erosion in Egypt's position.

Dayan consistently has been more cautious in his public assessments than Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who exudes confidence of ultimate success.

Begin will leave for Washington on March 12 to seek a way out of the impasse. Officials said President Carter asked Dayan to return with Begin and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman will extend an arms buying mission to the United States to attend.

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton returned to the Middle East on Tuesday, but Israel believes his peace mission is worse off now than it was three weeks ago. At that time the Israelis believed they were close to an agreement with Egypt over a set of principles to guide future peace treaties.

Atherton went to Cairo on Wednesday after what he described as "very important" talks in Jerusalem. He said he would meet with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel to discuss "concrete ideas," but did not elaborate.

Atherton was working on a compromise formula based on Carter's Jan. 4 statement in Aswan, Egypt, in which he said a solution to the Palestinian issue should include recognition of the "legitimate rights" of the Palestinians and their right to "participate in determining their future."

According to the Israeli analysis, complex inter-Arab politics sandbagged the compromise. Sadat is withdrawing his support, officials said, because he believes Carter's policy is unacceptable to King Hussein of Jordan.

The Israelis do not believe Sadat will conclude a peace agreement without Hussein's backing. Hussein, while not joining the Arab rejection front against Sadat's "sacred mission," has set a high price for his participation.

Letters

Mobilize on criminal legislation

To the Editor:

Senate Bill 1437 [HR 6869] "to codify, revise and reform" federal criminal law, is a very dangerous piece of legislation. It has been called "the S one" [S1] which, we should not forget, was killed in Congress last year by public outrage, aroused through education. Informed public opinion was expressed and it got results!

The elimination from S1437 of a certain few of its sire's most notoriously repressive measures, plus the fact that it does do some constructive organizing of the confused tangle of thousands of old federal laws, allowed its supporters to push the bill through the Senate by a vote of 72-15 on January 30 as a great progressive reform measure. It now includes a reinstatement of the Logan Act of 1799 — never carried out — which prohibits private citizens from intercourse or correspondence with a foreign government. Does this mean that we cannot protest torture in Argentina, Korea, etc., by writing to government officials there? Some progress.

There is still hope of defeating S1437 — HR6869 in the House, if public opinion is again mobilized to act. If you are aware, if you care, please write at once to Rep. Edward Boland, Silvio Conte or whomever your congressman is: House Office Building, Washington, DC 20515. Point out that this bill threatens fundamental constitutional rights. Urge them to examine carefully for themselves the vague language in section after section of the bill which can be interpreted to mean just about anything the official in charge wants it to mean.

A good look at specific sections reveals this in all its muddy clarity. Section 1003 creates a new and elastic federal crime of "criminal solicitation," saying that "a person is guilty of an offense if, with intent that another person engage in conduct constituting a crime, and, in fact, under circumstances strongly indicative of that intent, he commands, entreats, induces or otherwise endeavors to persuade such person to engage in such conduct."

Section 1002 dealing similarly with "criminal conspiracy," Section 1323 with "tampering with a witness or informant," Section 1331 on "criminal contempt" are merely examples of the many authoritarian-type controls which this bill clamps onto labor unions and all citizens who wish to peacefully protest. Reaffirming "use" immunity, which amounts to forcing a witness to surrender his Fifth Amendment rights, is another of the unacceptable provisions of the bill.

Assuming the goodwill and intelligence of our legislators in this matter is a sensible policy to start out with because it might induce them to examine and find much in the bill which they really couldn't endorse. Charity can be practical.

Let us follow our own good example: educate ourselves and let our voices be heard as they were so effectively against S1.

Margaret G. Holt

Hite criticized for housing lies

To the Editor:

Shame on Jon Hite. His broad but unsubstantiated attack on the Community Development Center, area staff, and Heads of Residence in Tuesday's Collegian is inconsistent with the facts and unworthy of a student spokesperson.

I can speak with direct knowledge only of Southwest [and Berkshire House staff]. Within this context, his remarks are a strange mixture of misinformation, gross distortion, and unwarranted slander against hardworking staff.

To blame residence hall staff and their supervisors for the housing crunch during last September's opening is comparable to blaming the Coast Guard for not preventing damage to Massachusetts coastal areas during the Great February Storm. To suggest that Community Development Center personnel put staff convenience ahead of student needs during that protracted crisis is utterly false, as anyone remotely connected with the process surely knows. To say that HRs "were turning away students although there was sufficient space for them" is a damn lie which should be retracted with apology if not documented.

The heart of the crisis was a mismatch between unplaced male students and vacancies in all-female space. The only point at which area staff rightfully balked was a proposal to clear one or more floors of women already settled in Coolidge and replace them with male entry-students. If attempted, this scheme would have produced a massive sit-in. I trust that Jon agrees that student interests in this instance lay in respecting the existing character of all-female space. A number of dorms in Southwest took additional students into lounges, some of whom lived there throughout the Fall Term.

Jon should also put up specifics or retract his allegation that "there are a lot of heads of residence who are next to useless," as well as his contention that there is inadequate consultation between Heads of Residence and supervisors which contributes significantly to dorm damage. Such sweeping charges which casually malign most residential staff demonstrate that Jon either doesn't know what he's talking about or, worse, he does know and chooses to press a fraudulent critique for some political purpose. I thought he ran for election last year.

Jon further contends [without evidence] that "CDC is more interested in the central staff than they are in the counselors." CDC has urged additional assistance for Resident Assistants but the Trustees turned down tuition waivers, no extra state money has been provided, and the only remaining revenue source would be a raise in student rents and fees. RAs should be paid more but in the closed budget system the result will probably be a reduction in the number of RA positions.

The unsupported blanket accusations that "because of its many failures" CDC "is not working for the student" seems little more than personal animus on the basis of the Collegian article conveying Jon's views. Perhaps Mr. Hite could be more direct in stating what policies or goals he is working for by such journalistic hit-and-run tactics.

Jim Matlack, Master-Director
Southwest Residential College

Judaic studies petition commended

To the Editor:

The more than 1400 student petitioners in behalf of the preservation and advancement of Judaic Studies [Collegian, Feb. 21, p. 8] are to be commended for the dignified way in which they made known their keen interest in the Judaic Studies program and their frustration over the sort of support it has been given. With the support of these 1400 students, and the many more whom they represent, the procedure of approval of regular Program status for Judaic Studies, initiated three months ago, will surely be carried to a successful conclusion.

Prof. David S. Wyman
Chairman (on leave) Judaic Studies
Herter Hall
Prof. Leonard H. Ehrlich
Acting Chairman, Judaic Studies
Bartlett Hall

Our responsibility to say 'no nukes'

To the Editor:

As students, we have a great responsibility in the fight against nuclear power. Our research skills give us access to information on the intricacies of the nuclear power question, knowledge which is not readily available to the general public. There are many complex studies which show nuclear power is a major danger to us all, and that renewable energy resources can provide the energy we need as well as many more jobs. This information must be translated into lay terms and made available to the public.

A construction worker once put it to me this way: workers have neither the time nor the energy to do research and mass education on the nuclear power issue after laboring for eight or ten hours a day. He said it is the job of the students to collect and disseminate the facts.

With the nuclear industry and the government waging a full-scale media war for nuclear power, our job is doubly hard. But if we students work together, we can expose the lies, giving people the facts so they can make their own choices rather than having to accept those made by the nuclear industry and the government.

One statement which can be disproved is that solar energy is not yet possible. The UMass Alternative Energy Coalition [AEC] is organizing workshops to build simple solar devices like solar cookers, solar water heaters, and solar flat plate collectors. With models of solar machines, we can prove that the sun's energy is available to us now.

The UMass AEC called a meeting of students willing to work for an alternative energy future and against nuclear power. It was held Thursday, Feb. 23. Plans for an energy teach-in, a film series, musical events, a speakers series, research groups and workshops to build solar devices were developed at this meeting. Future meetings will be announced in the notice section. If we work together, we can stop nuclear power.

Sharon Tracy

Support miners' rights in U.S.

To the Editor:

The United Mine Workers of America are currently involved in a contract dispute with mine owners. The proposed contract will slash medical benefits, eliminate cost-of-living protection, strip union safety committees of their power, and allow the companies to institute speedup "incentive pay" plans and seven day workweeks.

President Carter, who espouses human rights internationally, threatens the workers with a Taft-Hartley injunction and-or a federal seizure of the coal mines. Last year 125 miners were killed on the job, while another 4,000 died of Black Lung disease. What about human rights for the miners here in the U.S.?!

We urge everyone who supports the right of the coal miners to a safe job and a decent livelihood to help us, the Miners' Strike Support Committee, fight along side the U.M.W.A. against the mine owners and the federal government.

The next Miners' Strike Support Committee meeting will be Monday, February 27th, at 8:00 p.m. in Campus Center 902.

Warren Simons
Miners' Strike Support Committee

More letters on page 12

Letters Policy

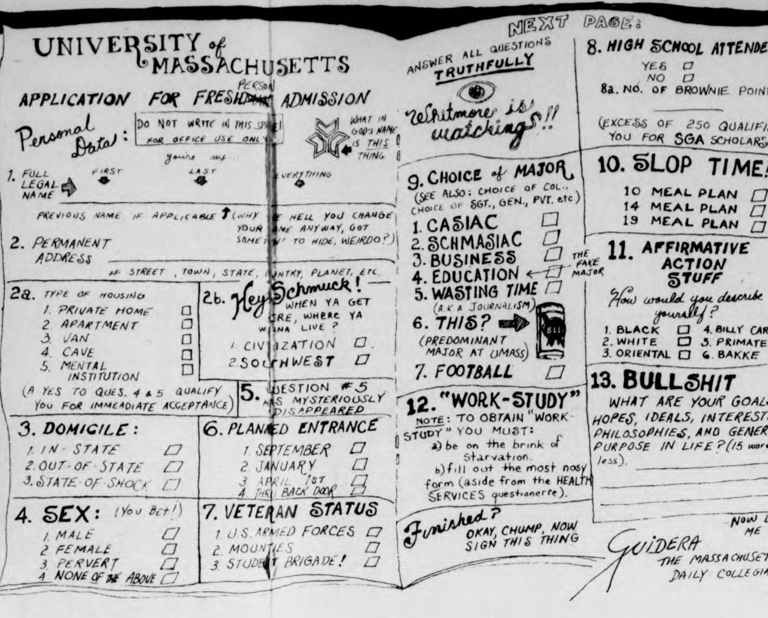
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Executive Editor, co-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. on the day preceding that date.

---



UNIVERSITY of MASSACHUSETTS
APPLICATION FOR FRESH~~MAN~~ PERSON ADMISSION
Personal Data:
DO NOT WRITE IN THIS SPACE! FOR OFFICE USE ONLY you're nuts...
WHAT IN GOD'S NAME IS THIS THING
1. FULL LEGAL NAME
FIRST
LAST
EVERYTHING
PREVIOUS NAME IF APPLICABLE (WHY THE HELL YOU CHANGE YOUR NAME ANYWAY, GOT SOMETHIN' TO HIDE, WEIRDO?)
2. PERMANENT ADDRESS
STREET, TOWN, STATE, COUNTRY, PLANET, ETC.
2a. TYPE OF HOUSING
1. PRIVATE HOME ☐
2. APARTMENT ☐
3. VAN ☐
4. CAVE ☐
5. MENTAL INSTITUTION ☐
(A YES TO QUES. 4 & 5 QUALIFY YOU FOR IMMEADIATE ACCEPTANCE)
2b. Hey Schmuck! WHEN YA GET HERE, WHERE YA WANNA LIVE?
1. CIVILIZATION ☐
2. SOUTHWEST ☐
5. QUESTION #5 HAS MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED
3. DOMICILE:
1. IN-STATE ☐
2. OUT-OF-STATE ☐
3. STATE-OF-SHOCK ☐
6. PLANNED ENTRANCE
1. SEPTEMBER ☐
2. JANUARY ☐
3. APRIL 1ST ☐
4. THRU BACK DOOR ☐
4. SEX: (You Bet!)
1. MALE ☐
2. FEMALE ☐
3. PERVERT ☐
4. NONE OF THE ABOVE ☐
7. VETERAN STATUS
1. U.S. ARMED FORCES ☐
2. MOUNTIES ☐
3. STUDENT BRIGADE! ☐
NEXT PAGE:
ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS TRUTHFULLY
Whitmore is watching!!
9. CHOICE of MAJOR (SEE ALSO: CHOICE OF COL., CHOICE OF SGT., GEN., PVT. etc)
1. CASIAC ☐
2. SCHMASIAC ☐
3. BUSINESS ☐
4. EDUCATION ☐
THE FAKE MAJOR
5. WASTING TIME ☐ (A.K.A. JOURNALISM)
6. THIS? (PREDOMINANT MAJOR AT UMASS)
BEER
7. FOOTBALL ☐
12. "WORK-STUDY"
NOTE: TO OBTAIN "WORK-STUDY" YOU MUST:
a) be on the brink of starvation.
b) fill out the most nosy form (aside from the HEALTH SERVICES questionerre).
Finished? OKAY, CHUMP, NOW SIGN THIS THING
8. HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDED
YES ☐
NO ☐
8a. NO. OF BROWNIE POINTS:
(EXCESS OF 250 QUALIFIES YOU FOR SGA SCHOLARSHIP)
10. SLOP TIME!!
10 MEAL PLAN ☐
14 MEAL PLAN ☐
19 MEAL PLAN ☐
11. AFFIRMATIVE ACTION STUFF
How would you describe yourself?
1. BLACK ☐
2. WHITE ☐
3. ORIENTAL ☐
4. BILLY CARTER ☐
5. PRIMATE ☐
6. BAKKE ☐
13. BULLSHIT
WHAT ARE YOUR GOALS, HOPES, IDEALS, INTERESTS, PHILOSOPHIES, AND GENERAL PURPOSE IN LIFE? (15 words or less).
NOW LEAVE ME ALONE
GUIDERA
THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

---

China provides political inspiration

Charlie Bagli

It's funny, when we're young we learn certain things about "socialist" countries. I remember I didn't know anything in particular but I had very distinct images. Russia was cold and gray; China, deep red.

I couldn't tell you exactly why I thought in terms of those colors then, (apologies to Freud) but I see them as having some significance today. When I first entered college in 1971, it was towards the end of some powerful movements for social change, i.e. the anti-Vietnam war, Black and Women's liberation. Those movements didn't exist in a vacuum, though. The whole world seemed to be on fire. Many people wanted big changes fast.

Many of us looked around for a country, a society that represented a better way to live; a society that was actually working on the elimination of exploitation and oppression, not on increasing them. Red China stood out. China was in the midst of a Cultural Revolution in which the Chinese people were demanding that officials, leaders, Party members and bureaucrats who conducted affairs in the old way had to step aside and make way for new relations. Revolutionary Committees were set up in the factories, students and barefoot doctors went to the countryside, and entrance to higher education was put on a basis of ability and desire to serve the people not on how many officials you knew. The people were in command.

China was a tremendous inspiration, and it didn't affect only me. The Black Panthers sold Mao's Red Book on street corners; courses in school about China were overflowing; the book Fanshen was one of the most widely read; posters from China went up right alongside the Rolling Stones; and even Grace Slick (of Jefferson Airplane, remember them?) named her child "China". It also reawakened interest in Marxism-Leninism as a science that could explain the laws of society, and we saw the proliferation of Marxist organizations. Reverberations from a country thousands of miles away could be felt around the world.

China also had a profound effect on liberation movements in the Third World. Here was an independent, self reliant country, that many third world countries which had just broken the chains of colonialism, wanted to be like. Just as importantly, it put to rest the capitalist's lie that the best you could get was capitalism.

Oppressed and exploited people took courage from the roar of China. The victory of socialism in China was a shot in the arm to revolutionary movements in many countries. I've seen pictures from all over of Palestinians or Ethiopian peasants or Filipinos sitting down and discussing Mao's Red Book. China proved that new leaders did not have to become new oppressors as the Soviet Union had seemed to bear out.

I see China as red and the Soviet Union as gray. The tremendous role and inspiration that the Peoples Republic of China provides is something that all progressive and revolutionary minded people should defend.

The recent turmoil over the past year in China is something to examine very sharply and critically, even as the New York Times wrings its hands in glee, saying "see, even China is going bad." It's critical for all revolutionary minded people to have a correct analysis of what is going on, otherwise you end up calling revolution counter-revolution. This would eventually mean serious problems in making revolution in this country. For this reason it is totally irresponsible for groups like the RCP and the RCYB to call the Chinese people backward and China a capitalist country, based on no substance. That is counter-revolutionary.

I'm doing research for the Revolutionary Student Brigade on the present situation in China, the Gang of 4, and the present leadership. In my future columns I will go into these questions.

Charlie Bagli is a Collegian Columnist.

---

'Courtesy' doesn't extend to patients

By RICHARD J. NEWTON

Students here at the U of M will, in most cases, utilize the Infirmary during their stay here. Over a period of 4 years or more, a sizable medical record can result. This record can sometimes influence ministrations of future health care.

In trying to obtain my records I ran into a practice which, at the very least, is questionable.

In obtaining your records, you must sign a release of information form. This form clears the University of responsibility for that particular information. Now the rub.

The University will, if you are going to a doctor outside the school, send a copy of your records to the doctor if you desire. The original record is the property of the Infirmary.

If you, owing to some private reason, want a copy of your record to carry yourself, you must pay a 30 cent per page "copy cost" for this privilege. No, it is sent to the doctors for free. Why this difference in treatment and why the charge? From the Business Assistant Directors and Records office of the Infirmary I received no one clear answer.

From the Records Dept. I was told it "is a law" (it is not). Furthermore, I was told much employee time would be wasted in copying this material that would "sit around uselessly in your drawer." They also said if they did copy your medical record without fee "everybody in the University would want a copy to browse through."

The Assistant Directors Office told me there was a charge for this privilege because there was no guarantee that you were going to another doctor (his words were, "the provider is free to give them out only in the cases of on-going and continuing medical care").

From the Business Office the explanation was students would "misinterpret" this information and that the "majority of the people are just not educated enough to handle it, so that's why we do it." (So much for higher education). This person also told me of his concern for the privacy of our files in our hands. He must forget that after we sign the Release of Information from the copies are our property as well as his. When asked why the information isn't available to the student in registration information I was told that "99 per cent of the students don't read that stuff anyway."

To top it all off, in all three confrontations I was told that this information is given free to the doctors as a "medical" or "professional" courtesy. (while we pay)

